POWER OF THE CHURCH THEME OF REV. STEVENS

Despite the inclement weather, a large crowd was in attendance at the revival meeting being conducted in the Immanuel Baptist Church, with Rev. Herman T. Stevens, of High Point, preaching. Taking as his theme "The Power of the Church," Rev. Stevens preached the strongest sermon of the series so far, showing that God's Holy Spirit is the power of the church; and that a church that depends upon any other power than the Holy Spirit is nothing more than a "pewit club."

Death Toll Estimated Between 25 and 30 With Injured Estimated at Close to 2000 - Property Damage Heavy Havana, Cuba, Oct. 21. (AP)—The toll of the hurricane which struck Havana yesterday is estimated today at 25 to 30 dead, 800 injured and property damage at $25,000,000. The list of casualties contained no names of Americans. The addresses indicated that the victims lived in the poorer sections of Havana.

Communication with all parts of the Republic was interrupted. No definite report had been received today as to the extent of the damages in the provinces outside of Havana through which the hurricane passed. Many Americans residing in the outlying suburbs were warned of the approaching storm and came in to Havana Tuesday night to escape it.

It is believed that nearly all the buildings in Havana have suffered damage but few have collapsed. The monument, erected by Cuba to the 206 Americans who were killed in the sinking of the Maine in 1898, was razed.

The heaviest damage occurred in the harbor where two steamers, five schooners, 40 fishing vessels, a number of launches and two barges were sunk. Four steamers and one schooner were badly damaged. Most of the persons killed were struck by falling roofs or by flying debris. The storm had passed the streets were littered with wreckage and troops of policemen patrolled the city. They were under orders from President Machado to shoot any looters.

The inundation in the lower parts of the city due to the high tides caused great damage and there is much need for temporary aid and shelter for the people. The water at times was several meters deep for three or four blocks south of the seawall. During the height of the storm thousands of barrels of gasoline and oil were destroyed when the tanks caught fire.

New Coast Pro F. Ball League to Open Nov. 7th

Los Angeles, Oct. 21.—(INS)—A professional football chick has been hatched on the Pacific Coast and, surveying its pin feathers today, it prepared to flap into flight November 7.

The industrial and commercial clubs representing Hollywood, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Oakland will play a two-months' schedule of Sunday games only. Although strictly a California league, the new recruit, composed of hope next year to expand to the Pacific Northwest, including clubs in Seattle and Portland. At present, however, the circuit is too much of a juggling act to attempt the long flight from San Francisco north.

The league is the first of its kind on the western coast. Los Angeles is represented by "Bick" Muller's team in the national circuit this year. The promoters most of its games on alien fields. Heretofore the coast's professional football has been adventitious, if not haphazard.

Notorious for their football enthusiasm, coast fans are expected to pack the stands at the professional football games. 77,000 persons paid to watch "Red" Grange play his end-reek with George Wilson last year—the greatest crowd that has ever attended a professional football game anywhere in the country.

The games will be played in the Coast League baseball parks. The Los Angeles and Hollywood teams will use Wrigley Field, and San Francisco and Oakland will play in their respective parks. Bart Macomber, former professional football star, managing the Oakland club, has enough confidence in the future of coast pro football to take a five year lease on the Oakland park.

The baseball owners are naturally enthusiastic over the new football circuit. Their parks heretofore have been idle nearly half the year and an innovation which will keep them in use for an additional two months at a profitable rental is welcome. The Pacific Coast Baseball League closes late in October; the professional football circuit will start November 7 and continue until mid-January. The baseball season reopens the first Tuesday in April.

An unusual plan for a professional football team, that of Johnny Hawkins, captain of the University of California team of 1924, who is managing the Hollywood club. Hawkins has decided to hire only former Trojans for the Hollywood team. He has already formed a nucleus by signing Hank Lefebre, back; Fay Thomas and Bill Cole, tackles; and Hobbe Adams, end. The Hollywood club will thus be a professional "Thundering Herd."

New Liner 'Andalusia, London To So. America

London, Oct. 20. (INS)—The increasing attention which British shipping companies are paying to the luxury trade to South America is emphasized by the launching here of yet another 20,000-ton liner to be used exclusively on the London-South American service.

She is the "Andalusia," built by Cammell Lairds to the order of the Blue Star line, and is one of five new passenger liners ordered by the line for service between London, Lisbon, Rio, Santos, Monte Video and Buenos Aires. The "Andalusia" and her four sisters—who, however, will be only 14,000 tons—will cater to the first class trade only and will embody every known luxury, specially installed to meet the requirements of South Americans.

Louisiana Campaign is One of Languages

Baton Rouge, La., Oct. 20. (AP)—He spoke to the voters in French from platforms in the Southern parishes, he addressed them in the English of North Louisiana; he "harangued" crowds in the Creole "patios" and in straight from the shoulder in American language.

And at the end of his campaign in the Democratic primary Dudley J. LeBlanc of Abbeville, scion of an old Louisiana French family, emerged with a lead of 15,462 votes.

LeBlanc's campaign was unique. Louisiana is divided, racially speaking, into North Louisiana and South Louisiana. North Louisiana is settled by the stock which is to be found in practically all other Southern States. South Louisiana's people are settlers, but most of them claim French descentants of the old French forebears, those famed Acadians who drifted down the Atlantic coast with Evangeline, Longfellow's heroine. These latter are commonly known as "Cajons."

So in South Louisiana he made his promise in French; in North Louisiana he made the same promise in English.

UTAH AGGIES HAVE GREAT TEAM THIS YEAR

Logan, Utah, Oct. 19.—(INS)—The football outlook at the Utah Aggies is the brightest it has ever been.

When Coach Dick Romney took over the coaching reins at the Logan school he began to build teams not for one year but for a period of years. The result has been strong teams over a number of years with a bumper crop at certain intervals. The Utah Aggies won the first championship in 1921 and now with the brightest prospects in a long time, the Utah Aggies are anticipating another conference title this season.

Coach Romney is never blessed with large squads or an over abundance of material but has succeeded in spite of this handicap. The Aggies lose only two men from the last year team, Laddingham and Jeff. Both vacancies will be filled satisfactorily by two of last year's substitutes and Gardner.

Queen Marie is here but Alexander, of Cardinal fame, is king in this country for the next year.

INDIGESTION

North Carolina Lady Says She Had An Awful Time With Indigestion, Till She Took Black-Draught.

Pilot Mountain, N. C.—"For several years I suffered with a bad case of chronic indigestion," says Mrs. Sam C. Inman, of this place. "I had bad spells with my stomach. At times I had severe pains in my right side. My stomach would get upset and I would have an awful time. It seemed like everything I ate disagreed with me. I was in pretty bad shape."

"My husband had been using Theford's Black-Draught for some time for indigestion. He had spells of it too, so he suggested that I try Black-Draught. I took some from his box, just to see if it would help me, and I found it was the very thing for my trouble. It did me a great deal of good. My condition was brought on by a chronic case of constipation and, by getting relief from this, I found my general health was much better."

"We keep Black-Draught in the house all the time. Whenever I find I need it, I take several doses and thus avert a bad spell of indigestion. It is a splendid medicine and I am glad to say so."

SEE FOR YOURSELF

If you don't believe the Greenville Tobacco Market is getting the richest dollar for the golden weed, just pay a visit to the sales and see for yourself what the various grades are bringing. An average of over thirty cents a pound for last week's total sales and an average of $34.70 for Monday's sales this week are the outstanding tobacco prices of the present season.

CAN'T WE DO IT?

Announcement has just come from Asheville that its entire community chest fund for next year has just been raised in a single day. Would not a proposition like this be the best plan for taking care of our own charities? What Asheville and other cities have done, we can do, and once we adopt the community chest plan, we will have no desire to return to the present method of wholesale begging day in and day out.

Let's get behind the community chest movement while the season for raising funds for public uses is ripe for such a drive.

THE WISE FARMER

It is now almost time for the planning of next year's crops and the wise farmer will include hog, hominy, and other necessary supplies in what he raises next year. The farmer who raises his own supplies will not be among the clammy howlers next season if the price of cotton is again held with the cost of production.

PRESS COMMENT

THE MODERN GIRL

(News and Coquery)
What is the trouble with the modern girl?
Prenchera and Lynea have combined to put her under the microscope, to dissect her traits, rebellion by rebellion. They've related to her short skirts, her painted, her bobbed hair, her insistence upon freedom and have found all of them evidences of decadent youth.
Here and there confident voices have cut through the harangues to say that there is no essential difference between the girl of yesterday and the girl of today.
A co-reporter of the News and Observer sends us a clipping from the Saturday Review of 1868. For all intents and purposes of application to modern youth, it might have come from the armistice today. It reads:
"The modern girl is a creature who dyes her hair and paints her face as the first articles of her religion."
Whose sole purpose of life is plenty of fun and luxury and whose dress is the object of such thought and intellect as the possessors. Her main endeavor in this is to outvie her neighbors in extravagance.
"With purity of taste she has lost also that far more precious purity and delicacy of perception which sometimes more than appears on this surface."
"The modern girl has done away with such moral stuffiness as consideration for others, or regard for counsel, or rebuke. "It was all very well in the old-fashioned times when fathers and mothers had some authority and were treated with respect, but she is far too fast and flourishing to be stopped by a mild rebuke by those slow old morals. "It leads to slang, bold talk and fastness, needless, at home dissatisfaction with the monotony of ordinary life, and horror of a 'useful work.'"

Apparently the girl of the sixties, grandmother of the girl of 1926, was a menacing modernism to her own elders.

FEWER BUT MORE SHOCKING CRIMES

(New York World)
The volume of crime in the United States is diminishing, according to Sanford Bates, who is President of the American Prison Association. "A study of an expert, but 'spectacular' crimes shock the public and absorb attention. Our problem is 'to adopt the machinery of the twentieth century to meet the changing conditions.' New methods must meet new methods."
There was a striking example of this truth in the descent of an organized gang of sixteen or eighteen robbers in mass upon a Chicago business building. The use of the machine-gun in Chicago and its suburbs and the many murders of bootleggers and gangsters might give the impression that the city was given over to its criminal element. As a matter of fact, in Chicago, as in New York, the burden of ordinary unsensational crime upon the community tend, to decrease.

Better organization on the part of thieving gangs, often murderously, call for better organization of the forces of prevention and correction. For better and prompter trials. For further revision of criminal codes. There is, as Mr. Bates says, no occasional for pessimism. There is need for skill.

Fight Grows Hot in Iowa Campaign For U. S. Senate

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 20 (INS).—With a seat in the United States Senate the prize, Smith W. Brookhart, former United States Senator and Claude Porter, Democratic nominee, have swung into the final stretch of Iowa's fall election with the attention of the entire country upon the outcome.
Unseated last spring when his own party helmed out him from the senate, Brookhart staged a great comeback in the spring primary sweeping the late Senator Albert B. Cummins under an avalanche of votes to win the Republican nomination. At the time of the primary the "old-guard" of Iowa was backing Senator Cummins, and while it has been a difficult task for many of them, they are now generally lined up behind Brookhart.

Members of the Republican state central committee, who went into the Brookhart-Steck contest and gave both time and money to help Steck win out, are now backing Brookhart.
William Stearns state Republican chairman, addressing a district meeting in a section still hostile to Brookhart, declared Republicans of the state should get squarely behind their candidate.
"When Brookhart gets to Washington—and he is certainly going to go—he will feel more disposed to line up with the administration if he goes with the help than if we oppose him," Stearns declared.

The Democrats, with Steck already in Washington, are making the most of the opportunity and are leaving nothing untried in the fight for Porter.
Both men are running on a farm relief program and there is little to pick from in their own words. Both are stamping the state and reading each other at long range.

The election of a man to fill out the unexpired term of the late Senator Cummins is a more formal, the Democrats having failed to place anyone in the run-off against David Stewart of Sioux City. Stewart was named by the old Cummins crowd over the protest of Brookhart adherents. Following his selection in 1926, he was appointed United States senator by Governor Hammill to serve until the election.

COUNT SALM COUNTESS SALM

PETER SALM H. H. ROGERS

Count Ludwig Salm von Hoogstraeten's suit for separation against his wife, the former Millicent Rogers, was scheduled to go on trial in New York October 25. Custody of Peter Salm, their child, is an issue. Colonel Henry H. Rogers, the bride's father, brought his wife home three months after the heiress married the impoverished count.

LINCOLN FRAMED NOTED ADDRESSES WHILE WALKING

Chicago, Oct. 21, (AP)—Boxes upon boxes of his papers, now safely stored away, bear evidence that Abraham Lincoln caught solitude for his thoughts, as he walked.
To visualize Lincoln scribbling thoughts on envelopes on his daily walks in Washington, was the privilege of one of the few men who viewed his letters and papers before the death of Robert T. Lincoln removed them from further perusal for twenty years. They show Lincoln's method, the development of his ideas, the fact that his most famous addresses were rephrased and rewritten sometimes four and five times, until they became finished gems of rhetoric.
It shows Lincoln stopping in his coat pocket for note paper. He finds none, but finds a number of letters. He takes the envelope from one fears it open at each end and turns it inside out. There he writes his idea. His walk continues. Perhaps a second envelope would be used, a second idea noted.
Back at his desk he would take a piece of foolscap paper, trim the envelope down to the size of his notation on it, and paste that clipping at the top of the foolscap. Length that clipping the idea is developed. The sheet is marked number one. Under it, a second sheet whereupon the original idea is developed and then a third sheet and perhaps a fourth and fifth, bearing revisions. Some sheets have two revisions, others three.
Hundreds of foolscap notes with such pieces of envelope for headings, are in Lincoln's papers, indicating his thoroughness, for example the last draft of the final paragraph of his second inaugural address are cited. They show forcefully the working of his mind, the careful development of an idea into a thing of beauty.
"I am loathe to do it," the last draft read. "We do not entertain our friends. We must not be enemies. Their presence may have strained it, but not break it. I have a hundred of them." The next

U. S. VISITORS MAKE SWEDEN GET BUSY

Denver, Colo., Oct. 20, (INS).—Because of the increasing number of American tourists to Sweden, that country is going to place tourist reports along American lines, according to Dr. Carl Julius Arrick, of Stockholm, director of the Swedish Tourist Society, the Swedish Geographical Society and several other bodies, mostly of a scientific character.
Dr. Arrick, who is in Denver on his way to Sweden, said his study of American travel agencies with its increased number of tourists, especially over the past few years, had already been already noted by the Swedish Tourist Society, the Swedish Geographical Society and several other bodies, mostly of a scientific character.

RUTH HIT FIRST HOME RUN IN NORTH CAROLINA

King of Swat Clinched First Job by Knocking Ball Out of Fayetteville Park

Fayetteville, Oct. 21.—(AP)—Fayetteville probably has many young baseball fans and possibly some of the older ones who did not know that Babe Ruth knocked his first home run on the local diamond. More than 38,000 fans saw Babe Ruth smash home run records in St. Louis, but only a few spectators were present when he hit his first circuit drive 12 years ago.

Jack Dunn, his first boss, writes Mr. Linticum, divide your squad into two groups at Fayetteville, N. C. where the team trained in 1914 for practice games. Ruth was placed on the first squad, and although signed as a pitcher, was used in his first game at shortstop.

In his initial time at bat Ruth drove the ball out of the park into a cornfield which adjoined the baseball field.

Ruth touched every base and was sitting on the bench before Motzette picked up the ball. The ball had no roll since the cornfield had been plowed only a few weeks. The Bambino made other long hits during his stay in training camp and later at Oriole park, but none went so far as his first wallop.

Ruth learned to play ball on the sandlots of Baltimore and later at St. Mary's Industrial School. He was signed by Dunn on a recommendation by Brother Gilbert, of Mount St. Joseph's College, and, being a minor, Dunn was made his guardian.

Ruth looked the part of a player at the first time he donned a uniform. He was 6 feet and 1 1/2 inches tall, weighed 165 pounds and could throw and hit with great skill for a youngster. He played every position on the St. Mary's team, but spent most of his time in the pitcher's box or back of the bat.

Dunn used him as a pitcher and pinch hitter while a number of the Baltimore team, where he pitched with marked success, Dunn sold him in 1916 to the Boston Red Sox.

Boston later sold Ruth to the New York Yankees. His record with the Yankees is a matter of history. He had a poor year in 1925, but his comeback this season was mainly responsible for the success of the Yanks.

BLACK WINTER IS IN PROSPECT FOR GREAT BRITAIN

Long Drawn Coal Strike and Other Disturbances Forecast Hard Times

London, Oct. 21.—(INS)—The prospect of a very black winter for Britain is disturbing all social observers.

No better criterion of the present state of affairs can be found by the official figures of the country's revenue for the financial half year ending September 30. These show that revenue was $108,000,000 less than for the corresponding figures of last year, while expenditure was over $29,000,000 higher.

These figures are the result of catastrophes which even yet have not nearly made their full effect felt. The general strike, followed by the long drawn out miners strike, have everywhere brought damage to trade and commerce. Works have been closed, new man- ufacturers have been postponed, credit has been generally restricted by the banks, luxury trades have been almost suspended, and except in London, theatres, cinemas and amusements generally have been hit almost beyond repair.

The miners' strike by itself has been the result of a number of mines being closed down because it will be economically profitable to reopen them. Others, because of safety men being withdrawn, have been permanently damaged or flooded.

Many more will find their capital insufficient to re-start working. Apart from this, valuable markets, Lither, the exclusive stronghold of Britain, have been captured by the United States, Germany and Poland.

As for the miners themselves their lot is a pitiable one. Few have had sufficient in the shape of strike allowances to maintain their homes. In most districts, relief for wives and children was cut off immediately by the municipality after the first few weeks. The result has been that in endless cases, the miners' homes have been sold up or else hopelessly mortgaged.

Indirect effects have been almost equally serious. Trades dependent on coal fuel have been up to a point only slightly less than the mining industry itself. Many works have tried to keep going on German coal but have found it unsatisfactory for their needs. The results has been again the loss of valuable contracts.

As regards the town-dwellers who know a little of the miner and his conditions, consequently have been almost equally severe. Prices have everywhere risen against him. He is threatened with new heavy taxation, and municipal assessments are increasing rapidly. Added to that it is impossible for the working and middle classes in Britain to pay $18 to $20 per ton for ordinary household coal—almost the only means of interior heating in the country.

Altogether, by the loss of coal production, by indirect loss of trade, the strikes this year have cost Britain close on $2,500,000,000.

BETTER AND BRIGHTER WAITERS FOR PARIS Paris, Oct. 21.—(INS)—The general grab of the conventionally dressed waiter has proven too sore for diners who want to savor the traditional gaiety of Paris, and some of the arzier restaurants are experimenting with new uniforms.

In one hotel dining room full dress coats of blue considerably lighter than navy, with brass buttons and white ties are being tried out.

Several restaurants have discarded the Tuxedo type coat with black tie for a modification of evening dress, with the white tie.

NATIONS IN ARREARS ON PAYMENTS FOR SUPPORT OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Geneva, Oct. 21.—(INS)—Balance sheets of the League of Nations show that many nations are in arrears in their quota payments for the upkeep of League headquarters and its activities.

China owes the League a total of $628,000 and is the heaviest debtor. Being in arrears did not prevent China being elected to a temporary seat on the Council during the last Assembly. The Republic of San Salvador, also holding a Council seat, owes the League the modest sum of $6,637.

Peru, reputed Eldorado, owes $175,835. Bolivia owes $37,000, Honduras, $13,999, Nicaragua, $20,000 and Lithuania $11,400. Several states have credit balances, including Great Britain with $387,031, France with $344,039, Belgium with $106,012 and the Dominican Republic with $709.

MICHIGAN COACHES NOT IN FAVOR OF THE BAN ON SCOUTING

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 21.—(INS)—Michigan coaches do not look in favor of the move in the east to abolish scouting or football games.

"Ted" Wienan, assistant director of intercollegiate athletics declared today that he saw little need for ending the scouting arrangements in the western conferences.

"In the Big Ten the coaches expect scouts at their games and send their kids to the various schools, who request them. Scouts are treated much like visiting professors, and everything is open and above board. Scouting has done much to eliminate the self appointed alumni scout and has actually built up a strong bond of friendship between the universities," he said.

COMMISSIONERS LAND SALE North Carolina—Pitt County By virtue of authority vested in me as Commissioner in that special Proceedings in the Superior Court No. 2713 W. J. Clark et al vs. J. S. Clark et al. I shall sell to the highest bidder for cash at the Court House door in Greenville on Monday, October 25th, 1926, at noon, those tracts of land in Belvoir township, this county, known as the J. H. Clark land, lying on the Belhel and swamp road now being a new highway from Bethel to Bell's Cross Roads.

The first tract containing sixty acres, more or less, described in deed from J. A. Porter to J. S. Clark made in 1874 and recorded in Book A-3, page 86, Pitt County Register of Deeds said tract being known as the Jesse Stancill land.

The second tract known as the Windham land, bought of J. T. Thomas and covering about sixty acres and described in Book N-4, page 552.

Two small tracts of woodland, containing ten acres and twenty acres, respectively, will be sold separately and later with the above described land so as to make a complete farm with open and woodland sufficient for pasturage and wood supply, and in order to bring the best price.

This sale is made for division of the property between the heirs of J. H. Clark, deceased, well known property in Belvoir township, this county, and the boundaries will be more accurately set forth in deeds to purchasers.

This September 26th, 1926. S. J. Everett, Com.

FORECLOSURE SALE OF LAND

Under authority of that deed of trust executed and delivered to M. K. Blount, trustee, by J. C. Mayo and wife, Susie D. Mayo, which bears date January 18th, 1924, and is recorded in G-15, page 152, public registry of Pitt county, the undersigned will on Monday, November 1st, 1926, at 12 o'clock M., before the court house door in Greenville, expose to public sale, to the highest bidder for cash, the following described parcel or lot of land:

Situate in Greenville Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, beginning at a stake on the old county road being a corner of lot No. 6, on said road, and also the corner of lot No. 2, in a division of the Whitehead land owned by R. J. Cobb and surveyed by J. B. FILM FAVORITES FURNISH FASHIONS FOR THIS SEASON

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 20.—(INS)—Because maid and matron alike go to motion picture shows for fashion's sake as well as pleasure Hollywood is taking rank with Paris—dictating what shall be worn to tea, on the golf course, and along the boulevard.

Betty Compson this fall is appearing in a delectable costume of black or white or red; channel red and Chinese lacquer being especially favored by the little actress. Her pet hobby for the season is leather coats and she has one of white and one of red, lined with dyed mole in matching shades and worn with felt hats of the same color. She prefers velvet for her straight-lined frocks.

For street wear, Miss Compson has chosen a trio of velvet three-piece outfits in her favorite shades black, white and lacquer red, worn with soft felt hats. One of the actress' favorite evening gowns is made of fragile white chiffon, simply made with the waistline a trifle below normal.

Mildred Davis' Lloyd, pretty blonde wife of the celebrated and bespectacled Harold, is another devotee of velvet, particularly favoring dark blue and black. She is lovely in her black velvet Etou frock with its bloom of red lace and collar cuffs of ermine, worn with black velvet hat.

For evening wear the comedienne's wife has chosen an Alice Blue chiffon; a pale pink chiffon trimmed with crystal; two and three soft velvets; Alice Blue, light blue and shell pink.

Marion Davies, the blonde cosmopolitan star prefers frocks in the pastel shades. Miss Davies wears these soft colorings almost entirely avoiding the extreme in fashions.

Soft grays and blues, powder blue especially, are predominant tones in Miss Davies' costumes. For the afternoon they are smart soft silks, not too fuzzy yet not too severe in style. For evening gowns she prefers delicate chiffon in blue, white, flesh and other pastel shades.

The dainty blonde star also fond of sport costumes, with them she wears sport sandals to match. Her evening footwear is of gold or silver brocade.

When Mary Pickford returned from Paris recently she brought with her a handsome chinella coat, selected especially for Miss Davies, and a leather coat in blue. Miss Pickford also selected several trunks of Paris frocks which are now on their way to Miss Davies.

TAR HEEL RETURNS TO ROARING BOARDS

Charlotte, Oct. 21.—(AP)—A flag frantically waved in front of Tar Heel joins the ranks of the world famous automobile racing drivers. R. Glenn Bowman, who speaks with the soft tongue of the Southland, will wedge himself into the seat of a costly racing machine here on the noted Charlotte Speedway when the signal comes from Fred J. Wagner, internationally known starter, to drive into line for the first thrilling event on Armistice Day.

When Bowman pulls his goggles down over his eyes to protect them from the blinding rush of wind as he roars around the giant saucer at a 130-mile an hour gait with the other renowned pilots, he will find his dream of seven years come true.

Back in 1919, on a sunny summer afternoon, spectators jammed into the old wooden grandstand of the fair grounds at Lawrenceburg, Indiana, saw the dreaded yellow mer heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey, has a penchant for period gowns with tight bodices for evening wear. One she especially favors is a stunning black taffeta, with bright velvet and beaded flowers in red, blue and corn color, cleverly app'qued on the bodices and the rather full skirt.

Senia Owen is wearing these days a new afternoon gown of powder blue crepe romaine, trimmed with narrow bands of chin-chilla and a pink water lily gracing the shoulder. The sleeves are enormous and have eight narrow rows of chin-chilla. Two drapes, edged with the same fur, hang from the shoulders to the hem. With this she wears a large powder blue velvet hat, trimmed with silver, and featuring the popular tam o'shanter crown.

When Julanne Johnston goes shopping she wears a gray tailoring suit of an English weave, a small gray velvet beret hat gray alligator shoes. If chilly breezes are blowing, she adds a smart persimmon lamb topcoat. A vibrant note in this scale is a plaid scarf of heavy silk.

Virginia Valli wears for tea an attractive Mandarin coat of vivid blue, heavily embroidered with Chinese dragons and flowers of delicate hues. She favors Suzanne Lenglen tennis frocks in pastel shades of sport wear.

U. S. Razors Join List of the British Dislikes London, Oct. 20, (AP)—The American safety razor has now been added to the two other pet dislikes of a large number of Britishers—American plays and American films.

The House of Commons has heard a lot about safety razors since the British army decided to issue them to soldiers—many years after most other large countries had abandoned the old-fashioned razor.

The suspicion that British temptees might be forced to shave with American safety razors and the blades will be British-made. Sir Alfred Butt is tired of the complaints about imported plays and made the statement: "I know there is a small minority who consider it a desecration that musical plays imported from America should be successfully produced at Drury Lane Theatre, but I am rather sickened with all this chant."

He was speaking of "Rose Marie" which has been running without interruption for eighteen months at The Drury Lane. He has earned profits aggregating more than $185,000 and has turned the theatre from a losing to a highly profitable playhouse.

"For all art has its nationality," Sir Alfred said in his report to Drury Lane stockholders. "I am satisfied that the more than two million persons who have seen the play were more benefitted from a national point of view than they would have been by many of the so-called 'international' plays which are largely upon salaciousness and sensuality for their success."

This was a punch at Basil Dean with whom Sir Alfred had a row about the production of "Rose Marie." Dean threw up his connection with the theatre and predicted "Rose Marie" would be a failure.

Protests against American films have been about as futile, apparently, as those directed against American plays. Harold Lloyd and many other American film stars draw record crowds in spite of attacks which many film critics have made upon American films.

British picture theatres by a majority vote decided against a plan which would have forced them to show a certain quota of British made films.

Imperial Household of Two Wives Happy

Tientsin, Oct. 21. (AP)—Two wives in the royal household of China create problems, but apparently without disturbing the orderliness of the life Hsuan Tung, the youthful emperor without an empire, is spending here in exile.

His household is said to be happy one despite, or perhaps because of, the fact that he has two consorts, both among the most beautiful women to be found in the length and breadth of this vast country.

Hsuan Tung married Princess Kuo Chin-Si on December 1, '22 who became the empress. On December 4 in the same year he took a "secondary wife" who was described as his "real love" and made her his "Eastern consort."

The empress is the most beautiful. She is conscious of her exalted rank and of the tribute that always has been paid to it in court ceremonial. She rules as first wives always have done in China, and her word is law.

She has great taste in dress and is a fairly wealthy woman, for her grandfather was viceroy of Manchuria and her father was also a high official. The father was created a duke at the same time on the empress marriage.

The second wife is the more charming of the two. She came of more lowly rank and has known life as many of those not too sheltered know it. She is clever and witty and a most delightful companion.

The Manchu ladies who attend any court ceremony such as is occasionally held at the emperor's residence still follow the rule which requires that they shall all look alike in height and that their skirts shall be neither longer nor shorter than four feet two inches. There are difficulties sometimes when the descendant of the illustrious Chien Lung accepts invitations to foreign social functions. A problem arose when the emperor and empress and the second consort were invited to a farewell dinner to the emperor's foreign tutor. Men are not allowed to touch even the hem of the empress, still less to sit beside her. The two imperial ladies were placed side by side with a foreign lady on one side and the emperor on the other and all was well.

The annual ball of the St. George society is one of three great social events of the year among foreigners. The English society invited the emperor and he appeared not only with the empress but his number two consort.

sort, raising a question of precedence involving Manchu royalty, the British consul general and his wife and the president of the society and his wife. It was neatly solved by the ready wit of the British official's wife. The fact that the society's president was a tailor did not detract from the picturesqueness and dignity of the official procession.

Many Racing Cars Arrive in Charlotte

Charlotte, Oct. 20.—(INS)—Ten of the racing cars, which have been entered for sprint races to be held here Nov. 1, reached Charlotte Saturday and will be followed by their drivers at an early date.

Frank Lockhart, Bennie Hill, Dave Lewis, Fred Comer, Harry Hartz, Pete DePole, Tony Culotta, Frank Elliott, Dr. William R. Shattane and Cliff Weedburg are among the drivers who are expected to reach here during the next few days.

Many other drivers, who have previously raced on the Charlotte speedway, have entered the Armistice Day races. Fred Wagner, official starter at the speedway, has received messages from drivers who state they will be here soon.

The Princess of Wales has taken more strongly than ever to golf. Observers of his progress agree that it has been considerable.

COLORADO SEES CHIEF INTEREST IN U. S. SENATE

Old Party Platforms in State Campaign Fail to Excite People; Senatorial Toga, Chief Prize, Sought by Two Extremes

Denver, Colo., Oct. 20.—(INS)—With the publication as required by law of the platforms upon which candidates of Democratic and Republican parties will run from office, the political pot in Colorado has begun to perk up.

It's doubtful if the voters pay much attention to the verbose and high sounding declarations in these statements of policy and promises. This year, there was a remarkable unanimity in the documents. Each is dry. Each denounces seizure of state school lands by Uncle Sam. Each demands protection of the state's water rights. Each urges relief through cooperative marketing and other measures to the poor farmer.

The Republican platform fails to make the usual commendatory references to Gov. Morley's Republican state administration. The Democrats refer to this omission, which is taken as a slap by anti-Republican at Gov. C. J. Morley.

The real interest in the campaign lies, as not unusual, in the United States senatorial race. For the two major parties are matched in the struggle for the toga two extremes in political alignments.

William E. Sweet, Democrat, former governor, is a rich man, a bond broker, who holds to very progressive policies. He is apparently without any fear of big business, as he demonstrated during a term of governor when he achieved many of his pet reforms, despite the fact that he had opposed to him a Republican legislature.

Republicans and even some in his own party class Sweet as a radical, a socialist. His father, Channing, has run for several offices on the Socialist ticket. Sweet is strong on farm relief, and had the satisfaction of seeing Republicans adopt this year his original plan of cooperative marketing.

Charles W. Waterman, the Republican senatorial contender, is the very antithesis of Sweet. In all respects save that he also is a rich man. Waterman's occupation is that of lawyer, wherein he has prospered as general counsel for the Great Western Sugar Company.

He is known as rather reserved, a very icicle his enemies call him. Coolidge, a boyhood chum in Vermont in fact. His policies are ultra-conservative his chief battle cry one of high tariff protection for the state's sugar beet industry. In 1924, he managed Coolidge's Colorado campaign. He is making a strong bid for farm support, which Sweet claims as his by right of past performance in the behalf of agriculture.

The race for governor is exciting in the closing stages. The opponents here are William H. "Billy" Adams, for forty years a Democratic state senator from Alamosa, conceded to be the greatest parliamentarian in Colorado, and by virtue of this qualification having been one of the most powerful men in state government, tho usually in the minority party.

Billy if elected will be Colorado's first cowboy governor. He opened his campaign by rounding up 4,000 cattle and personally branding the calves.

Oliver H. Shoup, Colorado Springs millionaire, is the Republican standard bearer. He was twice before governor, is conservative but is opposed bitterly by organized labor because of his actions in suppressing strikes in the coal fields, which resulted in loss of life.

Notable in both state slates is the almost absolute exclusion of candidates who two years ago were operating under the aegis of the Ku Klux Klan.

The names of eight women will appear on the November 2 ballot. Five women are seeking election as representatives in the state legislature from Deaver county—three Republicans and two Democrats; two women are candidates for superintendent of public instruction—a Republican, Katherine L. Craig, and the Democratic incumbent, Mary C. C. Bradford. In Las Animas county, in southern Colorado, the Democrats have nominated a woman as their candidate for the lower house of the legislature. Two women congressional candidates lost their fight in the state primary.

AS NEW YORK SEES

Fifth Avenue is still one place where it is fashionable to use legs especially if your clothes are worth being inspected. And it lets you observe the latest models in legs. Time was when you had to look for legs in the chorus but no longer—Fifth Avenue is the big parade of everything in the Jim's line.

Even the old cow has broken into Fifth Avenue, not on all four of her feet, but with her hide. She has had a prominent place on fashionable menus ever since New York began to exalt the head waiter, but now her hide has got into the smart shops made up in to fur coats. You can get something smart in either Holstein or Jersey, or whatever is your favorite dairy herd.

Most of men, in the West, are afraid of spats, yellow gloves and canes, but in New York it is different—men here trim themselves up, even on week days.

The derby hat is back, not the brown derby, but the black bowler. It is one item of a correct ensemble with a double breasted vest, so short that it looks like a chest protector, spats, gloves and canes. The canes are crookless, topped with a silver cap.

New York is kind to the fat. Among Broadway's newest men. They dress them up in gold braid and brass buttons and stand them in front of the swagger shops by way of service, but mostly for decoration. One of these gold trimmed doormen is as important to some shops as its big brass door knob. There also are this door men, but the fat boys with their inviting smile seem to be the favorite model.

Many of the big office buildings in the downtown section house thousands of people. And when the elevators begin to pour them forth into the streets for lunch it takes traffic squads of policemen to handle the streaming crowds.

A China town restaurant—there are a number which still hang on to all the trappings of the Occidental version of the Celestial dining place—is making quite a play on a special dinner, which runs thirty courses. One dish consists of cabbage, cooked as the stuffing of roast chicken. The chicken is thrown away after serving as the roasting utensil.

A rainy day does not daunt many of the Fifth Avenue bus patrons who prefer to ride on top. They chamber up stairs and sit under a canopy of umbrellas.

Tho it probably is the birthplace of more new songs than any other city in the world, the metropolis still harks back with melodies unto its old favorite, "The Sidewalks of New York."

The gilded night supper clubs are touting up their furnishings for the coming of the big "Butter and egg" men with the opening of the winter season. Most of the clubs will have formal openings this month and are featuring popular dance orchestras and entertainers.

Problems will be solved by mutual arrangement among members of the radio industry, through the novelties is self-photography. An establishment, somewhat on the style of the penny-arcade of other days, has been opened where for the price of twenty-five cents one can take eight snapshots of oneself in as many minutes.

Peddler, in pursuit of "business" on Madison Avenue, which is one of the main lines of defense of the high priced shops, are having "hard going." In addition to competing with the merchants who have "arrived" in that quarter, they are encountering the uncommercial but strictly business eyes of the police department's Mendicancy Squad. The watchful Fifth Avenue Association, whose inspectors are also doing their bit for the common weal, reports that "a great many arrests have been made."

Radio to Take More Vital Place In Nation's Life

Washington, Oct. 20.—(INS)—There is not the slightest danger that broadcasting will deteriorate in its service to the American public, according to Judge S. B. Davis, solicitor of the department of commerce, and among Secretary Hoover's chief radio advisors. A continued march of expansion is seen by Davis. He declared that the broadcasters and public will determine the most valuable uses of this form of communication and the radio will take even a more vital place in the life of the nation than now.

Absence of regulation, chaotic conditions here and there, serious interference, and air free to anybody who can raise the price of a broadcasting station present difficulties, but they are simply steps in radio development, according to Davis.

"Problems will be solved by mutual arrangement among members of the radio industry, through the working out of fundamental laws which have solved other tangled competitive projects, or through channels of legislation," Davis declared.

"There are many theories as to the best manner of meeting the threatened difficulties. No one has yet presented a panacea, but we may be certain that in some way or other, radio lanes will remain open and traffic will move freely without interference."

A radical change in the function of the radio receiving set was predicted by Davis. He said that there will be less and less studio programs and more transmissions of actual events.

The true and final purposes of a radio set will be in the placing of its owned in contract with what ever event he desires to attend, whether it be church, theatre, prize fight, league baseball game or political speech—whether it be in New York, London, or San Francisco," Davis said.

There must be consideration given to the economic phases of such a change—the lectures and other events broadcast to the world must be financed—but new demands upon radio will be met by new methods of eliminating the difficulties, just as the scientific and legal pitfalls that cast shadows over the course of development today are vanishing with better understanding and knowledge.

Davis anticipates the use of the receiving set as the newspaper is used—to keep in touch with what is happening. In addition to reading the news paper description of the event after it has occurred we will actually listen in as the event is transpiring," he explained.

"Development is likely along utility lines rather than in the mere transmission of music and entertainment."

Davis said in one field radio is unique—that is from the broad-

Aviation to Aid in Development of Great Riches

Leavenworth, Kansas, Oct. 20.—(INS)—When Byrd and Amundsen flew over the North Pole they opened the door to a new world where future generations will find riches beyond measure. They blazed the trail to a new Eldorado. They pointed the way to promised lands of tomorrow—those lands which are barren wastes today.

Dr. Frederick A. Cooke, Arctic explorer, thus sees a new significance in the history-making flights of the young American aviator and the famous Norwegian explorer. His prophecies of the far-reaching results which will come from these two triumphs of aviation are in an article given to International News Service thru the courtesy of Warden W. I. Bidle of the federal penitentiary here, where Dr. Cooke is serving a sentence. The article also appeared in the Leavenworth New Era, a publication for prisoners.

There will come a time, sooner or later, when mankind will be faced with the urgent necessity of finding new sources of its economic needs, the explorer states. Having exhausted the present sources, there will be but one course to follow—that of re-exploring all the little-known regions of the earth. And there is every probability that in this little known regions, in the Arctic and Antarctic in the deserts and the far off lands, will be found the resources so critically needed. Dr. Cooke points out. The barren, uninhabitable places of today will be the lands of sustenance tomorrow.

HOW much fun you get out of a pipe depends largely on one thing: the tobacco. The pipe itself is the accessory, after all. The tobacco's the thing. That's why the most contented bunch of smokers in the world smoke Prince Albert exclusively.

Cool as a cove, sheltered from the beat of the sun. Sweet as a breath of clover. Fragrant as fresh-cut flowers . . . fragrant and mild. Yet with a body that satisfies your smoke-taste right down to the ground. A rare combination, Men.

The instant you open a tidy red tin of P. A., you know this tobacco is unlike any other. That warm, rich fragrance! Only real tobacco could give off such an appetizing aroma. You are completely won to P. A. when you smoke that first load.

It is a pretty safe guess that, if you smoke one tin of Prince Albert—all of it—you will continue to smoke Prince Albert from then on. That has been the experience of other pipe-smokers. It's worth finding out about. Buy some P. A. today.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 21. (INS)—Carnegie Museum, a unit of the famous Carnegie Institute, founded and dedicated to the public by the late Andrew Carnegie, steel magnate, is to be expanded so it will again rank with the leading museums of the nation.

Limited by an operating fund scarcely larger than that available before the war, the museum has been unable to employ as many technical experts as it desired, so to send out expeditions, as have the other leading museums.

Now a movement is under way to cause a revival of interest among Pittsburgh's wealthier citizens, with a larger operating fund the goal.

Safety Director James M. Clark's edict banning all sports on the Sabbath all but erased semi-pro football in this district and in doing so, caused the curtailment of one of the most popular winter sports.

The Pittsburgh safety director doesn't object to football, unless it is played on Sunday. But as most semi-pro players are employed during the week in offices and shops, Clark's edict had a widespread effect.

Clark, who is a prominent churchman, dug up a law passed in 1749 to prohibit Sunday sports. He first applied it only to football, as that is the only game played on a commercial scale in the Pittsburgh metropolitan area on Sundays.

As an indication of his intention of enforcing the law, the safety director suspended two district police lieutenants who overlooked Sunday football games despite the order.

whose ammunition didn't fit the guns. Nothing but flying machines fit modern warfare—whether naval or land warfare.

Proud Americans, good women especially, are grieved by statements made in modern histories of George Washington. Men in each generation live as their generation lives.

Washington was no exception. Living in slavery days, he had slaves there—quarters on his Mount Vernon plantation are visible.

Living in an age when everybody drank, many in moderation, he drank temperately, and manufactured some of his alcoholic drinks, wisely, that he might know what was in them.

His ancestors, living ten thousand years before Washington, probably practiced cannibalism occasionally. Had he lived then he would have done as they did.

On October 27 the nation will celebrate Navy Day. What has it actually got to celebrate in the way of a modern navy? The navy on the water is no longer important.

We have good sailors, good fliers, a few of them, splendid marksmen, any number of brave men willing to do any kind of work. But our navy, if real modern war came, would be about as useful as the Russian regiments

Barcelona, Oct. 19.—(INS)—Four hundred and eighty-three years imprisonment was the sentence passed upon Luis de Granja by the courts here.

Paris, Oct. 20.—(INS)—A portion of the old homestead of Zachary Taylor, twelfth president of the United States, has been sold to Louisville investors for $65,000.

PARIS STYLE HINTS

Paris, Oct. 21.—(INS)—A little velvet reefer is included in every smart collection for the winter season, generally bound with silk braid and worn with a plain or pleated skirt of checked or striped material.

There is the "castiglione" reefer which is rather short, not passing beyond the hips, with pagoda sleeves, either entirely embroidered tone upon tone or in contrasting colors.

The most ordinary style is fashioned like that of a man's jacket, double-breasted, square-cut with four buttons or it may have rounded fronts and long, narrow, curving lapels.

Then there is the Algerian reefer covered with embroidery and decorated with little shoulder ornaments falling over the top of the arm. A delightful frock in Havana-colored crepe-de-chine has one of these bolero-reefers bordered with tiger fur.

These short velvet coats are comfortable and becoming. They are more often bordered with silk braid and every color under the sun is used for them. They look almost as well when worn with a silk frock as with a smart tailored skirt. Golden browns and blacks are probably the most popular for the skirts.

Every fall for 25 years Jim Bark, retired cattleman, has searched for the "Lost Dutchman" gold mine in the vicinity of Four Peaks in the Superstition Mountains of Arizona.

Paris, Oct. 19.—(INS)—Potage Veloutine, is one of the simplest varieties.

For four persons put three pints of boiling water in a casserole and throw in two large spoonful of tapioca. Let cook one hour.

Mix in the soup tureen the yolk of an egg with cup of boiled milk or cream. Pour in the tapioca and salt. Serve with croutons.

Paris, Ky., Oct. 20, (INS)—Providing all the tobacco now crammed into storage houses in this section of Kentucky is sold there should be considerable money "go up" in smoke this season.

According to reports emanating from all nearby countries every tobacco barn for miles around is filled to capacity despite the fact that the recent wet weather was disastrous to a great portion of the house stock.

Vienna, Oct. 21.—(INS)—The first Austrian made film, "Pratermizzi" has been completed and will shortly be sent abroad. The film has been directed by Austrian—but includes in the cast an American, Nita Naldi, a Czech and a Polish star.

Berlin, Oct. 20, (AP)—Lucy Doraine, German movie star, admits that it is no crime to mention a woman's age without her consent, but it ought to be made a penal offense to state that a woman is older than she actually is.

Paris, Oct. 20.—(INS)—"Bour des Normandes" are a delicious kind of pear chumling.

Make a good pie crust, roll out and cut into pieces large enough to cover each pear. Envelop each one and close around the stem. Rub over a little egg and bake in the oven for thirty minutes.

Raleigh, Oct. 21.—(INS)—A state-wide search was started here today for Carl O. Johnson, of Stony Point, N. C., who has been missing for more than two years.
