One of Pitt County's Oldest Citizens Dies After Long Illness; Interment Took Place Today

Mrs. Nannie E. Smith died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. J. Turnage in Farmville last night after an illness of several months. Funeral services were conducted from her late home this afternoon by the Rev. Mr. Walters, interment following in the family burying ground.

RUSSIA REFUSES TO PARTICIPATE IN ARMS CONFERENCE

Refusal Contained in Stiffly Worded Telegram; Opinion Regarding Effect of Decision Seems Divided

Gineva, April 20.—Soviet Russia has refused to participate in the forthcoming conference on control of the Traffic in Arms. The refusal was contained in a stiffly worded telegram from Foreign Minister Tchitcherine, pointing out that the Soviet Government had repeatedly proclaimed its negative attitude towards the League Nations as at present organized.

Referring to the invitation to attend the Arms League Conference, the Soviet Foreign Minister said: "In the present case the Soviet Government finds it impossible to collaborate with the League in the study of the question which implies interference of the League of Nations in internal affairs in the Republic."

Opinion seems divided here regarding the effect of Russia's absence at the coming conference, some holding that it will greatly weaken the forces of the convention to be adopted, and others express the opinion that the effect will be negligible, as the Moscow Government does little in the way of Arms Exportation.

EXCHANGERATESVEX AMERICAN EMPLOYEES FOREIGN COUNTRIES

New York. — The American dollar in some parts of the world is not always good. The National Foreign Trade Council reports this is particularly true in the majority of "silver" countries of the Far East.

The council says that the ups and downs in foreign exchange there, the ratio between what money of one country brings in money of another, work a hardship on resident Americans who cannot figure family budgets with a reasonable degree of certainty. They will never quite know just what they will get when they convert their American dollars into coin of the local realm.

Employees in foreign service of American export corporations have been the hardest hit, the council says. Each month, when they come to cash the otherwise welcome pay check, home offices send out in some form of dollars, they find it a gamble whether they win or lose. The chance of profit is discounted by the corresponding risk of loss. American export houses are accordingly taking up the problem in hope of evolving some method of paying foreign salaries which will eliminate the present hazard.

The situation was first brought officially to the council's attention by an American corporation having a large branch in Singapore, Straits Settlements. The concern paid its employees there in drafts against the American dollar, issued in the form of a revolving letter of credit.

Recent strength in sterling exchange, however, was reflected by sympathetic strength in the Straits dollar, with the result that the number of Straits dollars realized by he employees in selling their drafts in American dollars dropped perceptibly.

The council started investigation to see whether others had found any way to circumvent this difficulty. Under the method used for U. S. government employees, the treasury department fixes a definite exchange rate for three months periods. The government worker is paid under this rate, with the option of accepting payment in either silver or gold.

If the Singapore, for example, the exchange rate for American dollars was down, he took gold; protecting himself against a loss. If dollars were up, he took silver, and netted a profit.

A rate so fixed, however the council found, comes only within 90 days of accuracy. Furthermore it caused the government itself to take quite a loss, more than would probably be desirable in a commercial enterprise.

The council then canvassed leading manufacturing exporters in steel, oil, construction and electrical goods. There was no uniformity in their practice.

One paid its men in actual currency of the country. Another paid at an arbitrary rate of 36.5-8 gold cents to the Straits dollar, regardless of fluctuation. A third paid on the basis of American gold; the employee could not win, but he could not lose. The fourth made up any loss the employee suffered in adverse exchange, provided this loss was not compensated for by some equivalent reduction in the cost of living.

CHURCH OF MANY WEDDINGS CELEBRATES ITS FOUNDING

London. — London's fashionable church, St. George's Hanover Square, celebrated its bicentenary recently with a special series of services. Often called "St. Cupid's Church" in the latter part of the last century, St. George's is still popular for fashionable weddings, and second only to St. Margaret's, Westminster.

Sixty years ago as many as 1,000 weddings occurred each year at St. George's, but during the last 50 years the average has been about 300. Included among the latter was that of Theodore Roosevelt, who described himself in the register as a "ranchman" when he walked over from Brown's hotel in a bowler hat to be married to Edith Kermit Carew.

The registers are rich in signatures of other prominent men, as well as royalties. The signatures of King Edward and Queen Alexandra, along side those of the present king and queen, are recorded against the wedding of a member of the Gostford family. The signatures of four prime ministers of England also are there, inscribed at the wedding of Henry Asquith, now Lord Oxford, to his present wife. They are Lord Roseberry, William Ewart Gladstone, Henry Asquith and Arthur Balfour, now Lord Balfour.

Officials of the church assert that

Stops Plane

M. Fokker, famous Dutch wireless inventor, has perfected an airplane, which he has exhibited in England, which will not go into a nose dive when the engine stalls, but which gradually and slowly settles to earth without the controls being touched by the pilot.

Kodak Head

E. G. Stuber, of the Eastman Kodak Company, of Rochester, N. Y., has succeeded George Eastman, millionaire head of the concern, as president and general manager. Eastman is seventy-one years old and is gradually retiring from active management. He will become chairman of the board of directors of the company.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

CAN'T HURRY IN CONGESTED TRAFFIC

When you try to go fast in congested traffic you are really gaining nothing according to a series of tests made by scouts of the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California through the congested districts of Los Angeles.

These demonstrated that it is extremely doubtful if the time saved by hurrying and exceeding the speed limit pays for the extra gasoline and the brake lining worn by drivers trying to cut down time.

Do you allow pasters of one kind or another to be attached to the windshield of your car? It is a dangerous practice.

The practice of "heading" a motor car into a parking space, regardless of its size, and leaving it there, forcing traffic to turn out for the rear end, is one that should be discouraged.

In parking always assume that there may come a time when the man ahead or the man behind may want to move his car. Give him plenty of room.

The Automobile Trade Journal has been telling its readers of the possible uses of arcades and overpasses as a means of reducing traffic congestion.

Highway illumination is becoming more and more of importance. Adequate highway illumination is a real safety measure.

if all the couples who have been married at the famous old edifice during the past 40 years had been present at the bicentenary services, the congregation would have numbered about 12,000.

Swiss Flock to California.

Berne. — Emigration to America is employing many an Alpine village and district in the canton of Ticino, Switzerland. In some places only the young and the aged are left, all the workpeople having gone to the United States, especially California. Out of 66 young men called to the colors to perform their military service in this canton, only five could be found; all the others had emigrated.

GOLDEN RULE IS WORKING

There has never been a time when the newspapers have played a more important part in the upbuilding of community life and business conditions than they have in the past two years and today their power for good is being felt in a way that will mean much in community development. In other words, we have reached the time now when all elements are pulling together, when not only petty jealousies that have hampered the growth of small communities have been set aside but when animosity and bickering between cities have been wiped out almost entirely, and one town today is only too glad to help another.—Southern California Business, Los Angeles.

UNNECESSARY FIRES

Owing to the number of fires caused by the practice of placing pennies or other conductors back of burned out electric fuses, Stacey W. Wade, Insurance Commissioner, has called attention to the dangers of such a practice adding that it is due to ignorance on the part of the public to the fact that the fuse is a safety device against fires from electricity. In his statement he explains the proper use of the fuse and urges the public to refrain from the practice of placing pennies or other objects behind fuse plugs.

The statement in part says:

"An electric current, flowing over a wire, creates practically no heat unless its progress meets with resistance in making it do some useful thing, such as lighting a lamp, operating a sewing machine, turning motor or other appliance. This creates energy or heat, not only at the point of use but all along the wires back of it.

"To prevent overloading or heating of wires to a point where fire or other damage might result, a fuse is placed on the line. The blowing of the fuse is neither a catastrophe nor a penalty. It is merely a friendly warning of an attempt to use more electricity than is good for the wires. The fuse blows out only when there might be trouble — and after it has blown out there can be no trouble. The blowing of a fuse is simply the operation of a safety device.

"The fuse is made of a metal alloy which will melt when there is an overload of electricity or if there is trouble, such as a short circuit on the line. The amateur's effort to restore the flow of current by replacing the fuse with a solid conductor which will not melt, is therefore the cause of much trouble and in many cases disastrous fires."

"From the foregoing explanation it will be readily seen that when a fuse is blown or burnt out the safety device as well as the current conductor has been destroyed.

"If a penny or any other solid metal is used to restore the conducting property of the line in place of the fuse, it fails to replace the safety device and trouble may be expected. The penny will not melt or 'blow out.' You have eliminated your safety 'valve.'"

"So my advice to home-owners and others who have such matters to contend with is to watch those little fuse plugs for they are a mighty good form of fire insurance; and don't try to repair or mend them with pennies or anything else. Your house and furniture are more expensive than new fuses; in fact, many of the electric light companies gladly give their customers new fuses free of charge."

NOTES ON TARHEELIA

Article 13, Chapter 56 of the Consolidated Statutes of North Carolina, provides for a Municipal Board of Control, composed of the Attorney General, chairman; the Secretary of State and the chairman of the Corporation Commission. This board was created to "hear petitions for incorporation of municipalities; to determine if requirements of law have been fulfilled by the petitioners, and that the facts stated are true," etc.

The North Carolina Law Library was created by an act of the General Assembly of 1833.

The State's Prison was established in 1868. The value of its building is $1,225,000. The prison owns 7,300 acres of land.

The Caswell Training School at Kinston, established in 1911.

There are twelve street railway systems in North Carolina with approximately $10,000,000 invested capital and 155 miles of road.

North Carolina has 129 telephone companies operating 295 exchanges, with 115,030 telephones and 26,000 miles of wire. The companies reported an investment of approximately $10,000,000.

In 1933 the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad Company, now a part of the Seaboard Air Line, was chartered. That same year the Wilmington and Weldon Railroad Company, now a part of the Coast Line system was also chartered.

Extraordinary, or special, sessions of the General Assembly of North Carolina may be called by the Governor, "by and with the advice of the Council of State."

R. A. Doughton, State Commissioner of Revenue, was Lieutenant Governor from 1893-1897, serving with the late Governor Carr. He has represented his county, Ashe, in the General Assembly eleven terms. He was a member of the General Assembly of 1921, when appointed to his present position by former Governor Morrison.

Tuesday Night is Greenville Night at Pythian Meeting

Beginning with tonight the Pythians in Eastern Carolina are staging what is called a "week of fun" in Rocky Mount at Finner's Warehouse, the Palace of fun. All over the eastern part of the state it has been advertised that Greenville is the place to go for a "week of fun." O. K. K. Club is to furnish the amusement for Tuesday night. Have you ever known Greenville to fail? Well, I should say not, and they have the real stuff for Tuesday night. The boys who have been working so hard to make a good showing in Rocky Mount need a bit of encouragement from Greenville. Are you going to be there to give them a cheer, are you going to support them and aid them to win the prize for putting on the best show of any of the lodges? Of course they have the best show but you want to have a part in helping them to win, then be there Tuesday night, howl your head off. Let people know you are from the best town in the world, keep Greenville on the map and at the top. Come on, get behind a real live organization in your town and show them that you appreciate what they are doing.

Pythians, a few of your mates have been working night and day to make a big hit in Rocky Mount and with the whole eastern part of the state, they have something new and it is a howl, something interesting for a real fun lover, you are expected to be there to a man. Don't forget the time and place, Tuesday night, Finner's Warehouse, better known as the Palace of Fun, Rocky Mount, N. C.
