Miss Carraway in Fine Program At Teachers College

Miss Daphne Carraway, the Dixle Story lady appeared ni he auditorium of East Carolina Cenchers College, Thursday, Nov. 18, in a clever miscellancous program. Mess Carraway has concived the idea of bringing a real nessage of citizenship through her stories, and in this role she has attained notable success.

In her program at the college she gave stories unusually fitting to the season. Among them were Thanksgiving stories, Red Cross eto . s. a elever little story of the Uncle Remus type, handed down to her from her "negro Mammy," and another whose theme wa, "Love Turns the Gift to Gold." This latter has proved to be the most popular of all her stories and it was no less true in this partnenlar program.

Miss Carraway says she has no copyright on her stories, and it is a source of pleasure to her that they have been retold by others. In this way the spirit of the story te ling may be preserved and passed on to the future of North Carolina and other

Senator Lenroot Open in Opposition to Plan; Democrats for Reduction

Washington, Nov. 19 -- (INS) Troubles continued to pile up today for the Coolidge-Mellon plan to rebate some $250,000,-000 in collected taxes by action in the short session of Congress. Senator, Lenroot, Republican of Wisconsin, a consistent administration supporters, opposes the plan openly, and this opposition is shared by many Republicans privately.

The Democrats, while not solid, are prepared to fight for straight reduction bill of probably $350,000,000. No definite program has yet been worked out out Senator Simmons of North Carolina, and Representative Ganer, of Texas,, the Democratic finance leaders, are substantially agreed on the board general prinples of the Democratic program, as they always have been This calls for a slight lowering of the corporation tax, perhaps from 13 1-2 per cent to 10 per cent, the elimination of excise taxes, and lowering of surtaxes.

V. C. Fleming Co., or Perkins & Fleming Property

Located Just North of Tar River Bridge on the Greenville-Bethel Highway. Subbivided.

What adds more to the comforts and satisfaction of home life than to live in a beautiful suburb such as this property, where practically every convenience of the city can be had, yet you are away from the hustle and bustle, you are compelled to experience in the congested conditions in the city.

There is no property approaching the corporate limits of Greenville that would be more ideal for a suburban home. It has many advantages over properties within close proximity of the city in most any other direction. You would be within 15 minutes walk to the hears of the business or residential section of Greenville, and at the same time have the same advantages of the school facilties as if you lived one block of any of the school buildings. One other feature that makes this property most ideal for a home is that while but a few hundred yards from the corporate limits yet there is no city taxes to burden you. You really can't appreciate this property until you look it ever and obse ve the surroundings and the most attractive approaches of the highway from both North and South. It would be a pleasure for us to ac company you to the property and convey any information that you may desire concerning the sale. The date is Friday, November 26th, 10:30 A. M .- Very easy terms.

Sensational Sale of Art in Hampton's London Rooms Draws Amer icans; Lord Michelham's Famous Accumulation of Pictures to Go en Block

London, Nov. 19 .- (INS)-What is confidently expected to be the most sensational auction room sale within living memory is being held this afternoon at the famous salesrooms of Messrs. Hamptons in Saint James' Street, Picadilly, where the almost priceless collection of objects d'art gathered together by the late Lord Michelham is being offered for sale by his

Gem of the Michelham Romneys is the potrait of Anne lady de la Pole-a beautiful work which fay hidden away for more than a centurytury before its importance was realized. Twenty-three years ago Sir Joseph Duveen, the famous English dealer, purchased it for Lord Michelham for more than two hundred thousand dollars, and it is expected that bidding will reach the three hundred thousand before this picture is knocked

The other Romneys of importance in the collection are portraits of Lady Elizabeth Forbes, the Three Children of Captain Little, technically considered one of the finest pictures ever painted by Rom ney , which came from the famous Otto Kahn collection, and one of hte celebrated Lady Hamilton as The Ambarradress. Emma Hamilton was a favorite sitter of Romney, and some of his finest work is seen in his portraits of her.

The three Hoppners include a portrait of Lady Louise Manners, for which Charles Wetheimer paid 210,000 dollars twenty-five years ago, the then highest price ever paid in an auction room for a single picture, and his group of the Bowden Children. Last year Hoppner's small portrait of Lady Elizabeth Bligh made nearly $60, 900 at the Darnley saye, and the Michelham group is expected to easily surpass that figure.

The attention of the public is ceptering around Gainsborough's Master Heathcote, however. Gainsborough's Blue Boy was sold for apploximately $750,000, the highest price ever paid for a single picture, and, with stroles of the beauty of the Master Heathcote portrait in their ears, they think it will create a sensation at this afternoon's sale, even with the staggering precedent of the Blue Master Heathcote has never appeared in a public auction before.

· Most of these treasures will undoubtedly go to the United States, and it is frankly admitted that the succes sof the sale will depend upon the attendance of the famous American buyers, many of whom are in London for the sale.
