SCOTT CASE AGAIN GAINS ATTENTION OF COURT CIRCLES

Robert Scott, Chicago Murderer, Confesses to Killing of Drug Store Clerk

Chicago, July 24.—(AP)—The celebrated case of Robert and Russell Scott, convicted murderers, which has spectacularly surged its way through the courts here for many months, came into public attention again today with a statement by Robert to the Herald and Examiner that he fired the shot that killed Maurer, a drug clerk.

Robert, who was returned here from a California prison recently, pleaded guilty to the murder and was sentenced to life imprisonment after he had denied on the stand that he fired the fatal shot. In his statement to the paper he declared "I lied to save my neck."

His elder brother Russell, earlier, pleaded guilty also, was sentenced to death, withdrew the plea, was found guilty by a jury and after half a dozen trials and reprieves, now is awaiting death on the gallows in October.

That the purported confession of Robert will result in a new legal warfare to save Russell from the noose, seems certain. The possible effects of Robert's statement was being discussed in legal circles here, the Herald and Examiner quoting authorities on criminal law as declaring that nothing could be done to change his life sentence to one of death.

The court has lost jurisdiction in the case so far as murder is concerned, they believe. The opinion likewise was held that the courts are through with Russell and the statement cannot help him directly, although it was pointed out he could be pardoned by the Governor.

Russell read Robert's statement with tears. "I always knew that some day he would tell the story," he said, "and I always knew where Robert was—the night I was in the death cell I knew that Robert was in the penitentiary in California."

LICENSE BUREAU HOPES TO CLEAR LICENSES SOON

Raleigh, July 24.—(AP)—Swamped by applications for motor vehicle licenses, the automobile license bureau of the Department of Revenue expects to be able to clear the applications on hand and being received by the middle or last of next week. At that time inspectors will be dispatched over the state to take note of those who have not provided themselves with licenses.

This announcement was made today by R. A. Doughton, commissioner of revenue.

REED SILENT ABOUT SLUSH FUND PROBE

Kansas City, July 24.—(INS)—Senator Jim Reed, the national watchdog, is maintaining a discreet silence as to the course he elects to pursue when the Senate "slush fund" committee meets again this month to delve into the charges of corruption in the recent Illinois primary election. Nor will he comment on the methods which the committee will use in keeping a wary eye on the other primary elections throughout the country.

Since the mammoth reception which was given the senior Senator from Missouri, on his arrival here following the adjournment of Congress, he had made no statement as to the activities of the committee.

On what he expects to find in Illinois and on whom he will call he remains silent. Associates of Senator Reed have intimated that his reticence is due to the desire to spring a "surprise attack" before the necessary witnesses can become frightened and disappear.

LOCAL KIWANIS TO BE GUESTS OF THE KINSTON CLUB

Inter - City Meeting and Luncheon to Be Held at Hillcrest on Next Wednesday

Greenville and Kinston Kiwanis clubs will hold an inter-city meeting and luncheon at Hillcrest Hotel, Kinston, N. C., next Wednesday at one o'clock. At two-thirty the Greenville club will be guests of the Kinstonians at a double-header ball game at league park.

The last inter-city meeting of the club was held at Hillcrest last year, and practically every club in this immediate section was represented.

The transportation committee of the local club, recently appointed by president Blount, is composed of Frank Harrington, Bob Fitzgerald and George Woodward. The club will leave the court house lawn Wednesday morning promptly at 11:30 o'clock.

SWIFT WATERS GET BOY BANDIT LIVING IN CAVE

Middletown, Conn., July 24.—(INS)—The Connecticut river, sweeping the waters of nearly all New England down to Long Island Sound, is particularly deadly here and has a long list of victims that is added to steadily each summer. A recent victim was Wilbur Broome, 19, who lived on the river bank at Higginum and supposedly was familiar with all the river moods. But Broome was a youthful bandit who had terrorized the entire section about Middletown and had 25 "jobs" to his credit, including some in which he made free use of revolvers and shots.

Broome has a cave on the outskirts of Middletown and there worked out his robbery plans, according to police. Eventually the police became aware of the cave and when they wanted Broome badly they raided the place by night.

Broome heard them coming and instead of battling, he slipped down a secret path by the river bank, intending to hide a bit. He slipped—and then he carried him away. His mother identified his body when the police, who had chased him failed to recognize the youthful bandit as he lay dead.

FORD LOSES IN BATTLE AGAINST CIGAR DEALERS

Effort to Have Name of Stogies Changed Not Upheld by Charlotte Dealer

Washington, July 24.—(AP)—Henry Ford has lost a fight to have the name of his automobile eliminated from a brand of cigars and stogies.

Denying the application of the Ford Motor Company to cancel the registration of the brand, which is made by John A. McAdoo, of Charlotte, N. C., the patent office held that a corporate name may be registered as a trademark when used on goods differing from those manufactured by another corporation of the same name.

"It must be remembered that the name 'Ford' is not necessarily confined to the corporate name of the petitioner," the decision said.

"It is a common word of our language used not only as the name for many persons but also as a common noun and a verb."

U. S. WAR DEPARTMENT TO TRAIN SIX OFFICERS FOR IRISH FREE STATE

Dublin, July 24.—(INS)—It is officially announced here that the United States War Department has granted permission for six officers of the Irish Free State Army to attend some of the United States military training schools to take courses of instruction in American military methods.

Major General Hugh MacNeill, Assistant Chief of Staff of the Free State Army, will therefore leave in the near future for the United States in order to make full arrangements for the reception of himself and the five other officers.

He will be closely followed by the other five, who have been especially chosen by General Headquarters for the courses. Some of the officers, it is understood, will go to one of the United States artillery schools for a special course in gunnery, and to remain number to West Point for the study of tactics and American methods of infantry training.

White Man Placed Under Bond on Two Charges in the City Court Today

SAYS RATES TO NORTH CAROLINA DISCRIMINATING

Commissioner Exam- iner Says Unjust Mileage Exists Be- tween Va., and N. C.

Washington, July 24.—(AP)—On complaint of the state corporation commission of Virginia, Paul O. Carter, interstate commerce commission examiner, has tentatively found to be unjust the mileage class rate and classification ratings on traffic from certain points in Virginia to destination in North Carolina.

In his report which the commission must pass upon, the examiner declared that the present arrangement resulted in undue prejudice to shippers in Virginia and undue preference for shippers in North Carolina. A new scale of interstate mileage class rates and classification ratings was recommended.

He asked that the commission find that the "circumstances and conditions, affecting the transportation of freight on which class rates are applicable from points in Virginia located in southern territory to destinations in North Carolina are substantially similar to those affecting the transportation of the same kind of traffic between points in the state of North Carolina and that shippers located at points in Virginia are in direct competition with shippers in North Carolina in the sale of commodities to the latter state.

The complainant asked that the defendant railroad be required to cease applying lower rates and ratings on interstate traffic in New York than are contemporaneously applied on interstate traffic from Virginia to North Carolina.

Interventions in support of the complaint were made by the Chamber of Commerce, of Richmond, Lynchburg, Danville, Suffolk and Petersburg and the Norfolk-Portsmouth Freight Commission.

The corporation commission of North Carolina and the Eastern Carolina wholesale dealers and manufacturers association intervened in opposition to the complaint.

The destination territory was described by the examiner as an important trade region for shippers in Virginia because of its proximity. The testimony of numerous Virginia merchants, he said, showed that they sold commodities of every description in North Carolina in which they met the most severe competition from merchants in that state.

BRIGHT IS BOUND OVER TO SESSION OF COUNTY COURT

White Man Placed Under Bond on Two Charges in the City Court Today

Ed Bright, white man of this city, charged with resisting arrest, assault upon wife, being drunk and disorderly and running family away from home, was bound over to county court in a hearing before Mayor D. M. Clark, in this morning's session of city court.

Bright was arraigned on two separate and distinct charges. In the first he gave bond for $300 for his appearance in county court at Tuesday's hearing. In the second, he was required to give $200 bond.

Only one other case was given hearing by the Mayor this morning, that being against E. H. Parkerson, charged with perverting his wife to run at large. He was required to pay damages and cost of the case.

The Wonderful French.
An Old Camel.
What is Genius?
More War? Help.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

FRENCH STATESMEN are having a hard time with the drowning franc. Herriot, head of the government which held office less than 48 hours, planned a levy on French capital, disguised. Capital would see through the disguise.

Small French people don't want to be taxed. The statesmen fear their numbers. Very rich Frenchmen don't want their capital confiscated and government fears their financial power.

Many deputies demand a financial dictator, but what could he do? You cannot lift yourself by your boot straps, financially or physically. But the French, however, will find a way. They are industrious, thrifty, brave and determined, men and women both.

The French have vitality. Ninon de Jenclos, at seventy-two, young and beautiful, had very young men in love with her. Now Madame Desprez, of Roubaix, aged eighty-seven, establishes a new swimming record: You can't beat the French and you don't want to.

British newspapers insult the American Government, calling Uncle Sam "Uncle Shylock." The French crowds insult both Americans and British, for the good reason that France owes money to both Britain and America. Those that OWE you do not LOVE you. You must be reconciled to that.

It's an old world. A Swiss scientist in the Philippines has discovered 200 missing links, one Aborigine showed a continuation of the spinal column, a sort of tall Marco Polo says he saw many men with tails on his travels.

The Smithsonian Institution finds in Montana the bones of a camel 2,000,000 years old. It was bigger than a camel with more teeth. The Smithsonian announces the skull of a horse that lived in America ten to fifty thousand years ago.

Er Alfred Mond tells Britain's society of chemical industry that science will control genius, morals and sex, and also prolong youth. Sex has been put beyond our control. Men's vanity would call for too many boys.

What we call 'morals' is a reflection of the times in which we live. Man, always trying to seem a little better than he really is, improves gradually.

What we call genius today will be commonplace of future ages. When life on this earth came out of water onto the land, and some of the reptiles began to fly, the birds that flew a few feet were probably considered geniuses by the others.

A white child of ten is a genius compared with some full grown savages. The men of a million and ten millions years hence will all be geniuses compared with our greatest minds, and far above them. We are barbarians, not yet standardized.

Lloyd George warns church societies that the most horrible, devastating war will come unless young people of the world prevent it.

If war comes, it will have to come. The old gambler said as he 'raised the pot,' that the way to discourage vice is to make it expensive. The way to discourage war is to let men learn what it costs. The thing for this country is to keep out of it, build flying machines and submarines enough to protect itself, and when war comes neither a borrower nor a lender be, nor a participant.

Florence Siegfeld, who continues 'glorifying the American girl' but insists that she be 'modestly dressed,' says 'the plumper girl is coming in.' He predicts disappearance of the prevailing type that looks half starved as a result of dieting.

That's good news for the tired business man who sits in front. Still better for the other man who wants the next generation to be (Continued on page 4)

GREEN SUSPENDED FROM OFFICE ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Prohibition Enforcement Officer Charged With Giving Parties With Liquor

Washington, July 24.—(AP)—Ned M. Green, the San Francisco prohibition administrator, who it was charged, has been giving "parties," with confiscated liquor, was suspended from office today by acting secretary Winston, of the Treasury.

The suspension will remain effective pending an investigation into formal charges of misconduct by Green now being conducted by the District Attorney at San Francisco.

A report on Green's activities was presented to Mr. Winston today by the special intelligence unit of the Internal Revenue Department, head of the unit, made the report and said that Green had confirmed published charges about his drinking liquor.

All of the charges of misconduct against Green allege personal irregularities and no graft is involved.

VOTERS OF TEXAS NAME NOMINEES AT POLLS TODAY

Voters of Both Parties Choose Representatives of 18 Congressional Seats

Dallas, Tex., July 24.—(AP)—Democratic and Republican voters will go to the primary poles in Texas today to select state tickets and nominees, for 18 Congressional seats with chief interest centered in the Democratic gubernatorial race. This is the first time a Republican primary has been held in Texas.

Candidates in the filed for the Democratic nomination for the office now held by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, are Mrs. Ferguson, Dan Moody, Lynch Davidson, Mrs. Edith Williams and Rev. O. F. Zimmerman.

"Fergusonism" was laid down and accepted at the gubernatorial contest issue at the beginning of the present race. By Fergusonism, all factions have agreed as implied James E. Ferguson, who is the husband of the present Governor, and himself a former Governor who was impeached. Ferguson, it is said, dictates the policies followed by his wife.

DEMOCRATS WILL PLAY UP TARIFF IN CAMPAIGNING

Statement From the Headquarters Say Question is to Be Made Main Issue

Washington, July 24.—(AP)—The determination of Democratic leaders to center attention on the Republican tariff policies again was in evidence today by a statement from headquarters of the Democratic National Committee, saying that "foremost among issues of 1926 is the tariff."

"Any real and lasting farm relief must come largely through tariff reform," the statement continued. Tariff modifications bills introduced during the last session of Congress were declared to have been smothered by "White House orders." This statement also mentioned the Pennsylvania Republican campaign disclosures and declared all nominees for Senator this year should say before hand whether they would vote to seat William S. Vare.

Two Hundred Tobac- conists and County People Have Good Time At Season's Gala Event of Hos- pitable Neighbor- hood Near Winter- ville

The annual picnic of the Louis McLawhorn neighborhood was held yesterday afternoon in the grove of the Louis McLawhorn farm, a short distance from Winterville. Members of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade and several invited guests from other parts of the county attended, and enjoyed one of the finest spreads of barbecued Pitt county hog, cake and lemonade in many a day.

Tobacco planters of the Winterville community have long been famed for their hospitality. And yesterday they lived up to their reputation. For three hours, or more two hundred guests wandered around under the wonderful shade trees of the grove, and told each other what the other parts of the county were doing.

The picnic was supposed to have been at full blast about the noon hour. But, Alf Forbes, who presided over the destiny of the barbecue, candidly admitted that it would be three o'clock before he would be ready to serve the delicious meat. Alf has always been a hard worker, and as he bent over this barbecue pit yesterday he proved to the world that nothing but a "hard worker" is able to turn out barbecue in real Pitt county style.

Members of the Reflector staff who attended would be able to write a volume about the different things happening during the three hours consumed in fun and frolic by the picnickers. But some of the experiences must be stored away for use at a future date. The writer is able to visualize a barbecued pig between every line of this story. And as he writes, he is hoping against hope that next year will hurry and come so he may have the pleasure of taking part in the annual event of the McLawhorn neighborhood.

One of the most prominent features of the event was the absence of oratorical effort. Until this moment we are unable to account for it. Every member of the Tobacco Board of Trade is an automatic oratorical revolver, ready to cut loose at any moment. And they were all on the job. Not a one was missing. The organization was well represented from the most retiring member to the president himself. But the most of them were silent so far as oratory was concerned. It must have been the effect of activities going on around the fire over which the hogs were being cooked. Or it might have been something else.

We are not able to say. But the only ones who got a chance of "shooting a line" were Rev. H. Frederick Jones, pastor of the Memorial Baptist church of this city; C. W. Schuff, manager of the Greenville plant of the Imperial Tobacco Co.; J. S. Ficklen of the Ficklen Tobacco Co., and K. W. Cobb, secretary of the Tobacco Board of Trade.

Parson Jones spoke in a particularly happy vein. He thanked the host and hostesses for the splendid spirit of hospitality evidenced on all sides. And then he committed himself as to his opinion of Pitt county and Pitt county people. He said this is the "garden spot of the world" or the hub of the universe. We don't know whether he had the "hub idea" in his vocabulary right at the time or not. But in case he didn't, the scribe divined his meaning, and is supplying it along with the rest of his impromptu effort.

Mr. Schuff confined himself almost exclusively to the possibilities and future of the tobacco industry of this territory. He said there is no limit to human achievement if the farmer and business man would only get together and then "pull" together. He said the life of every farm (Continued on page three)

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT MEDITATION

"CROSS-BEARING"

St. Luke 9:23: — "If any man will come after me,
let him take up his cross
daily."

When the Romans crucified a criminal, not only did
they hang him on a cross,
but as a last terrible indignity, they made him carry the cross upon his back.

Probably Jesus, when a lad, had been a witness to that dreadful spectacle.

How it would sink into His boyish mind, the dullest imagination can conjecture.
And that was why, when He became a man, He used the imagery of cross-bearing
to describe all that is bitterest in life.

The cross is anything difficult to bear; anything hard galling, uncongenial; anything that robs the step of lightness, and blots out the sunshine from the sky. And one of the primary secrets of discipleship is given in these words: "If any man
will come after me, let him
take up his cross daily."

1. This implies that cross bearing is a UNIVERSAL THING. "If ANY MAN
will come after me"—no
one is conceived of as escaping the conditions.

There are some things in life that you and I can escape. Many of us have never felt the sting of poverty; some have never known an hour of pain. But if God has His providences which distinguish us, He has also His providences which unite us, and no man or woman ever escapes the cross.
There is a cross in every life. There is a crook in every lot. There is a bitter ingredient in every one's cup, though the cup be fashioned of the gold of Ophir.
Our Lord knew that everyone who came to Him, in every country and in every age, would have to face the discipline of cross-bearing.
"The servant is not greater than his Lord."

2. This implies also that cross-bearing is AN INDI-VIDUAL THING. "If any man will come after me, let him take up HIS cross." From which I gather that crosses are peculiar, separate as personality, never quite the same in different lives.

Some crosses are bodily
or physical; some are mental. Some spring from the unfathomed depths of being. Some are shaped and fashioned by our ancestors;

and some by our own sins.
Some meet us in the relationships of life, frequently
in the relationships of toil,
often in the relationships of home.

Were all crosses alike we should only ask for human sympathy. But in every cross there is something nobody else can understand,
and THERE lies our utter need of God.

No one was ever tempted just as you are. There is always something which makes your cross—YOURS
ONLY. And that is why,
beyond all human kindness,
we need the Eternal God to be our refuge.

3. Our text further implies that cross-bearing
must be a WILLING THING.
"If any man will come
after me, let him TAKE UP his cross."

Probably our Lord, visiting Jerusalem, had seen a criminal led to execution.
He had seen the legionary
take the cross and lay it on the shoulders of the criminal. And the man had fought and struggled like a beast in his loathing of that last indignity—and yet for all his hate he had to bear
it.

Our Lord never could forget that horrid scene—it would haunt His memory to the end—and I can well believe it lay in the background of His thought, when He said that instead of frenzied and unavailing
struggles, His disciple should "TAKE UP his cross."

A sweet and saintly man,
whose little girl was dying,
felt bitter and rebellious.
But, after awhile, he turned to his wife and said:
"Wife, we must not let God
TAKE our child. WE MUST GIVE HER." So kneeling down beside the bed together, they gave up their baby
—and their wills.

My dear reader: I do not know your cross. I only know for certain that you have one. And I know, too, that the kind of way you bear it will make all the difference to you. Your cross may embitter you, harden
you, drive you out into a barren land, a land of salt.
Or it may bring you into the loving arms of Christ.

Rebel against it, you have still to carry it. Rebel against it, and the birds cease singing; all the music of life's harp is jangled. But take it up, and incorporate it in God's plan for you, and it blossoms like Aaron's rod into beauty. The cross will be your crown.

4. The text, finally, implies that cross-bearing is a DAILY THING. "Let him

take up his cross DAILY."
There lies the heroism of cross-bearing. It is not a gallant deed of golden mornings. It is a duty to be cheerfully met every dull morning of the week. It is the heroism of the dull common hour. Continuous!— yes; but thank God. His grace is also continuous, and His strength is made perfect
in our weakness.

1,100 OKLAHOMA OFFICE SEEKERS RN IN PRIMARY

Withdrawal of Governor Trapp Leaves Open Field for Many Candidates; Fight for Democratic and Republican Nominations
Is Growing Bitter

Oklahoma City, July 24.—(INS)—
Two candidates for office, both Democrats, but standing at opposite poles in methods and avowals of belief, have moved into the outstanding position in Oklahoma's primary election campaign, with election day less than three weeks distant. More than 1,100 candidates are seeking nominations to state positions.

Henry S. Johnston of Perry, candidate for governor and former Governor J. C. Walton, for the second time seeking the senatorial nominations, are the most prominent candidates.

With the withdrawal of Governor M. F. Trapp, held ineligible for renomination by the state supreme court, Johnston has been given the edge on the gubernatorial nomination by virtually all experienced political observers.

Within the last week, the senatorial race, in which Congressman Elmer Thomas of Lawton had previously been conceded a strong advantage, has developed into a doubtful contest, the doubt resulting from the ability of Thomas or W. A. Ledbetter of Oklahoma City to defeat the man who was impeached and removed from the governor's chair in 1923.

Oklahoma Republicans, with more campaign funds and a larger assortment of gubernatorial timber than ever before in the state's history, view the prospect with the most sanguine hopes, the more sanguine because of their expressed belief that Walton's nomination will give them not alone a new lease on the senatorship but control of the state government as well.

Johnston represents that portion of Oklahoma Democracy which repudiated Walton before his election as governor and helped William B. Pine of Okmulgee go to the United States senate with 150,000 majority over Walton in 1924. He is credited with Ku Klux Klan ef-filiation though in the last week
he has issued a strong statement
in behalf of religious tolerance.

Walton was elected governor on an anti-Klan and ultra progressive Farmer-Labor platform and is appealing to the same following in his senatorial campaign.

Johnston, while not an office holder since he was a member of the first state senate after statehood in 1907, probably is as widely known as any of the 1,100 old candidates.

His extraordinary acquaintance grows out of the fact that he has been grand master of Oklahoma Masons and likewise the highest state officer in the Knights of Pythias. He is probably the champion cornerstone layer in Oklahoma.

When the supreme court none

too gently pushed Governor Trapp out of the race, an almost unheard of situation prevailed. For the first time in Oklahoma's history, a governor had planned to run for renomination. While serving three years as the automatic successor of Governor Walton, Trapp had been building an administration machine.

At the time the court spoke, the Trapp machine was functioning perfectly and observers were conceding the governor the nomination even in the face of Johnston's admitted strength. But with the eligibility decision, the governor's organization was all dressed up and nobody to vote for.

The governor did the politically natural thing. He tried to make the best possible trade with one or another of the remaining candidates in order that his machine might remain intact and his own influence be unimpaired. He found it impossible to direct his followers. The result is a split of Trapp followers, largely between Mayor
O. A. Cargill of Oklahoma City and W. M. Darnell, of Range, the only dirt farmer who ever ran for governor of Oklahoma.

While Johnston, Cargill and Darnell are monopolizing the interest,
a half dozen other Democratic candidates are plunging along, including former Governor J. B. As-Robertson of Oklahoma City and W. M. Franklin of Madill, clerk of the supreme court. Few concede either of these even an outside chance.

United States Senator John W.
Harrell, Republican, is conceded renomination though he has several opponents, none of whom is even fairly well known or active in the campaign.

Six other Republicans are battling for the gubernatorial nomination, with Omer K. Benedict, former newspaper publisher and until recently postmaster at Tulsa, apparently leading.

British War Time Thrill Habits Still Continue, Says

London, July 22.—(INS)—The British have become a thrifty people, carrying over into peace time
the habits of saving and un-wasting acquired during the war.

Despite unemployment, industrial depression, a long coal stoppage and high taxation, they are saving more money now than ever before, according to official figures made public here.

The number of small investors alone is placed at $15,000,000, with an aggregate credit of $8,500,000,
while the total savings reported from eleven official sources
reach nearly fifteen billion dollars.
During the past the number of new investors and the sums saved
have increased rapidly, it is stated, while the determination of the people to save seems to have been undiminished in the face of difficulties and discouragement.

Among the various forms of savings reported are the following:
National Savings Certificates $3, 017,400,000.
Treasury Bills (offered) $725,
000,000.
Treasury Bills (Excess) $932, 950,000.
Postoffice Savings Bank $1,427,
000,000.
Trustee Savings Bank $3,500,
000,000.
Government Bonds $943,875,000
Yorkshire Penny Bank $142,520, 000.

Co-operative Societies (Yorkshire) $80,000,000.
Glasgow P. O. Savings Bank
$110,000,000.
Edinburgh $50,000,000.
None of these amounts include any sums except those deposited by small investors, most of them wage-earners with average or small incomes.

YOUNG FOLKS NOT SO BAD SAYS COLLEGE HEAD; ELDERS MUCH WORSE

Franklin, Pa., July 24.—(INS)—"If there is anything wrong with boys and girls of today, the responsibility is not with them, but with their seniors," Dr. James Beebe, recently inaugurated president of Allegheny college, believes. "Confident that instincts and tendencies of modern youth are just as wholesome as those of any generation," Dr. Beebe, told interviewers that three months observation at Allegheny college has convinced him that.

Students are living in an impressive age. They have absorbed some of the abnormality of the World War.

They are drinking less than in former years, despite all that is said about hip flasks.

If there are any shortcomings, most of them can be traced to the elders.

U. S. MINES BUREAU MAKES WAR ON DUST

Conducting Extensive Study of the Various Types of Respirators As Safeguards

Washington, July 24.—(INS)—The United States Bureau of Mines is conducting an extensive study of the various types of respirators designed as safeguards against the presence of injurious dusts encountered in mining and many other industries at the Pittsburgh Experiment station.

Many industrial dust respirators and many fabrics and filtering materials, including cheese cloth, cotton flannel, bleached and unbleached muslin, filter paper and absorbent cotton, were tested, said an announcement issued by the department of commerce.

"The filtering efficiencies of the respirators were determined by passing air containing either tobacco smoke or suspended silica dust in minute particles through the respirators. A small stream of air that escaped from the respirators was viewed in a beam of light in a dark box.

"An equal system of the unfiltered air was viewed alongside the first stream, and the unfiltered stream was diluted with measured portions of pure air until the two streams reflected light of equal intensity."

CORINNE GRIFFITH IN "Mlle. Modiste"

The modernizing influence of the movies touches even the operetta in Corinne Griffith's latest picture, "Mlle. Modiste," which comes to White's Theatre, Monday and Tuesday.

This film version of the famous Victor Herbert musical piece shows Fif, who old-timers remember as a vivacious Parisian mannequin, saleswoman and songstress, into quite a modern Parisian-American maid.

Her styles are not those of the late nineties but up to the minute. In fact, according to E. M. Asher, general manager, which made the picture, all the costumes shown in the picture were especially designed for it.

KEMAL GIVES 3000 MEDALS TO CELEBRATE OVERTHROW OF SULTAN'S GOVERNMENT

Constantinople, July 24.—INS—The achievements of Mustapha Kemal in overthrowing the government of the Sultan and along with it most of the tradition of Turkey is to be commemorated by 3,000 gold medals.

The present Ankara government has ordered the medals in Budapest and intends to present them to followers who have distinguished themselves in the service of Kemal. The medals are to take the place of the many orders which the Sultanate Majesty presented to his subjects and those of other states who presented themselves within the Turkish border. The new medal however, is limited to 3,000 copies which will probably be exhausted in a short time as the President of the Republic has an army of about 25,000 loyal followers who have supported him since the treaty between Turkey and the Allies gave rise to common dissatisfaction among the younger Turks, led by Kemal.

The medals bear Kemal's head on one side and on the other some words lauding his leadership and recalling his military successes.

His speech was couched in a most optimistic vein. It may be summed up in the expression "Greenville can do it."

K. W. Cobb paid a splendid tribute to the late leaders of the Winterville community, Louis McLawhorn and John May. He told what these two men meant to the community. ## Daily News Letter

Gossip of Staff Correspondents at World Centers of Population.

Cleveland, O., July 24.—(INS)—Scandal has reared its head in the school of expression conducted by Madame Tucker on Cleveland's exclusive Euclid avenue.

Until now the fair name of the school, frequented by the elite of the city, has never been tarnished, but with a night-life romance going on patrons fear for the institution's fair escutcheon.

The romance is between a gray colored little mouse and a lively yellow canary.

For several days the ladies of the school had noticed the presence of a small mouse in one of the class rooms in which stands a large cage containing the canary.

One evening on entering the room, Madame Tucker saw the mouse in the cage. As she approached the little animal scuttled about the cage and then huddled under the water cup. When Madame Tucker reached the cage, the canary flew in front of the frightened mouse and attempted to shield the mouse with her outspread wings.

While Madame Tucker hurried from the room to seek aid the mouse disappeared.

The next day the canary's cage was placed on top of a brass stand when the students came into the class room they saw the mouse in the cage.

Now everyday it is a common sight for the first one entering the classroom to see the mouse in the canary's cage doing a balcan scene a la Romeo and Juliet.

Set in antique gold mountings, wrought from hand beaten gold by long dead and forgotten craftsmen, three diamonds, once the property of the Cossacks who marauded up and down the border of Tartary found American owners at a sale of confiscated smuggled goods, automobiles and jewelry at federal building here.

The diamonds, Federal authorities said, were smuggled into this country from Czechoslovakia via the International bridge at Niagara Falls by Peter Djurich.

Suspecting that Djurich had entered this country without a visa immigration authorities apprehended him, but before he managed to sell the jewels.

He confessed the smuggling act before he was sent back to his native land. According to his story the diamonds were acquired by his great grandfather from a Cossack during the Napoleonic wars and had been in the family ever since.

After much litigation the government succeeded in libelling the jewels, valued at $3,000. They were sold for $805.

Modern science through radio has now supplanted the heretofore incomplete communication through lanterns and bells between engine and train proper, according to I. F. Finley, telegraph superintendent of the New York Central railway.

It is now possible for conductor and engineer to be in conversation and constant communication with each other through a two-way radio telephone service. Tests have shown that engine and caboose can keep in conversation through radio telephony, Finley said, and the next and logical step will be the dispatching of trains entirely by radio.

Finley cites a test made on the Western division between Elkhart and Plover, Indiana, which adequately demonstrated that successful radio telephone service can be maintained. In this test a freight train consisting of eleven cars and engine and caboose started from Elkhart and for a period of more than five hours the crew of the engine and that of the caboose maintained continuous phone conversation without interference from a severe electrical storm, curves, steel bridges and passing trains.

worth while, and fears trouble when the half starved babies of half starved mothers grow up and take hold of the nation.

Opposition to new laws against the Catholic Church in Mexico is strongest, according to an Associated Press dispatch, in the wealthy upper classes and among the Indian families.

Indians, fearing that all churches may be closed, are hastening to have infants baptized and older children confirmed.

One thousand Mexican children were baptized in one week in the ancient Mexico City Cathedral.

Another dispatch tells of the establishment of a Schismatic Catholic Church in Mexico City.

Father Perez heads the 'new Catholic Church of Mexico,' which refuses to recognize the authority of the Holy See, and has for its programme 'The Mexican Church for Mexican Priests.' Father Perez conducted in Mexico City a mass to commemorate the death of Benito Juarez, who wrote the law that would confiscate church property in Mexico, separate church and state and forbid religious teachings in all schools, public or private.

Nothing is more dangerous to the peace of a nation than an attack upon the religious beliefs and fears of the majority. The world will watch with interest the progress of the Mexican government's attempt to rule the Catholic Church long so powerful in Mexico.

CABLE LETTER

London, July 24.—(AP)—The English matrimonial market, apparently is gravely perturbed this season by the invasion of Miss America.

One society diarist is authority for the assertion that the number of American girls who have captured English marriage prizes is "almost sensational." Hardly a day goes by without society columns in the newspapers announcing Anglo-American "catches" or "matches."

Madame Pavlova is advertising for good homes for five cygnets, progeny of the famous pair of swans which the Russian dancer has in the garden of her home in Hampstead.

Pavlova, like all other famous toe-dancers, has always been partial to the dance of the dying swan, and for years she has kept swans in the garden of her London home so she could study their movements.

The young swans which Pavlova is anxious to place in desirable home, will not be given for adoption until autumn and will be "carefully trained." London newspapers are speculating as to just how one trains a cygnet.

A London shop girl has gained distinction by curtsying to the king and queen at a royal court one evening and showing up for work the next morning as usual.

The young woman honored at Buckingham Palace is Miss Dorothy Knaggs, daughter of Lady Knaggs. She has been working in a large West End store.

Miss Knaggs has a bent for designing and drawing. One day last winter she stepped into a store with some of her own sketches under her arm. These were her only credentials. She displayed her work to the chief of the "help hired here" department and the next day at 8 A. M., appeared as one of the artists of the designing department. She has held her designing position ever since.

Few of the other shop girls know that Miss Knaggs, when her day's work is over, goes to a large Mayfair mansion, the front door of which is opened by a butler in knee breeches.

Paris, July 24.—(AP)—There is still a law on the French statute books although not enforced, that imposes a penalty on women who beguile men into marriage by means of rouge, powder, perfume and similar feminine aids.

"Whoever attracts into the bonds of matrimony any male subjects of his majesty by means of powder, perfume, false teeth, false hairs, steel corset, hooped petticoats, high heels or false hips, will be prosecuted for sorcery and the marriage will be declared null and void if the accused is convicted."

This law, passed by the Parliament of 1770 is still on the French statute books and could be appealed to by a present day complainant. It seems to show that the mer man of King Louis XIV's time had some protection from the wiles of the woman who resorted to artificial means to progeny of the famous pair of swans which the Russian dancer has in the garden of her home in Hampstead.

1804 left it in force, under the section dealing with "fraud in the quality of mercandises."

So great is the number of Americans in Europe this summer that virtually every home going steamer during August and September was booked to capacity by the end of June, while hundreds of travelers were fighting for a chance to get passage. As a result, hundreds of Americans who would stay weeks longer abroad if they could get home later are booking themselves for the latter part of July.

Berlin, July 24.—(AP)—The nameless cabaret, the only one of its kind in Berlin, is waxing fat during a time of depression when most night club proprietors cannot afford to pay for high class entertainers.

The nameless 'performances' are the apex of variety. There is a new show about three times a night. Though anybody with the price of a stein of beer can get in the exorbitant place is more

"high brow" than any in Greenwich village.

Anybody impelled by an inner artistic urge is privileged to climb on the stage. The unidentified performer may sing, dance, recite or play just so long as the audience condescends to stand the noise. Then he or she is howled down and somebody else monopolizes the footlights. The poet, driven to despair because publishers will not buy his poems, barmains, who think they can dance and sing are sure of a hearing—for a few minutes at least.

FLAPPERS EAT THEIR HEIGHT IN LIPSTICKS EVERY FOUR YEARS Kansas City, July 24.—(INS)

—Renewing her ruby lips twelve times a day, the little flapper eats her own height in lipstick every four years, according to the compilations of the Kansas City druggists association.

If she is four feet tall and applies the carmine paste frequently enough to retain the alluring poppy curve of her lips (not less than 12 applications a day) a two inch lipstick will be used in about two months or a foot a year. Simple mathematics results in the conclusion that every four years she will have eaten a stick of lipstick as tall as she is.

Buying Atlantic City With The Calender Flipped Back

"Wilmington," Roger Babson says, "is one of the most excellently located spots along the Atlantic coast for a year round resort.

Your city's opportunity cannot be excelled."

The New York Times said, after an exhaustive survey of the south in February:

"Along the Atlantic in the vicinity of Wilmington, North Carolina, there will be built in the near future the all year round resort center of the United States."

They come to these conclusions after a comprehensive examination into the future of the south, yet when they made the forecasts they were unaware that plans had already been made for the development of

The Ideal Year-Round Seacoast Development

The development of Shore Acres was forced by the over flow population from Wrightsville Beach, premier year-round resort of the Atlantic Coast, yet before any lot was offered for sale minute examination was made into every factor bearing upon orderly development, certainly of growth and steady increase of value. A Seashore City Beautiful plan was drafted by Prof. Arthur Cowell, famous head of the school of Landscape Architecture, Pennsylvania State College, and wide boulevards, winding streets, parks, plazas, fitted into a comprehensive landscaping plan, will give the finished city of Shore Acres an attraction unequalled in ordinary sea shore development.

Adequate restrictions insure the profit future of this property, although no limits have been set upon individual choice, no buildings will be permitted of a type which would lower the value of adjoining property.

Residents of Shore Acres may enter their cars at their own doorsteps and be upon a hard surfaced street leading to the boulevard causeway which Governor McLean recently dedicated as the final link in the State's Mountains to the Sea Highway system.

NOW IS THE TIME

Shore Acres offers the most beautiful available site for the erection of an all year round home. It is the first unit of a contemplated five year program—a self contained city with its own segregated business district destined to become the South's Atlantic City.

BE OUR GUEST ON AN INSPECTION TOUR

We want you on the grounds to see the enormous possibilities of Shore Acres. Careful attention to every detail has marked every step in this development and every factor making for stability, profit value, and certain growth was considered carefully before a single lot was offered for sale.

Only on the ground can you understand fully why virtually every stockholder and director of Shore Acres Company has bought a home site here for himself.

A sort comfortable ride in one of our de luxe buses, a dip in the surf, a look around, and you will see why Babson and the New York Times picked this as the ideal location in the United States for a year round resort.

Get in touch with one of our representatives immediately, or telephone at our expense your reservation for the trip.
