

LARGE NUMBER SCHOOL CHILDREN NOW RETARDED

Negro School Children Make Poorer Showing Than White Schools While Rural Children Rank Far Below City Children

Raleigh, Apr. 16.—(AP)—Less than half the rural white children in North Carolina schools during the school year 1924-25 were as far advanced in school as their age indicated they should be, it is shown in the April 15th issue of State School Facts, off the press today.

School facts, a publication of the Department of Public Instruction, has been discussing what it terms the age-grade distribution of North Carolina school children; that is, the number of children in the various grades, and especially with reference to age. The present issue is the third devoted to that subject and summarized the age-grade distribution situation in the state.

While the percentage of rural white children who are as far advanced in respect to their ages they normally should be is only 49.1, the percentage in the city schools is 65.47, a difference of 16.37 per cent between rural and city children.

In the negro schools, the percentage of children who are as far advanced as their age would normally presuppose that they should be are: in the rural schools 27.06 per cent; and in the city schools, 40.01.

The publication divides school children into three classes—normal, accelerated and retarded. It assumes that a child enters school at the age of six, and that the normal rate of advancement is a grade a year. Hence, if a child makes such advancement it is classed as normal. Children more advanced than in accordance with this standard as classed as accelerated, and those less advanced as retarded. The figures above include both the normal and accelerated children.

Camden county, according to the reports made to the department, led in the percentage of white rural children as far advanced as they normally should be, with a percentage of 85.34. In seven counties less than 40 per cent of the white pupils were as far advanced as they normally should be.

In the negro schools, Allegheny is the only county having 100 per cent of its children, normal or better, in respect to advancement as regards age. Only nine counties, says the publication, claimed that more than 50 per cent of their negro pupils were in the under-age or normal age group.

Coming to the retarded group, School Facts makes this comment:

"There were 262,079 white children and 174,107 colored children in this group during the year 1924-25. These figures represent 46.85 per cent of the white enrollment and 69.52 per cent of the colored enrollment. Of the number of white pupils retarded, 214,341 were rural pupils, and 47,738 were city pupils. These pupils were retarded all the way from one year to as much as 14 years."

Over 105,000 white children were retarded one year. Over 71,000 were retarded two years; over 44,000 three years; over 23,000 four years and over 10,000 five years. Nearly 4,000 of the white children have been delayed six years and over 1,000 seven years. These facts are enlightening. Here is a situation that needs investigation. The causes of this condition should be ascertained, and the remedies applied to improve it. Many of these pupils are being taught over and over again. Every time a child repeats a grade the expenditure for teaching that child must be repeated."

Figure, and tables are devoted to enrollment by grades, showing increase in enrollment over preceding years, decrease in enrollment each year by grades—that is, fewer children in the second grade than in the first; fewer in the third than the second, etc.; and figures showing the number failing of promotion. SAYS PROHIBITION NEEDS A CHANGE TO PROVE VALUE

"Drys" Open Drive in Response to Ten Days Assault by "Wets" On Prohibition

Washington, Apr. 16.—(AP)—The call of the hour is for such thorough going work on prohibition as will give the policy of prohibition an adequate opportunity to demonstrate its full value to the nation and the world, said a statement presented today by the Liquor Committee by the administrative committee of the Federal Council of Churches. This declaration by the spokesman for 28 Protestant communions marked the opening of the drive by the dries in response to the assault on prohibition which has been made by wets during the last ten days. The statement was read by Dr. W. J. Haven, of New York, Secretary of the American Bible Society.

"If serious evils have sprung up since prohibition," the statement said, "they are far less than the evils which arose from the liquor traffic prior to the 18th amendment. The liquor traffic was allied with political corruptions, crime and prostitution. It meant the wreckage of man and the degradation of families.

"The policy of prohibition was not adopted hastily, nor was it hotly upon the country by a puritanical minority. It was first voted in most of the states separately and then nationally because the people had become convinced that the liquor traffic was a social evil of such magnitude that it had to be destroyed. "The 18th amendment was made a part of the constitution by the regular method which the founders of the republic devised with a view to making the amendment of the constitution difficult rather than easy. Yet this amendment was adopted more promptly than any other change in the constitution ever proposed."

Rum Runners Transfer Activities Southern Waters

Tampa, Fla., Apr. 16.—(AP)—Rum runners on the Atlantic coast have transferred their activities from Long Island to Southern waters, Philip F. Hamsbach, Florida prohibition agent declared on his return here from a conference of dry agents at Savannah, Georgia.

As a means of checking this latest bootlegging strategy, Mr. Hamsbach said prohibition enforcement work will be concentrated on the coast of the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida.

Seaplanes, on the navy type, with machine guns and capable of making a speed of 90 miles an hour, will soon be in service along the Southern Atlantic Seaboard in an effort to further tighten the blockade against rum running.

Negro School Children Stage A Parade Here

A parade, three miles in length and participated in by negro school children of the county, was staged here today and was witnessed by hundreds of spectators. Every school in the county was represented, and the parade was a great credit to the work which is being accomplished by teachers, school officials. The parade was the opening event of Field Day which was staged at the Pitt County Fair Grounds this afternoon.

All the schools made a splendid showing and the parade attracted wide attention, especially the floats depicting the first school house and the first slave ship. The school house was a crude log affair on the outside of which hung the water bucket and drinking gourd used by all the students. The slave ship was a splendid imitation of a sail boat.

The day's events will be brought to a close this evening with a dance in McGowan & Cannon's warehouse

How Two Chinamen Died. Beside the Deep Pecos He Waiked His Sheep. The Traveller Wanders. By ARTHUR BRISBANE

This is written on the sunset limited, over the southern pacific, through train to the coast. The statement "There is no better train" is justified. Leaving New Orleans at noon, the train runs through Louisiana rice fields and sugar cane fields, and then, all night and all day through gigantic forests. The dining car captain says "Somehow, there seems to be more land down here, than by the northern route." There is a great deal of land. You could scatter a few New England States along this railroad track, and not crowd anybody. Not to see Texas is not to know what a big country this is. It is like going to the zoo and missing the elephant.

What tens of millions will live here in future years when flying machines will do in one hour what this train does in ten; when water is controlled and these miles, and miles of land, brought under intensive cultivation, produce food enough for all the people on earth? Over population? We have not started to populate, and if that be birth control tresson let the Eugenis make the most of it. But we need to spread the population and take care of the mothers.

Just now the train passes Del Rio, and on the left runs the Rio Grande parallel with the track. A few yards away a strong "dog" Kangaroo with a good running jump might clear that river and land in Mexico. What a change in one jump. Will Uncle Sam ever make the jump? Probably not. But better be friends; treat each other fairly; help with capital and leadership and both nations grow rich and good, side by side, powerful to protect this continent.

Del Rio brings a look of sad reminiscence to one "boy" on the dining car. That's where Chinese cross the river sometime to offer $500 to any honest American that will deliver them, safe, to Chicago or San Francisco. There's a lot of empty room above each end of the dining car, you are told in a whisper; space about ten feet long, room for several Chinamen. Once in a while the boys would smuggle in a few, at night, letting them in through the top of the car. Five hundred dollars, a head, is pretty big money, and a couple more Chinese landrunners couldn't do much harm. But once the boys forgot two of them or got scared or something and the poor fellows died up there. They were afraid to holler. So that all stopped. Perhaps that "boy" had some imagination. Automobiles, freight cars and even flying machines will bring in some of the Asiatics, it is said.

If you wait for a train, you can get off at El Paso run over to the old Apache trail and see the cliff dwellings, just as Coronado found them, nearly four hundred years ago, when exploring Arizona. He was looking for "the Seven Cities of Cibola." The oldest Indians could not tell him anything about these dwellings in the rock. Their ancestors had no traditions about them.

'Twas the old story, one tribe of men trying to kill off another tribe, thus stimulating human ingenuity and thought. If no one had ever tried to kill us, we humans might be now where we were two thousand years ago. Like the South Sea Islanders, we live in cliff dwellings ourselves with elevators and steam heat. This writer has just built one cliff dwelling forty two stories high, at Fifty Seventh Street and Park Avenue in New York City. That's the highest apartment house so far, but the future will see them five and ten times as high, with landing places for helicopter flying machines, and elevators starting down from the roof, instead of up from the ground.

The French say, plus ça change plus cest la meme chose. "The more it changes the more it is the same thing," so skip the cliff dwellings and look out of the window. Men that own cattle along the tracks rejoice, for more rain has fallen this season than in any year, for 80 years. How many millions of cattle will these lands feed, in place of today's comparatively small herds, when water unlimited is added to this soil, marvelously (Continued on page 6)

WILL RECOMMEND STEPS TO BE TAKEN AT STATE HOSPITAL

Governor at the "Proper Time" Will Make Recommendations for Making Undestroyed Section Fire Proof

Raleigh, Apr. 16.—(AP)—Governor McLean will recommend "at the proper time" that suitable steps be taken to safeguard that part of the State Hospital for the Insane not destroyed by fire last Saturday and the patients housed in it, he said today.

The Governor expects to recommend that the undestroyed section of the hospital be divided by fire walls into six or eight sections, these walls to extend through the roof and thus prevent the fire from crossing from one section to another by the roof.

Secondly, he will recommend to cover all the wooden portions of the building between the ceiling of the fourth floor and the roof with steel lath covered in turn by cement. The new section to be erected promptly to replace that portion destroyed by fire is to be made fireproof.

The Governor has little faith for such a type of building as the State Hospital is, in a sprinkler system, installation of which has been urged upon various legislatures by the state insurance department. He has no criticism to make of the insurance department, however, he added.

"After all," said the Governor, "the reason the fire was not retarded was lack of water pressure, not lack of the sprinkler system."

Washington, April 16.—(AP)—State Department officials are considering proposing a new liquor treaty with Great Britain.

Too Many Stations Have Jammed the Ether in Europe

Paris, Apr. 16.—(INS)—Too many broadcasting stations operating over almost identical wavelengths, are jamming the ether and ruining Continental programs, according to the reporter of the International Union of Radiotelephony, which is in session.

The Council of the Union has under consideration a plan of zoning the radio posts, restricting their number and classifying them according to their relative importance. This was decided on after a commission of experts from France, Germany, Sweden, Great Britain, Belgium and Holland, had made their recommendations.

In addition to giving an exclusive wave length to each country, however, that it may be, the Council, after weighing the population, radio importance and the economic situation of the city distributed the different wave lengths to different European cities.

This is probably the first time a radio traffic squad was ever organized to keep broadcasting in order.

VIOLENT DEATHS IN STATE SHOW SMALL INCREASE

Deaths From Fire in First Three Months in North Carolina Total 97

Raleigh, Apr. 16.—(AP)—A tragic increase in the number of lives lost as the result of burns boosted the number of violent deaths listed by the State Board of Health during March to a February's toll despite the general increase in other forms of violent deaths, figures released today by the State Board of Health showed.

Fire snuffed out 46 lives during the past month, according to the report, which showed 112 violent deaths in North Carolina as against a total of 108 for the month of February. Deaths from fire in North Carolina for the first three months of 1926 now total 97.

Deaths from automobile accidents were static in March with 21, as against the same number in February. Railroad accidents death, declined from 16 to 5, but there was an increase in the number of grade crossing fatalities. The six in March being the greatest number of this type of deaths recorded in any one month during this year.

There also was an increase in accidental drowning, seven being recorded as against two in February. March showed only ten homicides, as against 14 in February and 16 in January. Suicides slumped from 14 to 6 and accidental gun shot fatalities from five to four.

Weston Is Planning a New Hike to Coast

Philadelphia, Apr. 16.—(INS)—Edward Payson Weston, 87, the "Grand Old Walker" is contemplating his second walk to the Pacific coast. He told visitors this recently after he had just returned from his daily three-mile "stro" from his home to the post office.

Weston lives in this city and he said he is kept busy as an author and answering queries on hiking he receives from all over the country.

Weston's most famous hike was from Portland, Me., to Chicago in 1867. Then he started to make a business of making pedestrianism popular and he walked from San Francisco to New York in 104 days and 7 hours.

Weston said he has not changed any of his young habits—except perhaps he has stopped the art of smoking. Not because he considers nicotine injurious, but because he doesn't like it. Nor does he drink—but he says, he is no prohibitionist.

Government Loses Its First Air Piracy Case

Chicago, April 16.—(AP)—The Government lost its first air piracy case today when a Federal Judge Wilkerson decided for the defendant the Venus radio corporation, which had been accused of violating the wireless act of 1922. The court held that section one and two of the wireless act were ambiguous and could not be applied in the present action, and that Congress did not empower the Secretary of Commerce with certain discretionary powers which he had assumed.

TELL YOUR CONGRESSMAN AND SENATORS

Congress is talking about going home. It is now marking time, waiting and hoping for adjournment.

There is a real danger that Congress may pack up and go home without heeding the urgent necessities of thousands of disabled service men and their dependents—necessities which can only be relieved by the enactment of legislation now pending.

Taxes have just been cut $387,000,000. Legislative leaders, juggling the glass ball of economy with one hand, are holding in the other hand an axe—an axe to chop from pending legislation any measure carrying an appropriation.

The average Senator and the average Representative do not want economy practiced at the expense of service men sick in hospitals and the widows and bereaved fathers and mothers of men killed in the war.

But legislative leaders are talking about economy and thinking about votes. So all bills look alike to them.

The impression has gone out that legislative leaders intend to keep from the floor of Congress the three bills which embody recommendations made by the American Legion's national convention in Omaha last October. These bills are to be kept from a vote. There is to be delay and more delay until Congress finally adjourns. Then the excuse will be made that Congress "didn't have time to attend to the service men's needs."

And there will be promises—promises that the bills will be acted upon at the short session of Congress next winter. This transparent stalling fools nobody. It is time that justice and fair play be given a chance against expediency. Expediency, with its catchword, "economy," looks forward to an election next November in which thirty-three Senators and the entire House of Representatives will be before the voters. Expediency suggests postponement of action on the three service men's bills until after that election. The short session of Congress, which runs for three months next winter, is a "lame-duck" Congress.

One measure is the Johnson Bill. It embodies forty-two of the Legion's recommendations for the relief of disabled men. Among other provisions it would give to service men classified as arrested cases of tuberculosis compensation of $35 a month for a period of five years after discharge from hospital. The highest medical authorities on tuberculosis urge the prompt adoption of this provision on the grounds of simple humanity.

There is the Green Bill, embodying fifteen amendments to the Adjusted Compensation Act. It would help principally the dependents of men who died in service and would eliminate the embarrassment and red tape which now attend efforts of widowed mothers to obtain the compensation of deceased sons. It would also establish a presumption of dependency for bereaved parents more than sixty years of age.

The third bill is the Fitzgerald Bill, which would give disabled emergency Army officers the same retirement rights as are possessed by the eight other classes of officers of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps who served in the World War.

There is ample time for the enactment of these three bills. All three have been favorably reported by the committees which considered them. They have not met with any open opposition. In the House, Longworth of Ohio, Majority Leader Tilson of Connecticut and Chairman Snell of the Rules Committee hold the keys. If they decide to favor the progress of the bill, the bills can not be seriously delayed through parliamentary procedure. And there isn't any doubt they would be passed if they were voted on.

Every Senator and Representative should know how Legionnaires feel about these three bills. The National Legislative Committee and the National Rehabilitation Committee, carrying out the wishes of the Omaha National Convention, have done their work well. They now urge department and post officials to write to their Senators and Representatives calling attention to the situation that has arisen and protesting against procrastination and delay. Leaders will not continue the tactics of delay if Senators and Representatives are against it.—The American Legion Weekly.

audiences in record-breaking engagements in Washington, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Kansas City, Los Angeles and San Francisco. It has demonstrated that the public hugely enjoys clean, wholesome entertainment, for there is nothing suggestive in any action of the play, nor does it attempt to discuss any sex problem. It dispenses pure, clean humor from the rise of the curtain until its fall, and elicits roars of laughter every minute. It will be presented by a cast of well-known metropolitan players.

World Network
to Strengthen U.
S. Communications

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH,
INS Staff Correspondent.
Washington, April 15.—Vital changes in the government's communication system, involving the more extensive use of the army and navy radio and telegraphic facilities for the movement of other departmental business, are being worked out in the office of General H. C. Smith, chief co-ordinator, it was learned today.

In addition to a vast saving to the government, the new system will make possible extension of military and naval channels of communication in peace time and the training of a sufficient corps of operators immediately available in case of war.

A net-work of wire and radio channels, employing both low and high-length transmission channels, will be erected not only in continental United States but throughout the outlying possessions with a view to quick and effective action in time of national emergency.

While peace time business of the army and navy does not require full employment of even the present wire and radio channels, officials said that the facilities now existent would be wholly inadequate in time of emergency.

By diverting a big per cent of the government's civil business to the military channels of communication sufficient money will be saved to create a system to meet every requirement. Officials hoped to perfect the radio system sufficiently that communications may be established in all parts of the country when storms or floods wreck the wire services.

Under the plan the present twelve-hour a day telegraphic service of the Agricultural Department probably will be extended to twenty-four hours. Considerable other government business will be diverted to the agricultural leased wires when not in use by that department.

Legislation has been approved by Budget Director H. M. Lord, legalizing the transfer of funds from the various departments to the army signal corps for the building up of a more effective communication system. In return the signal corps will handle other government wire business.

An effort made to shift the bulk of the weather bureau's telegraphic business to government channels was abandoned. Government facilities are not sufficient to handle the daily collection of information on weather and the distribution of forecasts.

Eventually, however, virtually all government communications will be carried on official wires or radio channels through a co-ordinated "message center."

Increased use of the radio has cut down the official telegraph tolls by thousands of dollars, budget officials said.

The radio is not yet employed extensively in the movement of strictly confidential communications. Officials said that the danger of "ether tappers" precludes even the dispatch of code messages by radio where the contents must be guarded with secrecy.

Congress Asked to Abolish Black,
By Frenchman

By KENNETH CLARK,
INS Staff Correspondent.

Washington, April 15.—A far-flung campaign to abolish black from the world has been launched by Jean Jullien, a former French newspaper publisher.

"Black is depressing—it suggests death," said Jullien. "Three-fourths of the people of the world die 'before their time' because death is suggested to them constantly, especially through the use of black in clothes, at funerals, etc."

Jullien is now a French instructor here. He teaches most of the candidates for the American diplomatic service.

To start his campaign, Jullien wrote Paris fashion designers urging that they use only bright colors in the creations.

Now he has written Congress, suggesting enactment of a law which would forbid in the District of Columbia:

1. The using or wearing of anything black.
2. The displaying of anything pertaining to funerals.
3. The displacing of tombstones other than in cemeteries at the outskirts of the city.

In addition, Jullien would segregate pests and domestic animals. "If sanitation is commended for human beings, why is it not also good for any kind of animal?" asked Jullien.

To further his campaign, Jullien has organized a society called "The Lustrucians," which means "Would You Believe It?"

"Our motto is, Reform the Reformer," he said. "The trouble with the professional reformer is that he wants to reform that which is well and good for the people. He usually doesn't strike at the things which are harmful.

"Nature has given us yellow, red, orange, purple, violet, blue, green, which are constantly placed before our eyes. On the contrary, things that are black, coal, slate, etc., are hidden from our view. In our use of colors, why not follow nature? Let us hide the black."

"In some respects, the Orientals are advanced far beyond us. In China, for instance, black is not used as the color of mourning. Let us, too, use white."

"There are seven shades and tones of the seven basic colors. Against this, there is but one black. But, contrary to nature, in our order of things black is a predominating color."

Jullien predicted that the Beau Brummel of the future would be arrayed in gay colors.

"His dress clothes won't be black—he will wear purple or even green or red," said Jullien.

As for Missy, she'll be gowned in all the colors of the rainbow, according to Jullien.

Hawaii, Bone Dry In Rainy Season

Honolulu, Apr. 15.—(INS)—Hawaii, famed for its lunar rain bows and its liquid sunshine, is suffering the most severe and longest protracted drought in the history of the local weather office. Throughout the past winter months, generally considered the "rainy" season of Hawaii, the islands as a whole have only been visited by light and passing showers.

Territorial and city officials have laid plans for pumping water from the lower elevation, to the reservoirs of the higher residential sections, and unless rain comes within the next few days, these plans will be put into effect.

Cane which would regularly be harvested next winter is becoming stunted and ripening ahead of time and only heavy rains in the near future can undo the effects of the drought.

At Schofield Barracks, where the entire supply of water is from the Koolau watershed orders have been issued to conserve water to every possible degree, and truck loads of soldiers are being taken daily to the Haleiwa beach nine miles distant, for sea bathing, because the supply of fresh water at the post is too limited to allow the use of the regular showers.

On the island of Wawaii where a usually plentiful supply of rain allows for fluming the cane to the mills, grinding has been practically suspended because of lack of water.

Tourist visitors are about the only portion of the population who are enjoying the clear weather, for from the tourist standpoint, the winter has been a perfect one, but even these temporary visitors declare they would be willing to stay indoors for a few days of wet weather if the weather man could break the period of dryness. A suggestion has been made that a heavy cannonade of artillery be employed at the various army posts on this island in the hope that rain could be produced in this manner.

Felt Like He Couldn't Hold Out Much Longer

THAT'S WHAT A RUNDOWN CONDITION SEXTON WAS IN BEFORE KARNAK BUILT HIM UP IN HEALTH AND STRENGTH

"I am just finishing my third bottle of Karnak and I'll bet the world I'm recommending it to all my friends—this medicine is a knockout," declares C. F. Sexton, of 260 Henry St., Spartanburg, S. C., Supt. Food Dept. of the Spartan Grain & Milling Co.

"Here a short time ago I found myself in pretty bad shape," continues Mr. Sexton. "I tell you I was in such a rundown condition I don't believe I could have held out much longer in the fix I was in."

"My appetite was so poor I could not relish a meal, and I felt sluggish all the time, and just lost all my pep. I simply knew I had to find something to build me up or I would be in for a long sick spell."

"Well sir, everybody was taking Karnak so that I started the medicine, and I want to tell you that simply worked wonders for me. Why, I come in so hungry now I don't think of anything but eating, and I just put my feet under the table and sure do a good job of it. I'm gaining weight, and just building up in health and strength all over. Believe me this Karnak is sure some health builder—I don't believe it has an equal."

Karnak is sold in Greenville by B. S. Warren; and by every other reliable druggist in Greenville and in every other town.

"Forty Elephants" Got $150,000,000 In Booty Few Yrs.

London, Apr. 13.—"The Forty Elephants," a gang of women who have terrorized the West End of London for eight years, and victimized all the big stores time and again, has been smashed at last by the police.

They worked in three, one talking to the shop assistant while the other two stole the articles and concealed them in their specially adapted fur coats. If any resistance was offered they were capable of any violence.

Known to have secured $150,000,000 of booty in late years, in one instance they drove up to an Oxford street store in a taxi, stole eight valuable fur coats and got away clean with their booty.

One curious fact was that on y'all women were enlisted for the gang. The great majority were at least seventy-two inches in their shoes.

Their arrests followed a vendetta against a former member when a number were injured. They each received from eighteen to thirty months at hard labor and imprisonment.

Foreign Trade Men On Visit To Japan

Los Angeles, April 16.—(INS)—Having as their object the development of commerce between this city's harbor and the ports of Japan, fifty foreign traders have embarked for the Island Empire aboard the Taiyo Maru on a trade commission tour organized under the auspices of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce.

The foreign traders will tour Japan for twenty-nine days, visiting all of the principal cities and inspecting the various industries to secure information relative to Japanese products and their methods of doing business.

Efforts will also be made by T. Hori, secretary of the Japanese Chamber of Commerce of Los Angeles, who will be a member of the commission, to secure direct importations of raw silk through Los Angeles harbor for the infant spinning and weaving industry recently established at Hermosa Beach. This commodity at the present time enters the country through the ports of Seattle and San Francisco.

Advises received here state that chambers of commerce and other business and civic organizations in the Japanese cities along the line of the trade commission's itinerary, will entertain them at several functions which have been planned in their honor.

Another result of the trade commission's tour will probably be the establishment of further direct freight and passenger service to the Orient from this harbor by the Toyo Kisen Kaisha Steamship Company, officials of this line indicating here today that as a result of the interest shown by the city's business interests in the development of Japanese trade thru the commission's tour that they will order direct sailings of certain ships of their fleet from this port to Japan.

Gossip of Staff Correspondents at World Centers of Population.

By COPELAND C. BURG, INS. Staff Correspondent.

Hollywood, April 16.—Style change swiftly in Hollywood. A few days ago the motion picture capital was marked by the fact that none of its male residents wore hats or caps.

Today a cap introduced by Rudolph Valentino, known as the "Darius," is the latest headgear sensation in Hollywood, and directors, actors, cameramen and extras are wearing it.

The new hat is similar to a tambocheur and is made of black or dark blue cloth and has no brim. The cap is worn with the crown flat over the head. Valentino wears the cap with golf clothes and recently has appeared in the evening with it atop his glossy hair at a party.

Valentino is now making a new "sheik" picture and he has admitted he is just beginning to truly interpret the role which made him famous.

"Five years ago when I first appeared as 'sheik' I had only a vague idea of Arabian life," Valentino declared. "For five years I have been nibbling every opportunity to study the desert people and now I believe I know something of their life habits."

Americans and other travelers in the desert countries do not know the real sheik. The sheiks seen by the tourists are fakes—merely

'smelly, oil' persons. The real 'sheik' is quite a personage and lives far back in the desert in a luxury and grandeur rivaling kings and princes."

Hollywood is greatly incensed over the recent visit and the writings which followed the stay here of a leading American author and novelist.

In an article on Hollywood appearing in a national weekly, the author told of dining at the hotel bungalow of Pola Negri and wrote that wine and cordials were served.

He also told of "playing dominoes" until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning with a leading Hollywood actress.

Following the publication of the article relating how he had dined at Miss Negri's home, it was reported that the actress had visited the author and inquired about her wine supply.

Irving Berlin's famous song, "Remember," is to be made into a motion picture.

The story for the screen is now being prepared and it is reported that the film version of the song will follow Berlin's life in many instances.

The song hit is not the first to be made into a motion picture, but it is believed this is the first time a song so bare of a "plot skeleton" has ever been produced on the screen.

Berlin was reported to have received an enormous sum for permission to use the title, "Remember."

Urges South to Curb Its Cotton Acreage

Oklahoma City, Apr. 16.—(INS)—Still hampering away at his theory that "too much cotton" has kept the South down during the last half-century, Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of the Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College, is out with his annual plea to farmers of this and other Southern states to reduce their cotton acreage.

Dr. Knapp is known as the dean of agricultural leaders in the South and formerly was director of farm extension work in all of the Southern states.

In the face of $100 a bale cotton the last few years, he has consistently stuck to his assertion that it is unsafe and unsound business for the farmer to plunge his crop in the hope of continuing high prices. Until the South gets away from the policy of planting cotton and nothing but cotton its farming system will not be stabilized or standardized, he believes.

It is his theory that the Southern farmer who first grows his own food and feed, and then plants cotton on what land is left makes money whether cotton is 5 cents or 30 cents.

rich in lime. The good will say "men will all be vegetarians by that time," but perhaps not. Oxen have time to digest grass, men have not.

Here is Pecos River, and you cross one of the highest railroad bridges in the world. A deep canyon has been worn through the hard rock by water rushing for hundreds of centuries. One of the crew looks down, "to see if the old man is still there," and reports "yes, he's there all right, I wonder what he does down there."

Some of the angels, flying over, might ask that question, as they look down at us.

The old man's little place, far down by the steep rock wall where bends the swift river, is neatly kept, freshly painted. He has a splendid made of white stones in his front yard, flowers planted. Perhaps he's as happy as some men in a cabaret at four in the morning. And he has a real occupation as part of the Southern Pacific System. His job is to watch that towering bridge, with the train creeping, over it so slowly. He makes other men safe.

Near the rim of Pecos Canyon, a tall Texan sits erect on a white horse, watching a band of sheep, patiently nibbling, changing thin grass to mutton. "Sheep herder," says the young commercial traveler who goes over this road every ninety days. "What in heaven's name does he do with himself, what pleasure can he get out of life?"

Nothing but the whole earth spread out before him, the sky above him, sun and stars, and changing clouds and leisure to think. Perhaps he gets out of life nearly as much as does the commercial traveler, who complains that he has had a bad trip, "because married men in the tobacco factories make as little as ten dollars a week. How can they raise families on that, buy shoes for their children?" Also of course, how can they buy the traveling man's goods.

What the sheep herder gets out of life, with only the earth and sky, no jazz band to entertain him, depends on what he has in his brain. Make your plans to travel west this season, and see what you get out of three thousand miles of wonderful earth's surface.

Remember that this is the season to visit California, greatest summer climate and summer resort on earth, and very cheap round trip tickets in summer. Don't let it be said of you "Where he was born, there he stayed, never had the energy to move." This writer is crossing the continent for the fifth time in the last three months and has not really seen it yet. COME WEST.
