REVISED CASUALTY LIST MID WEST TORNADO SHOW 823 KILLED, 2,900 HURT

Illinois Suffers Greatest Loss of Life With 645; Identified Dead in Five States Total 466; Thousands Are Homeless and Property Damage Estimated in the Millions

Revised casualty lists of Wednesday's tornado shows 823 listed as dead and 2,900 injured. Thousands are homeless and property damage is estimated in the millions. Identified dead in five states numbers 466. Illinois suffered the greatest loss of life with 645. The death figures in other states are Indiana 100; Tennessee 33; Missouri 27; Kentucky 18.

The last available supply of anti-tetanus serum at Indianapolis - 750 tubes - has been sent to Carbondale and Murphysboro, Illinois. The Red Cross announced that James L. Feisler, of St. Louis, would be in supreme command of the destroyed area with H. M. Baker, National Director of Disaster Relief, in charge of the operations.

Henry J. Cox, government forecaster, said the storm was a middle western spring tornado.

Chicago, March 20 - Still prostrated but with hurried efforts at temporary relief, supplemented by the arrival of trained workers, supplies and medicines, the storm-stricken area of the Ohio Valley today continued to count the terrific losses of life and property in its greatest tornado disaster. Revised casualty lists indicated little change from the first estimates of the damage done by Wednesday afternoon's tornado. A fairly systematic check in thirty-five cities and towns in the path of the storm indicated a death list between 800 and 900 with approximately 3,000 injured and many others homeless. It is believed, however, that many bodies are still to be recovered as entire towns were demolished and isolated.

Identified dead in the five states total 466. A check of the devastated area has not progressed far enough to permit even a rough estimate of the property loss although many millions are estimated to have been lost in the widely separated points in the five states.

Relief measures are under way at all points in the storm swept area. Temporary morgues and hospitals have been filled to overflowing while frantic men, women and children have searched the long lines of the dead for missing loved ones. In some instances doctors have performed major operations out of doors or in roofless buildings without the aid of anesthetics. Paralysis of gas, light and water facilities added to the discomfort and confusion through the second night of horror and relief workers had only candles and lanterns to guide their efforts of mercy. No food shortage exists, however, the Red Cross, at St. Louis, announced.

ALDERMEN AWARD CONTRACT WORK ON CITY STREETS

City Fathers, in Adjourned Session, Award Contract to McGehee Co.; Other Important Matters Disposed of

The Board of Aldermen met in adjourned meeting last night at 7:30, the Mayor and six members being present. The matters taken up at this adjourned meeting were as follows:

Bids were opened for the construction of curb and gutter and grading on the east end of 8th street, and for the construction of curb and gutter, grading and sidewalk on 3rd street between A. C. L. Railroad and Latham street, and on Elizabeth street between 3rd and 4th streets, and on Latham street between 3rd and 4th streets. Only two bids were received, being those of Messrs. Ray and Leonard, local contractors and L. J. McGehee Co. contractors of Tarboro. The amount of work involves an expenditure between five and six thousand dollars, and the difference in the two bids was only about $250, McGehee Company having made the lowest bid, they were awarded the contract.

A motion was passed directing that street signs be placed on all corners and that the property owners be required to furnish numbers for all houses, with power given to the street committee to carry out the work. This was requested by Post Master, H. C. Munford in the interest of better postal delivery service.

A motion was adopted authorizing the purchase of a pair of mules for street work to help take care of the new street and garbage in those portions of the town recently included in the corporate limits.

A motion was unanimously adopted authorizing property owners to open Broad street west through to Watauga Avenue, the town to furnish file for ditches crossing said street, so that same can be opened to traffic.

Notice of election to be held in accordance with the requirements of the charter, on first Monday in May, was ordered given, said notice to appear elsewhere in this paper.

Paris, March 20 - A free for all fist fight of such proportions as had never before been seen in the Chamber of Deputies, broke up this afternoon's session. The disturbance began after Premier Herriot, in defending the government's policy in religious matters had said, "We accept and welcome Christianity in its pure forms but not the Christianity of bankers."

NOTED BRITISH STATESMAN IS DEAD

Marquis Curzon of Kedleston

London, March 20 - Death today claimed the Marquis Curzon, of Kedleston, Lord President of the council, and formerly Foreign Secretary. The end came at 5:35 o'clock this morning after a fight against pneumonia, which developed following an operation two weeks ago. The Marquis was 66 years old.

The first intimation of the break in his health came on March 5th when he collapsed while dressing for a public dinner in Cambridge, at which he was to have delivered a speech. The operation was performed four days later in London, but the nature of the trouble was not given out. The regular bulletin regarding his condition also failed to name the malady, but "Bladder trouble" was generally given as the cause of his collapse.

Sketch of Life. Lord Curzon was born at Kedleston January 11, 1859, the eldest son of the Rev. Alfred Nathaniel Holden Curzon, the fourth Baron Searisals. He married twice, taking an American as his wife on both occasions. In 1895 he married Miss Mary Victoria Leiter, daughter of L. Z. Leiter of Washington. She died in 1909 the year after they returned from India, leaving three daughters. His second wife, whom he married in 1917, was Mrs. Grace Elvina Hindu Duggan, a daughter of J. Monroe Hindu, who had been United States Minister to Brazil, and the widow of Alfred Duggan of Buenos Aires. The Marquis Curzon, George Nathaniel Curzon, was known to the world as the most perfect in every detail the type of superior personality known as the ruling aristocrat. He was bred for public life and followed the career of politics and government with such success that he held almost every great office under the Crown except the highest of all - the post of Prime Minister. Ironically enough, it was the honors he accumulated while working his way toward the Premiership which, more than anything else, militated against his ambition for the post and, when it seemed almost surely his, kept it from him. Had he been born 30 years earlier he undoubtedly would have become Prime Minister. When he came to the threshold of that office, it was in 1923, the day of noble Lords occupying No. 10 Downing Street had set. Prime Ministers no longer were nominated from the aristocracy, but from the Commons.

Lord Curzon was named one of the imperial war cabinet members in the Lloyd-George coalition government and was made leader of the House of Lords in 1916. He continued in that position throughout the war and the reconstruction period. He became Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs in 1919 and continued in that office in the Bonar Law government after the Lloyd-George rule had been smashed by the Tories. Meanwhile he had risen two more steps in the peerage - to an Earl and then to a Marquise. There remained only a Dukedom to be obtained and Lord Curzon generally was credited with a burning ambition to achieve the highest of titles for those outside the royal blood.

The travels of Lord Curzon and the books they engendered were recognized with a gold medal by the Royal Geographic Society. Among his published volumes were: "Russia in Central Asia," 1889; "Persia and the Persian Question," 1892; "Problems of the Far East," 1894; "Lord Curzon of India," 1906; "Principles and Methods of University Reform," 1909; "Modern Parliamentary Eloquence," 1913; "War Joins and Other Translations," 1915; "Subjects of the Day, 1915; "Tales of Travel," 1923.

NEW NAVAL GIANT WILL BE LAUNCHED DURING APRIL

Washington, March 20 - A new naval giant will take its first dip at Camden, N. J., April 7 when the first line aircraft carrier Saratoga slides off the ways of the New York Ship Building Corp.

When completed and commissioned with the fleet some time late in 1926 she will be the biggest and fastest craft of its kind in the world and will carry a fleet of 72 combat, observation and bombing planes.

The launching of the Saratoga will mark a new epoch in American naval construction signifying the changes man's conquest of the air has already made in preparation for sea battles of the future. Mrs. Curtis D. Wilbur, wife of the Secretary of the Navy, will act as sponsor at the big ship's christening with high officials of the navy and other government departments witnessing the event.

Laid down as one of the six battle cruisers authorized under the 1916 building program the Saratoga was converted by the arms limitation treaty together with its sister ship the Lexington, also to be launched in the near future, into an aircraft carrier before the construction work had advanced very far. The other four ships were scrapped on the ways. The original plan called for an heavily armed and armored fighting ship to make a approximately 35 knots per hour but with the changes to that of an aircraft carrier the Saratoga had to be redesigned from the water line up.

NEW MOVEMENT TO MAKE GREAT BRITAIN "DRY" IS REPORTED

London, March 20 - A new movement to make Great Britain dry is reported by the Daily Express. A secret conference of 117 delegates representing 37 prohibition and temperance organizations was held a few days ago at Heddlesdon, the paper says, resulting in a decision to bury all differences and present a solid front to the enemy. Straight prohibition is not the first aim of the government but local option, and a committee has begun to draft a parliamentary bill toward this end.

FORD COMPANY TO PRODUCE AIRPLANE MOTORS EARLY DATE

Detroit Free Press Quotes Edsel Ford as Saying Production Would Begin When Experiments are Completed

Detroit, Mich., March 20 - The Detroit Free Press today quotes Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, as saying that his company would go into the production of airplane motors as soon as experiments now in progress at their laboratories were completed.

Mr. Ford was also quoted as saying that construction would be started at once at Ford Airport of the largest dirigible mooring mast in the world which is to be constructed at a cost of $75,000, for mooring the Shenandoah and Los Angeles or any other craft of similar or greater size.

The Free Press said it was told by Mr. Ford that the Ford Company was not considering manufacturing complete planes but that it was interested financially in the Detroit Airplane Company, now building planes and a Detroit organization which Mr. Ford is quoted as saying will soon place the first metal-clad lighter-than-air ship in the air.

Produced Largest Crop Last Year Since 1914; Final Ginning Report Shows 13,618,751 Bales

American cotton growers, the Census Bureau reported today, produced the largest crop last year they have grown since 1914, the final ginning report showing 13,618,751, equivalent to 500 round bales. This is 3,479,989 bales larger than 1923 crop.

In only one other year, since the record crop of 16,134,930 bales in 1914, has production been within a million bales of the present crop. That was in 1920, when there were 13,139,603 bales.

TINY MICE GIVEN HOMES IN LONDON'S NOTED ZOO

London - The smallest animals at the London Zoo are a family of pigmy mice, which arrived recently from Gambia, in western Africa. They are smaller than bumble bees, and a pair could easily set up housekeeping in an ordinary safety match box. While the pigmies were being shipped to London 15 of them escaped through a hole smaller than might be made by a slate pencil, and none of them was ever seen again.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA DIVISION U. D. C., LOSES STANDING AS UNIT OF NATIONAL BODY

Washington, March 20 - The District of Columbia division of the United Daughters of the Confederacy lost its standing as a unit of the national body upon receipt of word from the organization's National Executive Board that its rights had been forfeited by failure to adjust differences between the warring factions of its membership.

The action culminated a dispute of long standing between the chapters in the district. They were about evenly divided over the question of leadership in the division. Several months ago half the chapters in the district elected a President General who was not recognized as such by the other chapters which also elected a president. Efforts to solve the difficulties proved fruitless and when the chapters last met to discuss the situation someone telephoned the police and a negro policeman was sent to the meeting. Each faction accused the other of having called for the police and all hope of adjustment was abandoned.

THE CRYSTAL GAZER

By SATTERFIELD

COUNTRY TEACHERS WELCOME COLLEGE LECTURES BY RADIO

Iowa City. — A lone Texan in a cabin many miles from a railroad glanced at his clock at 7:30 Monday or Wednesday nights, kicks a stool over to a table, mobilizes pencil and paper and tunes his radio receiving set to 481 meters to attend class at the University of Iowa.

He is only one of 75 from Ohio to California, in age from 18 to 50, from busy cities to outlying points of civilization, who will search the air for WSCU, the university's station, and prepare to earn university credits without moving from the hearth. Others may listen in, not for credit but for the information to be gained from the lectures.

As a method of taking education to the people, University of Iowa officials believe the radio holds unusual possibilities. Test papers sent in by the regularly registered radio students indicate, according to the officials, that the pupils have grasped the radio lectures as readily as if they had been sitting in the lecturer's classroom. The only two students who had difficulty were Iowans, and attributed their trouble to their sets.

To those students who experience difficulty in receiving the lectures, the university extension department mails, upon request, copies of the talk the student was unable to hear distinctly.

According to Miss Helen Williams, director of the correspondence study division, a great many of the registered radio students are teachers. In some cases a school superintendent and his teachers have formed a class so they can hear from the same loud speaker and use the same text books. "The value of the radio as an educational medium," Miss Williams said, "is touchingly demonstrated in several cases where the students are invalids, often times bed-ridden. At least one of these students will be able to receive a bachelor of arts degree from the university in June, thanks to the radio courses. This student was forced to take to his bed when he needed but three credits to graduate."

Free Cooking School Will Be Interesting To All Housewives

Few housewives would say off hand that there is anything entertaining about preparing meals. They might admit that such work is satisfying or even interesting; but as entertainment—well, there are other ways of having a good time.

Yet those who have heard the lectures and seen the demonstrations of Miss Karen Fladoes, who will conduct a Gold Medal cooking school here March 25-27, inclusive, under the auspices of the Home Economics Department of the Woman's Club, assert that one of her classes is extremely entertaining. The paradox of Miss Fladoes' work is that while it is lightly technical, it also borders on magic or sleight-of-hand, so skillful is she in preparation of the various culinary delicacies which she prepares before her audience, and as is the case with many magicians' most mystifying performances, the explanation is simple. The housewife who follows Miss Fladoes' directions will find that she may go home and do likewise.

The one point stressed more than others is simplicity. To the casual observer, in the audience, the feats performed by Miss Fladoes in preparing various salads, desserts, etc., are those which can be accomplished only by the expert. While this classification might be applied to Miss Fladoes, she uses only the recipes and prepares the dishes which any housewife can handle equally well in her own home. She does show, however, more efficient ways of doing this work and more attractive forms in which the food may be prepared than is common knowledge.

To fit herself for the work she is now doing, Miss Fladoes made a study of home economics at Stout Institute of which she is a graduate and Columbia University. During the war she served as dietitian in one of the army base hospitals where it was necessary to put into practice economy of materials as well as economy of time and efficient methods. Since then she has continued the study of food problems, time saving methods and management as applied to the woman in the home. Her classes are said to be extremely interesting but not complicated. Her subjects are chosen to interest the average housewife, and the slogan she tries to convey to her hearers is "get better results with less work and more fun."

The High School auditorium was selected for the demonstrations because it will accommodate a large crowd and the Woman's Club is anxious that every woman in Pitt county who can possibly do so may attend this school.

By special arrangement with Washburn Crosby Co., the Woman's Club is giving this series of lessons, to the women of the county, entirely free. There will be no collections taken during the course.

L. B. King Receives Second Parole During Week

Raleigh, March 20 — L. B. King, sentenced in the Mecklenburg county superior court, in August, 1923, to serve five years in the state's prison at Raleigh, on the charge of second degree murder, came to Raleigh without a guard and left carrying temporary parole from the Governor.

Following his conviction, he was ready to begin his sentence at the earliest possible moment, he said, because he wanted to "have it over" in order that he might return to his family. The sentenced man boarded a train and came to Raleigh. He presented himself to the prison authorities who declined to admit him without the proper "credentials."

King remained in Raleigh a day or two, until he could be properly identified at the prison and then began the service imposed upon him.

Later, King was paroled for several months, because of the fact that his family needed him. Returning to Raleigh, a day in advance of the expiration of his parole, he called at the office of the governor and thanked the chief executive, in person for having permitted him to go home.

It was only recently that King made application for a second parole. Granting the parole this week, the Governor said:

"The prisoner has made a good record since being at the state's prison."

"This man has a wife and five small children who, I understand, are in practically destitute circumstances, and unless this man is allowed to go home and make some preparation for his family to make a crop, they will suffer."

The parole was conditioned on King's future good behavior. It holds good for seven months, at the end of which time the prisoner must report at the state's prison.

Executive Budget Will Be Directed Personally by Gov.

Raleigh, March 19.—As the result of legislation enacted at the 1925 session, the Governor of North Carolina will become the chief executive of the state, in fact as well as in theory. Chief among legislation conferring definite powers upon him, besides those vaguely named in the constitution and satutorily conferred from time to time, was that which provides for an executive budget, to be directed personally by the governor, with such assistance as he may name. The law provides for an assistant director and for the appointment of a budget commission.

Another power conferred upon governor is that relating to wages. He is to appoint a wage commission, whose duty it will be to bring about certain adjustments, based on efficiency.

Also, the chief executive was empowered to name a commission to thoroughly investigate the public school system and to make recommendations mentations whereby duplication of effort will be eliminated.

The laws governing the appointment of members of various institutional boards was so revised as to give the governor the power to appoint them for four-year terms. This will eliminate interim expirations and place the institutions on a basis that will make them answerable to each governor. There will be few new systems. All terms will expire at approximately the same time. Heretofore, expirations have occurred irregularly.

Thus, the governor will be in active charge of the state's financial and fiscal policies, through the medium of the executive budget. He will, through the wage commission, be in a position to get an insight into the earning capacity and the efficiency of various state employees; and, through the educational commission, he will be advised as to the status and operation of the state's school system, in detail.

There was a bill introduced to give the governor the veto power. This, however, was introduced not at the request of the governor but by a member of the house who thought that the North Carolina executive should have this right.

The bill calling for the submission of a constitutional amendment, transferring the pardon power to a board was held in abeyance, pending a try-out of the pardon commissioner idea.

Governor McLean's recommendations to the general assembly went through almost 100 per cent. He recommended the establishment of an executive budget and the other measures referred to.
