One Rich, One Poor, Brothers Stage Life-Long Re - Union

Selinsgrove, Pa., March 22 .-(INS) - Fifty years ago two brothers, upon reaching man's estate, decided to embark upon the eternal quest for fortune.

One, a serious minded chap, came to the conclusion that suctled down and plodded along, always with an eye for the future.

The other, a more adventurous type, felt the call of the sea They shook hands and separated: the one to settle down and the other to visit strange lands.

Fortune smiled on M. P. Mol ler, now one of the directors of Susquebanna University and one of the most successful pipe organ builders in the United States, the youth who decided to settle down and plod along. But the fickle dame frowned upon Peter Moller, who went down to the sea and finally left him in Los Angeles,

Both are now approaching the age of 70. The organ magnate eard of his brother's plight, wired him money and is now Friends off the brothers from all parts of the United States have been invited to the celebration.

Hagerstown, Md., will be the scene of their reunion, Peter Moller will take the "extended vacation proffered by his brother, M. P., as he is known to his colleagues, and spend the rest of lives together,
