JURY GETS BIGAMY CASE 4 P. M. TODAY

BUSINESS OUTLOOK FOR COMING SEASON VERY PROMISING ONE

Opening of Tobacco Market Next Tuesday Looked Forward to As Beginning of Greater Era of Prosperity

Unless present indications fail, Greenville and Pitt county stands on the threshold of one of the most prosperous seasons in the history of the city and county, and the spirit of optimism prevails throughout every section of this immediate part of the state. The gloom which predominated during the early part of the present year was dispelled with the coming of the spring, which ushered in one of the most ideal agricultural seasons this county has experienced for many years. As the months passed on, and the masses became infected with this spirit of optimism, every business enterprise of any consequence took on new life, and the usual slump which is so pronounced in this section for the first few months of each year, failed to get the upper hand of business conditions, and practically every business enjoyed an unusually good season. These improved business conditions could be attributed to various things that have contributed bountifully in bringing about this change. For instance, building activities which really had its beginning during the latter half of 1925, have continued and even now there appears no curtailment of these operations. This has brought work for the mechanic as well as the ordinary laborer, and it is these people that have supplied much of the improved conditions experienced by the business interests.

Possibly the principal factor responsible for the presence of optimism with the general public is the exceptionally good crops that have been and are being harvested now, and there are yet other crops to be gathered that will equal in its yield any of those already stored in their respective places ready for market. There is scarcely a crop to which the local soils are adapted which have been sold but what the growers have realized good profits. This has placed in the hands of the farmers more "ready cash" for the necessities of life and to aid the grower in harvesting of later crops.

Confidence of the general business interest in the future of Greenville and the immediate vicinity has brought about many important changes for the further advancement of the city's progress. The tobacco industry in every department of its activities as a tobacco market has experienced numerous improvements looking to what they believe the greatest year yet in the volume of business. In this particular branch of the city's business interest the capacity of floor space for the sale of the "golden weed" has increased twenty-five per cent, and some of the factories of the large buyers have practically doubled their capacity for the handling of their purchases. During the year many of the local businesses have enlarged their places, and added many improvements making ready for steady growth this section is enjoying. Then, too, there have been added several new enterprises by both local and foreign capital, which is proof that the "eyes of the world" is focused on Eastern Carolina, and there is possibly no section of that area receiving more consideration on the part of the outsider than the county of Pitt, and its capital, "Our Greenville, Yours If You Come."

DR. C. L. OUTLAND RESIGNS COUNTY HEALTH OFFICE

Tenders Resignation Effective October 1; Will Accept Work With City of Richmond

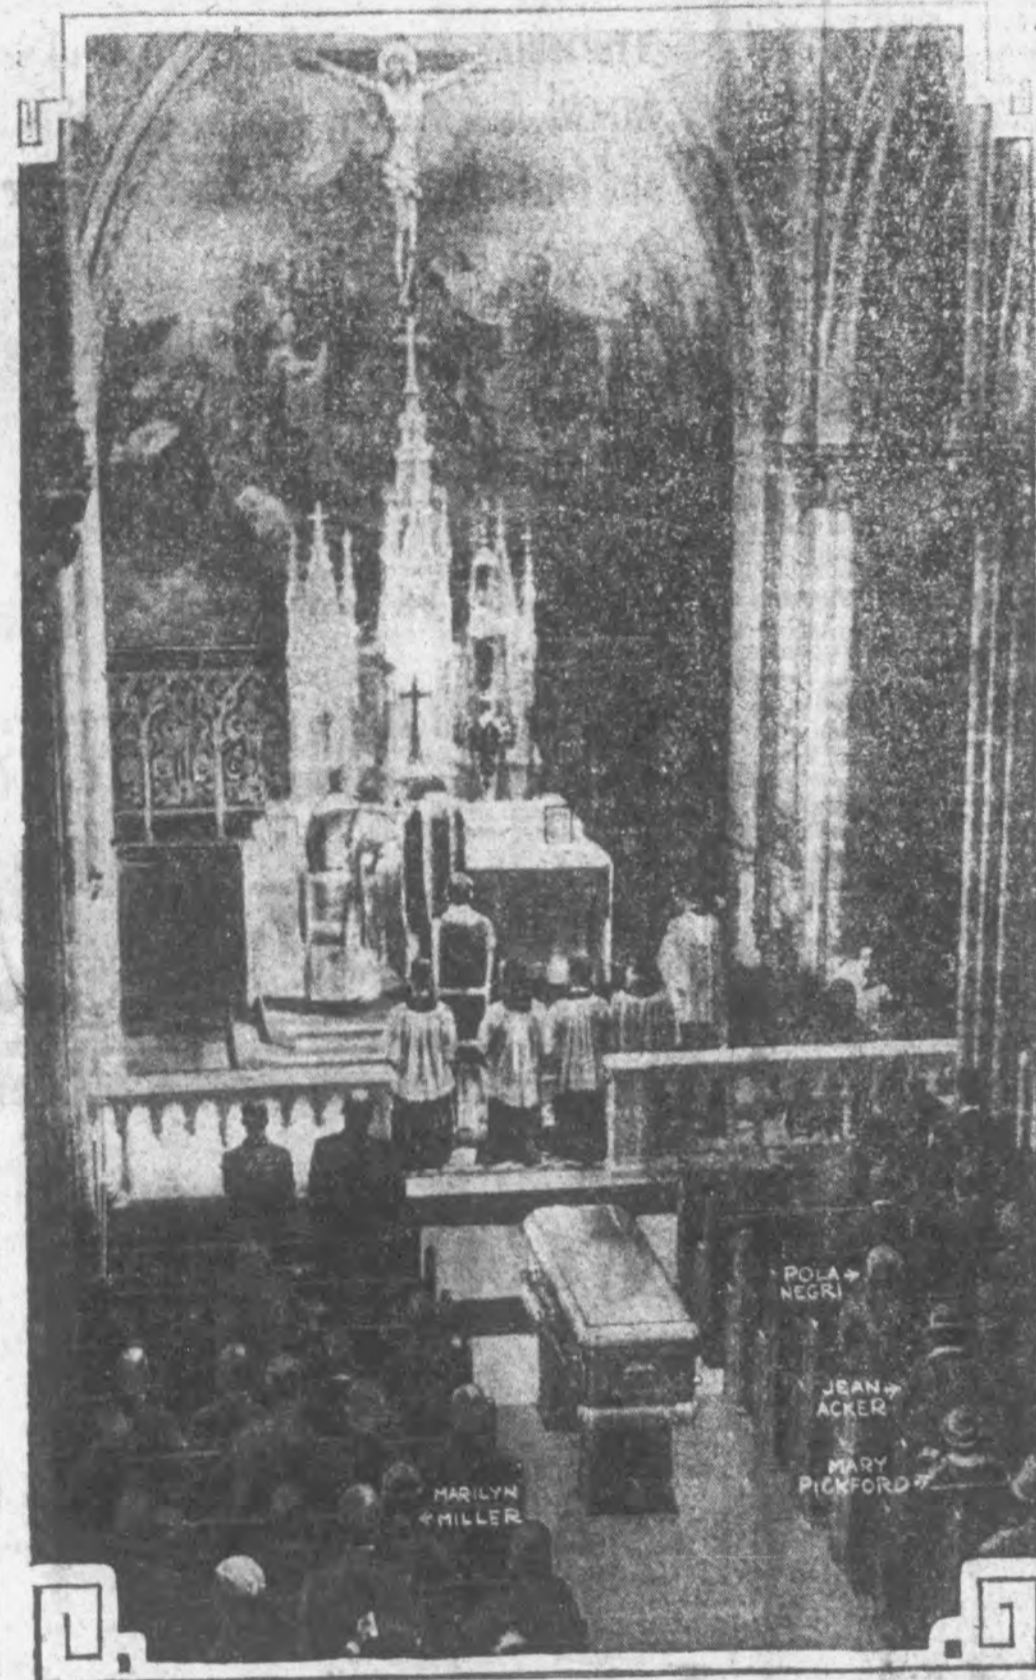

Dr. C. L. Outland, who for over three years, has served Pitt county as its Health Officer, has tendered his resignation to the county medical board, effective October 1. Dr. Outland having accepted a similar work in the city of Richmond, Va. Since the county executives instituted several years ago the health department, which was the first established by any county of the state, much has been accomplished by the various men who have served in the capacity as Health Officer, but during the three years that Dr. Outland has headed this department more has been accomplished in the improvement of health conditions than for any like period prior to his taking up the local work. The medical profession of every city, town and hamlet of the county cooperated splendidly with Dr. Outland and his co-workers to the end that Pitt county might claim the distinction of being one of the healthiest spots in the entire state, and these cooperative efforts have not been in vain. Dr. Outland has always manifested much interest in every movement for the further advancement of Greenville and Pitt county, and especially when such was pertaining to the improvement along lines of health. During his stay here he has endeared himself to the hearts of the people in business, professional and social circles, and much regret has already been expressed because of his going.

Just who will succeed Dr. Outland has not yet been determined but the County Board of Health is expected to announce his successor within a few days.

Costs $1,000,000 to Guard Liquor

Raleigh, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Marshall R. W. Ward estimated here today that it is going to cost the U. S. government around $1,000 to guard the cargo of the rum ship Elma, pending disposition by the Federal Court this fall. Two guards are now on duty, Marshall Ward said, and are costing about $20 a day. They are expected to be retained until October 4, the return date of the seizure warrant. Only one guard was stationed over the rum before Marshall Ward took charge last week, but then he decided to keep a watch over it both night and day and put on two men. The cargo and vessel are said to be valued at about $500,000. The seizure was made off the North Carolina coast last May. are attracting shoppers here from nearly thirty counties. The web of hard surfaced highways have made Greenville within reach of the people of every section of the eastern part of the state, and the personnel of the merchants who operate the leading stores, together with the high class of merchandise they carry has made Greenville one of the principal shopping centers of this part of the state.

TWO HUNDRED POISONED BY SPOILED MEAT

Epidemic of Ptomaine Poisoning Follows Annual Church Picnic; Two May Die

Peoria, Ill., Sept. 2.—(AP)—A half dozen of the cases were so serious as to prohibit the removal of patients from their homes to hospitals and physicians despaired of the lives of two girls. Two clergymen were among the sufferers whom doctors were called to attend several hours after church leaders and young people concluded yesterday afternoon's outing with a banquet spread beneath the trees. Physicians who attended the victims agreed that the poisoning was the result of tainted veal loaf which had been prepared in advance for the picnic. Within a few hours after the number of seriously ill had mounted to 75 of home remedies.

TODAY COUNSEL ARGUMENT IN MITCHELL TRIAL HAS BEEN COMPLETED

Money was more plentiful yesterday, railroad and oil stocks went up, and with summer vanishing, that summer slump does not appear. Nothing could be more nourishing or comforting than buying the right kind of stock at the right time and price, but never gamble.

Consider for instance Standard Oil of California. If you had bought a thousand shares of that stock in 1912 and had exercised your various rights since then, your total investment would now be $347,000, and you would own now, in place of your 1,000 shares, 35,640 shares, worth at yesterday's price about $2,225,000, bringing you in $1,878,000 annually, more than twenty per cent on your original investment. And you would have received this far in dividends $620,445, and would own 35,640 shares of Standard Oil of California that would have cost you just $25,445, less than nothing.

They say Standard Oil is slow in paying dividends, but all things considered, it isn't so VERY slow. Only a little while ago the government was savagely clipping up Standard Oil because it was getting too big. Each little piece is worth more today than the Mamma Octopus was worth when the government chopped it up.

It is announced, in type of suitable size, that Miss Pinchot who played in "The Miracle" is now working on a fruit ranch, under an assumed name. She wishes to make good. Having parents rich and well known is a bad thing for children. It makes them concentrate too much on themselves and their own importance. They are so anxious to BE SOMETHING that they often fail to concentrate on DOING SOMETHING, shift from one thing to another and, in the end, do nothing. It is to be hoped that Miss Pinchot, and earnest young women, will succeed in spite of WEALTH. Almost anybody can succeed in spite of poverty.

A great French swimmer says women are better swimmers than men because they are more supple. Perhaps they inherit swimming ability from very remote ancestors. Our great great grandmothers, of the Stone Age, probably had to swim from their husbands often, or from other men that had captured them.

In the Pacific Islands, anything in the shape of a canoe or boat floating log is put under a most violent religious taboo for women. Foolish females have been persuaded that to touch a boat would be fatal. That idea was invented to keep them from getting away to another island. The conquerors of China squeezed the women's feet to prevent their running away. Soon Chinese ladies liked it, as a sign of refinement. Turks locked their women in harems, and the women thought they liked that.

Vierkötter, who swam the British channel, beating all records for time, was financed, it seems, by the former crown prince. Recently the crown prince's father had different and more extensive plans for a British invasion. The Hohenzollern methods of the last two or three centuries were carefully observed, however, and the Hohenzollern of today (Continued on page 5)

AMERICA SHOULD ENTER LEAGUE ON EQUAL FOOTING

League Members Believe United States Should Be Accorded No Special Privileges

Geneva, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The opinion that the United States should have the same right in the League of Nations Council, but no more, was voiced by many delegates at today's session of the International Conference convoked to discuss the American reservation to membership in the League. It is impossible to accept the American reservation requiring the consent of the United States to request for advisory opinion from the Court on questions in which she claims interest. The reason for this is that the laws of the League of Nations is so obscure that it is uncertain as to whether unanimous or majority vote is necessary when the League Council asks the Court for such opinion.

M. Framagot, the French jurist thought the fate of the fifth reservation hinged entirely upon the answer to the question whether the council should request advisory opinions by unanimous or majority vote. This was a question on which opinion differed but it must be answered definitely before action could be taken on the reservations.

M. Framagot emphasized that if a majority vote was sufficient any possible American objection could be passed over and the opinion of the Court could be asked despite American opposition. He warned the conference that this would jeopardize the American reservation because it would render it inoperative.

SPAIN WILL QUIT LEAGUE NATIONS

Correspondent Says Country Will Not Wait for Decision on Permanent Seat

Paris, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The pundits say Spain will withdraw from the League of Nations without awaiting the decision of the council regarding her demand for a permanent council seat. Official notification effect, he adds, will be given the League within 24 hours.

Merton to Testify Against Daugherty

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Howard Merton, German metal magnate, has arrived in New York to testify against former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty and former alien property custodian, T. M. Miller, charged with a $391,000 bribe to release $7,000,000 of seized metal stocks to merchants, the New York World says today.

Jury Will Receive Case Against Greensboro Man This Afternoon; Wingate Case Next to Be Heard

When court reconvened at two o'clock today, indications were that the bigamy case against James M. Mitchell, of Greensboro, would reach the jury during the latter part of the afternoon. Defense counsel's argument was completed by L. W. Gaylord just prior to the noon recess and former Judge Albion Dunn, last speaker for the prosecution, began his argument as soon as the afternoon session began. Following the close of the argument will come Judge N. A. Sinc's charge to the jury, which will no doubt be concluded and the case given to the jury around four o'clock. The case against Mitchell was the outgrowth of his marriage here on May 10 to Miss Ward, of Greensboro, which was reported that he already had a wife and three children living in Greensboro. The trial, which began on Tuesday afternoon, has attracted much interest among the people of this city, and the court room has been crowded to capacity at every session.

Mayor D. M. Clark, of this city, notified by District Solicitor, who has been in charge of the docket here since yesterday, announced at noon that just as soon as the Mitchell case went to the jury, hearing of the jail cases would be immediately. Among these cases is the case against Jesse A. Wingate, of this city, charged with arson, and it is expected that this will be among the first cases heard. The time consumed by the Mitchell case has delayed the calendar and it is probable that many cases will have to be continued.

BELIEVE POLICE HAVE ROUNDED GANG OF YEGGS

The Charlotte Police Think Parties Arrested Are Part of Country Wide Gang

Charlotte, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Police today revealed what they believed to be the round up of a country wide gang of yeggs with arrests having been made here and at Raleigh of alleged members of the gang. Three of those under arrest are charged with the robbery of the department store of J. B. Ivey and Company here some time ago, at which time $8,000 worth of loot was secured. A thorough post-mortem, inspector, and police have been tracing the gang for several months along the seaboard, first word of the round up came this morning when E. J. McCarthy, of Charlotte, was bound over to Mecklenburg Superior court on charges of second degree robbery. Two of the accused men are now in jail at Raleigh, both of them charged by the postal authorities with being directly responsible for the Ivey robbery. European statesmen claim that they do not understand exactly what the United States stands for. Well, at least they ought to know what it does not stand for.

Governor Behind Promotion of Dairy Industry in State

Raleigh, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The movement toward promotion of the dairying industry in North Carolina is being looked upon with such gratification by Governor McLean that he is losing no opportunity to help it along. Extensive dairying development has long been a hobby of the governor, and his recent visit to the rich dairying districts of Wisconsin apparently accentuated it.

So widespread has grown the interest in establishing the industry in the state that nearly one-third of the recent requests for speeches by the governor have by organizations interested in furthering its development, the governor stated.

Comparing the natural resources of North Carolina and Wisconsin in their relation to the dairying industry, the governor made out a most favorable case for the Tar Heel state, but was highly complimentary to the middle-western progress in the face of less favorable natural conditions.

He was especially impressed with the quality of cheeses turned by the Wisconsin dairies, stating that in some instances the product was even better than the imported Swiss varieties.

One great advantage that North Carolina has over Wisconsin, the governor pointed out, is its mild winters, which permit long outdoor grazing seasons and do not require weather proof and artificially heated barns.

He expressed the opinion that North Carolina can eventually develop a dairy industry that can compare with the highly specialized industry of the middle west.

Governor's Son Recovering From Recent Operation

Raleigh, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Young Hector McLean, son of the Governor of North Carolina, is reported recovering rapidly from an operation for tonsils and adenoids in a Baltimore hospital, but he has a materially altered opinion of operations.

"He looked forward to going to the hospital with great interest," the governor said here today, "but after the operation he was not so enthusiastic. The spunky young fellow is still in Baltimore, with Mrs. McLean, but the governor said that he expected the muck in a short time. He was operated on last week, the governor stopping over in Baltimore on his return from his vacation in Wisconsin.

"The operation was entirely successful," the governor stated, "but we aren't taking any chances by bringing him home too early."

Trouble Hounds Dempsey's Career

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey has absorbed more wallops outside the ring than he has received in actual combat since he became world's heavyweight champion.

The Manassa Mauler has been an upstanding man in the ring since he won the title. Only once when Luis Angel Firpo bowled him from the rope square at the Polo Grounds in that memorable fight of 1923, has he been off his feet. But John Law and the public at large has had him frequently on his back, gasping for breath and listening to the count.

He has been accused of everything from being a slacker to an alienator of affections of other men's wives. True, he has never been counted out in these hectic actions, but they have kept him busier and unhappier than any of his ring squabbles. He has earned more than a million dollars in the ring but his enemies, through law suits, have sought ten times that much from him.

Dempsey has often remarked that it's hot while a moneyed one, has been anything but happy. The owner of the streets, once remarked the champion, had less worry and more enjoyment from his meagre earnings than the heavyweight champion with all his gold.

Every time Dempsey earns a dollar from body claims an interest in it. Every time Dempsey's net dog grows over a choice bone, some grasping parent sees the champion for $10,000 claiming the dog bit his child. Every time Dempsey signs to fight, 17 men claim to be his manager and 17 fighters claim they should have been selected as his opponent instead of the fellow who was. Another 17 claim they should have promoted the fight.

Dempsey has never run from a ring toman, but he has had to emulate Charley Paddock on many an occasion to evade a process server, than whom there is no heavier puncher, in the opinion of the champion.

Jack Kearns, manager of the champion, until last August 3, although they split some time ago, received fifty per cent. of the titleholders' earnings in the ring. Although Dempsey and Kearns have parted company, the former manager declares he will go to court to get half of what the champion earns in the fight with Tunney. Then, in Chicago one B. C. Clements, a promoter, claims to hold a contract with Dempsey's signature to fight Harry Wills. He also threatens suit, while Paddy Mullins, manager of Wills, vows he will sue the champion for not meeting Wills instead of Tunney.

Besides all this the champion has caused another squabble. Two eminent specialists both have laid claim to being the modeler of the new nose, or rather the reconditioned nose that Dempsey now wears.

Supreme Court Acts As States' Arbiter, Report

Washington, Sept. 2.—(AP)—The dual form of the American government, with the nation and the state sovereign under the constitution in their own spheres, is causing much of the litigation reaching the Supreme Court.

TAO T GO Siting as the final arbiter in the disputes between the sovereigns, and interpreting their laws the tribunal, presiding over the destinies of 48 independent states and the union, has been called the original world court of a league of states.

Many of the controversies the justices are called upon to settle are of intense gravity, and would be the cause of war between independent nations.

In addition to the original cases brought by the state's at this time mostly boundary disputes, the Supreme Court now has upon its docket a large number of attacks upon the constitutionality of state laws. The more important of those challenging the validity of state laws on general subjects are:

Criminal syndicalism laws, in cases from California, Kansas and Michigan; State daylight savings laws, in a case from Massachusetts; regulation of foreign language schools by Hawaii; zoning laws from Euclid, Ohio and Terrace

Park, Ohio; regulation of minimum wages in a case from Arkansas; right of states to regulate the equipment of railroad locomotives used in interstate commerce, in cases from Georgia and Wisconsin; whether the Interstate Commerce Commission can regulate a railroad owned by California; the right of Texas to require railroads to maintain division headquarters at designated places, and many other cases are before the Supreme Court.

Say Al Smith Has Last Minute Trick

Albany, Sept. 2.—(INS)—Despite the fact that virtually every Democratic leader in the state is convinced in his own mind that Governor Al Smith will be renominated at the stated convention which meets at Syracuse the latter part of the month, a report has reached the Capitol that the Governor has a trump up his sleeve with which he hopes to beat renomination.

The latest political yarn at the Capitol is that at the last minute before the convention the Governor will attempt to have Supreme Court Justice Robert Wagner of New York, nominated for Governor.

For some weeks past there has been plenty of political talk that Justice Wagner was being groomed for the nomination for United States Senate to oppose Senator Jim Wadsworth, the G. O. P. war horse.

It can be said, however, that the Democratic leaders are not putting any stock in the report that at the last minute the Governor might attempt to put Justice Wagner across for the gubernatorial nomination. They think the Governor has just about made up his mind that he might as well rub salt to the wish of the leaders of his party and make the fight for the fifth time.

KINSTON MINISTER STILL UNDER BOND DECLARES WARING

Announcement By Waring Furnishes New Angle On Recent Vickers Shooting

Raleigh, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Announcement from Coroner L. M. Waring that he had never released Rev. George Wood, Deputy Sheriff of Lenoir county, but was still holding him under a $3,000 bond on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, furnished another angle to the Vickers shooting case here today.

This announcement followed on the heels of the action last night of Solicitor W. F. Evans, in swearing out another warrant for the re-arrest of Deputy Wood.

Wood was in Raleigh Thursday having returned from a brief visit to Kinston. He came back, according to Coroner Waring, to furnish additional bond if the Coroner desired to raise the amount of bail. In the meantime the new warrant was either in Kinston or on its way there.

"I never released Wood, but merely reduced his bond from $5,000 to $3,000," said Coroner Waring.

New French Book Urges Women to Doll Selves Up

Paris, Sept. 2.—(INS)—"Doll up" urges Madame Lucie Delarue Mardrus, well known French writer, in her latest book entitled "Embellissez-vous" which gives all women first hand advice on making themselves as beautiful as possible.

The book is a strong argument for 'make up' of every kind which, as the writer reminds one, is Babylonian, Egyptian, Hellenic and of every other age. Under the reign of Louis XV little children ten years old, had rouge on their cheeks. A few old members of the aristocracy, she goes on to say, who are sometimes severe with young powder-dand rouged girls of today, forget that they used to wear false front as well as false hips.

"God gave us our faces to make them beautiful," says Madame Delarue Mardrus. "A face without make up (unless it is only fifteen years old) is not finished. How many times when in the county, I have painted in imagination the lips of women, powdered their cheeks and blackened their eye brows. They need so little to be beautiful, but this little is very necessary."

The author has written a separate chapter on the complexion the eyebrows, the teeth, etc., offering practical advice in order to make every fair reader fairer. Madame Delarue Mardrus who was celebrated for her luxuriant braids of hair wound about in artistic fashion, has succumbed to the fashionable cut, but does not advise every woman to do likewise. There are heads, she believes, who look better with the long hair Nature supplied them with.

Young Aycock Seeks to Change His Name

Raleigh, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Brantley Aycock, youngest son of former Governor Charles Brantley Aycock, has filed notice with the clerk of Wake County Superior Court that he will request change of his name to that of his noted father, who died August 12, 1912 in Birmingham, Alabama, while delivering a speech on education. The notice was filed by Mrs. Aycock, as guardian for her son, who is still a minor. The eldest son in the Aycock family, christened Charles Brantley, after his father, died in 1901. It was said that the entire concurred in desiring that the name of the State's great educational governor be carried on.

In addition to young Brantley, there are seven living children in the Aycock family, several of whom are living here.

Stinnes' Daughter Wins Auto Race

Berlin, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Christine Stinnes, 29 year old daughter of the late Hugo Stinnes, is turning her energies to sports now that she has been deprived of a business career by the collapse of the fortune of the Stinnes family.

Driving her own sport racer, Christine Stinnes recently won the South-German reliability automobile tour of 300 miles against 59 men and women competitors. She is the foremost woman automobile driver in Germany.

The story is told of how her father entrusted her at an early age with a share of the management of his industries. Sent to South America to reorganize a branch office, she amazed her father by firing a half-dozen executives. She directed the South American branch until new executives arrived from home. Like her three brothers and a younger sister, her middle name is Hugo.

Radio Helps Build Oregon Railroad

San Francisco, Sept. 2.—(INS)—How radio sets, together with steam shovels and dynamite, help get put through on time one of the largest railroad construction jobs of the last ten years, completion of which is now being celebrated throughout Oregon, was told here by George W. Boschke, chief engineer for the Southern Pacific railroad.

During the past three years more than 70 radio sets were in constant use in isolated construction camps in the Cascade Mountains along the route of the new $39,000,000 main line built to shorten the distance between San Francisco and Portland, and to open many thousands of acres of valuable timber and farm lands to development and settlement.

"Throughout the summer and fall of 1924," the engineer said, "an average of 3,000 men lived and worked in the depths of the wilderness penetrated by the new line and radio was one of the principal sources of entertainment. In some camps brought date floors were built and the men danced nightly to music of orchestras playing anywhere from San Francisco to New York.

"Radio brought the remote camp into contact with the news of the day. Noted preachers, famous musicians, teachers, prize fights, bedtime stories and jazz bands nightly provided entertainment and instruction for engineers and laborers miles distant from the nearest village as work on the new Cascade line was rushed to completion."

SEN. TOM TAGGART THREATENS TO SUE BOOK PUBLISHER

Democratic Leader of Indiana May Seek $100,000 Damages From Doubleday Pair Co.

New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Tom Taggart, Democratic leader of Indiana, has threatened a $100,000 libel suit against Doubleday Page and Company, publishers of Edna Ferber's novel "Showboat," unless three paragraphs referring to himself and gambling are deleted from the book, the New York World says today.

More than 135,000 copies of this novel have been sold already. The former United States Senator and owner of French Lick Springs has demanded, says the World, that three paragraphs mentioning Tom Taggart, West Baden and Roulette be removed from all unsold copies in the hand of book dealers and from future editions.

The offending matter was printed in the August number of the "Woman's Home Companion," the World said, but there is no mention of a suit against the Crowell Publishing Company, the magazine publisher.

"It has been proved time and again," the World quotes Van Nuys, attorney for Mr. Taggart, as saying that Mr. Taggart and the French Lick Company, have not a penny's interest in gambling either at West Baden or French Lick. There has been litigation on this point in which the charter of the French Lick Co., was attacked on such grounds. Mr. Taggart and the company have been acquitted in all these cases and we regard this unexplained reference in Miss Ferber's novel as damaging. Unless Doubleday Page and Company comply with our request immediately, we will bring suit for $100,000."

Hale Anniversary Honored by Conn.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 1.—(INS)—Nathan Hale, hero-martyr of the Revolutionary War, went to his death in an apple orchard at what is now Third Avenue and Fifty-ninth street, Manhattan in mid-September, 1776. Connecticut, which always considers Nathan Hale her first citizen, will celebrate his death during the week of September 19 to 25 with a series of exercises, exhibits and other public meetings.

While the state will hold a formal ceremony of memorial at the Nathan Hale birthplace in the little town of Coventry, forty miles due east of the capital at Hartford, with Governor John H. Trumbull and the entire state official force present, several other towns will also have their observances in more or less elaborate form.

Other places besides Coventry connected with the "name and fame of Hale" are New Haven where he was educated, East Hadam and New London where he taught school, and South Norwalk his point of departure for the trip to Long Island as a spy that led to his death on September 22, 1776.

George Dudley Seymour, citizen of New Haven, is credited with the modern revival of homage to the name of Nathan Hale. Mr. Seymour purchased the Hale homestead at Coventry and is preserving it as a memorial.

One of the features of the Hale observance will be a huge exhibit at Yale where today stands the building in which Hale roomed as an undergraduate—with his own room still intact. Here Mr. Seymour will gather his own huge Hale collection and unite with the one owned by Hale. The state historical society and Mr. Seymour will have an exhibit in Hartford, also, the Historic Wadsworth Athenaeum being the exhibit place.

BOOTLEGGERS ON MISSOURI RIVER TO FACE DRY DRIVE

Sioux City, Iowa, Sept. 2.—(INS)—Islands in the Missouri River, where it runs between the states of Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota, heretofore considered the sacred and private property of moonshiners, are soon to be the object of a concerted drive by government prohibition agents.

Glenn A. Brunson, prohibition administrator of Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota, with headquarters here, plans a river fleet of motor and speed boats, with which to clean out island bootleggers. At the present time his river going fleet comprises only one boat—the Hootchie Catcher—but even with it he has had moderate success in his efforts against peddlers of illicit hooch. The river, according to federal agents, is dotted with islands on which stills are operated. The tall grass and underbrush hides the outfits, they say, and as some of the islands are several miles in area the bootleggers work in comparative safety. They distill their liquor there and then transport it to cities and town in motor boats. Supplies are transported to the island, in the same way. As the islands are government property and not that of the states, the men have little to fear from state authorities.

SAYS HAWAII CENTER OF PACIFIC GOODWILL

Honolulu, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Hawaii is the seat of a great movement destined to create a new area of international friendship and goodwill in the Pacific. In the opinion of Kazuo Kuwahima, new Japanese consul-general here.

The people of the Pacific, said Consul Kuwahima at a luncheon given in his honor, must be given a knowledge of the character, the life and the surroundings of other peoples in other lands. There must be respect, not prejudice; friendship, and not enmity.

International friendship cannot be obtained without international knowledge, and international knowledge largely depends upon international education and cooperation, he added.

JAPANESE OUTCASTS FIGHT FOR EQUALITY

Tokyo, Sept. 2.—(AP)—In Japan there is a class known as "sub-belshu" which has been social outcasts since the beginning of the country. It is composed of butchers, cobblers, undertakers, and crematorium employees. At present there are more than 2,000,000 of these outcasts in the Empire.

For some time they have been demanding emancipation from their lowly place and prominent Japanese have been enlisted in their cause. An organization known as "The Society for Research on the Problem of Harmonization" has been formed by leading Diet members for the purpose of bringing about social freedom for the outcasts.

ECONOMIC SIGNIFICANCE AND SERVICE OF THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER AND NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING—From latest volume in Manhattan Library of Popular Economics, republished in serial form through courtesy of Bank of the Manhattan Company, New York.

A UNIFYING FORCE

THE history of the last three hundred years is not just a tale of more population or more territory. Rather it is a story of hundreds and thousands of new wants, new hopes, new experiences among the people of the earth, especially of the American people. The average man does live a few years longer than his ancestor of the sixteen hundreds; if his life be measured by the manifold variety of his new experiences, by the multiplication of his new relationships, he lives literally hundreds of years more than people did then.

In this evolution of mankind America especially offers a fascinating study; complex, intertwined, many-sided, even confused; its more than one hundred million human units possessed with big and little interests that dart in every direction athwart those of their neighbors, now waxing now waning, each proud of his personal independence, freedom to choose, to make his own way, to get ahead. To a visitor from Massachusetts like this, if he saw as all only as individuals, could mean only conflict, contradiction, disorganization, eventual destruction.

Kaleidoscopic as it appears to be, our civilization is a stable civilization, nevertheless. How can stability exist amid so much diversity? Certainly it is secured by no natural law; it is not even compelled by a superior force, since ours is a government which promotes stability largely because everybody may share in it. It could be destroyed if any large part of the American people were to become deliberately perverse.

For example, if all the farmers refused to cultivate, the carriers to transport, the workers to produce, the salesmen to sell, or the investors to lend, progress would stop. No one worries about such a possibility any more than he questions whether the sun will rise on the morrow. Why? Because we Americans have faith in our social organization, in our government, most of all, in ourselves. We know we shall cooperate to keep things going, and if here and there a disturbance occurs, we draw the more closely together. It is the American way.

This faith is not an accident; it comes of a long line of causes. Ordinarily, a population like ours, extending over a great continent, would have difficulty in holding together as it does. But in the beginning, we had certain traditions of government. We have had a common language. As territory expanded we have developed railroads and telegraphs, telephones, radios and even airplanes for closer communication; we have utilized waterways; we have established a great system of common schools. Yet not all of these would have sufficed. One thing more was needed to ensure social and economic unity, and that too, we have developed—the American newspaper.

In this larger sense the newspaper constitutes the new social system. The newspaper contributes to a nation that emancipates each individual from the limitations of a narrow, selfish, and shortsighted life. This common sharing of hopes, fears and ambitions makes us kin. It is not the same way, but that is the things to think about. It is of some recent discoveries in the field of wireless communication.

The defendant, Lee Johnson, will of the Clerk of Superior Court of take notice that an action entitled said County, in the Court House above has been commenced in at Greenville, N. C., on the 23rd day of August, 1926, and answer the Superior Court of Pitt County, North Carolina, to grant an abscon or demurr to the complaint in said divorce, on the grounds stated in the complaint, and said defendant will take further notice that he is required to appear at the office of the plaintiff.

PINCHOT'S NAME ON PA. BALLOT CAUSES UNREST

Governor's Attitude Still a Puzzle to Old Line Republican Leaders; His Nomination on Labor Ticket Seen as Danger to Vire Candidacy

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 2.—(INS)—Gifford Pinchot, who, as governor of Pennsylvania, has been noted for the emphatic manner in which he has made known his stand on most public questions, remains an unknown quantity in the coming November election.

Although he ran a poor third in the May primaries in which William S. Vare, of Philadelphia, was given the Republican nomination United States senate, Pinchot, by virtue of 521 votes, received the senatorial nomination on the Labor ticket and therefore is entitled to a place on the November ballot.

The Labor party in the recent primary was only a gesture of a few disgruntled men, lacking entirely the leadership which at one time made the party a force to be reckoned with.

Nevertheless, the nomination for Governor Pinchot is a peg on which many predictions can be hung and the governor has repeatedly refused to say what his intentions are regarding it.

The state election laws require that a candidate who does not want his name to appear on the ballot must file notice of his intentions on or before September 13 previous to the election. Not until then is any public pronouncement looked for from Pinchot, and, meanwhile, there is a great deal of uneasiness in the ranks of both the Republican and Democratic parties as to what may be his course.

Regardless of the huge vote which Vare, in the face of two opponents—Pinchot and Sen. George Wharton Pepper—piled up at the primary it was generally expected that Pinchot will be an independent candidate, basing his campaign on the dry issue and his gubernatorial record. The course, it was believed, would enable him to get the support of many Pepper supporters and give him a fighting chance against the Philadelphia leader.

Recently, however, even the governor's closest political friends have declared there is little chance of him being a candidate, but admit that they are uncertain just what he will do.

The governor, never having been known to give aid and comfort to the enemy, apparently is enjoying the uncertainty with which his probable course is viewed.

It is generally conceded that Pinchot will do nothing whatever to aid Vare's candidacy, but what he may do to hurt it is the big problem confronting the old line Republican leaders.

Democratic newspapers and leaders have been hopeful of getting Pinchot into the race in support of William B. Wilson, the Democratic nominee. Because the governor has announced his intention to remain in public life in some capacity after his governorship ends next January, it is not expected that he will desert the Republican banner under which he won his nomination and election four years ago.

One of Pinchot's favorite phrases in politics is—not merely there, but fighting. Just where "there" will be and for whom he will be fighting constitutes an enigma which even September 13 may not definitely solve.

First Oil Well 'Gushed' 67 Years Ago, Says Report

Titusville, Pa., Sept. 1.—(AP)—Sixty-seven years ago today the first artesian oil well in the world was brought in between here and Oil City, by the late Col. E. L. Drake.

Although negligible quantities of oil had been found in various parts of the world prior to the time Drake struck petroleum at a depth of 69 1/2 feet, his achievement marked the birth of the gigantic industry and its subsequent products.

Before Drake's discovery, petroleum was obtained by skimming from the surface of pools of water after it had seeped through the earth. The oil secured was used, principally for medicinal purposes and the Indians utilized it in mixing war paint.

Derrick structures up like mushroom about his well soon after his experiment proved successful. New producing territory was opened in other areas later and today wells may be found in virtually every quarter of the globe. Original fields in this territory still are producing oil, but only in small quantities.

Drake was not widely known. However, the late Henry H. Rodgers of the Standard Oil Company, did much to perpetuate the first producer's memory by erecting a $100,000 monument in the cemetery here where Drake's body is interred. The Drake Memorial Association was formed in 1913 with a membership of many prominent oil men in the United States to preserve the Colonel's memory.

Drake died a poor man, living on a pension granted by the state of Pennsylvania, and without realizing the importance of his discovery.

STRANGE STALACTITES ARE FOUND IN FRENCH GROTTOS

Paris, Sept. 2.—(INS)—Something extraordinary in stalactites have just been discovered in the Grotto de Grand Roc at Laugerie Basse. In form and delicacy they surpass anything yet found.

They are in the shape of crosses, dragon flies, root forms, bouquets of coral, flutes and horns. One is exactly like a great salamander and another the reproduction of a large elephant's foot. The foundations are completely crystalline and transparent like glass with a little of the color of honey in them. There are hundreds, all assembled together, amalgamated by a kind of bridge or other complicated appendages.

Such formations have been seen in Belgium and Moravia but never in such profusion and exuberance of forms as in this grotto which was only recently discovered by pure chance. Monsieur Le Bel, a celebrated chemist, noticed with his collaborator the present of innumerable small springs, at the base of the great cliffs. In the spring of 1924 they succeeded in penetrating into the labyrinth and there found the amazing formation.

Daily News Letter

Gossip of Staff Correspondents at World Centers of Population.

London, Sept. 2.—(INS) — A shoeprint: A broken coat button: Two left-hand gloves.

These are the only clues to a sensational London murder mystery, the solution of which is baffling the best brains of Scotland Yard, and which promises eventually to rank among the famous unsolved crimes of this country.

On the night of July 28, Edward A. Creed, manager of a provision and delicatessen store in Leinster Gardens, in the quiet Bayswater district of London, was found brutally battered to death at the head of some stairs leading to the basement of the store.

Police investigation showed that Creed had apparently opened the door of the store to someone after closing hours, and that he had been immediately attacked and bludgeoned to death from behind. With Creed lying on the floor, the attacker or attackers had made for the safe behind the counter, and it was in the sawdust there that the shoeprint was found.

Not far away was an ordinary brown coat button clipped at the edge which cannot be accounted for except on the assumption that it was wrenched or fell from the murderer's coat. The third clue of two left-hand gloves found in the store tell little except that they had probably been used as a pair by someone who covered his hand to polish brass or some other metal.

Photographs of the two gloves have been published in almost every newspaper in the country with requests that if they are identified information should be given to Scotland Yard, but this line of inquiry has also availed nothing.

That Adam and Eve never existed in history, and that it is doubtful whether Christ descended into hell and the majority of the miracles related in the Bible are mainly true, are some of the conclusions of Dr. Charles Gore, formerly Bishop of Oxford and an eminent English Churchman, in a sensational book, "Can We Then Believe," just published here.

Rev. Gore, who has been successively Chaplain to Queen Victoria, King Edward, and King George, is well-known for his modernist views, and several times his outspoken sermons have caused much fluttering in the ecclesiastical dovecotes here.

ed much fluttering in the ecclesiastical dovecotes here. A great scholar and thinker, he has a very wide following.

The Bible, he asserts in his latest book, was not given to teach us science, and it simply accepts the science of its time; it knows nothing of physical evolution. But there are features in the Bible which seem to cry out for a theory of creation by evolution. We must surely recognize that it gives us a far more adequate conception of divine method than the old scientific dogma of the Renaissance.

Let us, he says, continue to publish the abandonment by the Church of an untenable position to which medieval and later Christianity often committed itself, viz., that the early chapters of Genesis record literal history. Let it be as publicly abandoned as possible. Thus we should regard Adam and Eve not as historical individuals but as Man and Woman—as Everyman.

The reversion to pre-war diplomatic practice continues steadily in Europe.

The latest instance is the new treaty between Italy and Spain providing for reciprocal neutrality in case of war. The announcement of the signing of the treaty came as a profound surprise to diplomats everywhere, and in League of Nations circles in London it was recognized at once as a fresh blow to the prestige of the League.

TODAY

A flying sleeping car made its first trip from Berlin to London. The eight seats in the car are changed at night into four comfortable beds. Another German car has flown from Berlin to Peking. This country will begin flying by and by. But we must get around to it gradually, being an old fashion nation.

Dispatches tell of a split between the Fascists and the Vatican because of attacks on Catholic parades at Mantua and Macerata. The Pope has ordered cancellation of the International Catholic Gymnasium Congress that was to be held in Rome this week. The trouble is not of Mussolini's doing, and it has not his approval, that is certain. He has repeatedly emphasized his belief that religion is a necessary part of government.

The Mexican Congress meets today, and news from Mexico City says the prospect from the Catholic viewpoint, continues gloomy, as regards any change in legislation aimed at the Catholic church. The Roman Catholic authorities deny any intention of restoring to force.

President Coolidge is assured that he might as well sell America's commercial ships to foreign countries, because it doesn't make any difference what flag they are under.

It made some difference in the last war, when this country paid first class passage for worse than steerage accommodations to get its soldiers to Europe on foreign ships.

It is announced that President Coolidge will not sell American ships to sail under foreign flags. That's good.

TERRIBLE PAIN

Alabama Lady Tells How She Obtained Relief by Taking Cardui. Feels Fine and Enjoys Life Now, She Says.

Talladega, Ala.—Mrs. Mary Hardy, 406 Henderson Avenue, this city, says that seven years ago she "got down sick" and was unable to attend to her household. "I have never been so weak before or since," she says. "I had a terrible pain in my side—so sore in my side and the lower part of my body. "Across my back ached, and I was so nervous I couldn't stand up. I had just about given up when some one who came to see me began talking about Cardui. This caused me to get it. I took about two bottles before I saw much improvement. "After this, though, I picked up right away. I slept better at night. I was hungry, enjoyed my food, which I hadn't done for some time. "The pain and soreness gradually left my side. I regained my strength. I took about six bottles and left off for awhile, then took two or three more. . . I feel just fine, enjoy life and can work now, too." Cardui is purely vegetable, and contains no harmful drugs. It has helped thousands of suffering women and should help you, too. NC-163
