SUBMARINE S-51 GOES AGROUND IN N. YORK HARBOR

Raised Submarine Being Towed to Navy Yard Now in Danger of Being Lost in Hell Gate

New York, July 7.—(AP)—The United States Submarine S-51 went aground today between the Williamsburg Bridge and the Queensboro Bridge in the East River while being towed to the navy yard here.

The S-51 just passed thru what were believed to be her major perils of the journey here, but now faces possible sinking again in the deep waters of the sound and lost in the swirling current of Hell Gate. All seemed to be in order for a speedy and safe arrival when the undersub boat suddenly piled up on Ferry Reef Rock between the two bridges.

The S-51 was being towed by the tugs Iuka and Sagamore. A civilian pilot, who had joined the escort during the night, was in charge of guiding the flotilla to the navy yard. A second civilian pilot was on the Salkon, the lead ship of the convoy.

Although the Navy had ordered the river traffic to be turned aside to permit a free lane for the raised submarine and its convoy, there had apparently been some hitch in the orders because the usual heavy traffic was steaming up and down the river when the accident happened.

The submarine was listing to starboard as she was towed, but when she struck the rock she was seen to roll still further over. All that remained in view after the collision was the conning tower on which a flag was flying at half mast and the top wreckage of her bridge, which was smashed in the fatal collision with the City of Rome last September.

Probable delay in releasing the submarine from the rock was seen in the fact that the accident occurred at high tide. As the tide ebbs officers pointed out that the water will drop more than three feet and it will be necessary to wait until next high tide to float the submarine.

Crowds on both shores, which had been cheering the submarine's progress, witnessed the accident and were augmented by thousands of others as soon as word spread that there had been trouble. All the way from Hell Gate the funeral convoy was greeted by the friends of harbor craft, all of which were flying their flags at half mast in honor of the sailor dead.

Consumption Dairy Products Greater Than Production

Raleigh, July 7.—(AP)—North Carolina produces 16,000,000 lbs. of butter less than it consumes and 27,000,000 gallons of milk less than it drinks, according to figures presented to the State Board of Agriculture today by George R. Ross, chief of the North Carolina Division of Markets.

STAGE SAFEST PLACE FOR GIRLS SAYS MOTHER: MOSTLY WORK, NO PLAY

New York, July 7.—(INS)—"The safest place for girls is on the stage."

No theatrical manager made that statement, but a mother, Mrs. Mae McGonigle, formerly of Philadelphia, whose two daughters, Margaret and Mary, are now performing on the boards daily and nightly.

"It keeps them out of mischief, out girls we go to the downtown High School, in Philadelphia, and I've decided that they should like a stage career. We have looked and found that girls who work in theatres have little time for nonsense, if under proper supervision. It is the most exciting kind of work."

"So the girls continued their study of dancing and took up acrobatics. They put in full days in the studio, and finally were selected to join the Hoffman Girls. They enjoy their work and ask nothing more."

Who Is Independent? Dead Voices Talk. The President's Birthday. Mexico's Church War. By ARTHUR BRISBANE

Independence Day sounds well, but no man and no nation is independent. We depend on each other, on rain and the sun's heat, on crops, on gold reserve, on a thousand things.

150 years ago, this country won independence of England, politically, but many politicians seek to throw that away by forcing the United States into a League of Nations, or a World Court.

Fortunately, this independence day finds many states, at the polls, telling public officials that the nation is not prepared to give up its political independence.

Mr. Nye, who has just carried North Dakota, defeating the administration candidate, is the latest to enlighten the people. He says: "It is evident that the people of North Dakota are not desirous of such national entanglements as were invited by the Senate voting the United States into the World Court last January."

A few more defeats and the administration will perhaps believe that this country really prefers to manage its own affairs, and thinks it can do it.

At 11:15 o'clock Friday night, the voices of four former United States Presidents were carried through the air to millions of listeners, and three of them, Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson and Harding are dead. Mr. Taft is the only one of the four living.

Those three voices of the dead recorded on talking machine cylinders, and now heard through the microphone, prove that with the aid of science, men can do what ever they can imagine. For 100-000 years men have imagined hearing voices from the dead. Now they actually hear them.

President Coolidge, yesterday, ate part of a cake with fifty-four candles on it, and today will receive birthday congratulations from heads of foreign governments—none from the Kaiser, he is out; none from the czar, he is dead; none from Russia, we don't officially know them.

The President, fifty-four yesterday, will be sixty when he completes his second elective term in the White House, an age at which modern men should be beginning their best work.

Mexico continues to push government war against the Catholic Church. Catholic newspapers are forbidden to criticize the government's church policy. Parochial schools controlled by the Catholic clergy are abolished.

Clergymen of any creed must be born in Mexico. No order of monks can be established in Mexico. Monasteries and convents now established are to be dissolved. Any person persuading or urging a minor to give up his life to religion by vow will be arrested, even though a blood relative of such minor, and imprisoned for six years. Priests or nuns are forbidden to wear any distinctive clothing outside of their churches.

Finally, and most drastic, the Mexican law now forbids any religious order of any religion to own or acquire real estate or capital. Church buildings and other church property become the property of the nation. Bishops' palaces, houses, religious seminaries, asylums, convents, colleges, or any buildings built and belonging to any creed are confiscated and made the property of the government.

Mexico's anti-clerical legislation is more severe than any since the days of Henry the Eighth in England or the Revolution in France. And the sudden outburst of what seems anti-clerical hatred is all the more strange in a country that has been intensely religious for centuries.

However, the Catholics swing one way and the other. And the Mexicans have learned to wait, especially the Catholic Church, which is never in a hurry.

WILLIAM GRAHAM REVIEWS WORK OF AGRICULTURE DEPT

Agriculture Commissioner Urged Establishment of Several More Test Farms in State

Raleigh, July 7.—(AP)—In his annual report to the State Board of Agriculture, Commissioner William A. Graham today summed up the activities of his Department and outlined what has been accomplished through it during the past year.

"In my former reports I have made an effort to outline certain lines of work that we, as a department of state, might reasonably be expected to give," said Mr. Graham in beginning his report. "Today, it is my desire to state some of the things we have been able to accomplish since taking charge of the work of the department."

With this pointed introduction, the Commissioners proceeded to sum up the activities of the Department of Agriculture, through its various divisions. He outlined what had been accomplished and furnished the board with details. In reviewing the state's natural riches he called attention to the agricultural preeminence of two prominent sections—that fertile district lying beyond Albemarle Sound, and what is popularly known as the Sand Hill Section.

"Among suggestions which he made to the board was one that branch test farms be established in these important agricultural districts, one for investigation work with potatoes and soy beans and the other for studying problems relating to the peach industry. In stressing the importance of such farms, the Commissioner pointed out what has already been accomplished on test farms now in operation.

"Again, I want to call your attention to that section of North Carolina across Albemarle Sound," Commissioner Graham told the board, "and to the advisability of establishing a test farm for investigation work with potatoes and beans. Also, to the Sand Hill section, where a station is needed to study the problems relating to our growing peach industry. I know we have not the funds at present for the establishment of these branch stations, but I want to keep this in mind and supply it whenever it is possible to do so."

Concluding his recital of the accomplishments on test farms already in operation, those at Willard, Statesville, Swannanoa, Wenoona, Oxford and the one in Edgecombe county, the Commissioner reminded the board that the public law, of 1925 "provide that all research and experimental work on these test farms shall be conducted for the State Department of Agriculture by State College, but that this work shall be financed largely by the Department." He added: "This allows the two institutions to share equally in their credit for the results obtained, and this is the reason why I bring so full a report of this work before you, as a part of the activities of this department."

Commissioner Graham's report on test farms showed that much work had been done during the past year. He health with the farms on by one and enumerated the activities of each.

ILLINOIS WAR BONUSES TAKE $58,000,000 FUND JOB SOON COMPLETED

Springfield, July 6.—(INS)—Illinois will have paid insofar as money can pay, her debt to her World War soldiers, sailors, and marines, by January 1, 1927.

At that time the service recognition board will have completed the task of paying $58,000,000 in bonuses to a service men and will turn over the official records to the adjutant general. For the last year the board has been busy in passing on the claims. Less than 22 contested claims now remain to be disposed of and quick action is expected on them.

MORIN APPEARS BEFORE CAMPAIGN FUNDS COMMITTEE

Senate Committee Has Virtually Completed Investigation Into Pennsylvania Primary

Washington, July 7.—(AP)—The Senate campaign funds committee virtually completed its inquiry into the Pennsylvania primary today by hearing John M. Morin, of Pittsburgh. Mr. Morin testified that he had no part in handling the money end of the campaign except to transfer the funds raised for W. S. Vare from one campaign worker to another. Morin was manager of the Vare campaign in Western Pennsylvania for the Senatorial nomination.

He testified that he "had nothing to do with the money" having collected no funds and making no contribution. Under questioning he said he acted in transfer of funds among campaign officials and had custody of a safety deposit box containing campaign money.

Into the box he placed $22,000 obtained from the treasurer of the Western campaign committee and later took it out and gave it to Edward Martin, secretary of the committee to pay watchers at the polls. He also testified that two weeks before the primary he received $24,500 from Thomas F. Watson, the Vare treasurer at Philadelphia, and gave it to the man "Watson told me to."

Presidential Party At Summer Home

Paul Smith, N. Y., July 7.—(AP)—The special train carrying President and Mrs. Coolidge to the vacation White House to White Pine Camp arrived here at 9:53 o'clock this morning.

Leaving the private car Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge acknowledged the greetings of the large gathering of country folk on the little station platform and stepped into a White House limousine for the six mile ride to the camp.

ILLINOIS REAPPOINTMENT REOPENS BATTLE BETWEEN CHICAGO AND DOWN STATE

Springfield, July 6.—(INS)—Reappointment has bobbed up again in Illinois.

If the next Illinois legislature passes a redistricting bill the downstate members will have something to say as to the "lay-out" and will not have to accept proposed districts and figures outlined by Chicago organizations.

This is the view of legislators who have made a thorough study of the situation since a petition for mandamus, filed by John Ferguson of Chicago, asking that the legislature be compelled to redistrict Illinois, was denied by the supreme court, which held that it had no authority to interfere with the legislative powers of the state.

JOHN A. PARK IS ELECTED HEAD OF PUBLISHERS ASSN

Publishers From All Southern States Close Two-Day Session in Asheville Today

Asheville, July 7.—(AP)—John A. Park, publisher of the Raleigh, N. C. Times, today was elected president of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' Association at the final meeting of their two-day annual session here.

W. L. Morgan, of the Knoxville Tenn. Sentinel, was re-elected secretary-treasurer, and W. C. Johnson, of the Chattanooga News, the retiring president, was elected chairman of the board of directors.

MOORE DECLINES APPOINTMENT TO BENCH BY GOV.

Nominee for Judge Twentieth District Says He Cannot Take Post Before January 1

Raleigh, July 7.—(AP)—Walter E. Moore, Democratic nominee for Judge of the 20th Judicial District, has declined Governor McLean's appointment to the bench of that district to fill the unexpired term of Judge T. D. Bryson, who has resigned. Governor McLean today announced the appointment of J. H. Harwood of Bryson City, who at present is an assistant Attorney General.

The nominee, in declining the Governor's appointment, stated in a telegram to the Governor that he would be unable to assume office until January 1, on account of private business.

Funds Committee To Investigate Illinois Primary

Washington, July 7.—(AP)—The Senate Campaign funds committee decided today to begin its investigation of the Illinois Republican primary on July 26 at Chicago.

The committee will go into charges of expenditures of a million dollars in behalf of Senator W. B. McKinley, and two million dollars, in behalf of F. L. Smith, who defeated him for re-nomination. These charges recently were called to the attention of the Senate by Senator Caraway, Democrat, of Arkansas.

LOCAL SCHOOLS HAVE ATTAINED HIGHEST RATING

Supt. Rose Receives Notice of Change in Rating By the State Board of Education

All the elementary schools of the Greenville School System have again been given the highest possible rating by the State Department of Education. Supt. Rose has received notice that all the schools have been placed in the I-A group. Two years ago the State Department began to classify all the schools in the state. They were classified on the following basis: length of term, average daily attendance, preparation of teachers, playground space, buildings, equipment, library facilities, safety from fire, courses of study and some other less significant items. Last year the Evans Street and Model Schools were given this I-A rating, and this year the West Greenville and the Intermediate Schools were added to this group.

The Evans Street School was allowed to remain in the group because of the high quality of work done there. However, it was scored lower than the other schools because of the type of building and because of lack of playground space. Very few of the rooms in the Evans Street School have the required amount of light per pupil and the toilet facilities are very much below standard. The State Fire Insurance Department also rated the building low.

The Greenville High School has been an accredited High School since 1917, but is accredited in the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges. This association also classifies schools very much on the basis named above for the elementary schools. However, to these are also added the number of courses which the graduates of the High School pass in the colleges which they attend. If the graduates of a high school fail consistently, the school is taken off the accredited list. But the graduates of the Greenville High School are making good in the colleges and the reports of the Southern Association, which by the way are available to the public in the local school office, show that these graduates are making a record far better than the state average.

The local High School goes into Group I-AA this year for the first time. Its former rating was I-A. It goes into the AA group this year by virtue of the fact that for the first time in its history its average daily attendance was more than 300. The average daily attendance for the past year was 311. The High School also graduated a record breaking class this year of 51. Next year the class will be larger.

The freshman class which will enter the High School this year will also be a record breaker. There will be between 150 and 175 in this class. This means that in four years the High School will be graduating over 100 each year. It now seems that it will be necessary to keep the freshman class in the Intermediate School building this year, due to the fact that the Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors will fill the new High School building. This does not mean that the work of the freshman class will be different from what it has always been. The home rooms for the freshmen will be in the Intermediate building, and some of their work will be in the home rooms and some in the new High School building.

The Greenville School will open for the fall term on Wednesday, September 8. Registration of first graders and those entering the schools for the first time will take place during the preceding week. These dates will be announced later. The teaching force is practically complete and local school authorities are preparing for the greatest year in the life of the schools.

HOLDUP MEN AT WORK HERE LATE TUESDAY NIGHT

J. M. Saulter, Traveling Salesman Held Up Near the River Bridge About Mid-Night

J. M. Saulter, traveling salesman, of Atlanta, was held up and robbed in this city shortly after midnight last night, just as he had crossed over the river bridge and entered the city limits. Between twenty and thirty dollars in cash was taken from his person but jewelry and other valuables were left intact.

According to the report made to county and city officials, Saulter had just entered the city limits when he noticed a man lying near the curb, and thinking that he had probably been run over and injured by some passing automobile, Saulter drew up his car along side and alighted to render all the aid possible. As he leaned over the prostrate figure, he looked into the barrel of a pistol and was ordered to "hold 'em up." At this instant another man had come out from hiding and, pointing a revolver at Saulter, repeated the command.

The hold-up men relieved Saulter of his cash and then got into his automobile and tried to start it, but in so doing flooded the carburetor, and finally abandoned their efforts. They then forced Saulter to get back into the car and ordered him not to move for ten minutes if he valued his life. After a few minutes, he cranked up his car, and came up town to give the alarm. Saulter declared that both the hold-up men were unmasked and white.

NEW YORK WALKS RESULT OF STRIKE OF SUBWAY MEN

Despite Congestion Caused By Strike of Subway Employees Little Disorder Experienced

New York, July 7.—(AP)—Father Knickerbocker and family are getting some unusual exercise—walking.

The cause is a strike on the subway, which forms a huge M beneath the surface of Manhattan Island, and enables the New Yorker normally to get quickly from any part of the island to any other as the result of high speed express and local service in the four-track tubes. The first day of the strike saw the number of trains and the speed cut in half. Hundreds of buses saved some residents long walks, but the buses and private cars caused heavy congestion of traffic.

The second day of the strike opened with the strikers claiming support of the motor men and switchmen on the elevated lines. 60 elevated employees were said to have joined the walkout during the night.

Police were on every subway station platform and an officer rode in the first car of every train. There was no disorder the first day. Some half dozen arrests were made and one non-striker got five days in jail for calling a motorman a scab.

Steamer Reported In Grave Danger

Boston, Mass., July 7.—(AP)—A wireless message intercepted here today said the steamer Galena was ashore on the north part of Seal Island, 30 miles south of Yarmouth, Nova Scotia. The message said the steamer was sinking fast and the crew was in danger, but was landing at Race Point.

The hot weather brings the realization that among other things Greenville is sadly in need of a municipal swimming pool or some public bathing for both its children and grown-ups. Other cities have such and they afford opportunity for much enjoyment as well as benefit to their population. It is to be hoped that ere another summer arrives Greenville, too, can boast of a place where its children can find relief from the intense summer heat and untold enjoyment splashing about in cool, clean water.

Apparently all thought of an electric traffic signal at Five Points, has been abandoned or at least activity along that line might indicate such was the case. With the erection of buildings on all the surrounding corners Five Points has indeed become a dangerous place and some steps should be taken to regulate traffic there. Soon it will be time for the city schools to open again and this will mean that nearly two thousand children must cross Five Points at least four times daily without a strict regulation of traffic and some safety device, accidents at this corner are sure to occur. It will be too late to adopt safety measures after the life of some child has been snuffed out and now is the time for the city authorities to give Five Points their attention.

Last night, a stranger approaching this city, stopped his automobile to render aid to a man lying beside the road apparently suffering injuries, and as a result was held up and relieved of all valuables on his person. Just such acts as this is what shatters man's confidence in all mankind and causes those on the highways who are really in need of help to be passed up by travelers who ordinarily would be anxious and willing to lend a helping hand.

FIRST, GET THE FACTS
If prohibition or police officers, whose lives are in daily peril from outlaw moonshiners and bootleggers shoot a violator of the law there is immediate cry from uninformed people that they are lawless murderers or thugs and should be punished. On the other hand, these same hasty advisers are not so severe in condemnation of the lawless when a brave public officer is shot down.

News from Bryson City is that the authorities have arrived to make an investigation into the case of Sam Scrim, negro, who was wounded by a pistol bullet, and Officer Garrett was mangled by an automobile. Garretts condition is serious and the negro is so badly injured the warrant issued for his arrest cannot be served. What is needed is a thorough and impartial investigation of all the facts in the case. Until such investigation is held and the truth made known, it is wise to withhold comment. If the officers are guilty, they should be punished. If the negro was transporting liquor, it was their duty to arrest him, but no officer has the right to kill a man except to protect his own life. It is better that gallons of contraband should pass than one life should be taken. Special precaution and self control is imposed on public officials. Even the best of them sometimes lose their head, and become violators of the law. In such cases they should be punished. This paper, having a high regard for Officer Wyatt and freeing him from any bad motive, felt that the ends of justice would be thwarted if he was not punished when the shot he fired killed a private citizen. Wyatt did not intend to kill. All the same, he did kill, and must pay the penalty, even though the whole community was saddened by the necessity for punishment.

But in nine cases out of ten, when officials are injured, the lawless roadsters are the criminals.—News & Observer.

U. S. MAY SEEK TO GET MILLIONS PAID TO CARRIERS

Nickel Plate Suit May Point Way to Force Railroads to Pay; Overcharges to Federal Bureau Is Said to Amount to Huge Sums

Cleveland, O., July 7.—(INS)—Upon the outcome of a case which United States Judge Paul Jones has under advertisement in which the Nickel Plate Railroad is seeking to collect $7,480 for carrying the mails, hinges the recovery by the federal government of millions of dollars from railroads of the nation that were given land grants by the government.

The Van Swearingen brothers claim the government owes them $7,480 for mails and supplies carried by the Nickel Plate Railroad for the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

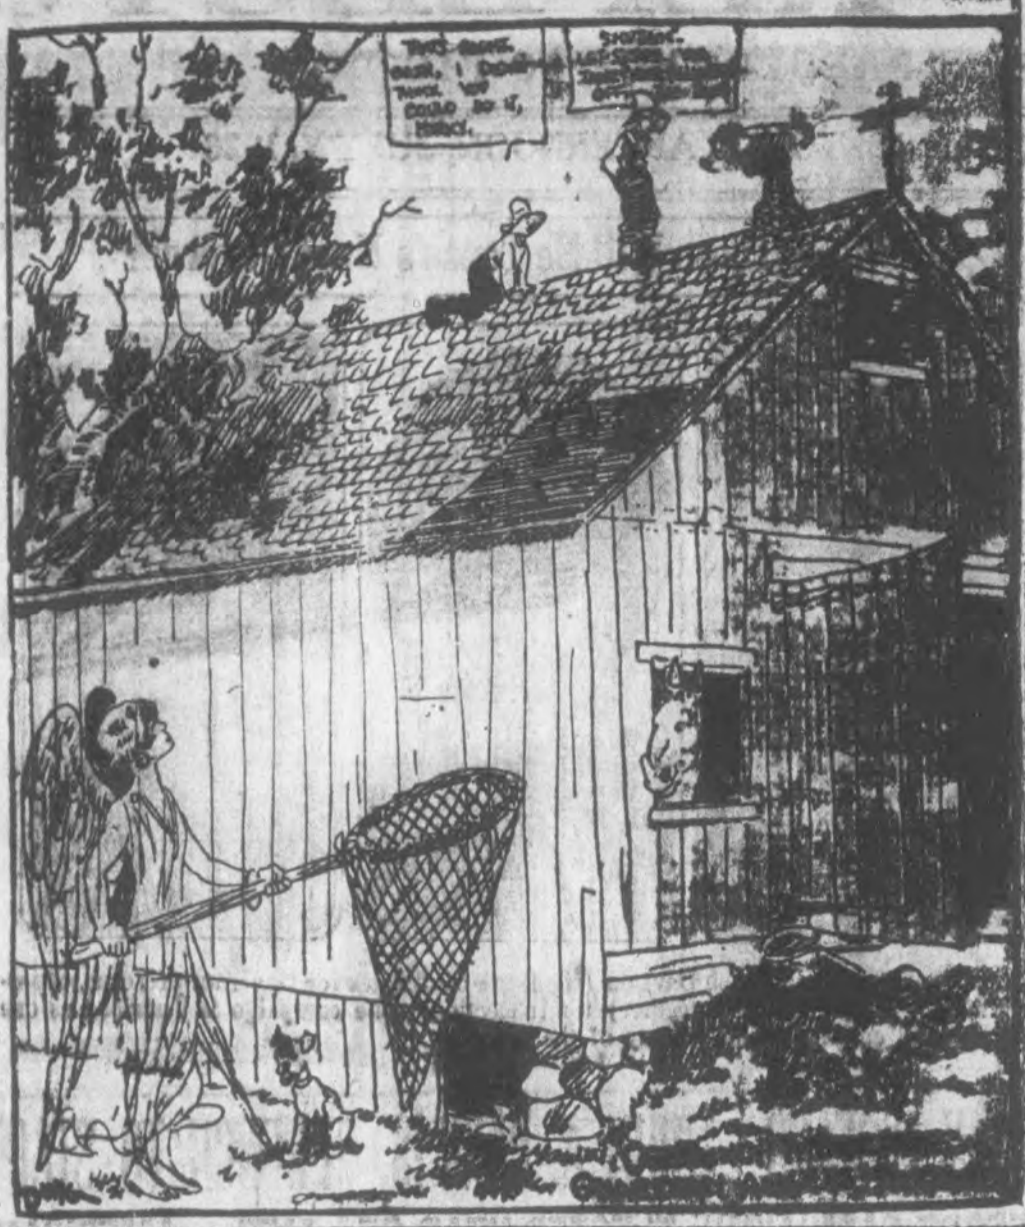

The problem which Judge Jones must solve is whether the Emergency Fleet Corporation is a department of the government. Under an agreement between the government and those roads which received land grants when they came into existence, such carriers must cut their rates fifty per cent when carrying mails or government supplies.

For a long time the Emergency Fleet Corporation paid the full rate for its mails and supplies. Then it decided it was a government department and refused to pay more than half of the carrying charges. So the Van Swearingen brothers brought a suit against the government.

If the court decides the Emergency Fleet Corporation is a government department the government can proceed to recover a half of all the money paid railroads for moving mails and supplies for the corporation. This will amount to millions of dollars according to United States Assistant District Attorney Howell Leuck. Lisle A. Smith, Assistant United States Attorney General, Washington, and I. V. McPherson, general counsel for the United States Shipping Board aided Leuck in presenting the government's case.

No matter which side wins here the case is sure to be appealed to the highest court in the land.

Automatic Counter Shows President Greets 150,000 in Thirty-Four Months; White House Police Keep Check On "Respects" Who Visit Chief Executive

Washington, July 7.—(INS)—Shake! brother! (or sister). How many times has Calvin Coolidge been forced to say this at least figuratively since he began to hold down his job at the White House? Official figures, as read of the automatic counter in the hand of the copper at the exit to the Executive offices, coupled with conservative estimates of out-of-town receptions, place the total in round numbers at 150,000 in the thirty-four months up to June 1, 1926, that Mr. Coolidge has been President.

And this total is probably thousands short for the Chief Executive is always shaking hands unofficially.

The White House Police keep a careful check on the number of "respects" that pass through the Executive Offices daily. (A "respect" is a person who comes to the White House armed with a written request from his senator or congressman asking an audience with the President.)

From August 3, 1923 to June 1, 1926, there have been of these—coupled with the annual New Year's Diplomatic, Cabinet, Judicial, Congressional and Army and Navy receptions—exactly 128,000.

In addition, there have been three garden parties for disabled soldiers in the vicinity of Washington, each averaging about 1,500. Then the President has an average of at least ten visitors a day who come by appointment and do not have to leave by the door where the policeman and his consular stand. Thus, most conservatively, another 10,000 are added.

While out of town on speaking engagements, Mr. Coolidge has shaken at least 5,000 hands. Above this figure, on Vermont Day, 1924, while visiting Plymouth, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge received over 2,000 natives of that state.

And thus, with these figures, the mean total of 150,000 is reached. Taking the White House "respects" figure of 128,000 alone, the President receives an average of 3,765 of his constituents every month, or 125 a day. But taking into consideration the fact that on vacations and speaking engagements, he has been out of Washington for about four months of the thirty-four, the average runs still higher.

greeting. Rather they have a number—such as "How are you?", "Glad to see you." "A pleasure. I'm sure, etc."—which they rotate mechanically.

Every visitor must run a gauntlet of watchful secret service men. No packages may be carried, no hand may be bagged or concealed in pocket, for McKinley was assassinated with a gun wrapped in what apparently was a bandage.

TO BARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Common garden sage brewed in a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaking or gray.

Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use for only 75 cents. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application of two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

Grandfather Now Goes Riding

Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh Refreshes After Riding

Denied the pleasures of automobile riding because of resultant pains and aches in his back the grandfather of one New York state family now enjoys the long Sunday rides with the ease and joy of the youth about him. This grandfather applies Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh with that faith in the famous old remedy that has made it stand the test of 80 years.

Healing qualities of myrrh have been known since Bible days, but when scientifically combined with other healing and antiseptic ingredients, as it is in Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh, it is small wonder that its effects are sensational. Sold at drug stores. Manufactured by the G. C. Hanford Co., Syracuse, N. Y.

An exhibition of the various materials and various stages of construction in the making of a Nunn-Bush shoe, which now occupies one of the beautiful show windows of the Pitt Shoe Co., on the Dickinson Avenue side of this store at Five Points, is one of the most interesting displays ever shown in Greenville.

The exhibit is attracting all manner of notice, throngs of persons stopping to look over the unusual exhibit.

The exhibition shows just how the shoe is built, the materials in their original state, the inner sole, the outer sole, upper, toe caps, eyelets, stitching, leather binding, etc., each in the incomplete state. The exhibit shows just where each item enters into the making of the shoe, the operation being followed in the display from the initial move clear through until the shoe is a complete product.

RECORD CROWDS AT PAMLICO BEACH

The largest crowd in the history of Pamlico Beach spent the week-end and the Fourth at this popular resort, where the steady breezes from the waters of Pamlico Sound afford sure relief from the oppressive summer heat.

Pamlico Beach hotel was over-run early Saturday night, and during the week-end many visitors spent the night in automobiles and in the pavilion. Many visitors came from distant points in the state and were unanimously of the opinion that from the standpoint of bathing, fishing, and coolness, Pamlico Beach was the peer of all.

The beach rises about 46 feet from the water's edge, and is generously sprinkled with shade trees on all sides, and is fanned with a constant breeze from the ocean which makes it delightful both during the day and night.

The bathing is in salt water, with a perfect sand bottom which is free from sea-weeds.

The Pamlico Beach Hotel is becoming famous for the excellence of the dining room service, and many of the guests have remained over for the week.

The thirty-odd cottages on the beach are fast filling up with the summer colony, and by the end of the week a population of at least three hundred will claim Pamlico as its summer home.

The roads have been placed in excellent shape, and it is less than an hour's drive from the end of the pavement at Bath.

Girl and Suspect in Mysterious Attack

Ruth Mehl (right) was severely beaten, and her sister, Grace, beaten and shot by two men who entered their New York home. Samuel Serota (above) was placed under arrest. Mystery was added to the case by the fact that John W. Mehl, a brother, recently disappeared, and that the three controlled valuable property.

An appeal has also been made to the city authorities to add 300 guards to the present park patroling force.

FILM FAVORITES IN MINOR ROLES TO AID DIRECTOR

If you were a big star and had won fame in leading roles and were still winning more glory in such parts, would you play a "bit" in somebody else's picture? Norma Shearer did! So did Conrad Nagel.

Neither of these two artists have been seen in anything less than a title or featured role for some years, yet they consented to make but brief appearances on the screen in Monta Bell's "Pretty Ladies" which will be shown at White's Theatre Thursday.

Miss Shearer impersonates Frances White, of stage fame, and Conrad Nagel plays himself, as imagined by ZaSu Pitts, featured player of "Pretty Ladies."

MR. AND MRS. BATCHELOR LEAVE FOR MICHIGAN

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Batchelor will leave tonight for Niagara Falls. From there they will go by boat to Detroit, Michigan. They will also take a motor trip through northern Michigan. They expect to be away about three weeks.

$300,000 Asked to Save Central Park

New York, July 7.—(INS)—The periodical call to save Central Park, the oasis of Manhattan, from death and decay, has been sounded again by Park Commissioner Gallatin.

"At least $300,000 is required at once if this beauty spot is to be saved from certain deterioration," was Gallatin's ultimatum.

Central Park, universally known and as popular to tourists as Hyde Park in London or the Gardens of Versailles, is in lamentable condition, according to the park commissioner. Huge patches of sward have turned sore for lack of water, vandals have uprooted young trees and irreparably damaged the undergrowth and baseball enthusiasts have rendered barren the once beautiful lawns.

The devastation wrought by heedless visitors to the park was shown when rangers found a sturdy elm sapling ruthlessly chopped down because it was in the line of third base to the home plate on a baseball diamond.

Eight hundred out of 2,400 new bushes planted have been torn up by vandals, Gallatin said.

Beeches and firs were reported dying and elms becoming very scarce.

165 BIG BEER VATS BEEN DISCARDED

St. Louis, July 7.—(INS)—Remnants of by-gone days can be seen along the shores of the Mississippi River, where stretching out for considerable distance on the water-front are stored 165 large beer tanks, glass-enamelled inside and 10 feet in diameter.

The tanks bear mute evidence of the extent to which the advent of prohibition has injured the brewery business. Thirsty mathematicians, who occasionally wander down by the river to look with longing eyes on the once valuable vessels have figured out that the tanks were capable of holding and did contain at one time 3,950,000 gallons or 31,600,000 drinks of beer.

The equipment, which was once a vital part of the Anheuser-Busch Inc. breweries, represented an original investment of $500,000. Due, however, to the slump in their popularity and legality, they were sold recently as junk for a price that is said to have been less than 10 per cent of what they cost.

When the Volstead spirit first cast its shadows over the brewery properties, the owners tried vainly to sell them to oil companies, dairies and numerous other concerns using tanks. Finally, when a purchaser could not readily be found, the equipment was sold for junk at only a small fraction of their worth and stored along the river when the brewery's stock house was rented out to a furniture company.

This Man Intends to Keep It in the House

In May or June, 1913, I got four bottles which were worth many dollars to me. They enabled me to go to work again. I had lost 40 pounds, but these four bottles of MAYR'S for stomach trouble gained back all I had lost and I feel like a new man since. I shall keep it in the house all the time." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Sold by all leading druggists.

TO THE VOTING PUBLIC

I take this method of thanking the voters of Greenville Township who supported me for Constable in the two primaries just completed. While I was defeated for the office I feel that a good man was chosen for same and he will have my support in carrying out the affairs of his office.

Again thanking one and all for their consideration and efforts in my behalf, I beg to remain,

Cordially yours,

London, July 7.—(INS)—Public drinking among women is on the increase throughout England, according to the London Observer, which publishes a report of a two-year investigation of public-houses in relation to social and industrial conditions.

Large numbers of women, who formerly took their glass of beer or stout at home were now found to be frequenters of the public-houses, especially on Saturday and Sunday, while it was also pointed out that many young women, who were not content since the war to sit at home alone while their husbands went out for a drink, now accompany them and do their drinking in public.

No statistics are available to show whether public drinking among women has increased or decreased the amounts of beer and spirits formerly sold to or for women for consumption off the premises, but it is stated that there has been a remarkable decrease of drunkenness among women as compared with pre-war days.

The Observer's investigator said that he had not noticed excess drinking among women except in public houses where drinking among women of the harridan type is a long-standing habit.

"Women are drinking in a much more public way than formerly," he stated, but the increase has occurred chiefly in the better-class public-houses and among the more respectable types of women.

The best recipe for a happy marriage is to marry early, according to Silas K. Hocking, the veteran English novelist and "best seller," who has just celebrated his golden anniversary.

"The lives of young people fit in so much more easily when they are young than do those of older people who wait until their habits are settled and their idiosyncrasies fixed," said Hocking in an interview.

Hocking has a poor opinion of modern books, especially those devoted to the sex appeal. "They are cleverly written, but they are so full of the sex question that they are on the verge of leprosy," he said. "Their tendency is to analyze not the spiritual, but the physical emotions. They have no plots, no stories in them, and their writers use the muck-rake. They bore me."

Demands are being made upon the government for the disbursement to civilians who suffered from German air raids and other causes during the war of the $150,000,000 reparations paid by Germany on account of British damage claims. George M. Judd, chairman of the Civilian War Claimants Association, is drafting a memorial on the subject which will be presented shortly to the Prime Minister.

"The Government," Judd declares, "promises that every civilian who suffered damages would be compensated. There were 116 air raids in England, in which 1,413 people were killed, 3,408 wounded, and scores of homes blown to smithereens, and yet only $2,000,000 has been paid in compensation for air raid damages."

The view of the government is understood to be that Germany paid reparations to Great Britain as a nation as national and not individual compensation, and that therefore, no civilian has a personal claim against Germany. It is stated that 100,000 claims for damages against Germany have been investigated by the Government, and that nearly $25,000,000 has been paid out.

That international force, of natives and Europeans with European officers, is accused of torturing prisoners to extort desired confessions before taking them to court.

Fortunately that process is confined to savage places and individuals. Once it was the rule in all civilized countries. The prisoner, even the innocent witness, was "put to the torture" as a matter of course.

And when torture was abolished by the French Revolution, highly civilized judges complained that without torture there could be no efficient administration of justice. "Witnesses will lie, of course, unless you torture the truth out of them." A little of that theory remains here and there in our police "third degree."

It is evident that labor leaders must do much thinking hereafter and understand certain industrial problems. Merely organizing a strike will not do.

The textile workers of Passaic, N. J. were organized and struck, their intention to ruin the mill with great determination, and owners, if necessary.

The latter fought back with complete stupidity, using asphyxiating gases, policemen's clubs, etc. It was a good fight, but—Henry F. Hillers, secretary of New Jersey's Federation of Labor, says the strike is permanently lost, even if the mill owners give in. Orders have been shifted from Passaic to other mills; not enough work could possibly be found now for one-half the men that went out.

New England strikes have built up mill industries in the south and the old work will not come back.

LIBRARY NEWS

Our Slogan: "Let the Library Serve Greenville."

Library Hours: 9 to 12 Noon and 4:40 to 7 P. M.

We have added 34 novels of light fiction by well known authors for the summer's demand for the easy reading. There is such a demand for the new fiction that all who expect to read any of the popular books will have to ask to be placed on the waiting list so the book may be kept in constant circulation.

The most popular books just now are: "Blue Window," with 15 waiting for it; "Keeper of the Key," still on the popular list; "Up the Road with Sallie," is also very popular, as is "Nancy Goes to Town." Since the "Royle Girl" is off the rental shelf it is being taken into more popular than ever. Others that are now off the rental shelf are "The Chicken Wagon Family," "Burnish Bush," "Romeo in Moon Village," "Women," "The Vanishing American," "Portrait of a Man with Red Hair." Then we have placed on the rental shelf the following new ones: "Shepherds," by Oemler; "Pig Iron," by Norris; "Bronz Hand," by Wells; "Chip and the Block," by DeLafayette; "Hill Bill," by Lane; "A Sporting Chance," by Cameron; "They Had to See Paris," by Crox; "Hounds of Spring," by Thompson. We place only the best fiction on the rental shelf so if you want to keep up with the latest and at the same time help to make our library distinctive in that it may buy the latest by Bruce and Cid to bring about fiction, speak for the latest books an understanding, the story then in fiction, for it will cost you only a dime.

While purchasing for your summer reading the other day we saw "Homeland" by Margaret Hill McCarter, which seemed like a message from the homeland to us, for Mrs. McCarter is claimed by our native state, Kansas, even though she is Hoosier born and reared. You will pardon us for taking a little space to tell something of Mrs. McCarter, for in our girlhood she furnished that light, clean fiction that helped to balance the "required standard classics," which made up our literary food just as Gene Stratton Porter's novel's "fill in" today and perhaps that is partly the reason we have never quite agreed with the "high-brow" idea that the latter is cheap and common.

Mrs. McCarter is a college bred woman and taught school many years, a part of which time she was head of the English Department of the high school at Topeka, Kansas, her home city. She is a member of the Author's League of America, besides being a member of state organizations of authors and of the historical societies of the state. You will find her name in "Who's Who in America."

One of the two pleasant memories of that memorable first year of our teaching experience was the honor we had of having lunch with Mrs. McCarter, while she was in the little western town, to fill an engagement on the Lyceum course. And so her novels have meant much to us since that little visit for we caught the strength of her character and the true American idealism of her home training, both of which qualities make her novels clean and wholesome.

Mrs. McCarter's novels are stories of the mid-west and from any of the popular books will have to ask to be placed on the waiting list so the book may be kept in constant circulation.

"Reclaimers," "Vanguards of the Plains" and many others she gives us the adventures of pioneer life on the prairies. But "Home Land" is not an altogether mid-west story, but rather takes in several sections of the country Bruce, Carraday, a Coloradan, and his pall, Jack Lorton, meet in New York after each had mourned the other as dead since the war. Jack, with his cousin, Cid Jannison, and in turn, his wife, Leslie Jannison, make up the New England strain in the story and also furnish the central theme. But some live wires on the sidelines are Janis Gwain the red haired office girl in Jack's firm, with her sick husband, and the very much vampish Estelle Sidol. Janis furnishes the by-path while Estelle merits any indignation, censure, and consternation on the rental shelf.

After weeks of misadventure on the part of Leslie and Jack the latest and at the same time help to make our library distinctive in that it may buy the latest by Bruce and Cid to bring about fiction, speak for the latest books an understanding, the story then switches to Colorado—"out West where the dreams of the east come true," and thence to Mexico where they find one another and also find that the "Homeland is where the heart is."

We have just received two traveling libraries from the Library Commission. These libraries contain about 100 books and are especially for young people from eight to sixteen years. MIXED RACE COMMISSION APPOINTED IN DETROIT TO END COLOR STRIFE

Detroit, July 6.—(NS)—The inter-racial commission appointed by Mayor John W. Smith, to make a study of relations between the negro and white races in Detroit, has started active work.

was shot and killed by shots alleged to have been fired from the home of a negro physician, who had moved into a "white" neighborhood.

The commission has obtained the services of two eminent sociologists. They are: Robert T. Lansdale, of the University of Michigan, and Forrester B. Washington, of Philadelphia. With the assistance of five other sociological students, these experts will conduct a thorough study into Detroit racial conditions.

DENVER BABY BAD MAN HAS LONG RECORD AT 7

Denver, Colo., July 6.—(INS)—Denver claims the distinction of having the world's youngest "thief," and this "Baby bad man" is "in again."

Johnny, is his name and that is all the police will reveal. He is 7 years old. His first exploit was two months ago when he was picked up by police as he was attempting to drive away an automobile from one of the downtown streets.

During the past week, detectives Genty and Carter have traced him down as the perpetrator of at least four minor robberies.

His hobby is taking toys from stores, lead pencils, machine parts, tape measures and household odds and ends.

Johnny is being held in the city detention home.

Bob Gaines was arrested in Seattle on a charge of murdering his beautiful daughter, Sylvia.
