CLARK WINS FOR FOURTH SUCCESSIVE TIME AS MAYOR OF GREENVILLE

ELECTION RESULTS. FOR MAYOR: Clark 518, Laughinghouse 89. ALDERMEN FIRST WARD: Smith 73, Fleming 20. ALDERMEN SECOND WARD: Clark (no opposition) 119. ALDERMEN THIRD WARD: Sellers 111, Goodson 45. ALDERMEN FOURTH WARD: F. J. Forbes (no opposition) 57. ALDERMEN FIFTH WARD: Carr 91, Dees 90. Total vote cast 604.

D. M. Clark was re-elected yesterday for the fourth successive time as Mayor of Greenville.

With a lead of more than six to one of the total vote cast Mayor D. M. Clark, was renominated for the fourth successive time for mayor over Captain J. J. Laughinghouse, at the municipal primary election yesterday. The total vote cast was 604, Clark received 518, Laughinghouse 86.

The closest contest was in the race between Dr. R. L. Carr and J. E. Dees, candidates for aldermen, Fifth Ward. Carr won by a vote of one. The vote was: Carr, 91, Dees 90. In the First Ward John I. Smith won out over V. C. Fleming by a vote of 73 to 20. In the Third Ward, R. E. Sellers won out over P. L. Goodson by a vote of 111 to 45.

There was no opposition to G. A. Clark, Second Ward, and F. J. Forbes, Fourth Ward. The vote was one of the smallest ever cast in a city election. The women manifested much interest with a large number of them visiting the polls during the day. Mayor Clark and other successful members of the ticket are receiving felicitations from many quarters.

Second Maneuver Change Method Frt. Rate Hearing Fails

Richmond, Va., May 5. — North Carolina's second maneuver to change the method of procedure and shorten the presentation of the Virginia Corporation Committees lengthy exhibits in freight rate hearing here today fell before examiner, Carter's ruling that the evidence was being properly presented and the counsel for Virginia went into the second day's reading from the ponderous volume. It was believed that two more days will be consumed in the reading of the exhibits though indications were that individual Virginia shippers would take the stand late today to begin substantiation of the Virginia Corporations charging that inter-state rates between Virginia and North Carolina points were unjust and discriminatory. Mason Maughum, Commerce Counsel for Virginia Commission conferred with shippers during the noon recess and also formulated the procedure of his case with the idea of backing up every discriminatory charge with testimony of actual shipments.

Mellon Addresses Members Mississippi Bankers Association

Jackson, Miss., May 5. — "A lowering of the maximum surtax rate and a radical reduction in rate, or the elimination of the Federal Estate Tax," in all probability will be recommended to the House Ways and Means Committee by the Treasury next Fall, Secretary Mellon today declared in an address before members of the Mississippi Bankers Association. The Secretary said that while it would not be appropriate for him to set forward "a definite program" until the Treasury makes its recommendations to the committee in the light of incomes then available, "he felt sure" that the margin of surplus would be ample for this reform. "The levy of an income tax at proper rates is a fair and economically one for purposes of raising the immense amount required for the operations of the government," Secretary Mellon asserted, "but the tax must be levied at rates so high as to hamper business, slacken initiative, distort investment and encourage avoidance of the tax."

DECLARES HELP FROM AMERICA DEPENDS ON PEACE

New Ambassador Houghton Makes Speech at Pilgrims Dinner in London. While Ambassador Houghton spoke on his own responsibility in his address at London at the Pilgrims Dinner, President Coolidge is very hopeful that the Ambassador's interpretation of American attitude toward Europe will be helpful to European Statesmen and People.

Washington, May 5.—A new press comment from Europe on Ambassador Houghton's Pilgrims Dinner speech in London, was too meagre to give a clear picture of the reaction that will be recorded to the blunt warning the address contained that American helpfulness is available only to a Europe bent on peaceful solutions of its problems. British editorial reaction made it clear, however, that the significance of the new Ambassador's utterance had not been lost, and that it was accepted as virtually a direct statement of the attitude of President Coolidge that could be applied in forecasting the Washington view point on any political development in Europe.

It was noted that Mr. Houghton was careful to make his statement so general and exclusive that it left little room for resentment in any European country, unless that country was prepared to admit openly that it was following a militaristic policy, and was not concerned with the peaceful economic rebuilding of commercial relationship, which the Ambassador said could be the only foundation for American aid in Europe's recuperation. His statement is of the most significance since the assistance from this side of the Atlantic, to which he could have had reference of in the nature of private loans, was brought to the government and commercial and industrial concerns.

The Washington government exercises a compelling influence on American financial circles in the making of such loans even if it has no actual authority to supervise them. It was brought out officially recently that the American Finance Group has entered into a loan agreement in recent years if the government indicated its belief that the transaction was not to the public interest.

Dutch Colony to be Oil Base. The Hague. — The budget estimates of the Dutch colony of Curacao for 1925 are accompanied with an official memorial of projects designed to make Willemstad an important world port. It is proposed to erect a mammoth oil refinery on the Caribbean island and to make the port one of the largest fuel oil bases in the world.

LOCAL ROTARIANS INSTALL OFFICERS ON MONDAY NIGHT

Rotarian Henry R. Brown, of Greenville, Tenn., Presents Club Beautiful Rotary Gong

Last night was the beginning of a new year for the Greenville Rotary Club marked by the installation of new officers which included D. L. Turnage, President; W. H. Hall, Vice President; C. L. Outland, Secretary; and F. T. Anthony Treasurer, together with a new board of directors. At the beginning of the installation ceremony the retiring president, H. H. Wright, presented to the club a beautiful Rotary gong the gift of Rotarian Henry R. Brown, of Greenville, Tenn.

The retiring president in fitting words then turned over the gavel to his successor with a charge to him to see that Rotary is carried on and urging the members to stand behind the president in his undertakings. President Turnage in a short address thanked the club for the honor bestowed upon him and promised with the help of the members to make this year one of achievement. Following his address the new president appointed the various committees to carry on the work of the club during the year.

At the conclusion of the installation John Wilcox, of the Boy's Work Committee, made a report on the Greenville-Washington cross country race, which was the outstanding athletic event of National Boys' Week. The event, he said, will be made an annual affair between the high schools of the two cities and a committee to draft regulations under which the future events are to be held was appointed. J. H. Rose, on behalf of the city schools, invited the Rotary Club to be present in a body and take part in the exercises at the laying of the cornerstone of the new junior high school building tomorrow at noon. The president accepted the invitation on behalf of the club and the members will be on hand for the exercises.

'Ham and Bacon' Show To Be Held at State Fair During October

Raleigh, May 5.—To encourage the raising of more and better meat at home, a "Ham and Bacon" show will be held at the North Carolina State Fair during the week of October 12, it was announced today by L. H. McKay of the Animal Industry Division of the State College.

Mr. McKay said that prizes of about $38 would be offered for the best hams, of $28 for the best shoulders and $28 for the best sides of bacon. The first prize for the hams is $12 and for the best shoulders and bacon $10.

Mr. McKay stated that the contest would be limited to meat cured on the farms of North Carolina and that exhibitors would be required to furnish their recipes for curing meat and to explain how the work was done. Each piece of meat, he said, must be cut and examined carefully and a small sample will be sampled to test its quality. The meat can either be sold or returned, according to the wishes of the exhibitor.

"We will give preference to hams weighing between 10 and 25 pounds," said Mr. McKay, "and to bacon that is without ribs or fat back. The judging will be based on 80 per cent for cure and quality and 20 per cent on sizes and trim. We expect to have the co-operation of the farm and home agents in this matter and to hold one of the most successful shows ever attempted in the South."

OPPONENTS OF LIQUOR IN MEXICO ADOPT THE AMERICAN PROPAGANDA

Mexico City.—Joining forces with the Mexican Confederation of Labor in its campaign against alcoholism, the federal department of health will aid the confederation's dry missionaries with a flood of literature depicting the evil consequences of associating with John Barleycorn, known in Mexico as Juan Pulque.

Propaganda successfully used in the United States and other foreign countries has been adapted by the department to Mexico's special requirements. The legal bureau of the department also is engaged in drafting projects for anti-liquor legislation, mainly of a restrictive, not prohibitive character.

CORNERSTONE OF NEW HIGH SCHOOL BE LAID WEDNESDAY

The cornerstone of the new High School building will be laid tomorrow, Wednesday at noon. The general public is invited. The High School student body, and more particularly, the Senior class will have charge of the ceremony. There will be a short exercise in the High School auditorium followed by the actual placing of the stone. In the stone, sealed in a copper box, will be placed several things which will be of interest to people generations from now, whenever the building comes down. The members of the School Board will be present, and there will be short talks from some of them, particularly Mr. Little, the chairman of the present board, and who has served on the board since the formation of the school system. The band of the High School will also be present and will give a couple of selections. The program will be concluded with band playing The Star Spangled Banner.

High School Student Body to Have Charge of Ceremony Which Will Take Place at Noon

The building now being erected is the second of the High School plant. The first was built in 1915. There is still another unit to be built, and will be placed between the two buildings. The third building will contain an auditorium adequate to meet the needs of the town and a gymnasium. It is also planned to face the completed plant towards Fifth street and the ravine. The ravine will be beautified, flowers, shrubs, and grass planted, and walks laid out. Thus Greenville will ultimately have one of the most beautiful, as well as one of the most up-to-date High School plants to be found anywhere. The building which is now going up will be completed in time for the opening of school in September. The building in West Greenville will also be completed in time for the opening of the next session.

FLEET LEAVES TO SWEEP LIQUOR OFF ATLANTIC SEABOARD

Six of the Dry Navy's Speeding Cutters Lead the Forces; Secrecy Marks the Departure. New York, May 5.—Twenty-one boats of the United States Coast Guard steamed out of Clifton Bay Staten Island base this morning bound for rum row to open an offensive, which will seek to sweep the liquor matter off the Atlantic Seaboard by June 15.

Six of the dry navy's speeding cutters lead the forces. Behind them were fifteen smaller craft, converted submarine chasers, and patrol boats, all literally sprinkled with guns and most of them capable of high speed.

Secrecy marked the departure, and it was not known what ships were to be taken in the war of extermination. Although Captain William V. Edward Jacobs, in charge of the coast guard for the New York District, announced yesterday "that the time has come" for stricter measures against the rum fleets off the coasts at various points from Connecticut to South New Jersey, Captain Jacobs said, however, that he had neither received nor given orders to his men "to shoot to kill."

It was understood that one of the plans will be to post one or more boats of the augmented fleet to watch each ship on the rum row, every hour, thus making it impossible for any shore boats to take off any cargoes, or bring out provisions or water. Captain Jacobs announced yesterday that more than 50 craft ultimately would be engaged in the blockade.

A general shakeup among the three hundred coast guards attached to base No. 2 at Clifton Bay preceded the opening to back the offensive, it was learned yesterday. Captain John I. Bryan, in command going up will be completed in time for the opening of school in September. The building in West Greenville will also be completed in time for the opening of the next session.

Of the 15 men recently arrested, 15 of them are said to still be in prison, awaiting Naval Court Martial. Three others are said to have undergone court martial yesterday. The commanding officers refused to discuss the charges.

REPORT OF WOMAN'S CLUB SHOWS MOST SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Submitted by Mrs. E. W. Harvey, Secretary, to the 13th District Federated Women's Clubs

The following report of work accomplished by the Woman's Club of Greenville has been submitted by Mrs. E. W. Harvey, to the 13th District Federated Women's Clubs: "The Woman's Club of Greenville has had a most successful year. Last fall we organized into departments and each department has accomplished much good. In October we had a big get-together meeting with 200 guests present. We open our monthly meetings with the collect of the Federated Clubs. We have ordered song books and have singing at each meeting. We have Federation song at each meeting.

This club has co-operated with the health officer, contributed to the Indigent Hospital Fund, responded to the calls of the Welfare Officer, met the pledges of the club. We sold a number of Mrs. Cotten's Little story books. The club has a committee to assist in the community work at the mill. There is also a legislative committee who keeps in touch with our legislators. We are trying to secure more children's pictures and have a committee to confer with the manager of the theatre for the purpose of having better pictures for our children.

The main work of this year has been the care of the Library. We have a paid librarian and for this month we have made some money every month. We are indebted to Horne Staten Drug Store for giving us his store one afternoon each month to sell cakes, candy, etc., and also for half the proceeds from drinks that afternoon. Our Library committee observed Book Week, also had Mrs. Griggs, from Library commission to come to club and give a helpful talk.

The cemetery committee has accomplished great work. They employed an all time keeper and our cemetery can now be found in a good condition. The Civics Department observed Arbor Day by planting Crepe Myrtle trees on the court house square, also decorated a float for Armistice Day. This department secured homes for and placed the teachers for the Teacher's Assembly which met in November.

The Health Department held several Baby Clinics, sold $200 worth tubercular seals, brought to the club Mr. H. E. Miller from the State Board of Health, who gave a talk on grading milk.

The club has a special treasurer for the "Tubercular Seal Money." This person looks after tubercular patients and disburses all funds. The Fine Arts Department has on a Music Memory Contest in the schools. This has created great interest for music among the pupils and even the parents have learned to pronounce some of the composer's names. This department held an Art Exhibit with an art program in connection, also there was one McDowell program. One meeting was devoted entirely to poetry and music.

The Home Economics Department has been most active. In Jan. there was a class in hat-making by Miss Pauline Smith lasting two days. In February for one day this department was at home to the ladies of Pitt county and Miss Smith made a helpful talk. Miss Wallace, from the State Department spent last week in February in Pitt county, and gave demonstrations and meetings throughout the county. In March Miss Fladoca from the Gold Medal Flour Co. visited Greenville and gave

Trial of Cases Will Get Underway at Opening of Court Wednesday; Jury to Be Chosen From Special Panel of 200 Men

Williamston, May 5. — Martin county Superior Court in its special session here to try Joseph Needleman, charged with an attack and alleged members of a band of men, who removed him from jail and mutilated him, adjourned today after a short session. Trial of the cases will get under way at the opening of court tomorrow, when a jury will be chosen from a special panel of 200 men ordered to report for jury duty.

A report which gained wide circulation here today to the effect that the case against Needleman would not be pressed, and might even be nolle-prossed, could not be confirmed. Attorneys for the state and prosecution declined to comment on the report or to indicate any possible course of action to be followed in the handling of the case. It was admitted, however, that the main issue at the trials will be the charges against the eight men indicted for mutilating Needleman, and on this point it was said the state intended to center its legal battle.

Williamston, May 5.—With Jos. Needleman indicted on a charge of attacking a young white girl, eight other men on a charge of mutilating Needleman, and twenty-four others as accessories before the fact of mutilation, the Superior Court of Martin County today was marking time awaiting the scheduled appearance this afternoon of a special venire of two hundred men from whom an effort will be made to get a jury to try the cases.

Four of the eight men indicted on the mutilation charge spent the night in jail, while others were released on bond. Claro Heath, one of those facing this charge will go on trial tomorrow morning and will be the first of the defendants to face the jury. Needleman, against whom the most serious charge has been placed, was held in jail in Washington last night. No definite time had been determined for his trial, but it was indicated that he would not be tried until the court had disposed of the charges against those who were alleged to have been members of the mob which removed him from the Martin county jail, and subsequently performed the operation upon him.

The legal fight, it appeared today, would center around those charged with the mutilation. A strong array of counsel was on hand to defend the men, and the state also had reinforced its legal forces preparatory to the opening of the trial tomorrow. All but three of those charged with being accessories before the fact pleaded guilty yesterday to the charges, or entered pleas of Nolo Contendere. Sentences will not be passed until after the trial of the three resisting the charges. However, it was stated that a number of those pleading guilty would be used as state's witnesses.

None of those charged with mutilation have pleaded guilty, though some of those charged with mutilation and accessories before the fact pleaded guilty to the latter charge, they have maintained their innocence of the former indictment. The mutilation charge carries a maximum penalty of 99 years in the penitentiary.

McLawn, Smith and Blount Given Preliminary Hearing

Elmer McLawn, charged with the murder of Mack Brown, negro, of the Ayden section and Jack Blount and Dewitt Smith, charged with aiding and abetting were given a preliminary hearing today and bound over to the August term of criminal court with McLawn's bond being placed at $1000, and Blount and Smith's bond at $500. All defendants gave bond.

words, has fallen faster than the birth rate. The death rate has been persistently low during the last decade except in the last half of 1919, the first half of 1920, and the first half of 1921. This low death rate has been responsible to no small degree of the rapid gain in population.

The gainfully occupied constitute about 38 per cent of the population, the remaining 62 per cent being almost equally divided between children and adults. The proportion of the population gainfully occupied increased noticeably during the war period, but had returned by 1924 to approximately the same percentage as that prevailing in 1909.

CATTLE TURN GLADLY TO SUNFLOWER SILAGE

Edmonton, Alta.—Despised as a worthless weed a few years ago, sunflowers have developed into an important silage crop in western Canada, according to a bulletin of the department of agriculture.

Alberta produced a sunflower crop of nearly 200,000 tons last year the largest output yet recorded. Two dollars a ton was the estimated cost of all production. Considering the high food value of the crop, the bulletin declared it to be the cheapest silage or fodder crop ever raised.

Development of the crop is due to the expansion of the dairy industry, said the bulletin. The gospel of the sunflower was first preached by experts. Many farmers sowed small fields to the plant. The experiment was successful. From 20 to 25 tons an acre can be expected from sunflower and, as they are succulent, they are found to be palatable, the bulletin asserted.

The natural increase of population through excess of births over deaths was four times the amount added by net immigration in 1924, the bureau's figures declare.

In 1924 net immigration was 315,000, while births are estimated at 2,045,000 and deaths at 1,333,000.

Since 1911 the number of deaths has tended to remain constant, while birth has increased by nearly 11 per cent and the population has grown by some 21 per cent.

Of the total population, 38 out of every hundred persons are engaged in some gainful occupation, that is working for a direct money income. This study of population growth was made by Dr. Willford I. King, of the bureau's research staff, as a part of the bureau's general and continuing investigation of income in the United States and its changes from year to year.

The greatest percentage growth, according to the figures of the bureau, took place in 1909 and the smallest in 1918, a year of war and of influenza epidemic. The year 1923 shows one of the peaks of the period, while 1924 is slightly below the average, the change from 1923 being due to the falling off in immigration.

Estimates made by Dr. King indicate that, during the 16 years, there occurred in the United States more than 41,000,000 births and approximately 22,000,000 deaths. It appears, therefore, that the gain in population from excess of births over death was something over 19,000,000, or more than three times the increase in population due to immigration. The chief cause of increase in population in the United States, therefore, the bureau says, is not migration but rather the fact that more people are born than die.

The number of births since 1909 has been a little less than double the number of deaths, but the figures indicate that, during the last five years, the ratio of births to deaths has almost reached 2 to 1. This ratio has changed materially since 1911, a year which was about normal. In that year the number of births was apparently some 2,380,000, while the number of deaths was about 1,228,000. In 1924, 13 years later, the number of births appear to have increased by more than 250,000, while the number of deaths was approximately unchanged. Since 1911 the number of deaths has tended to remain constant, while births have increased by nearly 11 per cent and the population has grown by some 21 per cent. The death rate, in other

In 1924, 13 years later, the number of births appear to have increased by more than 250,000, while the number of deaths was approximately unchanged. Since 1911 the number of deaths has tended to remain constant, while births have increased by nearly 11 per cent and the population has grown by some 21 per cent. The death rate, in other

of the total population, 38 out of every hundred persons are engaged in some gainful occupation, that is working for a direct money income. This study of population growth was made by Dr. Willford I. King, of the bureau's research staff, as a part of the bureau's general and continuing investigation of income in the United States and its changes from year to year.

The greatest percentage growth, according to the figures of the bureau, took place in 1909 and the smallest in 1918, a year of war and of influenza epidemic. The year 1923 shows one of the peaks of the period, while 1924 is slightly below the average, the change from 1923 being due to the falling off in immigration.

Estimates made by Dr. King indicate that, during the 16 years, there occurred in the United States more than 41,000,000 births and approximately 22,000,000 deaths. It appears, therefore, that the gain in population from excess of births over death was something over 19,000,000, or more than three times the increase in population due to immigration. The chief cause of increase in population in the United States, therefore, the bureau says, is not migration but rather the fact that more people are born than die.

The number of births since 1909 has been a little less than double the number of deaths, but the figures indicate that, during the last five years, the ratio of births to deaths has almost reached 2 to 1. This ratio has changed materially since 1911, a year which was about normal. In that year the number of births was apparently some 2,380,000, while the number of deaths was about 1,228,000. In 1924, 13 years later, the number of births appear to have increased by more than 250,000, while the number of deaths was approximately unchanged. Since 1911 the number of deaths has tended to remain constant, while births have increased by nearly 11 per cent and the population has grown by some 21 per cent. The death rate, in other

CHAPTER I "There Are Heroisms All Round Us"

Mr. Hungerton, her father, really was the most tactless person upon earth—a stuffy, feathery, untidy cockatoo of a man, perfectly good-natured, but absolutely centered upon his own silly self. If anything could have driven me from Gladys, it would have been the thought of such a father-in-law. I am convinced that he really believed in his heart that I came round to The Chestnuts three days a week for the pleasure of his company, and very especially to hear his views upon binetalsim, a subject upon which he was by way of being an authority.

For an hour or more that evening I listened to his monotonous chirrup about bad money driving out good, the token value of silver, the depreciation of the rupee, and the true standards of exchange. "Suppose," he cried with feeble violence, "that all the debts in the world were called up simultaneously, and immediate payment insisted upon—what under our present conditions would happen then?"

I gave the self-evident answer that I should be a ruined man, upon which he jumped from his chair, reproved me for my habitual levity, which made it impossible for him to discuss any reasonable subject in my presence, and bounced off out of the room to dress for a Masonic meeting.

At last I was alone with Gladys, and the moment of Fate had come! All that evening I had felt like the soldier who awaits the signal which will send him on a forlorn hope; hope of victory and fear of repulse alternating in his mind. She sat with that proud, delicate profile of hers outlined against the red curtain. How beautiful she was! And yet how aloof! We had been friends, quite good friends; but never could I get beyond the same comradeship which I might have established with one of my fellow reporters upon the Gazette—perfectly frank, perfectly kindly, and perfectly unsexual. My instincts are all against a woman being too frank and at her ease with me. It is no compliment to a man. Where the real sex feeling begins, timidity and distrust are its companions, heritage from old wicked days when love and violence went often hand in hand. The head bent, the averted eye, the faltering voice, the wincing figure—these, and not the unshrinking gaze and frank reply, are the true signals of passion. Even in my short life I had learned as much as that—or had inherited it in that race memory which we call instinct.

Gladys was full of every womanly quality. Some judged her to be cold and hard; but such a thought was treason. That delicately bronzed skin, almost oriental in its coloring, that raven hair, the large liquid eyes, the full but exquisite lips—all the stigmata of passion were there. But I was sadly conscious that up to now I had never found the secret of drawing it forth. However, come what might, I should have done with suspense and bring matters to a head, to-night. She could but refuse me, and better be a repulsed lover than an accepted brother.

So far my thoughts had carried me, and I was about to break the long and uneasy silence, when two critical dark eyes looked round at me, and the proud head was shaken in smiling reproof. "I have a presentiment that you are going to propose, Ned. I do wish you wouldn't; for things are so much nicer as they are."

I drew my chair a little nearer. "Now, how did you know that I was going to propose?" I asked in genuine wonder.

"Don't women always know? Do you suppose any woman in the world was ever taken unawares? But—oh, Ned, our friendship has been so good and so pleasant! What a pity to spoil it! Don't you feel how splendid it is that a young man and a young woman should be able to talk face to face as we have talked?"

"I don't know, Gladys. You see, I can talk face to face with—the station-master." I can't imagine how that official came into the matter; but in his trotted, and set us both laughing. "That does not satisfy me in the least. I want my arms round you, and your head on my breast, and—oh, Gladys, I want—"

She had sprung from her chair, as she saw signs that I proposed to demonstrate some of my wits. "You've spoiled everything, Ned," she said. "It's all so beautiful and natural until this kind of thing comes in! It is such a pity! Why can't you control yourself?" "I didn't invent it," I pleaded. "It's nature. It's love."

beauty, with your soul! Oh, Gladys, you were made for love! You must love!" "One must wait till it comes." "But why can't you love me, Gladys? Is it my appearance, or what?" She did unbend a little. She put forward a hand—such a gracious, stooping attitude it was—and she pressed back my head. Then she looked into my upturned face with a very wistful smile. "No, it isn't that," she said at last. "You're not a conceited boy by nature, and so I can safely tell you it is not that. It's deeper."

"My character?" She nodded severely. "What can I do to mend it? Do sit down and talk it over. No, really, I won't if you'll only sit down!"

She looked at me with a wondering distrust which was much new to my mind than her whole-hearted confidence. How primitive and bestial it looks when you put it down in black and white!—and perhaps after all it is only a feeling peculiar to myself. Anyhow, she sat down.

"I want my arms around you, and your head on my breast, and—oh, Gladys, I want—"

"Now tell me what's amiss with me?" "I'm in love with somebody else," said she. "It was my turn to jump out of my chair."

"It's nobody in particular," she explained, laughing at the expression of my face; "only an ideal. I've never met the kind of man I mean."

"Tell me about him. What does he look like?" "Oh, he might look very much like you."

"How dear of you to say that! Well, what is it that he does that I don't do? Just say the word—teetotal, vegetarian, aeronaut, theosophist, superman. I'll have a try at it, Gladys, if you will only give me an idea what would please you."

She laughed at the elasticity of my character. "Well, in the first place, I don't think my ideal would speak like that," said she. "He would be a harder, sterner man, not so ready to adapt himself to a silly girl's whim. But, above all, he must be a man who could do, who could act, who could look death in the face and have no fear of him, a man of great deeds and strange experiences. It is never a man that I should love, but always the glories he had won; for they would be reflected upon me. Think of Richard Burton! When I read his wife's life of him I could so understand her love! And Lady Stanley! Did you ever read the wonderful last chapter of that book about her husband? These are the sort of men that a woman could worship with all her soul, and yet be the greater, not the less, on account of her love, honored by all the world as the inspirer of noble deeds."

She looked so beautiful in her enthusiasm that I nearly brought down the whole level of the interview. I gripped myself hard, and went on with the argument. "We can't all be Stanleys and Burtons," said I; "besides, we don't get the chance—at least, I never had the chance. If I did, I should try to take it."

"But chances are all around you. It is the mark of the kind of man I mean that he makes his own chances. You can't hold him back. I've never met him, and yet I seem to know him so well. There are heroisms all round us waiting to be done. It's for men to do them, and for women to reserve their love as a reward for such men. Look at that young Frenchman who went up last week in a balloon. It was blowing a gale of wind; but because he was announced to go he insisted on starting. The wind blew him fifteen hundred miles in twenty-four hours, and he fell in the middle of Russia. That was the kind of man I mean. Think of the woman he loved, and how other women must have envied her! That's what I should like to be,—envied for my man."

"I'd have done it to please you." "But you shouldn't do it merely to please me. You should do it because you can't help yourself, because it's natural to you, because the man in you is crying out for heroic expression. Now, when you described the Wigan coal explosion last month, could you not have gone down and helped those people, in spite of the choke-damp?"

"I did." "You never said so." "There was nothing worth bucking about."

"I didn't know." She looked at me with rather more interest. "That was brave of you."

"I had to. If you want to write good copy, you must be where the things are."

"What a prosaic motive! It seems to take all the romance out of it. But, still, whatever your motive, I am glad that you went down that mine." She gave me her hand; but with such sweetness and dignity that I could only stoop and kiss it. "I dare say I am merely a foolish woman with a young girl's fancies. And yet it is so real with me, so entirely part of my very self, that I cannot help acting upon it. If I marry, I do want to marry a famous man!"

"Why should you not?" I cried. "It is women like you who brace men up. Give me a chance, and see if I will take it! Besides, as you say, men ought to make their own chances, and not wait until they are given. Look at Clive—just a clerk, and he conquered India! By George! I'll do something in the world yet!"

She laughed at my sudden Irish effervescence. "Why not?" she said. "You have everything a man could have—youth, health, strength, education, energy. I was sorry you spoke. And now I am glad—so glad—if it wakens these thoughts in you!"

"And if I do—"

Her dear hand rested like warm velvet upon my lips. "Not another word, Sir! You should have been at the office for evening duty half an hour ago; only I hadn't the heart to remind you. Some day, perhaps, when you have won your place in the world, we shall talk it over again."

It hits the spot

Annual Women's Golf Tournament Opens In Greenville, S. C.

Greenville, S. C., May 5.—Play in the qualifying round of the annual women's golf tournament of the Women's Carolina Golf Association opened here today with a large field of women from all sections of the two states competing. A qualifying round of eighteen holes was played today, following preliminary four-ball foursomes yesterday. This is the fourth annual tournament of the Association.

First rounds in all flights will be played Wednesday, second round and first round consolation Thursday and semi-finals in all flights and consolation Friday. Saturday's play will include finals in all flights.

The qualifying round today included competition for the Pinehurst trophy. This trophy in duplicate is presented to the team of four women from each club turning in the lowest aggregate score. Added events for the tournament will include a nine hole flight tomorrow with no qualifying round and an 18 hole putting contest.

The championship was won in 1922 when the tournament was played at Charlotte by Mrs. Richard E. Thigpen, formerly Miss Dorothy Doig. Mrs. Thigpen repeated the following year at Pinehurst and Miss Dean Van Landingham of Charlotte won last year at Asheville.

Officers of the Association include Mrs. Thompson Frazer, Asheville, president; Mrs. Robert Follin, Winston-Salem, first vice-president; Mrs. J. E. Timberlake, Columbia, second vice-president; and Mrs. William Cooper, Greenville, secretary and treasurer. The tournament committee is made up of Mrs. J. E. Serrine, Greenville, S. C., Mrs. Granville Taylor, Asheville and Mrs. R. R. Jones, Winston-Salem.

Mr. D. Zelinka, of New York, N. Y., writes: "I want you to know that no day passed for months and months that did not find my stomach bloated with gas and shooting pains darting through my stomach. I felt hungry at times, but as soon as I started eating, food nauseated me and I became bilious. My tongue was coated, had bad taste and breath was offensive. I never thought this could all be from my liver, but my liver it must have been, for the very first day after taking your wonderful Carter's Little Liver Pills I felt like a new

Ride on GENUINE LOW AIR PRESSURE

IF YOU can cut down the air pressure in your balloon tires it will add just that much more to their cushioning effect.

Maybe you can't do this safely with your present make of balloon tires.

But you can with the new U. S. "Royal low-pressure Balloons—

Because—

These tires have the new U. S. "Low-Pressure Tread." This tread gives a much greater area of road contact than a round tread.

It distributes the load evenly over the tread surface and reduces the weight on the individual tread blocks. This does away with early, uneven and disfiguring tread wear.

U. S. Royal Balloon gives long service even at lower air pressures than have been recommended in the past.

For in addition to this new Low-Pressure tread they are built of Latex-Treated Web Cord. The only cord construction in which the cords are webbed together with pure rubber latex. This gives maximum strength and maximum flexibility.

Don't compromise on balloon tire pressures any longer.

Ride on genuine low pressure.

It will surprise you to know what a difference it makes.

A SURE WAY TO DESTROY BOOTLEGGING

There is one way in which the entire bootleg business could be destroyed almost overnight. It is an entirely reasonable and proper method. The bootlegging industry lives only because it is profitable. Let it be made unprofitable and it will cease to operate.

Why could not a law be passed fining every bootlegger as a penalty the full amount of all the money he has made out of the business, in addition to a jail sentence, and then an additional sentence until the full amount of his fine has been paid. Through the enforcement of such a law bootlegging would instantly cease. Nobody but bootleggers, or those connected with bootlegging, could question the justice and wisdom of the law. Every bootlegger is a criminal at heart. He is doing his utmost to destroy our country and to spread his criminality everywhere. The love of money is the inspiring motive of his work. Make it impossible for him to keep a single dollar that he makes, and keep him in the penitentiary at hard work until he repays every dollar that he has gained by his traffic, and bootlegging would become one of the most unpopular industries of the entire country.

The notorious bootlegger who some months ago went to the Atlanta penitentiary in a private car, and who is said to have been given unusual advantages in the way of comfort and ease and food supplies, cares scarcely a pin for a temporary imprisonment so long as he can hold on to his ill-gotten money. But if every dollar of his profits had been taken from him by the law and a prison sentence added, the romance, as the bootleggers think of their business, would have been completely destroyed and poverty and the penitentiary would stare him and his kind in the face.

It might be difficult to trace the bootlegger's ill-gotten gains to the last dollar, but unquestionably most of the money could be traced; and if he swore to a false account he should then be sent to the penitentiary for a still longer time for his perjury.

Whenever our lawmakers and judges really determine to break up the industry, such a law could be passed and enforced, and the judge who failed to carry out the sentence, if any such could be found, could be impeached for his failure to enforce the law. Let this law be passed and the whole bootlegging industry, with all of its accursed evils, would cease to exist.—Manufacturers Record.

H. FORD GATHERS ANCIENT AND NEW HISTORICAL VEHICLES

Detroit.—As the more active days of his career respond to the inexorable toll of years, Henry Ford is making a new claim to distinction and a new field—history. The man who has been quoted as saying "History is bunk" is quietly gathering from all parts of America what is regarded by historians as one of the greatest collections of vehicles in existence.

The collection is just one of several that slowly are being formed at Dearborn, Mich., property. Although inaugurated primarily as a collection of physical objects illustrating the origin and progressive evolution of transportation facilities, the collection now has overlapped that limitation and has come to include more or less completed lines of specimens illustrating the progress of mechanical invention and achievement in almost every department of human interest.

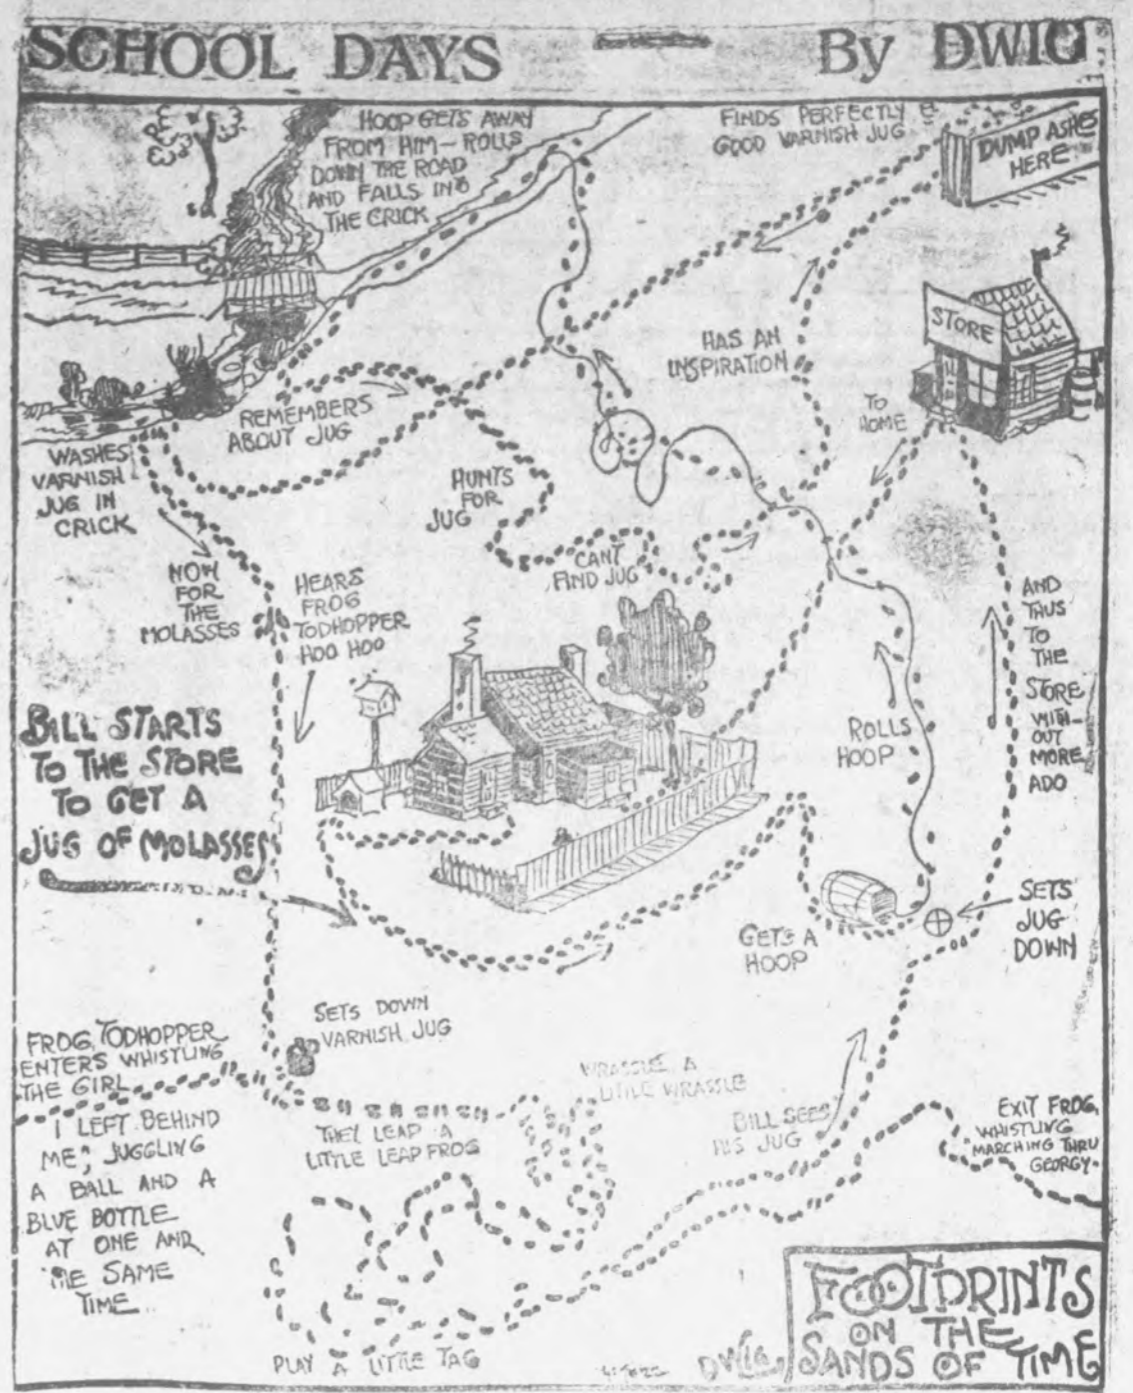

In the collection may be found a one-horse chaise "that was built in such a logical way it ran for a hundred years and a day." There is a fine old gig of the colonial period and a calash (or calche) which was thought very stylish by the Pilgrims. Then there is an old mail coach of the type used for passengers, baggage and mail, with provisions for outside passengers on top.

There is the Congstoga wagon, or prairie schooner, a genuine American product that followed the first mountain roads out of the eastern states, threaded the vast plains, crossed the Rockies and brought the first settlers to Oregon and California. The Concord coach, which was regarded as the last work in transportation and was capable of 16 miles and bond, also is the Pennsylvania buckboard, sometimes called the "Adam and Eve," because it was built for two. Other exhibits are the common buckboard, which was the first of the American light spring wagon; the phaeton, regarded late in the eighteenth century as the apex of style; the victoria, the rockaway with its small, enclosed body, the American buggy often called the "queen" of the horse-drawn passenger vehicles, and an old compass-sleigh of the early nineteenth century.

A two-horse "saccharine" in the collection was considered the top of the list of modern carriages in Civil War days. There also is an American being bulky and several specimens of ancient and modern fire fighting apparatus.

A curiosity is the old Dearborn hand wagon, with its spring seats placed in this wagon that Henry Ford, an uncle of the automobile manufacturer, played the fife in a musical organization which also included a fiddle, one snare drum and one bass drum player and an alternate bass drummer.

The collection also includes the first Ford automobile, with its four high, soft-rubber tires, steel-spoked wheels, its dashboard, kerosene headlight, steering rod, and conspicuous flywheel of the exposed motor. This vehicle was built in 1891.

Woman's Missionary Society Approves Work

The Woman's Missionary Society of Jarvis Memorial Church has sent the following letter to the Board of County Commissioners.

Dr. W. W. Dawson,
Chairman of the County Commissioners of Pitt County,
Dear Sir:

The Woman's Missionary Society of Jarvis Memorial Church wish to express their sincere appreciation of the faithful work of our County Welfare Officer Mr. K. T. Futrell.

We believe that the work he is doing to relieve distress and to correct wrongs in our community, especially his work with juvenile offenders, is too great to be expressed in words, but that the results will be manifested in years to come, in a higher type of citizenship.

It has been our pleasure to work with him, and for him, both as a society, and as individuals, whenever possible, and we feel that his work is an example of that "pure religion and undefiled before God" which "visits the fatherless and widows in their affliction."

We wish to urge the retention of Mr. Futrell in his present position of County Welfare Officer for Pitt County, and bespeak for him the support of every loyal citizen and professing Christian.

A new puncture-proof inner tube been introduced in Chicago which was punctured 600 times without the loss of any air. Motorists can increase their mileage over 12,000 miles by using this tube without removing it from the wheel. It costs no more than the ordinary tube. If interested write the Airlox Tube Division of Western Specialty Co., Dept. 4631 G, 201 E. Ontario St., Chicago, for full information as they want those tubes introduced everywhere. Wonderful opportunity for agents. Simply send name, a postcard will do.

SCHOOL HEAD PUTS HOME SCIENCE ABOVE DEGREES

London.—Girls who cannot cook, sew, iron and wash clothing are not well educated even though they hold the degree of all the universities under the sun, in the opinion of Miss C. J. H. Cowdroy, head mistress of Crouch End High School and College. Some educationalists want girls to be trained like boys with eyes to their future careers, but since ten out of every eleven women could marry and about that proportion of girls did marry, that fact ought surely to be considered when talking of careers. Miss Cowdroy contended in the course of a recent lecture.

"I depreciate the view some educationalists hold that a woman can possess far higher qualities than those which go to make a wise wife and mother," said the head mistress. "Some think the clever girls too good for that, the dullards being good enough to continue the race. I understand that in some British schools for girls the pupils are divided into two sections, the clever half studying sciences and the dead languages, while the duller girls give their time to cookery and housewifery. I also understand the second set refer to the first as the 'brainless old maids', so perhaps they are not so dull after all. A girl should be proud she can cook and sew, iron and wash and that she can save some money wisely and well. It holds that a girl who cannot do all these things is not well educated, although she may have been awarded the degrees of all the universities in the world."

Ask Your Druggist!

MRS. N. V. FINCHER
Chatanooga, Tenn.—"Five years ago I was all out of sorts, had no strength or ambition, malaria made me feel very miserable. I called on our druggist and told him just how I felt and asked him to give me the best medicine he had to build me up. He told me to buy nothing better than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The first bottle did wonders for me, giving me that feeling of returning strength and ambition. After taking several bottles I can say it did its work thoroughly by driving out the poisons and giving me rich, new blood, for I have had no return nor any sign of my former sickness. The medicine surely puts every part of one's body in good shape."—Mrs. N. V. Fincher, 3313 Cemetery Ave.

Obtain the Discovery in bottles or liquid from your druggist or send the for trial pkg. to Dr. Pierce's Invalid Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

What Did That Meal Cost?

Several dollars—not counting your time and labor—and it might have been ruined, all because of heavy bread or a soggy cake. You may have saved a fraction of a cent by using an unreliable baking powder—but you took the chance of ruining your baking—making a failure of your meal. Do you call that economy?

CALUMET THE WORLD'S GREATEST BAKING POWDER

will make a success of any meal because it always produces perfect bakings—and that's what counts in the success or failure of a meal. No other baking powder is any better—regardless of the price you pay—none is any more economical in use; for Calumet has far greater leavening strength—it goes farther—lasts longer. The last spoonful is as good as the first. Millions of housewives use Calumet—so do the leading hotels, big railroads, renowned restaurants and good bakers.

STOCKS

New York, May 5.—Stock prices resumed their upward movement at the opening of today's market under leadership of rail and oil shares. Gulf, Mobile and Northern, Wolfworth, and Consolidated gas advanced to a new high price for the year, while Maxwell Motors B. moved up to within a fraction of the year's highest prices. Radio Corporation fell back a point in further reflection of legal proceedings recently instituted against that company by the De Forest Radio Company.

COTTON MARKET

New York, May 5.—Reports of continued favorable weather in the south were reflected in a relatively easy Liverpool cables against early today and the cotton market opened easy at a further decline of three to eighteen points. Some trade buying was reported at the new low prices and also covering by recent sellers, but the demand appeared to be readily supplied, and active positions showed net loss of 15 to 20 points before the end of the first hour.

three days demonstrations in making salads, cakes, pies, bread, etc. These lessons were most instructive and very enjoyable. This department is making a great effort to secure a demonstration agent for Pitt county. This department also had one afternoon on interior decorating.

A movement has been started by the club to preserve the Old court house located on the Washington-Greenville road. Various organizations will be asked to assist in the work.

The Woman's Club is sending three delegates to Pinehurst. The club feels that with the inspiration from the Federation and with two new departments, Literary and Garden Club, added there will be many things accomplished during the coming year.

E. Belcher, J. T. Harris, W. J. Rasberry and R. H. Knott, which is hereby referred to and made a part of this instrument for a more definite description. And the corporate rights and franchises of the said company.

A deposit of 10 per cent in cash will be required of the purchaser or purchasers to await the confirmation by the court of such sale. Said sale is made pursuant to and to satisfy the terms of the judgement above mentioned.

This the 13th day of April, 1925.
H. W. WHIEDBEE,
J. LOYD HORTON,
14 1tw4wks Commissioners.

CERTIFICATE OF DISSOLUTION

To All to Whom These Presents May Come—Greeting:

Whereas, it appears to my satisfaction, by duly authenticated record of the proceedings for the voluntary dissolution thereof by the unanimous consent of all the stockholders, deposited in my office, that the Greenville Storage Warehouse Company, a corporation of this State, whose principal office is situated at No. 100 1/2 Street, in the City of Greenville, County of Pitt, State of North Carolina (J. E. Winslow & F. J. Forbes being the agent therein and in charge thereof, upon whom process may be served), has complied with the requirements of Chapter 22, Consolidated Statutes, entitled "Corporations," preliminary to the issuing of this Certificate of Dissolution.

Now, Therefore, I, W. N. Everett, Secretary of State of North Carolina, do hereby certify that the said corporation did, on the 15th day of April, 1925, file in my office a duly executed and attested consent in writing to the dissolution of said corporation, executed by all the stockholders thereof, which said consent and the record of the proceedings aforesaid are now on file in my said office as provided by law.

In Testimony Whereof, I have hereto set my hand and affixed my official seal at Raleigh, this 15th day of April, A. D. 1925.

W. N. EVERETT,
18 1tw4wks Secretary of State.

To the Voters of the Fifth Ward

GREENVILLE, N. C.

Having been a candidate for alderman of the Fifth Ward of Greenville, N. C., I take this opportunity of expressing my very sincere appreciation of the loyal support of my friends and constituents in said ward.

I am advised that I have a legal right to call for a second ballot due to the fact that there was a tie in my ward. The vote, when counted, being 90 for me and 90 for my opponent. However there being one ballot found in another box marked for my opponent, and the judges of the election having counted this vote, which in the count gave one majority to my opponent, and while I am advised that this vote should not have been counted and that I have a legal right to call for another election, I have decided in spite of the urging of many friends that in the interest of harmony and good feelings I should not do so.

The sole purpose of my candidacy being the good I could do for my town and community and having the public welfare at heart; I concede the election to my opponent and acquiesce in the decision of the judges of election with respect to the one vote which was found in another box.

Again I desire to express my deep appreciation for the support and confidence of my friends, and shall always do all in my power for the upbuilding of Greenville and the good of my fellow man.

Sincerely,

J. E. Dees

PALE, NERVOUS

West Virginia Lady Says That She Was in a Serious Condition, But Is Stronger After Taking Cardui.

Huntington, W. Va.—"I was in a very weak and run-down condition—in fact, was in a serious condition," says Mrs. Fannie C. Bloss, of 1961 Madison Avenue, this city.

"In my left side the pain was very severe. It would start in my back and sides. Part of the time I was 'in bed and when up I didn't feel like doing anything or going anywhere.

"Life wasn't any pleasure. I was very pale. I was nervous and thin, and so tired all the time.

"My druggist told me that Cardui was a good tonic for women and I bought a couple of bottles. I took two bottles, then I noticed an improvement. I kept on and found it was helping me. I have taken nine bottles. I'm stronger now than I have been in a long time." Cardui is made from mild-acting medicinal herbs with a gentle, tonic, strengthening effect upon certain female organs and upon the system in general.
