DECLARES BONDS
BOUGHT BY BANK
HAD BEEN STOLEN

Pittsburgh Bank Closed Pending Investigation by State Banking Officials

Pittsburgh, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The liberty bonds for which the Brotherhood Savings and Trust Company paid $320,000 to Charles Knatt, missing bond salesman, were part of alleged hidden assets of John A. Bell, former local bank head, recently convicted of embezzlement, the Pittsburgh Gazette Times today declared, police have been informed by Bennie Diamond, of Pittsburgh.

Bell was president of the Carnegie Trust Company which failed a year ago. The bonds, part of alleged hidden assets valued at $3,000,000 were being sold by several men, including Knatt and Diamond, the newspaper asserts. Diamond, according to the paper, was released by police after questioning.

A country-wide search has been instigated for Knatt, who disappeared last Friday after he had received $320,000 in three payments for the bonds which he was to deliver at about half price. He never delivered the bonds.

The bank, a labor institution, has been closed pending an investigation by banking department officials, but its officials insisted there were sufficient assets to pay all depositors in full.

In a statement issued last night, J. A. McCarty, president of the bank, who is at liberty under $25,000 bond, said the whole story revolves itself into two words, misplaced confidence.

Knatt had a good record behind him. In entrusting the money to Knatt we did no more than any bank would do in entrusting money to a tried messenger.

Revival Services to Begin Tonight in the
Immanuel Church

Rev. Herman T. Stevens, of High Point, N. C., will begin a two-week revival meeting at the Immanuel Baptist Church this evening at 7:30 o'clock. Beginning Tuesday afternoon and throughout the revival, services will also be held at 4 o'clock for the benefit of the college girls, but the public is extended a cordial welcome to this service also.

Rev. Stevens was formerly State Evangelist for the Baptist denomination, but recently accepted a call as pastor at High Point. He is recognized as one of the strongest preachers of the Southern Baptist Convention, and a real treat is in store for every one who accepts the opportunity to hear him.

While the meeting will be conducted in the Baptist church, the chief aim will be to win souls for Christ, and all denominations are urged and invited to participate in and lend their prayers to the meeting.

A feature of the meeting will be the half-hour song service, in charge of Rev. L. R. O'Brien, pastor of the church.

The community at large is cordially invited to attend each service.

FIND WAY TO DROP MAIL
FROM FLYING AIRPLANE

London, Oct. 18.—(INS)—An apparatus which will enable mailbags to be delivered from airplanes without landing and to be dropped safely from considerable heights has been invented after years of experimenting by Herr Kuerner, a Swiss engineer.

The apparatus consists of a metal sheath, containing in the upper part a folded parachute and in the lower a clock work movement. The mailbag is affixed to the bottom of the apparatus, and the pilot sets the clockwork according to the height at which he is flying, so that when the parachute is timed to open some 150 to 100 yards from the ground.

Tests have been made from a height of 3,000 feet with complete success.

Few of us get anything without working for it.

CAROLINA STUDENT
INSTANTLY KILLED
IN AUTO COLLISION

Ernest Hyde, of Atlanta, Killed and Five Others Injured in Crash Near Greensboro

Greensboro, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Ernest Hyde, University of North Carolina student, from Atlanta, Ga., was instantly killed and Eugene Black, of Burlington, was seriously injured last night when two automobiles had a head-on collision on the highway near Haw River. Black and five others who were in the two automobiles are in a Burlington hospital. Black was seriously injured but the others obtained only minor injuries.

From available reports this morning it is understood that the lights on the machine driven by Black went out and he was driving by moonlight when the collision with the other automobile occurred.

Business Men
Endorse Notes
Atlanta Schools

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 18.—(INS)—Business men and merchants of this city are coming to the aid of the municipal school system which faces closing unless a loan of $500,000 is negotiated through the endorsements of notes by Atlanta.

With teachers unpaid for the past month, the school board officials have found that it will be impossible to keep the city school open for the rest of the term unless a loan of $500,000 is made from Atlanta Banks.

Banks refused to make the loan unless the notes were endorsed by local business men and merchants for the full amount of $500,000. School board officials admit they are in a tight place but say that local business men are responding rapidly to their appeals.

SEVEN INJURED
IN AUTO CRASH

Two Autos in Head-On Collision on the Highway Near Grimesland Sunday

Seven persons were injured late yesterday afternoon in a head-on collision of two automobiles near Grimesland. Rev. F. F. Eure, of Robersonville was the driver of one of the automobiles while Mrs. P. N. Purefoy, of Blount's Creek was the driver of the other.

According to reports of the accident Rev. Mr. Eure and his wife were coming toward this city and the Purefoy car going in the other direction, when Mrs. Purefoy lost control of her car in a sandhole off the edge of the hardsurfaced highway and her car darted across the road in front of the Eure car.

Both Rev. and Mrs. Eure were thrown from their car and injured by flying glass while all the occupants of the Purefoy car with the exception of Mrs. Purefoy were more or less injured.

At the time it was thought that Mr. Purefoy had received a fractured skull and that his twelve years' old son had received what would probably prove fatal injuries but reports today from the Washington hospital, where the injured occupants of the Purefoy car were carried, stated that all of them left the hospital this morning for their home.

Following the accident Rev. and Mrs. Eure were brought to the Pitt Community Hospital here for treatment. Reports today were to the effect that they had been discharged from the hospital and had returned home.

The injured occupants of the Purefoy car were P. N. Purefoy, A. E. Purefoy, Lou Stroud, F. B. Chaucy and the Purefoy boy, whose first name could not be learned here.

Fight for Control of Seventieth Congress Well Under Way in Several States

Washington, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Broadside from several sectors celebrated today in the preliminary skirmishes which culminate in the November battle of ballots which will decide control of the Seventieth Congress.

On the heels of his endorsement of Frank L. Smith, Republican, for the Illinois Senatorial seat of W. B. McKinley, over George E. Brennan, the Democratic nominee, Wayne R. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League, issued a statement urging selection of William R. Wilson, Democrat, over Representative William S. Vare.

"The question in Pennsylvania," Mr. Wheeler said, "is whether Vare's following in the first 22 wards of Philadelphia backed by Brewster's contribution, will elect the next Senator from the Keystone state, or whether the respectable, true Americans in Pennsylvania will forge Partisan line and send to Washington the clean and able opponent of the Quaker City Boss.

"Restoration of outlawed liquor," seems to be the chief hobby of Mr. Vare. Wheeler continued, adding that "He gives little consideration to the greater issues, in which his state is interested."

Metairie spokesman for the Democratic and Republican parties engaged in a spirited exchange over the issue of prosperity in the nation.

Chairman Wood, of the Republican Congressional Committee declared that the Democrats are "groping" for the national issue, and added that the country has become convinced that its welfare depends upon continuing the Republicans in control of the government.

Secretary Jardine, of the Agricultural Department became the target for the Democratic attack when chairman Oldfield of that party's Congressional Committee, asserted that figures on the purchasing party of the farmer's dollar contained in the Democratic campaign "book of facts" had been obtained through the office of Secretary Jardine and his predecessor, Secretary Wallace. Secretary Jardine had characterized the figures as a "statistical absurdity."

Chairman Wood predicted that the House of Representatives in the Seventieth Congress would be "overwhelmingly Republican," but admitted the possibility that the Republicans might lose some of the normally Democratic districts which had been won during the Coolidge sweep of 1924. This loss, he added, would be more than overcome by Republican gains in the West.

HUNGARIAN PAWNSHOPS
SHOW MONEY IS TIGHTER

Budapest, Oct. 18.—(INS)—Money is getting tighter and tighter in Hungary as measured by that infallible meter, the pawnshop. More than twice as many articles found temporary asylum in the pawnshops of Budapest during the first four months of 1926 than a year ago.

Like Russia, most of the personal wealth of Hungarians is represented in jewels and 157,752 jewels were pledged in the four-month period this year as compared with only 75,735 last year. Other pledges this year totalled 285,584 and last year 136,497.

FAMOUS FRENCH RECIPES

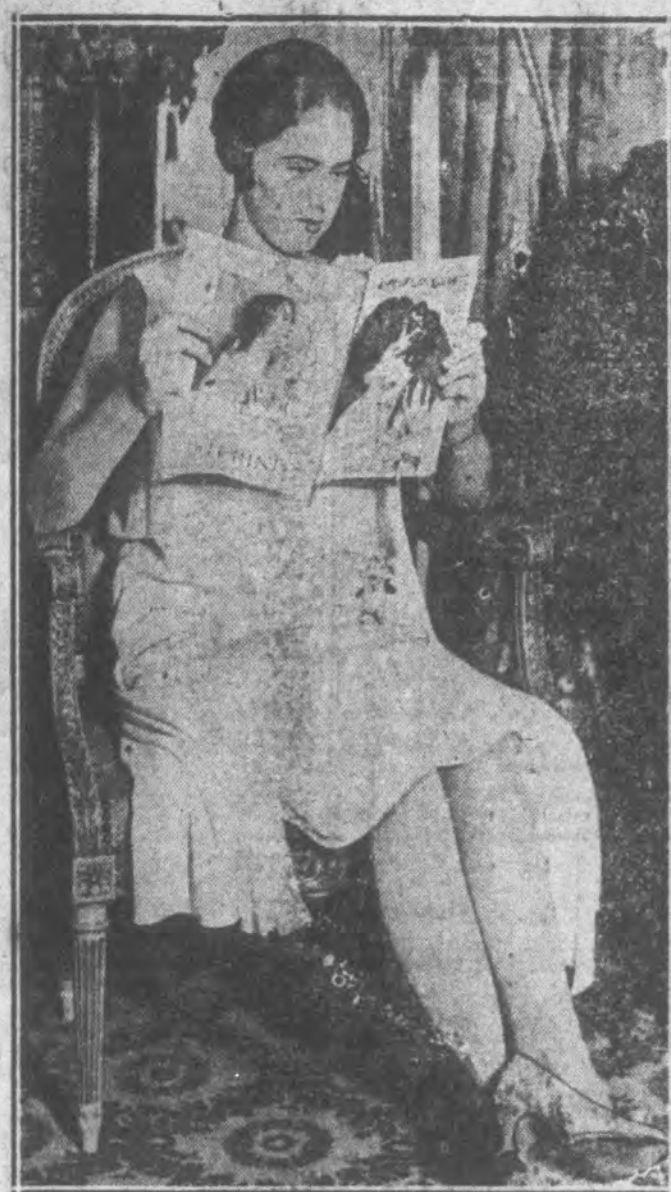

Paris, Oct. 18.—(INS)—Scrambled Eggs a la Livandiere make a good luncheon dish.

Make a good crust with half butter, half lard or other fat. Line a mold with it, prick with a fork and bake. Keep in a warm place until ready to use.

Scramble the eggs in the usual manner and put into the mold. Sprinkle with a few small mushrooms previously cooked in salt water, thin slices of truffles, small cubes of tongue and smoked ham.

Serve at once for the eggs should not be kept standing.

GOVERNOR M'LEAN FAMILY QUARREL
TO DELIVER SPEECH
HICKORY TONIGHT

Governor Visited Stonewall Training School at Concord Today Enroute to Hickory

Concord, Oct. 18.—(AP)—After a brief inspection of the Stonewall Jackson Training School for boys near here, Governor A. W. McLean continued his trip to Hickory where tonight he will speak on behalf of the candidacy of Democrats on the general election on November 2.

The Governor spent the night at Statesville where he conferred with a number of party leaders. The visit to the training school was the Governor's first call on a state institution during his present trip, although he has announced his intention of looking over all such institutions, that fall in his line of travel during convenient hours. It was his first visit to the school since he took office and many of the boys were afforded their first opportunity to look upon a governor when he took lunch with them today.

Following wire conference today there appeared to be some doubt about the Governor speaking at Burnsville tomorrow at outlined in his original itinerary and it became possible that the engagement might be switched to Hendersonville because of the latter's proximity to Asheville where he speaks tomorrow at the Morris Plan Bankers' convention.

$800,000 Lost At Craps.

A small army in New Jersey spread out around a 200-mile territory is closing in on a group of murderous bandits, hunting the murderers with machine guns, gas bombs and hand grenades.

They have organized a regular drive, the kind used on tiger hunts in India. Hunting criminals has become one of our national occupations.

A report from London says Turkey has mobilized four army corps, sending them to the threatened region.

That region is supposed to be Smyrna, in which the energetic Mussolini is deeply interested.

Interested definite news and not pleasant, may come from Europe at any time.

Senator Lodge believes that life exists on innumerable worlds throughout the universe. Wallace, a great scientist went completely astray in his book, "Man's Place in the Universe," endeavoring to show that this little earth is the only planet inhabited by thinking beings.

On earth we see life springing up everywhere, struggling on the highest mountains in the depths of the ocean, at the North Pole and at the Equator. Life is as widely spread here as the ninety odd elements that make up all creation.

Why assume that thought, which is the essence of life, is an accidental production of this small planet?

Sir Oliver Lodge believes in a directing cosmic mind, and describes the universe as "a workshop full of running machines. The machines appear self-working and complete, but are full of evidences of design to accomplish a certain object."

Thomas A. Edison thought he could almost prove that there is no such thing as a soul. He agreed with the mournful Herbert Spencer, declaring in his old age that his intelligence forbade him to look forward to anything except annihilation.

Edison changes his mind about the soul—thinks it MAY exist. It isn't old age or the grave frightening Edison into a change of heart. He still insists, "My brain is incapable of conceiving and of such a thing as a soul," and has described the brain as "a mechanism," like any other machine.

But he would smile at a savage, listening at a telephone and saying, "My brain is incapable of conceiving such a thing as a voice at the other end."

Cyrus H. K. Curtis tells the world through his newspaper that in New York last week one man lost $800,000 in three days trying to play craps. To spend almost a million dollars to watch little spotted cubes roll over seems silly, but it is part of the wisdom of Providence.

The shad lays over 40,000 eggs. Most of the little shad die. She doesn't need so many.

A fool collects thousands and millions of dollars, and most of them slip away from him. He doesn't deserve them.

Wall Street was not so happy yesterday, prices dropping. One automobile concern Hudson and Essex, cut prices again and its stock dropped, speculators assuming that price cuts mean difficulty in selling. They may mean greater skill in production.

That's for you to decide. Whatever else you do, don't gamble in stocks, or you will be sorry.

ROUMANIAN QUEEN
ARRIVES NEW YORK
TO SEE AMERICA

Leviathan Bearing Queen Marie and Her Party Reached Quarantine Early This Morning

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Queen Marie of Roumania, and her royal party stepped onto American soil at the battery to day in a drizzling rain which dampened everything but the spirits of the smiling visitors and the cheering hundreds who crowded the great square for a glimpse of the first queen to visit America in seven years.

Before her arrival the Queen granted an interview on board the Leviathan. It is possible the only interview that she will grant while on this side.

There were some 200 reporters huddled together in a dripping mass in the foyer, outside the royal suite about a roped enclosure.

A hush fell suddenly and Marie was there standing gracefully inside the rope and smiling at the newspaper men and women. Clad in a wine colored velvet coat with black fur collar and cuffs and with a gold turban topping her chestnut hair, the queen was in striking contrast to the bedraggled throng about her.

Telling the reporters that she had heard on the boat about the barrage of question, they would hurl at her, the queen proceeded to take the interview into her own hands.

"I have not yet had time to see much of America," she said, "but I am very much excited. I anticipate having a lovely time. I came here to see all the beautiful things in America."

"I don't know what I want to see most. I know I shall find here some of the love that Roumanians have for America."

"I am especially interested in the position of women here, what they have been doing in the cause of peace. Women have done so much for peace. Some day women will end war; that is, if they don't start fighting among themselves."

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The steamship Leviathan reached Quarantine at 6:55 a. m. today bearing Queen Marie of Roumania, and her children, Prince Nicholas and Princess Ileana.

The royal party remained on board awaiting arrival of the official welcoming party sometime after nine o'clock. A pelting rain was falling as the city tug Macon decorated with flags left the pier with the official welcoming party representing the President, the Governor, and the Mayor aboard.

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Queen Marie of Roumania was whisked through the city so quickly today that New Yorkers as a whole were hardly aware of her passing. She stepped ashore with her party at the battery shortly before noon and an hour later was on her way in a special train to Washington. Ceremonies at the City Hall here occupied her brief stay.

Arrested Twice
in One Night
for Transporting

Cartersville, Ga., Oct. 18.—INS—Two men, Bob Carter and John Green, declare they are the unluckiest men on earth. They also say the safest place for them would be in jail.

A few nights ago police received a tip that liquor would be brought into this city on a certain road. They went there and waited. Carter and Green came along. They were not the men the officers were expecting but acted suspiciously and were arrested. A quantity of liquor was found in their car. They made bond and left the station.

Police returned to the spot to wait for the original assignment and along came Carter and Green in a different auto. They were again arrested and a load of liquor was found in their car.

The arrest occurred at the same spot as the first one.

IN HISTORY ON
TOBACCO MARKET

Offerings Today Will Exceed Million and Half Pounds, Largest Sale in Market's History

After establishing a new market record Friday when the Greenville tobacco market sold more than a million pounds of the golden weed at an average price of $32.03 per hundred pounds bringing the week's average price to $30.78 per hundred, appearances on the market today are that the offerings are much greater than on Friday and that the price will be equally as good if not better.

The Greenville tobacco market so far this season has gained six million pounds over last season, a record that is unsurpassed by any of the large markets of the belt, while the average price on the local market has not been reached by any of the other markets, that have made public their official figures.

Last Friday's average of $32.53 and the week's average of $30.78 is believed to range from two to six cents above others in this section.

Today's offerings are expected to reach a total of approximately a million and a half pounds, the largest amount of tobacco ever offered here for a single day's sales.

Training School
for Sunday School
Workers in Progress

The Standard Training School for Sunday School workers had its initial meeting last night at the Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church with an enrollment of 107. This is more than twice as many as enrolled in the school last year. In addition to those from the Jarvis Memorial Church, there were workers from the Christian and Presbyterian Churches of Greenville, as well as teachers and officers from the churches in Ayden, Farmville and the rural district. Bethel had no representatives.

The school opened with a period of devotion of twenty minutes under the direction of Mr. L. L. Gobel, the director. Following this the classes assembled in their respective classrooms and worked till 10:30. Mrs. McAuley of Norfolk, Miss Keene of Durham, Mrs. Rose, of Greenville and Dr. Ormond of Duke University composed the faculty of the school.

In addition to the teachers of the various Sunday Schools taking the work, there are Sunday School superintendents and pastors as well as presidents of missionary societies and young people's organizations.

There are others who will enroll this evening. A pupil is allowed to miss one class and still obtain full credit for the work, and workers from all denominations are invited to come and obtain the benefits of the school. Classes will commence at 7:30 in the same classrooms as last night.

The 185th Meeting
Edenton Convocation
Begins Here Tonight

Delegates are assembling in our city this afternoon to attend the 185th Edenton Convocation of the Episcopal church. We give them a hearty welcome and know they will receive a fine sample of Greenville hospitality.

Tonight at 7:30 in St. Paul's church, the Rev. Geo. F. Cameron, of Ayden, will preach the opening sermon. The Rev. A. J. Muckie and H. M. Green will also have part in the service.

Tomorrow morning at 7:30 the Rev. Robert Brent Drane, D.D. of Edenton, will celebrate the Holy Communion, assisted by the Rev. E. T. Jilison of Hertford.

The business sessions of the Convocation will open at 9:30 tomorrow morning. The ladies will meet in the auditorium of the Memorial Baptist church by the courtesy of the Rev. Dr. Jones and his people.

The public is cordially invited to these meetings.

GRAHAM DECLARES COAL AT $17 A TON ONLY HOPE LIES IN BRITISH PROSPECT DIVERSIFICATION

Commissioner Says Lower Production Cost of Cotton and Less Acreage Necessary

Raleigh, Oct. 16. (INS)—A renewed plea for cutting the cost of cotton production and diversification of crops, as the only safe insurance against the ill effects of slumps resulting from overproduction was made in a statement by Commissioner of Agriculture W. A. Graham, who declared the present slump in prices of cotton presents a situation that demands more permanent solution than that proposed by forming of cotton pools to withhold a portion of this year's production as mapped out at the Memphis conference for cotton relief.

Graham, however, thinks that Gov. Whitfield's plan, which was worked out at the Memphis conference, will be a great help as a temporary measure but regards a lower production cost and crop diversification as the only permanent guarantee against the periodical price slump. "Our nearest way out," says Graham, lies in the direction of reducing production costs and acreage, if necessary and making on the cotton farms all the hay, grain, meat, fruit and vegetable, the farm plant consumes. Then the entire cotton crop will become a surplus to the growers and the prices they get will be satisfactory.

"I am a cotton farmer and am vitally interested in any and all means and movements that will get the farmer more money for his cotton. The co-operative marketing associations could by holding back surplus, so regulate the market as to establish a fairly uniform price for this year. The wise thing for each and every farmer to do is to hold his cotton as long as he can because, despite the fact that it might go lower, the price of cotton will be higher before the year is over.

TURKEY HAS TROUBLE IN SELECTING NEW ALPHABET

Constantinople, Oct. 15. (INS)—The Turkish Committee charged to select a new alphabet in place of the existing Arabic alphabet is meeting with many difficulties.

Latin was found to be impracticable in view of the middle sounds existing in the Turkish language, also because of the many double consonants, which do not exist in Latin.

The opinion now prevails among some members of the Committee that the Cyrillic or Slav alphabet, used by the Bulgarians, Russians, and Serbs, which contains all the sounds of the modern Turkish language, would be the most suitable.

The idea finds general support, as there are thousands of Turks who already know either of these Slav languages.

Japan's population, excluding Formosa, Korea and other overseas zones, increased 875,385 during 1925. It is larger by 131,811 than the 1924 increase.

London, Oct. 15. (INS)—With coal at $17 a ton, three times at least higher than pre-war prices, the British housewife faces a difficult proposition for the winter. Then are grates, wasteful in coal consumption, are practically universal in Britain. A quarter of a ton a week is not regarded usually as an extravagant allowance for an ordinary house. But this year the housewife will be met with a shortage of supplies as well as high prices.

Very stringent regulation of supplies are already foreshadowed by the Government, unless the mining dispute should be very quickly ended. Imports of foreign coal have fallen off and the approach of cold weather has made the conservation of supplies an imperative necessity.

Strict rationing will very shortly be put in force. Only essential services, such as hospitals, lighting, water, sanitation will have anything like a full supply. The ordinary household in all probability will be rationed strictly to fifty-six pounds per week.

Foreign imports, owing to the home demand, have fallen from 1,000,000 tons to 750,000 tons per week and in consequence the gas companies are announcing a considerable increase in their prices. What this deprivation of coal means to the ordinary British home, where the central heating plant is practically unknown, can be easily imagined.

FRANCE NOT WORRYING ABOUT FUTURE OF OIL

Paris, Oct. 15. (AP)—France is one of the few countries that is not worrying about the future of her petroleum supply.

Potential petroleum sources, available to France says M. Pignatelli, director of the National Bureau of Combustible Liquids, if properly developed within the next decade, will furnish a supply sufficient for many years to come.

Of purely French sources, Madagascar promises the largest supply. The most important French source, however, M. Pignatelli finds is in Mosul, where French interests are permitted a 25 per cent share in the exploitation under the treaty of San Remo. Within five years oil from this source is expected to be almost sufficient for the entire needs of the country and its colonies, leaving Madagascar, domestic and colonial fields for reserve.

California's Champ. 'Alimony Martyr' Sentences Himself

Sacramento, Oct. 16. (INS)—After fourteen months behind bars—months in which he has grown contemptuous of the laws efforts to break his resolve, Samuel W. Reid, California's champion "alimony martyr," has resolutely embraced martyrdom and sentenced himself to life imprisonment.

Reid's beard has grown long with waiting for it is part of his pledge to remain unshaven as a protest against his punishment. At 32, he has the virile adornment of a hermit and the pallor of a convict.

But his Spartan-like disdain for punishment remains undiminished. Though a word of concession from his lips would bring instant release, he has vowed never to speak that word. The penalty, thus self-imposed, is life imprisonment in the county jail at Williams.

THE NIGHTLY ESCAPE

'Arty' Youths Show Modernism in Japan

Tokyo, Oct. 15. (AP)—Long-haired men and short-haired women are one of the latest phases of Japan's groping toward modernism.

The police, always on the hunt for those with "dangerous thoughts" are watching these young imitations Greenwich Village. They are entirely "new" so far as the lagers with more or less suspicious, although the only thing they present is that they seem to be jobless and to have a distinct leaning towards art.

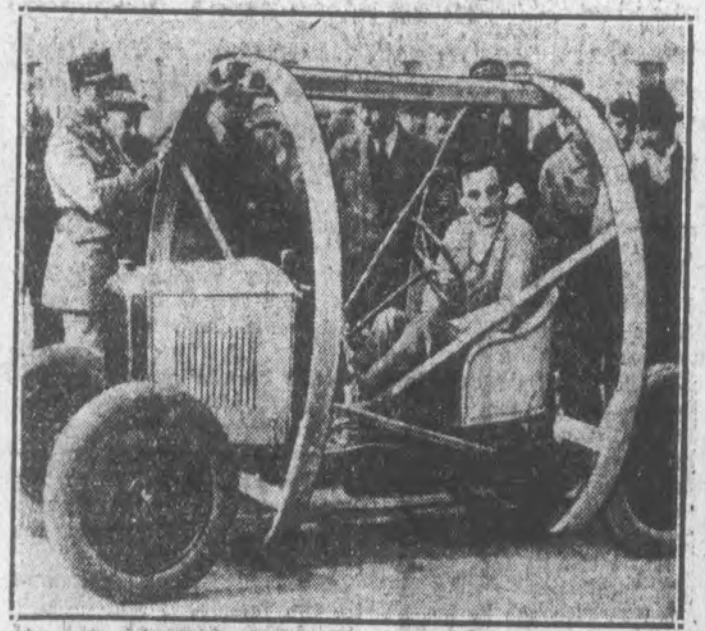

Young men, with lengthy black hair, obscuring the place where their collars should be, garbed in extremely nondescript costumes. How they live is a mystery, although it is said that many of them are stenographers or waitresses who play at art when they are not working. Not far from the Ginza there is a little so-called "artists' colony," where these ultra-modern Japanese boys and girls lounge around easels, smoke numerous cigarettes, absorb great quantities of tea and otherwise express their souls.

promenade up and down the Ginza—Tokyo's Broadway—and loaf around the tiny hole-in-the-wall cafes. Most of them go bare-headed. They usually wear a disreputable looking blouse and a pair of extreme Oxford bags which flap gaily in the evening breeze as they patter blithely along the street by the side of their bobbed-haired "little friend."

These young women of Tokyo are entirely "new" so far as the other natives are concerned. They wear their raven locks in every conceivable mode, ranging from the shingle of the boyish bob to the kimono of the geisha and then again they appear in knee-length skirts, rolled stockings and saucy little hats perched over one ear.

This auto, demonstrated at Maubeuge, France, may upset, but it is so constructed that it will turn right-side up. Very good for running past traffic lights.

LONDON FASHION NOTES

London, Oct. 15. (INS)—Little fur scarves, long and narrow twisted round the neck and tied in a flyaway, "pussy-cat" bow under the wearer's chin, are among the novelties for the coming season. Made in beaver, moleskin, or some other close-haired pelt, it is most suitable for wearing with one of the new trim-short coated tailored suits on sunny days in the fall. There is a real art in tying the fly-away fur bow, so that there are also little fur necklets, with bows ready fixed, fastening with invisible clips underneath.

One designer at a recent private exhibition was showing a slim coat and skirt of lustrous black velvet, made quite plainly except for tiny borders of moleskin round the edge of the skirt panels. With it went a high-crowned black velvet hat pierced with a moleskin-headed pin, while round the mannequin's neck was a close-fitting moleskin tied in a well-made bow beneath her chin.

Trimness of appearance is necessary in order for a woman to carry off successfully these fly-away fur bows, and it is essential that the scarf be cut and shaped by an expert in pelts.

Two Families Exchange Sons for Education

Minneapolis, Oct. 16. (AP)—Two families, one in Minneapolis and the other in Vienna, Austria have "exchanged" sons for a year to further their educational advantages.

Dr. Frank S. Bissell's 18-year old son has gone to Vienna to live with Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Schuller there and attend the University of Vienna, while Franz Schuller, 19, has come to live with the Bissells here, and attend the University of Minnesota.

Henry Ford conceals ancient industrial equipment for comparison purpose. He has an elaborate collection of antique implements.

HIGH COST OF FLOUR MAY BE END OF NORMAN BREAD

Paris, Oct. 18.—(INS)—The high cost of flour, as well as its scarcity, threaten to put the celebrated 'Norman bread' off of the French table. For more than five hundred years the bakers of this region have been making this particular kind of 'plain brié' of stiff and more friable dough. It requires too much flour and the mayors of Caen and Mevdon have decided to suppress.

The Normans do not like the order, declaring that aside from being much more delicious than the ordinary bread, this variety can be conserved for a long time.

JEWISH FARMERS OFFER MILK AND HONEY TO AID IN REDEMPTION OF ISRAEL

Jerusalem, Oct. 18.—(INS)—Jewish farmers take part in the redemption of the Land of Israel by contributing to the Jewish national fund, the land purchasing instrument in Palestine for which collections are made the world over.

Unable sometimes to fulfill their obligations in cash, farmers send in their products. Thus, a little agricultural colony in Upper Galilee has just made the pentatouch offering of milk and honey to the fund. Special plots are cultivated in each settlement for the benefit of the fund, the crop being sold for its profit.

Other Palestine efforts on behalf of the fund are the sale of special national fund stamps, art lithographs, and inscriptions of the names of newborn babies in 'Golden Book.' The familiar 'Blue Box' of the fund is regarded by the Jewish children as the symbol of the reclamation of the land in Palestine.

FREE STATE DISCUSSING SUCCESSOR TO GOV.-GEN.

Dublin, Oct. 18.—(INS)—It is generally believed that the term of office of Tim Healey, Governor-General of the Free State of Ireland, is drawing to a close, and the appointment of his successor is being anxiously discussed.

The name of the Earl of Grandard, a very rich Irish Roman Catholic, is being freely mentioned. He has held various official positions in England and is an intimate of the British royal family. Moreover he is very popular in Ireland.

At the same time there is a strong sentiment for the appointment of an untitled Irishman, and for the reduction of the position to one of austere simplicity and negligibility.

LONDON FASHION NOTES

London, Oct. 18.—(INS)—It is the forecasts of fashion footwear experts are fulfilled. Englishmen will soon be wearing shoes made of jazz-colored crocodile skin, and diners out will not be thoroughly fashionable unless they are shod with shoes of 'silver' patent leather.

Samples of these extravaganzas for the feet were on view at the Shoe and Leather Fair here. Some of the shoes exhibited were as lavishly decorated with colored designs as were the fancy vests of Victorian days.

SECRET STUDIES TRYING OUT NEW RUBBER PLANT

Experiments in California May Give That State New Source of Wealth; Guayule Shrub Planted On 200 Acre Tract to Produce Next Year

San Francisco, Oct. 18.—(INS)—Intensive experimentation is being carried on in California today to determine whether America's rubber problem may be solved by cultivation of the guayule shrub.

For the past three years secret scientific cultivation of this shrub has been in progress in the Salinas Valley, 150 miles south of San Francisco. More than 200 acres have been planted and next year will witness the initial harvest.

Great hopes are being held out that the harvest will be successful and that California will in time become a world rubber center.

Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover is reported to be among those greatly interested in the outcome of the Salinas Valley experiments.

The guayule shrub is a wild plant of Mexico. It grows like sagebrush in small patches in its native state. It has never been under cultivation.

Natives first discovered its properties by chewing it because of its elastic nature. Then American chemists studied the shrub and succeeded in producing from it a hard rubber of a high grade.

Various species of the guayule were next planted in the Salinas Valley for cultivation. Here the plant has thrived in a way it never was able to thrive in Mexico.

When fully matured, shortly after four years of growth, the shrub stands two feet high. When harvested the shrub is plucked, ground up like pulp and treated in large vats with chemicals.

The sap, or juice, is then refined as rubber.

Such rubber has already been developed from the guayule shrub. Those conducting the experiments in the Salinas Valley have utilized this rubber in automobile tires in tests. It is declared to be of a higher grade than the rubber imported from the British East Indies.

The guayule shrub thrives in ordinary California soil. No irrigation is necessary as it seems to secure all needed moisture from fogs and low hanging clouds.

It is estimated by agricultural experts that 2,000 pounds of guayule rubber can be produced to the acre.

PARIS DEAF ASK 'MIKES' FOR AID AT THEATRES

Paris, Oct. 18.—(INS)—An Association of the Deaf in Paris are asking that the theatres reserve the first two or three rows of seats provided with microphones for the unfortunate theatre-goers who are hard of hearing. This system is already working with great success in Germany, Switzerland and England.

American Girls Earn Coveted Solo Parts

Philadelphia, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The door to artistic stardom has been opened wider for two more American girls. They are Ruth Breton of Louisville, violinist, and Helen Traubel of St. Louis, soprano, who have been engaged as soloists with the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra at its exclusive Friday, Saturday and Monday concerts, with Leopold Stokowski, conducting. Miss Traubel appears here October 22, 23 and 24, and Miss Breton, December 17 and 18.

Soloists at these events hitherto have been selected only from among musicians such as Holman Rachmaninoff, and other celebrities with reputations of many years' standing.

Miss Breton and Miss Traubel have been chosen for solo parts on the basis of their careers of not more than two years. Dr. Stokowski has acknowledged their merits by presenting them at the concerts on an equal footing with artists whose names were known to the public, in some instances, before Miss Breton or Miss Traubel was born.

DON'T FAIL TO VOTE

There are always some persons who get into office who should not be there but always these office holders are as good as the voters who put them there and they are much better citizens than those who stay away from the polls on election day and make it possible for those undesirables, as they are called, to get into office.

Throughout the country this year effort is being made to get the voters to the polls on election day and what is going on elsewhere is also going on in our county. While Democratic nomination in Pitt County has for years been equivalent to election and the Democrats have not taken the trouble to go to the polls again on election day, this should not be the case and a continuance of this practice is only inviting disaster for the party. In state and national politics our country is rated by its voting strength in the elections and the attitude of the voters toward going to the polls is causing us to be rated very low. As a citizen it is your duty to take part in the choice of the county, state and national officeholders and as a good Democrat it is your duty to your party to make as creditable showing as possible every time the opportunity to vote is given you.

Chairman Hooks, of the Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee, has appealed to the precinct chairman and all other Democrats in the county to co-operate in getting the voters to the polls in the coming November election. If you are a good citizen and believe in performing one of the greatest duties of citizenship, you will heed the call sent out by Chairman Hooks and will be on hand when the polls open Tuesday, November 2.

UNIFORMS NEEDED

There was a time, when a band or orchestra was needed for any public occasion in this city, steps to secure a band from elsewhere were necessary, but since the organization of a high school band here there has been no necessity of importing musicians. On all recent occasions, private or public, the boys of the high school have filled an important place on the program but at this we do not believe that the people of the community fully realize just what this band means to Greenville. Each school term new pupils are added to the band and in this way the band is made a permanent proposition as the new pupils are ready to take the places of those who finish school here and go to college.

One of the band's greatest needs at this time is uniforms and recently the local Kiwanis club donated $50 to be applied to a fund for this purpose. About $500 is needed to fully equip the band and it is up to the other organizations and individuals of this city to see to it that the funds are forthcoming. The money spent on the band is not a donation but an investment, as the organization is worth to the city many times the amount asked.

It is to be hoped that the clubs and business houses of our city will see to it that the band is furnished with uniforms and what other equipment it needs.

PRESS COMMENT

CORRUPTION AND COMPLACENCY

(New York World)

Harry Daugherty's trial, following by just a half-century the arraignment of Secretary Belknap in 1876 upon charges essentially criminal, has added its touch to an uncomfortable parallel. There are close resemblances between the years following the Civil War and those after the World War. Both stand out as periods of flushed prosperity and overweening materialism. Both saw the Federal Government assume a hard, selfish and illiberal attitude—under Johnson and Grant toward the South, under Harding and Coolidge toward Europe. Both have disclosed grave social weaknesses. Above all, both have been marked by a succession of political scandals. The sorry group represented by Secretary Belknap, Orville Babcock, Oakes Ames, Gen. Schneck and Boss Tweed was never approached until the emergence of the Fall-Daugherty-Len Small, Newberry-McCray-Forbes group.

Most Americans have fondly believed that the national weaknesses revealed by the scandals of the Grant Administration would never again reach such magnitude. Those years plumed in Prof. Dunning's words, "the nadir of national disgrace." We have felt assured that we should never again witness such financial infamies as those committed by Fisk, Gould and Drew; such impudence in the looting of great cities as that of Tweed's Ring and the Philadelphia Gas Ring; such open bribery as reigned at Albany and Harrisburg; or such gross misgovernment as that of the carpetbag Administrations; and such a list of Federal scandals as began with the Credit Mobilier affair and reached its climax with the Whiskey Ring exposures. In the large view this belief may be justified. But some aspects of the recent scandals are calculated to destroy our complacency and make us ask if certain regards we have not lost instead of gained ground.

Bad as the national scandals a half-century ago were, their individual scope fell short of some which we have just witnessed. No Cabinet officer signed away rights which the buyer valued at a hundred millions, as Doherty valued his oil rights. No Cabinet officer figured in a transaction by which a $7,000,000 property changed hands, with a $441,000 gift to smooth the way. The crime for which Secretary Belknap was impeached and disgraced was the receipt of a total of but $20,000 for the grant of an Indian trade-right at Fort Sill. Grant's secretary, Babcock, flagrantly abused his trust and was almost certainly implicated in the whiskey frauds; but Grant was never imposed upon so treacherously as the Ohio Gang imposed upon Harding.

The ruin of the Freedmen's Bank, with its deposits by thousands of poor ex-slaves was a shameful story. But it is much less shameful than the robbery of tens of thousands of crippled and ailing veterans by Forbes, and his confederates in the Veterans' Bureau.

Yet it is not the respect in which the comparison is most unfavorable. It is when we look at the attitude of public opinion and party leaders that we should feel the most disquiet. The scandals of the Grant Administration evoked an immediate and powerful protest by eminent Republican leaders. They led in 1872 to the "Liberal Republican" revolt, which threatened Grant's re-election, until the nomination of Greeley made the revolt ridiculous. They called forth later a constant fire from Carl Schurz, Benjamin F. Bristow, Gen. Jacob Cox, Senator George Hoar and Charles Francis Adams. When reproached for crippling his party, Hoar spoke up more vigorously than ever. "What was said," he wrote, "helped to arouse public attention, and the masses of the people, always pure and incorruptible, set themselves earnestly and successfully to reform the abuses." Where is such a group in the Republican ranks today? We see Mr. Mellon, defending the Vire-Pepper slush funds. Senator Willis ecstatic over Daugherty's cleanness, and Senator Wadsworth belittling the oil exposures with a warning against partisan hypocrisy. Where are the voices of the other side?

A half-century ago not merely the independent press but the party press was warm in its condemnation and denunciation of political abuses. Godkin of the Nation, Curtis of Harper's Weekly, Bryant of the Evening Post, Bowles of the Springfield Republican, could be taken as a matter of course. But no paper was more aggressive for reform in 1872 than the Chicago Tribune under Horace White. In 1876 no journal was more scathing in its comment upon the party scandals and Grant's weaknesses than the New York Tribune; and the Times, which did so much to elect Hayes, ran it a close second. When Orville Babcock was acquitted in the Whiskey Ring trials, a long list of party journals expressed the opinion which the Baltimore American put in a sentence: "He is legally innocent and morally guilty." When Blaine staged his reading of the Mulligan letters a formidable list of Republican newspapers cut to the truth of the matter in the same way as the Cincinnati Gazette: "Fireworks—letters—fireworks. The question is, will the blaze blind the public to the real character of the jobbing letters?" Is the same alertness, independence and aggressiveness evident now? Does the Herald Tribune in its tepid comment on the Daugherty trial show any of the spirit which animated the Tribune of 1876 in assailing Grant for "permitting himself to be surrounded for seven years with all manner of baseness and dishonesty?"

The gravest accusation against the Republican party is not that it allowed such scandals as the Fall and Daugherty affairs to develop. Corruption is always waiting its opportunity; Senator Hoar thought the scandals under Adams and Jefferson were proportionately worse than under Grant. The real grave charge is that the Republican party and press have exhibited an unprecedented indifference, callousness, and self-righteousness in their attitude toward both the offenders and offenses. Yet the indictment cannot be drawn against a single political organization. The American people as a whole have reason to ask themselves if they have not shown, in the face of proved corruption accompanied by a flagrant breakdown of justice, and in the face of unethical if not actually criminal acts condoned by high national officers that are deeply discreditable and dangerous.

Milk Dairy

Chicago, Oct. 15. (AP)—Entering the wooded confines of the Rock River, a hundred miles to the west and north of Chicago, travelers on the Blackhawk trail may see, nestled in the cool green of the valley, glistening white buildings grouped cozily in a bend of the stream.

A low white fence encloses the buildings, a house on the bluff and some 2,200 acres over which grazes lazily a large herd of cattle.

The widow of Senator Medill McCormick and daughter of the late Mark Hanna, political power manages this establishment near town of Byron, giving her time and effort for one purpose—to provide pure milk for infants and invalids.

When her first baby was born about two years ago, Mrs. McCormick was amazed to learn that what is known as certified milk, containing a low bacteria count, was scarce. So she and her husband, who then had just resigned the management of the Chicago Tribune that he might serve in the state legislature, bought the "Rock River Farm."

Mrs. McCormick is not a kid-given farmer, although she has a superintendent who manages the place in her absence. She may often be found in the fields on around the shed and barns, supervising at first hand the care of the dairy.

"We are trying to work out a fool proof method of producing clean, raw milk at a minimum expense and a process of certification that is practical for any farmer to adopt," explains Mrs. McCormick. "Good milk is principally a matter of cleanliness. Every cow, every vessel, every man must be scrubbed every time the animal is milked."

Three quarters of the herd at Rock River Farms were born and bred there. The success of the breeding operations is attested by the fact that two thirds of all the Illinois state records for all ages and classes are held by cows and heifers belonging to Mrs. McCormick.

NOTICE OF LEAD SALE

Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in that deed of trust executed and delivered by Joe W. Moore and wife, Rosa Moore, to James L. Evans, Trustee, dated January 21st, 1925 and duly registered in Book U-15, at page 176 in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, the undersigned will on Saturday, November 20th 1926, at 12 o'clock noon, expose to public sale before the court house door in Greenville, Pitt County, North Carolina, to the highest bidder for cash a certain tract or parcel of land lying and being in Pitt County, North Carolina, and more particularly described as follows:

In Falkland township, adjoining the lands of J. P. Moseley, G. A. Newton and A. M. Wooten, containing 93.4 acres, known as Dave Wells Place and described in a deed from Mrs. S. E. Mayo to J. W. Moore, Sr., which is duly recorded in Book R-6, at page 591 in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, to which reference is hereby directed for more accurate description, less 1 1-2 or 2 acres lying on west side of Shiver's or Hurley's Branch and being the same land described in that deed from John W. Moore to J. W. Moore, Jr., dated February 4th, 1918 and duly registered in Book W-14 at page 581 of Pitt County Registry, to which reference is hereby directed.

As a one-seventh undivided interest in and to a tract of land in Falkland Township, containing 60 acres, more or less, inherited from his father John W. Moore by J. W. Moore, and being the same land of which the said John W. Moore was seized and possesses at the time of his death and has not as yet been divided among the heirs at law.

And also all the right, title and interest of the said J. W. Moore in the estate, both real and personal of his deceased father John W. Moore.

This October 16th, 1926. James L. Evans, Trustee

A THREE DAYS

COUGH IS YOUR

DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

STUDY SIBERIA IN BIG PROGRAM DEVELOPMENT

Area Twice the Size of United States
Greatest Exploitation
Chance

Washington, Oct. 16, (INS)—Western Siberia is one of the greatest areas of level, fertile farm land, awaiting development in all the temperate, cereal-producing regions, according to a survey of the commercial possibilities of this vast country prepared by the department of commerce.

Eastern and southeastern Siberia is a great forest region, immensely rich in minerals and already famed for its fisheries and furs.

The climate of these regions is not dissimilar to that of the Dakotas and Minnesota—with drier, lower temperatures it is drier, with many hours of sunshine per year, modifying the effect of the more northern latitude.

All of Siberia, however, is by no means either fertile or salubrious, according to the report. The northern part, bordering the Arctic ocean is a vast plain across which it is possible to look for miles and miles over growth of tundra. The ground is frozen deep down, the year around, only the surface thawing out during the warm season.

It is estimated that of Siberia total area of 5,000,000 square miles—nearly twice that of United States—about one-quarter is actually adaptable to human exploitation, aside from perhaps the fishing and fur industries, the report set forth.

Siberia is among the world's largest areas awaiting development.

ment. The gigantic distances in Siberia—5,000 miles from west to east and 2,300 miles from north to south—place the transportation questions and freight cost as the paramount consideration in any development plan.

"This unfavorable factor—distance—is accentuated, moreover, by remote from the most important world commercial centers, and nearly isolated from world-trade routes," the report continued.

Arctic ice blocks the way from the north and northeast; rebarren, mountainous close it in on the south east and west; while to the south scantily populated steppes and deserts hinder communication.

The main artery of human activity in Siberia is the Trans-Siberian railroad traversing the entire width from the Urals to the Pacific ocean. Rail transportation charges, however, are prohibitive in many lines of goods on long hauls.

Commerce department experts say that the water transportation facilities of Siberia assume special significance. An all-water route would insure to Siberia low freight coast between the world markets and any inland point and would be a factor of utmost importance in its commercial development.

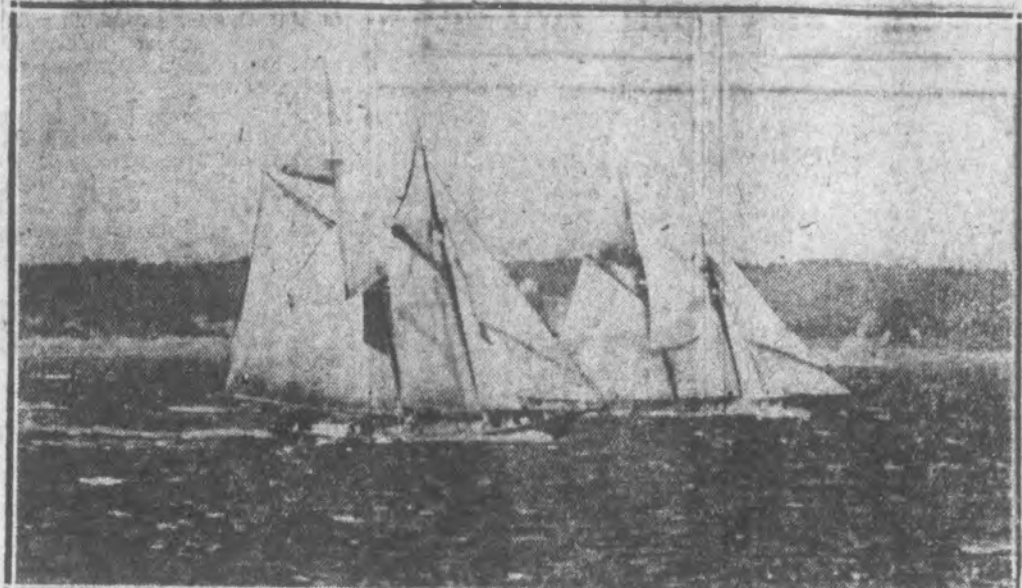

The country contains four of the mighty rivers—the Ob, the Yenisei, the Lena and the Amur and these with their tributaries form a network of waterways covering the entire length and breadth of the land.

It has been estimated, experts said, that with comparatively small outlay these waterways can be linked into one great all-Siberian water course, with outlets to the Pacific and Arctic oceans.

"To most people Siberia is a cold, bleak, forbidding region in which it is impossible to live with any degree of comfort," the report said.

That idea is derived from the narratives of explorers, fur traders, and persons imprisoned or exiled in Siberia who have emphasized the severities of the climate in a region where there are few conveniences of civilization.

A similar idea prevailed for many years with regard to western Canada. Literature as recent as within the last 40 or 50 years speaks of what has now become the most productive wheat region of the Canadian north-west as a "cold bleak and inhospitable section."

CABLE LETTER

London, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Even the Emir Feisal, the sheik of Sheikhs, son of the King of Hedjaz, has become westernized.

In spite of the fact that the emir still wears a turban and the glorious robes, and ivory handled swords of the Arabian desert, he insists on eating his meals in the regular dining room of the Hyde Park Hotel where he can watch the gay crowds doing the Charleston.

The attendants of the Arab potentate have done everything in their power to keep their charge aloof from ordinary mankind. They insisted on having his servants quartered on a different floor from that of the prince and also arranged a private dining room in his imperial highness' suite. But he balked and insisted on eating where he could see the merry throng.

Several of the better known British authors have never read certain mid-Victorian novels which have become household classics, so the Daily Express has discovered, while a few others have "discovered them only recently for the first time."

Arnold Bennett, for instance, has just read "A Tale of Two Cities." The audacious young author of the "Diary of a Young Lady of Fashion"—Magda's Kinghall—has selected at random from a list of unread tomes "The Last Days of Pompeii" by Bulwer Lytton.

Abandoning a custom of past generations of royalty, the Duke of York intends that his new town house, overlooking Green Park, shall be known merely as "his number." He does not propose to give it any name.

Before the Duke and Duchess of York start for Australia early next year, a miniature of their daughter, little Princess Elizabeth, is to be painted so that the Duchess may take it with her. The same artist has painted miniatures of the two sons of Princess Mary, which the Queen always takes with her on her travels.

Paris, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Yellow hantam corn on the cob and the Queen of Roumania are friends of old standing. This is one of the reasons why the Queen is said to have been looking forward to her visit to the United States. Marie made her first acquaintance with the sacrebleu and distinctively American dish years ago when as a guest at the home of an American diplomat in England, she engaged in her first truly American meal—with corn on the cob. The corn had been sent from the United States.

"A diabolical hound," was the epithet applied to Gene Tunney by a Parisian newspaper the morning after his victory over Jack Dempsey.

The insult was not printed in a reactionary or religious sheet opposed to fighting, but appeared in the leading sports paper of France, "The Auto."

No offense was meant, the French reporter, struggling with the dispatches from Philadelphia, all written in English, had merely translated the Marine's fond appellation of "devil dog" as applied to the new champion of the world, as "Un Chien Diabolique."

The labelled dance girl with the name of the dancer—Estelle Marie J. Eanne or Suzanne—cut out in black velvet in a decorative armlet of the same material is the new freak of fashion seen at early autumn social functions.

The armlet is fixed up above the elbow, in place of the more stereotyped slave bracelet of gold, ivory or jade. One particular cutout with the letters of the "earl's" christian name, Lay, outlined in rich black velvet against the whiteness of the skin.

Besides names, monograms and monomarks, lucky emblems are being cut out in similar armlets while another variety of the novelty was shown by a girl wearing a black velvet bracelet which had a cut out of a cat as a medallion in the center.

Berlin, Oct. 16.—(AP)—Twin brothers 84 years old, nearly quarrelled for the first time in their lives at their birthday party because an inquisitive reporter wanted to know which was the elder.

"Albert is the baby," said John Schack. "I was born 25 minutes earlier."

"Let's forget it," protested Albert. "Whenever he wants to make me angry he calls me baby. He's right in a way, but from the time we were born I've always had to push him along."

Though both are married and have married daughters, they virtually have gone through life together. They retired from business about 25 years ago, and now they spend their time taking long walks, playing cards and reading.

Two months after the city of Frankfurt succeeded amid much partisan strife in erecting a monument to the late Fritz Ebert, first president of the republic, some wise citizen has discovered that the authorities have already forgotten just when Ebert was chief executive. The inscription chiseled in the sandstone reads:

"Friedrich Ebert, president of the German reich, 1919-1924." As a matter of record Ebert served until his death in 1925.

Manchus, In Exile, Cling to Edicette

Tientsin, Oct. 16, (AP)—The court etiquette of centuries casts a shadow of the once regal supremacy about the throneless majesties of China.

The household clings tenaciously to a vestige of traditional form and sacredly observes respect for the young emperor without an empire.

In the small, carefully guarded house in the Japanese concession to which Hsuan Tung, tenth of the great Manchu line of emperors and empress dowagers, adventurously fled two years ago, "Ching An! Ching An!" the quaint and musical early morning greeting of immemorial usage, are the first words that daily reach the ears of the "Son of Heaven." The Manchus still are punctilious in their observance of age-old etiquette in the present day travesty of the once great Court now in exile.

As his tutors and more important followers tender their daily greetings to the head of the fallen Ching Dynasty, so does

GREENSBORO FINDS DIFFICULTY IN DISPOSING OF CIRCUS HORSE

Greensboro, Oct. 16, (AP)—Circus horse, were never built to be stuffed into city incinerators. Greensboro city employees discovered this when they attempted to dispose of a big draft horse which came here with John Robinson's circus and was so careless as to stray in front of a moving train and get slaughtered.

The railroad company moved the carcasses out to the incinerator and left it up to the employees there to dispose of it. The incinerator door is only 36 inches wide—a rat hole when stacked up against the Herculean shoulders of the erstwhile drawer of monstrous circus wagons.

The men scratched their heads considerably before they thought of a cross-cut saw. With it the legs were removed and the body finally admitted to the roasting furnace.

FAMOUS FRENCH RECIPES

Paris, Oct. 15.—(INS)—"Beans Chicago" were discovered by the French and very much liked by them.

Cook white French beans with a pound of salt pork. If they are dried put all to soak first in salt water. If they are fresh ones, let the pork cook one hour and then add the beans.

Brown a chopped onion in a little butter, mix with a tomato puree and add the beans with enough liquid to make a good sauce. Season well and put the beans into a gratin dish with the pork in the center. Bake in the oven for an hour.

Daily News Letter

Gossip of Staff Correspondents at World Centers of Population.

Moscow, Oct. 18. (INS)—An epidemic of defeated hope was cued here when Citizen Ivan Milichkin, who had walked for eight months across the heart of Asia and European Russia to escape from exile, was arrested two hours after he reached his destination. He is now on the way back, under guard, to Beg Bul, which situated on the border whether he had been sent a year ago, to expiate his offenses.

Milichkin performed a prodigy of effort, in escaping from Beg Bul, high situated on the border of the Great Hunger Steppe, not from Lake Baikal, is so far away from civilization and completely lacking in means of communication that exile sent there face almost certain death if they attempt to flee.

This citizen, however, "took his foot on his hand" as the Russians say, and hiked out for Moscow, 8,400 miles away. He skirted the Great Hunger Steppe, hiding by day and from the sun of the desert and walking at night. Further north winter overtook him and he stumbled through snow along the peasant roads, always walking at night, this time to avoid militia.

He covered an average of 14 miles every night of the eight months. He lived by begging and by petty thefts. The thought of liberty and of the friends awaiting him in Moscow kept his spirit strong.

Worn to a shadow, tattered, barefooted and looking like the ghost of an Arab blown in from the desert, Milichkin reached the outskirts of Moscow. He rested a bit, then wandered briskly into the Sukharevskiy Market, where he thought some friends of his might be. The first to recognize him was a policeman.

Milichkin only recompense for his long trek was the fact that even the police expressed regret at having to arrest him after they heard the story of his Odyssey. Moscow would lose all its ancient, semi-oriental character, its Chinese Wall, golden-domed churches and triumphal arches dating back to the time of Peter the Great if some Bolsheviks had their way. Protests from these iconoclasts have been heard against the administration's expenditure of money for restoration of the city's many historical monuments.

In the opinion of one Soviet publicist, I. Feodorov, Moscow will be a tremendous industrial center in fifteen years, and, since the city is already the principal political and cultural center of the Union, "it is hard to see why we should be hindered by a vast number of ancient walls, arches and houses which are now so old that it requires tremendous funds for their upkeep."

Luckily for Moscow the administration of the city is not in the hands of Feodorov. As long as Lunacharsky, Soviet Commissar of Education, is alive, the artistic memorial of old Moscow will not suffer from ill care. On top of the Kremlin tower the figures of the old imperial eagles still flaunt their black and golden wings. Lunacharsky once threatened to resign if the eagles were removed. It must be said for the Bolsheviks that they have knowingly destroyed nothing of artistic value.

Travelers from Moscow to Leningrad will need extra life insurance if the plans of the "October" railway management has announced that in the near future it will introduce trains which will run at the rate of 75 miles an hour, thus cutting the time required for travel between the two cities from 12 hours to 8 hours. The road, however, is hardly fitted to bear up under a heavy train traveling at such a speed, and it is not considered probable that the administration will be able to achieve its ambition soon.

MUCH PROGRESS IN ORTHOPAEDIC WORK IN NORTH CAROLINA

State Supervisor Reports More New Cases Brought in At Each Clinic

Raleigh, Oct. 18. — (AP) — Amazing progress in civilian rehabilitation work in North Carolina during the past twelve months was reported here by H. L. Stanton, state supervisor of industrial rehabilitation, upon his return from a swing through the Piedmont section of the state. "At North Wilkesboro there were thirteen new cases at the Kiwanis Orthopaedic clinic—more than at any of the other two clinics except the first," declared Mr. Stanton. This he indicated means that people are observing the results of the clinics and are flocking to them in greater numbers, thus making them of increasing rather than decreasing importance.

The work of the North Wilkesboro clinic over a twelve month period was presented last week at a regular meeting of the local Kiwanis club, which is sponsoring the enterprise. It was brought out that the North Wilkesboro clinic was the second established in the state, and was consequently a good example of the scope of the work in North Carolina. The Fayetteville clinic, started in September 1925, was the first of a dozen similar institutions now in operation.

The hospitalization clinics, Mr. Stanton explained, are not provided for by state appropriation and depend solely for support upon local civic organizations. The twelve now in operation in the state are sponsored by Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs in the cities where they are located. Surgeons donate their services, and the only expenses incurred are for expenses and supplies.

At the North Wilkesboro meeting H. C. Corpening, district supervisor, presented several cases that have been benefited by the clinics to the club as evidence of the good it was doing. Ina Mitchell, 23, of Jennings, Iredell county, appeared before the club, bright faced and walking with the aid of only one crutch.

Mr. Corpening related her story—of how she was discovered by the rehabilitation service with her left leg completely paralyzed as the result of infantile paralysis, and unable to earn a livelihood—of how she was operated on in December 1925 and remained in a Winston-Salem hospital in a bed paid for by the Winston Rotary club—how she was given a job in the Statesville telephone exchange and later, after only three weeks training, was given the position of operator at Troutman, N. C., at a good salary which included her quarters.

Mr. Corpening pointed out that had it not been for the generosity of the North Wilkesboro Kiwanis club in starting the clinic at which she was examined, for that of Dr. Robert Moore, of Winston-Salem, in donating his professional services, of the Winston-Salem Rotary club in donating the hospital expenses, and of the diligence of the vocational rehabilitation department in the bringing of the girl for treatment, she would still be a hopeless cripple and an object of charity.

He stressed the point that the case he had demonstrated was only one example of many in all of the twelve sections of the state served by rehabilitation officers.

Mr. Stanton, in charge of the work in the entire state, then told of the needs for continuing present clinics and of establishing new ones.

"Instead of the number of cases for treatment diminishing, there are more coming in as the results of the first treatments are being broadcast," he declared.

Memphis Has Unique Band of Criminals

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 18.—(INS)—Memphis' unapprehended criminals are a unique lot.

A nude burglar. A chick bandit. A barefooted burglar. The Shadow Gang Robbers. The petting party outlaw.

Above all the naked white man who has terrorized the southwestern section of the city with an unchecked series of house robberies in the wee hours of the morning has given police more trouble than any of the others.

A stylishly dressed young man, wearing bell bottom trousers, and a derby, who tells his victims that he is the "shiek bandit" has robbed many autoists by stopping motorists on the highways near the city at night by asking for a ride to town.

Another character in the underworld that causes police much speculation is the barefooted burglar. He leaves footprints outside the windows of houses he robs. "It'll soon be so cold he will have to wear shoes," muse
