BILLS FOR ISSUANCE OF $35,000,000 ROAD BONDS PRESENTED IN ASSEMBLY

Road Bond Measure Introduced in Both Branches; Another Bill Would Create Pardons Commissioner Post

Raleigh, Jan. 22—The real business of the 1925 Legislature began today with the introduction in both houses of bills providing for $35,000,000 bond issue for road construction and the introduction in the lower body of the first measure sponsored by Governor McLean providing for the creation of an office of Pardons Attorney to assist the governor in handling the pardons problems.

The road bill was introduced in the House by Representative Tam C. Bowie, of Ashe county, and in the Senate, by Senator Heath, of Union county. The bills provide for an additional issue of $35,000,000 worth of bonds for roads by direct action of the legislature without a referendum on the subject. The bills further provide for an increase in the gasoline tax to four cents on the gallon and the issuance by the Governor and council of State if the bill is passed, of short term notes to make the money immediately available until the bonds are sold.

Representative Womble, of Forsyth county, introduced the Pardons Attorney measure.

The House, when it adjourned, did so in honor of the late Judge Henry Groves Connor, of the Eastern District of Federal Court and will not meet again until eight o'clock tomorrow night. The Senate adjourned until 7:30 tomorrow night. The majority of both branches will be in Chapel Hill tomorrow for the dedication of Manning Hall at the University.

During the morning session the Senate passed on all three readings. Senator Sam's bill calling for the display of two automobile license tags on all automobiles, one on the rear and another on the front.

Beside receiving the Bowie bill for $35,000,000 additional road bonds and an increase of one cent in the gasoline tax the Womble bill calling for the appointment of a Pardons Commissioner the House had other state-wide measures before it which broke the monotony of the previous sittings.

Miss Julia Alexander, of Mecklenburg county, made her first motion on a point of order today but lost the contest. She moved that a bill which provided for improvements in certain local conditions should not be passed on its second reading until it was read before the committee as there might be involved points of law of more than local interest. However, the motion was lost.

There will be no sessions of either body tomorrow morning.

For Kinston, Hart, Curtis and Simon showed to best advantage. Every member of the Greenville team played a good game especially on the defensive where Perkins, Mason and Skinner showed. On the offensive Burnette and Tripp showed up well with the former scoring nine points and the latter having eight points to his credit.

COSTA RICA GIVES UP MEMBERSHIP IN LEAGUE NATIONS

Central American Government Pays Back Dues and Files Notice of Her Withdrawal

Geneva, Jan. 22—Costa Rica filed its resignation to the League of Nations today transmitting with the message a check for back dues. No reason was given for her withdrawal. League official said but it was assumed the resignation was due to criticisms of that country for its failure to pay its assessments, voiced during the session of the budget committee at the last assembly.

Costa Rica fixed the date of her resignation as January 1 but as the covenant requires two years' notice of withdrawal the country would not cease to be a member until January 1, 1927. Officials of the league said they were hopeful that before that time they could persuade the country not to give up her membership.

In the letter containing the notice of the resignation was enclosed a check for $18,677 in payment of back dues from 1921 to 1924 inclusive. Costa Rica's annual assessment was $5,000 her dues like those of some other Central American countries having been reduced considerably some time ago.

During the budget hearing the failure of Costa Rica and some other countries to meet their financial obligations to the league were unfavorably commented upon.

This is the first case of a resignation from the league and it was said by officials to be entirely isolated there being no indications that it will be followed by other Latin American countries. On the contrary, it was said, there is a tendency on the part of those countries toward increasing their league affiliations. It was declared that Ecuador was practically a member now, Mexico was headed toward membership and Argentina has settled her back dues and seemed inclined to a resumption of her old time activities in the league.

GRAND JURY MAKES SPLENDID REPORT

Recommends that the County Treasurer, A. T. Moore, Be Given An Assistant

To His Honor, Judge M. V. Barnhill, presiding at the January Term of Pitt Superior Court:

We, the Grand Jury for this term of court beg to submit the following report:

We have passed on all bills and other matters presented to us, except those in which we were unable to secure witnesses.

We have visited the office of the sheriff, register of deeds, clerk of court, auditor, treasurer, board of health, board of education, welfare office and those of the county agent, and found them all in splendid condition. We visited the jail and found the conditions there exceptionally good. All prisoners were satisfied as to the food and the bedding was clean and in good shape.

Condition, at the county home and at the two convict camps could hardly have been improved upon, and we especially wish to commend Mr. R. E. Corbett for the splendid upkeep of the county home and its surroundings. All teams and other stock at the home and also at the camps are being well cared for.

We have one recommendation which we wish to present to the board of county commissioners, and that is relative to the office of county treasurer. Owing to the recent change of system inaugurated by our auditor, which will necessitate more work being placed upon our treasurer, and also because of the fact that his bond has been increased we feel that said officer should be provided with additional efficient help.

We know that for some time it has been necessary for Mr. Moore to remain in the office day and night in order to keep up with his duties.

We wish to thank the presiding Judge, the Solicitor and other court officials for the courtesies extended to us in our work as Grand Jurors for this term. We especially wish to commend His Honor, Judge Barnhill for the master charge to the grand jury at the beginning of this term. And we only regret that every good citizen of the county was not present that they like we may profit thereby. Also we wish to commend Judge Barnhill for the expedient manner in which he disposes of the business of the court, and the fair and impartial manner in which he deals out justice.

Respectfully submitted,
T. T. HOLLINGSWORTH,
Foreman.

"KING OF IVORIES" LEAVES PRISON

Radio fans reached down into the Missouri State Prison, in Jefferson City, and liberated Harry Snodgrass, serving a long time for banditry. Snodgrass, nicknamed "King of the Ivories" by radio fans because of his ability as a piano player, walked out of the prison into the arms of his wife and their eight-year-old son. In his pocket was a contract to appear for two years in vaudeville with J. M. Witten, announcer at Station WOS, who was responsible for introducing Snodgrass to his invisible audience. He also had a check for $4,000, gift from the same unseen audience, after his last concert at WOS where he is shown, in convict garb, playing his last selection.

TESTIMONY LINKS PROHIBITION HEAD WITH LIQUOR CASE

Commissioner Haynes Declares He Will Not "Dignify Such a Story by a Denial"

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 22—Samuel Warner Ironmonger, former Deputy United States Marshal now Chief of Police of Norfolk, testified today in United States District court in the trial of Rex Daniel Sheldon and William Baker, declared that Baker told him soon after his arrest that Federal Prohibition Commissioner Haynes and Commerce Commissioner Blair were "fixed" to permit the smuggling into Washington of thousands of cases of whiskey for the Shrin convention in 1923.

Sheldon and Baker are on trial for violation of the prohibition laws in connection with alleged activities of the steamer Istar.

Washington, Jan. 22—Prohibition Director Haynes's only comment today on testimony in the Norfolk liquor case with reference to him was that he would not "dignify such a story by a denial."

PROBE INTO DEATH OF M'CLINTOCK TO BE RESUMED IN FEB

Chicago Judge Says Letters Written By Shepherd Will Figure Largely in Inquiry

Chicago, Jan. 22—Four letters which Harry Olson, chief justice of municipal court, said were written by William D. Shepherd, chief heir to William McClintock, the "Millionaire Orphan," to Miss Estelle Eleanor Gehling, a nurse, will figure in the inquiry into McClintock's death when it is resumed next month, Judge Olson stated today.

McClintock's will giving the bulk of his two million dollar estate to Shepherd was made last April shortly after he became of age. He died two months ago at the Shepherd home of typhoid fever according to pathologist who performed the autopsy.

Judge Olson charges that Shepherd was a contributor to the boy's death but previous hearings have developed no evidence against Shepherd and the District Attorney rendered a verdict some time ago, after doctors had examined the body, that the boy died of natural causes.

PRESIDENT WRIGHT DELIVERS A SPLENDID ADDRESS ROBERT E. LEE

The following address on Robert E. Lee was delivered by President R. H. Wright to the students of the Eastern Carolina Teachers College, on Monday January 19, the birthday of the great general:

I am to talk to you this morning about Robert E. Lee. I do not know whether I should try to carry you young people back that far, before you were born, or not, and yet if I could get a true picture of the heart of that truly great American it would be exceedingly helpful to us throughout our entire career. It is not often in this world that a person leads in a cause that is lost, and still maintaining the highest respect of the people who are on the other side. When we find a character of that kind we can always put that person down as a person of unusual ability and of unusual character. That is the type of man that Robert E. Lee was, even after the civil war, or the war between the states, was over.

Those who fought against Lee had the greatest respect for the man. They knew that he was honest and sincere in all that he said and did. As a general, the world has produced very few, if any, of superior ability. As a man the world has produced but few who were his equal. He was a truly great American citizen. He loved his people in such a way that his first obligation was to his state and people. His last public act was to those states joined with him and which he fought in that great war which raged for four years.

He was an officer in the United States Army, and he surrendered his sword working unit for the people in his community. General Lee was willing to spend and to be spent for the good of his native state—Virginia. He did not want to fight the United States, but he was convinced that his duty as a citizen called upon him to take up arms, and, being so convinced, he could not be true to himself if he had not taken the position he did take. I am not going into the merits and demerits of that great war. It is a good thing for this country that the war ended as it did end. It is a good thing for the whole world that the war ended as it did end. Your ancestors and mine took part in it, and in most cases they settled for once and for all whether or not the federal government should be supreme. It determined whether or not we should be one great nation, and we all realize now that it is a blessing that we have one great nation. You will find some people in this good country of ours who do not know that the war is over they are still bitter. That's unfortunate.

We would, as thousands of others are doing, this day honor the memory of a man who loved his country; who loved his people more than he loved riches; more than he loved to have his name proclaimed from the house-tops; more than he loved to have people speak of him as a great man. We would honor, today, a man who loved his people in such a way that he was willing to make almost any possible sacrifice, for the good of his people. His last public act was to contribute $50.00 out of his meager income to help build up his church, to try to help make this church a better working unit for the people in his community. General Lee was willing to spend and to be spent for the good of mankind. After the great war was over he refused offers that would have made him independently rich, and that would have brought to him, with little effort on his part, all comforts and advantages that wealth might bring, and accepted a position as president of a little college, on the meager salary of $1500 a year, and he gave the rest of his life trying to educate the boys of the south to make good citizens in this country of ours. He became the president of Washington College, and out of deference to this great character the name of this college was changed to Washington and Lee University.

Robert E. Lee was a christian gentleman, tender in his affections. He was a big hearted that loved humanity. He was possessed of a burning desire to spend his life in such a way that it would be helpful to the greatest possible number of people in this country. He was in deed and in truth one of America's noblemen, and it is well and fitting that we should pause on this anniversary of his death.

RALEIGH SUFFERS QUARTER MILLION FIRE EARLY TODAY

Transfer Company Building Together With 130 Automobiles, 11 Horses and Much Equipment Consumed by Flames

Raleigh, Jan. 22—130 automobiles, 11 horse, and considerable valuable automobile equipment were destroyed by fire here early today when the Raleigh Transfer Company's building was completely destroyed and the Raleigh Cornice and Roofing Company's plant next door was badly damaged.

The second floor of the transfer company's building was occupied by Motor Service Branch Number 2 where most of the automobiles were stored.

Early today Terrin Gower, manager of the Motor Service Company and W. F. Smith of the transfer company, estimated the total loss would run between $225,000 and $250,000 partially covered by insurances.

The fire was said to have originated shortly after 4.30 o'clock but the cause of the blaze is yet undetermined. The fire which was practically out this morning after the entire building and its contents had been consumed, was the most spectacular fire in Raleigh in years. The explosion of the tanks of many of the automobiles rendered the work of controlling the flames more difficult and the proximity of two gasoline filling stations constantly endangered the fire fighters.

The automobiles lost were mostly the property of individuals who had stored them for the night. An accurate list of the owners was unavailable this morning. There were about 175 automobiles in the building when the fire started but more than 40 were driven out before the fire reached them.

Among the heavy losses were many state officials and legislators here for the General Assembly. Secretary of State W. N. Everett lost two automobiles. Among others who lost cars were Senator Connor, of Wilson; Senator O. E. Mendenhall, of High Point; Representative Makepeace, of Lee county, and Senator Burgwyn, president pro tempore of the Senate. Representative R. O. Everett, of Durham, had his automobile stored in the place for the night his chauffeur was asleep in the machine. The negro awake after the flames had made considerable progress and was able to drive the car out of danger.

The Greenville High School girls team has been in action only one time this year when it lost in a spirited contest with the fast Washington team by the close score of 18 to 14. This should be a good game.

WORLD HISTORY IN THE MAKING

Nineteen-twenty-four will go down as an epoch-making year in the world history because during that year the Dawes plan for the settlement of the World War reparations was prepared and adopted.

Inasmuch as three unofficial American citizens have been given credit for seeing the Dawes plan through to a successful conclusion, it was a fitting tribute to the work of the Dawes committee that a testimonial dinner was given on December 11 at the Waldorf Astoria hotel by the business men of New York, to Owen D. Young, the New York member of the committee. Mr. Young's remarks at this dinner, giving credit to all those who helped in the remarkable work of drawing up the Dawes plan, except himself, are typical of the broad-minded American spirit which evolved a plan so fair to all nations that it was impossible for any country to reject it.

The successful adoption of the Dawes plan was due largely to the guiding hand of Mr. Young, who, by his unassuming manner and wise counsel, made possible a meeting of the minds among various factions which it was necessary to reconcile. The speech made by Mr. Young at this dinner will probably be the shortest and most concise statement regarding the Dawes plan that will be recorded in history.

As its successful operation means so much to world peace and to future prosperity of this nation, (no business being too small to profit by it) it is a pity that every man and woman cannot secure a copy to read that all may understand and appreciate history in the making.

man being. A man who has character will make himself felt, perhaps more forcibly when working with school people than any where else. Of course it takes courage, and great courage, a courage that knows no defeat and has no ear for compromise; the kind of courage that was had by that great general whose message to his headquarters stopped not there, but has winged its way around the world. He had three divisions of soldiers and just in front of him was the host of the German army. They were making those terrific drives to get to Paris, and his army, in the face of overwhelming numbers, was falling back, slowly and stubbornly, but nevertheless falling back. The right wing of the army had retreated, and the center had turned until his army was almost at right angles to the position it was supposed to occupy when he sent this message, "My right recedes, my center gives way, the situation is excellent, I shall attack," and he gave orders to his army to advance and in four short hours the situation had entirely reversed itself. The enemies were falling back, their lines were broken and Paris was saved and the cause of humanity was saved, and civilization was saved, because a man had courage enough in the face of apparent defeat to move on. That's the kind of character it takes to win in the world's battle; that's the kind of people it takes to meet the difficulties of life, and General Robert E. Lee had that spirit in a marked degree. After Appomattox, with as great a courage as he had ever shown in battle, he set for himself a stupendous task, a task that seemed almost impossible of accomplishment, the task of educating and training a generation of men who should rehabilitate their devastated country. To this task he gave the remaining days of his life. He was always willing to undertake apparently impossible things, and in peace as in war, he earned for himself a most enviable position in the hearts and minds of the people of this world. We honor his memory.

He was a great soldier, a great teacher, a great man.

PRESIDENT WRIGHT DELIVERS ADDRESS ON ROBERT E. LEE

versary to think for a minute of this great character and what this character means to you and to me of today. It is the man or woman who lives with a heart to be of service; who has an inward yearning and desire to reach out and help the young; who wants to so live that his or her life may be a blessing to all with whom he or she comes in contact, that counts biggest in the making of a people. It is that kind of character that saves a civilization of any day or any generation. And that is the kind of character we find in Robert E. Lee. As a general the world has produced very few, if any, quite equal to him. Most all the wars that have followed the civil war have been wars in which the leading generals have studied carefully the methods and plans of Lee and Jackson. The methods and plans have been modified to meet new conditions, but they have been laid down as the basis of practically all military operations from that day until this. The world has produced few generals who can conduct a war, and a losing war at that, in such a way that generations following will take their method, as the fundamental methods of conducting larger and more expensive wars. Yet that is what has happened with reference to this school man. I might say "these school men," for both Lee and Jackson were school men. You may have heard some people make light of school teachers. I have. That's because of their ignorance; that's because you and I haven't lifted the scales of ignorance off of their eyes. This last great world war, the most stupendous of any of its kind the world has ever known, was carried on on a scale so enormous that it is almost impossible now to conceive of its magnitude. The greatest character during that world war, unquestionably, was the president of the United States. A school man; a man who had given his life to the training of the young of America. And when the allied forces united all of their energies and selected one to be the commander in chief of all the united forces they selected a school man. There is something in this thing that we call school teaching that brings out the very best there is in a hu-

Soaks Right In and Quickly Limbers Up Stiff Creaky Joints

Pharmacists Call it "Joint-Ease" because it's for Swollen, Sore Painful, Creaky Joints Only
It took a good many years to get together a combination of pain subduing and swelling reducing agents declared to be the one remedy that almost instantly penetrates through skin and flesh and starts right in to make swollen, inflamed creaky, pain racked joints as good as new.
They call this new and wonderful preparation "Joint-Ease" because the medical man who turned the trick, worked for years to perfect some low priced remedy that would really benefit the millions of people who have one or more joints that need helpful attention.
So "Joint-Ease" is prepared only for people who have a swollen, painful, creaky, distorted or stiff joint, whether it be in knee, elbow, shoulder, ankle, neck or finger and whether it is caused by rheumatism or something else.
Of course, it can't help but quicken an end to such superficial ailments as lumbago, neuralgia, neuritis, aching muscles, stitch in the side, crick in the neck or sore feet because of its penetrating action, but what it is really recommended for is joint ailments of any nature whatever.
Ask for a tube of "Joint-Ease." You can use it several times in one evening for quick results, because it goes right through the skin with only a few seconds rubbing. It surely is a swift penetrator and when it gets under the skin, it starts right in to clean up all joint trouble.
All druggists dispense it daily for about 60 cents a tube.
Always remember, when Joint-Ease gets in joint misery gets out—quick.

John Jones makes a killing. He cleans up big.

Every once in a long while some risky stock swindle just happens to "strike oil." A few people make a lot of money and then a whole flock of promoters come along and say, "See, we told you so. It's no trick at all to make big money. Why be satisfied with ordinary investments?"

Once in a dog's age some "lucky guy" puts ten dollars on a "hundred to one shot," his horse wins and he wins a thousand "bucks." But you wouldn't stand up and say that race track gambling was a safe investment. Don't be misled by the occasional winner. Don't let anyone "pull the wool over your eyes" and lead you to the slaughter.

An investment in our association won't earn you "a million" but it is safe — proved safe, not by a few rare examples, but by the steady unflinching record of years.

HER CHILDREN RISE UP AND CALL HER BLESSED

(Reported).

Tuesday Mrs. Jane Forbes was seventy-five years young. "Mother's birthday" is always a great day in that family and on this occasion "the children" planned a surprise party, to include a few friends as well as the family. The "party" was set for evening, and as the day wore on, the children began to be afraid that mother would think they had forgotten her birthday, and so they "let her in" on the secret.

During the day telegrams came from the grand-children who are away at college, each one expressing the wonderful love they had for grand-mother. One wished there were more days in which to celebrate her birthday. There are unfortunately, few families like the Forbes family, where six married children, and fifteen grand children, all live in the same town, and within a short distance of the home roof-tree. Added to this circumstance is the deep love and devotion connecting each branch of the family with every other, and to all who know them, the Forbes family stands as the ideal family; and to know her is about to love Mother Forbes.

About 8 o'clock friends began to arrive, bringing blessing, and gifts to "Miss Jane" as many endearingly call her.

The hour was abloom with potted plants and cut flowers, and the little yellow canary, piping up from his cage, seemed to be doing his best to represent his former mistress, the one missing child of the family, whose spirit hovered near.

About twenty-five ladies were present. Each one had been asked to bring her thimble, and the first stunt of the evening was to hem tea-towels which were afterwards presented to Mrs. Forbes.

Mrs. Hough presided at the piano, and played many lively and pleasing selection, besides giving several pianologues. Mrs. Wiley Brown read two humorous selections, and Miss Emma Mallison sang "Mother Dear," and "Mother McCree." A musical contest was participated in by all.

Then Mrs. Hortense Moyer appeared with the "tea-wagon," all dressed up in white tissue paper and white ribbons, and loaded with gifts, all wrapped in white, from the various members of the family. Many were the lovely things, presented to mother and grand mother, and all present enjoyed seeing them opened. Then came the cake, lighted candles on the top forming the figures 75, and on the sides "Mother," with the dates.

This was cut and served to all, with ice-cream. Punch was served throughout the evening.

The sons had been gathering, and the grand-children had been popping in and out, so by the time refreshments were served, there was a group or "a party in every room, from parlor to kitchen,"—a whole household of happiness. Good nights were said every one going home happier and better for the privilege of helping Mother Forbes celebrate her birthday, and hoping that God, in His goodness, will spare her in health and happiness for many returns of the day.

COTTON

The market seems pretty well evened up awaiting the ginning figures tomorrow at 10 a. m., a final crop of 13.5 has been largely discounted and if figures are under 13.2 market should advance but don't look for a run-away market as there are many who will wait to see how the next crop gets started and if the textile business shows improvement.

Night Coughing Stopped Quickly By Simple Treatment

Thousands who are troubled with persistent coughing at night, which by robbing them of valuable sleep weakens their systems and lays them open to dangerous infections, can quickly act to prevent this danger through a very simple treatment. People who have hardly been able to rest at all on account of coughing spells have found they can sleep the whole night through undisturbed often the first time they try it.

The treatment is based on a remarkable prescription known as Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs. You simply take a teaspoonful at night before retiring, and hold it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing it, without following with water. The prescription has a double action. It not only soothes and heals soreness and irritation, but it quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing. The result is you usually sleep soundly the very first night, and the entire cough condition goes in a very short time.

The prescription is highly recommended for coughs, chest colds, soreness, and bronchitis, and is wonderful for children's coughs and spasmodic croup—no harmful drugs. Economical, too, as the dose is only one teaspoonful. At all good druggists. Ask for

It is low priced without disappointment in looks or reliability.

It is more than up-to-date in design. It is in advance of any car with which its price can be compared.

In quality Hudson and Essex are alike. The patents which make the Super-Six the most enduring, smoothest motor and give it all advantages sought in eight cylinders, prevent any from copying its chassis as has been so generally done in copying the Coach body.
