PROVISIONS MUST BE MADE FOR STATE PRISON PATIENTS

Against Law to Keep Tuberculars in Penitentiary Said Dr. Norman in Statement Today.

Raleigh, Aug. 15.—It is against the law for the state prison to keep tuberculosis patients in the plant in Raleigh, stated Dr. John H. Norman, prison warden and physician, here today in the statement commenting on the condition of state sanitarium.

Dr. Norman did not deny that there was room at state prison for the patients, but said the prison could not possibly care for them and keep such prisoners separate from other prisoners.

Dr. Norman expressed some surprise at the report from Sanitarium today. State prison officials and Sanitarium officials had always cooperated to the utmost, he said.

Defendant Waives Examination Yesterday and is Bound Over to Higher Court.

Durham, Aug. 15.—Robert H. Wiles, of Columbia, S. C., was in the county jail here today awaiting the next term of superior court in which he will go on trial for murder on a charge of killing his wife and Ralph Gordon, with whom she is alleged to have been found in a rooming house.

Through his attorneys, the defendant yesterday waived preliminary examination and was bound over to the higher court. On advice of his counsel, Wiles declined to discuss the case. Friends of the Columbia man stated here that his attorneys will make a determined fight to secure his acquittal, planning to enter a plea of self defense and to depend on the "unwritten law" as a secondary defense.

WIND STORM BREAKS HOT WEATHER WAVE THROUGHOUT STATE

Following Highest Temperatures of Summer Wind and Lightning Do Damage in Raleigh and Durham.

Raleigh, Aug. 15.—Maximum temperatures of 101 at Wilmington, and 98 at Raleigh and Charlotte, marked yesterday as the hottest of the summer in North Carolina, the central offices of the United States Weather Bureau reported here today. Charlotte, the hottest city in the United States, sweltered under a maximum of 102.

A wind storm throughout the eastern Piedmont section was accompanied by damage at Raleigh and Durham. In Raleigh the lightning and telephone systems were crippled, and at Durham trees were uprooted. Claude B. West, director of the Erwin Auditorium at West Durham, and former Trinity College athlete, was injured, though not fatally, when lightning struck his home.

For a period of five minutes the wind velocity at Raleigh was 56 miles an hour, equaling the previous high record established here January 1, 1923. Within a few hours after the storm began the mercury dropped from 98 to 68 at Raleigh with proportionate declines over the rest of the state. It was indicated by weather bureau officials today that the back bone of the heat wave, which has spread over the state for the past week, was broken, temporarily at least.

DOUBLE MURDER AT MUNCIE, INDIANA, IS LAID TO VENGEANCE

Members Gerald Chapman Gang Said to Have Slain Couple Who Testified Against Bandit.

Muncie, Indiana, Aug. 15.—Vengeance which trailed those who testified against Gerald Chapman, notorious bandit condemned to die for the murder of a Connecticut policeman, struck down Ben Hance and his wife here yesterday. The Hances were shot to death on the Anderson-Muncie highway. In a dying statement Hance laid the crime at the door of George "Dutch" Anderson, a pal of Chapman, and Charles "One Arm" Wolfe, of Muncie.

It was at the Hance home that Anderson and Chapman lived after their escape from the Atlanta Penitentiary, and after Chapman attempted the robbery of a New Britain Connecticut Mercantile establishment, which resulted in the slaying of a police officer. Hance was one of the principal witnesses against Chapman following his arrest here. Just what occurred on the highway before the fusillade of shots riddled Hance and his wife, has not developed, although Wolfe, who was arrested at Muncie last night, is held under heavy guard. Wolfe refuses to talk.

Hance, after being rushed to a Muncie hospital, called for Fred Tuckett, chief of detectives, but before Tuckett arrived Hance died. Tuckett was one of the officers who aided in the capture of Chapman last January. Several hours after the shooting, Wolfe was arrested at the home of his mother-in-law.

According to local officers the Hances lived in constant dread of death since Chapman's conviction. Friends of the condemned man have sworn vengeance on Hance for giving information against him. It was to Hance's knowledge of the movement of the Chapman gang, that Chapman was arrested.

Chapman Not Notified

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 15.—So far as prison officials know Gerald Chapman has not been informed of the reprieve that resulted in the death of Ben Hance and his wife.

Warden Scott said that the bandit has had no visitors during the morning. His attorneys may call upon him at any time, but none of them this morning indicated any intention of visiting Chapman because of the shooting in Indiana. The news of a double murder will have no effect as far as the guarding of Chapman is concerned, the warden said, as prison officials believe that the regular guard is so strong as to prevent any attempt from the outside to liberate the prisoner.

ABSENT WITNESSES NECESSITATE DELAY DISSE TRIAL TODAY

Trial of Youthful Triple Murderer Postponed When 20 of 23 Witnesses Fail to Show Up.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 15.—Failure of 20 out of 23 witnesses summoned by the defense in the trial of Rudolph Disse, 20 year old triple slayer, to appear in court today, forced the postponement of the case until ten o'clock Monday morning, and led Judge Coleman, presiding, to order the arrest of the missing persons. Judge Coleman ordered that the missing witnesses be brought before him and they will be bonded for their appearance in court Monday morning. All of the 83 commonwealth witnesses answered to court. Of the 5,000,000 members of the German Committee for Physical Culture, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Proctor and Messrs. Johnnie and David Proctor 20 percent may be called active, each furnish $100,000 to guarantee their appearance during trial.

REV. W. P. WATKINS TO CONDUCT UNION SERVICES SUNDAY

Will Deliver Sermon Before Gathering at Court House at the Evening Hour.

Rev. William P. Watkins, Jr., pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church, will be the speaker at the fifth of the series of union Sunday evening services to be conducted at the court house at 8 o'clock tomorrow.

The Ministerial Association has been well pleased with the attendance of the people of the various churches at these services, and expects an especially good attendance tomorrow night.

The speaker last Sunday was Rev. W. S. Harden, pastor of the Presbyterian church, who brought a very timely message from the story of Esther on "People of the Time." In a very impressive manner he spoke of the conditions confronting the church of today and of the need of effort suited to the times. The message was received with marked favor.

"Let us not neglect the assembling of ourselves together as the manner of some is," but let us all come together, of every denomination and sect, to worship God in unity at the evening hour.

L. E. BALLARD, President, Greenville Ministerial Association.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT MEDITATION

"Enter into His gates with thanksgiving, and into His courts with praise." —Psalm 100: 4.

We have travelled far since Robert Burns wrote his lovely poem, "The Cotter's Saturday Night." The picture he portrays of the "Toll-worn Cotter" returning to "his lonely cot"...

"And O, be sure to fear the Lord always! An' mind your duty, duly, morn and night Lest in temptation's path ye gang astray, Implore His counsel and assisting might, They never sought in vain that sought the Lord aright!"

we seem to be transported back into the child-age of the world, into the golden age of simple faith. We catch the silvery cadence of the Angel's song: "On earth peace to men of good-will."

Then, "the cheerful supper done" taking the family Bible and solemnly saying, "Let us worship God!" "The priest-like father reads the sacred page."

"Then kneeling down, to heaven's eternal King, The saint, the father, and the husband prays."

No wonder the poet exclaims:—"From scenes like these old Scotia's grandeur sprang, That makes her loved at home, revered abroad; Princes and lords are but the breath of kings, "An honest man's the noblest work of God!"

Yes, we have traveled far from the simple and religious life, and I doubt whether we can ever retrace our steps. The picture drawn by Burns seems almost foreign to our age and customs. Yet it is eternally true that the strength of the nation depends on the sturdy character and christian atmosphere of the homes of its common people.

We may not be able to go back to the Scottish Cottager's simplicity, but we can all cultivate the spirit of reverence and godly fear. Let us pause, for a few moments, in the midst of our life's busy rush, for meditation and prayer. Let us snatch a few minutes of this Saturday night to give them to God and to the thought of God, and thus prepare ourselves to "Enter into His gates with thanksgiving, and into His courts with praise."

HOW ARE YOUR DRIVING MANNERS?

It is alright to ask this question today but 25 years hence a man would be insulted as much if you were to ask the foregoing query as he would be today if you should ask him "How are your table manners?"

The automobile is comparatively new and motoring etiquette is being formed. When eating was as new as motoring is now possibly table manners were no better than current road manners.

The term "Road Hog" is very appropriate and the name is simply theory in practice of the adage "necessity is the mother of invention."

Are you guilty of any of the "road hog" practice: horn-toting, speeding, headlight offenses or carelessness?

Taking the center of the street or highway and refusing to move over to the right or signal from the rear is not only a breach of etiquette but a violation of the law of North Carolina.

A copy of the State Automobile Law was sent you from Raleigh with your automobile registration card—read it and observe it.

Apply the Golden Rule in driving and your manners will be perfect.

Get a copy of the traffic laws of your city and study them. People who know the traffic laws and ordinances invariably are careful drivers.

It would look terrible to see a man push a lady off the sidewalk with his hand. Does it look just exactly right to see him run her off the street with his car?

Would it be a bad plan to treat people with as much courtesy and consideration on the streets as we would in their homes? Courtesy is courtesy and people are people, wherever found.

SCIENTISTS STUDY TRACES OF ANCIENT POLYNESIANS Papeete, Tahiti.—Scientists are studying evidences of a Polynesian race antedating any known today.

A representative of the Bishop Museum of Honolulu is making research among the old Marae, or stone platform and pyramid, which served as temples and places of sacrifice in ancient times. These have been found in the interior of the island, now an uninhabited wilderness, but in former times evidently largely inhabited.

Two of these Marae, recently found, are of a different type from the others on the inhabited islands of Polynesia. The only other places where this type of temple has been discovered are two desolate islands to the north of the Hawaiian group.

Scientific opinion is inclined to hold that the rare form of Marae points to a more ancient race, driven inland by a conquering wave of Polynesians. Further investigation is under way, with a view of determining the character of the lost race.

PUBLIC FORUM

WHY NOT PLAN FOR A GREAT THANKSGIVING SERVICE FOR PITT COUNTY?

There is a deep and growing feeling on the part of many that the people of Pitt county ought to hold a great Thanksgiving service in Greenville or some central point, in the near future, perhaps when all of the crops have been harvested, at which time all of the population should unite in an all-day meeting consisting of prayer from preaching, and an offering of our substance to God in token of our appreciation for the wonderful blessings that he has given us this year in our great harvests. Any one who has visited other parts of the state cannot help but feel that we have been specially blessed this year, and that we may not fully appreciate these blessings unless we have such a public expression of it. God has certainly smiled on this county this year, and is putting us to the test to see if we will really let the world know that we are grateful to Him.

I hope that Christian people all over the county will start such a movement, and that it will soon enlist every person in the county. I hope to hear from others as to their opinion on this suggestion. Other places have done these things when God has specially blessed them, why not the Great County of Pitt? W. S. HARDEN.

AT THE LOCAL CHURCHES

Attend Church Sunday

In these days of unrest and confusion and constant uproar concerning the very modern and current topics of the day, is it not comforting to remember the word of God always has been, is now and ever shall be a safe anchorage for the soul.

Should we not give thanks too, that in and through our church worship we may from week to week keep our souls warm over the Spiritual altars which have been erected to His Glory in all our churches. How much we need to constantly re-charge our souls with Spiritual Dynamics from heaven.

Think as one may, let us give thanks for our churches and for these glorious opportunities of coming together from Sunday to Sunday and uniting as one great family in Christ Jesus our Lord. Surely every Christian will avail him and herself of the privileges of thus growing in grace and may it be hoped that the unsaved will see the wisdom of putting first things first.

The "Hungry sheep" are looking up. May we feed them upon the sincere milk of the Word. If we do this, in the proper time and way, all our bewildering problems will be happily solved or else they will vanish as the mist before the rising sun.

The subject for the consideration of the Immanuel Baptist Saints on Sunday morning is, "The Gospel of Christ."

The Belvoir girls and boys went on a hay ride last Monday night, their route was by Conetoe, Bethel and Greenville, much fun was enjoyed.

A bunch of the girls in this community and several of the Falkland girls went on a hiking trip Friday afternoon and before they returned they went to Green Weath Park and took supper, which of course was the climax of the hiking trip.

On Thursday evening Miss Margaret Dupree gave a little social in honor of Misses Annie Mae Williams of Williamston, Louise Gorham of Battleshore and Blanche Rountree, of Greenville. The home was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and potted plants. Miss Margaret Dupree and Mr. Richard Crisp entertained the guests with many interesting games. Two contests were played and the winner of one was Miss Annie Mae Williams and Mr. Brown Mayo. The winner of the other was Lureine Tyson. After the games the guests were received in the dining room where a delicious ice course and cake were served. Those present were Misses Mattie Little, Annie Maye, Ruth Pittman, and Anna Pead Edwards, of Falkland, Misses Louise Gorham of Battleshore, Annie Mae Williams, of Williamston; Blanche Rountree of Greenville; Ernestine and Thelma Parker, Lureline and Vivlian Tyson, of Belvoir. Messrs. Forest Parker and Lyman Mayo, of Bethel; Rufus Pollard, Richard Parker and Paul Dupree, of Belvoir; Mr. Richard Crisp and Brown Mayo of Falkland. The many friends of Miss Emma Pearl Pollard will regret to learn that she is very ill, but we hope for her a speedy recovery. Miss Ernestine Parker is leaving Friday for Popular Branch to visit her friend Miss Ray O'Neal. Miss Alberta Pollard is spending this week with Miss Delphia Satterfield, of Bruce.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stallings and son spent the day in Williamston Sunday with Mrs. Stallings' parents Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Williams. Mr. and Mrs. Stallings expect to spend this Sunday at Colerain Beach.

BOY UNABLE TO MEET NEEDS ON ALLOWANCE OF $12,000

Honolulu.—Mrs. Elizabeth Knight of Los Gatos, Cal., recently appeared with her 12-year old grandson, Richard Parker Smart, before Judge John R. Desha, of the court of domestic relations, and complained that it has been very difficult for Young Richard to live within his annual allowance of $12,000. The boy, owner of the large Parker ranch on the island of Hawaii, is reputed to be a millionaire. The grandmother, as his guardian, petitioned the court to increase the allowance to $16,500, which was granted.

Mrs. Knight told the court that the servants employed in her home for the benefit of young Richard cost approximately $400 a month. In addition to the increased annual allowance the court authorized an expenditure of $2,500 to cover the cost of the boy's vacation in Hawaii and $1,800 for distribution by the youngster among the employes of his cattle ranch when he visits his property to be the guest of the staff and cowboys.

The exhibition is intended not only as a business enterprise, but also as scientific and cultural propaganda for Germany. Vineyards from every province and district of the empire will be represented. Visitors will be enabled to study the various steps of wine culture from the seed to the bottled product. The entire ground floor of the municipal festival hall is to be transformed into a huge vault of wine samples.

We had little time to watch them, however, for in an instant they had overtaken the fugitives and were making a dire slaughter among them. Their method was to fall forward with their full weight upon each in turn, leaving him crushed and mangled, to bound on after the others. The wretched Indians screamed with terror, but were helpless, run as they would, before the relentless purpose and horrible activity of these monstrous creatures. One after another they went down, and there were not half-a-dozen surviving by the time my companion and I could come to their help. But our aid was of little avail and only involved us in the same peril. At the range of a couple of hundred yards we emptied our magazines, firing bullet after bullet into the beasts, but with no more effect than if we were pelting them with pellets of paper. Their slow reptilian natures cared nothing for wounds, and the springs of their lives, with no special brain center but scattered throughout their spinal cords could not be tapped by any modern weapons. The most that we could do was to check their progress by distracting their attention with the flash and roar of our guns, and so to give both the natives and ourselves time to reach the steps which led to safety. But where the conical explosive bullets of the twentieth century were of no avail, the poisoned arrows of the natives, dipped in the juice of strophanthus and steeped afterwards in decayed carrion, could succeed. Such arrows were of little avail to the hunter who attacked the beast, because their action is that torpid circulation was slow, and before its powers failed it could certainly overtake and slay its assailant. But now, as the two monsters hounded us to the very foot of the stairs, a drift of darts came whistling from every chink in the cliff above them. In a minute they were feathered with them, and with no sign of pain they clattered and slobbered with impotent rage at the steps which would lead them to their victims, mounting clumsily up for a few yards and then sliding down again to the ground. But at last the poison worked. One of them gave a deep rumbling groan and dropped his huge squat head on to the earth. The other hounded round in an eccentric circle with shrill, wailing cries, and then lying down writhed in agony for some minutes before it also stiffened and lay still. With yells of triumph the Indians came flocking down from their caves and danced a frenzied dance of victory round the dead bodies, in mad joy that two more of the most dangerous of all their enemies had been slain. That night they cut up and removed the bodies, not to eat—for the poison was still active—but lest they should breed a pestilence. The great reptilian hearts, however, each as large as a cushion, still lay there, beating slowly and steadily, with a gentle rise and fall, in horrible independent life. It was only upon the third day that the ganglia ran down and the dreadful things were still.

Some day, when I have a better desk than a meat-tin and more helpful tools than a worn stub of pencil and a last, tattered note-book, I will write some fuller account of the Accala Indians—of our life amongst them, and of the glimpses which we had of the strange conditions of wondrous Maple White Land. Memory, at least, will never fail me, for so long as the breath of life is in me, every hour and every action of that period will stand out as hard and clear as do the first strange happenings of our childhood. No new impressions could efface those which are so deeply cut. When the time comes I will describe that wondrous moonlight sight upon the great lake when a young ichthyosaurus—a strange creature, half seal, half fish, to look at, with bone-covered eyes on each side of his snout, and a third eye fixed upon the top of his head—was entangled in an Indian net, and nearly upset our canoe before we towed it ashore; the same night that a green water-snake shot out from the rushes and carried off in its coils the steersman of Challenger's canoe. I will tell, too, of the great nocturnal white thing—to this day we do not know whether it was beast or reptile—which lived in a vile swamp to the east of the lake, and fitted about with a faint phosphorescent glimmer in the darkness. The Indians were so terrified at it that they would not go near the place, and, though we twice made expeditions and saw it each time, we could not make our way through the deep marsh in which it lived. I can only say that it seemed to be larger than a cow and had the strangest musky odor. I will tell also of the huge bird which chased Challenger to the shelter of the rocks one day—a great running bird, far taller than an ostrich, with a vulture-like neck and cruel head which made its walking death. As Challenger climbed to safety one dart of that savage curving beak shore off the heel of his boot as if it had been cut with a chisel. This time at least modern weapons prevailed and the great creature, twelve feet from head to foot—phororachus its name, according to our panting but exultant Professor—went down before Lord Roxton's rifle in a flurry of waving feathers and kicking limbs, with two remorseless yellow eyes glaring up from the midst of it. May I live to see that fattened vicious skull in its own niche amid the trophies of the Albany. Finally, I will assuredly give some account of the toxodon, the giant ten-foot guinea pig, with projecting chisel teeth, which we killed as it drank in the gray of the morning by the side of the lake.

All this I shall some day write at fuller length, and amidst these more stirring days I would tenderly sketch in these lovely summer evenings, when with the deep blue sky above us we lay in good comradeship among the long grasses by the wood and marveled at the strange fowl that swept over us and the quaint new creatures which crept from their burrows to watch us, while above us the boughs of the bushes were heavy with luscious fruit, and below us strange and lovely flowers peeped at us from among the herbage; or those long moonlit nights when we lay out upon the shimmering surface of the great lake and watched with wonder and awe the huge circles rippling out from the sudden splash of some fantastic monster; or the greenish gleam, far down in the deep water, of some strange creature upon the confines of darkness. These are the scenes which my mind and my pen will dwell upon in every detail at some future day.

But, you will ask, why these experiences and why this delay, when you and your comrades should have been occupied day and night in the devising of some means by which you could return to the outer world? My answer is, that there was not one of us who was not working for this end, but that our work had been in vain. One fact we had very speedily discovered: The Indians would do nothing to help us. In every other way they were our friends—one might almost say our devoted slaves—but when it was suggested that they should help us to make and carry a plank which would bridge the chasm, or when we wanted to get from them thongs of leather or llama to weave ropes which might help us, we were met by a good-humored, but an invincible, refusal. They would smile, twinkle their eyes, shake their heads, and there was the end of it. Even the old chief met us with the same obstinate denial, and it was only Martas, the youngster whom we had saved, who looked wistfully at us and told us by his gestures that he was grieved for our thwarted wishes. Ever since their crowning triumph with the ape-men they looked upon us as supermen, who bore victory in the tubes of strange weapons, and they believed that so long as we remained with them good fortune would be theirs. A little red-skinned wife and a cave of our own were freely offered to each of us if we would but forget our own people and dwell forever upon the plateau. So far all had been kindly, however far apart our desires might be; but we felt well assured that our actual plans of a descent must be kept secret, for we had reason to fear that at the last they might try to hold us by force.

In spite of the danger from dinosaurs (which is not great save at night, for, as I may have said before, they are mostly nocturnal in their habits) I have twice in the last three weeks been over to our old camp in order to see our negro who still kept watch and ward below the cliff. My eyes strained eagerly across the great plain in the hope of seeing afar off the help for which we had prayed. But the long cactus-strewn levels still stretched away, empty and bare, to the distant line of the cane-brake. "They will soon come now, Massa Malone. Before another week pass Indian come back and bring rope and fetch you down." Such was the cheery cry of our excellent Zambo. (To be continued)

MILT TOLBERT SHOW BETTER THAN EVER

Seasons may come and seasons may go but the reputation made by the Milt Tolbert tent theater company with Boyd Holloway during the past years in this city never fades from the memories of those who are interested in theatricals. This is due chiefly to the fact that it is so different from the usual class of popular priced attractions. Under the capable management of our own Holloway, the field of repertoire every season finds the Milt Tolbert theater company heading the lists of shows of its class in the Old South, always giving satisfaction and never breaking promise. This season is better than ever and the show will be in Greenville for six nights starting Monday, Aug. 17.

The tent will be pitched on a lot back of the post office. The opening drama comedy, "A Man's Will and a Woman's Way," will be shown Monday. A special feature this summer will be the Virginia Serenaders, composed of nine college boys, giving a half hour concert every night. Our manager and leading man, Boyd Holloway, will be on hand at the front door to meet all his old and new friends. Turn out early and get a good seat, as we are sure there will not be any left if you don't come early.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS IN NEW OLDSMOBILE

Enhanced beauty, more power and substantial mechanical betterments in face of a drastic reduction in prices of the Oldsmobile Six were announced today by the Olds Motor Works, Lansing, Mich. The latest Oldsmobile has low, racy lines and is finished in two-color Duco. Distinct individuality is expressed in its appearance due to well proportioned lines and harmonious color combinations. Price reductions on some models are as great as $260 a car.

A wide panel formed by moldings separates the two colors and runs around the body back of the cowl. The lower molding is continued forward to the radiator shell. This paneling not only increases the beauty of the body but also emphasizes the long, low lines of the car. The fenders have been deepened, this also adding to the beauty of the assembly.

The touring and sport touring are finished in two-color Duco. Below the molding, which runs around the car to both sides of the radiator shell, the color is an attractive shade of Russian brown. Above the molding the shading is moleskin grey, which a panel strip along the sides of the car and a saddle over the top of the hood. Red striping just under the molding, on the louvers and on the spokes of the wheels forms a pleasing contrast. Both the touring and sport touring cars are upholstered in genuine grey Spanish leather.

The coach and deluxe coach are finished in Buckingham grey Duco. There is a double molding, the lower heading extending out to the radiator shell. Fine green striping sets off the panel formed by this molding, as well as the hood louvers and wheel spokes. The finish above the upper molding is black Duco. The upholstery is a neutral shade of heavy cord plush.

The sedan and deluxe sedan have an attractive aquamarine blue finish with white striping to set off the panel, hood louvers and wheel spokes. These, also, have a double molding and are finished in black Duco above the panel thus formed. Heavy cord plush is used for the upholstery. These models have an instrument board gasoline gauge.

The deluxe or sport models are fully equipped with disc steel wheels, trunk rack, black enameled trunk, luggage rails, bumpers, kick plates, motometer, rear vision mirror, snubbers all around, and spot light. The sport touring has windshield wings, and natural wood wheels are optional.

Adoption of 21 inch balloon tire wheels—wood for standard and disc steel for deluxe and sport models—and changes in the springs and spring shackles have resulted in bringing the bodies closer to the ground, adding to beauty and riding comfort. The overall length of the coach body has been increased. This makes the coach even more roomy than formerly. Doors of both coaches and sedans have been widened. Clutch pedal pressure has been reduced, which together with lengthened gear shift lever, makes gear shifting very easy and produces smooth power application.

"DRESSMAKER FROM PARIS" DUE HERE MONDAY AND TUESDAY

The unusual combination of human interest story and rare, dazzling beauty is found in "The Dressmaker from Paris," a Paul Bern production for Paramount featuring Leatrice Joy and Ernest Torrence which comes to White's Theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

The story opens in Paris in 1918 with Billy Brent, young American officer, and Fifi, a little errand girl, parted after a few hours' acquaintance which was time enough for them to fall in love. They are parted when Brent is summoned to the front. They meet again in the spring of 1925 in a middle-west town, where Brent is junior partner to Angus McGregor in the Emporium department store. Billy, progressive brings to the Emporium Madame Louise, who has just staged a successful fashion show in Chicago. (In reality she is Fifi, now highly successful but with a notorious reputation, entirely manufactured by her press agent).

The gorgeous fashion show with the fourteen dazzling beauties is a sensational success and increases business at the Emporium immensely but the reunion of Billy and Fifi is not a happy one inasmuch as they manage to misunderstand each other thoroughly. Some of the girls are innocently involved in a road-house scandal and indignant townspeople determine to oust the notorious "Dressmaker from Paris" and her models. Joan, McGregor's daughter, involves herself in an indiscreet affair and is saved from disgrace by Fifi, who shoulders the blame when Joan and the man are interrupted at their tete-a-tete. This puts Fifi in an even worse light.

A mob gathers outside the hotel, ready to put "The Dressmaker" and her models out of town by force if necessary. From this point the action travels at an even faster pace on through the climax.

Ernest Torrence plays McGregor, the nickle-burrowing Scotchman; Alben Forrest is cast as the American officer, and Mildred Harris is Joan.

"The Dressmaker from Paris" was written especially for the screen by Adelaide Heilbron and Howard Hawks. Miss Heilbron wrote the scenario. Others in the supporting cast include Larry Gray, Charles Crockett, Rosemary Cooper, little "Spec" O'Donnell—and the Fourteen International Beauty Models.

There was a better demand for the oil shares despite recent gasoline price cuts and most of the popular issues showed substantial fractional gains on initial sales.

(By Associated Press.) New York, Aug. 15.—The cotton market opened barely steady today at a decline of seven to fifteen points in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables, and report of lower temperatures in the eastern belt. Early offerings were soon absorbed by trade buying and the market sold five to eight points net higher. Offerings increased at a higher figure and later fluctuations were rather irregular, but the market showed a fairly steady tone at the end of the first hour.

Japanese to Study U. S. Politics.
Tokyo.—Leaders of the three major political parties in Japan, the Ken-seikai, Seiyukai and Seiyuhonto, have decided to send to the United States six parliamentarians for the purpose of studying American political practices. The delegation will attend the international convention to be held in Washington in October and will subsequently visit other cities. It is hoped the parliamentarians will bring back to Japan a number of new ideas which can be applied to the modern political situation in the empire.
