SCOPES COUNSEL BUSY PREPARING AFFIDAVITS TODAY

Scientific Affidavits Will Be Brought Into Court Monday As Result of Scientific Testimony Being Barred

Dayton, Tenn., July 18.—While Judge Raulston and attorney's for the prosecution rested today after their duties of the week, counsel for the defense of John T. Scopes, charged with violating the Tennessee anti-evolution statute, busied themselves with the preparation of scientific affidavits. These will be brought into court Monday for the purpose of entering them into the records. They will show in detail the theory of evolution in an endeavor to conform it to the story of creation as recorded in the Bible. Shorn of all hope of producing their scientific witnesses in court to testify from the stand, defense attorneys after the ruling of Judge Raulston yesterday barring scientific testimony, resorted to this method of having their testimony placed on record for the information of the presiding Judge and to reveal to the appellate court the nature of the evidence they would have submitted. Permission to do this was granted by Judge Raulston yesterday and executed by the defense counsel.

When Dayton moves calmly to the less heated statements of members of the defense counsel, he indicated that storm clouds were brewing in those quarters. The first indication came yesterday in the form of a note too closely related to expression of opinion from Clarence Darrow to Judge Raulston. The exclusion of testimony was characterized by John R. Neal, chief counsel for the defense as "death for the last hope of the defense" for winning the trial.

Clarence Darrow was more vehement in his declaration that the defense would seek justice in the higher court.

In a statement issued yesterday he asserted that William J. Bryan was responsible for shifting the scales in favor of the prosecution. Mr. Bryan himself declaring that the rules governing the admission of evidence in the Tennessee courts, Judge Raulston could not have done otherwise than exclude. Attorney General Stewart pronounced the decision a glorious victory for the state.

CLIENTELE OF GERMAN PAWN SHOP UNDERGOES CHANGE SINCE WAR

Berlin.—A distinct change since the World War has been noted among the class of people who patronize pawn shops. Statistics of state and municipal pawn offices show that among the present clientele there are only 34 percent of artisans compared to more than 60 percent in prewar days. The number of smaller officials borrowing money on their belonging has increased from four percent to 11 percent.

Last year the pawn offices of Prussia received 170,000 miscellaneous objects in exchange for money loans. In addition to the two official pawn shops run by the state and the municipally, there are 286 other loan offices in Berlin.

VALUABLE JAPANESE ART COLLECTION TO BE SOLD

Tokyo.—The collection of art treasures in the possession of Marquis Katsunosuke Inouye, former ambassador to the court of St. James, is to be sold at public auction in September. The collection was made by the late Marquis Segal Inouye and is known among connoisseurs as one of the finest in the country. Its estimated value is between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 yen. Among the many rare articles in the collection is a carving by the celebrated Choin representing "Fu, the God of Fire. It was to this image, according to the tradition attached to it, that Emperor Kameyama offered prayers for victory when the land of the Mikado was invaded by the Chinese some 600 years ago. This carving alone is valued at 150,000 yen.

DISCOVERY CANCER VIRUS CREATING POPULAR INTEREST

Dr. Gye and Barnard Urged to Give Statement Showing Bearing of Researches on Other Diseases

London, July 18.—The immense popular interest in their cancer virus discovery had led to several attempts to induce Dr. William E. Gye and Dr. John E. Barnard to add to their public statements, especially with reference to the bearing their researches may have on other diseases. The two scientists have not refused to talk, but have been extremely cautious, revealing nothing important and dealing only in general terms with the result of their labors. Dr. Gye told one interviewer that the work done thus far was only a basis upon which to start, but that it had opened big possibilities. "This class of research," he said, "has reached a stage when it is bigger than a one-man job. We have data which will make team work probable in future experiments."

American Embassy at Mexico to Investigate Shooting Vice-Consul

Washington, July 18.—American Vice Consul, Harold G. Bretherton, at Aguas Calientes, Mexico, was shot in the back and slightly wounded on the night of July 16. The American Embassy at Mexico City has been instructed by the State Department to take up the case with the Mexican foreign office for an investigation and punishment of the assailant. Advances on the shooting were forwarded today by Consul Haven, at Aguas Calientes. He said the cause was not known, but that the shot is believed to have been intended for a person rather than the Vice Consul.

TRICK ON RUSSIAN PEASANTS RESULTS IN PRISON TERMS

Minsk.—An amazing trial illustrating the ignorance and superstition of the Russian peasantry recently was held in this district. In order to increase the income of the village priest and to strengthen his authority over the local peasantry a group of village parishioners resolved to frighten the peasantry with the pretense of a "real" devil in the village. A village boy was dressed up to resemble a devil. During the night he went to the village dwellers to frighten them. He was instructed to carry out secretly slight damages to peasants' property. This went on for several months, and the ignorant peasants took it all in earnest, as a penalty for their sins. They flocked to the church, induced the Chinese some 600 years ago. This carving alone is valued at 150,000 yen.

OLD FORT MACON IS AGAIN THE PROPERTY OF NORTH CAROLINA

Gov. McLean Receives Fort in Behalf of the Commonwealth; Given to Nation in Its Infancy

Morehead City, N. C., July 18.—Ruggedly beautiful even in the debris into which it has fallen and silence where its long since dismantled guns once roared, old Fort Macon, one of America's historic fortifications today again was the property of the State of North Carolina. Given by the state to the Nation in its infancy, the Great pile and its 400 acres reservation yesterday were returned to the state by the Federal government. Governor McLean received the fort on behalf of the commonwealth after it had been formally presented by Representative Charles L. Abernethy, member of congress for this district. The reservation probably will be converted into a state park.

BRITISHER SAYS AMERICAN COLLEGES ARE SPORT MAD

London.—That universities overseas have gone mad on sport is one of the notes made by Sir Ernest Bain, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Leeds University, who recently returned from a visit to universities in Canada and the United States. In a lengthy report he says in practically every university the stadium was pointed out with emphasis, the master of sport has a very comfortable position, and the tremendous emphasis placed on sport is causing university authorities in America grave anxiety.

"I heard of one case," he said, "where a town's butcher had been enrolled as a member of the university because he had exceptional ability as a footballer." Dealing with details of organization of the universities, he notes that in every American university the alumni are well organized and powerful, so powerful as to create difficulty in many cases, as they not only lay down conditions upon which gifts are made to the university but there is an active interference with teaching. On the question of salaries, after detailing the amount paid to professors, he says it is significant that the individual responsible for sports in all the great universities receives a payment substantially higher than that of any academic member, even including the chancellor.

DECLARE THEY CAN IDENTIFY SENDER OF MYSTERIOUS NOTE

Telegraph Boy to Be Shown Picture of Robert Scott, in Effort to Identify Sender of Note

Detroit, July 18.—James M. Ball, itinerant telegrapher may have been a witness to the slaying of Joseph Maurer, Chicago drug clerk clerk, for which Russel T. Scott is under sentence to be hanged, but if he was he never told his wife, Sarah, about it, she said today. The Balls with their six children live in a single room. "I am sure my husband does not know anything more about Scott than he read in the paper," she said. "He has not been working for two days, but he had been reading the papers closely and talking a lot about the Scott case. He said Wednesday he thought it was a shame to hang that man, and I remember he told me I've got to do something to keep him from being hanged."

"If he ever saw anyone killed as he said he did, I am sure he would have told me a long time ago. Maybe he found out about the death from reading the papers and thought he knew something about it. He is very peculiar some time."

Thirteen year old Schastian Vermiglio, who carried a telegram addressed to Governor Len Small, of Ill., to the Western Union office on Thursday night, which he said a man had given him on the street, was to be shown today a picture of Robert Scott, brother of the condemned man. The telegram said that the sender was the actual slayer of Maurer, and that he would surrender himself. Both Schastian and another boy with him saw the author of the telegram and gave a description of him which conforms generally with that of Robert Scott. They said they could identify the man.

McLean Delighted With Fineness of Our National Guard

Raleigh, July 18.—Governor McLean, back from Camp Glenn, where he reviewed and addressed members of the North Carolina National guard encamped there, and from Fort Macon, where he accepted this historic fortification for the state, declared today he spent a most pleasant day in Carters county. "I was more convinced than ever of the fineness of our National Guard," he said. "The boys made a splendid showing and I enjoyed being among them." "This National Guard is not a military machine. It is an evidence of the people as it is composed of men from all walks of life—farmers, merchants, professionals and laboring men banded together to see that the law is enforced and that their future is protected against lawlessness. I feel a sense of security when I think of the personnel of the North Carolina National Guard."

QUIET REIGNS AT NEGRO PRISON CAMP HIDDENITE TODAY

Supt. George Ross Pou Unable to Find Any Reason Why Prisoners Refused to Go to Work

Statesville, July 18.—Quiet reigned today at the quarry of the Hiddenite Crushed Stone Company in Alexander County, where 13 of the 35 negro convicts quartered there refused yesterday to go to work. Superintendent George Ross Pou, of the State Prison in Raleigh, who arrived here shortly after the mutiny broke out, stated that he was unable to find any definite reason why the prisoners refused to go to work. They expressed to the Superintendent their willingness to resume work this morning but he refused, instead punishment was given to them in the form of a bread and water diet. Dr. John H. Norman, Jr., Warden and Physician of the State Prison was also here with the Superintendent and assisted in the investigation.

LONDON TAILOR'S CLOTHES MAKE THE MAN, HE CLAIMS

London.—Good news for short men who desire to appear tall was announced recently by a London tailor who says he has conceived a plan to bring about this effect by a new wrinkle in garment cutting and designing. The trick is very simple. The modification is chiefly in the lapels, which are worn very small and rolling short. The roll is so short in fact that it finishes on a line with the top button. This adds length to the front of the coat, says the tailor, with the much desired result among men under height that they appear several inches taller.

Another innovation is that the front of the coat, especially in evening clothes, extending to the hip is cut straight. Sleeves in men's wear have become narrower, this change having been made to correspond with the new "cow heel" stiff cuff of the dress shirt which is the latest thing among the best dressed men about London. While there has been a tendency to wear the coat fuller in front, there are still a great many evening tailed coats made which show plenty of the shirt and waistcoat, this being particularly desirable among the older set of men who remain true to the style of other years.

PROPOSAL TO REDUCE EXPORT RATES ON COTTON IS ISSUED

Proposal Would Reduce Rates From a Number of Interior Points to South Atlantic Points

Washington, July 18.—A proposal by Southern railroads to reduce export rates on cotton from a number of interior points to South Atlantic points was issued temporarily today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The railroad schedule incorporating a decrease in cotton export rates to the South Atlantic Port would have gone into effect July 20, but the commission postponed their effectiveness until November 17 to allow investigation. No statement of the reason for the action was given by the commission.

Line of Demarcation Is Drawn Between 2 State Institutions

Raleigh, July 18.—At a conference today between William A. Graham, commissioner of agriculture and Dr. Edward C. Brooks, president of the State College, the line of demarcation between the work of the two institutions was drawn. This was in accordance with legislation enacted by the General Assembly of 1925, awarding to each specific responsibilities and duties. For the past twelve months a movement looking toward this clarification had been in progress, said Commissioner Graham following the conference today. "Dr. Brooks has shown a very fine spirit," he said, "and has always shown a disposition toward close cooperation. That co-operation will continue. When a department of agriculture worker goes into the department. The same will be true of college workers, but there will be close co-operation between the two." Commissioner Graham stated that all persons assigned to work at the college and all who will remain in the department of agriculture had been notified.

Associated with Reinhardt for the production of pantomime and ballet are Ernest Matray, Heinz Herald, Hugo Von Hofmannsthal, Dr. Richard Strauss, Dr. Apfel and Arthur Wolf. Reinhardt hopes, it is said, to develop the pantomime along more modern lines, unhampered by old-time subjects and obsolete settings and costumes.

UNCLE SAM STARTS INTENSIVE SUMMER DRIVE AGAINST RUM

Liquor Forces Are Making Several Counter Moves As Result of the Mid Summer Drive

New York, July 18.—Uncle Sam has started an intensive mid summer drive against rum, and the liquor forces are making several counter moves. In today's news their figures issued on the side of prohibition enforcement are the following:

Eight arrests in New York as the result of heavy shipments of liquor to inland ports in trunks, tour of assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews. The Canadian border points to repair leaks in the roof; reports of warning to Canadian rum runners that they will be fired upon in American waters on the Great Lakes; completion of formalities for a treaty between the United States and Canada regarding smuggling; impending shake up under which all prohibition agents will lose their jobs and many will be hired over again. In behalf of the wets there developed the reappearance of a rum fleet off the Northern shore of Massachusetts and efforts to hold up the salary of Prohibition Commissioner Hayes, because of his employment of a woman lecturer on prohibition. A sales organization that retailed liquor at the rate of 30 trunk fulls a day to 20,000 customers throughout the country, has been smashed in New York. One woman and seven men comprising the head office were arrested yesterday. Customers upon receipt of liquor consignments would forward payments here. Keys were then nailed to the trunks and the customers shipped the trunks back here.

Catches Snake With A Fishing Hook

Salisbury, July 18.—M. L. Baker, of Morganton township, Rowan county, has reported the novel experience of catching a snake with a fishing hook. The experiment resulted from the loss of eggs. STATE OF WASHINGTON SPENDING MILLIONS FOR HIGHWAY BUILDING

Seattle.—More than $17,000,000 are to be spent on Washington state's pay-as-you-go road-building program during the coming biennium. Of this sum it is estimated $14,500,000 will be available from licenses for motor vehicles, and a tax of two cents a gallon on gasoline; $2,250,000 from Federal aid, and nearly $500,000 from forest funds. Four bridges on the Pacific Highway between Everett and Marysville, in the Northwestern section of the state, will absorb $1,000,000. During the past 20 years Washington state has appropriated $50,000,000 for highways, and received $10,000,000 from the Federal aid fund, and has 2,465 miles of improved highways to show for its money. Of this mileage 537 are paved and 1,770 graveled.

GERMANS TO BUILD MASSIVE MEMORIAL AT TANNENBERG

Koenigsberg.—An imposing monument to commemorate the Hindenburg victory at Tannenberg is to be erected on the site of the battlefield. It will surround a smaller monument dedicated to the memory of the old Hindenburg regiment which now marks the scene of the battle. The plan for the new monument was selected in a contest and was proposed by two brothers, Walter and Johannes Krueger. It will consist of an octagonal wall, 16 feet high and 265 feet in diameter, to encircle the present monument. Massive square towers 49 feet in height are to be placed at each of the eight corners. A memorial hall for each regiment which took part in the battle will be provided and the ground floors of seven of the towers will be equipped as museums containing relics of the battle. The upper stories of the towers are to be arranged as living quarters for Tannenberg veterans who will be caretakers and act as guides of the battlefield.

TRAINING HOME MANAGERS

The woman who knows how to manage a home will not have difficulty in managing a husband, if he is worth managing. He'll be too much pleased with his surroundings to raise a racket, if the home manager has everything neatly arranged and in order. It is unnecessary, therefore, for the public schools of North Carolina to undertake training for girls in that line, but instead they are putting in courses in home-making.

Very wisely the public schools in many cities and towns are giving courses in home-making. It isn't given that name because some of the girls might be scared off. The courses in home managing are usually referred to as "home economics" and it is reported that last year there were over 5,000 girls enrolled for these courses. Five thousand good wives in training. Is it any wonder that when people come to North Carolina they like to stay?

These courses in home economics or home managing seem to be quite practical as they include such subjects as how to spend the family income, how to prepare food and other details that go to make up a happy home. It seems that these courses in the schools are so practical that it is hard to get teachers. No sooner does a teacher of domestic science—that's another name for home managing—arrive in the community that she becomes one of the most popular women in the neighborhood. She is able to take her pick of the eligible bachelors, and the school board has to look for another teacher.

These courses in managing husbands are doing a great deal toward making North Carolina the best State in the Union in which to live. We may have water power, cotton mills, peaches, cantaloupes, cotton,—we may have a land of milk and honey, but what is any land without happy homes! Our hats are off to the home-makers, the would-be home makers and may their tribe increase.—News and Observer.

who was said to be the only living person who knew the exact location of the sunken treasure. Curry purchased from the man charts of the treasure ship's location and formed a syndicate to find the golden hoard which, it was said, had lain for more than 60 years on the floor of the Pacific Ocean.

A crew to man the Balboa was obtained here. It included Captain Clifford Casey, owner of the vessel; Robert Turner, a caretaker of a yacht club; Hans Pohlman, who was skipper of the racing yawl Poinsettia; an engineer, a second mate and two seamen.

The remains of the Golden Gate they found off Manzanillo, without difficulty. Efforts to reach the treasure which lay in eight fathoms of rough water proved unsuccessful, as a high surf and a heavy ground swell repeatedly upset their small skiff. Discouraged, the expedition put into Manzanillo, where they learned from the American consul that other treasure-hunters had recovered the billion years ago.

The expedition then headed for San Pedro. Their return voyage was one of hardships. They encountered a gale that continued for days. Their food and fuel supplies ran short. Seven hungry, weary and disappointed men stepped off the Balboa when it docked here.

PRIVATE CAPITAL SOUGHT TO AID SOVIET INDUSTRIES

Moscow. — Problems of internal trade are now engaging the closest attention of the Soviet government. The recent conference of the Communist Party and the Federal Congress of Soviets passed a number of reforms to facilitate private trade and to attract private capital to general trade and industry. The government has found after many years of war upon private trade that private capital in Russia does not exceed 5,000,000 rubles. The trade turnover hardly reaches 2,000,000,000 rubles a year.

Moscow, which is considered the biggest trade center in the Soviet Federation, made a trade turnover last year of 1,723,000,000 rubles. The bulk of this sum falls upon state and co-operative trade. 93 percent of the Moscow industries are in the hands of the state and only seven percent is in the hands of co-operative and private concerns. Private manufacturers in Moscow employ only about 10,000 workmen, which is only 1.3 per cent of the total number of workers engaged in Moscow industry.

MYTHICAL TREASURE LURES 7 SAILORMEN TO VAIN ADVENTURE

San Pedro, Cal. — A long tale of woe was unfolded by seven members of a treasure-hunting expedition that arrived here recently in the pursue- seiner Balboa after an unsuccessful search for $1,500,000 in gold bullion that was aboard the old Pacific Mail side-wheeler Golden Gate which burned and sank off Manzanillo, Mexico, in 1862.

The Balboa, which left here May 2, returned May 27, battered from severe buffeting by wind and tide.

Several months ago C. G. Curry, a railway conductor of Leavenworth, Kan., had on his train a passenger

In the morning it was not long before we discovered the source of the hideous uproar which had aroused us in the night. The iguanodon glade was the scene of a horrible butchery. From the pools of blood and the enormous lumps of flesh scattered in every direction over the green sward we imagined at first that a number of animals had been killed, but on examining the remains more closely we discovered that all this carnage came from one of these unwieldy monsters, which had been literally torn to pieces by some creature not larger, perhaps, but far more ferocious, than itself.

Our two professors sat in absorbed argument, examining piece after piece, which showed the marks of savage teeth and of enormous claws. "Our judgment must still be in abeyance," said Professor Challenger, with a huge slab of whitish-colored flesh across his knee. "The indications would be consistent with the presence of a saber-toothed tiger, such as are still found among the breccia of our caverns; but the creature actually seen was undoubtedly of a larger and more reptilian character. Personally, I should pronounce for allosaurus."

"Or megalosaurus," said Summerlee. "Exactly. Any one of the larger carnivorous dinosaurs would meet the case. Among them are to be found all the most terrible types of animal life that have ever cursed the earth or blessed amusemum." He laughed sonorously at his own conceit, for though he had little sense of humor, the crudest pleasantry from his own lips moved him always to roars of appreciation. "The less noise the better," said Lord Roxton, curtly. "We don't know who or what may be near vs. If this fellow comes back for his breakfast and catches us here we won't have so much to laugh at. By the way, what is this mark upon the iguanodon's hide?"

On the dull, scaly, slate-colored skin, somewhere above the shoulder, there was a singular black circle of some substance which looked like asphalt. None of us could suggest what it meant, though Summerlee was of opinion that he had seen something similar upon one of the young ones two days before. Challenger said nothing, but looked pompous and puffy, as if he could if he would, so that finally Lord John asked his opinion direct.

"If your lordship will graciously permit me, to open my mouth, I shall be happy to express my sentiments," said he, with elaborate sarcasm. "I am not in the habit of being taken to task in the fashion which seems to be customary with your lordship. I was not aware that it was necessary to ask your permission before smiling at a harmless pleasantry."

It was not until he had received his apology that our touchy friend would suffer himself to be appeased. When at last his ruffled feelings were at ease, he addressed us at some length from his seat upon a fallen tree, speaking, as his habit was, as if he were imparting most precious information to a class of a thousand.

"With regard to the marking," said he, "I am inclined to agree with my friend and colleague, Professor Summerlee, that the stains are from asphalt. As this plateau is, in its very nature, highly volcanic, and as asphalt is a substance which one associates with Plutonic forces, I cannot doubt that it exists in the free liquid state, and that the creatures may have come in contact with it. A much more important problem is the question as to the existence of the carnivorous monster which has left its traces in this glade. We know roughly that this plateau is not larger than an average English country. Within this confined space a certain number of creatures, mostly types which have passed away in the world below, have lived together for innumerable years. Now, it is very clear to me that in so long a period one would have expected that the carnivorous creatures, multiplying unchecked, would have exhausted their food supply and have been compelled to either modify their flesh-eating habits or die of hunger. This we see has not been so. We can only imagine, therefore, that the balance of Nature is preserved by some check which limits the number of these ferocious creatures. One of the many interesting problems, therefore, which await our solution is to discover what that check may be and how it operates. I venture to trust that we may have some future opportunity for the closer study of the carnivorous dinosaurs."

"And I venture to trust we may not," I observed. "The Professor only raised his great eyebrows, as the schoolmaster meets the irrelevant observation of the naughty boy.

"Perhaps Professor Summerlee may have an observation to make," he said, and the two savants ascended together into some rarefied scientific atmosphere, where the possibilities of a modification of the birth-rate were weighed against the decline of the food supply as a check in the struggle for existence. That morning we mapped out a small portion of the plateau, avoiding the swamp of the pterodactyls, and keeping to the east of our brook instead of to the west. In that direction the country was still thickly wooded, with so much undergrowth that our progress was very slow.

I have dwelt up to now upon the terrors of Maple White Land; but there was another side to the subject, for all that morning we wandered among lovely flowers—mostly, as I observed, white or yellow in color, these being, as our professors explained, the primitive flower-shades. In many places the ground was absolutely covered with them, and as we walked ankle-deep on that wonderful yielding carpet, the scent was almost intoxicating in its sweetness and intensity. The homely English bee buzzed everywhere around us. Many of the trees under which we passed had their branches bowed down with fruit, some of which were of familiar sorts, while other varieties were new. By observing which of them were pecked by the birds we avoided all danger of poison and added a delicious variety to our food reserve. In the jungle which we traversed were numerous hard-trodden paths made by the wild beasts, and in the more marshy places we saw a profusion of strange footmarks, including many of the iguanodon. Once in a grove we observed several of these great creatures grazing, and Lord John, with his glass, was able to report that they also were spotted with asphalt, though in a different place to the one which we had examined in the morning. What this phenomenon meant we could not imagine.

Ricardo Cortez, Jetta Goudal and Noah Berry in the Raoul Walsh Production "The Spaniard" A Paramount Picture

Throughout the ages the name Spain has been almost a synonym for romance. Its long list of national traditions and customs, its colorful manner of dress, its liquid, resonant language, its dark-eyed señoritas and dashing young seniors all tend, in life and in story, to entrance and hold the romantic.

The very height of color and life in Spain centers at the great sporting classics of the year—the bull fights. It is this national pastime that furnishes the colorful background of "The Spaniard," the new Raoul Walsh Paramount production, which will be the feature at the White's Theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

Ricardo Cortez, Jetta Goudal and

Noah Berry are featured in the leading roles of the picture, a screen version of the immensely popular novel of the same name by Juanita Savage, which was adapted for the screen by J. T. O'Donohoe.

In the beginning of the picture, Cortez, during a brief visit to London, becomes the idol of feminine society of the metropolis. On the eve of his departure for Spain, he meets his match as a breaker of hearts in Jetta Goudal, an English society beauty. She repulses his ardent wooing but he never loses his smiling self-confidence, and lets her know that his motto is to get what he wants.

A little later, while on a visit with relatives in Seville, Miss Goudal witnesses a bull fight at which the great matador, Fernandez, is the hero of the hour. At the conclusion of the fight the matador bows beneath Miss Goudal's box and she recognizes Cortez.

During an expedition to the Pyrenees, Miss Goudal is induced by a guide, Noah Berry, to accompany him on a visit to the Chapel of the Jewels. They are caught in a storm and seek refuge in an isolated castle, which proves to belong to Cortez. He tells her that he intends to hold her his prisoner until she has learned the meaning of love. She is placed in custody of a trusted servant, Emily Fitzroy.

GRAY-CRITCHER.

Beautiful Wedding Solemnized in Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church This Morning.

The Jarvis Memorial Methodist church was the scene of a beautiful wedding this morning at 9 o'clock when Miss Aleene Critcher became the bride of Mr. Farrell H. Gray, of High Point. The impressive ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. William P. Watkins, the bride's pastor.

The church was attractively decorated with baskets of pink crepe myrtle and ferns with a background of evergreen.

Mrs. G. B. W. Hadley at the organ rendered a beautiful musical program. Prior to the entrance of the bridal party Miss Helene Higgs sweetly sang "Because" and "Shubert's Serenade."

To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march the bridal party entered; first the ushers, Messrs. L. H. Bowling and Wade Marsh, of High Point. They were followed by the flower girls little Misses Jane Rowlett, niece of the bride and Emmy Lou Scales. They wore beautiful little frocks of pink tulle and georgette, and carried lily shaped baskets filled with pink rose petals.

The bride entered with her sister and matron of honor, Mrs. O. B. Peatross, of Danville. She wore an ensemble suit of brown flat crepe with accessories to match and carried a shower bouquet of brides roses and valley lilies. Mrs. Peatross was beautifully gowned in blond crepe charmeen with hat to match and carried an arm bouquet of pinburst roses. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. Lawrence Ingram, of High Point.

Mrs. Gray is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Critcher, of this city. She was educated at the Eastern Carolina Teachers College and for the past session was a member of the faculty of the High Point graded schools. She is a popular member of Greenville's younger social set, and numbers her friends by the score.

Mr. Gray is one of State's most successful business men and is cashier of the Wachovia Bank, High Point. He is popular in social and business circles and is held in high esteem by a host of friends.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Gray left for an extended bridal tour of northern cities after which they will return to High Point, their future home.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray were the recipients of a large and beautiful array of bridal presents.

RAILWAYS OF JAPAN SUFFER FROM DECREASED REVENUES

Tokyo.—Even Japan is having its railway troubles, a statement recently tributed to Vice-Minister of Railways Aoki shows. Mr. Aoki said that trade depression had caused a decided drop in the railway traffic revenue and that there were many freight cars lying idle. Unless there is a decided improvement in the near future it is feared the situation may seriously affect the budget for the current fiscal year.
