EVERYTHING READY FOR OPENING LOCAL TOBACCO MARKET ON TOMORROW

It Is Probable That Three Quarters of a Million Pounds Will Be Offered in First Day's Sale; Boy Scouts to Make Traffic Check to Ascertain Number Visitors Attending Sales

Everything is now ready for the opening on Tuesday of what promises to be the greatest season in the history of the Greenville tobacco market.

The Greenville tobacco market this year will open with its regular three sets of buyers but the warehousemen have assured that should the sales be as large as to necessitate a fourth set of buyers they will be supplied.

It is a recognized fact that Pitt county this season, can boast one of the best tobacco crops in its history and as prices are expected to be good, it is a settled fact that this will be one of if not the best seasons in history.

The market will have six warehouses with floor space amply large to take care of the offerings.

The warehouse forces are made up of men who are thoroughly efficient and who are able to handle whatever situation that might arise. They are interested in the farmer and with the warehousemen will put forth every effort to make this a season long to be remembered by the tobacco growers throughout this and adjoining counties.

Greenville is expecting thousands of visitors tomorrow to attend the opening sales. The Boy Scouts will make a traffic check on the highways leading into Greenville in order to ascertain as near as possible the exact number of visitors.

NEGRO FOUND DEAD IN TOBACCO BARN

Zeb Ward Dies From Effect of Too Much Booze After Being Placed in Tobacco Barn By Friends

Zeb Ward, 45, negro of Pactolus Township, was found dead in a tobacco barn yesterday afternoon, Coroner S. G. Wilkerson immediately summoned his jury and investigated the death.

According to reports Ward had been drinking since last Friday. Yesterday morning he was found on a neighbor's porch drunk, and was taken by some of his friends to a near by barn. Leaving him to sleep off his drunkenness, the negroes went to their respective homes. At 2 o'clock they returned and found him dead.

Stedman to be Guest of Honor American Legion Convention

Greensboro, Aug. 31.—At a meeting of the executive committee of the North Carolina Department of the American Legion at Lexington Sunday it was unanimously decided to invite General Charles M. Stedman, this city, Congressman from the fifth North Carolina district, and the only Confederate Veteran in Congress, to be the guest of honor at the annual convention at Fayetteville next week.

FIRE CHIEF URGES PUBLIC PRACTICE FIRE PREVENTION

Chief Overton Requests Citizens to Clean Up Fire Hazards and to Obey City Fire Ordinances

Mr. D. D. Overton, city building inspector and chief of the fire department has issued a warning to the citizens of Greenville regarding the cleaning up of fire hazards in our community and urging everyone to familiarize themselves with the city ordinances regarding the movement of vehicles while the fire company is answering an alarm.

Chief Overton's statement addressed "To The Public" is as follows: "I want to call the attention of property owners and others to the following:

The fall of the year is very near upon us, and you will soon have to begin building fires. Clean your flues. Look in all available places for trash, cobwebs, and all other matter that would cause a fire. I especially ask the co-operation of all citizens in regard to fire alarms. Please first see before turning in an alarm, that you need the Fire Department to put the fire out. Why? Because it is a lot of time lost to all firemen to have to go, and a big expense to the town as well, for each fireman attending the alarm is paid, to say nothing about the peril of accidents. Remember we have lost one fireman from this cause. There have been a great many alarms turned in during the past six months that a child could have put out, and the fires were out before the alarm was through coming in.

The Fire Department is for your property protection, and every fireman is glad to serve you when his services are really needed.

I next call your attention to some few of the laws of the Town and State.

- 1. When an alarm of fire is given all vehicles and motor cars must go to the curb on the right and stop for five minutes, except those carrying firemen.
2. It is a violation of the law to run over hose that is spread during a fire.
3. Your city and state has a building ordinance and permits are required before starting any building operations, including alterations and additions or repairs.
4. The public must be safe guarded during building operations.
5. A permit must be granted by the Mayor before any building materials are stored on the streets. Make sure your building is within your lines. You will save time and trouble by procuring a building permit before starting work.
Your support in the above will be greatly appreciated."

Italian Submarine Lost Last Week Cannot Be Located

Rome, Aug. 31.—The Italian submarine Sebastiano Veniro disappeared during last week's naval maneuvers off Sicily, and has not been heard from since. An official statement today says destroyers, dirigibles, submarines, and motor boats have searched the Sicilian coast day and night since the disappearance of the submarine, but without success.

ACQUAINTS FARMER WALK OUT TO PLACE WITH CONDITIONS OF VIRTUAL PAD LOCK UPON 829 MINES

Speight and Company, in Letter, Gives Information Necessary to Intelligent Perspective of Cotton Crop

Messrs. Speight and Company, one of the oldest cotton firms in this city have written a letter to the farmers and merchants of Pitt and adjoining counties advising and impressing upon the farmers the necessary precautions to take regarding the cotton crop, acquainted them with an intelligent perspective of the crop. The letter follows: "We are on the verge of a new cotton season and with our thirty years experience in the cotton business and from statistics gathered from reliable sources we wish to offer a word of advice to our patrons and friends and acquaint them with information necessary to an intelligent perspective of the cotton crop. We wish to advise and to impress upon the farmers the necessity of picking the present crop as fast as conditions will permit. It will be very beneficial to pick cotton while the weather is good and before any rains which will in all probability lower the grades, as was the case last year.

Owing to the dry and hot weather in the South and early ginning season it is estimated that 1,500,000 bales will have been ginned up to date. In consequence no surprise will be occasioned if the early and large ginning figures prove to be an indication of a large crop, although it must be born in mind that many dangers have still to be encountered. The early movement has already depressed the market and we may see 20c cotton if a greater volume than can easily be absorbed is thrust on the market.

The last Government estimate was 13,990,000 bales against a crop of last year of 14,698,356 bales, including linters. However the average estimate of ten of the most conservative cotton firms is 14,200,000 bales. With a fourteen million bale crop we see no reason why the crop should not average over 20c. Cotton Seed and Cotton Seed Products.

Seed are selling today in car lots f. o. b. at $36.00, hulls at $8.00 and meal is offered in Mississippi and other states as low as $32.00 per ton. Should North Carolina make a million bales of cotton, together with a fair crop in South Carolina, we can hardly expect very much higher prices for seed. Of course generally speaking the prices of seed will follow the oil market and no one can predict the oil market nor control midge, the speculative interests involved." Yankees.

"Babe Ruth" Carries His Case to Landis

New York, Aug. 31.—Indefinitely suspended and under a fine of $5,000 for misconduct of the plane field baseball quondam, King of Swat, George Herman, (Babe Ruth) was here today with the intention of placing his case before baseball supreme power, Commissioner Kenneth M. Landis, who once before disciplined the great home run hitter to a degree probably to that dispelled by Miller Huggins, the general manager of the New York Yankees.

ENOCH ARDEN STORY IN REAL LIFE HAS A TRAGIC ENDING

Belgium Girl Commits Suicide When First Husband, Believed to Be Dead, Returns; Hubby No. 2, Follows Suit

New York, Aug. 31.—An international Enoch Arden story in real life with a tragic ending here has been disclosed with the suicide of Walter J. Fitzpatrick, a manufacturing, and his wife, Mrs. Fitzpatrick, a Belgium girl, who was married previously to a British officer in a war romance. Believing he had been killed in action she came to this country and married Fitzpatrick. Then the first husband reappeared. Like the fictional Enoch Arden he went away, but unlike the case of this prototype, he revealed himself and marital unhappiness followed and his departure.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick was found asphyxiated in her New Garden apartment last Friday. Dressed in an evening gown of yellow silk, she had evidently turned on the burners of the range in the kitchen. Police notified her husband, who was in Deland, Florida, on business. Yesterday the police of that city telegraphed that he shot and killed himself in a secluded spot near the city a few hours after the telegram arrived.

Washington Road Re-opened Today

The bridge just east of this city on the Greenville-Washington road which has been closed for the past several days in order that the road on both sides might be paved was opened for traffic today. This will be welcomed news to the public especially the farmers as it will save a long, rough detour into Greenville.

The Latest Crime Is "Kissing"

Raleigh, Aug. 31.—(AP) The latest crime is kissing. At any rate it is a crime to kiss publicly in the city of Raleigh. It has been ruled so by Judge W. C. Harris, of Raleigh's city court. Ten dollars and the costs was the fine given the young Romeo, in the person of Graham Humphries of Durham. The young lady, who is said to have offered no objection to the affectionate demonstrations of the young man, skipped her bond and did not show up in court.

Two Seaplanes Ready for Non-Stop Flight to Hawaii

San Francisco, Aug. 31.—Two of Uncle Sam's giant navy sea planes stood ready this morning to take off on the proposed 2,100 miles non-stop flight to Hawaii. The third PB-1, the biggest and heaviest of the three aircrafts by 5,000 pounds, was still in his hangar at Crissy Field with a crew of expert mechanics bending every effort to prepare for a solitary flight over the same route probably Wednesday.

Decision to send the two planes away at two o'clock this afternoon without the PB-1 was reached late last night when it was determined that the engine of the PB-1 could not be repaired in time for flight today.

The plans of the Navy officers in charge of today's flight include controlling by fast rum chasers the 15-mile channel from San Pablo Bay to the Golden Gate, over which the two planes will speed in their take off. So heavily laden with fuel will be the two air craft that it was not expected they would attain sufficient altitude to surmount the hills of either side of the Golden Gate and it was determined to keep clear the course which would enable them to start their westward journey over the regular ship lane.

FIVE PERSONS ARE VICTIMS OF AUTO ACCIDENT SUNDAY

Reidsville, Aug. 31.—Five persons were dead here today, victims of an automobile accident at a railroad crossing last night. The dead: Jack Hilliard Carter, 31; M. J. Eugene Irvin, 45; Mrs. Manton Oliver, 45; Mrs. Manton Oliver, 45.

Carter will be conducted from the Episcopal Church here Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with interment following in the local cemetery. All four were members of this church. The body of Mrs. Irvin will be taken to Asheville probably late today.

Will Seek Compulsory Education Children Less Than 18 Years

Chicago, Aug. 31.—The American Federation of Teachers will seek compulsory education of all children less than eighteen years old as a remedy "for the alarming increase of juvenile delinquencies." Frank G. Stecker, Secretary of the Federation, announced today.

An investigating committee are studying existing laws and conditions and making a report in the form of a model compulsory education law embracing the specified age limit.

Preliminary inquiry has disclosed, Secretary Stecker said, that inadequately educated young persons grow delinquent morally as well as in an industrial and commercial attainment.

Declaring that law enforcement in any community is only as effective as public opinion of the community desires, that the time for abolition of capital punishment had not yet arrived in North Carolina and attributing the apparent absolute disregard for law and order on the part of the youth of America to "uncensored moving pictures, unrestrained use of automobiles and the breaking up of home life in America," Judge Albion Dunn, in delivering a powerful charge to the grand jury at the opening of the September term of criminal court here today, admonished that body of men to perform their duty according to the oath which they had taken, make careful examination into the matters that come to their attention and to act upon their findings with impartiality and without favor. This is Judge Dunn's first term of court here since his appointment to the bench and his charge was delivered before an audience that crowded the courtroom to capacity. Following his charge to the grand jury Judge Dunn administered the official oath to Mr. William L. Wheeler, of that city, to practice law. Mr. Wheeler subsequently passed the State Board of Examiners last fall and was granted license by the Supreme Court as of January 1, 1925 but due to the fact that he had not at that time reached the age of majority he was not sworn in until today. Judge Dunn at the outset of his address informed the grand jury that it was not his intention to consume much time in bringing before them their duties as members of that body as he felt that the court was for the transaction of the business of the state and not to listen to an unlimited flow of words from the judge on the bench. He expressed great delight at the privilege of presiding over this, his first term of court in Pitt county, remarking that it came during the month of the fifteenth anniversary of his moving to this city to become one of its citizens. Pointing to the fact that no line of business could be successfully conducted within the short hours that have been observed generally by the courts he declared for longer hours and the hearty co-operation of every court official and member of the bar in order that the heavy docket might be relieved of congestion. "My observation during my twenty years of practice in the courts has convinced me that there is nothing wrong with our judicial system and it should not be tampered with. Already we have enough judges in North Carolina, we do not need more but what we need is judges who will enforce the rules of the law as they now exist. If this is done there will be no need to change the present system to suit the hobbies of any man or group of men." He called to the attention of the grand jury that it was the duty of every citizen to respect the law and that when the punishment meted out by the courts was in excess of the satisfaction the criminal gained through his acts of crime then crime would be less popular and the court houses could indeed be considered temples of justice for protection of the rights of citizens. Judge Dunn also stated emphatically that there were laws regulating the actions of all police officers and other public officials and that the police officer who depended upon his brass buttons instead of the authority vested in him by the law, to make arrests was a menace to the public. An officer is sworn to perform his duty. It is his duty to protect the individual rights of every citizen from encroachment and he should at all times guard against such encroachment by not permitting his zealousness for making arrests overstep his bounds of authority, Judge Dunn said, expressing an opinion that it was far better for a person guilty of a misdemeanor to escape with his wares rather than for an innocent citizen to lay cold in death at the hands of a reckless and careless officer of the law. In his charge Judge Dunn praised the work of the officials of this county with especial emphasis upon the high calibre of men who compose the Board of County Commissioners whose handling of the affairs of the county have drawn forth favorable comment from all parts of the state and nation and whose works are being set up as an example to be followed by other counties. A TIMELY WARNING

A warning against fires issued by Chief Overton, of the local fire department, in which he urges every citizen to practice fire prevention and caution at all times is indeed timely, and should be heeded especially by every property owner. Before beginning your first fires this fall see to it that your flues are in good condition and that the summer's accumulation of trash and other inflammable material around your stoves and furnaces is removed. Citizens should also bear in mind at all times the dangers that surround the answering of fire alarms by the fire company and should obey strictly the city ordinances that require all vehicles to draw up to the curb and stop as soon as the fire alarm sounds. If you continue on your way in your car when the fire alarm sounds you are endangering your own life and the lives of the firemen and you may be the cause of an accident that would prevent the trucks reaching the scene of the fire which might result in untold property damage. There is no use to take this chance when a few minutes' halt will insure safety and city officers have been instructed to arrest all persons who fail to observe the fire ordinances. It is also the duty of every citizen to know how to turn in the fire alarm when a fire is discovered and everyone is urged to seek instructions along this line. Any member of the fire company or any of the police officers are glad to enlighten you and before you need to turn in an alarm is the time to learn just how it is done properly. In this connection we suggest that at certain intervals the city authorities give public demonstrations on "How To Turn In Fire Alarms" and the addition of such a course of instruction in our public schools would mean much toward safeguarding the property of our city.

TRAFFIC REGULATION NEEDED

Traffic on Dickinson Avenue has long been a menace because of the narrow width of the street but with the opening of the tobacco market tomorrow and the increased amount of traffic on the avenue it will become a problem indeed for the city authorities. Traffic congestion on Dickinson Avenue, which is one of our main thoroughfares, could be relieved to a great extent by a city ordinance prohibiting parking on this street in the tobacco section or limiting the parking to one side of the street. It is to be hoped that the City Fathers will give the matter their attention before serious accidents result from the congested condition of traffic in this section.

With anthracite workers scheduled for a walkout tomorrow no doubt "King Coal" will again ascend the throne of high prices.

With criminal court in session, the first of the month at hand, the opening of the local tobacco market and final preparations for the opening of the fall term of our city schools both old and young of this city are experiencing a busy week.

NORTH CAROLINA AS COTTON STATE

North Carolina, which enjoys the reputation of possessing a diversified agriculture yielding a return to its citizens from a large number of important crops, and which has for years ranked as the second tobacco State of the Union, is now in a fair way to gain new agricultural distinction by becoming the premier cotton state of the Atlantic Seaboard. In 1922 and 1923, North Carolina produced more cotton than any other state in the eastern half of the cotton belt except Mississippi. In 1924 an unfavorable season gave the North Carolina cotton industry a temporary setback. But this year, according to the forecasts of the Department of Agriculture, the Old North State has established itself ahead of all of its eastern competitors except one, and its crop will be within 120,000 bales of that grown by Mississippi. When it is considered that ten years ago, North Carolina was the fifth cotton state east of the Mississippi and that it has advanced to its present position despite the ravages of the boll weevil, its achievement appears highly impressive. It is enough to show that North Carolina agriculture is keeping pace with North Carolina industry in the march of progress.—Virginian Pilot.

Dog Cemetery Established. Spokane, Wash. — Dogs, whose deeds and loyalty have been immortalized in song and story, have been given a salient tribute in the establishment of a dog cemetery in a shady nook near here. CHAPTER XV (Continued)

We stared in amazement. A sheet of steady flame seemed to cross the passage and to bar our way. We hastened towards it. No sound, no heat, no movement came from it, but still the great luminous curtain glowed before us, silencing all the cave and turning the sand to powdered jewels, until as we drew closer it discovered a circular edge.

"The Moon, by George!" cried Lord John. "We are through, boys! We are through!" It was indeed the full moon which shone straight down the aperture which opened upon the cliffs. It was a small rift, not larger than a window, but it was enough for all our purposes. As we craned our necks through it we could see that the descent was not a very difficult one, and that the level ground was no very great way below us. It was no wonder that from below we had not observed the place, as the cliffs curved overhead and an ascent at the spot would have seemed so impossible as to discourage close inspection. We satisfied ourselves that with the help of our ropes we could find our way down, and then returned, rejoicing, to our camp to make our preparations for the next evening.

What we did we had to do quickly and secretly, since even at this late hour the Indians might hold us back. Our stores we would leave behind us, save only our guns and cartridges. But Challenger had some unwieldy stuff which he ardently desired to take with him, and one particular package, of which I may not speak, which gave us more labor than any. Slowly the day passed, but when the darkness fell we were ready for our departure. With much labor we got our things up the steps, and then, looking back, took one last long survey of that strange land, soon I fear to be vulgarized, the prey of hunter and prospector, but to each of us a dreamland of glamor and romance, a land where we had dared much, suffered much, and learned much—our land, as we shall ever fondly call it. Along upon our left the neighboring caves each threw out its ruddy cheery firelight into the gloom. From the slope below us rose the voices of the Indians as they laughed and sang. Beyond was the long sweep of the woods, and in the center, shimmering vaguely through the gloom, was the great lake, the mother of strange monsters. Even as we looked a high whickering cry, the call of some weird animal, rang clear out of the darkness. It was the very voice of Maple White Land bidding us goodbye. We turned and plunged into the cave which led to home.

Two hours later, we, our packages, and all we owned, were at the foot of the cliff. Save for Challenger's luggage we had never a difficulty. Leaving it all where we descended, we started at once for Zambo's camp. In the early morning we approached it, but only to find, to our amazement, not one fire but a dozen upon the plain. The rescue party had arrived. There were twenty Indians from the river, with stakes, ropes, and all that could be useful for bridging the chasm. At least we shall have no difficulty now in carrying our packages, when tomorrow we begin to make our way back to the Amazon.

And so, in humble and thankful mood, I close this account. Our eyes have seen great wonders and our souls are chastened by what we have endured. Each is in his own way a better and deeper man. It may be that when we reach Para we shall stop to rest. If we do, this letter will be a mail ahead. If not, it will reach London on the very day that I do. In either case, my dear Mr. McArdie, I hope very soon to shake you by the hand.

CHAPTER XVI

"A Procession! A Procession!"

I should wish to place upon record here our gratitude to all our friends upon the Amazon for the very great kindness and hospitality which was shown to us upon our return journey. Very particularly would I thank Senhor Pennosa and other officials of the Brazilian Government for the special arrangements by which we were helped upon our way, and Senhor Pereira of Para, to whose forethought we owe the complete outfit for a decent appearance in the civilized world which we found ready for us at that town. It seemed a poor return for all the courtesy which we encountered that we should deceive our hosts and benefactors, but under the circumstances we had really no alternative, and I hereby tell them that they will only waste their time and their money if they attempt to follow upon our traces. Even the names have been altered in our accounts, and I am very sure that no one, from the most careful study of them, would come within a thousand miles of our unknown land.

South America which we had to traverse was imagined by us to be purely local, and I can assure our friends in England that we had no notion of the uproar which the mere rumor of our experiences had caused through Europe. It was not until the Iperia was within five hundred miles of Southampton that the wireless messages from paper after paper and agency after agency, offering huge prices for a short return message as to our actual results, showed us how strained was the attention not only of the scientific world but of the general public. It was agreed among us, however, that no definite statement should be given to the Press until we had met members of the Zoological Institute, since as delegates it was our clear duty to give our first report to the body from which we had received our commission of investigation. Thus, although we found Southampton full of Pressmen, we absolutely refused to give any information, which had the natural effect of focusing public attention upon the meeting which was advertised for the evening of November 7th. For this gathering, the Zoological Hall which had been the scene of the inception of our task was found to be far too small, and it was only in the Queen's Hall in Regent Street that accommodation could be found. It is now common knowledge the promoters might have ventured upon the Albert Hall and still found their space too scanty.

It was for the second evening after our arrival that the great meeting had been fixed. For the first, we had each, no doubt, our own pressing personal affairs to absorb us. Of mine I cannot yet speak. It may be that as it stands further from me I may think of it, and even speak of it, with less emotion. I have shown the reader in beginning of this narrative where lay the springs of my action. It is but right, perhaps, that I should carry on the tale and show also the results. And yet the day may come when I would not have it otherwise. At least I have been driven forth to take part in a wondrous adventure, and I cannot but be thankful to the force that drove me.

And now I turn to the last and perhaps the most eventful moment of our adventure. As I was racking my brain as to how I should best describe it, my eyes fell upon the issue of my own Journal for the morning of the 8th of November with the full and excellent account of my friend and fellow-reporter Macdona. What can I do better than transcribe his narrative—headlines and all? I admit that the paper was exuberant in the matter, out of compliment to its own enterprise in sending a correspondent, but the other great dailies were hardly less full in their account. Thus, then, friend Mac in his report:

GREAT MEETING AT THE
SCENES OF UPROAR
EXTRAORDINARY INCIDENT
WHAT WAS IT?
NOCTURNAL RIOT IN REGENT STREET
(Special)

"The much-discussed meeting of the Zoological Institute, convened to hear the report of the Committee of Investigation sent out last year to South America to test the assertions made by Professor Challenger as to the continued existence of prehistoric life upon that Continent, was held last night in the greater Queen's Hall, and it is safe to say that it is likely to be a red letter date in the history of Science, for the proceedings were of so remarkable and sensational a character that no one present is ever likely to forget them." (Oh, brother scribe Macdona, what a monstrous opening sentence!) "The tickets were theoretically confined to members and their friends, but the latter is an elastic term, and long before eight o'clock, the hour fixed for the commencement of the proceedings, all parts of the Great Hall were tightly packed. The general public, however, which most unreasonably entertained a grievance at having been excluded, stormed the doors at a quarter to eight, after a prolonged melee in which several people were injured, including Inspector Scoble of H Division, whose leg was unfortunately broken. After this unwarrantable invasion, which not only filled every passage, but even intruded upon the space set apart for the Press, it is estimated that nearly five thousand people awaited the arrival of the travelers. When they eventually appeared, they took their places in the front of a platform which already contained all the leading scientific men, not only of this country, but of France and of Germany. Sweden was also represented. In the person of Professor Sergius, the famous Zoologist of the University of Upsala.

Save the surface and you save all!
Paint to Protect — As Well as to Beautify
WHEN you get ready to paint and are talking it over, debating this color and that, don't overlook the most vital point—protection. The biggest job paint has to do is to save the surface. It is a well-known fact that Pee Gee Mastic Paint has never been surpassed in protecting any surface to which applied. Its beauty is an incident to its real value—adding long years of life to your home, barn, out-buildings—wherever used. It stays "put" and retains its high gloss for years.

Spots quiet, 40 lower, mid. 2220. Next government report on cotton due September 8.

Grain
A trading market in wheat probably for several days is expected by a majority of local operators although there was a tendency to look for a lower range during that period with probably numerous sharp bulges. Commission house comment as a whole was somewhat more bearish.

Liverpool
Sales 4,000, receipts 11,000, American 300, G.M. 1260, mid. 1225. Oct. 1172, Dec. 1163, Jan. 1175, Mar. 1175, May 1182. Due, Oct. 1188, Dec. 82, Jan. 83, Mar. 89, May 95.

Coming Events
Except for activity diminishing with the approach of Labor Day, little change is anticipated in the general character of the market.

Further constructive operations in the rail, steel and copper groups is anticipated.

Cotton
Washington dispatch says communication prepared at Bureau of Agriculture and sent members of Congress could be eliminated without MFV indicates that early cotton report could be eliminated without working hardships on any branches of the industry.

American Cotton Association makes condition 60.1. Estimated acreage 44,756,000 and indicated yield 13,561,000. The condition figure applied to Government acreage forecast crop of 13,568,000 report says drought continues to cause heavy abandonment of Texas acreage.

Muscle Shoals Power has been called to relieve shortage of electric power in South Atlantic States resulting from extended drought.

London cable to Journal of Commerce says Manchester is uncertain of substantial improvement. Aggregate turnover, however, gradually increasing and cloth prices fairly steady. Monsoon is satisfactory although rains are wanted. Raw cotton prices at New Bedford weakened still further and mills continue to buy only in occasional small lots offerings were coming in volume from nearly all quarters of South last week and included staple lengths up to full inch and quarter.

There were local showers in Gulf States yesterday and scattered thundershowers are probable today and tomorrow in extreme south. Higher temperatures expected in the South Atlantic but cooler in Middle West. Southwest forecast part cloudy and cooler with widely scattered showers in Texas.

Weather
Very warm temperatures central and western belt, especially Mississippi Valley and Arkansas. Light rainfall Jackson, Canton and Vicksburg, Mississippi, New Orleans, Shreveport, Galveston and San Antonio districts. Also along Carolina and Florida coasts. Forecast: Western belt part cloudy scattered showers. All balance entire belt generally fair.

Liverpool says, increased hedge selling local and London liquidation; spinners indifferent; decline in market disturbing Manchester business.

Egyptian market in Liverpool 35 points lower; Indian spots 25 points lower.

New York Commercial estimates condition as of Aug 25 about 60 with crop 13,900,000.

Special advices in Journal of Commerce indicate that Mississippi bids fair to make one of largest crops it has ever raised and that outlook is distinctly good in average in Tennessee and Missouri while of the South Central, Southern States, Louisiana has probably the poorest prospect. Liverpool wheat down 2 1/2 to 2.

GOVERNOR WRITES AD AID N. DAKOTA BETTER ROADS MOVE

Bismarck, N. D.—Governor A. G. Sorlie, who was a salesman before he organized a business of his own and which he deserted for the executive chair, has put some of his advertising practices into state use.

In the state highway bulletin, which hopes to aid in developing popular support for a statewide better roads campaign, a whole page is devoted to what is labelled "An ad by the Governor." Another title says "A. G. writes to the boys."

The advertisement is a letter which the governor has sent to every employe of the state in which he said in part:

"We are in the public service business—you and I let's do our part to put our products on the sellers' market and merchandise our protein wheat. We have an exclusive wheat that is raised here only. "The Best of the West." It makes the best flour in the world.

"The people of North Dakota have created a state laboratory called the Mill and Elevator. It is a research bureau that makes tests on a large scale and therefore must be conducted as a commercial enterprise in order to fully function. For the economic welfare of the agricultural sections it is essential that the laboratory succeed.

"You and I are state employes who get our living from the same people who have provided this laboratory and who must defray the costs of these researches not met by its commercial earnings.

"Dakota Main, the product of our state laboratory, is the best flour from the best wheat. If North Dakota is to prosper then North Dakotans must use its products first and all the time. As state employes, we owe it greater loyalty than the average citizen."

The state mill and elevator to which the governor refers was one of the enterprises into which the state plunged following the rise to political power of the Nonpartisan league. It has failed to show profit to date but one of the governor's campaign promises was that he would put the $3,000,000 concern on its feet and make it pay. He is the manager of the institution, its direction having been placed in his hands by the last legislature. Governor Sorlie was elected as a Nonpartisan.

CALIFORNIA TOWN PICKS UP AND MOVES TO NEW LOCATION

Barstow, Cal.—This little town of approximately 3,000 persons lying on the outskirts of the Mojave desert, an important link in transcontinental railroad traffic, is on the move. The business section is being shifted to a new site a quarter of a mile away.

Two conditions were largely responsible for the transplanting. One was that the National Old Trails highway runs through Barstow three blocks from the business center. The other was that the old townsite lies between passenger tracks and freight yards used jointly by the Santa Fe and Union Pacific. Both were in the market for the land, for its acquisition would enable freight and passenger yards to be united.

Caillaux Optimistic As to Ability Settle France's Debt Ques.

Paris, Aug. 31.—Optimism prevails with Minister of Finance Caillaux as to his ability quickly to settle France's debt question with the United States.

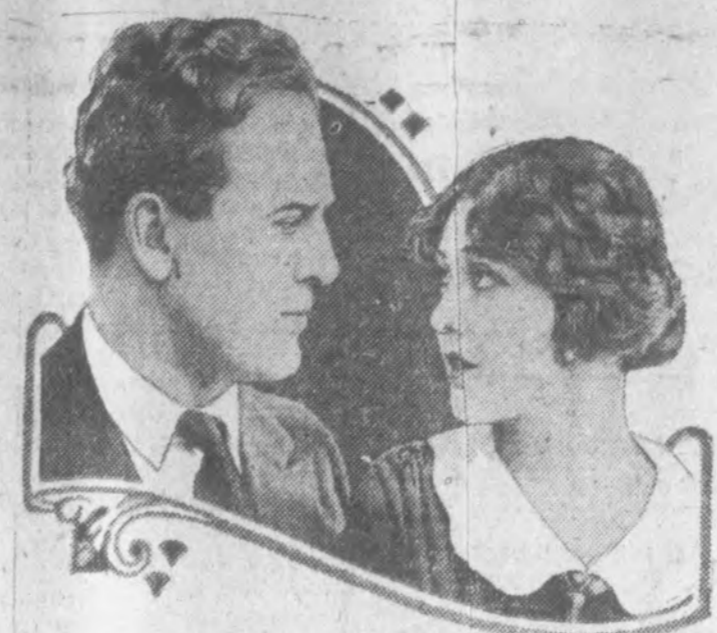

His approaching visit to the United States to discuss with the American Debt Funding Commission plans for arranging terms by which France will be able to liquidate the claims against her, will cover a period of ten days.

On arriving in Washington September 23 with a Revenue of financial and technical advisors he will plunge immediately into the work of negotiating a compact, and this he hopes to have finished so that he can catch a homeward bound steamer in New York on October 3.

CANADIAN BEER HAS LOST CHARM FOR U. S. TOURISTS

Detroit.—The tourist season is under full stream now and the ferries and bridges are crowded with Ontario-bound Americans, but the situation in the Promised Land for the thirsty is peculiarly grim for those who expected to get a quench out of the widely heralded "44 beer."

What has become of the emigrants thousands whose feet tramped hurriedly across the gang planks of Detroit Windsor ferries and rushed the International bridge at Niagara in that grand but rather short-lived offensive extending along a great front from Port Huron and points north to the Georgian bay region to Buffalo and along the St. Lawrence river? It is a question that frequently confronts the callous border city citizen when the visitor whispers the inquiry: "The answer, which is indirect but pertinent to the question, usually comes readily and with a tinge of scorn though polite: "Oh, its on tap over there," indicating a hotel or inn. "We don't drink it, you know."

The beer is available in most inns, hotels and restaurants throughout the province. Diligent search in some instances will disclose cases of a beverage resembling in color and hardly exceeding in alcoholic content the near-beer concoction so freely sold in this country. The connoisseur, if there be such in the field of beerology, has proclaimed it weak, tasty but weak.

In the meantime, the province has gone placidly on its way maintaining to the ordinary observer the same aspect it bore before the amended temperance act went into effect.

HAS CONCLUSIVE EVIDENCE OF LIFE ON MARS, SAYS A CAMBRIDGE MAN

Cambridge, Eng.—G. H. Hamilton of Trinity College, soon will present to the International Astronomical Union what he regards conclusive evidence of the existence on Mars of sentient beings with a civilization of 90,000 years to their credit.

"My proofs are forthcoming," said Dr. Hamilton recently, "that Mars is in the condition the earth is approaching—that is, a Planet. Once it had seas, but they have disappeared. The mountains and hills are gone, worn away by wind erosion. The canals are not ditches, nor water courses; its commonly supposed, but vegetation on each side of conduits of water. These conduits are routes of travel for commerce and anything else."

CENTENNIAL PAGEANT TO RECALL WESTERN TRAIL THE BLAZER'S EFFORTS

LaFayette, Ind.—Descendants of pioneers who blazed a trail through the wilderness more than a century ago will take part in a pageant featuring the LaFayette-Tippecanoe centennial, September 27-30.

More than 3,000 persons will participate in the spectacle showing the growth and development of LaFayette since its foundation by Robert Johnson, a tavern keeper. The battle of Tippecanoe, marking the breaking of Indian power in western Indiana, will be shown in pantomime. The celebrators also will honor the hero of Tippecanoe, William Henry Harrison, who later became president of the United States. Tippecanoe battlefield, now a state shrine, is but a few miles from here.

LaFayette was named after Marquis de LaFayette, the French nobleman, who aided the colonies during the Revolutionary war.

Urges Parleys

SENATOR MOSES

Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, believes there should be continual conferences between Washington and London in deciding on the terms for the settlement of the French debt to the United States.

REFUSAL OF BRITONS TO EMIGRATE CAUSES WORRY TO OFFICIALS

London.—Emigration from England and Scotland to less crowded parts of the empire is less than half as great as before the war, despite the fact that the home country is overcrowded and opportunities for workers seem to grow scarcer. Last year, despite the growth of unemployment and the encouragement given to emigrants through government financial assistance, only 88,883 people left to take up residence in the dominions and colonies. In 1918, when no financial help was offered by the state, the number was 223,581.

The natural increase of population on this island averages about 300,000 persons a year at present. Unless more people depart, overcrowding and perhaps unemployment will steadily become more severe.

In 1913, statistics given by the Colonial Secretary, show 164,566 people emigrated from this country to Canada and Newfoundland, but last year the total was only 47,194. For the same years the number going to Australia dwindled from 44,500 to 30,900 to New Zealand, from 11,800 to 8,740 and for other parts of the empire from 2,840 to 2,000. Only South Africa showed an increased magnetism for migrants, but the figures are insignificant—375 emigrants in 1913 and 649 last year.

These facts are causing serious ponderings among many who feel that trade will never wax large enough to absorb all the idlers in England and Scotland unless their number are vastly lowered by wholesale migrations to those parts of the empire which are under-populated. There are some who feel that emigration never can be made properly attractive so long as persons can stay at home and make a living doing nothing. That is what the dole amounts to, in their eyes and there are about 1,800,000 persons on the dole, receiving their hand-out from the state each week they are without work. The unemployed, it is contended, prefer to stay where they are, rather than wrench themselves away from this island and gamble on a little more glittering future in pastures new.

There have been many efforts to organize parties of emigrants from villages and townships, but few have met with success. The people simply won't budge. The Morning Post says the most disquieting reflection which this experience suggests is the "decay of the spirit of adventure in our people—and the spirit by virtue of which our whole empire has been founded and people."

SARGENT'S WORK WILL NOT DEPRECIATE, SAYS BRITON

London.—It is sheer nonsense to suggest that the late John Singer Sargent's pictures will be worth less in a hundred years than they are today, Sir William Orpen, declared when told of a rumor that some of the pictures which fetched such high prices recently already showed signs of deterioration on account of the inferior quality of modern pigments. "Modern pigments are just as good, and certainly as durable, as those used by any of the old masters," continued Sir John. "A great deal of nonsense has been talked about those Sargent prices," he added. "Six thousand pounds is none too much to pay for a copy of a masterpiece, if Sargent was the copyist. I should have paid it myself if I had the money."

"After all, it is Sargent's interpretation of a great work, and it has a tremendous artistic interest on that account. It is not merely slavish imitation. I have not seen this particular work myself, but he has surely breathed something of his own spirit into it."

"He was not, however, like Manet, another great copyist. Manet used original works in the same way that a great pianist uses a theme on which to improvise. Sargent did not improvise. He merely interpreted. And I should like to see the same work copied by other masters, just as I would like to hear a dozen pianists play the same Beethoven sonata. "As far as I know, this is the first sale at which a copy has fetched a high price. It will not be the last."

House Cat Nemesis of Snakes.
Connellsville, Pa.—James Beauty of Dickerson Run, near here, claims to have the champion snake-hunting cat of this section. Three times within the past several weeks the cat has brought to the house live snakes, which were killed by members of the family. The first was of the common garden variety, while the other two were black snakes.

JUDGE DUNN DELIVERS POWERFUL ADDRESS TO GRAND JURY HERE TODAY

He remarked on the rapid progress that North Carolina was making along educational and other lines. He paid tribute to the late Charles B. Aycock, whom he expressed as having worked in and out of season to procure better educational facilities for the children of this state. We should continue to build schools in this state, said Judge Dunn, until we can assure every child an education but it is the duty of every citizen to see that we build wisely and that we get value received for our money spent.

In commenting on the good roads in North Carolina Judge Dunn declared that our highways were built for the comfort and convenience of our citizens and not for the purpose of being burned up by drunken road hogs. If persons are brought into this court charged with drunken driving I will see to it that they get a fair and impartial trial but if they are found guilty of the charge they will reap the whirlwind of what they have sown for within the four walls of the state prison is the proper place for the person who will get drunk and in such a condition drive an automobile.

Continuing his address Judge Dunn declared that he did not believe that capital punishment should be abolished. When a man willfully and with premeditation takes the life of his fellowman, enters his home in the hours of the night with crime in his heart, sets fire to buildings endangering the lives of the occupants or forces harm upon a woman, such crimes deserve no punishment less than death, he declared. With the present trend toward lawlessness in this country I hate to imagine what the outcome might be if capital punishment was abolished. The only way that better conditions can be brought about in this country, he declared, "is for the courts to see that every person rich or poor is given a fair and impartial trial and that the guilty parties are given punishment that is in excess of the satisfaction they gain from their wrong doing." "This," he said, "will aid greatly in the prevention of crime."

Touching upon the rights of citizens he declared that it is the right of every citizen to know what is being taught in the public schools of our country and to have a voice in the choice of such subjects. While it is the right of every citizen to serve God according to the dictates of his conscience, Judge Dunn declared, the youth of the country should not be taught disbelief in the faith of our fathers. "I prefer that our schools teach the religion of the 'Rock of Ages' rather than for some expert of learning to teach the religion of the 'ages of the rock,'" he said. It is the right of the people to prohibit the teaching of theories in contradiction to the Holy Bible, he said, for without the Bible we could not exist and even this court would have been unable to open today but for its belief in Him Above and the use of the Bible. In this connection Judge Dunn declared that the late William Jennings Bryan in his final message at Dayton, Tenn., had reared for himself in the hearts of the Christian people of the world a memorial more beautiful than marble or brass and more enduring than bronze.

The laws of our land cannot be enforced unless public sentiment desires such enforcement he declared. If a community does not want bootlegging, bootlegging in that community will cease to exist and if an officer does not do his duty in a community where the citizens desire law enforcement that officer will not long remain an officer.

With a statement that statistics showed more boys under the age of 24 years in the penal institutions of our country than in the high schools he declared that he did not attribute this deplorable situation to conditions created as a result of unsettled conditions following the world war. Most of these youthful offenders have grown up since the war and the war had nothing to do with it, he declared. "I attribute the present increasing tendency toward violation of the law by the youth of our country to the uncensored moving picture, the unrestrained use of the automobile, and the breaking up of the home life in America," he declared. There was a time when in every home was a framed prayer "God Bless Our Home" but now apparently homes are conducted under the motto of "Where next" and the participants are in a hurry to depart in complaint against the "Big Brother" and "Big Sister" movements in this country and praised the work that these organizations are carrying on but he declared that the boy with the proper kind of a father needed no "Big Brother" and the girl with the proper kind of a mother needed no "Big Sister." Parents alone can help to remedy the conditions and it is their Christian and civic duty to again pick up the reins and hold back the racing youth that is approaching the chasm of disaster, he concluded.

Following Judge Dunn's charge and the administration of the oath to William L. Whedbee the grand jury retired to consider pending presentments and the court immediately began the hearing of the cases on the docket.

Rocky Face Spinning Company Has Been Adjudged Insolvent

Statesville, Aug. 31.—(AP) With an indebtedness shown by auditors as $184,000, the Rocky Face Spinning company, at Stony Point, has been adjudged insolvent. W. D. Turner, of Statesville, has been appointed receiver.

The naming of the receiver follows a meeting of creditors held sometime ago, and a petition filed by the creditors of the concern. The original cost of the mill was said to be around $400,000. The officers of the company were J. B. Hall, president and active manager, and Samuel Turner, secretary and treasurer.

Crap Game Causes Trouble at Negro Church On Sunday

Ten negroes who evidently preferred to enjoy a noisy game of "crap" rather than hear a quiet sermon, on yesterday disturbed the tranquility of a meeting in Belvoir Township to the extent that officers were summoned to quell the disturbance.

The officers were notified of the trouble and upon arrival at the church found that ten negroes were enjoying "Come seven and go eleven," in a rather noisy manner. Six of the participants were arrested and brought to Greenville.

2,878 Automobile Fatalities Reported Jan. 1 to Aug. 15

Raleigh, Aug. 31.—(AP) A total of 2,878 automobile fatalities in 57 cities with an aggregate population of 27 millions were reported during the period January 1 to August 15, this year.

The figures, compiled by the Federal Department of Commerce, are contained in a bulletin just received here. In contrast with these figures are those of 1923. In the same cities, during the period of January 1 to August 31 or a slightly longer period—the fatalities reported numbered 2,885, or seven more than during the slightly shorter period this year.

Of the 66 cities for which comparisons are possible, 36 show more automobile fatalities during the first seven and a half months of 1925 during the first eight months of 1923. Three hundred sixty-eight, or 13 percent, of the 2,878 fatalities this year occurred during the four-week period ending August 15, showing a marked increase in fatalities during that period.

New Bedford, Conn., with two deaths, still holds the record for 1925. Norfolk, Va., shows no fatalities during the past eight weeks, and seven of the 77 cities of 100,000 population and over, on which reports have been received, show no fatalities during the four week period ending August 15. These cities are Dayton, Houston, Lynn, New Bedford, St. Paul, San Antonio, and Waterbury.

New York leads all cities in the number of fatalities, with a total during the first seven and a half months of the year of 559, as compared with 600 during the first eight months of 1923.

Debits to Individual Firm and Corporation Show an Increase

Raleigh, Aug. 31.—Debits to individual, firm and corporation accounts in 23 leading business centers in the fifth reserve district showed an increase of 12.3 percent during the five week period ending Aug. 12 over corresponding period of last year.

This is shown in figures compiled by the statistical department of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, and contained in the bank's Monthly Review, just received here.

The debits for the five-week period ending August 12, this year, totaled $1,463,403,000, as compared with $1,303,452,000 for the corresponding period of 1924. Seventeen of the 23 cities registered gain, while six—Charleston, S. C., Columbia, S. C., Greensboro, Hagerstown, Md., Norfolk, and Wilmington—showed declines.

The greatest gains were made in North Carolina by Charlotte and Durham. Debits there former city increased from $43,576,000 to $50,559,000. In Durham the figures for the 1924 period were $21,671,000, and for this year, $28,884,000. Raleigh showed an even greater gain, jumping from $28,311,000 to $60,610,000, but says the Review "the large increase in Raleigh's figures was caused by movements of state funds rather than to any marked increase in local business transactions."

The figures for Winston-Salem, were, for 1924, $38,398,000, and for this year, $40,043,000; those for Asheville, $30,452,000, for 1924, and $31,350,000 for 1925. Declines were shown for Greensboro and Wilmington. Greensboro's figures for this year were $20,647,000, as compared with $23,462,000 for the corresponding period last year. A decline at Wilmington from $19,371,000 to $18,874,000 is shown by the Review.

But while the figures in the 23 centres showed an increase over those of last year, the debits for the five-week period ending August 12, were 6.9 percent less than those for a five-week period ending July 8. The comparative figures were $1,463,403,000 for the last five-week period, as contrasted with $1,571,812,000 for the preceding period of five weeks.

Most of the decline, however, the Review adds, was "seasonal and due to the large volume of dividend and semi-annual interest payments on July 1. The decrease was uniformly distributed, 19 of the 23 cities reporting lower figures for the more recent period."

Refuses Car for Booze Purposes is Forced Out of Business

Greensboro, Aug. 31.—(AP) Because he refused to allow his automobile to be used for booze purposes his credit was cut off, and he was forced out of business.

Such is the charge of J. P. Bishop, former president of a motor company, who is suing the Commercial Investment company for $15,000. Allegation is that he refused to furnish an agent of the company a car with which to haul whiskey, and the agent had his credit cut off, in retaliation.

Another report unconfirmed was that two or three men wearing masks were seen here Friday night about the time Whaley was shot. The automobile, in which they were riding, is said to have left here in the direction of Columbia.
