CYCLONE MACK DELIVERS TWO SERMONS HERE

Speaks at Memorial Baptist Church and at Union Services in Court House

"Cyclone" Mack is still fighting the devil. He isn't fighting the forked-tailed gentleman with soft words, pomp and ceremony. He is waging relentless warfare with the truth of the Bible as presented by the lowly Nazarene on the shores of Galilee.

He proved this to the satisfaction of capacity congregations here yesterday morning and last night.

He spoke at the Memorial Baptist church yesterday morning and at union services at the court house last night. He was greeted by capacity audiences at both places, despite inclement weather, which began in the early afternoon and continued until after the evening services.

The years have not brought about much change in the general appearance of the distinguished evangelist. He isn't quite as vigorous. His figure is a little more stooped than it used to be. But he is the same bold and daring champion of the great truths of the Bible.

At the beginning of both services yesterday he explained that he was a sick man. A few months ago he was lying at the brink of eternity. He had suffered a nervous breakdown from long years of service in behalf of humanity. Yet as he faced his congregation he seemed to throw off his physical disabilities. He apparently forgot himself in the knowledge that he was talking to people he had learned to love years before, and to whom he wished to impart the word of God.

At the Memorial Baptist church he was introduced by the pastor, Rev. F. B. Jones. He didn't speak on any particular subject. He just talked. And as he talked he painted a graphic word-picture of the crucifixion of Christ, the resurrection and His ascension. He spoke in an interesting way of Peter's denial of Christ, his re-dedication and his subsequent championship of the great doctrines of the moment.

He urged his hearers to accept the great truths as presented by the Saviour to His Disciples. Nothing great or good can ever be accomplished without spiritual aid, he said. "This is that" today even as it was to the followers of the Christ. One must accept it before the glory and good of its meaning is felt.

Last night at the court house he preached on the subject of the "Home." It was a message Greenville people will not soon forget. It was an appeal to the fathers and mothers to give more thought and attention to the lives of their children. The children of today are the men and women of tomorrow. If they are to be the kind of men and women we would have them to be, it is absolutely essential that they receive proper home environment.

Government is nothing more than the home magnified, he declared. Ancient government, fell because of sin and corruption. The homes did not hold proper attraction for children. They found it outside. Sin and corruption were the fruits. And the downfall of nations resulted.

Card-playing, pleasure loving American mothers and fathers must recognize the dangers confronting the child of today if this nation is to go forward in the future as it has in the past. They must make the home more attractive. They must provide something more attractive than perilous night rides in automobiles; things more elevating than pictures giving exotic exceptions of life. The tenderloin used to be confined to certain districts of the cities. Today it is found all up and down the public highways. Like a cancer, immorality is eating at the heart of the nation.

HEAVY RAINFALL WORTH MILLIONS TO NORTH STATE

Department of Agriculture Makes Statement Regarding the Good Done

Raleigh, June 21.—(AP)—The rains of Saturday and yesterday were characterized by officials of the State Department of Agriculture as having been worth "millions of dollars" to the farmers of the state, in a statement issued here today.

"In some sections the farmers were in bad need of rain," said Commissioners Graham. "The drought extended back to April 13, since which time there had practically no moisture been stored in the ground. The widespread rains of Saturday and Sunday, however, were worth perhaps millions of dollars to those engaged in the production of crops."

Frank Parker, crop statistician of the department, agreed with Mr. Graham's estimation that the rains would be worth from fifteen to twenty-five million to the cotton crop alone, based on last year's price and the probable price for this year. Tobacco and other crops have benefitted in proportion.

Joyous Cries of Youth Encouraging Charleston Dance of Arthur Tessier in Small Rowboat, Changed to Screams of Horror When Dancer Loses Balance and Turns Over Boat; One Lad Saved From Icy Waters of River

Saul St. Maris, June 21.—(AP)—The joyous cries of youth which encouraged Arthur Tessier as he demonstrated his championship Charleston steps in a row boat, were changed to screams of horror when the champion dancer lost his balance and upset the boat, and drowned with five companions, in St. Mary's River yesterday.

Only one lad was saved from the icy waters of the rapids where the boat capsized although spectators immediately went to the rescue. Three girls and four boys, ranging in age from thirteen to sixteen, and all living in Canadian Sault Ste. Marie across the river, set out in the row boat after they had attended an excursion boat dance Sunday afternoon. Tessier, 15, who won the Junior Charleston contest in Canadian Sault Ste. Marie recently, had been showing an admiring audience at the dance several of the steps which won him the prize and when one youth suggested he repeat his performance in the small boat, he assented.

While the others stamped their feet, sang and applauded, Tessier danced enthusiastically, but at the foot of the rapids the on-lookers from the shore saw him topple and falling to regain his balance, fell into the whirling water. He capsized the boat and five other companions drowned with him.

LEGION LEADER VOICES APPEAL FOR RIGID LAWS

John R. McQuigg Tells National Convention of Dangers Confronting Nation

Atlanta, Ga., June 20.—(AP)—Appealing for law and order among the rank and file of American citizens, National Commander John R. McQuigg, of the American Legion, in an address before the national convention of disabled American veterans here today declared that the last years had seen a general letting down of the moral of the American people.

Quoting statistics that 11,000 murders were committed in the United States last year, which was 14 times as many as committed in Great Britain, 11 times as many as in Japan, and five times as many as in Canada, Colonel McQuigg declared "our courts are allowing too many criminals to escape and today the law-abiding citizen in some communities is less secure in his person and effects than he was years ago."

Continuing on the subject of law enforcement the Legion Commander said: "If there was ever a time in the history of the American when law and order need to be maintained it is now. In this country we have just such laws and just such law enforcement, as the majority of the people insist upon having."

"If the laws are not enforced it is because the majority of the people are indifferent or too engrossed in their own affairs and when I speak of law enforcement I am not referring any more to the 18th amendment than I am to laws generally."

TODAY

(Copyright 1926) Another Happy Day. The White Star Sold. Firemen and Kaisers. Bootleggers and Books. By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Another happy, care-free day in Wall Street, except for foolish bears, ignoring advice, frequently printed in this column. This is a bull summer, leading up to a ram-pageous bull autumn.

Hard working brokers sold about two and a half million shares yesterday. United States Steel went to 139 3/4, highest price for all time, including war time, when civilized nations were buying iron with which to kill each other.

In honor of the day, a seat on the stock exchange sold at $55,000, also a high record. That's cheap for a broker's seat, in these "2 million share" days, if you don't mind spending your life wondering what's going to happen next.

The White Star Line, an American concern, will sell to a British syndicate for "not less than seven million pounds." Thus American high finance confesses its inability to run ships in competition with the rest of the world. The British relish that confession.

It is fair to American owners to say two things:

First, that running steamships on the high seas can't be done well from behind a stock ticker.

Second, that laws passed here for the protection of sailors under the American flag make it difficult for American owners to compete, especially against ships managed by Asiatics.

On Long Islands four volunteer firemen confess that they set fire to barns and other buildings "just for the thrill." Two of the volunteers drove the fire apparatus, the others were just "fire heroes." They couldn't bear inactivity. That's something like kaiser, king or czar, with a well trained army. It is hard for such gentlemen to remain idle—as the world learned in 1914.

The congressional committee on alcoholic liquor traffic is told that big bootleggers are financed by respectable banks.

Representative Upshaw (much dryer than a camel at the end of a trip across Sahara, says he will see about forfeiting the charter of any national bank "knowingly financing a bootleg corporation."

That would not be in accordance with custom. Money that runs into millions is respectable by its very size, and bootlegging runs into MANY millions.

Visiting cardinals from across the ocean were welcomed in Chicago, one thousand Knights of Columbus, in "ceremonial costume with sword and baldric," and one thousand firemen wearing white gloves. Excitement and enthusiasm were so great, the desire to approach the cardinals as they drove along in their automobiles and if possible to kiss the rings on their hands, was so intense that police lines were kept back.

New York, frequently and cruelly criticized as a "fast city," adopts strict moral laws. Mayor Walker announces a curfew that would compel all cabarets and night clubs to close up at 3 a. m. That seems more reasonable than the old "cover fire" law that sent the citizens indoors at sunset.

One fact tells more than fat volumes of history sometimes. At Ridgewood, New Jersey, two thousand seven hundred citizens took the trouble to vote on an ordinance to free dogs from vaccination to prevent rabies. Of the 2,700 only 2,556 took the trouble to express their preference as to congressmen.

Historians will be interested in a community attaching more importance to a local dog law than its national representation at Washington.

Take care of your business and your business will take care of you. Not long ago Uncle Sam, in a virtuous anti-trust fit, chopped the Standard Oil up into little pieces. It was said the "giant octopus" had grown to be as big as a thousand million dollars, ONE BILLION. That would never do.

PEACH GROWING FACES NEW ERA AT FORT VALLEY

New System of Marketing to Be Put In Operation During Present Season

Fort Valley, Ga., June 21.—(AP)—The peach-growing industry in Georgia today is facing a new era of development according to leading peach growers in this section.

This year, it is said, Georgia's peaches are free from pests, and are larger than ever. There was a freeze awhile back that killed just enough of the fruit to prevent over-production and of late rains have insured the size of the late varieties.

A new system of marketing has been worked out by the Georgia Peach Growers Exchange so that large markets will not become glutted and cause depression in prices, as has been the case in the past.

The Georgia peach, just beginning to move Northward in quantity, will put more than $12,000,000 cash into the hands of the Georgia farmer during the next three months, it is estimated.

While this year's is not quite the largest commercial crop in history, the peach is virtually free from all worms, scars, pits and other defects.

Bluefield Nurse Shoots Herself

Newton, June 21.—(AP)—Miss Muriel Cole, 25, formerly head nurse at the Bluefield, West Virginia Hospital, carefully arranged a white evening dress on top of her packed trunk in the home of J. W. Blount here, about ten o'clock last night, and walked out in the back yard and fatally shot herself through the heart. She left a note to her younger sister asking that she be buried in the white dress. There has been no motive advanced for the action. Miss Cole is a native of Charleston, S. C.

NEWTON WOMAN'S CLUB EARNS GOOD MONEY

Newton, June 21.—(AP)—Eight women's home demonstration clubs in Catawba County have earned a total of over $400 during the past three months by giving entertainments and selling ice cream and soft drinks. Miss Anna C. Rowe, home agent of that county, reports.

The money is being used to purchase playground equipment, and for other improvements at the schools of the respective communities. In some clubs there is a surplus after making the improvements, states Miss Rowe and this is being used to defray the expenses of their representative to the Short Course at State College.

MANY CHILDREN SUFFERING FROM RETARDED GROWTH

Fifty - Two Per Cent of School Children in 16 Communities Physican Defects

Washington, June 21.—(AP)—Fifty-two percent of the school children in 16 North Carolina communities are suffering from physical defects serious enough to retard their normal growth and development. This is the estimate made in the quarterly report of the American Red Cross public health nursing service.

The report on North Carolina conditions is based upon the experience of 16 public health nurses, who are working in as many communities in the state.

Of the 3,191 school children inspected by the nurses during the first three months of this year, 1,662, or more than half, were found to be suffering from defective vision, impaired hearing, or other physical defects of a nature serious enough to affect mental and physical development the report declares.

By following up the school inspections by visits to the homes of the defective children, where mothers are advised to consult their doctors, the Red Cross nurses have succeeded in having many physical defects corrected in the school children of the state.

SENATE AND HOUSE REACH AGREEMENT ON AERIAL BILLS

Measures Call for Construction of 1800 New Planes During Next Five Years

Washington, June 21.—(AP)—Senate and House conferees have reached an agreement on the last of the bills for strengthening the national air service recommended by the President's air board. This is a measure calling for the construction of 1800 new planes for the army during the next five years and creating the offices of assistant Secretary of War to have charge of the reorganized air corps.

A similar bill affecting the navy by authorizing two new dirigibles twice the size of the destroyed Shenandoah is now before the President. He is expected to sign it this week.

The measure for stimulation of civil aviation already has become law. It creates the office of Assistant Secretary of Commerce, whose whole attention will be devoted to this work. President Coolidge has yet to select the three new assistants. F. Trubee Davison, of New York, son of the late H. P. Davison, is understood to be slated for appointment as assistant secretary of war in charge of the army air corps, but the President has not yet decided upon the other two.

Four Cases Heard in Mayor's Court

Four cases were disposed of in this morning's session of city court, which was presided over by Mayor Pro-tem Dr. R. L. Carr in the absence of Mayor Clark. Mack Diggins paid the costs in an assault charge.

James Tyson paid the costs on a charge of trespass. George Johnson, charged with permitting his horse to run at large, was released upon payment of costs.

Missouri Senator Thinks Some Things Deserve Consideration of Grand Jury; Reads Section of Law Pertaining to Funds Collected by Campaign Committee

Washington, June 21.—(AP)—A grand jury should consider some of the things that transpired during the Pennsylvania Republican primary, in the opinion of Senator Reed, of Missouri, Chairman of the Senate campaign funds committee.

With Albert M. Greenfield, a heavy financial backer of William S. Vare, on the witness stand, Reed today sought with only partial success to get at the details regarding opinion of the business men's committee, which supported Vare, and finally turned to the witness and said:

"If I were prosecuting attorney, you would make that explanation to the jury." The observation followed Greenfield's statement that money sent to the business men's committee was turned over to the central treasurer of Vare's organization in his successful fight against Senator Pepper and Governor Pinchot, for the Republican Senatorial nomination.

Reed read a section of the law providing that funds collected by campaign committees must be turned over to their own treasurers, but the witness protested that the business men's committee disbursed no money and that "we were not doing anything that was not right."

"I think undoubtedly they were," Reed replied.

Greenfield then started with a long reply, but the Missouri Senator cut him off.

"I want you to be up on the situation," the witness said.

"I am perfectly up on the situation and I am up on you, too," Reed snapped.

Just previous Greenfield had been cross examined about a cash contribution of $15,000 made by Jules E. Mastbaum, president of the Stanley Company of America, and had convulsed the committee room by remarking that it seemed to be the "custom" in Philadelphia to make such contributions in cash. Reed had disented from the form of the witness replies and had warned that he must make "direct answers."

"Did you ask Mastbaum for the money in cash?" Reed asked.

"I don't remember definitely or specifically."

"Well, did you ask him indefinitely or specifically?" demanded Reed.

"Well, I saw him every day. I don't remember."

Greenfield presented a list of collections by his committee.

"It does not show the $15,000 given by Mastbaum?" Reed asked.

"No."

"It does not show any contribution by you."

"No."

"When did you first make a contribution?"

The witness said that on April 20 he paid $10,000 by checks to the treasurer of the Vare committee. He produced the check stubs which Reed examined carefully.

"When did you make a second contribution?"

"On May 1. I drew the check on May 1."

This time the amount was $30,000 and the check was drawn on the Peoples Bank and Trust Co.

Examining the stubs of his check book the witness said he drew out $85,000 on May 10, one check for $15,000 and the two checks for $35,000.

The stubs were labeled "charge to William S. Vare campaign, general."

"That was my investment in the Vare campaign," the witness said.

The right of self-determination of peoples often produces obstinacy when applied to individuals. Singular, but true.—Greensboro Record.

Henderson, June 21.—(AP)—When Vance Superior Court was resumed today and the trial of R. B. H. Parker. Crowder had been on the witness stand for two whole days and this morning the questioning had to do with the charges of alleged shortages in the bank's accounts.

IS AMERICA DECAYING?

Decadence has come to America.

This is a peculiar expression, coming as it does from one of the most gifted and celebrated writers of the age. Mary Roberts Rinehart has always been a bold and daring writer. She has always expressed herself in a peculiarly forceful way. Her convictions generally are sound and unerring.

But when she says decadence, which, according to authoritative dictionaries, is a state of decay, has come to America, we believe she is looking through glasses the majority of people would fear to use.

To all appearances, our standard of morality is not as high as it once was. But is this the result of decay? Is it not the result of a gradual change which has come to all nations since time immemorial?

Is not Mrs. Rinehart allowing herself to mistake these natural changes of thought and sentiment for the bad and immoral?

When we consider the many changes which have occurred in this country during its one hundred and fifty years of existence, it is remarkable that we have been able to preserve our equilibrium as well as we have. The changes from year to year have been swift and almost paralyzing in their suddenness. We are hardly able to adjust ourselves to developments which each day brings forth. And would it be wise to judge them through glasses used by the pessimistic?

We think not. There is no cause for alarm. America knows more about herself than ever before. She is learning through thousands of newspapers and magazines how the other parts of the country are doing things. Many of these are taken from the most sordid walks of life. They are a reflection upon our progress. Yet, among our population of one hundred and ten million souls, there is a majority of clear-minded, honest-hearted men and women doing their best to keep a clean house.

There is no cause for alarm. Decadence has not come to America. And it never will.

BIRTH CONTROL OR WAR

The surplus population of Japan is becoming one of our gravest problems. It is a question of either birth control or war, according to Roderick O. Matthewson, writing in the June issue of Liberty Magazine. The Japanese have out-grown their borders, and can neither raise enough food on their own land to feed themselves nor produce materials to clothe themselves. In a land that is four-fifths mountainous or other wise unfitted for farming, with a total area only slightly larger than the state of Montana, sixty million people are crowded, while every hour there are being added, through excess of births over death, eighty-five new mouths to feed.

Japan cannot support her growing population for many more years. She must either educate her people to exercise birth control, or the Japanese must emigrate at the rate of a million annually, for her surplus will soon reach that figure.

Without birth control, Matthewson asks, where are the Japanese of the future to live? They cannot stay at home and starve. No people as brave as the Japanese will die or suffer without a struggle. Unless the Japanese have only one baby in the future where they now have two, where will the other go without having to fight for his place in the sun?

This writer has presented a great question for the public mind to consider. The American people have always been adverse to the birth control movement. But in a case like that in Japan there seems to be no alternative.

There are some who would suggest emigration. This no doubt would be the easier way out of the trouble. But where would the Japs go? Surely they would not have to fight for a place in the sun, even were such a thing possible. There are thousands of acres of undeveloped land in South America. Would South America be able to assimilate with such immigrants? That is for time to solve. In the meantime, Japan's destiny hangs in the balance.

REGISTRATION OF STUDENTS IS OVER AT THE COLLEGE

President R. H. Wright Delivers the Opening Address to Students

Registration of East Carolina Teachers College summer school is practically complete. 687 students have now registered. Most of these are doing regular college work which will count either toward a degree in the four year course or toward a diploma in the two year professional course.

President Wright made his opening address today to the teachers of the summer school. He took for his subject, "The Responsibilities of the College Man and Woman."

He first complimented the teachers of North Carolina on the fact that such a large per cent of the profession go to summer school every year in order that they may render more efficient service to the children of the state.

President Wright pointed out the fact that we are now living in the most complex age of the world's history. "We are engulfed," he said, "in the backwash of the only real world war that has ever been seen. The nations of the world are looking for leadership—a leadership that can gather up all of the broken fragments of the past that are worth keeping and so weave them into the civilization of the future that the good things of the past will not be lost and so that the worth less part of the past will not be millstones about the neck of the generations that are to follow."

"Some years ago, when I lived in Baltimore," he said, "the harbor froze over. The ice blocked the harbor until commerce on the Chesapeake Bay was stock still. It became necessary to have an ice boat to come into the harbor and break up the ice so that commerce could again resume its course."

"I am wondering if in like manner the world had not become so encrusted in the dead traditions of the past that civilization, could advance no further until this crust, like the ice, in the Baltimore harbor, was broken up. The World War did this.

"The task now before the world is to take the fragments of this broken social and political structure and sort out that part that should be built into a new civilization, and discard that part that had stopped the currents of progress."

"It is the duty of the college man and woman, to search out the eternal truths of the past as they affect religion, government and society and so weave them into the civilization of today that the institutions and traditions of the past will be a blessing to the future."

"There are many things I don't understand. Recently, a woman sang in New York and it was heard all over the United States and in many of the leading cities of Europe. But in order to hear this music one must be able to tune in with an instrument properly adjusted."

"Jehovah is broadcasting His truth to the world, but in order to catch the message you must 'tune in' with a mind and heart properly adjusted to accept these truths and apply them to the needs of mankind in order to preserve the best things of the past and apply them in the future. The leaders of the world must have the liberty of thought and conscience to go in the direction that God's eternal truth may lead. There is, however, a difference between liberty and license. You can change the customs and institutions of a people but you cannot ignore them. It is not your mission to destroy but to fulfill."

"You are going back into the state to lead the youth toward the realization of truth. You should be able to carry to them the best that the race consciousness has developed. You are going to be expected to know a lot of things you will not know, and you are going to be expected to have an opinion on many things you may not know or care anything about."

"You are going to be asked your opinion on fundamentalism and modernism. I don't know just what this means and you may not know. Judging from the agility of some people I am persuaded that they must have come from monkeys, and judging from the mudslinging propensities of others I feel that they must be made of dirt."

"But remember, that back of the fads, fashions and frivolities of the day and beneath the tumult and fury of present day contentions are to be found God's eternal truth. 'Know the truth and the truth shall make you free.'"

"The world is looking to the college man and woman for its leadership. Out of the one per cent of the population of America that go to college come 72 per cent of all her leaders. In your hand you carry the opportunities of the future, but on your shoulders you carry the responsibilities of a better and wiser generation to follow."

tion. Its spread cannot be checked without due recognition of its dangers.

The only remedy is in the home. Each part of the sermon was interspersed with graphic, well-timed illustrations, many of which dealt with the colorful life of the evangelist. He sent many a great truth home with sudden sparkle of wit and humor. In fact, McLendon is possibly one of the greatest humorists in the American pulpit. He knows life from its every angle. He knows what men and women need. He knows their shortcomings. He goes down to the very heart of every issue and brings out the truth in a way that carries conviction.

The song services last night were conducted by Johnny Jones, song leader of the McLendon campaign party. Mr. Jones and his wife had been spending some time in Mount Olive. They heard that the evangelist would be here a few days on his vacation, so they came down to help him. Ministers of the city assisted in the services, and helped make the occasion one long to be remembered.

so the big octopus was cut into Standard Oil of California, Standard Oil of New Jersey, of Indiana, of New York.

"That will keep you quiet," said Uncle Sam. It kept them quiet, but it didn't make them poor!

In the second quarter of this year the Standard Oil octopuses paid in dividends more than fifty million dollars. That's at the rate of five per cent on FOUR BILLIONS.

But the people no longer get excited about it. The question isn't "how big is your business," but "how do you run it?" Henry Ford says Standard Oil is the best managed business in the United States.

A rumor from Detroit says that Ford plans a new sales method, some novel scheme for helping those that want Ford cars to buy them more easily on credit, to meet competition of the General Motors.

Ford can easily arrange a little financial corporation. Back of that little four-wheeled car is a surplus of six hundred and seventy million dollars, enough to finance something. And the bigger truck that Ford is about to market will add to that surplus, and perhaps add to the worries of other manufacturers.

CHILDREN CARRY OFF HONORS AT GASTONIA

Gastonia, June 21.—(AP)—At a baby clinic recently held at Landers Chapel in Gaston County, three children of Mrs. P. A. Lynch, a former club member, carried off all honors for highest scoring. Miss Nell Pickens, the home agent, reports. The study of child feeding and the preparation and serving of balance meals have been stressed and the high scores of all children examined show results from this work.

SUPERIOR COURT TO BEGIN FINAL
WORK OF SPRING

Terms Opened In Various Parts of the State Today; Five Regular Terms

Raleigh, June 21.—(AP)—Superior courts today will open the last week of the spring term of courts. However, some of the terms opening today will continue into a second week, and in a number of counties special terms are called for later this month and for July.

Only five regular terms open today, but in Buncombe the term which was due to have completed its docket last week will continue in session, to finish some important civil litigation; and in three counties special terms have been called to begin today, in order to clear up the dockets.

The regular terms will be held in Wilson, Vance, Greene, Davidson and Buncombe; while in Durham, Cumberland, and Wake special terms will begin. In Rockingham and Gaston courts previously begun will continue in session this week. In Buncombe, where there are two courtrooms, Judge W. F. Harding will continue to hold the court in which he is engaged. Judge D. A. McElroy, of Marshall, will preside at the term opening today, which is for two weeks, with a mixed docket.

The terms in Wilson and Vance are civil, and for one week each. Judge Thomas H. Calvert, of Raleigh, will hold the Wilson term while Judge E. H. Cramer, of Southport, will preside in Vance. The Davidson term is for one week, for the trial of criminal cases. Judge T. B. Finley, of North Wilkesboro, will preside. Judge W. A. Devin, of Oxford, goes to Greene to hold court for one week. It is to be a mixed term.

The special terms in Cumberland and Wake are criminal, while that in Durham is for the trial of civil cases. The term in Wake will continue into the second week; the other two are one-week terms.

Judge Michael Schenk, of Hendersonville, will preside in Durham; Judge N. A. Sinclair, of Fayetteville, in Cumberland; and Judge M. V. Barnhill, of Rocky Mount, in Wake.

Authorities
Ask Britain
About Marden

Asheville, June 21.—(AP)—Federal authorities here are communicating with the British Ambassador at Washington in an effort to investigate the story of Francis Marden, age 26, of London, England, who sought protection from his alleged pursuers Saturday night by lodging in jail. When the police refused to harbor him for the night he walked to a plate glass door and smashed his fist through the door and then returned to the desk sergeant and asked to be locked up.

For the third time Marden told exactly the same story of his flight from London when arraigned in police court this morning. An embarrassing situation with the wife of a friend who the trio were at a party led to threats, which forced him to flee to the United States.

After an attempt had been made to shoot him in New York, Marden fled to Tampa, Fla., with three armed men in pursuit, he told the court. About 60 miles from Asheville Friday night he was frightened so badly when his pursuers attempted to corner him that he jumped out of a window of a moving train and spent the night in the top of a tree while would-be assailants searched for him. Marden appeared to be sane, and told the court that he is a World War veteran, having served eighteen months in the British army. He is a bricklayer by trade.

TEACHERS WILL BE HELD JULY 1

Florence Slater to Be
One of Principal
Speakers at State College

Raleigh, June 21.—(AP)—The second annual conference of science teachers will be held at State College July 1 and 2. It was announced here today. The conference is primarily for the teachers of science in the high schools, and for those interested in seeing science made an important part of the high school curriculum.

The attendance at the conference held at State College last summer was gratifying to those sponsoring it, and an even larger attendance is expected this year. The faculty and laboratories of the college will be placed at the disposal of the visitors, it is stated.

The special attraction at the conference this year is expected to be the lectures of Miss Florence Slater, of New York and North Carolina. Miss Slater has had intensive and successful experience as a teacher of science in Washington Irving High Schools, New York, and as a lecturer on scientific subjects.

Another feature of the program will be the showing of the film on science—"How Life Begins."

The complete program of the conference is now being mapped out, and will probably be ready for announcement shortly.

Visitors to the conference may secure rooms at the college, on application, it is stated, for Thursday night, July 1.

FOCUSED HEAT

For Quick Meals and a Cooler Kitchen

The intense heat of a Florence Oil Range is focused right on the bottom of the cooking vessel instead of spreading out into the room.

And this means something more even than a comfortable kitchen—it means meals on time and a great saving in your fuel bills.

Just ask in the store for a demonstration of the Florence, the oil range with focused heat. See for yourself how efficient this modern stove is.

This oil range has focused heat!

THE NEW GRID-TOP MODEL

This is the new Grid-Top Florence Oil Range—offered now in addition to the regular Florence. Notice the roomy cooking surface made with an all-over grid. You can use every inch of the space—for quick cooking directly over the burners, for simmering over the cast-iron lids, and for keeping food warm near the back of the stove. You can move cooking vessels around on the even surface with no danger of spilling their contents. Another real convenience is the wide warming shelf above the stove. The extra shelf under the stove is not only a convenience but makes this range unusually strong and rigid. The single Giant burner under the oven does all types of baking efficiently and with greater economy.
