CLOSING EXERCISES LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL HELD LAST NIGHT

Gilbert T. Stephenson, of Raleigh, Delivers Commencement Address; 40 Graduates Receive Diplomas

"Aunt Mary's Money Tree" was the theme of the annual address to the members of the graduating class of the Greenville High School for the year 1925, delivered by Mr. Gilbert T. Stephenson, Banker and public-spirited citizen of Raleigh. This rather unusual subject was handled in most attractive and worth while manner by the speaker. In the beginning of his talk to the class the speaker declared that in his opinion the most vital topic to the American of the present and future is "Trust and Economy." In developing his theme Mr. Stephenson laid down two principles, namely, that "You always pay for what you get" and that "You always get what you pay for." He discussed the workings of these principles in life, from the spiritual standpoint, the material and physical. Throughout the address he had the closest attention of the large audience which crowded itself into the auditorium. Standing room was utilized by all who were so fortunate as to get inside after all seats were taken.

Preceding the address, the High School Glee Club under the direction of Miss Thomas rendered most effectively "The Call of Summer" from Farmer and then there was an instrumental solo by Edna Smith at the piano, Lindsay Wilkerson, clarinet, and Glenn Roberson, cornet. Following the address the Glee Club sang "The Merry Dances" by Mellow Ferris. Then the diplomas were awarded to forty graduates, all of whom had credit for 17 units and some of whom had as many as 20 units. In the absence of the Chairman, Mr. J. L. Little, and the Vice-Chairman, Judge Wheelbee, Mr. J. E. Winslow acted as chairman and addressed a few remarks of a timely nature to the class and then assisted by Mr. Davis principal of the High School, delivered the diplomas to the following graduates:

RIOTING CONTINUES IN SHANGHAI TODAY

Two Outbreaks This Morning Cause Police to Open Fire Killing Two and Injuring Several

Shanghai, June 3.—The city of Shanghai was an armed camp today. Two outbreaks this morning caused police to open fire, resulting in the death of two persons and injury to many others. Banks were closed, stores boarded, food was being rationed out by shopkeepers, hotels and stores watched for arms and troops of several nations attempting to restore order after series of uprising started last Saturday by Chinese students protesting against prosecution of strikers in Japanese owned mills here.

Chinese students withdrew momentarily from their crusade against foreign rule today and retired to their area of the city to bury several of their confederates who had been killed during the riot.

San Francisco, June 3.—Cable advices from China tell of renewed disturbances at Shanghai where rioting has been in progress since last Saturday and of the landing of armed guards at Canton from foreign warships as a precautionary move against students and soldiers which had paraded there in company with the Shanghai demonstration.

RELIEF PARTY TO BEGIN SEARCH FOR AMUNDSEN PARTY

Two Seaplanes Will Search Arctic Region in Hope of Locating Missing Polar Explorers

Oslo, Norway, June 3.—Lieutenant Lutzow Holm, officially selected to head the Norwegian government flying expedition in search of the Amundsen-Ellsworth polar party, told newspaper men today that his orders were to reconnoiter along the edge of the arctic ice fields without attempting to fly across the ice to the North Pole. He said he thought he would be able from the air to see 100 miles on clear days, but that it would be difficult for him to distinguish human beings from the air. He explained that Amundsen had smoke forms for use as signals and that he hoped to be able to locate the explorers by this means. The Norwegian Admiralty today shipped sledges, tents and other supplies to Horton, a port about 32 miles South of Oslo. The ship, Ingert, which will be used for the relief expedition, is at Horton and they will send forward two sea planes and other supplies along with the aviator toward the arctic, and at some point to be selected later, the fliers will leave the ship in an attempt to locate Amundsen.

KING GEORGE TODAY CELEBRATES HIS 60TH BIRTHDAY

Largest Crowds in History Gather to Witness Ceremonies That Marked the Big Celebration

London, June 3.—King George today celebrated his 60th birthday. The court came to London from Windsor yesterday for the occasion, which was marked by the customary congratulations from relatives, friends and foreign rulers, and eulogistic articles in the newspapers. The chief public celebration in London centered around the old military ceremonial "trooping the annual parade and the military formation of the brigade of guards in St. James Park. That spectacle always draws crowds, but they were larger than ever this year, there being an added attraction in the presence of Marshal Foch, who came here at the King's special invitation to participate in the parade.

SUPREME COURT TO HEAR TEST CASE ON HI-WAY CONTRACTS

Judge Daniels Enjoins Johnston County From Advancing $500,000 to Highway Commission

Raleigh, June 3.—A case of vital importance in road building circles of North Carolina, will be held by the Supreme Court before its Spring adjournment on June 24, as the result of a case brought before Judge Frank Daniels in Wake County Superior Court here yesterday. Following the recent ruling by the Attorney General that contracts between the State Highway Commission and the counties by which the counties advance money for road work to be repaid out of the fund of the commission, are void. A test case was entered yesterday when Judge Daniels enjoined Johnston county from advancing $500,000 to the commission for roads to be built in that county.

The case is regarded by highway officials as of the greatest importance since the policy has been followed for five years, and it is stated that about $10,000,000 has been advanced to the state by counties desiring their roads constructed before state funds were available.

Raleigh, June 3.—Attorney General Dennis G. Brummitt indicated today that his recent ruling as to loans made the State Highway Commission by counties did not affect the bond issues of $1,500,000 for a bridge across the Cape Fear River at Wilmington and $600,000 for the erection of a bridge across the Lower Chowan. Both issues were authorized by the General Assembly of 1925.

"The ruling had no reference to special acts passed by the General Assembly," said the Attorney General. He stated that he had not been called on for any definite ruling as to these two projects but indicated that in the lights of law cited and quoted, the ruling already made did not affect them.

DuPont Married to North Carolinian

Wilmington, June 3.—William A. McGirt, highway commissioner of the third district, stated, "regardless of the opinion of the Attorney General that all loans made by counties to the state to be repaid by subsequent bond issues were illegal the bond issue for the new bridge at Wilmington was in no wise affected. He pointed out that the issue was the result of a specific act of the General Assembly. He also stated that the $50,000 bonds for grading the Wilmington-Wrightsville highway were not affected by the ruling.

Ernest DuPont, of Wilmington, Delaware, President of the United States Flashless Powder Company, and Miss Ann Thompson, were married here at 10:30 o'clock this morning. The rites were administered by Rev. William McC. White, pastor of the first Presbyterian Church, of Raleigh, at the home of the brides brother, Frank Thompson. The couple left for their honeymoon trip to California. Mrs. DuPont is from Morganton, N. C., but since 1920, had been living in Baltimore where she was a trained nurse. It was there in a local hospital that she met Mr. DuPont last fall when he was a patient suffering with a fractured leg.

Cotton deteriorated in the west and the progress was poor to fair in the east. Conditions of the cotton crop varies from very good to very poor with an average mostly poor. The week has been favorable for harvesting oats and hay.

AFTER GRADUATION

Every commencement in school brings out many pleasant surprises. Students are brought to the front who manifest talent along varied lines that the public does not think they have. Good dramatic talent, good musical talent, poise and dignity in rendering numbers on the program, are not rare. It is surprising how much promise there is in the average boy or girl. You are led to expect great things from them in the years to come.

You naturally suppose that they will build on the ground-work laid. The young people who debate so well, who declaim with natural ability well trained, who sing or play well, will continue their efforts after they leave school or college, you think.

But facts gathered from the past do not bear out such an expectation. One of the distressing things about graduation is that it is literally too much quietude. The dramatic or musical talent is forgotten after some speaker has eloquently presented the diploma; the training comes to a decline.

The fault does not lie with the schools. They do their part and do it well. The young people seem to be in too big a hurry to make money or get into the limelight or have a big time. They say that the public loses interest in their cultural activities after they leave school. They feel that all that sort of stuff is for school work and not for grown men and women. Various reasons are alleged to explain the lack of interest in the cultural movements of the community.

Look at your church choir. No matter where you live you doubtless face the same conditions found in other localities. The young people who sang so well at commencement soon forget to sing and cannot be induced, with few exceptions, to come in the church choir or help on some special occasion. As for attending choir practice, or rehearsals for special events it is a big job to get any help from them.

Doubtless nothing can be done about the matter. The idea that graduation means quietude in the average mind is riveted down tightly by precedent. But it is a matter that may well be given thought.

It is a pity that the public regards the school and college periods as preparation merely for business or a career. In seeking to make it exclusively a commercial proposition, something valuable is lost. Of course, the commercial or business end of education must be given deep consideration, but it is not good to regard only the main chance in any enterprise—in school or other institution. There is something bigger than the dollars and cents or the career. Wealth and power are likely to be misdirected when they are regarded as the chief means in existence.

Education is many-sided and all the sides are important. And, it cannot be too often asserted, education should not cease with graduation at commencement. The student with diploma in hand is really just equipped to carry on further what has been attained to.—Masonic Journal.

Weather

Warm temperatures prevail over entire belt. Half inch rain reported in Vicksburg district. Forecast: Wednesday eastern and central belts generally fair. Western belt mostly part cloudy.

Julian Letter.

The government figures of 76.6 were higher than the average of all private reports. Trading was not as heavy as expected as people are becoming educated to the futility of guessing at the size of the crop at the end of May. It will probably however, have the effect in the commercial world in inducing buyers to continue their hand-to-mouth policy in the purchase of goods. Some good judges of the map state they considered prospects fair for rain in the South central portion of Texas in the next 24 hours. As has so often been pointed out, the lack of rain this season is going to play a prominent part in the market due to the lack of subsoil moisture in Texas but it should be remembered that a dry May and June East of the river is almost invariably favorable. It continues more of a weather market than ever. We suggest a trading policy with preparation for an irregularly lower level of prices.

Stock Letter.

The market continued to show uncertainty and there was quite a shrinkage in the volume. Some special issues were strong while others showed the effect of continued profit taking and pressure by professionals. The bears concentrated their attack early on U. S. Steel, Baldwin, Mack Truck, but failed to gain their objective in bringing out stocks and these issues subsequently had quite a recovery. There was a good deal of trading in international combustion at higher prices reflecting accumulation by important interests in connection with extension of company activity. American Smelting and General Electric continued to make new highs while Western Union continued under accumulation large blocks changing hands. International telephone and Telegraph after the sharp setback of yesterday continued its upward move right along a new high record. The start performer however as to advance scored was Maxwell Motors B, which advanced to 120 or 10 points over last night's close. Mack Truck was another strong specialty and the bears found no consolation in the fact that the company declared only regular dividends. The stock advanced instead of selling off and the company in its statement said the following "profits as might be supposed are expanding in keeping with the marked increase in shipments. While the margin of profit is somewhat less than in 1924, the great increase in production and shipments have earnings at the largest rate in the company's history." There was a better tone to the Oils and among the rails S. Ry. continued active and strong on the idea that after the decision in the preferred stock holders suit has been rendered some time this week, the way is open for an increase in the common div. rate.

Grain Letter.

Wheat—The protracted drought over the grain belt has been broken, the morning map showing rather general rains, this condition producing considerable realizing on a market which had only an indifferent demand. The consequent decline uncovered good support, apparently coming from leading cash interests. Two reports by private authorities were without marked effect, inasmuch as they were less radical than a report received yesterday. We have now had three reports from accredited authorities and their average finding of spring and winter combined is 671,000,000 which compares with an actual harvest last year of 872,000,000. Even if present outlook is maintained we start the new crop year with two hundred millions smaller yield than a year ago, likewise a smaller surplus remaining from previous crop. Illinois and Missouri say that the heads are not filling, the same character of reports came from Indiana yesterday, this is attributed to the recent low temperature. We think this condition is very important but the amount of shortage occasioned thereby cannot be determined until threshing returns are received. We believe it is again a proper procedure to accept all depressions as buying opportunities.

Coarse grains—Rains over the corn belt induced considerable realizing in corn. Market was characterized by an indifferent demand rather than severe pressure. Oats have have shown better resistance than corn, they are finding support from cereal interests and cash handlers. The condition of the new crop is given as some six points below average. There will be no report on the corn until next month but in the meantime the shortage of subsoil moisture should be kept in mind.
