PROMINENT EDGEcombe ATTORNEY IS KILLED IN AUTO CRASH NEAR HERE

R. G. Allsbrook Meets Instant Death When Car Crashes Into Tree Off Bethel Highway; Negro Driver Placed Under Arrest on Manslaughter Charge

Richard G. Allsbrook, 50, prominent Tarboro attorney, was instantly killed about 7:30 last night when the automobile, driven by C. L. King, Tarboro negro, in which he was riding collided with a buggy on the Greenville-Bethel highway about two miles from here and overturned against a tree. King received serious injuries and was rushed to a local hospital. Willis Taylor, negro, occupant of the buggy, escaped without injury.

Mr. Allsbrook was enroute to Tarboro from Wilson when the accident occurred. The body was taken to Tarboro late last night where funeral services will be held this afternoon.

A coroner's jury last night after inquiry into the tragedy returned a verdict that the deceased came to his death through the carelessness and negligence of the driver of the automobile who was riding and in the charge of manslaughter was sworn out for King this morning.

According to evidence at the inquiry King was driving at a rapid rate of speed and was attempting to pass another car when he collided with the buggy traveling toward this city which had turned off the road for to the right. When the car struck the buggy it made a complete turn heading back toward this city and went off the road landing against a tree on the opposite side of the road from that on which it had been traveling, pinning the occupants between the tree and the seat of the car.

Mr. Allsbrook's skull and chest were crushed and death was instantaneous. King suffered injury to his back but announced at the hospital this morning that he would probably be able to leave that institution late today.

Persons who witnessed the accident went immediately to the aid of the occupants of the car and following the removal of the men from the debris the coroner was summoned.

Prominent Attorney.
Mr. Allsbrook was born in Scotland Neck, Halifax county, December 13, 1874. He was a graduate from the University of North Carolina and received his law degree from that institution in 1899. In 1900 he located in Tarboro. For six years he was chairman of the Board of Education, served as Mayor of Tarboro one year, and in the fall 1910 was elected solicitor of the Fourth Judicial District.

In 1914 he was elected solicitor of the Second Judicial District for a term of four years. Following the death of the late Claude Kitchin, Mr. Allsbrook was a candidate in 1923 for Congress from the Second District. He has been prominent not only in his own district but throughout this section.

In 1911 he was married to Miss Sallie Roberson, of Edgecombe county. Mr. Allsbrook was an active Mason and with his family was a member of the Presbyterian church. He is survived by his widow and three children.

JOHN L. HOOKER DIES HERE AFTER SHORT SICKNESS

Popular Salesman of Scotland Neck Found Unconscious on Farmville-Greenville Road; Interment in Town Today

Mr. John L. Hooker, 45, died in the Pitt Community hospital last night at 12 o'clock from what is believed to have been an attack of acute indigestion. The remains were sent to Scotland Neck today.

Mr. Hooker, a traveling salesman, was found yesterday afternoon by Chief of Police Hobgood of Farmville, sitting on the running board of his car in an unconscious condition. The car had been parked on the side of the Greenville-Farmville highway a few miles from the City of Farmville.

Realizing that Mr. Hooker was in a serious condition, Mr. Hobgood rushed him to the hospital here. Although unable to ascertain the exact cause of his death it is believed that he suffered an attack of acute indigestion. He evidently was too ill to drive his car any farther and had stopped thinking some one would pass.

Mr. Hooker was married several years ago to Miss Emma Harrington, a daughter of the late Mr. W. B. Harrington of this city. He was well known throughout eastern North Carolina and was held in high esteem in business circles. He was a popular salesman and had a host of friends, who will regret to learn of his almost sudden death. Mr. Hooker is survived by his widow and three children.

The remains were accompanied to Scotland Neck by Mr. Walter Harrington, a brother of Mrs. Hooker.

Rock Slides Believed to Have Freed Pinioned Feet of Man Have Cut Off Passageway to Safety

Cave City, Ky., Feb. 4.—A slide in Sand Cave left the feet of Floyd Collins free for the first time since his imprisonment Friday morning, when a boulder wedged his legs where rescuers were unable to reach him. Collins is left walled in behind rocks which fell from the sides of cave.

This information was brought to the mouth of the cave by Roy Cooksey, a negro engaged in rescue work. The rock barricade probably can be cleared away some time this afternoon, Cooksey said.

CONFEREES SEEK MODIFICATION OF SHOALS MEASURE

Would Make Proposition More Attractive to Leasee by Graduated Scale for Payment of Rentals

Washington, Feb. 4.—Renewing deliberations on the Underwood Bill, the Muscle Shoals Conferees of the Senate and House today settled down to preparation of a final draft of the measure, which they hoped to report this week.

The conferees were represented today as in virtual agreement on changing several provisions of the measure. As the bill now stands returned, it was said, it would be impossible to obtain a satisfactory lease.

The clause calling for the annual rental of four per cent on the $50,000,000 cost of construction of dam No. 2 is expected to be modified to allow a graduated scale of payments that would allow the leasee to pay less each month during the early life of the lease and increase them in the later years. The conferees expect to provide for the same ultimate returned to the government as is now provided for in the measure.

REPUBLICANS ARE MASSING STRENGTH FOR TARIFF FIGHT

Democrats Launch Unexpected Attack in Elimination of Provision for Expenses of Tariff Commission

Washington, Feb. 4.—House Republicans massed their strength today for renewing their battle against the Democratic foe of the Tariff Committee. The fight centered around a provision in the independent offices Appropriation Bill eliminated Saturday, by adoption of the amendment of Representative Garner, Democrat, Texas, striking out the allotment of $712,300 for expenses of the Tariff Commission during the coming fiscal year.

Caught unawares by this sudden onslaught against the provision, when handicapped by many absentees, the Republicans planned today to repeal the provision. Before this could be reached however, several important sections of the bill remained to be disposed of, including the provision for the Shipping Board and Veterans Bureau.

FAST PASSENGER TRAIN IS WRECKED FLORENCE TODAY

Colored Fireman North Bound Coast Line Train Killed and the Engineer Scalded

Florence, S. C., Feb. 4.—The Atlantic Coast Line fast passenger train from Florida to New York was wrecked in the railroad yards here this morning. EX-GOVERNOR MORRISON APPEARS BEFORE JOINT FINANCE COMMITTEES

SECRETARY HUGHES REPLIES TO SENATE IRRECONCILABLES

Former Executive Will Contend That Budget Commission Overestimated Deficit and Did Not Give His Administration Credit for Enough Revenue

Reiterates Former Statement That United States Not Committed to Action in Case Non-Payment

Washington, Feb. 4.—Without undertaking to discuss directly Secretary Hughes' reply on the Paris Reparations Agreement, Senator Johnson, Republican of California, one of the irreconcilables, asked the Senate today to consider the "grave and important questions which have been presented by what happened at Paris."

Raleigh, Feb. 4.—The Senate today passed on its second reading the measure to regulate the operation of public buses in North Carolina, received a hand full of new bills and took action on only score of the bills on the calendar, while the House of Representatives passed only a few measures, and received a large number of new bills of minor general importance.

Washington, Feb. 4.—The reply to the protest against the Reparations Agreement was laid before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today, accompanied by a letter from Secretary Hughes, citing authority of the President to deal with the settlement of claims of the United States and its Nationals as that under which the agreement was negotiated. Conveying details as to the negotiations, the Secretary in responding with the President's approval, to the resolution sponsored by Senate irreconcilables left unanswered their informal inquiry as to whether any reservations had been proposed at any time during the conversation of negotiations at Paris by American delegates.

Among the new Senate Bills was one by Senator Harris, of Wake, which would authorize the re-payment of taxes to private hospitals doing general charity work.

The Budget Regulation Bill passed its second reading by vote of 42 to 2 after four new amendments had been adopted.

Senator Grant, R. publican, of Davis, was the only person to speak his opposition to the measure. He and Senator Robertson cast the dissenting votes.

Pending receipt of the Senate Bill as amended, the House this morning deferred action on the measure before it designed to regulate commercial motor traffic. The House Bill favorably reported came up on Public Calendar today.

There was only one other public Calendar Bill in the House, it being one designed to cut the statutory limit for filing caveat, to wills from seven to three years. On motion of Representative Townsend, the bill before it passed the third reading, was amended so as not to apply to suits or claims filed prior to Jan. 1, 1926.

GOVERNMENT RESTS ITS CASE AGAINST BAILEY BROTHERS

Judge Webb Orders Verdict of Not Guilty As to Two of Defendants Against Whom Evidence is Trivial

Greensboro, Feb. 4.—The government closed its case, charging fraudulent use of the mails, against 41 official and stock sale men of Bailey Brothers, Incorporated, here today and Judge Webb, presiding over the special term of Federal Court, directed verdicts of "not guilty" as to L. P. Jordan and C. G. Moser, two of the defendants, this action cutting the number of those on trial down to 39.

The only witness, examined today was J. P. Dix, postal inspector, who identified certain mail matter and records. Presentation of this evidence was objected to by the defense but the government was sustained by Judge Webb. At the conclusion of government evidence there entered a motion from the representatives of practically all the defendants for interposition of the evidence, and during the motion period the jury was excused from the courtroom.

Big Bout to Be Staged At Fort Bragg Soon

Fort Bragg, Feb. 4.—Indications are that the big boxing show to be held here February 29 will exceed in attendance the record formerly established when Young Stribling appeared in the local ring, according to an announcement made by the ticket sellers here today. The announcement that Jack Renault, heavyweight champion of Canada, is to appear on the card has created considerable interest, it is said, and the fact that his opponent, Charlie Burke, of the United States Marines, recently knocked out Joe White, after the latter had gone the distance with Renault makes the program all the more attractive.

Lieutenant Frederick E. Coyne, Jr., Recreation Officer of the Post, announces that certain sections have been temporarily set aside for the expected rush for seats from points some distance away. It is announced that the main bout will be started promptly at 9:00 p. m. All other matches on the program not completed by that hour will be presented after the Renault-Burke affair, it is stated.

The card arranged for February 29 is the first of a proposed program of monthly boxing entertainment, in each of which some internationally known champion or challenger will be introduced to North Carolina fans it is stated.

Justice Linney agreed with Judge Webb as to the two sale men against whom verdicts of not guilty were ordered. Evidence against them was trivial the only thing coming up regarding them being the fact that they had letters authorizing them to sell stock.

Slightly more than seven days have been required for the govern-

ENGLISH LABOR CHIEF
FINDS U.S. CONDITION
SUPERIOR TO BRITISH

London. — The death of Samuel Gompers and the coincident return of some of British visitors to the American Federation of Labor convention have served to focus many English eyes upon the living and working conditions and aspirations of organized labor in the United States.

What most seemed to strike the British was Mr. Gompers' conservatism, his Tory-like intolerance of red radicalism, and the stern way in which all his life he opposed, and with success, every effort to make of the American labor organizations a unified political power, in the European manner.

Although every observer seems to agree that the American workingman is better off in this world's goods than his foreign counterparts, the labor situation overseas did not appear without blemishes to A. B. Swales, chairman of the General Council of the Trades Union Congress, who recently returned from an official tour of the United States.

"Mass production, gigantic combinations of employers—trusts—and the ruthless oppression of large numbers of unorganized and ill-organized workers are features that strike the inquiring trade unionist from England," he wrote upon his return. "Nevertheless, I did notice that the American worker, in the main, is able to live properly and decently on what he receives in wages, in contrast to the dull drudgery and semi-starvation of most of the workers in England."

"I asked a joiner from England, who had been in the United States for several years, if he would like to go back to the old country, and I received this reply: 'I would like to go back very much, but I could not live there as well and as comfortably as I can here.'"

Mr. Swales cautions his countrymen against wholesale emigrations to the land where workers ride home to dinner in their flivvers instead of having to cook a midday kipper over glowing charcoal. Increased unemployment is on the horizon in America, he thinks.

"A significant factor," according to Mr. Swales, "is the many demands being made by the employers for a review of wage agreements, and for wage reductions in many industries. It is the usual method adopted, such as we have experienced in England these past few years, of cutting wages to maintain dividends and profits.

when a fall in trade happens. "The American workers are prepared for the attack, and these attempts will be met with stubborn resistance. British workers should be alert and watch developments in America, for any lowering in their standards will without a doubt have serious effect in this country. We must be ready and prepared to support our fellow-workers across the Atlantic."

To the observant eyes of Swales the American people look happier and more contented than do the people of England. He found a lack of that black tragic look to despair in their faces, so often met with in industrial England.

"Still," he concluded, "this was because there was a greater demand for skilled and semi-skilled labor than the supply," a demand which he believes will soon be on the ebb.

ANOTHER ADDITION TO THE TOIL

Last night's tragedy near here added to the large list of road accidents one more casualty. While the verdict of the coroner's jury attributed the accident to the carelessness and recklessness of the driver of the car which crashed into the tree there is still another cause, while no violation of the law, that had it been removed might have prevented the accident which took the life of one of Eastern North Carolina's most prominent attorneys. The latter cause is that of the unlighted vehicle which as in many other accidents played an important part. While the driver of the car might be guilty of a violation of the speed laws the chances of the accident would no doubt be lessened had there been a light on the buggy to warn him of its presence before he was too close to check the speed of the automobile. A bill which would require the lighting of all vehicles on the public highways has been before the General Assembly in former sessions and is again before that body at the present time. Regrettable as it may sound it is not an assumption to state that failure of former sessions of the legislature to enact the vehicle light law has been partly responsible for many of the recent accidents on the public highways of the state and it is to be hoped that this latest tragedy will impress more forcibly upon the minds of the members of the present General Assembly the need of such legislation.

OUR EDUCATIONAL SYSTEM

The contract for erection of the new junior high school here was let yesterday. With the completion of this structure together with that of the new grammar school in west Greenville, now under construction, this city will be second to none in the state from the standpoint of educational facilities and advantages. The educational advantages offered by Greenville should be a great inducement to persons from other sections who are seeking a place to locate.

DIVORCES TOO EASY NOW

The fact that the bill which would cut the separation requirement for absolute divorce in North Carolina from five to two years, could not muster but 17 votes in the House despite a minority report from the committee and a strenuous fight on the chamber floor indicates that those representing the majority of North Carolina's counties are right thinking people and believe that already it is too easy to break the bonds of matrimony.

As expressed by Miss Julia Alexander, of Mecklenburg, North Carolina's only woman member of the General Assembly, "couples do not live together now long enough to pay the building and loan on their house and buy the furniture."

ROUND TABLE CLUB.

Mrs. T. A. Person was hostess to the members of the Round Table Club at her home on Evans street, Tuesday afternoon Feb. 3rd.

The warm glow of the fire light was accentuated by the warmth of genial gifts by Mesdames Person and Tighman. The beauty of the home was enhanced by the handsome ferns, blooming plants and dainty baskets of sweet peas.

The president, Mrs. Grant, presided over the business session. In response to the roll call, current events were given which provoked interesting discussion.

Discussions of enlarged activities of the club lead to the President requesting the Program Committee to formulate a report offering a course in current fiction. Mrs. Austin was authorized to make a favorable report to the Indigent Hospital committee.

Mesdames Winslow, Smith and Person were appointed by the chair as the program committee for the incoming club year. The treasurer was requested to make up a tentative budget of expense for the club year.

The program for the afternoon was a study of "Art for Art's Sake." James McNeill Whistler and Augustus Saint Gaudens were the artists studied.

Mrs. Fitzgerald presented Whistler—the man and the artist—a magnificent subject for a biography. She followed his career from boyhood in Mass, his life in Russia—at West Point, in the art school, of England, France, and Italy, his law suit with John Ruskin, through the many vicissitudes of chance and fortune; before his genius brought him fame.

His life is one of rare interest and far reaching significance. Many copies of his works were shown among them, his master piece, "The Portrait of My Mother", which still hangs in the Luxenburg Gallery the French Academy promised Whistler it should be placed in the Louvre.

Mrs. Munford's presentation of St. Gaudens was particularly witty and enjoyable. It revealed no little of the Irish wit of the sculptor. Born in Ireland he came to this country at an early age and located in New York. Apprenticed to a stonecutter at the age of thirteen his career filled with hardships and rewards until his goal was reached when he received the contract for the statue of Farragut.

In rapid succession followed the Statue of Peter Cooper, the Sherman Statue and the Shaw Memorial which was fourteen years in the making.

One outstanding feature of his life was his strong friendship with the literati of the day. His affection for Stevenson and the wonderful influence of this author upon his life is worthy of comment.

Mrs. Munford's treatment of this sculptor was an illuminating resume of an exceptional life.

The hostess served a dainty and appetizing salad course.

Day and night she has been with her patients in the wards of the Maynard-Columbia Hospital, helping to keep down the death toll, while out in the bleak wastes, at 60 below zero, hardy nurses were cracking their whips over jaded dogs to rush in, in record breaking time, 300,000 units of antitoxin that were counted on to check the epidemic. From her hospital, she went also to the huts of the natives and the igloos of the Eskimos, facing death daily in her mission of mercy.

Markets

(By William J. Cobb)

COTTON
Munds: Although much of the buying is speculative, it must be admitted that the market has a good fundamental background.

Weld: We can see nothing in the situation at the present time to alter our opinion that the market it still apt to move within a scalping range and that purchases on good reactions will show profits.

Orvis: Market is getting rather one-sided and this should influence profit taking on strength and purchases only on reactions.

Hubbard Bros: The advance has been very rapid in the past two days for a market in which the volume of business has not been large.

Liver pool came 5 to 11 up by New York and 5 to 10 higher by New York on new crops.

Compared with last year, stock on shipboard at Galveston yesterday was 22,000 vs. 20,000; at New Orleans 63,000 vs. 38,000; at Houston 46,000. Southern spots yesterday were 10 to 25 up; Texas markets 1 to 20 higher; sales larger, all told 34,163 vs. 27,300 Monday.

Weekly weather and crop Government report today at 9 a. m. a standard.

Cables, weather conditions, especially in Texas, trade advices, spot news and exports have to be reckoned with. Sentiment apparently more bullish than otherwise.

STOCKS

Post and Flag: There is no reason to expect any material change in the strong aspect of the market.

Wollman: While the average market showed a slight decline it was not of proportions to cause any anxiety over the course of the market.

Clark Childs: The market should continue a trading affair.

GRAIN

Clement: The closing tone was strong.

Hulburd: Unless further evidence of scarcity appears we doubt if railries will hold.

Bartlett: Extreme caution is advised in trading in wheat; corn as far as the crop situation is concerned is unhealthy condition.

Logan: We favor buying on good dips.

Weak holders went out of their wheat yesterday and it was taken by strong interests. The decline has put the market in better shape and holdings are in strong hands, instead of weak ones, as for several days past. It is said the market is in a position where a ready response might be expected to any good buying.

Corn it is said has passed into strong hands as those who are interested in wheat any rye are credited with buying on the declines. The country is not selling corn as freely but the demand from eastern interests is stacking.

Semi Weekly Movement 13 In. Towns
Receipts 77,000 vs. 45,000.
Shipments 103,000 vs. 58,000.
Cotton stocks decreased 25,000 vs. 13,000.
Total stock 920,000 vs. 575,000.

CAVE MAN STILL LIVING AFTER ENTOMBED 5 DAYS

afternoon revealed that Collins was only partly freed. William B. Miller, staff correspondent of the Courier Journal, coming from the cave shortly after 12:15 o'clock said he thought Collins was, but little better off and stated that the wall locking Collins from them was about two feet thick. He asked Collins if he could move around and he replied at first that he could but then said he was unable to reach a bottle of milk which had been placed near him before the wall of the cavern collapsed.

While Miller was working away at the debris between him and Collins another rock fall took place cutting him off from the entrance to the cave. It was of little consequence, however, and Miller was able to free himself and squirm out.

In an eleven grade system, this is known as the 5-3-3 plan. That is, a child spends the first five years in the elementary grades, goes to the Junior High School when he reaches the sixth grade, and goes to the Senior High School when he reaches the ninth grade. The school board also had in mind the idea of building a large auditorium ultimately. This to come whenever the growth and the finances of the city justify it. This proposed auditorium will be built between the present High School Building and the new Junior High School Building. All three buildings be connected and will operate as one unit, thus reducing the cost of overhead. The dirt which will be moved for the new buildings will be carried over into the ravine adjacent to the school, and it is believed that there will be enough of this dirt to cover the culvert and make the ravine usable as a playground for the pupils.
