MR. E. B. FICKLEN DIES IN BRUSSELS BELGIUM TODAY

Prominent Tobacconist Dies in Europe While on a Business and Pleasure Trip; Death a Great Shock to Friends in This City

Mr. Edward Bancroft Ficklen died early this morning in Brussels, Belgium, following a stroke. The remains accompanied by Mrs. Ficklen and Mrs. Hattie Skinner will leave Brussels in three days on the first ship from Antwerp or Sherburg, arriving in New York in about two weeks. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Edward Bancroft Ficklen was born at Redhouse, Buckingham county, Va., May 22, 1868, son of the late James B. and Frances Parvill Ficklen. When a young man he moved to Danville, Va., to accept a position with a tobacco company of that city. In 1896 he came to Greenville and engaged in business for himself being the founder of E. B. Ficklen Tobacco Company. He has been president of the company since its beginning. He was active in the tobacco business here and in other cities having established a branch of the E. B. Ficklen Tobacco Company in Washington and New Bern.

For a number of years he has served as director of the United States Tobacco Association and although he now holds no office in the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade he has served as president a number of times.

In 1899 Mr. Ficklen was married to Miss Myra Skinner, a daughter of the late Mr. Charles Skinner and Mrs. Hattie Skinner of this city. The union was blessed with three children, James Skinner, Edward Bancroft, Jr., who was drowned several years ago, and Louis Stuart.

Mr. Ficklen while very popular in business and social circles was also very active in the religious life of the city. At an early age he joined the Upper Trinity Presbyterian church at New Canton, Va. His work in this church will live after him and the many services rendered made his Christian life stronger. When he came to Greenville he affiliated himself with the Presbyterian church here and has taken a most active part in every phase of the church work. He has watched it grow from its infancy to a strong church with a large and interested membership. He has been an elder of the church since coming here and has served in this and other capacities most faithfully and efficiently.

Mr. Ficklen for the past twenty-seven years has been a loyal member of the Tar River Lodge Knights of Pythias, and was during last year, presented the twenty-five years Veteran's Jewel. He has been Chancellor Commander of the lodge for three different times and was a member of the D. O. K. K.

Mr. Ficklen accompanied by Mrs. Ficklen and her mother, Mrs. Hattie Skinner, was in Europe on a combined business and pleasure trip. The first intimation of his illness was received this morning at 9 o'clock when Mr. James Ficklen received a cablegram from his mother stating that Mr. Ficklen was critically ill but gave no other details. At 10:30 o'clock another cablegram was received advising his loved ones here of his death.

The sad news was a shock to friends in this and adjoining counties as he was apparently in the best of health when he left here a few weeks ago. During last year, however, he was ill in a hospital in Norfolk, but after taking treatment his health seemed to be greatly improved.

Mr. Ficklen will be greatly missed by people in all walks of life. He loved Greenville and its citizens and watched the town grow with the greatest of pride. Although interested in tobacco and its progress he was also interested in every other industry that helped in the advancement of his town and State.

The deceased is survived by his wife, two sons, Mr. James Skinner Ficklen and Master Edward Stuart Ficklen; one grand son, James Skinner Ficklen, Jr., five sisters, Mrs. L. C. Arthur, Mrs. B. W. Moseley and Mrs. Nannie Jeter, of Greenville, Mrs. Hunter Marshall, Sr., of Charlotte;

VON HINDENBURG TO BE INAUGURATED PRESIDENT TUESDAY

President-Elect of the German Republic Enters Chancellor's Palace Today

Berlin, May 11.—Today was Von Hindenburg day, the day of the Field Marshall's entry into the capital as President-elect of the German Republic.

The Nationalists planned to turn the event into a great manifestation along the route traveled by the automobile carrying the hero from the station where he was due to have arrived late this afternoon to the Chancellor's Palace, where he will rest in preparation for tomorrow's inauguration. The air was charged with electricity, both literally and figuratively — literally because of a threatened thunderstorm, and figuratively because of fear that the Nationalists' demonstrations might lead to trouble. The police issued orders forbidding the Monarchists sympathizers from having their bands of welcome play any of the stirring marches reminiscent of days of the Kaiser's power. They also prohibited the Communists and their sympathizers from staging three open air demonstrations planned for today.

Tommy Milton, winner of last year's race, and Earl Cooper, runner of last year, were favorites with local followers today. The thirteen races all were declared in fine condition at eight o'clock this morning, mechanics having given them final inspection last night. Fred Wagner, official starter, will send the drivers on their way at two o'clock, according to the program. Hundreds of fans had planned to start to the speedway at nine, and the gates opened at ten.

All French Groups Also Reinforced as Ruffian Forces Increase

MONTAGUE'S TRIAL EXPECTED TO START THIS AFTERNOON

Judge Albion Dunn Presiding at Trial of Negro Charged With Attack on Inmate of Deaf and Dumb Institution

Hickory, May 11.—With the jury selected at noon, the trial of Arthur Montague, a negro charged with attacking a thirteen year old deaf and dumb girl on the night of April 24, was expected to get started this afternoon. Solicitor Huffman stated that he would request the death penalty for the negro.

A guard of ten soldiers was ordered for the protection of the negro in event that there was any demonstration against him. At noon, however, there had been no sign of violence, although the court house was packed to overflowing.

Judge Albion Dunn, of Greenville, was the presiding judge of the trial. Solicitor Huffman said this morning that he would place two physicians on the stand to testify as to the condition of the child after the alleged attack, and that he would also place a negro man, a friend of the prisoner, on the stand in an attempt to prove that Montague had planned an assault before he broke into the Deaf and Dumb Institute at Morganton, where the attack took place.

TRIAL OF ALLEGED MEMBERS OF MOB NEARING ITS CLOSE

Judge Sinclair Expresses the Opinion That He Will Charge the Jury "Probably Before Midnight"

Williamston, May 11.—Judge Natt A. Sinclair, presiding over the special term of Martin county court in session here trying four defendants on a charge of mutilating Joseph Needleman after removing him from the local jail, shortly afternoon today expressed the opinion that the trial would be closed today, and that he would charge the jury "probably before midnight."

The judge's statement came after George Vernon Cowper, of Kinston, had pleaded with the jury in behalf of Claro Heath, one of the defendants, and Harry M. Stubbs, had argued for Henry D. Griffin, and Julian Bullock. The address in favor of the fourth defendant, F. W. Suarrow, Sr., was to be delivered this afternoon.

Attorney Cowper declared that Heath had set up a perfect alibi and that the question of innocence was established. "The state," he declared, "in the trying of these cases at one time seeks to bundle all the defendants into the vortex of stripe and bonds" without regard of the separate stories of the men. He declared it a "vicarious" sacrifice of some in order to vindicate those in the trial.

In his plea for Griffin and Bullock, Attorney Stubbs compared the trial with that of Christ before Pilate. "Give us Barabos, the crowd before Pilot cried," the Attorney declared. "The State in a like manner today is seeking the conviction of Griffin, being willing to release the Barabos in order to get Griffin." He asserted that Needleman's story of the affair was a strong one, but that his "identification of Griffin was insufficient, and that Griffin ought not to be convicted on it."

Chinese Children Can Not Attend the White Public Schools, Miss.

DRY NAVY'S ATTACK ON RUM ROW IS PROVING SUCCESS

Liquor Crafts Remain Off Shore Hoping for Fog to Aid Them in Smuggling Their Cargoes

New York, May 11.—Vanquished in this portion of the Atlantic Seaboard by the dry navy's blockade, rum row is breaking up. Some of the liquor crafts remained off shore hoping for the fog, which has come up in the last 24 hours, to aid them in smuggling their cargoes, but several of the rum ships have disappeared from the row.

Rear Admiral Billard, Commander of the Coast Guard, stated in Washington today that he would be satisfied if disintegration of the rum fleets began within a month, but already some of the schooners and steamers that have been part of the fleet for four years have left. Whether they have gone to their home ports, or seek other entry points along coast, is not known.

There seems to be some hope that customers from Baltimore and Washington will be able to reach sources of supply, for several rum ships have appeared off Chesapeake Bay. The coast guard, which has taken precaution in this section, has not been able to identify any of the new comers as having been in business recently off New York.

Captain Jacobs, Divisional Commander of the Coast Guard here, received a radio message from the block aders over the week-end that some of the whiskey ships were headed out to sea, later on were reports that some of the craft had headed back to shore in the fog. However, with the block aders having a daily patrol, it was believed that smugglers would have great difficulty in getting ashore even in the fog.

Discussion of French Debt Settlement Is Again in Progress

Washington, May 11.—Informal discussions relative to a French Debt settlement are again in progress, it was disclosed in the state department.

Confirming the fact of negotiations for the first time, the Department reiterated that the Washington Government had sent no formal communication on the question to France.

Significance given recent events by some observers here has led to the impression that the debt refunding discussions are preceding with a view in the account by some, that American opinion is regarded as being desirous that satisfactory arrangements be made without undue delay between the United States and debtor nations. Condition also was given to dispatches from Paris, which suggested that diplomatic conversations now have reached a point where the French government must be consulted.

Officials here, while pleased at indications that France would give early consideration to the debt question, denied that any formal communication on the subject had recently been dispatched to Paris. The possibility exists, however, that Ambassador Herick may have received additional instructions for pressing toward a refunding agreement. The ambassador was to return to his post today after a brief absence.

The Norman is Brought to Surface

Memphis, Tenn., May 11.—The sky light of the center hull of the sunken United States steamer, Norman, which capsized Friday evening with a death list of 23, was brought to the surface today by a derrick boat. Bodies held captive in the cabin were expected to rise to the surface, it was said.

Using a large anchor attached to a 50 foot chain as a hammer, the engineers worked all morning in efforts to break the frame work of the cabin and release the bodies believed to be caught in the wreckage. Stationed at intervals down the river, are crews of Government boats to watch for the bodies which the engineers believed would be released with the destruction of the ship's frame work.

It was said that some of the bodies probably had already swept far down the river, and a successful search of the Mississippi as far as Helena, Arkansas continued today.

MANY A FATHER MIGHT USE SUCH DISCRETION

Alexander Hamilton, Washington's great Secretary of the Treasury, had a boy Jim in Columbia College back in 1804. Son James had to speak a piece at one of the exhibitions and asked father to write something different.

A few days before that fatal duel the lad was handed a manuscript with this letter:

My Dear James: I have prepared for you a Thesis on Discretion. You may need it. God bless you. Your affectionate father.—

SUBPOENAS AND FOREIGN TRAVEL

The Government is impaneling a fresh Grand Jury in Washington to inquire into the criminal charges growing out of the oil scandal and to bring new indictments in place of those quashed by a technicality. From Washington the Associated Press reports:

Subpoenas for a score of witnesses, returnable next Thursday, have been issued, but the names of those sought are carefully guarded, as Government counsel are apprehensive that some might seek to leave the country to evade service if the list is published beforehand.

Mention subpoenas in certain oil offices and telephones ring in a dozen steamship lines. Prominent oil officials decide that affairs urgently demand their presence in South America, that health calls them to Canada, that pleasure beckons in Paris, and that the African hunting can no longer be neglected. Directors left at home, when questioned, regret the "coincidence." And when the court procedure is over and the officers begin to straggle back, butter wouldn't melt in their mouths. It is good news that the Government has determined to see if secrecy and celerity won't produce the coincidence of an oil trial and all the needed witnesses on hand.—N. Y. World.

EXPERTS GIVE ATTENTION TO RUBBER FROM HAITI

Washington.—It may not be foreseen that Americans will have to depend chiefly upon faroff Java for rubber tires. The Bureau of Standards has just received 25 pounds of smoked sheet rubber from an experimental plantation which the agricultural department has been operating in Haiti. The shipment is to be tested in a variety of ways, over a long period of time, to determine whether the gum from the Haitian trees will do the work which now is performed by the products of the islands of the Indian Ocean and the Amazon basin.

SYNOPSIS

Malone, a young London newspaper reporter, rejected by the girl he loves on the ground that he has no heroic accomplishments to his credit, goes in search of adventure. An appeal to his editor, McArdle, for a particularly dangerous assignment, results in his being sent to interview Professor Challenger, a scientist who has recently returned from a solitary expedition to South America, with an amazing story of adventure which no one believes. Angered, Challenger has since refused to talk, and assaulted anyone who dared to question him. By a ruse Malone obtains an audience with him but is unceremoniously ejected when Challenger discovers he is a reporter. Together the two do a pinwheel down the front steps.

"What's all this? You ought to be ashamed," said the policeman. It was the most rational remark which I had heard in Emmore Park. "Well," he insisted, turning to me, "what is it, then?" "This man attacked me," said I. "Did you attack him?" asked the policeman. The Professor breathed hard and said nothing. "It's not the first time, either," said the policeman, severely, shaking his head. "You were in trouble last month for the same thing. You've blackened this young man's eye. Do you give him in charge, sir?" I relented. "No," said I, "I do not."

"What's that?" said the policeman. "I was to blame myself. I intruded upon him. He gave me fair warning." The policeman snapped up his notebook. "Don't let us have any more such gongs on," said he. "Now, then! Move on, there, move on!" This to a butcher's boy, a maid, and one or two loafers who had collected. He clumped heavily down the street, driving his little flock before him. The Professor looked at me, and there was something humorous at the back of his eyes.

"Come in!" said he. "I've not done with you yet." The speech had a sinister sound, but I followed him none the less into the house. The man-servant, Austin, like a wooden image, closed the door behind us.

CHAPTER IV

"It's Just the Very Biggest Thing in the World" Hardly was it shut when Mrs. Challenger darted out from the dining-room. The small woman was in a furious temper. She barred her husband's way like an enraged chicken in front of a bulldog. It was evident that she had seen my exit, but had not observed my return.

"You brute, George!" she screamed. "You've hurt that nice young man." He jerked backwards with his thumb.

"Here he is, safe and sound behind me." She was confused, but not unduly so.

"I am so sorry, I didn't see you." "I assure you, madam, that it is all right."

"He has marked your poor face! Oh, George, what a brute you are! Nothing but scandals from one end of the week to the other. Everyone hating and making fun of you. You've finished my patience. This ends it."

"Dirty linen," he rumbled. "It's not a secret," she cried. "Do you suppose that the whole street—the whole of London, for that matter—Get away, Austin, we don't want you here. Do you suppose they don't all talk about you? Where is your dignity? You, a man who should have been Regious Professor at a great university with a thousand students all revering you. Where is your dignity, George?"

"How about yours, my dear?" "You try me too much. A ruffian—a common, brawling ruffian—that's what you have become."

"Be good, Jessie." "A roaring, raging bully!" "That's done it! Stool of penance!" said he.

To my amazement he stooped, picked her up, and placed her sitting upon a high pedestal of black marble in the angle of the hall. It was at least seven feet high, and so thin that she could hardly balance upon it. A more absurd object than she presented coked up there with her face convulsed with anger, her feet dangling, and her body rigid for fear of an upset, I could not imagine.

"Let me down!" she wailed. "Say 'please.'" "You brute, George! Let me down this instant!"

"Come into the study, Mr. Malone."

"Really, sir—!" said I, looking at the lady.

"Here's Mr. Malone pleading for you, Jessie. Say 'please,' and down you come."

"Oh, you brute! Please! please!"

He took her down as if she had been a canary.

"You must behave yourself, dear. Mr. Malone is a Pressman. He will have it all in his rag tomorrow, and sell an extra dozen among our neighbors. 'Strange story of high life—you felt fairly high on that pedestal, did you not? Then a subtitle, 'Glimpse of a singular ménage.' He's a foul feeder, is Mr. Malone, a carion eater, like all of his kind—porcus ex grege diaboli—a swine from the devil's herd. That's it, Malone—what?" "You are really intolerable!" said I, hotly.

He bellowed with laughter.

"We shall have a coalition presently," he boomed, looking from his wife to me and puffing out his enormous chest. Then, suddenly altering his tone, "Excuse this frivolous family badinage, Mr. Malone. I called you back for some more serious purpose than to mix you up with our little domestic pleasantries. Run away, little woman, and don't fret." He placed a huge hand upon each of her shoulders. "All that you say is perfectly true. I should be a better man if I did what you advise, but I shouldn't be quite George Edward Challenger. There are plenty of better men, my dear, but only one G. E. C. So make the best of him." He suddenly gave her a resounding kiss, which embarrassed me even more than his violence had done. "Now, Mr. Malone," he continued, with a great accession of dignity, "this way, if you please."

We re-entered the room which we had left so tumultuously ten minutes before. The Professor closed the door carefully behind us, motioned me into an arm-chair, and pushed a cigar box under my nose.

"Real San Juan Colorado," he said. "Excitable people like you are the better for narcotics. Heavens! don't bite it! Cut—and cut with reverence! Now lean back, and listen attentively to whatever I may care to say to you. If any remark should occur to you, you can reserve it for some more opportune time.

"First of all, as to your return to my house after your most justifiable expulsion"—he protruded his beard, and stared at me as one who challenges and invites contradiction—"after, as I say, your well-merited expulsion. The reason lay in your answer to that most officious policeman, in which I seemed to discern some glimmering of good feeling upon your part—more, at any rate, than I am accustomed to associate with your profession. In admitting that the fault of the incident lay with you, you gave some evidence of a certain mental detachment and breadth of view which attracted my favorable notice. The subspecies of the human race to which you unfortunately belong has always been below my mental horizon. Your words brought you suddenly above it. You swam up into my serious notice. For this reason I asked you to return with me, as I was minded to make your further acquaintance. You will kindly deposit your ash in the small Japanese tray on the bamboo table which stands at your left elbow."

All this he boomed forth like a professor addressing his class. He had swung round his revolving chair so as to face me, and he sat all puffed out like an enormous bull-frog, his head laid back and his eyes half-covered by supercilious lids. Now he suddenly turned himself sideways, and all I could see of him was tangled hair with a red, protruding ear. He was scratching about among the litter of papers upon his desk. He faced me presently with what looked like a very tattered sketch-book in his hand.

SHIPPERS DEEPLY GRIEVED OVER AMERICAN LAWS

Rotterdam, Holland.—American immigration restrictions are the bugbear of most European transatlantic shipping companies and to them the Holland-America Line attributes to a great extent the unfavorable aspect of its financial year.

"Although no mitigation of the American immigration laws is to be expected for a few years to come," the financial report of the company says, "we believe that this restrictive policy cannot endure, because the continued development of the vast territory of the United States must ultimately bring about a shortage of labor, and it is plain that in the end American industries, under the pressure of high wages, will not be in a position to compete with a reorganized Europe."

In view of the American restrictions, the special Polish emigrant service from Danzig to Rotterdam had to be discontinued, the report says, but against this diminished emigrant traffic the company sets an increased traveling impetus among well-to-do Americans, and it is upon the development of the high-class passenger traffic that the efforts of all transatlantic lines must now be concentrated.

WOMEN IN BUSINESS URGED TO PRESERVE THEIR WOMANLINESS

Houston, Texas.—If the woman in business "is going to ape men," let her stay at home and let the men keep right on as they have been doing, as "there is no excuse for the woman in business unless she takes her womanly ways with her," declared Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson in welcoming ladies of the Advertising Club of the World to Texas for their annual convention.

It is an old thing to talk of woman's intuition and her keen grasp on the little things of life, said Texas' first woman executive, "yet wherever you find a successful woman, you find a woman who has taken her womanly ways along with her into her business world, a woman who has solved her problems with her heart as well as her head, and a woman who has not allowed maudlin sentiment to overbalance her belief in kindness and justice and fair play."

"This does not mean that I condone wit hthe mannish women," Gov. Ferguson continued, "if a woman is going to be mannish, let her stay away from me. God made us women and gave us rare opportunities as women; let the men profit by their own peculiar little mannerisms. There is no excuse for the woman in business unless she is going to stay a woman there. If she is going to ape men, let her stay at home. We made our plea to get into the business world that we might better it. If we are going to do just as the men have done, we certainly cannot do better than they have done."

Gov. Ferguson said she was speaking from experience, as it was no easy thing to be a woman governor, walking where men have walked alone, and sitting where men alone have sat.

"I know something of the struggles you have had and something of the obstacles you have overcome, made more difficult because you are women," the speaker declared. "But this is no time to discuss worries in our past; the hard work, once accomplished becomes but a background. Today is the time when we may look well at the problems that lie before the business women of all the world."

"I think that women have a greater problem than have men. We are new to our work and we face the criticisms of those well-meaning masculine souls who gave us this new employment with just a little more than fear and trembling. They like us, do the men; they will all stand right up in meetings and declare that the world cannot get along without us, but they are still a little worried that in some of the new work we seem to be able to get along without them!"

"We really cannot blame the men; they have had their own way so long and we have cheered them so resoundingly that we have only ourselves to blame. And after all, they are a side issue in our future. They have given us our chance; now it is time for us."

The make-up of the individuals costumes, and the caste of characters was very good. Each actor was well prepared, and performed their respective parts to perfection, and the big audience showed its appreciation by loud applause and merriment.

The faculty this year was composed of Prof. George D. Colclough, as principal, Miss Bertha Hart, Miss Myda Smith, Miss Closs Pickren, Miss Irene Downer, and Miss Mavis Lee Oakley, as teachers.

The school was well organized and results show that both teachers and pupils did good work.

It is the opinion of everyone that the year just closed has been the most successful year in all the history of the Grimesland High School. In his work Professor Colclough has shown himself to be a successful organizer and conductor. He is a hard worker and good manager, and with a very efficient faculty of as-

WEATHER

Forecast Monday entire belt mostly part cloudy unsettled, probably showery. Cooler western belt.

PROCTOR AND GAMBLE

Proctor and Gamble estimate average 5 to 6 per cent, crop outlook and labor situation favorable. Of 18 opinions 5 bullish. 5 bearish; 3 non-committal.
New Orleans: Weather developments over Sunday will shape course of market probably earlier today than usual. There is apt to be less waiting for the map. North Texas points set in complaints of too much rain Saturday.
Texas had more rain Saturday and Mississippi Valley points from Vicksburg south appear to have had good rains Saturday. A heavy rain of several inches fell in New Orleans Sunday which seemed to be general throughout this section.
If it extended into the eastern belt or was general in Mississippi Valley it is apt to affect sentiment considerably as need of rain in the eastern belt tended to restrict selling last week.
Average rainfall in Texas for April was 2.90 inches vs. 2.38 a year ago and ten year average of 3.56. Rain-fall in Texas since October first is only 7.90 inches vs. 22.29 a year ago
