FIRST SENSATION BROUGHT IN TRIAL SHEPHERD TODAY

Disappearance of Robert White, One of the State's Chief Witnesses, Brings About Sensation

Chicago, May 20.—Grand Jury investigation of the disappearance of Robert White, an important witness in the trial of William D. Shepherd, charged with the murder of his foster son, William N. McClintock, by the administration of typhoid germs, is understood to have been ordered by State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe today.

Chicago, May 20.—Robert E. Crowe, prosecutor in the case of William D. Shepherd on a charge of slaying his foster son, William N. McClintock, with typhoid germs, is determined to locate Robert White, one of the State's chief witnesses, whose disappearance has brought the first sensation of the trial.

Information has been obtained that White and his wife, and two children, abandoned his home and vanished with a rented automobile last Friday. A letter written by Mrs. White to Mrs. Marie Budlove, a friend, said: "We had to leave, our lives were in danger."

The prosecutor said that every effort would be made to find White, and when he is found "there will be action." He put several detective squads on the search. The Chicago Herald and Examiner, said it learned from William Adams, a blind news vendor, of an alleged $25,000 offer made to White ten days ago to leave for Florida. The offer included a furnished bungalow, which would be given to him on his arrival there, Adams said White told him.

Adams quoted White as saying he would accept, "if they mean business."

White was known as the body guard of C. C. Faiman, Science School head, who confessed of supplying typhoid germs to Shepherd and taught him how to administer them.

White and Shepherd at one time nearly came to blows when they confronted each other, and White identified Shepherd as the man he had seen at Faiman's school. Today's session was to open at two P. M. when work of selecting a jury was to continue.

LONDON CHILDRE WELCOME SQUIRRELS FROM AMERICA

London.—Grey squirrels, imported from the United States some years ago, have made themselves perfectly at home in this climate, and like the English sparrows sent to the United States from the British Isles several generations back, have begun to scatter about the country.

The first squirrels of this variety were given their freedom in Regent's Park, London, and already they have been found in forests as far as 25 miles north of the British capital. The squirrels have made friends in the parks here among the visitors, and take food from the hands of children. The saucy little fellows have become very popular indeed, but it has been so long since they had a peanut, peanuts not being so common here as in America, that they have nearly forgotten what one tastes like.

ELEVENTH CENTURY COFFINS FOUND IN RESTORATION OF ENGLISH CHURCH

Leicester, Eng.—During restoration work recently on Swithland Church, Leicestershire, which dates back to Saxon times, three of the eleventh century windows were uncovered. Under the floor were found two coffins of children of the Danvers Butler family, ancestors of the present Earl of Lanesborough, whose country seat is at Swithland Hall.

An interesting connection with Swithland also is the tombstone of Sir Joseph Danvers who died nearly 200 years ago. It is said to be the only instance in England where half the grave is in a churchyard and half in unconsecrated ground. Sir Joseph had instructed his son to bury him in this fashion, so that when the last trumpet was sounded he should be able to arise on the Judgment Day upon his own land.

Darwin Trial

PROF. J. T. SCOPES

Professor J. T. Scopes, teacher of science in the Dayton (Tenn.) high school, was arrested for alleged violation of the State law against the teaching of evolution in the schools. Liberals throughout the country interested themselves in his case, while others, who oppose the teaching of evolution, endeavored to enlist the services of William Jennings Bryan for the State. Both Bryan and Professor Scopes, by an odd coincidence, are natives of Salem, Ill.

AIRPLANES WILL BE USED IN CAMPAIGN VS. BOLL WEEVIL

Hopes to Cover at Least 63,000 Acres of Cotton During This Summer

New York, May 20.—Plans for the use of 18 specially constructed airplanes for a campaign against the boll weevil in cotton fields of the South by dusting with poisons were announced today by Huff Deland Duster, Inc., a concern organized for the purpose.

The planes, it is announced, will begin combating the cotton pest next month with headquarters in Macon, Georgia. It is hoped to cover at least 63,000 acres of cotton this summer, operating from nine bases in the cotton country.

Lieutenant Rubard H. Harris, army air pilot, on leave of absence, will be in charge of the operations. Although the cotton crops will receive chief attention, dusting by airplane has also given good results in the Georgia peach and pecan orchards, it was said.

COIFFEUSE TO FILM STARS NEVER COULD ABIDE THE BOB

Hollywood, Cal.—Hattie Wilson Tabourne, negro hairdresser for film stars, died recently, bearing to the last a hatred for bobbed hair that was overshadowed only by the love of her work.

This woman, creator of gorgeous head dresses that were admired throughout the feminine world, was virtually unknown until her death. It was her fate to see the bobbed hair she detested become a fixture during the nine years of her association with the film industry. She used to stay up nights figuring out ways to combat the encroachments of the bob among film women. Failing in this, she evolved the most elaborate methods of disguising it. This motive was responsible for some of the unique coiffure effects that adorned the heads of movie stars, and caused many women to wonder who the designer was.

Kiel Canal Traffic Grows

Berlin.—Traffic through the Kiel Canal last year had more than tripled since the close of the World War and the total tonnage surpassed that of 1913. In the latter year 53,382 vessels with a total tonnage of 10,349,929, passed through the canal. The number of vessels in 1918 was 15,929 aggregating 4,720,000 tons. Last year's traffic showed 42,373 vessels with a total tonnage of 13,434,162.

GAY FESTIVITIES FEATURE CHARLOTTE CELEBRATION TODAY

150th Anniversary of Mecklenburg Declaration Attended By Thousands of Carolinians Today

Charlotte, May 20.—Harkening back to May 20, 1775, when Mecklenburg county, North Carolina, blazed the way among citizens of the American Colonies, in declaring itself free from the rule of George Third, crowned head of Britain, Carolinians today observed the occasion with gay festivities.

A military parade, speeches by personages of note including former Secretary of the Navy, Josephus Daniels, Governor Angus W. McLean, Representative Adams Wyatt, of Pennsylvania and Miss Carra Schuyler Butler, daughter of Nicholas M. Butler, President of the Columbia University, were some of the features of the day's program. For the second successive night a pageant of historical drama will be presented, beginning with the settling of this community by Scotch-Irish immigrants and their battle with the Indians, and the outbreak of the Revolution, and the signing of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence. A document was signed immediately after receipt of news from Lexington and Concord that the "Red Coats" had fired on the Minute Men.

Eight hundred persons are participating in the drama which will continue through Friday night.

HALIFAX HARBOR IS NOW JAMMED WITH RUM SHIPS

Ten More Saloons and Restaurants Padlocked in New York; Rum Row Virtually Cleared Up

New York, May 20.—Rum ships driven from off American shore by the Coast Guard blockade are jamming Halifax harbor, as one result of the determination of the administration from President Coolidge down, to enforce prohibition to the limit.

Thirteen steamers and schooners are tied up at Halifax. Five arrived yesterday. They don't know where to turn. Some of them intend discharging their cargoes and returning to legitimate freight traffic. The determination of the administration to stake everything on the present dry drive, has been revealed with the publication of a transcript of the secret hearing of a special Senate Committee investigating prohibition enforcement.

The Halifax situation confirms the statements in Eastern Coast Guard circles that rum row has virtually been cleared up. One ship of a fleet of 50 rum ships remains. It is a German vessel anchored 40 miles off Sandy Hook. The dry campaign shore and in land continues apace. A fleet of small armed craft is being mobilized at five bases on the St. Lawrence River to cope with the unexpected deluge of whiskey from Ontario, while 4.4 per cent beer goes on sale Thursday.

Ten more saloons and restaurants have been padlocked in New York. At Atlantic City, N. J., small boats once used by rum row customers are being turned into excursion craft.

A London dispatch to the New York World today says that a new rum plot has been discovered in Germany by United States officials. Huge shipments of inferior Scotch whiskey made in Latvia, and labeled as corks, the story says, were to have been smuggled into the United States.

FIRST BLOWS OF EVOLUTION FIGHT HAVE BEEN STRUCK

Blows, Literal Instead of Legal, Were Exchanged at Meeting of Dayton Citizens

Dayton, Tenn., May 20.—First blows of Tennessee's famous evolution fight have been struck. The blows were literal instead of legal, and were exchanged between a proponent and an opponent of evolution at a meeting of Dayton citizens to protest against a contemplated move by Chattanooga to rush to court a case testing the Tennessee Anti-Evolution Teaching ahead of a trial of John T. Scopes, of Dayton.

An assertion, by Dr. George Rappleyes, evolution leader, who swore out the warrant for Scopes' arrest to test the aid that man evolved from lower forms of life, was resented by Thurlow Reed, Dayton barber, as a reflection on his family, and he dashed to the rest room and attacked Rappleyes.

DECLARES GERMAN AVIATOR BECOMING MAN OF AFFAIRS

Plane Shot Down Behind American Lines and He Became Spy in the American Service

New York, May 20.—A Washington dispatch to the New York Times today says that Alvin Grothe, a German aviator, whose plane was shot down behind the American lines in the world war, and who subsequently became a spy in the American Service, has settled in a large city in this country, under an assumed name as dis becoming a man of affairs. Alfred Scholtze, a Lance Corporal, also became a traitor to the German Imperialistic cause, and he and Grothe dressed in the German uniform interviewed captured German prisoners and then turned the information over to the American Army. Trace of him has been lost. He is said to have mapped the German batteries where the American artillery was able to silence these guns in the St. Mihiel drive.

Merchants number 570; manufacturers 352; bankers 331 and insurance men 285. "These compilations," says the Alumni Review, "are on a basis of a study of 7,500 of the living alumni, and are for June 1924."

Fifteen minutes later, in his room in the detention home, he played jazz records on his phonograph, as shown, after stating he was confident he would not be electrocuted.

CONFEDERATE VETS OPEN CONVENTION IN DALLAS TODAY

Resolutions Prepared Sharply Denouncing Plans to Place Figures of Union Soldiers on the Stone Mountain; Proposed College Memorial Absorbing Interest

Dallas, Texas, May 20.—The Confederate Memorial of Stone Mountain, Georgia, and the proposal to erect a Memorial College, honorary to the women of the South, were subjects in the foreground as the United Confederate Veterans met here today for their 35th convention. A resolution has been prepared demanding official representation for the Veterans Organization on the Executive Board of the Stone Mountain Memorial Association. The resolution also sharply denounced the plans to place figures of Union Soldiers on the Stone Mountain. Holland N. Randolph, of Atlanta, is here as official representative of the Stone Mountain Memorial Association. He presented officials of the various veteran organizations with a new memorial silver dollar yesterday, but made no comment on the proposed resolution.

The proposed college memorial is absorbing much attention of all the Veterans Organizations. It was presented in outline yesterday at a meeting of the Texas Division, Confederate Veterans to which General John C. Foster, State Commander, made an appeal for veterans and friends to get back to the memorial proposal. He explained that the idea is to erect a college to be a "living and perpetual memorial to the women of the state who suffered nobly during the conflict between the states."

KING'S DAUGHTERS TO CONDUCT BLOCK DAY ON JUNE 10TH

People of Greenville to Be Given Opportunity to Help Most Worthy Cause

On Wednesday, June 10, the Patient Circle of the King's Daughters will conduct a "Block Day," in which every body in Greenville will be given an opportunity to help a worthy cause.

Block Day will be conducted in a most unique manner. The city will be divided into blocks and several members of the circle will be assigned to each block. A few days prior to June 10th, small boxes will be placed in every home for a free will offering. On "Block Day" these will be collected and the proceeds used for helping promote the work which the King's Daughters are undertaking both State and locally.

The State work of the King's Daughters has been for the benefit of the Stonewall Jackson Training School, for boys, and Samaritan, for girls. To carry on the State and local work the girls appeal to the public and always receive a ready response.

The local work which has been accomplished by the Patient Circle is known by people throughout the county. Many sick people have been made well through its ministrations, the poor and unfortunate have been given financial aid until they could care for themselves, many little children have been made happy at Christmas time and other undertakings accomplished too numerous to mention.

At present the King's Daughters are interested in securing a community house at the Cotton Mill at which a whole time community worker will be employed. They hope at some future date to take part in this great work.

The Patient Circle hopes that every body will respond to the "Block Day," and help carry on "In His Name."

THE RIGHT THING—THE PRACTICAL THING

The American Legion, chartered by Congress, has carried during six years of reconstruction since the World War a large load, shared by governmental agencies, in the care and cure of the war's disabled men, and in the care, upbringing and education of the orphaned children of those who gave their lives in battle. This responsibility, welcomed by the Legion, has been shared by the people of the United States. The Legion has spent its own funds, has sometimes borrowed money, has often been unable to see very far ahead into the sources for financial needs, has received numerous gifts. The fiscal policy back of the largest war relief problem in America has been frankly "hand to mouth." Such a policy is neither just, adequate nor economical. For this work there must be nothing left to chance.

Based on this six-year experience is the proposal to raise in 1925 The American Legion Endowment Fund of five million dollars, as a perpetual trust from which only the income shall be used as the financial backbone of the rehabilitation and child welfare work of the Legion, the central generating plant for the nation-wide activity of 11,000 Legion posts and 6,500 Legion Auxiliary units of women, which together throw more than 900,000 volunteer workers into this field.

The endowment plan is a practical and business-like undertaking. Happily the common sense thing to do is also the thing which appeals to every sound and worthy emotion. It is a right and sacred duty to cure the disabled man. The Legion's motto of "Temporary Care—Permanent Cure" expresses the determination that every sufferer from wounds and disease should be made whole, should be restored in body and mind and spirit to become a self-supporting and self-respecting citizen, and not left to perpetual care in a public institution. That program is as sound and economical as it is appealing and humane.

It is right that every child of a father who died for his country be given as good a home, as good education, as fair an American chance in life as if that father's sacrifice had not been needed. It is vastly less costly to save the child now, than to permit it to grow up in ignorance, poverty and neglect to a life of vice, pauperism or crime. Every needy child saved to healthy maturity in body and sound development in character saves thousands of dollars to society, which carries the heavy burden of criminality, pauperism, viciousness. Ninety-three per cent of criminals have a record of neglected childhood.

The American Legion Endowment is a sound investment.

TURBULENT CHANNEL IS SWIMMING GOAL OF GERTRUDE EDERLE

New York. — Gameness and determination, in addition to exceptional strength and stamina, as shown in her past performances, will be of great aid to Miss Gertrude Ederle, 18-year-old mermaid of the Women's Swimming Association of New York, when she undertakes to swim the English Channel this summer.

This struggle through 20 miles of turbulent water has been contemplated for some time by Miss Ederle, who is an experienced outdoor swimmer and quite at home in rough seas. As a result of competitions in the south last winter she became convinced that she possessed the necessary speed. While she thrives in chilly water, Miss Ederle will find the Channel a worthy foe, for in midsummer the temperature seldom rises above 62 degrees. However, this is not likely to interfere with her trial, for she will start outdoor training at once to accustom herself to conditions over there.

Miss Ederle's perseverance in face of defeat has figured largely in all her successes and will no doubt aid her materially in bridging her way to additional conquests. Although still in her teens, she already has acquired most of the world's free style swimming records.

Apparently unknown up to the summer of 1922, she came into prominence as a long distance swimmer in the international three and a half mile race for the Cay Cup in New York Bay. Then she was but 15 years old. Before that summer had passed, she had captured several national titles and set many world records for distances between 150 yards and 500 meters.

Each year Miss Ederle spends four months at the family country place near Atlantic Highlands, New Jersey, and daily covers several miles regardless of weather, so that in every way she is prepared for the coming classic. She intends to keep up her routine until June 17 when she will sail on the Berengaria for England. She will attempt to cross the channel in late July or early August.

NORTH DAKOTA MAY MANUFACTURE CEMENT AND BUILD OWN ROADS

Pierre, S. D. — Proprietor of its own cement manufactory, South Dakota, may launch a paved road program this summer using cement from its state plant and labor from the penitentiary to span the state with hard-surfaced highways.

A plan has been worked out by Gov. Carl Gunderson which provides for utilization of convict labor in the building of paved roads. The cement plant would, under the plan, be operated at its capacity of more than 2,000 barrels a day and all surplus cement turned over to the highway commission for paving.

The governor declares that the cost would be small. If lack of legal authority is a possible obstacle and it is found that such authority is not invested in the highway commission, the legislature will be asked to sanction it immediately.

THE LOST WORLD

SYNOPSIS

Malone, a London newspaper reporter, rejected by the girl he loves because he has no heroic deeds to his credit, appeals to his editor for a dangerous assignment, and is sent to interview the irascible Professor Challenger, a scientist, who has recently returned from an expedition to South America with an amazing story, which no one believes, of the existence on a great plateau there of many forms of prehistoric life. By way of proof he shows Malone two sketches—one, of the cliffs beneath the plateau, the other, of a monstrous animal resembling the stegosaurus—which he had found among the possessions of an explorer, Maple White, who had died of starvation; some blurred photographs, and a piece of the wing of a huge flying serpent, or pterodactyl, which he had shot down. Malone is convinced of Challenger's sincerity. That night he attends a scientific lecture by an opponent of the professor's, a Mr. Waldron.

At last the lecture came to an end—I am inclined to think that it was a premature one, as the peroration was hurried and disconnected. The thread of the argument had been rudely broken, and the audience was restless and expectant. Waldron sat down, and after a chirrup from the chairman, Professor Challenger rose and advanced to the edge of the platform. In the interest of my paper I took down his speech in verbatim.

"Ladies and Gentlemen," he began, amid a sustained interruption from the back. "I beg pardon—Ladies, Gentlemen, and Children—I must apologize, I had inadvertently omitted a considerable section of this audience" (tumult, during which the professor stood with one hand raised and his enormous head nodding sympathetically, as if he were bestowing a pontifical blessing upon the crowd), "I have been selected to move a vote of thanks to Mr. Waldron for the very picturesque and imaginative address to which we have just listened. There are points in it with which I disagree, and it has been my duty to indicate them as they arose, but none the less, Mr. Waldron has accomplished his object well, that object being to give a simple and interesting account of what he conceives to have been the history of our planet. Popular lectures are the easiest to listen to, but Mr. Waldron," (here he beamed and blinked at the lecturer) "will excuse me when I say that they are necessarily both superficial and misleading, since they have to be graded to the comprehension of an ignorant audience." (frontral cheering.) "Popular lectures are in their nature paralytic." (Angry gesture of protest from Mr. Waldron.) "They exploit for fame or cash the work which has been done by their indigent and unknown brethren. One smallest new fact obtained in the laboratory, one brick built into the temple of science, far outweighs any second-hand exposition which passes as an idle hour, but can leave no useful result behind it. I put forward this obvious reflection, not out of any desire to disparage Mr. Waldron in particular, but that you may not lose your sense of proportion and mistake the acolyte for the high priest." (At this point Mr. Waldron whispered to the chairman, who half rose and said something severely to his water-carrier.) "But enough of this!" (Loud and prolonged cheers.) "Let me pass to some subject of wider interest. What is the particular point upon which I, as an original investigator, have challenged our lecturer's accuracy? It is upon the permanence of certain types of animal life upon the earth. I do not speak upon this subject as an amateur, nor, I may add, as a popular lecturer, but I speak as one whose scientific conscience compels him to adhere closely to facts, when I say that Mr. Waldron is very wrong in supposing because he has never himself seen a so-called prehistoric animal, therefore these creatures no longer exist. They are indeed, as he has said, our ancestors, but they are, if I may use the expression, our contemporary ancestors, who can still be found with all their hideous and formidable characteristics if one has but the energy and hardihood to seek their haunts. Creatures which were supposed to be Jurassic, monsters who would hunt down and devour our largest and fiercest mammals, still exist." (Cries of "Hush!") "Prove it!" "How do you know?" "Question!" "How do I know, you ask me? I know because I have visited their secret haunts. I know because I have seen some of them." (Applause, uproar, and a voice, "Liar!") "Am I a liar?" (General hearty and noisy assent.) "Did I hear someone say that I was a liar? Will the person who called me a liar kindly stand up that I may know him?" (A voice, "Here he is, sir!" and an inoffensive little person in spectacles, struggling violently, was held up among a group of students.) "Did you venture to call me a liar?" ("No, sir, no!" shouted the accused, and disappeared like a jack-in-the-box.) "If any person in this hall dares to doubt my veracity, I shall be glad to have a few words with him after the lecture." ("Liar!") "Who said that?" (Again the inoffensive one plunging desperately, was elevated high into the air.) "If I come down among you—" (General chorus of "Come, love, come!" which interrupted the proceedings for some moments, while the chairman, standing up and waving both his arms, seemed to be conducting the music. The Professor, with his face flushed, his nostrils dilated, and his beard bristling, was now in a proper Berserk mood.) "Every great discoverer has been met with the same incredulity—the sure brand of a generation of fools. When great facts are laid before you, you have not the intuition, the imagination which would help you to understand them. You can only throw mud at the men who have risked their lives to open new fields to science. You persecute the prophets! Galileo, Darwin, and I—" (Prolonged cheering and complete interruption.)

All this is from my hurried notes taken at the time, which give little notion of the absolute chaos to which the assembly had by this time been reduced. So terrific was the uproar that several ladies had already beaten a hurried retreat.

"Am I a liar?"

Grave and reverend seniors seemed to have caught the prevailing spirit as badly as the students, and I saw white-bearded men rising and shaking their fists at the obdurate Professor. The whole great audience seethed and simmered like a boiling pot. The Professor took a step forward and raised both his hands. There was something so big and arresting and virile in the man that the clatter and shouting died gradually away before his commanding gesture and his masterful eyes. He seemed to have a definite message. They hushed to hear it.

"I will not detain you," he said. "It is not worth it. Truth is truth, and the noise of a number of foolish young men—and, I fear I must add, of their equally foolish seniors—cannot affect the matter. I claim that I have opened a new field of science. You dispute it." (Cheers.) "Then I put you to the test. Will you accredit one or more of your own number to go out as your representatives and test my statement in your name?"

Mr. Summerlee, the veteran Professor of Comparative Anatomy, rose among the audience, a tall, thin, bitter man, with the withered aspect of a theologian. He wished, he said, to ask Professor Challenger whether the results to which he had alluded in his remarks had been obtained during a journey to the headwaters of the Amazon made by him two years before.

Professor Challenger answered that they had.

Mr. Summerlee desired to know how it was that Professor Challenger claimed to have made discoveries in those regions which had been overlooked by Wallace, Bates, and other previous explorers of established scientific repute.

Professor Challenger answered that Mr. Summerlee appeared to be confusing the Amazon with the Thames; that it was in reality a somewhat larger river; that Mr. Summerlee might be interested to know that with the Orinoco, which communicated with it, some fifty thousand miles of country were opened up, and that in so vast a space it was not impossible for one person to find what another had missed.

NOTES ON TARHEELIA

The State Board of Agriculture consists of ten members, one from each congressional district. These are appointed by the Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate. They must be "practical farmers." They receive $5 per diem and mileage.

The State of North Carolina pays $2,500 a year to the North Carolina State Volunteer Firemen's Association and to the North Carolina State Firemen's Association. This fund is known as the Firemen's Relief Fund.

The State Highway Commission of North Carolina was first appointed by Governor Locke Craig in accordance with the provisions of Chapter 113 of the Public Laws of 1915, in anticipation of the passage of the Federal road act in 1916. However, since the appropriation provided was only $10,000 with which to carry out the provisions of the act, the commission could only act in an advisory capacity to the various county and township boards throughout the State. The General Assembly of 1921, which voted $50,000,000 to start road building in earnest in North Carolina, provided for the commission as it is now constituted. The Highway Commission now is one of the most important agencies of the State government.

RECORDS OF 1860 SHOW 4 EGGS SOLD FOR A CENT

Washington.—Department of Agriculture experts, in hunting down data for a statistical compilation of the price range on agricultural products during the past 100 years, have come across some astonishing exhibits of the low cost of food-stuffs in by gone years.

It is a matter of record that Caleb Hitchcock, a merchant of Perry county, Ohio, purchased from Holton Majors, a farmer, 35 dozen eggs at three cents a dozen, and sold to him two gallons of whiskey at 25 cents a gallon. But this happened in 1860. The records further show that Hugh Manney, of Lake City, Mississippi, in 1848 sold 98 pounds of raw cotton at 8 1-2 cents a pound. In 1860 corn in Minnesota sold for 30 cents a bushel, and wheat for 75 cents a bushel. In 1846 in Chester county, Ill., ham sold for 7 cents a pound, beef 2 1-2 cents a pound and stove wood $1 a cord.

In 1848 in Charles county, Maryland, two pounds of chewing tobacco sold for thirty cents. In 1834 in Cleveland, Ohio, corn sold for from 15 cents to 20 cents a bushel and wheat from 60 cents to 60 cents. During the same year in Morgan county, Ill., cows sold for from $10 to $20 and live hogs at two cents a pound.

In Fund Probe

WILLIAM S. ARMIGER

William S. Armiger, financial clerk in the State House of Correction at Annapolis, Md., was arrested and charged with defalcation of State funds. State officials, who allege that his books revealed shortages of $20,000 extending over a period of four years, were at a loss, they said, to explain why the books were not checked before.

Oil and Gas Journal estimates daily crude oil production last week at 2,294,271 barrels, increase 54,620 daily over previous week.
German gold discount bank cuts rate to 7 per cent from 8 per cent.
Vivadon stockholders vote to retire preferred and change common par to $10 from no par. Some holders may subscribe for 40,000 shares common at $13.
Gulf Refining cuts gasoline 2 cents in greater New York meeting Texas Company price.
Chesapeake and Ohio declared regular semi-annual 2 per cent dividend on common.
National Surety Co., Union Carbide and National Transit declared regular dividends. American smelting advances lead 10 points to 8 cents per pound.

Stocks

Profit taking sales may cause a temporary check in the forward movement, though attendant reactions are not expected to be severe. The general undertone continues firm, and barring unfavorable developments, new high price levels for the year are in prospect.

The Weather

Temperatures much warmer over the belt. No rainfall reported anywhere except heavy rains in North-east Florida. Forecast: Entire belt generally fair except East Texas part cloudy warmer.

Grain

Wheat traders expect Liverpool to come somewhat higher as a result of the late advance here. New crop futures showed strength in all markets, even Winnipeg October being up over 3 cents as against 2-1/4 gain in Chicago Dec. The latter is being picked up by operators who are in some instances selling May and replacing with the new crop futures as they are at an attractive discount, the crop reports making them especially so. May deliveries in all markets are sensitive to either buying or selling at times and prices move sharp ly on light trading.

Cotton.

In past years records show that cotton for July delivery upon New York Cotton Exchange, frequently sells very much higher than Cotton for October delivery.

In 1919 for instance, July contracts sold more than two hundred and fifty points above October and did not decline to an equal basic price until practically the expiration of the contract.

In 1920 July delivery sold more than one thousand and fifty points above October and expired at practically the top price.

In 1921 there was a moderate reaction and the July option expired practically fifty points lower.

In 1922 the move was uninteresting.

In 1923 July sold more than three hundred points over October.

In 1924 a matter of approximately six hundred and fifty points.

At the present writing, July is selling 27 to 30 points above October. The statistical position of the crops warrants close observation as desirable grades are difficult to obtain. The new crop is starting well over the greater part of the belt and is earlier than usual with the exception of parts of Texas and Oklahoma. The acreage according to private reports, will be increased, and the use of fertilizer is also expected to be greater, labor conditions as a whole are reported satisfactory, all of which factors, in our opinion, should widen the difference between the old and the new crop deliveries.

Believing that this straddle may be of interest, we bring it to your attention purely as a speculation. The margin required is two hundred fifty ($250). Dollars on each straddle which, in this instance, consists of the purchase of one hundred bales of July and the sale of one hundred bales of October.

Cotton Summary

Showers fell yesterday in South Atlantic States and Florida. Indications are for unsettled showery weather over Florida today and tomorrow. Generally fair elsewhere east of Miss. Southwest generally fair except part cloudy East Texas. Welds traveler says believes Texas planting including replanting is about 50 per cent completed. Weekly letter of a leading local firm says cotton planting is practically completed, although some replanting necessary. Chopping progressing satisfactorily, cultivation good to excellent, stands generally fair to good. Plant small but healthy. Weather somewhat better than preceding week. Warm dry weather needed in West and warm weather with occasional showers east. Boll weevil appearing locally in the East, grasshoppers generally in West Texas and Oklahoma. Season about a week or 10 days earlier.
