COMMITTS MURDER IN DESIRE TO GET A SUPER THRILL

Philip H. Knapp, Wrecker of Women's Hearts, Being Sought by Police for Murder of Louis Penella

Minneapolis, N. Y., July 11.—Having committed murder to get the super-thrill of his hectic career, in the opinion of the authorities, Phillip H. Knapp, 27 year old deserter from the Army Aviation Corps, and wrecker of women's hearts, is being sought by the police.

Like the murder of Bobbie Franks, in Chicago, in which the finding of a pair of glasses in a swamp led to the slayers capture, Knapp's carelessness started the hunt for him.

Knapp is accused for picking up his victim in a modest, trusting man, Louis, Penella, a taxi driver, and father of two children. Searchers stumbled over a foot protruding from the ruins of an old camp hospital site near here July 4. Penella disappeared the previous night. The same day Knapp had obtained a three day leave. The body might not have been found for weeks, if at all, if Knapp had heaped over it a little more of the wreckage.

The desire for a superthrill was revealed in a letter which Knapp left in his locker in Michael Field, addressed to his father. The letter in army correspondence style was headed "Subject disappearance of Phillip H. Knapp" and referred to the writer in the third person. "Anything was welcome that endangered life," the letter said. "Frankly the thought of self-destruction has been considered, but at that, although the thought was desirable, the excitement of the utter enjoyment of facing death was absent, and now he finds that the life in the army is entirely too stupid to satisfy that insatiable longing. What would be done next will be done unknown to all, absolutely. A different name will be used, and in this large world the utter impossibility of detection is evident."

The letter said that a certain young woman, formerly his wife, and at present most distasteful to him, had been trying to locate him.

"Fying was about the only occupation, not untried, so he enlisted," the letter continued. "Perhaps it was seeking after thrills that led to all his escapades. Bootlegging proved to be a failure."

"This condition of mind is admitted to be most abnormal," the letter added, "being an exhausting circumstance." "A fractured skull suffered three years ago."

CITY WORKERS IN RIO TALK STRIKE WHEN WAGES STOP

Rio De Janeiro.—The municipality faced trouble early this month when 3,000 employes threatened to strike on account of unpaid wages. A committee recently was appointed to talk with the mayor, who promised to improve conditions. He later arrested the ring-leaders of the movement, and placed federal troops on guard at the city hall to stop trouble.

The office of the treasury stated that the city payroll was unpaid for April and May, the wages due certain departments totalling $1,000,000. The treasurer's office unconditionally says that this money was used to pay obligations due on foreign and domestic debts.

The city treasurer has started to liquidate unpaid salaries, the city promising to have the payments completed at an early date. The men accepted the promise and returned to work.

Giant Tree Named for Jardine

Logan, Utah.—In honor of Secretary of Agriculture William M. Jardine, a giant juniper tree, recently discovered in Logan Canyon near here and declared to be the oldest and largest one of its kind in the world, has been named "Juniper Jardine." The tree has a circumference of about 28 feet and is claimed by local residents to be the oldest living thing with the possible exception of the redwood trees in California.

Secretary Jardine was present at the christening which took place at a reunion of the class of 1904, Utah Agricultural College, of which he is a member.

SEARCH FAILS TO LOCATE DESPERADO AND COMPANIONS

Broke Jail at Blountsville, Tenn., Late Yesterday Over Powering the Jailor and Assistants

Bristol, Va., July 11.—An all night search by more than 100 men failed to locate any trace of Kinzie Wagner, youthful desperado and five companions who broke jail at Blountsville, Tennessee, late yesterday after overpowering the jailor and two assistants and taking their weapons.

Peases lead by officers of Tennessee and Virginia continued today to scour the country side for the jail breakers, who are known to have a quantity of ammunition. Six prisoners made the break with Wagner, who was in jail on three charges of murder growing out of a fight last Christmas Eve. One of the prisoners was captured within an hour, but the others escaped after a battle with officers.

The men made their dash for liberty when a jailor and deputy sheriff entered the jail to return 17 road prisoners to their cells. Two of the prisoners, who had concealed themselves in the corridor, bounced upon the jailor as he opened the door to the cell room and another through the combination through the block of cells and released the other prisoners. They made their way out of the building, and then to the road during the exchange of shots with the deputy sheriff and guard.

Henderson, July 11.—Breaking of records for a number of years, the thermometer at one today registered 101 degrees. While the natives of Henderson sweltered in the unusual heat, the weather bureau dashed their hope of a let up, with a prediction that the heat wave would continue for several days to come.

Three Men Badly Burned When Spark Falls Into Turpentine

Newton, July 11.—Three workers at the Fibre Manufacturing Plant here were recovering today from serious burns about the face, arms and hands, sustained in the manufacture of brake linings which ignited late yesterday.

A five gallon can of turpentine was being poured into a kettle when it ignited with a flash of fire, which enveloped the three men. A spark is believed to have caused the ignition.

Archdeacon Episcopal Church Canan Zone Visiting Asheville

Asheville, July 11.—The Rev. J. Lundy Sykes, archdeacon of the Protestant Episcopal church in the Canan Zone, is in Asheville, spending a part of his vacation. He is assisting the Rev. Willis G. Clark, rector of Trinity Episcopal Church, in the conduct of services.

Archdeacon Sykes is stationed at Cristofal on the Atlantic side of the Zone. He has congregations at Cristofal and Gaston and also visits other congregations as a part of his ecclesiastical duties. He was appointed two years ago by the Rt. Rev. James Morris, bishop of the missionary diocese of the Canan Zone.

Archdeacon Sykes predicts that the Panama Canal Zone will become a paying investment for the United States, aside from its strategic value.

COUPLE WITH 22 GALLONS OF 'RYE' ARRESTED TODAY

Mr. and Mrs. Hayes of Denver Driving a Touring Car Arrested in Raleigh

Raleigh, July 11.—The police last night seized 22 gallons of rye whiskey and arrested a couple giving their names as Mr. and Mrs. Hayes, of Denver, Colorado, who were driving a touring car in which the liquor was found. The couple was placed under a bond in the sum of $1,000 each, and they stay in custody, having failed to raise the required amount. It is said to have been the largest haul ever made by the Raleigh police. Chief Bryan stated that in a subsequent attempt to arrange bond the couple said they were Mr. and Mrs. George G. King, of San Francisco, and not Mr. and Mrs. Hayes, as previously stated.

Great Falls, Montana, July 11.—Two children were killed, one half a dozen or more homes were destroyed, and other property damage at Nerhart, a silver mining camp, 70 miles south of here, shortly before mid-night last night when a dam gave way and precipitated a 150 foot fall of water into Carpenter Creek. This information was received in a telephone message by the Great Falls Tribune today.

Declares That Man Not Loyal to His Country Despicable

Indianapolis, Ind., July 11.—Without a brotherhood of man nations, already drifting back to the selfishness that existed before the world war will engage in another conflict more terrible than the last. The Rev. William A. Cameron of Toronto, warned the Baptist Young Union of America at an address delivered at its annual convention here. Advocating a league of nations, Mr. Cameron favored a Union of Anglo-Saxon nations to reserve peace until all foreign powers could be brought into such a league. He defended nationalism and declared the man who was not loyal to his country was as despicable as the man disloyal to his family.

Urges Safe Guarding Childhood, Fitting It Useful Citizenship

Lake Junaluska, N. C., July 11.—Laying down the relation of the church as a Christian organization to the problems of child welfare, Dr. George B. Mangold, St. Louis, head of the church federation, urged safeguarding childhood and fitting it for useful citizenship. His address was delivered before the conference on social service, now being conducted here under the auspices of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

Mr. Mangold called attention to what he termed the right of every child to be well born to have such health as it is capable of attaining, the right of recreation and play, education along industrial, social sex lines, aid in overcoming causes that lead to delinquency and the rights of the dependent child.

"The church should lead in saving the lives of children along all these lines," said Dr. Mangold. He urged the importance of philanthropic programs being shaped from the preventative and constructive standpoint rather than pushing a remedial policy with individuals as the occasion arose.

Railroads Authorized Today By Interstate Commerce Commission to Increase Rates Generally

Washington, July 11.—Railroads authorized today by the Interstate Commerce Commission to increase generally, after August 1st, rates on furniture moving from Southern producing territories to New England and other north eastern cities. The proposal had been under suspension since last November to permit investigation. In illustrating the effect of the increase, the commission pointed out the present rates on mixed car loads of furniture to Boston from High Point, N. C., are 79 1-2 cents per 100 pounds and will become 96 cents. From Atlanta 84 cents and will become $1.16, from Chattanooga 70 1-2 cents and will become $1.10.

To New York City the rate from High Point is 74 cents and will become 93 cents, while the Atlanta rate will increase from 84 cents to $1.13. These increases will represent the alterations throughout the territory concerned.

COURT OF HONOR IN SPLENDID SESSION HERE LAST NIGHT

Merit Badge Examinations Feature the Session Which Was Held at Local Scout Headquarters

Merit badge examinations were the feature of the court of honor session held at local Scout headquarters in the high school last night. Seven of the much coveted merit badges were earned by three of the recently made first class scouts, these being the first honor badges ever awarded to Greenville Scouts. Three Scouts were promoted from Tenderfoot to Second class and two from Second to First class.

Tenderfoot Scouts Joe Dixon, Jr., Homer Taft, Merry House were promoted to Second class rank. To earn this and promotion a scout must have served at least a month as a Tenderfoot and pass tests in Elementary First Aid, Signaling, Tracking, Scouts Pace, Use of the Knife and Hatchet, Fire Building, Cooking with out utensils, Thrift, and must know the sixteen principle directions of the compass.

Second Class Scouts Sam Underwood, Jr., and Zack Van Dyke proved to the satisfaction of the court that they had earned their First class badges. To reach this rank a scout must serve sixty days as a second class scout and pass thorough examinations in swimming, thrift, signaling, hiking, advanced first aid, cooking, map drawing and map reading, handicraft, judging, nature study, and must recruit and train a Tenderfoot.

Merit badge examinations were passed by first class scouts as follows: Edward Thomas, personal health; examiner Dr. Joseph Smith, Public Health, examiner Dr. S. L. Outland, and first aid to animals, examiner Dr. Alex Viola.

Jake Skinner swimming, examiner V. M. Davis, personal health, examiner Dr. L. C. Skinner, and first aid to animals, examiner Dr. Viola. Ray O'Brian swimming, examiner V. M. Davis.

W. H. Rogers, Jr., acted as chairman of the court and was assisted by Rev. Watkins and Scout Executive Wilcox.

Inquiries Received By Gaston Co. Yarn Spinners Light

Gastonia, July 11.—Inquiries received by Gaston County Yarn Spinners the past week were comparatively light owing to unsettled market conditions with drives extending on an average of a month ahead and increasing scarcity of staple cotton spinners shown in inclination to accept new business at a substantial advance in prices.

Some mills are already anticipating hastening by curtailment of operations set for September, due to a lack of staple cotton. A survey of over 1,000,000 producing yarn spinners discloses that yarn stock amounts to only three fourths of a pound per spindle.

Not Agitated Over the Fundamentalist Modernist Controversy

Lake Junaluska, N. C., July 11.—Either ministers nor laymen of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, are agitated in any marked degree over the Fundamentalist-Modernist controversy, Dr. Stonewall Anderson, executive secretary of the Church's Board of Education, stated here. He had just returned from West Virginia, where he was a member of the faculty of the Leadership Schools of the denomination.

Berlin.—The Norwegian University Library at Oslo has presented the Prussian State Library with 570 volumes of modern Norwegian literature. The collection includes all publications issued in Norway during and after the war. In a letter accompanying the gift the hope was expressed that the collection might prove a profitable asset to German science and that it might serve to cement the intellectual relations between Norway and Germany.

HOTEL CONFERENCE TO CONSIDER NEXT MOVE SCOPES TRIAL

Counsel for Both Defense and Prosecution Consider Next Move in Game of Legal Chess

Dayton, Tenn., July 11.—With the first preliminary step cleared away, counsel for both defense and the prosecution in the Scopes Evolution case today went into conference to consider the next move in the game of legal chess.

The court adjourned yesterday until Monday morning upon agreement by the prosecution and defense. Today conferences were the order and tomorrow many of the participants and spectators will attend the various churches. William J. Bryan will teach a Sunday school class at one of the churches. "The twelve men, good and true" were selected yesterday after much questioning by the prosecution and defense attorneys. The jury consists of nine farmers, one school teacher, one fruit grower, and one shipping clerk. Eleven of the jurors are members of the church. Three denominations are represented, the Baptist, Methodist and Christian. With indications of a battle royal in the offering, the defense made the determination upon what grounds they would base their plea for admission in the evidence of the testimony of experts along scientific and religious lines with the announced attention of attempting to show that the theory of evolution does not conflict with the biblical accounts of creation.

While they were seeking a firm basis for their contention that such testimony would be relevant, prosecution attorneys were drawing up their battle line to withstand the anticipated assault.

Indications here today were that they would attempt to have the testimony introduced as matter for the information of the presiding judge to be dealt with afterwards as he sees fit. While it has been known for several weeks that this probably would be the basis of the argument for the submission of such evidence, they still were seeking other grounds upon which to base their contention.

Prosecution attorneys on the other hand consider the case one in which only the question of whether or not John T. Scopes thought that man descended from a lower form of animal was involved.

Basing their contention on this view, they have announced their intention of making a supreme effort to prevent the trial from leaving the purely legal course, and trailing into a religious or scientific controversy.

The only issue Attorney General Stewart stated, is whether or not Scopes thought that man descended from a lower order of animal. Their stand in the matter is not a change of any previously announced plans, it is pointed out, since they have not previously announced any course of action.

Dayton, Tenn., July 11.—Prosecution counsel in the John T. Scopes case held that admission of expert testimony scientists and theologians would convert the trial of the Dayton biological instructor into a joint debate of science and religion.

Chicago, July 11.—The American Federation of teachers in a letter to John T. Scopes defendants in the Tennessee Anti-Evolution trial made public today, asserts that the public school is on trial at Dayton, and that "the danger can only be removed by the final, if not the immediate success of the defense contentions" in behalf of freedom of education.

The letter mailed yesterday expressed the view that the establishment of the principle embodied in the Tennessee law would replace the professional spirit of scholars with hypocrisy and cant.

A GROWING NUISANCE

This morning's session of Mayor's court was featured by a number of cases growing out of the operating of automobiles with unmuffled exhausts. This form of unnecessary noise created by motorists has become a nuisance and no doubt strict enforcement of the "no cut-out" law is the one sure way to put a stop to it. Should the city authorities see fit to include the unnecessary sounding of automobile horns in the present law, this, too, would make life here more livable. There are times when horns must be sounded as a warning to other motorists or pedestrians but the continuous blowing of horns as is heard throughout the day and a portion of the night on our streets should be made to cease.

LIVING WITHIN INCOME

(Governor McLean calls attention to the necessity of the State's living within its income. The Governor is right. No State, county, or city has any right to spend more for current expenses than it receives. The garment must be cut to fit the cloth, as Governor Kitchin liked to say. This is a sound principle of government as well as for citizens in their daily lives. It is so fundamental, so absolutely necessary, that it needs no emphasis or ought not to. Unfortunately, there does seem to be a necessity for the preaching of such sound doctrine.

As fundamental and equally as important is the further necessity of the practice of real economy in the conduct of the affairs of the government. Public funds are trust funds and public officials do not have the right and ought not to have the privilege of spending public funds recklessly. It ought to be so fundamental as to require no emphasis, but unfortunately it seems that there is danger in this State that we may forget so important a fact in the conduct of our public affairs.

Governor McLean calls attention to the horizontal raise in indirect taxes for the State and points out that even then there was not enough to go around. There was a horizontal raise on many items and there wasn't enough to go around. It would be a mistaken policy, however, to assume that North Carolina is poor and that it cannot continue to be progressive. Governor McLean would be the last to subscribe to such a doctrine, and he has not done so. A State that can contribute millions in income taxes to the Federal government need not fear that it has not the resources necessary to continue "the program of progress."—News and Observer.

It was a fact that our Indians had shown in many ways of late that they were weary of their journey and anxious to return. We realized that Zambo spoke the truth, and that it would be impossible for him to keep them.

"Make them wait till tomorrow, Zambo," I shouted; "then I can send letter back by them."

"Very good, sarr! I promise they wait till tomorrow," said the negro. "But what I do for you now?"

There was plenty for him to do, and admirably the faithful fellow did it. First of all, under our directions, he undid the rope from the tree-stump and threw one end of it across to us. It was not thicker than a clothes-line, but it was of great strength, and though we could not make a bridge of it, we might find it invaluable if we had any climbing to do. He then fastened his end of the rope to the package of supplies which had been carried up, and we were able to drag it across. This gave us the means of life for at least a week, even if we found nothing else. Finally he descended and carried up two other packets of mixed goods—a box of ammunition and a number of other things, all of which we got across by throwing our rope to him and hauling it back. It was evening when he at last climbed down, with a final assurance that he would keep the Indians till next morning.

And so it is that I have spent nearly the whole of this first night upon the plateau writing up our experiences by the light of a single candle-lantern.

We supped and camped at the very edge of the cliff, quenching our thirst with two bottles of Apollinaris which were in one of the cases. It is vital to us to find water, but I think even Lord John himself had had adventures enough for one day, and none of us felt inclined to make the first push into the unknown. We forbore to light a fire or to make any unnecessary sound.

Tomorrow (or today, rather, for it is already dawn as I write) we shall make our first venture into this strange land. When I shall be able to write again—or if I ever shall write again—I know not. Meanwhile, I can see that the Indians are still in their place, and I am sure that the faithful Zambo will be here presently to get my letter. I only trust that it will come to hand.

P. S.—The more I think the more desperate does our position seem. I see no possible hope of our return. If there were a high tree near the edge of the plateau we might drop a return bridge across, but there is none within fifty yards. Our united strength could not carry a trunk which would serve our purpose. The rope, of course, is far too short that we could descend by it. No, our position is hopeless—hopeless!

CHAPTER X

"The most Wonderful Things have Happened"

The most wonderful things have happened and are continually happening to us. All the paper that I possess consists of five old notebooks and a lot of scraps, and I have only the one stylographic pencil; but so long as I can move my hand I will continue to set down our experiences and impressions, for, since we are the only men of the whole human race to see such things, it is of enormous importance that I should record them whilst they are fresh in my memory and before that fate which seems to be constantly impending does actually overtake us. Whether Zambo can at last take these letters to the river, or whether I shall myself in some miraculous way carry them back with me, or, finally, whether some daring explorer, coming upon our tracks with the advantage, perhaps, of a perfected monoplane, should find this bundle of manuscript, in any case I can see that what I am writing is destined to immortality as a classic of true adventure.

On the morning after our being trapped upon the plateau by the villainous Gomez we began a new stage in our experiences. The first incident in it was not such as to give me a favorable opinion of the place to which we had wandered. As I roused myself from a short nap after day had dawned, my eyes fell upon a most singular appearance upon my own leg. My trouser had slipped up, exposing a few inches of my skin above my sock. On this there rested a large, purplish grape. Astonished at the sight, I leaned forward to pick it off, when, to my horror, it burst between my finger and thumb, squirting blood in every direction. My cry of disgust had brought the two professors to my side.

"Most interesting," said Summerlee, bending over my shin. "An enormous blood-tick, as yet, I believe, unclassified."

that we might know what we had to rely upon. What with the things we had ourselves brought up and those which Zambo had sent across on the rope, we were fairly well supplied. Most important of all, in view of the dangers which might surround us, we had our four rifles and one thousand three hundred rounds, also a shotgun, but not more than a hundred and fifty medium pellet cartridges. In the matter of provisions we had enough to last for several weeks, with a sufficiency of tobacco and a few scientific implements, including a large telescope and a good field-glass. All these things we collected together in the clearing, and as a first precaution, we cut down with our hatchet and knives a number of thorny bushes, which we piled round in a circle some fifteen yards in diameter. This was to be our headquarters for the time—our place of refuge against sudden danger and the guard-house for our stores. Fort Challenger, we called it.

Here is a photoplay that tells a big, vital story in a bold, startling way. "The Thundering Herd" is one of the few really great epic pictures of America in the making—a worthy successor to "The Covered Wagon." Produced on the same spectacular and gigantic scale, it deals with another tremendously important period of American history. It illustrates the courage and sacrifices of those men and women who, in 1876, left their farms in Illinois and Indiana to settle the far west, which today includes the states of Wyoming and Montana. The picture vividly recreates the west as it was then—a vast wilderness ranged by great herds of buffalo and inhabited by fierce, nomadic Indians.

Much of the story was filmed on its actual local, on locations personally selected by Zane Grey. Many of the scenes were taken in Yellowstone Park. Many others were photographed in the rugged and majestic mountains of the north—twelve thousand feet above sea level and one hundred miles from the nearest railway.

Against this picturesque and scenically beautiful background is reproduced one of the most stirring and significant chapters in "the winning of the west." Many exciting adventures fall to the lot of these hardy, red-blooded pioneers, and the picture faithfully depicts their hardships, dangers and privations.

The direction of William K. Howard is a notable achievement. Although practically a newcomer to the ranks of producers, he displays in this production a directorial shrewness that would do credit to a veteran.

The cast is perfect and includes some of filmdom's most popular favorites—Jack Holt, Lois Wilson, Noah Beery and Raymond Hatton. Special orchestra—Comedy and News.

CONFESSES
Confessing factors enter into the coffee situation which prevent a definite opinion being formed at this time. Yesterday's advance was due largely to reports of cold weather in interior of Brazil. If unfavorable climatic conditions and Brazil accounts for the advance, the immediate trend may be slightly irregular in consequence of profit taking and the necessity for technical corrections in certain parts of the list. Ralls appear to be in line for an early advance.
