North Carolina Boys and Girls Given Opportunity to Send Their Birds to Exposition

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 12.—Former Governor, Cameron Morrison has made possible an exhibition of poultry grown by farm boys and girls to be shown at the National Poultry Show, which will be held at the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia during the week of October 25 to 30, according to Allen G. Oliver, the poultry Extension Specialist at State College.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrison have agreed to donate funds with which to pay all entry fees and costs of shipping the birds to and from the Exposition grounds. As a result of this liberality, Mr. Oliver has selected forty fine birds for the exhibition from among the poultry club flocks in Catawba, Lincoln and Stanley counties. Lack of time prevented the selection being more widespread, but Mr. Oliver stated that he had as fine a bunch of farm grown chickens as can be found in the United States. Among the breeds which he will send to Philadelphia are the Rhode Island Red, Barred Plymouth Rock, White Wyandotte, Silver Wyandotte and Brown Bluff, Silver and White Leghorns.

According to Mr. Oliver, the birds will be sent to the poultry show in care of County Agent J.

W. Hendricks, of Catawba county. Mr. Hendricks has won the name for being a leader in fostering poultry extension work in North Carolina, and the fact that some of the best flocks of birds are to be found in Catawba county is attributed to his efforts.

I am gratified at the interest shown in our poultry work by Mr. and Mrs. Morrison," stated Mr. Oliver. When Mr. Morrison was Governor of the State he was a staunch advocate of our poultry work and has since shown his interest in various ways. He has promoted poultry growing in many of his talks with the farmers and he has welcomed the opportunity to help advertise North Carolina poultry at the Sesqui-Centennial show."

Mr. Oliver stated that the poultry to be sent to Philadelphia will be entered in both the open and club classes. He believes that the chickens grown by North Carolina farm boys and girls will compete successfully against that produced by the leading fanciers of the country and stated that the boys and girls have won first prizes in national contests for several years.

"This will be a fine opportunity to show just what our boys and girls are doing with poultry and it was too good to overlook," declared Mr. Oliver.

ONCE WEALTHY, IN POORHOUSE

Haverhill, Mass., Oct. 13.—(INS)—One of the world's greatest equestriennes approaches the most feared of ringmasters on earth, the keeper of the poorhouse. For Gertrude Swasey, once star of Barnum's 'Greatest Show on Earth' is preparing to follow that long, long trail that winds over the hill and down into the shadow to the grim doorway of the Haverhill Almshouse.

Her spangles today are rags. Her big top is an abandoned shack on Washington avenue. There is no audience for most of Gertrude's friends have long passed into the great beyond. She is tottering on at the age of 71.

The cruelest blow of all dealt to the famous horseback rider came with a ruling by Judge Frank P. Quinn in Salem Superior court that the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company of Boston is not liable for the $15,000 bond of Charles H. Goodwin, original trustee of the Swasey estate, whom she charged with maladministration.

That decision ended a six year fight. It took the last penny and there is nothing left but the four walls of the poorhouse.

To give Mrs. Swasey her full name is to call her Mrs. Gertrude Swasey Wilson. She has known wealth, tasted the nectar of public admiration and fallen from the heights to the slough of despondency.

In her youth she had everything that wealth could command. Her father, Moses Swasey had made a fortune in real estate and lavished money upon her with a free hand.

But animals appealed mostly to the girl then 16 years old and she ran away from home to join Robinson's circus as an equestrienne. Next she joined Barnum and in a short time was drawing a salary of $18,000 a year.

Then her fond parent purchased a show for her with which she toured the country. Often it went broke and she once pawned a diamond necklace composed of 145 stones to pay all the bills.

Broadway knew her well. She was showered with the good things of life. And when her downfall began several years ago, the famous "doggie" came to her rescue with a gift of $8000.

ALL STUDENTS TO HAVE CHANCE IN ATHLETICS

Wake Forest, Oct. 13.—Coach Baldwin and a group of representative men from the various fraternities and dormitory organizations met Monday night and made preliminary plans toward the organization of an Intra Mural Athletic Association. The association, when completed, will embrace student activities in basketball, tennis, cross country runs and baseball. Coach Baldwin is planning to give every student a college an opportunity to participate in some form of competitive athletics during the coming year.

According to plan swatched by Wake Forest head coach, the entire campus will be divided and organized into teams which will compete with each other on a regular schedule planned in advance. An unusually large amount of enthusiasm is being manifested in the project, and in discussions are now that it will go over big.

Coach Baldwin has successfully introduced the system he is putting in here at Duke University, the University of Maine, Lehigh University and other well known

Exchange of the Picture Stars Mutually Helpful

New York, Oct. 13, (AP)—Large motion picture companies are interchanging players, thus indicating a measure of co-operative efforts to obtain the best casts for individual pictures.

Within a short time, for instance, Paramount has "borrowed" Ronald Colman, Jack Mulhall, Aileen Pringle and Renee Adoree. To offset this "borrowing" the Company loaned Mary Brian, Lya de Putli, Charles Rogers, Nona Beery, Jack Lude and Betty Bronson to others.

Picture companies, casting a film, will discover that the player best suited to play a certain role is at present working. Rather than fill the role with another player not quite fitted to the part they go to another company and borrow a player. The courtesy is returned when the situation is reversed.

Sometimes this borrowing and loaning has an additional advantage. A player under contract at a high figure might not be working. Loaning him at such a time saves the company considerable money.

HOPKINS HEIR BACK HILLSBORO

Dave Moore, Funder Mark Hopkins' Will, Says He Left Home Because Hounded by Foes

Hillsboro, Oct. 13, (INS)—Dave Moore, the clock winder and reputed funder of the new-fashioned Mark Hopkins will, has slipped back to Hillsboro again—just in time to start the old clock in the courthouse here running once more.

Moore, who is said to have found the California gold rush millionaire's will, disposing of an estate now valued in excess of $300,000,000, disappeared a little more than a month ago, causing tense anxiety among the nearly 150 North Carolina and Virginia claimants to the estate.

And while a feverish search was conducted for a clue to his whereabouts, the clock winder, according to his own statement upon his return to Hillsboro, had been working in a roller mill in Georgia.

Moore left Hillsboro because he was hounded by foes of the Mark Hopkins claimants in the section of the country, he said. He named none of the foes directly, but it had been intimated that he referred to another group of claimants—those who reside in California.

Moore is one of the most interesting figures in the drama for the millions of one of America's largest estates. Two theories regarding his relationship to Mark Hopkins have been advanced.

Attorneys for a large group of the 150 claimants, in North Carolina and Virginia maintain that he is a grandson of Jesse Moore and Mary Hopkins Moore, a daughter of John Hopkins, Mark's brother.

Another claim is that he is actually the son of Mark Hopkins. However, not to be daunted by

Girl Burned With Grease

While playing cook in her mother's kitchen a twelve year old girl upset a pan of boiling grease, which resulted in terrific burns on her arm and leg. The burning, stinging pain of a burn from hot grease is well known and the child's agony can well be imagined. Her mother's prompt treatment of the burn with Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh is probably all that saved her arm from severe scars. The sharp pains were quickly relieved. The burn was healed and no scars remained.

Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh is also a liniment and a powerful antiseptic for open wounds. It is particularly recommended for hard cases of strains, bruises, burns, or open wounds. Old sores that will not heal up have given way before the healing effects of this remarkable remedy. Sold at drug stores.

NICHOLSON-FLANAGAN

Brilliant Wedding of Popular Couple in Christian Church

Beautiful in its every appointment was the marriage of Miss Rosemond Hooker Flanagan and Joseph Person Nicholson, which was solemnized before a large assemblage of relatives and admiring friends, Tuesday evening, in the Eighth Street Christian Church. The church was artistically decorated with green and white with baskets of pink roses interspersing. The choir loft was banked with potted plants. The altar was covered with white, while Southern ivy and maline were effectively used. The bride and groom plighted their troth beneath a white arch intertwined with ivy and maline. At the conclusion of the ceremony, they were showered with rose petals from a large wedding bell, which was suspended from the arch. Numerous cathedral candles shed a soft radiance over the scene.

Mrs. Ray Tyson, in a gown of white Elizabeth crepe with gold trimmings and a corsage of pink roses, was at the organ. She played Lohengrin's wedding march as the bridal party entered the church, and softly played "To a Wild Rose" during the ceremony. Preceding the entrance of the bride, Miss Bessie Brown, wearing a gown of gold cloth embroidered with pink roses, and carrying an old-fashioned nosegay, sweetly sang "Because," and "All For You."

The ushers and groomsmen wore the conventional black evening suits and white gloves, and their buttonholes were bride-roses. They were, Graham Flanagan, John Flanagan, Frank Patrick, Joe Moye and George Hadley, of Greenville, Thomas Warren, of New Bern, John Watts, of Reidsville, John Hood, of Kingston, Henry Staton, of Tarboro, and Pat Burton, of Reidsville.

The first bridesmaids to enter were Miss Mary Lewis Harvey, of Kingston, and Miss Willie Skinner, who crepe Elizabeth frocks of orchid shaded to watermelon. Next were Mrs. Hogan Gaskins and Miss Emily Moye, wearing crepe Elizabeth frocks in the nasturtium shades. Then came Miss Margaret Copeland, of Kingston, of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Flanagan, among the most prominent families of the city. She was born and reared here, and has friends by the score, being one of the most popular members of the younger social set. Her popularity has been manifested ever since the engagement was announced in mid-summer, when she has been the honor guest of dozens of elaborate social functions. She was educated at Fossfern, this state, and Brenau College.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Nicholson, of Kingston. He has spent much time here with his uncle, Mr. T. A. Person, where he has made many friends as in his native town. He now holds a position here with the Person-Garrett Tobacco Co. He is a graduate of Augusta Military Academy, Fort Myers, Va.

RECEPTION

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Flanagan entertained at a brilliant reception, Tuesday evening, following the marriage of their daughter, Rosemond, and Mr. J. Person Nicholson. The lower floor of the handsome Flanagan home on Evans street was used, and was beautifully decorated for the occasion. A pink and white color scheme was used throughout, and profusions of pink roses and other flowers were used in the decorations. The dining room table was especially attractive with its Italian lace cover. The center piece was a large silver basket filled with bride's roses, while suspended above was a large wedding bell showered with orange blossoms. Southern amalia was draped from the light and tied to the corners of the table with bows of tulip and orange blossoms.

As the guests arrived, they were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. N. O. Warren and Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Cooper. They were shown to the first receiving line in the drawing room by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hooker. In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Flanagan, Mr. and Mrs. J. Person Nicholson, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Nicholson, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Person, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kugler, of Washington, Hon. and Mrs. Lindsay Warren, of Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Harvey, of Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Goerch, of Washington, Dr. and Mrs. J. E. W. Cook, and Rev. and Mrs. R. J. Bamber, and Mrs. H. L. Coward.

From the drawing room, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Wooten and Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Hooker showed the guests to the sun parlor, where the members of the bridal party and Miss Hannah Dixon were receiving. Mr. and Mrs. Albion Dunn and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. White showed the guests to the dining room. In the dining room, a pretty ice course in heart shapes, carrying out the pink and white color scheme, was served by Misses Mary Warren, Margaret Fleming, Annie Lee Hooker, Bet Dixon, Annie Blanche Patrick, Lela Davenport, and Mary Forbes.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Warren and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bowen showed the guests to the hall, and at the music room door, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Dixon and Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Forbes received them. Miss Rose Hadley and Sam Carson, and Mr. and Mrs. Dall Laughinghouse showed them to the gift room. In here was one of the handsomest and largest displays of wedding gifts ever seen in the city. Misses Margaret Cook and Jane Lyster presided over the bride's book.

From the gift room to the library, the guests were shown by Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Stokes, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Kilgo and Mrs. C. O'H Laughinghouse. In the library punch was served from one table by Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Wooten, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Bradsher and Miss Henrie Long. And from the other table punch was served by Miss Ada James, Jack Spain, Miss Helen Joyner, Miss Anna Long and Mr. Buchannan.

Showing the guests to the reception hall and receiving there were Dink James and Miss Iva Shelburn, Mr. and Mrs. Larry James, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Whitehead and Mr. and Mrs. Knott Proctor.

The "Vagabonds" furnished music in the music room throughout the evening.

New Mexican Lobos Threatened With Over Confidence

Albuquerque, N. M., Oct. 13.—(INS)—Having manufactured a line that look goods in comparison with any Lobo line and with a backfield that contains four letter men the New Mexico Lobos are threatened with a dose of over-confidence before the first referee's whistle.

Coach Roy Johnson, looking over the field of 40 candidates the first day of practice, noted that he had four letter men backs present and six former line men. The backs comprised scoring material. The line was not so good a little light in spots, and he thought inclined to be absent when the enemy was rushing it.

However, the line-up for the opening game balances the scales at an average of 177 pounds, heavier than last year.

Brown, letter man of year before last, will handle the center position. Craven, last year man, and Jaramillo, last year prep star are other center possibilities.

McFarland, Reardon, Fisher and Jenkins are popular candidates for guard position. McFarland and Fisher weigh 185 pounds each. Jenkins weights 190 and Reardon 175.

Two all-southwestern men are planning to take care of the tackle positions, De Gryse, last year

Business Man Crosses Country In Record Time

San Francisco, Oct. 13.—(INS)—A gentle rap at the present day transcontinental service given by the railroads was handed out here the other day by Louis B. Miller, 51, San Francisco business man who recently shattered all previous automobile records from San Francisco to New York.

"There is no reason in the world why the railroads should not transport passengers across the country in from one to two business days less than at present," Miller said.

"Why," he continued, "if we had the same advantages of right-of-way, smooth roadbed and easy grades that the railroads have, we could travel across the country in 60 hours.

"As it is we made the trip in 83 hours and 12 minutes, which is ten and a half hours faster than the fastest train schedule.

"Present train schedules are too infernally slow."

John E. Wieber, Portland, Oregon, automobile dealer, accompanied Miller on his record breaking trip, alternating with him at the wheel.

The machine used by Miller and Wieber was just an ordinary stock roadster model.

Mulcahy, a candidate for end won his letter last year. Other prospective wingmen are Crist, Redmond, Moore and Jonas.

Crist was an all-Ohio prep man last year, being a member of the Springfield squad.

Even the coach appears optimistic over the backfield prospects. Long, all-southwestern quarter, heads the ball runners and he is considered the headiest grid general in the west. He has speed, nerve, passes well and is a broken field ground gainer.

Armstrong, Renfro and L. Brown are last year halves who are back in uniform. Dolzadell, letter man, is playing fullback.

Jim Crow, 170 pound immigrant from Clarendon Texas, considered a dangerous offensive man is learning signals from all angles.

Bolly Boykin, 190 pounder from Oregon Aggies, said to be a speedy halfback, is now burning the midnight watta in an effort to get a more comprehensive grip on the Economics II situation. Until he does his uniform will not be used on Saturdays.

Boyd, Deming high school graduate of last year, is a promising quarter substitute.

The compounding of prescriptions can be carried on under ideal conditions only when this department is removed from all noise and confusion and other distractions. As we have it arranged here the prescriptionist is able to concentrate his entire thought and attention upon the work in hand. This is an insurance against error and is valuable in many other ways. ### LOANS, MACHINERY AND TUTORING TO MODERNIZE FARMING IN CHINA

Washington, Oct. 12.—(INS) One of the world's most unique agricultural movements—the modernization of the Chinese farm—has been launched by the China International Famine Relief Commission.

Details of the plan to raise the Chinese tiller of the soil from the depths of unbelievable poverty and ignorance of farming methods of today, have been submitted to the department of commerce by Assistant Commercial Attaché A. H. Evans, of Peking.

Success of the proposed plans will undoubtedly create a steadily growing demand for American types of agricultural machinery, especially adapted to this market, such as hoes, plows, harrows and harvesting machinery, Evans said.

Accompanying this will also be an increased demand for small village power plants for threshing and grinding grain, for pumping water and for the generation of electricity for lighting purposes.

The Chinese farmer has stumbled along by himself for centuries virtually without progress.

The tools of the Chinese agriculturist have been like those of the Chinese craftsman, the primitive implements of his ancestors, according to Evans.

He has never had the money to equip himself with anything else. From prehistoric ages he has been the victim of rapacious and the predatory—brigands, usurers, Military taxgatherers, those who acquire gain by craft or force rather than production.

The Chinese farmer has never been able to produce more than enough for the immediate indispensable needs of his family. When floods or drought overtook him, his first recourse was to pawn his few personal effects.

Borrowing at 36 per cent interest, borrowing further to meet interest payments, at higher rates, his burden of debt mounted ever higher until he crumbled beneath it.

The rural cooperative system inaugurated by the International relief commission is designed to relieve this situation by making it possible for the small landowner to obtain funds, required for increasing his productive capacity at reasonable rates of interest Evans informed the department.

The plan has been to form local cooperative societies throughout the country of the type worked out in Germany after the famine of 1840-47. Every society may have not less than 12 members each of whom must subscribe one share of stock in the organization and accepted unlimited liability for all obligations incurred.

Loans are then advanced to the society by the relief commission, the securing being the combined credit of all society members. The society in turn loans from these funds to each of its members according to his needs.

STUDENTS MAKE EXTRA MONEY IN COTTON FIELDS

Red Springs, Oct. 13. (INS)—Forty young girls, members of the Senior Class of Flora MacDonald, have replenished the class treasury by picking cotton.

Clad in overalls and wide brim hats, took to the cotton fields and set an even 1,000 pounds to be picked in one afternoon.

Starting at noon, the girls weighed in at 5:50 in the afternoon, to find themselves 43 pounds short. The deficiency was made up in five minutes.

NOAH'S ARK RIVALLED IN RETURN OF SMITHSONIAN-CHRYSLER EXPEDITION

Hundreds of Animals and Birds Bound for National Zoo in Washington

EVEN Noah's ark "of gopher wood," with a collection which included "every living thing of all flesh, fowls after their kind, cattle after their kind, of every creeping thing of the earth after their kind," is rivalled in the return of the Smithsonian-Chrysler Expedition, which is now on the high seas bound from Dar-es-Salaam, seat of the government of Tanganyika Territory, East Africa, to New York with 200 cages of live, wild animals and birds, hundreds of specimens in all.

The expedition went from Dar-es-Salaam by Colombo, Ceylon, where the animals and birds, all intended for the National Zoological Park, in Washington, were transferred from one ship to another bound for New York direct.

Noah's famous ship was at sea forty days and forty nights. Dr. William H. Mann, director of the National Zoo and head of the Smithsonian-Chrysler Expedition, will do well if he gets his party home in 50 days. And his big problem is to keep the animals well.

The collection which Dr. Mann has acquired, includes a long necked giraffe, three vicious leopards, the copy of the Bible, a pangolin, wild cat, pigmy mice, wildebeest, helmeted guinea-fowl, francolin, and other birds too numerous to mention, dik-dik, a duiker, reedbuck, steinbuck, bushbuck, hartebeest, eland and many monkeys. When this company passes in sight of Mt. Ararat, as it will, the parallel to the days of the flood will be close indeed.

NOW DRIVE THE CAR!

Only those who have driven a Dodge Brothers Special Sedan—or any Dodge Brothers car BUILT RECENTLY—can fully appreciate all that Dodge Brothers have accomplished during the past few months.

So swiftly has improvement followed improvement, that today the car, to all intents and purposes, is a different and incomparably finer vehicle.

The announcement of smart new body lines and attractive color combinations first attracted general favor. But since then, improvements even more fundamental have been accomplished mechanically.

Drive the car NOW! Observe its impressive new silence, smoothness and elasticity of performance, and you will then begin to realize just how vital and varied these and other later improvements actually are.

Body Will Be Silent Witness at Trial of Wife

Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 12.—(INS)—The embalmed body of a murdered man will be taken into the courtroom a silent witness in a trial to take place within a few weeks, provided legal action by the defense does not restrain the County Attorney, Byron Kirkpatrick, from carrying out his strange plan.

There is too great a tendency on the part of a jury in a murder trial to overlook the fact that someone has been killed, declared the county attorney in explanation of his idea. Any reference to the dead man is met with prompt objection by the defense counsel on the ground it is prejudicial.

This time I am going to produce the dead man himself. It will establish beyond doubt that the man is dead, a contention that the state, somehow, often finds difficulty in getting to the jury, he declared.

Opposition to Kirkpatrick's plan, which is without precedent in the criminal annals of the state, probably will center about the competency of such evidence. An effort by the defense to force burial before the trial also will be made, it is understood.

The defendant will be Mrs. W. J. White, wealthy negro woman, who is charged with killing her husband after a quarrel.

Mexican Courts to Settle Big Oil Combine Problem

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 12.—(INS)—One of the vital steps in the plan of F. A. Boyer, of Montreal and Paris for the combining of French, Italian and British capital for the development of Mexican oil lands will shortly be decided by the Mexican courts.

Claims of approximately $30,000,000 are pending in the supreme judicial courts of the southern republic, against the Compania Mexicana Holandesa La Carona, chief Mexican subsidiary of the Royal Dutch Netherlands oil syndicate, known generally as La Carona.

These claims originated through the purchasing by Boyer and associates of the interests of the heirs of Dr. Thomas W. Willis, of Florida, who, at his death in estate, left an estate comprised chiefly of over three fourths of the Panuco district.

The Panuco property, long after Dr. Willis had acquired it, was found to contain oil and following his death the major portion was acquired from his heirs the family of his Mexican wife, by Samuel Deterding, for the Royal Dutch.

The suit now pending is concerned with adjustment of the claims of the Boyer interests against the purchasers of the Willis property. Boyer, now in Mexico, stated here that the combine which had formed, with M. Francois Carnot of Paris representing the French interests, plains direct shipment of crude petroleum to France and Italy, with a fixed percentage of production to be refined in Mexico for consumption there.

North Carolina to Take Prominent Part Health Convention

Raleigh, Oct. 12.—(AP)—North Carolina has been assigned a prominent part in the convention of the American Public Health Association which opens in Buffalo, New York, Wednesday, October 13.

Four officials of the State Board of Health left Monday for the meeting. All will deliver addresses, or informal talks on various phases of public health work in North Carolina.

Those attending are: Dr. Chas. O'Hagan Laughinghouse, secretary of the State Health Board; Ronald B. Wilson, assistant secretary; Dr. F. M. Register, head of the Bureau of Vital Statistics, and H. E. Miller, Director of the Bureau of Sanitary Engineering.

BIG INCREASE IN COINING PENNIES, NICKLES INDICATE HIGH PRODUCTION, SAID

New York, Oct. 12.—(INS)—The penny, that unpopular but necessary piece of United States coinage has returned to its own. Likewise the nickel. More than 2,000,000 pounds of copper was used by the U. S. Treasury in the last year to mint $6,115,675 worth of five and ten cent pieces, according to the Copper and Brass Research Association. The tremendous circulation, the Association declares, indicates an era of his production and prosperity.

This output compares with an average production of $6,400,000 worth of minor coins containing 2,500,000 pounds of copper during the years of the war, and up to 1920. A pronounced increase in the output of copper coins, including the nickel, which is 75 per cent copper, is shown by figures for the past three years.

Daily News Letter

Group of Staff Correspondents at World Centers of Population.

Hollywood, Oct. 13. (INS)—Motion picture producers a hundred years from now will be able to look at a film produced in 1926 and laugh and say: "Aren't those hats funny?"

Carl Laemmle, president of Universal Pictures Corporation, instructed Harry Pollard, director of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," to make an extra negative. This negative will be hermetically sealed and sent to Smithsonian Institute at Washington with the understanding that it will not be opened for 100 years.

Tom Moore, veteran leading man, will play opposite Laura La Plante in "Beware of Widows."

Universal executives announced it will mark Moore's first appearance in a picture made at Universal City.

"The Vagabond Lover" will be John Barrymore's first picture for United Artists.

The story deals with the romantic life and adventures of Francois Villon, the whimsical zoggar poet of France.

Barrymore admitted a sympathetic interest in Villon.

"I admire him because he was true to himself, because he knew himself and his strengths and weakness. He had many light amours and one great love. I have always wanted to try his life as a motion picture story.

Production will require several months it was estimated and the picture will be one of Barrymore's most pretentious screen plays.

The "flavor tourist" and the country doctor are the latest candidates for "glorification" and both epic, will be filmed at the DeMille Studio.

Rudolph Schildkraut will play the title role in a picture built about the work of the horse and buggy practitioners whose services were available at any hour of the day or night; and production of "Rubber Tires" a picture that will be touring cars what the "Covered Wagon" was to prairie schooners, will start in the near future.

R. Carl Oelze, veteran pilot, adopted an unusual method of breaking into the movies recently.

Oelze floated down a stalled airplane with a giant parachute and received a contract to play the role of a German air captain in the "Wings," a story of the part played by the air service on the western front.

The giant parachute, invented by Harry D. Doucett, of San Diego, will be used on the 400-odd planes used in the filming of "Wings." Jesse Lasky financed the testing of the parachute, which will bring down an entire airplane.

Erich von Stroheim cast his first vote in the United States recently when he voted in the California primary election. The famous director received his final citizenship papers in time to take advantage of his American franchise.

The motion picture audience today is more appreciative than it was four or five years ago, according to William Russell, western film star, who said that one bad picture five years ago was enough to ruin an actor's prestige. Now, however, Russell explained the public gives the players more latitude.

Two melancholy Kentucky bloodhounds, with ears like hot-water bottles, arrived in Universal City recently to be playmates of George Siegmann, character "heavy" who will play Simon Legree in "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

All flesh is about alike and needs sleep. The brain, especially THE WILL, are different in different men.

The real menace to American cotton is not the present low price, but impending competition abroad.

More dangerous than cotton at 12-2 cents are great dams that Britain is building to supply irrigation for more cotton fields in Egypt, and elsewhere in Africa.

Russia proposes to produce cotton and will do it. Cotton growers and colored cotton pickers in America will not be able to compete with cotton growth in Africa, picked by native Africans.

The solution might be found in cotton picking machinery. It should be possible to harvest a field by passing a vacuum cleaner above the crop, at certain intervals. One air pump might take the place of a thousand cotton-picking fingers.

Army - Navy Clash Nov. 27, to Bring Big Gate

Chicago, Oct. 13. (INS)—Football's biggest gate!

That's what the Army-Navy gridiron class in Soldier's Field, Chicago, November 27 will be.

A total of more than half a million dollars will be paid by the mid-west's football-mad fans, to watch the service elevens battle it out in their 28th meeting.

Five hundred boxes of six seats each, sold here at public auction netted a total of more than $100,000, and in addition 40,000 seats at $10 each will be sold to the public.

"Standing room" only ducts may also be sold after the regular quota of tickets is exhausted so that there is a possibility the total gate receipts for the game may reach close to three quarters of a million dollars.

Decision to auction the box seats, located close to the seats of the secretaries of war and navy and other distinguished official guests, was made after a survey showed the tremendous cost of bringing the entire student bodies of the navy academy at Annapolis and the army school at West Point to Chicago to witness the game.

Chicago was awarded the 1926 service school game with the understanding all of the students at the two academies were to be brought here to watch the battle.

Special trains will carry the elevens and their schoolmates to Chicago, and they will be entertained here at the leading clubs and hotels.

The top price at the auction of the box seats was $2,500. That sum was paid for six seats by G. Frank Croissant, Chicago and Florida millionaire. Other boxes sold for smaller sums, down to $150.

Chicago was awarded the 1926 service school game with the understanding all of the students at the two academies were to be brought here to watch the battle.

TELLS OF VICTORY RURAL SANITATION NORTH CAROLINA

H. E. Miller Addresses Public Health Association at Buffalo Convention

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 13. (AP)—The fight for victory for rural sanitation in North Carolina, a state with a population of eighty-five per cent rural, was the subject of an extensive study presented by a speech before the Rural Health Work session, of the American Public Health Association, here this morning, by H. E. Miller, Director of the Bureau of Sanitary Engineering of the North Carolina Board of Health.

Mr. Miller laid the setting for his account of the twenty odd year fight for rural sanitation in the Tar Heel state by impressing upon his audience that no city in the state exceeded 75,000 population, and that the 238 public water supply systems were available to only 818,161 persons, or only 29.1 per cent of the total population of the state. A colored population representing 30.4 per cent of the total was another barrier to progress upon which the speaker laid emphasis.

The North Carolina health engineer presented his survey from the beginning. He outlined the early difficulties, told of the educational campaign through the Department of Health bulletin, legislative aid and judicial enforcement, and the present high state of efficiency reached in the sanitary development. One of the most vital factors in the success of the undertaking, according to Mr. Miller, has been the well established recognition of the fact that "North Carolina health laws had been actually enforced."

Mr. Miller told how the campaign for sanitation was started as a "swat the fly" drive. This grew into a prevention of fly breeding drive, which brought before the public in a tactful manner as subject which a prevailing false-modesty had hitherto kept unmentionable—the sanitary privy.
