

CHEMISTS REPORT MERCURY IN BODY MRS. McCLINTOCK

Body of Mrs. Emma McClintock Disinterred After 16 Years Reveals Enough Poison to Kill Two People

Chicago, April 10.—Enough mercury to have killed two persons has been found in the body of Mrs. Emma McClintock, mother of William McClintock, the orphan millionaire, whom William D. Shepherd, his foster father, is charged with killing. Coroner Wolff's formal statement issued today after his chemist had reported results of tests made on Mrs. McClintock's body disinterred after 16 years burial said the poison was in all possibility administered to her between ten and 15 days before her death.

When Mrs. McClintock died in Chicago, 16 years ago, her will placed her son under the guardianship of Mrs. Shepherd, with guardian fee of $15,000 a year.

"It is very evident," said Coroner Wolff's statement, "that the poison was administered to Mrs. McClintock in small doses, showing that maybe six or seven portions were given her."

"The poison necessarily must have been administered in food, or in medicine, and therefore must have been given by someone in Mrs. McClintock's close confidence or one of her attendants. Certainly she would not accept such service from strangers."

"The amount of mercury found, is in itself proof that it was not taken as medicine, accidentally, or with suicidal intent. If that amount had been taken in one dose convulsions would have been sufficiently violent to indicate to attending physicians that suicide was intended."

Federal Courts may be asked by the defense to take jurisdiction over all the case of William D. Shepherd, charged with the murder of his foster son, William N. McClintock, it was learned today after Illinois' Supreme Court at Springfield had refused to grant a writ of habeas corpus. It was the fourth attempt to get Shepherd out of jail on bail.

New York, April 10.—Babe Ruth, premier batsman of base ball, lies powerless today in St. Vincent's hospital—far from dead, yet far from the condition he must maintain to continue his reputation in the National game. Yesterday, with the opening of the season only five days away, he came back to New York, on a stretcher.

Dr. Edward King, physician of the New York American League baseball club, believes he can fit Ruth out for the opening against Washington at the New York stadium on Tuesday.

It was stated at St. Vincent's hospital this morning, that Ruth had slept from 11 p. m. until after 7 o'clock this morning, and that his condition was not serious.

McConnell, President of the concern and four others with having obtained money under false pretense. The men who were indicted on six counts are Mathew M. McConnell, Edward H. McConnell, Mathew L. Miller, Henry B. Miller, and George F. Laughlin.

The case is the outgrowth of a stock selling campaign by the Paul Rubber Company two years ago, which preceded the final collapse of the Company for a few months. The indictments charge an alleged effort to promote a company, which it is claimed, was practically bankrupt at the time effort was being made to stimulate the sale of the stock.

"Welcome, Happy Morning,"
"The Strife is O'er, the Battle Done,"
"Jesus Christ is Risen Today,"
"Angels, Roll the Rock Away,"
"He is Risen, He is Risen."

DEBATE ON FRANCE'S FINANCES WILL TAKE PLACE AFTER EASTER

Position of Herriot's Ministry Appears to Political Observers as More Precarious Today; Finance Committee Still Investigating Affairs

Paris, April 10.—"If this be war, let us have it out right here," said Premier Herriot, arising in the Senate this afternoon to reply to the most scathing arraignment his government has been subjected to during its ten months of life.

The debate had the Senate in such a state of excitement as is seldom seen among the staid senators. Sentiment seems evenly divided, and Parliamentary prophets predicted the vote to be close.

The position of Premier Herriot's ministry appears not to have been improved by the vote of confidence given to it in the Chamber of Deputies last night, and is, if anything, in the view of political observers more precarious this morning. The vote came after the Premier concluded a three hour speech, which was taken up largely by a spirited attack on his predecessors in office. M. Herriot laying on their shoulders the blame of finance differences with which the country now is faced.

He asked the Chamber if it wanted to assume the responsibility of overthrowing him before the government's measures, looking to the bringing of order out of the Finance chaos, came up for debate, and when the vote was taken, the ministry was upheld 291 votes to 242.

As it is now evident that the Finance Committee of the Chamber will be unable to complete its study of financial measures before the close of tomorrow, or tomorrow night, the debate on them will not take place until after the Easter recess.

250 Cases Small Pox Reported in North Carolina Last Month

Raleigh, April 10.—Two hundred and fifty cases of smallpox reported in North Carolina last month caused state health officials to renew their plea for universal vaccination, said Dr. F. M. Register, of the Bureau of Vital Statistics.

Dr. Register pointed out that only three countries, Switzerland, Russia and Greece, have a larger per centage of smallpox than the United States. He used as a basis of contention the fact that last year there was not a single case of smallpox reported in Australia or New Zealand.

Dr. Register called attention to the fact that the cases which developed in the larger cities of the State are included in the totals for the counties in which these cities are located.

"I wish to urge all our people to become vaccinated who have not yet taken that precaution," said Dr. Register. "When this month's figures are in, they will doubtless show a spread of the disease to other counties."

"There have been no pronounced epidemics of smallpox, and there is no need to anticipate any such epidemic. Yet, smallpox can be prevented through vaccination. This is the only absolutely safe course to pursue—to get vaccinated. I would that everybody would co-operate in stamping out this disease. It is a useless disease, in that it is a preventable disease."

Officers Capture Two Stills Near Latham's Crossing Thursday

Deputy Sheriff Whitehurst accompanied by Officers Manly Sellers, Pierce and Savage on yesterday afternoon visited the Latham's Crossing section and captured a 100 gallon capacity still and a 40 gallon capacity still in the same place. The officers poured out 1500 gallons of beer and destroyed other paraphernalia necessary for the manufacturing of whiskey.

LORD ESHER THEORY WOULD SCRAP BRIT. MINISTERS, BUT ONE

London. — Recent assertion of Lord Esher that but few men are fit for politics after reaching 40 years of age has caused much speculation in British Parliamentary circles and has resulted in the ages of all the English cabinet members being discussed in numerous publications. If Lord Esher's theory were brought into practice, it was revealed that the present cabinet would be reduced to one member, this being Lord Eustace Perry, minister of education, who is 38 years old.

Lord Esher, deputy governor of Windsor Castle, and author of several books dealing with the lives of King Edward and Queen Victoria, who himself is in his 73rd year, on the question of ages, said: "To very few, and possibly only to reflective minds, like Sophocles and Leonardo, is the privilege granted of sustained vigor after the age of forty." He cited Napoleon, who was 40 when at Schonbrunn in 1809, the zenith of his career. In Chatham and his son as well, he contends, the vray spark paled early.

Further, Lord Esher asserted: "No man, and very few women, retain physical charm and generous instincts after 40 years of age. All men and women should be aware of the 20's. In our time there are manifold examples of the failure to maintain, after the age of 40, a pertinent grasp over public affairs and the faculty of wise decision." "But is there, in fact, any true comparison between the men of today and the men even of the Napoleonic times?" asks the Evening Standard in an editorial in which Lord Esher's contentions are disputed.

The most ordinary observation of society as it exists at the present time would appear sufficient to negative the theory that few women retain physical charm at 40, says the Standard which goes on to aver that evidently the dramatists of today do not think so, or they would not be so fond of introducing mature heroines.

After pointing out historically and otherwise where Lord Esher is altogether wrong in his observations concerning politicians the Standard continues: "As for the statement that no man retains generous instincts after 40, surely the converse is nearer truth. Women are here the best judges, and it is a very common experience to find young women turning from men of their own age to men who are considerably their seniors merely because they find not only more entertainment, but more sympathy and understanding."

Lord Esher's most recent work was "The Tragedy of Lord Kitchener," a book completed when he was 71 years of age.

FRENCH DESIGNERS FAILED TO GRASP THE AMERICAN THEME

Chicago. — The quick, impulsive curve of the French art nouveau style had its origin in the American broom corn, asserted Charles R. Richards, director of the American Association of Museums, speaking recently at the Art Institute of Chicago.

"When the French and Belgian artists of the eighties, searching for a new style of art, turned to the curved line of nature, a young lad of 17 in Dayton, Ohio, named E. Colonna, was publishing a little book called 'An Essay on Broom Corn.'" Mr. Richards said. "The book, dated 1887, consisted first of a naturalistic drawing of the broom corn, and then a series of abstract designs utilizing its curves.

"Colonna later went to Paris and eventually joined the Paris group which was developing the art nouveau style. His furniture and jewelry appeared in the Paris exposition of 1900, and were so impressive that photographs were made. When I was visiting a prominent art official in Paris I noticed in his offices some of Colonna's furniture. He admired its artistic worth and preserved it, though the art nouveau style is now dead."

The art nouveau style in the hand of great designers like Colonna has a lasting artistic value, according to Professor Richards. The reason that it failed as a great art movement was that the curve on which it was based was too subtle an art form and could only be handled with success by genius. When it was taken up by the French manufacturers they did not call in the best designers, with the result that the curve was used in all sorts of exaggerated and bizarre ways and the style was soon run out.

MEN DECLARED DEAD ASK COURT FOR RULING

New Orleans, La. — A mandate of the state supreme court will be necessary to restore legal life to two residents of this city. Both have been entered on the official lists of the board of health as dead, and although they are living, have lost the right to vote and other advantages because of their legal status.

The body of a man found in a gas filled room of a boarding house was identified by a son as Frank Muller. A body found in the Mississippi river was identified by relatives as Charles W. Burdette.

While preparations were being made for their interment under these names the two men made their appearances alive. They immediately called on the health authorities to remove them from the list of dead. This was refused on the ground that once entered on this list they must remain there until ordered erased by the supreme court.

OXFORD BOAT SWAMPED IN RACE

The annual boat race between the crews of Oxford and Cambridge universities on the Thames River, England, came to an unexpected end when the Oxford shell became waterlogged and swamped. The crew were forced to jump and swim for shore. Photo shows the shell partly submerged just before the oarsmen took to the water.

London. — The custom of driving pigs, sheep and cattle through the streets, a practice begun centuries ago when London was but a village is still being carried on. However, it is seldom that the public generally witnesses this sight as the work is done during the early hours of the morning.

A herd of cattle, delayed on its way to the market, got into a traffic jam recently in Holborn, one of the city's main thoroughfares, and extra policemen had to be called to assist the drivers in their task of getting the animals started again. The present day city regulations provide that live stock can be driven through the streets only between the hours of mid night and five in the morning.

LOS ANGELES HOTELS MOVE TO OUST CHAIR SUATERS

Los Angeles. — The lod variety of young man-about-town who finds it convenient to while away the hours in a comfortable lobby chair in a fashionable hotel, whose rates preclude his permanent residence there has been forgotten temporarily by hotel detectives in Los Angeles. They have come to center their attention on the "squatter."

Squatters usually are tourists who come to Los Angeles, take an inexpensive room and join the cafeteria lines, but every afternoon and evening go to a smart hotel, clad in their best garments. They settle into chairs, where they have a good view of the passing pageant, and there they tarry, hour after hour, while the hotel guests and their friends are often crowded out.

"Some of the sitters have favorite chairs and get angry if they find some one ahead of them," said a hotel house man. "It's all a free show, and the idea that hotel guests are forced to stand means nothing to them."

Therefore little printed cards have been added to the equipment of the house detectives. When an unmistakable squatter becomes too regular, he is courteously handed this token from the management. After reading it he usually moves on.

MYSTERIOUS BRONZE CANNON SALVAGED BY PACIFIC DIVER

Seattle. — A small bronze muzzle-loading cannon has been recovered from Nesh Bay at the ocean entrance of the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

The origin of the find is a mystery. State historians advance the theory that the weapon is a relic of a Spanish occupation in 1790-1792, when a small band of wreck survivors lived in an improvised fort above the bay. The cannon was recovered by W. S. Benjamin, a diver of Seattle, who was working on a sunken Japanese ship. The gun bears a design indicating man in armor, carrying a bow in his right hand and an arrow in his left. Over his right shoulder a star is discernible.

Progress Visits Melilla. Melilla, Morocco. — This city, which has been in the hands of the Spaniards over 400 years, is about to be provided for the first time in its history with a public water supply. Gangs of workers are now engaged in laying cement pipes to bring the water from Yashinen and it is hoped that within a short time the municipal authorities will be able to furnish the inhabitants with sufficient water for drinking and hygienic purposes.

AN OPPORTUNITY

Now that spring appears to have rather definitely made up its mind to take up its abode in this favored land, it is not out of place to remind the motoring tribe, that it is the worst of bad manners and folly besides to rip flowering shrubs of their blossoms and tear up wildflowers by the roots. The man or woman who goes out into the country and denudes a dogwood or redbud bush of its blossoms is a vandal, and it makes no difference whether the fact is recognized or not. The people who live in the country have very definite rights and they should be respected just as scrupulously as though there were policemen on every hand to guard. It may help for the city man or woman to imagine for a moment that conditions were reversed. Suppose a vast aggregation of folks from the country decided to drive into town next Sunday afternoon and while here innocently collected from front lawns a large quantity of flowers. It is easy to conceive that the howl which would arise would reach the heavens and that arrests would be made and all that. Is it any better for the city man to tie himself into the country and make free with the farmer's dogwoods? Not a bit of it. The damage done to property is very real, too, when hundreds and thousands of people are pulling and plucking and grubbing, and the natural beauty of a lovely countryside is most seriously damaged. Many rare varieties of wildflowers have been almost exterminated in many sections of the country because folks did not think it would hurt for them to tear up a handful. It is also true that wild plants and flowers fade long before one can return to the city with them. In the name of fairness and justice, have a heart and take it out in-looking this spring.

It has always been said that the rod and reel is a sure cure for spring fever but apparently the golf ball and club cure is becoming popular with the Greenvillians.

Tomorrow marks a grand rush for last minute shoppers and on Sunday, weather permitting, the annual style show takes place.

U. S. EDUCATORS AIM TO HELP SCHOOLS OF PHILIPPINE ISLANDS

Manila. — The commission of nine educators who have come here from the United States to make a survey of the educational system of the Philippine Islands, expects to assemble facts and not to outline policies, according to a statement made by Dr. Paul Monroe, of Columbia University, chairman of the commission. "We have come to survey the educational system of the Philippines," said Dr. Monroe. "We shall attempt to ascertain how much it costs per capita to send a child through the seventh grade and how much through high school, and compare this cost with that in the United States and other countries. We shall lay these facts before educational authorities, but we shall not attempt to say whether the appropriations for education should be increased or diminished. That will be up to the local legislative authorities. We have not come to criticize, but to help the islands in educational work."

NATION'S GOLFERS WATCH CAREER OF MAUREEN ORCUTT

New York. — For women's national golf champion in the near future New Jersey presents a seventeen-year-old high school girl who, for the lack of competition in her own sex, often plays with men and defeats them.

The first thing the gallery at a tournament notices when Miss Maureen Orcutt is on the first tee is her hopped blonde locks, tied with a ribbon of flaming red or other hue. Then the distance that ball goes overshadows all other considerations. Her hitting is amazing, and has been so since she started to play the game as a little girl.

At the woman's national tournament at the Hollywood Golf Club, Deal, N. J., four years ago, a mite of an entrant who wore half-hose and skirts the shortness of which was determined by her size and age, and not by fashion, stepped up to the first tee in the qualifying round and caused a chorus of surprised "ahs" when she smashed the ball 225 yards, a good drive for any golfer without regard to sex or age. That was Maureen. A storm came up shortly after that drive and helped to run her score up to 119, which failed to qualify.

Miss Orcutt has had much experience and her share of victories since then, having won the woman's state championship last year. When there is no woman's tournament for her to enter, however, usually the only worthy opponents she can find are male members of the White Beeches Club at Haworth, N. J. The men welcome her as a competitor in all the club fixtures, and in the club championship last fall she was runner up, forcing the male victor to do a 74 while she took 79 on the difficult course, which measures 6,496 yards.

Many good woman golfers have difficulty with their irons, not having the firmness of wrist essential for a crisp and successful shot. Not so Maureen. The length she gets with irons would not be at all bad for a professional. The mashie iron is her favorite. Often she has reached a green more than 400 yards from the tee with a drive and an iron. When her short game becomes as good as her long game, experts say, she should be unbeatable. "Mother Orcutt is a golfer, or rather was before she helped teach the art to Maureen. Mrs. Orcutt just had been runner up in the club woman's championship of her sex when she and Maureen played an honest-to-goodness match. Maureen won. Then mother gave up the game, except for chaperoning Maureen to tournaments, supervising her practice and reminding her, if she is beaten, that she is young and another year is coming. Miss Orcutt, in her short tournament career, has won the junior title of the New York Metropolitan district twice, and she has qualified twice in the women's national tournament. When the snow covers the fairways at White Beeches Miss Orcutt helps develop her wrists by throwing a basketball as a member of the high school girls' team at Englewood.

PRESS CLUB TO CARE FOR TOMB OF E. A. POE

Baltimore.—The tomb of Edgar Allan Poe in the graveyard of Westminster church here has been placed in the care of the Baltimore Press Club.

The grave had been neglected of late because the Edgar Allan Poe Association, which had been caring for it, was without funds. An offer by the Press Club to maintain the tomb as a literary shrine was accepted, and a transfer of obligations made by the Presbyterian committee of Baltimore, owners of the burying ground.

EIGHT-INCH STEEL PLATES TO REVEAL INNER SECRETS

London.—It will be possible, in the near future by the aid of the X-ray, to see through steel eight inches thick Professor Pullin, director of the Radiological Research department at Woolwich Government arsenal, predicted in a recent address before the Royal Society.

It is an easy matter at present by the use of the X-ray to penetrate pieces of steel three inches in thickness. Professor Pullin asserted, but what is sought by scientists is an apparatus to enable them to examine in to castings ten or twelve inches through. This is desired so that flaws may be detected in castings, and to avoid serious danger to workmen's lives.

CARELESS OFFICIAL CREATES CONSTERNATION AMONG BRIDES

Naples.—All of the marriage licenses and marriage, birth and death certificates issued during a recent period of several weeks by one of the district mayoralties of this municipality were rendered illegal by the disappearance of vice mayor Troise, who had neglected to sign the papers which would have legalized the documents.

The fact that 500,000 lire disappeared with Troise makes it seem unlikely that he will return, and now the authorities are searching for a method of making legal all of the irregular demises, illegitimate births and automatic divorces the careless official left behind him.
