MITCHELL RESIGNS AS AN OFFICER OF THE U. S. ARMY

Resignation to Become Effective On February 1; Final Decision Rests With President

Washington, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Colonel William Mitchell resigned today from the army.

The convicted air officer under sentence of five years' suspension from the army because of his criticism of government aviation policies put his resignation in this simple sentence:

"I hereby tender my resignation as an officer of the United States Army to take effect February 1, 1926."

The letter was dated today and addressed to the Adjutant General of the Army through the Commanding Officer of the District of Washington. Whether the resignation will be accepted had not been fully determined. Some Army precedents indicate that in the case of such withdrawal from the army they should state directly that the resignation is submitted "for the good of the service."

The final decision will rest with President Coolidge, who two days ago approved, with modification, Colonel Mitchell's court martial.

The president sustained the five year suspension sentence but reduced the court findings, that he should be without pay or allowances during that period, and allowed him half his salary.

It is the belief of Colonel Mitchell's friends that if he is permitted to step out of the army he will accept an offer to continue on the lecture platform his erstwhile reorganization of the national defense to give a more prominent place to the development of air power.

REPORTED THAT JUDGE ALBION DUNN RESIGNED SUPERIOR COURT BENCH

Judge Dunn Today Declined to Confirm Report; Has Established Enviable Record on the Bench

It is reported here today that Judge Albion Dunn, of this city, has forwarded to Governor A. W. McLean, his resignation as Judge of Superior Court in North Carolina.

Inquiry at the Governor's office this morning by the Associated Press failed to get confirmation of the report but Charles H. England, Secretary to Governor McLean, said a personal letter addressed to the Governor had been received from Judge Dunn but pending the return of the Governor to the city on Friday, it could not be made public. Judge Dunn told the Associated Press and this paper over long distance from Beaufort, where he is holding court, that he was not in position to confirm the report but that he was awaiting the Governor's action.

"While Judge Dunn did not say whether the letter addressed to Mr. McLean contained his resignation, his reply was taken as indicating that it probably had been connected with the subject," the Associated Press said.

Judge Dunn accepted the appointment to the Superior Court bench on March 9, 1925 and held his first term of court at Burgaw, March 23 following. His record as a jurist is an enviable one and his administration of justice has brought forth much favorable comment from the press throughout the state.

Tobacco Board Trade Expresses Thanks for Signs

The following letter from the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade, to the Water and Light Commission expresses the appreciation of the Board for the splendid electric signs on all the main roads leading into Greenville, advertising "Greenville, the Best Tobacco Market in the State."

"The Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade wishes, through the undersigned committee, to express to you its thanks for the splendid electric signs placed on all the main roads leading into Greenville. This act on your part shows a wonderful spirit and you should be commended for it.

"If the feeling by you in the wearing of those signs was lived up to by each and every citizen of our town and county, our market would sell millions of pounds of tobacco more than it is selling and our town would experience a wave of prosperity that would surpass anything it has ever witnessed.

"Again thanking you, we are, Yours very truly, W. D. Pruitt, A. E. Hobgood, Mat McGowan, Committee."

Tax Reduction Bill Awaiting Attention Sen.

Washington, Jan. 27.—(AP)—With opposition organizing against it, the tax reduction bill took its place immediately behind the world court issue today awaiting the full attention of the Senate.

Although the compromise reached by republican and democratic members of the Finance committee in modifying the House measure, apparently assuring overwhelming support for the bill, a determined attack against some of its provisions was certain.

Senator King, of Utah, one of the democratic members of the committee has prepared a minority report disagreeing with the proposal to repeal the inheritance levy and the law allowing publication of income tax returns.

In this contest he will be joined by a considerable group of Western republicans and some democrats, who already have held informal conferences for formulation of a program of opposition.

Senator King further desires that the total reduction of the bill be increased from the estimated figures of $325,000,000 to at least $500,000,000 annually. He would repeal the taxes on automobiles, trucks, admissions, and dues, and would go further in the reduction of surtaxes—at least to that originally proposed by democratic members of the committee.

TODAY

(Copyright, 1925) Time, Space and Corpses. Broadcasting Heat. Will Coolidge Be First? If Masked Ladies. ARTHUR BRISBANE

Einstein says time and distance are not as we understand them. Others believe both exist only in the mind. Time and distance certainly influence man and his emotions, leading that flood or plague has killed ten thousand in China, you murmur "too bad" and pass on. You see one child crushed under an automobile, and the horror never leaves you. It happened near you.

Carter digs out old Tut-Ankh-Amen, moving his mummy and jewels to the museum, and you say "quite correct," just the place for old Pharaoh. But when Bolsheviki open the tombs of the Romanoff rulers, some recently dead, removing from royal corpses $1,000,000 worth of jewels and gold ornaments, you mutter "what ghoul."

You can offer no better reason for robbing a dead Pharaoh than for robbing a dead Romanoff. But time and distance make all the difference.

Professor Dibble of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, says it will soon be possible to broadcast heat waves as we broadcast sound waves.

Imagine burning coal at the mine, oil at the well, or burning in far off forestry giant piles of dead wood and "trash" that now go to waste, and "broadcasting" the heat to millions of houses.

Equally important is a serious scientist's statement that icebergs now boating down from the north, menacing navigation, causing icy currents that lower temperature, can be destroyed at their source.

When men shall have made power as plentiful as water and air, by harnessing tides or the sun, human control of the earth will be absolute.

Fertility and climate will be regulated according to the will of man, deserts and swamps unknown.

Some senators are changing their attitude on the world court, and joining those that would keep the United States out of it.

Senator Williams of Missouri says that entering the world court, would force the United States to enter the League of Nations, and share its responsibilities. That is the truth.

Will President Coolidge decide first among president to support the theory that the United States is not big enough to manage itself without help or advice from Europe?

When Washington was president, this nation's population was about half the population of New York City now. Washington thought his country would manage itself, and advised it to keep out of European entanglements.

Mr. Coolidge has 115,000,000 Americans back of him. It can hardly seem to him necessary to take a nation of that size across to organize a European League of Nations, especially with the court and the European nations overwhelmingly hostile to the people of the United States.

At Ocala, Florida, 17 ladies wearing masks, drove to the house of a woman whose morals did not suit the seventeen, tied her hands and legs, carried her to a lonely spot and whipped her with branches of trees. She was picked up unconscious and taken to a hospital. "No arrests," the single word "brutality" does not cover the case.

Schopenhauer says women, for ages, have conspired to make every man support some one woman all her life, and to be, as nearly as possible, faithful to that one. Schopenhauer says women never forgive any sister that makes it easy for men to escape that obligation.

DIXON AWARDED VERDICT OF $1000 IN DAMAGE SUIT

Sues Norfolk - Southern Railroad for Death of Son, Robert Dixon; Moves to Set Aside Verdict

Mr. J. E. Dixon, of this city, administrator of the estate of Robert Dixon, his son, who was killed in an auto accident on September 16, 1924, when a car in which he was riding was hit by the Norfolk-Southern train, was awarded $1000, as the result of a damage suit, which was given a hearing in Federal Court, Washington, Monday and Tuesday of this week. The plaintiff moved to set aside the verdict, on the grounds that the sum was not sufficient.

Robert Dixon, aged 17 years, was instantly killed, and C. M. H. Krouse, a young white man, also of this city, who was driving the car, was injured when the automobile was hit by the Norfolk-Southern shifting engine No. 89, at the cotton mill crossing, just west of this city.

At the time of the accident the train which consisted of an engine and two box cars, was headed west while the automobile with its two occupants was coming east.

Krouse leaped from under the steering wheel and cleared the tracks to safety. Young Dixon was not so fortunate and for several yards his body was dragged with the auto, before it fell from the wreckage.

Mr. Dixon entered suit, and the case was taken up in Federal Court Monday, requiring Monday, Tuesday and a part of today to finish same.

Johnston County Continues Lead in Cotton Ginned

Raleigh, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Johnston county continues to lead other counties in North Carolina in the amount of cotton ginned, with a total prior to January 16 of 73,289 bales as compared with total ginning to that date of 60,721 in Roberson county, Johnston's nearest competitor. The figures, announced by the bureau of the census of the United States Department of Commerce, have just just been received here.

The bureau furnishes figures for all North Carolina counties producing cotton, the comparative figures for 1924 and 1925 being given. The 1925 figures are preliminary, the department says.

Nash county was third, with a total of 57,171. The next county in order of amount of cotton ginned was Halifax, with 53,703 bales; followed by Wake, with 49,948; Harnett with 47,897; Sampson, with 40,856; Edgecombe, with 39,369; Wayne, with 38,018; and Cleveland, with 36,808.

Johnston, leader last year, is again first; Nash, third this year, was second a year ago; Cleveland, third last year, has dropped to tenth place; Harnett, ranking fourth a year ago, was in sixth place this year; Wake continues in fifth rank; Halifax has climbed from sixth to fourth place; Edgecombe has dropped from seventh to eighth rank; Robeson, ranking eighth a year ago, now is second in amount of cotton ginned; Sampson has risen from ninth to seventh place, and Wayne, tenth a year ago, is now ninth.

The counties, together with the ginning figures prior to January 16, 1924 and 1925, respectively, follow. Quantities are in running bales, counties round as half bales, linters not included.

with Peary, gives a better reason, particularly interesting to colored men and women.

The negro who accompanied Peary spoke fluently the language of the Esquimaux, could build a snow hut, and drive a dog team better than any white man in the expedition, and he was always cheerful, never complained. That was the man for Peary to take with him.

Radio Fans Now Hopeful of Hearing This Week's Concert

New York, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Radio fans who have been struggling with static, SOS calls and general storm conditions during the first part of the week's international broadcasting test are now hopeful that the worst is over.

The air improved considerably last night, despite earth currents from the Aurora Borealis. Cablegrams and telegrams poured in today telling of the triumph of the fans receiving programs from distant stations. Reports that stations broadcasting from Germany, Austria, Peru, Wales, and Scotland had been received, while word was awaited today from Australia and South Africa as to whether the American program had been received in those countries.

Asked to Extend Fed. Warehouse Act.

Raleigh, Jan. 27.—(AP)—Certain canners of fruits and vegetables have requested the United States Department of Agriculture to extend the federal warehouse act to public warehouses that store canned fruits and vegetables, the department has announced.

Whether or not this can be done depends largely upon the interest shown and the demand made by the industry as a whole, the department says. Canners who have asked to have the warehouse act expanded to canned fruits and vegetables, it is explained, believe such action would tend to stabilize prices by facilitating orderly marketing. They believe steadier markets would be created not only for the canned products, but also for the farmers' raw materials.

"Markets for canned fruits and vegetables have been more or less demoralized at times," declared H. S. Yobe, in charge of the administration of the act. "Due to inadequate financing of the large surpluses and pack in recent years. The pack last year was one of the largest in the history of the canning industry."

Case of Bertha Case Results In a Mistrial

Monroe, Jan. 27.—(AP)—A mistrial was declared today in the case of Bertha Case, charged with the murder of Franklin Fowler, with whom she had been living as his wife. Judge Stack dismissed the jury at 11:40 o'clock this morning after it had deliberated since 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Indications were that the solicitor would again present the case to a jury probably at this term of court.

The woman told the jury that she shot and fatally wounded Fowler last winter following a quarrel during which he threatened her life. Fowler just before dying requested that she not be prosecuted and left his estate to his son by the woman.

MORAL WAVE ENDS POKER AT BOSTON'S CITY HALL

Boston, Jan. 26.—(I.N.S.)—A moral uplift has hit Boston City Hall and loafers and poker games for high stakes have been barred.

President Charles G. Keene, of the City Council, discovered that poker games were flourishing in committee rooms of the Council. Players were not members of the present or past city councils, or city employees, but loafers from the outside.

President Keene came upon one game and immediately issued his edict against gambling in the committee rooms.

PROGRESS IN AIR

For various reasons aviation and its development have been subjects of general discussion throughout the country for a year and longer. Public interest was stirred up by the Mitchell trial, the investigation of the Shenandoah disaster and periodic debates in congress on appropriation for the air service. Out of it all the public has become convinced that military aviation is doing fairly well here but that this nation has lagged far behind several European countries in the development of commercial air lines.

It is not merely national pride that has caused Americans to regret that commercial flying has progressed so little here. The average citizen feels the country has failed to take advantage of a valuable adjunct to its transportation system. However, from two sources reassurance has come within the last few days.

There is great promise in the $2,500,000 Guggenheim endowment for research work and practical experimenting in commercial aviation and the construction of commercial planes. This gift paves the way for the determination of the countries real need, if any, for commercial air lines and whether such lines can be operated profitably to both the owners and the public.

Of equal significance are statistics of recent compilation disclosing that Americans comprise more than two-thirds of the patrons of European air lines. If broadcasted, these figures should end those recurring reports that the people of the United States are altitude-timid and will never overcome their fear of falling.

Dirty Ball Park Fence Gives Cal. Cities More Games

(By Copeland C. Burr) L.N.S. Staff Cor. Los Angeles, Jan. 27.—San Francisco is to have two clubs in the Pacific Coast League and Salt Lake City's team is to be transferred to Los Angeles, replacing the Vernon Club, moved to San Francisco, thus giving the two big cities continuous base ball. And it all started over the painting of a soiled fence. The sale of the Vernon Club by Ed R. Maier, Los Angeles soft drink manufacturer, to Stanley Dollar, San Francisco shipping magnate, hinged on a war which began in 1921, a few days after William Wrigley, Jr., owner of the Chicago Cubs, purchased the Los Angeles Club of the Coast League.

Shortly after Wrigley made his purchase he visited the Washington ball park here, where both Vernon and Los Angeles played. "That's a dirty-looking fence," exclaimed Wrigley, looking at the string of boards surrounding the park. "I want it painted immediately."

"Well, we'll see Maier about it," Wrigley was told. "See Maier!" the Chicago millionaire exclaimed. He added that he was not accustomed to seeing anyone in such matters, but it was explained by his associates that Maier was a partner with him in the park and must be consulted.

"We'll see about that," Wrigley said. The feud was on.

Wrigley never liked the partnership and Maier was not enthusiastic over his relations with Wrigley. Several deals for transfer of Vernon were framed but fell through. Then Wrigley built a new million-dollar park in Los Angeles. He refused to permit Vernon, under Maier's ownership, to play in the new park.

After weeks of dickering, Maier was finally paid his price—said to be $250,000—for Vernon, Mr. Wrigley's friend, William Lake, millionaire owner of the Salt Lake Club, agreed to transfer his team here. It will be known as the Hollywood Club and play in the new Wrigley park.

And there will be no further trouble about delapidated fences. The new park is surrounded by a dapper brick affair—the dernier cri in fences.

Gauvin, with a rope tied about his waist, plunged into the waters and brought the deer to the edge of the ice. The deer did not halt to give his or her name, but disappeared in the woods.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH HOLDS ALL-DAY MEET

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian church held an all-day mission study class Monday, at the home of Mrs. R. C. Deal, on Eighth street.

Miss Kate Lewis, secretary of Foreign Missions, was the leader of the class. The book studied was "Prayer and Missions" by Helen Barrett Montgomery and proved most interesting and inspiring. Three chapters were taken in the morning and three in the afternoon. The chapters having been previously assigned to different ones, who gave the contents in a most interesting manner.

At one o'clock the members of the class were invited into the dining room where lunch was served. About twenty-five ladies were present, including some of the teachers from the college and Model School.

The chapters were assigned as follows:

Chapter 1.—Mrs. E. C. Deal and Miss Lewis.

Chapter 2.—Mrs. E. W. Harvey and Mrs. W. C. Clark.

Chapter 3.—Miss Bertollet and Mrs. Carey Warren.

Chapter 4.—Mrs. John McKeithan and Miss McKinney.

Chapter 5.—Mrs. Chas. Horne and Mrs. W. S. Harden.

Chapter 6.—Mrs. N. O. Warren and Mrs. J. F. Brinkley, Sr.

Three mission study classes are held twice a year—one in the fall and one after Christmas, and have always proven most interesting and helpful. The one held Monday proved to be the best in many ways of any held thus far.

The Auxiliary has had a most successful year and is looking forward to greater things in the future. Mrs. N. O. Warren is the efficient president of this organization with Mrs. R. H. Wright as Vice-Pres.; M. T. E. Young, sec.; Mrs. Carey Warren, local treas., and Mrs. J. F. Brinkley, benevolent treas.

Daily News Letter

Gossip of Staff Correspondents at World Centers of Population.

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER, I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.

Moscow, Jan. 27.—Leon Trotsky, noted for admitting the facts, has added a communist's testimony to the correctness of the old bourgeois maxim that personal interest in work is essential to efficiency and that the best way to stimulate it is by paying good workers more money than bad workers receive.

Communists were forced to concede the force of the maxim when they introduced the New Economic Policy, which, among other things, inaugurated a differential wage scale.

They blamed the failure of their theory on the fact that Soviet Russia was not yet all communist and persisted firmly in the belief that a commune could be organized and run successfully on the pure communist principle. A series of such agricultural communes were formed by enthusiasts, and have been in operation for several years.

Trotsky has just returned from an inspection of several of them and his report of their failure under the pure communist scheme, and the indicated salvation of one of them which resorted to the old "bourgeois" principle of rewards and punishments, is enlightening.

He visited what he calls "the best agricultural commune, 'Amur Gard' in the Alexandrovsk district." Describing it, he says: "In spite of the fact that the commune is working under very favorable conditions, we cannot call its success too great.

"From an interview with the leader of the commune, I was convinced that the chief cause of the failure is the low productivity of labor, which, instead of increasing every year, is falling."

The President of the Central Bureau of Proletarian Students has declared its intention to encourage visits by American students to the Soviet Union. Many requests for information about the possibility of excursions through Russia have been received from students in various American cities, according to the All-Russian Council of Trade Unions.

The Central Bureau of Proletarian Students points out that many such excursions have been organized and carried out by students of European countries.

Flung by a blast of wind from his perch on top of a 150-foot radio antenna mast, Pyrrh Kazanski, assistant in the government broadcasting station at Rostov on the Don River, hung head down, his foot tangled in a wire, for seven hours before he was rescued.

A snow storm of unusual severity blew his body back and forth like a pendulum. When a crew of riggers finally got him back to earth, he was crusted with ice from head to foot. Kazanski was thawed out in a hospital, and promises to be none the worse for his experience.

Two trainloads of Russian children, sent to Czechoslovakia four years ago during the famine to be fed and cared for, have just arrived back in Moscow. One train carried 468 children and the other 186, making 654 in all. The children, who were on the verge of death from starvation when they went away, are now in robust health. They were welcomed by crowds of relatives.

Gobi Desert Had Redwood Forests

San Francisco, Jan. 27.—(I. N. S.)—Discovery in the Gobi desert of Mongolia of the remains of a huge forest of redwood trees similar to those growing on the northern coast of California was confirmed by R. W. Chaney, botanist, and member of the Roy Chapman Andrews expedition to the "world's cradle of life."

The redwoods in Mongolia and Siberia have been extinct for seven or eight million years, but Chaney said the evidence of them found in rock shale is unmistakable. Pieces of petrified trees are to be analyzed to prove the contention that they are the same variety of tree that is now found only in northern California and southern Oregon.

Chaney added, however, that the Asiatic discovery is not evidence of the oldest redwoods because he has found traces on the California coast of redwoods that existed ten to fifteen million years ago.

These traces are in rock shale the same as in Asia, Chaney declared, and scientists are supposed to say just where the earliest forms of vegetable and animal life existed.

American "Rock Hounds" Now Searching Gas

New York, Jan. 27.—(I. N. S.)—Among the citizens of America busy engaged in pushing back civilization's frontiers in many lands is a strange clan of men who walk about wielding a peculiar sort of hammer. The scientific name for this genus is geologists, but they are more familiarly called "rock hounds."

"American oil companies," says a recent bulletin of the American Research Foundation, "have a far-flung army of scientists, mostly youngish men, who are penetrating the unexplored reaches of the Arctic, the sands of the driest deserts and even poking around in submerged lands and swamps.

"These men are the advance guard of the great oil company organizations. They feed on wild pigs, monkeys, lizards, and fish in the tropics, or occasionally put a bit of lead into a sea lion or walrus or polar bear in the north. In the Orient perhaps they eat shark fins or caterpillars.

"They go into strange and out-of-the-way places. They have been known to do battle with natives who could not understand why they cracked pieces of rock, ran surveys, looked through strange glasses and put down mysterious writings on paper.

"Everywhere they go these geologists are seeking the proper sort of rocks and the necessary formations. If they find them a few millions of dollars may be spent.

Find Forest of Old Totem Poles; New Coat Paint Put On

Revelstoke, B. C., Jan. 27.—(I. N. S.)—Along the banks of the Skeena River, in the heart of the Rockies in British Columbia, is a veritable forest of ancient totem poles decaying for the want of a little protection. Long before the white men penetrated into that country, the queerly-carved poles, symbolizing Indian traditions, were erected and now, through neglect, they are threatened with destruction.

Dr. Harten J. Smith, internationally known archaeologist, has completed six months of a three-years' job of trying to save them. Dr. Smith reports there are more than ninety-five totem poles within fifteen miles of the railroad in the section in which he now is working. Forty can be seen from the train windows, he says.

Some of the totems are receiving a coat of paint to protect them and great care is exercised to get the exact shade, because, he says, a slight variation in shades might, in the belief of the Indians in that section, send a line of ancestors of a tribe, reaching back hundreds of years, to the native equivalent of the white man's hell.

Blames Parent's for Girls' Movie Ambitions

San Francisco, Jan. 26.—(I. N. S.)—Is Hollywood still one of the reasons why girls leave home? If so, what happens to those who go there and fail to make the grade?

Are they drawn down into the slime of life? These questions were asked of Dr. Miriam Van Waters, referee of the Juvenile Court of Los Angeles, who has just visited San Francisco.

And Dr. Waters ought to know. She is an authority on the youth of the present generation. "We get a great many girls in the Los Angeles Juvenile Court who have tried to break into the movies," Dr. Waters said. "And of course, we don't get all the girls who become delinquents, or unsettled, wayward, incapable of holding down a job, emotionally unstable as a result of their experience of trying to land in the movies.

"We only get those who have been in a smash-up of some sort. An automobile accident, a drinking party with police interference. Sometimes a girl who meets other trouble.

"Thousands of these girls come to Hollywood every year hoping to get work. The big producers are said to be doing their best to discourage girls without funds or beauty or brain, but the endless stream of movie infatuated girls sew. Why should she?" she asks. Ethel Traphagen, noted fashion designer, quotes Charles Schwab on one phase of success: "Schwab said 'Don't do anything that you can get anyone else to do.' And 'Do what others can't do.' His own success makes us think those may be good rules.

"Why should a woman spend her time sewing when it might interfere with a most interesting career?"

"Yes, clothes are simple today. Woman could make them with very little trouble. Yet why should they?" Miss Traphagen asks. In reply, of the apparent lack of interest in sewing displayed by women today, the girl who is skilled with the needle can make a fine career for herself in a field that is not overcrowded, Miss Coen declares.

"We simply cannot fill the demand for girls who know how to sew. Many of them step into splendid jobs. Sewing may be left as a domestic art, but it makes a great career."
