ALL TESTIMONY OF SCIENTISTS TO BE BARRED FROM TRIAL

Decision of Judge Raulston Regarded as Having a Vital Bearing on Length of the Trial

Court Room, Dayton, Tenn., July 17.—Judge John T. Raulston announced this morning that he had decided to exclude scientific testimony from the trial of John T. Scopes on a charge of violating the Tennessee anti-evolution law.

The decision was regarded as having a vital bearing on the length of the trial. Yesterday was devoted entirely to argument on the question of competency of experts testimony. SENTENCED TO HANG

After Judge Raulston had excluded scientific testimony, court was adjourned until Monday morning at 9 o'clock. The intervening time will be spent by counsel for the defense in preparing statements for the record of what their witnesses would have testified had they been permitted to take the stand.

The Judge's decision was announced at 9:51 a. m., after he had read a review of his conclusion as to the intent of the statute passed by the legislature. The defense at once noted an exception to the court's ruling, and the Judge ordered it placed on record.

In presenting the defense exception, Arthur G. Hays declared, "It is denial of justice to permit the state to make the case on its own evidence. It is contrary to every principal of Anglo-Saxon judicial procedure."

The defense then announced that it desired to place its proposed testimony into the court record for the purpose of placing it before a higher court. Replying to a question from Judge Raulston, Hays said the defense had about six branches of science represented by witnesses.

"I think you are entitled to have in the records a sufficient amount of the proof to show the appellate court what your proof would have been," said the Judge. The defense contended, however, that it also had the right to argue before the court that the law was unreasonable and to put on evidence to "inform the court" in the absence of the jury.

Mr. Hays added that the court would be benefited as the result. "Should the court be convinced that it is an error than he will retract his opinion," Judge Raulston said.

Attorney General Stewart said that the defense wished to conduct the campaign of education for their theories of education and evolution through the medium of this trial. The state offered no objection, he said, to permitting the defense to offer the substance of the testimony in affidavit form.

Dudley Field Malone denied that a campaign of education was being conducted, although he said he thought the way in which the defense had conducted the case was educational. He said that the defense was meeting propaganda started by a "distinguished member of the prosecution."

Judge Raulston said he was not inclined, after given an opinion, to hear testimony to show that the opinion was wrong.

Clarence Darrow, of the defense heatedly replied that if such witnesses are put on the stand it would not be proper to cross examine them, and it would be the purpose of such testimony to show what the defense expected to prove. An argument developed between Mr. Darrow and Judge Raulston in this connection. Mr. Darrow had asked for the rest of the day to draw up proof which the defense wished to present. The judge asked if it would take the rest of the day. Mr. Darrow said he could not understand why such request of the defense was overruled.

"I hope you do not mean to reflect upon the court," said Judge Raulston.

"You have a right to hope," replied Darrow.

"I have a right to do something else," said Judge Raulston.

"All right, all right, then," said Darrow, apparently ending the clash.

Mr. Darrow insisted on having the remainder of the day in which to prepare what his side desired to put in-

Mrs. Anna Boldchi Fuller received this amount under Benjamin's will, it was shown by an accounting filed in court yesterday. Mr. Benjamin cut off his natural five children, including Mrs. Ingram, the Tenor's widow, with $1.00 each. The sum of $60,000 plus the residue of the estate, was bequeathed to Miss Bolchi. Benjamin adopted Anna in the Pennsylvania courts. The engine and five freight cars, which formed the first half of the train, remained on the rails and was able to proceed to New Bern.

SENTENCED TO HANG TODAY, IS GRANTED A WEEK'S REPRIEVE

Russell Scott Granted New Lease on Life When Telegram is Received Confessing Murder Mauer

Chicago, July 17.—A new lease on life for one week has been given Russell Scott, condemned to die today for the murder of Joseph Mauer, a drug store clerk in a hold up. Six hours before the time set for the execution of the erstwhile Canadian millionaire, Governor Small, after receiving a mysterious telegram message from Detroit, granted a reprieve.

The message came when all hope had been abandoned by Scott and his wife and aged father, who had worked for weeks to save him. The message confessed to the killing and promised to surrender, urging that the hanging be delayed. It was given to a message boy on a street in Detroit by a young man and signed by Robert Scott. Russell Scott had said that Robert, his brother who was never apprehended, was the actual slayer of Mauer.

The 30 year old condemned man whose colorful career has included vaudeville acting, authorship of books on business ethics, promotion of million dollar enterprises, and finally bootlegging, was prepared for death when news of the reprieve came. He had bid farewell to his wife and aged father and asked that the inscription "Murdered by the State of Illinois" be placed on his tombstone. With the death watch guards, Scott was playing cards when he was informed of the Governor's action.

"Thank God, he exclaimed, his emotion overcoming him." When the recovered he asked, "where is my wife? Thank God for my wife's sake. Oh, won't some one find her and tell her?" Mrs. Scott was found at the apartment of a friend. She broke down and sobbed, "and to think that I thought there was no link and that prayers were no good."

Hagginbotham, former Dixie County Lumber Camp "Whipping Boss" today was found not guilty by a circuit court jury on a second degree murder charge in connection with the alleged slaying of Martin Tabert, North Dakota youth. HOKEY POKEY GIRLS INTRODUCED TO COMPETE WITH LONDON MEN

London.—The "hokey pokey" girl has appeared in London—hundreds of her. The hokey pokey ice cream man arrived three or four years ago, by leaps and bounds, and is now a familiar sight in any part of London, every afternoon and evening during the warm weather. One firm alone has 1,500 men, on three wheeled bicycles, who sell ice cream sandwiches for a penny, and recently another firm, with the same conveyance for carrying the ice cream packs started with young women as dispensers.

The contention is made that girls naturally take more interest in their work, and are capable of making more sales because of their ability to make friends more quickly and to handle the hokey pokey more daintily than their men and boy competitors.

The program which the government will pursue in event of a strike was discussed at a three hour conference today by President Coolidge and Secretary Davis. The specific plans of the government was not disclosed. Secretary Davis ventured no opinion as to the outcome of the wage negotiations now underway. He pointed out however that the Department of Labor through two mediators was keeping in close touch with the discussion of the operators and the miners and was hoping that an agreement would be reached before the wage contracts expired on August 31.

N. C. Claims First Rank Total Value Of Tobacco Crop

Raleigh, July 17.—North Carolina still claims first rank in the total value of the tobacco crop among the states of the Union, although Kentucky leads in acreage. The total value of the crop last year was $71,807,900, the Kentucky crop being almost the same. Tobacco is the state's second most valuable crop. In eastern counties this year, the growth has been unusually good, reports Frank Parker, agricultural statistician, while in the Old Belt the drought has held the crop back considerably. The Government report, said Mr. Parker, shows one per cent increase in the acreage of the crop this year, with an average condition of 81 per cent, indicating a production of 333,428,000 pounds.

GOV. A. W. McLEAN DELIVERS ADDRESS AT CAMP GLENN

Declares That National Guard is Essentially a Citizens' Army Because Its Personnel is From All Walks of Life

(By Associated Press)

Camp Glenn, N. C., July 17.—"It must be remembered that ours is essentially a government of laws," Governor A. W. McLean told members of the North Carolina National Guard, in camp here, today. "It follows, therefore," the executive and commander-in-chief declared, "that when the laws are disregarded and broken or the constituted authorities of the State become unable to enforce the law, the sovereignty of the people is repudiated and insulted."

Governor McLean declared, further, that "the National Guard as an organized force in a democratic like ours represents the sovereignty of the people, just as the Governor, the courts, the police officers and the jails represent that sovereignty."

"As a matter of fact," he declared "all of the instrumentalities represent the voice of the people, because they have been set up by the people maintain orderly government by imposing the laws which they have enacted in the exercise of the supreme sovereignty invested in them."

During his address the Governor declared, with emphasis, that the National Guard "is not a military machine, in the sense that Germany and the other war-like nations of Europe maintain military machines." He declared that "no one need fear that such a system will promote militarism in a democratic republic like ours." He said the National Guard was essentially a citizens' army, "because its personnel is made of those who come from the fields, mines, factories, professions and other ordinary walks of life."

Lisbon.—The head of the criminal investigating police has become one of the most popular men in Lisbon because of his activities in rounding up the leaders in the recent bomb outrages. As a result 60 of the most dangerous extremists have been deported to west Africa.

Little effort had been made to apprehend the trouble makers until the attempted assassination of Colonel Ferreira de Amaral, head of the Lisbon police, who was shot on a street corner. Only one of the group of assailants was arrested at the time, but rigid investigations soon revealed the identity of the others and all were taken into custody. This proved an easy task when the police decided to act, because the leaders, having escaped arrest after previous outrages, became bolder with each succeeding one and did not take the trouble to hide from the police.

16.4 per cent less than 1923, and 24.2 per cent less than 1922. With a 6.9 per cent increase in the State's oat crop this year, the July 1 reports indicate a prospective yield for spring oats of 17 bushels and of fall oats 22 bushels per acre which indicates a 5,227,000 1922. The 455,000 acres under cultivation is 6 per cent less than last year, and 24.2 per cent less than 1922.

STILL TALKING TAXES

"Thank God for South Carolina," Governor Aycock used to say when North Carolina was next to the bot tom of the States in illiteracy percentages while the Palmetto State was at the bottom. If it hadn't been for South Carolina, this State would have had the bottom ring.

It may be that North Carolina shall again have occasion to be thankful for South Carolina. If there is another State in the American Union that has given more time to discussing taxes it has not as yet come to public notice in this section. If it were not for South Carolina, the Old North State could take the palm, the crown and whatever honors might be offered for tax talk.

Sixty-three days the North Carolina General Assembly was in session this year, and sixty-three days it discussed taxes and how to raise them. Finally it adjourned and went home. Despite predictions that it would be back in August, the solons are still at home. Not so in South Carolina. After being in session for a couple of months and failing to agree on anything that looked like it would provide enough revenue to keep the state going, the solons went home, recuperated from their labors, and came back for another month.

When the North Carolina General Assembly adjourned, a half was called in the taxation talk business. It was the consensus of opinion that those who had gotten it in the neck had just as well pay cheerfully while those who got off much lighter than they expected will pay with greater cheerfulness. Not so in South Carolina. There has been little else discussed since the Legislature adjourned. This talk culminated yesterday in a conference in Columbia, which was attended by several hundred of the State's leaders. It was a semi-official conference, which was called by Governor McLeod.

Nothing is ever settled until it is settled right, and the more the important problem of equitable taxation is discussed the more likely will an equitable system of taxation be worked out.—News and Observer.

JAPAN TO EXTEND ARMY TRAINING TO ALL THE HIGHER GRADE SCHOOLS

Tokyo.—The military training of all students in Japan, which is embodied in the proposed national military training system, was commenced recently in the normal schools of the empire. It is planned to extend the system to the students of the middle and other schools of the higher grade next year.

The estimated cost of inaugurating the program in the lower and higher grades has been estimated at 6,000,000 yen. It is hoped that the new system will be in operation by 1928. The military authorities will be asked to supply some 300,000 rifles to the different schools and young men's associations.

That night (our third in Maple White Land) we had an experience which left a fearful impression upon our minds, and made us thankful that Lord John had worked so hard in making our retreat impregnable. We were all sleeping round our dying fire when we were aroused—or, rather, I should say, shot out of our slumbers—by a succession of the most frightful cries and screams to which I have ever listened. I know no sound to which I could compare this amazing tumult, which seemed to come from some spot within a few hundred yards of our camp. It was an ear-splitting as any whistle of a railway-engine; but whereas the whistle is a clear, mechanical, sharp-edged sound, this was far deeper in volume and vibrant with the uttermost strain of agony and horror. We clapped our hands to our ears to shut out that nerve-shaking appeal. A cold sweat broke out over my body, and my heart turned sick at the misery of it. All the woes of tortured life, all its stupendous indictment of high heaven, its innumerable sorrows, seemed to be centered and condensed into that one dreadful, agonized cry. And then, under this high-pitched, ringing sound there was another, more intermittent, a low, deep-chested laugh, a growling, throaty gurgle of merriment which formed a grotesque accompaniment to the shriek with which it was blended. For three or four minutes on end the fearsome duet continued, while all the foliage rustled with the rising of startled birds. Then it shut off as suddenly as it began. For a long time we sat in horrified silence. Then Lord John threw a bundle of twigs upon the fire and their red glare lit up the intent faces of my companions and flickered over the great boughs above our heads.

I stooped and peered over his shoulder through the gap. Yes, I could see it, too. In the deep shadow of the tree there was a deeper shadow yet, black, inchoate, vague—a crouching form full of savage vigor and menace. It was no higher than a horse, but the dim outline suggested vast bulk and strength. That hissing pant, as regular and full-volume as the exhaust of an engine, spoke of a monstrous organism. Once, as it moved, I thought I saw the glint of two terrible, greenish eyes. There was an uneasy rustling, as if it were crawling slowly forward.

"I believe it is going to spring!" said I, cocking my rifle.

"Don't fire! Don't fire!" whispered Lord John. "The crash of a gun in this silent night would be heard for miles. Keep it as a last card."

"If it gets over the hedge we're done," said Summerlee, and his voice crackled into a nervous laugh as he spoke.

"No, it must not get over," cried Lord John; "but hold your fire to the last. Perhaps I can make something of the fellow. I'll chance it, anyhow."

It was as brave an act as ever I saw a man do. He stooped to the fire, picked up a blazing branch, and slipped in an instant through a Sallyport which he had made in our gateway. The thing moved forward with a dreadful snarl. Lord John never hesitated, but, running towards it with a quick, light step, he dashed the flaming wood into the brute's face. For one moment I had a vision of a horrible mask like a giant toad's, of a warty, leoprous skin, and of a loose mouth all beslobbered with fresh blood. The next, there was a crash in the underwood and our dreadful visitor was gone.

"I thought he wouldn't face the fire," said Lord John, laughing, as he came back and threw his branch among the faggots.

"You should not have taken such a risk!" we all cried.

"There was nothing else to be done. If he had got among us we should have shot each other in trying to down him. On the other hand, if we had fired through the hedge and wounded him he would soon have been on the top of us

Lord John never hesitated, but running towards it with a quick, light step, he dashed the flaming wood into the brute's face.

us—not farther than the glade. "We have been privileged to overhear a prehistoric tragedy, the sort of drama which occurred among the reeds upon the border of some Jurassic lagoon, when the greater dragon pinned the lesser among the slims," said Challenger, with more solemnity than I had ever heard in his voice. "It was surely well for man that he came late in the order of creation. There were powers abroad in earlier days which no courage and no mechanism of his could have met. What could his sling, his throwing-stick, or his arrow avail him against such forces as have been loose tonight? Even with a modern rifle it would be all odds on the monster."

"I think I should back my little friend, said Lord John, caressing his Express. "But the beast would certainly have a good sporting chance."

Summerlee raised his hand. "Hush!" he cried. "Surely I hear something!"

From the utter silence there emerged a deep, regular pat-pat. It was the tread of some animal—the rhythm of soft but heavy pads placed cautiously upon the ground. It stole slowly round the camp, and they halted near our gateway. There was a low, sibilant rise and fall—the breathing of the creature. Only our feeble hedge separated us from this horror of the night. Each of us had seized his rifle, and Lord John had pulled out a small bush to make an embrasure in the hedge.

"By George!" he whispered. "I think I can see it!"

to say nothin' of giving ourselves away. On the whole, I think that we are jolly well out of it. What was he, then?"

Our learned men looked at each other with some hesitation. "Personally, I am unable to classify the creature with any certainty," said Summerlee, lighting his pipe from the fire.

"In refusing to commit yourself you are but showing a proper scientific reserve," said Challenger, with massive condescension. "I am not myself prepared to go farther than to say in general terms that we have almost certainly been in contact tonight with some form of carnivorous dinosaur. I have already expressed my anticipation that something of the sort might exist upon this plateau."

"We have to bear in mind," remarked Summerlee, "that there are many prehistoric forms which have never come down to us. It would be rash to suppose that we can give a name to all that we are likely to meet."

"Exactly. A rough classification may be the best that we can attempt. Tomorrow some further evidence may help us to an identification. Meantime we can only renew our interrupted slumbers."

"But not without a sentinel," said Lord John, with decision. "We can't afford to take chances in a country like this. Two-hour spells in the future, for each of us."

"Then I'll just finish my pipe in starting the first one," said Professor Summerlee; and from that time onwards we never trusted ourselves again without a watchman.

Showing at White's Theatre Today

With six stars in one picture, there is smaller wonder that "A Broadway Butterfly," which opens at White's Theatre tonight, is unusually interesting and remarkably acted. Louise Fazenda, Dorothy Devore and Lilyan Tashman represent the ladies of the cast, while Willard Louis, Cullen Landis and John Roche form the male contingent. Their sincere and utterly unaffected performances made the photoplay a vivid, moving story of people you might have known all your life.

"A Broadway Butterfly" concerns itself with the daring and daring show girls that grow no other place than on that brilliant thoroughfare of New York and their companions, the rich, satiated joy-hunters called "men-about-town."

Louise Fazenda is absolutely marvelous in her role of an understanding, fun-loving "chorine," while Lilyan Tashman, whose career actually started in the Follies on Broadway, does her part to perfection. Dorothy Devore is the shy, county-bred girl to whom everything is new and startling, with the result that she is soon involved in countless difficulties—meaning, men and their wiles.

FALKLAND NEWS

L. T. Pierce was in Falkland Sunday, having just returned from Richmond where his sister-in-law, Miss Ethel Pittman, is in Stuart Circle Hospital. He brought the welcome news that Miss Pittman was getting on as well as possible after an appendicitis operation. Mrs. Pierce and the children, who have been spending a few days with the Pittmans, here, returned with Mr. Pierce to Farmville Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Gorham Crisp reached Falkland Tuesday morning for a visit with their parents. They came by automobile from Tuscaloosa, Alabama, where Mr. Crisp is one of the coaches at the University of Alabama, and where they are known as "Hustling Hank and Mrs. Hank." They expect to be in North Carolina about two weeks.

At the meeting of the Intermediate Christian Endeavor Society Sunday night the following new officers for the coming year were installed: Pres. Violet Scott; vice-pres. Brownie Fleming; secretary, Ruth Pittman; treasurer, Mattie Little; chairman of committee, Glenn Scott; Anna Pearl Edwards, Maggie Norville, Maggie Brown, Margaret Dupree, Annie Mayo.

Dr. J. N. H. Summerell is expected in Falkland Thursday, and will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Mayo for about a week. Dr. Summerell will preach in the Falkland Presbyterian Church at both morning and evening services Sunday. He always finds a particularly appreciative and interested congregation in Falkland, for he was the founder of the church here, and is well-beloved throughout the community.

David T. House Jr., was in Falkland Sunday night. He said that all the teachers had been secured for the Consolidated School for the coming term.

Mrs. C. E. Pierce, who with her children has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Emma Little, for the past month, returned to her home in Metter, Ga., on Thursday.

The tobacco curing season is on with all its attendant rush and hurry, and tobacco is the chief topic of conversation. So very true is this that throughout the community the usual greeting is not "God Morning" or "How-d-d-you-do," but "how's your tobacco."

Mrs. Julia C. Gray In Splendid Concert At Teachers College

Mrs. Julia Culbrough Gray again visits Teachers College. She gave a splendid concert last night to a large audience. Mrs. Gray has a good soprano voice and a pleasing personality. Her technique, coupled with her ability to entertain, enables her to render a very enjoyable evening of entertainment.

The following program was rendered:
I. Miscellany:
Erl Kong (The Erl King, Schubert)
Strida la vampa (II Trovatore) Verdi.
Tobacco is an Indian Weed (Ode) From the Land of the Sky-Blue Water.
A Birthday.
American Cadman; Songs Woodman.

II. Eighteenth Century:
Le Beau Galant, Hopsa Lisella—French Folk-Songs.
Haste to the Wedding, O no, John! English Folk-Songs.
III. Russian Street Singer:
Volga Boat Song
Mother Dearest
Jealousy.
IV. An Old Fashioned Girl:
One and Twenty.
The Old Maid's Song (of the Kentucky Mountain Folk).
I'd Rather Have a Young Man.

Mrs. Gray's most popular numbers were: "From the Land of the Sky Blue Water," "Strida la Vampa," "Hopsa Lisella" and "O No, John." She entertained the summer school last year. Many remembered the good program she gave a year ago, and had looked forward to last evening's entertainment with pleasure, nor were they disappointed.

AMERICAN EXPERTS HELP ARGENTINA RAISE GOOD CROPS

Buenos Aires.—American methods in the development of crops and mineral resources are being rapidly introduced into Argentina, which formerly looked to Europe for instruction. The national and provincial governments now have in their service no less than nine technical experts who are either Americans or have gained their knowledge in the United States. Argentina's infant cotton industry is being developed under the technical advice of two American experts, Ernest L. Tutt, former chief of the cotton section of the textile division of the department of commerce, and Dr. N. E. Winters, a cotton geneticist, formerly of Clemson College, South Carolina. Mr. Tutt is devoting himself to improving methods of cotton cultivation, harvesting, ginning and marketing, while Dr. Winters' work is to obtain pure uniform varieties of the plant for the different sections of the republic, and adapt seeds from other countries to Argentine conditions.

W. E. Cross, an American sugar expert, is in charge of the experimental station maintained by the provincial government of Tucuman, where the sugar industry is centered. He is developing new varieties of sugar plants and controlling pest and diseases.

Thomas Bregar, an American geneticist in corn, is in the employ of the ministry of agriculture endeavoring to obtain better varieties of that cereal.

The culture of tobacco is being developed by Felix Charlan, a socialist formerly employed by the Canadian government, who has studied tobacco culture in Maryland, Virginia, Kentucky and Cuba. He is introducing American seeds and methods.

The method for marketing SHIRAZ cheese used on the Pacific Coast of the United States are being introduced by an Irish expert, who spent considerably time studying the American dairy industry.

The possibilities of establishing a metallurgical industry in Argentina are being investigated by H. Foster Bain, chief of the United States Bureau of mines, and two assistants, E. C. Swanson and G. E. Williams. They have been exploring the territory lying along the Andes for coal, iron and

"GIVE ME KARNAK" SAYS WINSTON-SALEM MAN

"This Wonderful Medicine Made Life Worth Living for Me," Declares John L. Rominger

JOHN L. ROMINGER

It seems that the health building powers of Karnak grows more amazing every day.

John L. Rominger, of R. F. D. No. 3, just about four miles out of Winston-Salem, declares this remarkable medicine has put him in better health than he had been for many years.

"It's a fact," said Mr. Rominger, "I've been taking all kinds of medicines for ten or fifteen years trying to get relief, but I never met with anything but disappointment. Now three bottles of this Karnak has made a well man of me.

"My trouble seemed to be in my stomach. I always felt drowsy, like I was in a stupor, for two or three hours after my meals. I was depressed all the time and the least little exertion would cause me to get so tired I would ache all over, especially in my legs.

"I was troubled with constipation, too, and just felt so miserable that nothing seemed worth while. I began to hear so much about this Karnak that I decided to try it and see if it would help me. Well, if you call putting me back to feeling like a real man again and overcoming all that drowsy, stupid feeling and filling me full of new life and energy doing me any good, then Karnak sure did it. "Yes, sir, Karnak has made life worth living for me again. It's overcome all my constipation. I am just as regular as clockwork, and I never seem to get tired. When I eat I enjoy my food and feel like a real person afterwards and not like a half man as I used to. "You can't tell me. If Karnak will do that for me, it is surely the medicine for everybody." Karnak is sold in Greenville by B. S. Warren's, and by leading druggists everywhere.

gentine Ambassador at Washington, now minister of agriculture, and Dr. Carlos A. Vallejo, sub-secretary of agriculture and a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, are responsible for bringing most of these experts to Argentina.
