STORM SWEEPS BRITISH ISLES TAKING HEAVY TOLL LIFE PROPERTY

Nineteen Persons Killed in Scotland While Heavy Property Damage Reported from All Sections

London, Jan. 29.—(AP)—From the south of England to the northern tip of Scotland cities and open spaces alike were damaged by a great rain and wind storm in progress today. Seventeen persons were killed and a large indefinite number injured. The property damage was extensive. At Glasgow Scotland, 19 persons are reported to be dead and hundreds injured in Scotland in consequence of yesterday's wind storm. Nine were killed and nearly 300 injured in Glasgow alone. The wind had moderated today. The storm swept over Ireland doing considerable damage in Dublin where scores of persons were treated for injuries. Numerous chimneys were blown down including one at the hospital which crashed into an occupied ward. Many fine old trees were uprooted and it is expected when wires are restored Ireland will have further disastrous news to report. Steamers from Ireland were constantly in danger. Although London was kept awake last night by the sound of breaking glass and crashing signs, the rain coming down in torrents all the while, no serious damage in the city was reported.

Winterville Store Destroyed By Fire Early This Morning

The store of B. D. Forrest, in Winterville, was destroyed, and the stock of A. W. Ange and Company, in an adjoining building, was damaged by fire shortly after midnight last night. The entire stock of the Forrest store was destroyed and it was only by heroic work that the volunteer firemen prevented the spreading of the fire to the Ange store. According to reports received in this city, the Forrest damage was estimated at around $10,000, while the Ange stock suffered considerable damage from water and smoke. The loss is understood to be partly covered by insurance.

Promises Justice For Aiken Lynchers

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Tearing the failure of the Aiken grand jury to return indictments in the Lowman lynching case yesterday a "miserable miscarriage of justice" Governor Richards today promised the people of South Carolina that if it lies within his power the Aiken lynchings shall be brought to justice. "I am familiar with the evidence gathered by Governor McLeod and his officers and that secured by myself," said the Governor, "and I am convinced in my own mind that it makes out a prima facie case. The failure of the grand jury to indict those before it must rest upon their shoulders."

TONIGHT RIVALS CLOSING NIGHT OF VOTING CONTEST

Campaign Office Open Till Eight to Receive Last Minute Reports of Contestants

No more interest and reporting of work will take place at the campaign office for the Daily Reflector on the closing night of the contest than will prevail tonight when contestants make their final report for the voting period. Tonight at eight comes the closing of the first period of the contest and that time from the opening day of the drive January 27 to January 29th. The first period runs for three weeks while the second and third periods run for but one week each.

All of the thirteen entrants are expected to make at least one report today while some few will make several. Friends of those entered who have promised help at some time or other since the inauguration of the contest, will no doubt make good by renewing or subscribing to the Reflector with the request that votes due on subscription be given to the credit of their favorite worker.

Indications point to this being the big week of the drive, being exceeded possibly by the efforts of the contestants during the closing week, opening February 7th. Already abner reports have been entered this week for the more than $3,000 in prizes at stake. Thursday was the only quiet day of the week while yesterday's high report went to Miss Rose Hadley with Miss Annie Mayo, Mrs. Sugg Fleming and Miss Christine Pollard following in the order named.

Important changes in the standings of all listed will no doubt take place today when some of the workers make their first report for the entire week. Miss Martha Conleton of Leas has yet to report for the week and so have Miss Louise Jones, Miss Irma Cox and Mrs. Wade Holmes. Those working in the subscription contest who cannot be at the office today to make their report or who want to get credit for any last minute subscriptions in this period, have the privilege of sending same through the mail. All work received Monday at the office which bears a Saturday postmark will be counted as having been received during this present big vote period.

LITTLE HOPE FOR STATE FAIR TO BE HELD THIS YEAR

Unless State Takes Over the Fair and Operates It There May Be No Fair

Raleigh, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Prospect for the continuance of the North Carolina State Fair was not very bright, unless the city of Raleigh will relinquish its equity rights in the fair property and the state can be induced to take over and operate the fair, according to reports which were heard on the outside of the room where the special committee of the North Carolina Agricultural Society were in executive conference today.

The directors of the society met to hear reports of committees and to try to work out some plan for the continuance of the fair. The committee which was appointed a week ago to confer with State College in regard to a lease on State College farm land, it was said, had no hopeful news to report from that source.

Several members who left the executive room were interviewed. "It would be unwise to expend such money as the society derived from the sale of the oil fair ground property for preparation for the fair this year, but this should be spent in permanent improvements in the opinion of some of the members" so there seemed to them little hope for the fair at the present time unless the state would agree to take over and operate the enterprise.

Kiwanis Club Met Last Night

The Kiwanis club held its bi-weekly meeting last night in the Rotary building. A fine turkey supper was enjoyed. President W. H. Woodard turned the program over to J. Key Brown, who magically drew some choice stories from some fifteen of those present. A male quartette, Bill Lee, Manly Sellers, Tige Gardner and Ed Williams, rendered a couple of selections in their usual fine style. Miss Curran and Miss Smith-high school girls, also contributed to the pleasure of the evening with piano solos. Jimmy Galloway was introduced by Professor Baloh Deal as the "Baby Kiwanian" and the "Baby" made a fine talk in reply. A telegram of sympathy and good wishes was sent to Roy T. Cox, who is in St. Luke's hospital for treatment.

Announcement was made that Ladies' Night will be held on Friday, February 14. The feature of the evening was an address by Dr. Paul Fitzgerald on "The Birthday of Kiwanis," which was eloquently delivered and much appreciated.

EDWARD EVANS GIVEN SENTENCE TWO YEARS STATE PENITENTIARY

LEGISLATURE HAS HEAVIEST WEEK OF PRESENT SESSION

576 Bills Have Been Introduced in General Assembly During Past Four Weeks

Raleigh, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Ten minutes perfunctory session cleared both branches of the General Assembly today. The House ran its total of new bills to 223 with the introduction of five State-wide measures, 13 local bills and passed eight bills, all of a local nature and adjourned until eight o'clock Monday night.

Among the bills passed was one prohibiting the practice of palmistry in Buncombe County. Only a handful of assemblymen were in their seats for the abbreviated session. After brief committee reports the Senate turned to four new bills and adjourned until Monday night at 8:30 o'clock.

Senator Royal of Wayne, sent forward his bill proposing an amendment to the constitution which would limit ad valorem taxes with certain exceptions to a rate of $2.50 on the $100 valuation and classifying intangible property for taxation with the provision that the rate be fixed on this type of property be left to the General Assembly.

The Wayne county man also offered a bill designed to facilitate the liquidation of banks. Senator Broughton offered a bill to amend the inheritance tax law so that properties willed to charitable or benevolent institutions or agencies would not have to pay inheritance taxes even though such institutions or agencies are domiciled in the State. The other bill offered by him would provide that five copies of the Supreme Court report and other public documents be furnished the law schools at the University, Duke University and Wake Forest College.

This week's legislative business was the heaviest of the four weeks of meetings so far. Bills introduced totaled 159 comprising 43 in the Senate and 116 in the House. No Statewide measure has passed finally for ratification but important measures are due to be expedited next week.

Involuntary M a slaughter Verdict Returned Last Night. Defendant Appeals to Supreme Court

Edward Evans, 24, was sentenced to two years at hard labor in state penitentiary by Judge E. H. Cramer, in Superior Court here this afternoon after having been found guilty of involuntary manslaughter. Counsel for the defense gave notice of an appeal to Supreme Court, and bond was fixed in the sum of $5,000.

The case against Evans, which began in court here Thursday morning, was the result of an affray last June in which Leland Stancill and Wilfred Stancill lost their lives. Evans was being tried for the slaying of Leland Stancill, it having been admitted that his half-brother, Francis Johnson, 13 years old, fired the shot that caused the death of Wilfred Stancill.

A day and night session of the court were required for the testimony of witnesses and yesterday was taken up with the argument by members of the counsel, and the judge's charge. The case went to the jury shortly after four o'clock yesterday afternoon, and a verdict of "Manslaughter, Involuntary," was returned after about three hours' deliberation.

According to the testimony presented in court, the affair in which the Stancill brothers lost their lives, resulted from a dispute between Leland Stancill and Edward Evans over the rights to a certain garage on the premises where both lived. Following the first dispute, Stancill was said to have placed a shotgun in his car and gone off the premises for his brothers to aid him in removing Evans' car from the garage or forcing Evans to do so. Upon their return to the garage they were met by Evans, and a fight between them ensued. During the fight, as Leland Stancill held his gun by the barrel, it was discharged, the load taking effect in his body. The State's contention was that Evans' hands found the trigger of the gun and inflicted Stancill's mortal wound, while the defense contended that the gun was discharged by the butt of it being struck against the garage as Stancill attempted to strike Evans with it. During the encounter, Francis Johnson, is alleged to have run into the house, secured a rifle and fired the shot that caused the death of Wilfred Stancill.

Owing to the fact that Johnson is but 13 years of age, no definite announcement has been made as to the disposition of his case, but indications are that it will be heard in juvenile court.

When the case was called for judgment this afternoon counsel for the defense moved that the verdict be set aside and a new trial granted on the grounds of error in the jury's findings and the judge's charge. The motion was overruled and the defense moved to arrest judgment.

Solicitor D. M. Clark, recommended to the court that a sentence of six months be given the defendant, Edward Evans, provided he waive appeal, and on condition that Francis Johnson come into this court and plead guilty, and accept sentence to the reformatory. Defense counsel expressed inability to accept such conditions, and Judge Cramer passed sentence on Evans.

Hoover Declares N. C. Makes Signal Economic Progress

Washington, Jan. 23.—(INS)—Characterized by Secretary of Commerce Hoover as the State which is making more economic progress than any other in America, North Carolina is one of the most lucrative revenue producers for the Federal Government.

In 1926 North Carolina led the taxes on tobacco manufactured products the collections from that United States in the payment of State having been $172,593,186. No other State even approached the tobacco tax record set by North Carolina. Virginia came second with $10,815,909 and the other leading states which yield 86 per cent of the total tax included New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Missouri and California.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue listed leading tobacco manufacturing State as follows:

In the production of cigars weighing more than 3 pounds per 1,000: Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, Florida, New Jersey, Indiana and Michigan.

In the manufacture of cigarettes weighing not more than 3 pounds per 1,000: North Carolina, New York, Virginia, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and California.

In the manufacture of plug tobacco, Missouri and North Carolina.

North Carolina ranked first in smoking tobacco.

North Carolina led the nation in the consumption of virtually all tobacco products employed in manufacturing. Figures show the following consumption for 1926:

Chestnut leaf tobacco, 82,351,738 pounds. Licorice, 11,001,133 pounds. Sugar, 14,792,723 pounds. A total of 135,819,543 pounds of materials went into the production of tobacco in North Carolina factories last year, according to the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Out of the $2,247,000,000 cigarettes weighing not over 3 pounds per 1,000 in 1925, North Carolina produced over half or 46,315,000,000. While figures for 1926 are not yet available the national production is expected to amount to about 95,000,000,000 and that of North Carolina to nearly 60,000,000,000.

It was believed by internal revenue officials that more tobacco is manufactured in North Carolina than in any other similar area in the world.

Federal Reserve Branch Bank for North Carolina

Washington, Jan. 23.—(INS)—Official assurances from the Federal Reserve Board that a federal reserve branch bank will be established by the government in North Carolina have been received by the backers of this project.

Favorable action of the board, however, on the new branch which has been under consideration many months, depends upon action of Congress in authorizing the Federal Reserve Authorities to discontinue, as well as establish branch banks.

Senator Simmons, Democrat of North Carolina has proposed an amendment to the McAdams banking bill, containing this authority and should the bill go through it was understood that the North Carolina branch would be established.

Should the bill fail of passage at this session of Congress Senator Simmons proposes to introduce a separate resolution with the same provisions as were contained in his amendment. The amendment would clear up a moot question in Federal Reserve legal practice.

Establishment of a federal reserve branch at Charlotte would save the North Carolina and other bankers millions of dollars annually. It was shown in hearings before the Federal Reserve Board that every year the North Carolina bankers lose this amount of money in the two day delay required to make clearings through the 416-mile Federal Reserve bank.

The Federal Reserve Board formed the question of its right to discontinue branch banks to Attorney General Sargent. His reply was not conclusive, although the justice department apparently doubted the right of the board to discontinue branches once established under the present laws.

The board, therefore, has not established any new branches, fearing that the federal reserve system might become too heavy.

If the Simmons amendment or resolution go through the board will be in a position to open experimental branches, making possible an important expansion of the system and adding greatly to its flexibility.

Opening of a branch at Charlotte is of considerable consequence to North Carolina business as well as banking interests. The State has an exceedingly diversified industry and agricultural production. Its manufacturing development in the last few years has been truly remarkable in many lines, according to commerce department officials.

Among the large contributions to development has been the expenditure of over $200,000,000 in the last six years in the construction of good roads. Better highways placed farms in every section of the State in touch with markets and have stimulated a wide variety of crops, made possible by a variable climate.

FUR FARMS REPLACE FRONTIER TRADERS

Washington, Jan. 23.—(AP)—As the oldtime fur trader is being pushed farther and farther into the northland by encroaching civilization, the ancient calling takes on a new note with the development in the last few years of 2,500 fur farms in the United States and Alaska.

The industry has gained such importance that the bureau of Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture says that the business within this country and its northwestern territory now claims a total investment of $30,000,000. Canada ranks second with 1,500 fur farmers and an investment of approximately $11,000,000.

The raising of fur bearing animals, however, is not limited to the North American continent, but has spread to European countries and also to Japan. The majority of American and Canadian farmers are raising silver or blue foxes.

DAM BILL PRODUCES ACRES OF TESTIMONY

Washington, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Thirty-seven acres would be covered if the pages of testimony taken by the House Irrigation Committee on the Swing-Johnson Boulder Canyon dam bill were spread out side by side.

This estimate is made by V. E. Walters, the committee clerk, who says that more than 4,200 pages, making 17 volumes of testimony were taken during the last four years spent in considering the measure. The bill, recently reported to the House, proposes the construction of a big flood-control irrigation and power dam at Boulder Canyon on the Colorado River.

SONS OF EMINENT MEN FILL FATHERS' SHOES

Chicago, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Stepping into the shoes of notably successful fathers has been a simple task for four midwestern youths.

Samuel Insull, Jr., has taken from the shoulders of his still active parent, at 27, the presidency of three large utilities companies, and has become a vice president of an electric railroad company, a director in two more concerns, and a stockholder in others.

John R. Thompson, Jr., followed his father at 29 to the presidency of the company which directs a chain of restaurants.

Phillip Wrigley, still under 30, is president of the chewing gum corporations built up by his sire.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT MEDITATION

"DON'T CRY OVER SPILT WATER"

II Samuel 14:14—"For we must needs die, and are as water spilt on the ground, which cannot be gathered up again."

A very wise old woman was the Woman of Tekoah. This one sentence of hers has lived through thirty centuries, and it still lingers on the lips and in the hearts of men. I wonder if anything you or I may say will be worth remembering three thousand years from tonight?

The wise woman makes but one appearance upon the page of history, yet she will never be forgotten. In her interview with King David she only once rises, from the facts of the particular case she had in hand, to one of those broad and rapid generalizations which have an inestimable value for us as well as for the King, for all men as well as for us.

But for this single sentence, a sentence which expresses a general truth in appropriate and graphic figure, we should hardly care to remember her. It is by right of this apt and beautiful expression that she holds an earthly immortality. How God must have bound us each to each—how mysterious and solemn an influence the humblest of us may exert upon all—when this obscure Prophetess of that dark age and distant land can still touch our hearts and shape our thoughts!

"We must needs die, and are as water spilt upon the ground, which cannot be gathered up again"—what strong sad words are these! Sad with an infinite despair concerning the dead, as also concerning the living—for they, too, must die; and yet strong with the patience that can endure even the burden of that dark and hopeless mystery!

As we ponder them, the Prophetess seems to look upon us from the darkness of the past with wistful face, and to warn us in mournful yet kindly accents that we cease fretting at the inevitable.

She would say to us, as she said to the King: "The dead are dead. The living must die. They and we are as water which, once spilt, cannot be gathered up again. It is no use to cry over spilt water. Rather, drink of any fresh sweet cup which is still left you. Amnon is dead, and all the weeping in the world will not bring him back to life; but Absalom is alive, and though he too must die, he is young and very comely. Take HIM to thy heart, o foolish David, and let him comfort thee for the son thou hast lost. Why mourn and weep when the thirsty earth only sucks up the water from thy eyes, while fresh, fair water in another and more beautiful cup is offered to thy lips?"

At first sight this looks like an ancient version of "Let us eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow we die." That is the philosophy of the "sty." It may suit brutes who only live for the present; but it will not suit men with vision, who look for a life to come.

But on second sight we see this was not the materialistic doctrine of Epicureanism. It did not bring comfort to David who was very far from living in a "sty," though he descended into it now and then. It did not teach HIM to despair of the dead, but it did teach him to shew mercy to the living. For three years he had wept for Amnon, "mourning for his son every day," and all the time he was keeping his other son Absalom in exile.

So, in fact, the Wise Woman's words were not a call to selfish indulgence, but a summons to heroic facing of facts and duties. To us they mean that grief for the dead can not absolve the living from their duties—their duties to the living. Grief instead of alienating us from the living should bind us closer to them. Or, to put more generally, it is folly to fret over the inevitable, the irreparable. The past is past and cannot be recalled; therefore be the more intent on the wise use of the present. Grief may be natural, but it is wrong when carried too far.

The water IS spilt, and WE cannot raise it; but it does rise again. No particle of it is lost. Its baser part helps the ground to become more fruitful; the sun, by evaporation, raises the more ethereal part and takes it into other forms of service invisible to us.

Let us not miss present opportunities while lamenting over opportunities passed. (Note: During February, we shall give in our "Meditations" a series of four studies on the Gospels, beginning next Saturday with "The Characteristics of St. Matthew." These articles should be well worth keeping by Sunday School teachers and all Bible students.—The editor.)

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 29.—(INS)—A giant Brontosaurus, 100 feet long, was unearthed in practical days, is being restored to a life-like position here and probably will stand in the great hall of the Yale Peabody Museum at Yale for all-time to gaze at in wonder. Yale's Brontosaurus was a life-like position here and probably will stand in the great hall of the Yale Peabody Museum at Yale for all-time to gaze at in wonder. Yale's Brontosaurus was a life-like position here and probably will stand in the great hall of the Yale Peabody Museum at Yale for all-time to gaze at in wonder.

Yale recently has been recalling to men who decades ago searched for fossil remains in the middle west under direction of Professor Thiel Marsh, who from 1898 on made numerous trips seeking remains. One William Reed, who furnished buffalo meat to construction camps when the Union Pacific Railroad was being built, found the Brontosaurus now rising here like a wrath from past ages.

Another remarkable source of Yale's fossils was Bone Cabin Quarry, a forgotten spot close to Little Medicine River river in Wyoming. Here a Mexican sheep herder had built himself a cabin out of weathered-out Dinosaur bones.

Yale men found this in 1898 and secured ownership. Out of Bone Cabin quarry the group of workers took seventy-three dinosaurs, large and small, and calculated that the site had over one hundred remains of these animals, counting those that had been eroded. Excavations ceased only when the deposits dipped too far beneath the earth for economical labor.

Professor Marsh went out to the Rocky Mountain regions first in 1898. Annually thereafter until 1976 Yale students took the trip and each year found specimens that were considered more than an adequate reward for their terrific labors.

Ancient Canal Dock on the upper edge of New Haven harbor is to be abandoned by its present owners, the New York New Haven and Hartford Railroad Co., because the dock has fallen into such a state of wreckage that the railroad feels repairs would cost more than the use of the structure warrants. So passes another landmark reaching down from the days when New Haven was the chief seaport on the North Atlantic coast.

FELT STUPID, DULL
 Mississippi Lady Says She Took Black-Draught for These Symptoms and Was "Greatly Relieved."

Starkville, Miss.—"I have been a user of Black-Draught for about twenty years," says Mrs. C. E. Bunting, of R. F. D. 5, this city. "I used Black-Draught first for constipation," continues Mrs. Bunting. "I would feel dull, stupid, and have severe headaches, even feverish. I had an uneasy, tight feeling in my stomach."

"I read quite a bit about Black-Draught. I began using it and soon my bowels acted regularly and I was greatly relieved. I used it every once in a while for about eighteen years. About two years ago I found I was having indigestion, a tight smothering in my chest, then severe pain, especially after eating sweets. I commenced taking just a pinch of Black-Draught after meals and by doing this I could eat about anything."

"I gave Black-Draught to my children for colds and headaches. I can certainly recommend it." Theodor's Black-Draught is recommended by thousands of others for the relief of indigestion, biliousness and simple ailments due to constipation. Safe, easy to take. Costs only 1 cent a dose. AC-171

Connecticut's noted men have been passing in unusual numbers, this winter. The necrology list includes Charles F. Brooker, founder of the American Brass Co.; H. Wales Lines, builder and national treasurer of the Knights Templars for over thirty years; Judge Silas A. Robinson, retired supreme court justice; John W. Ailing, a telephone pioneer financier and veteran insurance head; and Dr. Anson T. McCook, a noted professor at Trinity.

Honors were paid to the men who founded Connecticut 288 years ago when eight hundred descendants of the original settlers gathered in historic First Church here in mid-January. The occasion was the adoption of the Fundamental Orders of Connecticut, drawn up by Thomas Hooker who led a band here from Boston by way of Old Bay Path to Springfield, Mass., in 1639. The towns of Windsor, Wetherfield, and Hartford were included in the original Connecticut. New Haven being a separate colony of a somewhat later foundation. A letter from President Coolidge formed a feature of the celebration.

Gorman's Market Report
 The sales have been small again this week. Prices with us have been very satisfactory to our patrons and while the bulk of the sales has consisted of barn cleanings, Gorman's averaged $23.05 for 73,056 lbs. for all we sold. Gorman's has sold to date 8,892,346 lbs. which is three quarters of a million more than any other house in Greenville has sold. The coming week will wind up the sales on the Greenville market for this season, and we wish to thank our friends for the support given us in our new location.
 Our advice for the coming season is not to "over crop" yourself. Do not plant any more tobacco than you can cultivate, house and handle properly. Tobacco is one crop that has to be planted, cultivated and housed at its proper time, and a small crop of good tobacco will pay much more than a large crop of common tobacco.
 With the increased consumption of cigarettes, we look for living prices on all tobacco which can be used for cigarettes. There are no large stocks of this class of tobacco held and the better tobacco you make the more net money you will have at the wind-up, if you sell at Gorman's New Warehouse.

what would happen to business if Jewish business men were suddenly eliminated. Innumerable great retail establishments would cease to exist. Manufacturers would find outlets cut down by more than half; hundreds of thousands of non-Jewish workers would be idle.

This week, in New York, Joseph P. Day sold at auction for $6,714,000 some properties belonging to the late Commodore Charles A. Gould. One piece on Fifth Avenue sold for $432 a square foot—a new record.

The New York Times report the presence at the sale of fourteen of the best known real estate men. And twelve of the fourteen are Jews. What would happen to real estate development if these twelve disappeared, leaving only two?

Senator Borah sees in China "a great people after years of turmoil, strife and oppression by outside powers, coming into their own." The Senator says "the nationalistic spirit uniting those (Chinese) people." He wants this country to leave them alone, while they become great.

Senator Borah displays spirit worthy of Patrick Henry, Lafayette and Thomas Jefferson. However, the Chinese, speaking forty different languages, can't talk to each other. A great majority of them are natural born pacifists, thinking it hardly worth while to fight.

Senator Borah's great grand children will be old before China changes from age old stagnation to vigorous nationality.

Indiana decides against making prize fights legal. Politicians in that state or those that control the politicians must be different from the brand of politicians in New York, Illinois and some other states.

Brutality is willing to pay well for its prize fight pleasures. There is a big profit in such exhibitions. And there is of course a "split three ways," a big piece for the politicians, a big piece for the promoter, a little piece for the prize fighters.

Fundamentalists devoted to the theory that men and monkeys are not distant cousins, that Jonah lived in the whale's stomach without being digested and that Joshua prolonged the day by stopping the sun in its journey around the earth are asked to prove their sincerity.

How? By contributing five million dollars to build an anti-evolution school in memory of William Jennings Bryan at Dayton, Tennessee. Earnest fundamentalists will solicit funds for the fundamental memorial and will be paid for their trouble.

New York, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The cotton market opened steady today at an average of one to four points in response to stronger Liverpool cables and in renewal of week-end coverings. There was a little more Southern selling here, however, particularly by brokers with eastern belt connections, and the market eased after the opening. May selling off to 13.63 and October to 13.98 by the end of the first hour, or about 6 to 8 points net lower.

STOCKS

ESKIMO DOG T. CARRY MAIL 600 MILES ACROSS NEW ENGLAND

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 29.—(AP)—The two first dog teams ever to carry mail in New England are approaching Albany and the end of a 600 mile journey with a load of letters to Governor Smith from Governor Brewster of Maine and other New England executives.

The teams left Minot, Me., on January 10 with the expectation of reaching here February 10. The drivers, wearing heavy fur coats, and the dozen Eskimo dogs have suffered some from the heat, as the mercury has been above zero most of the trip.

The drivers are Postmaster A. W. Pulsifer of Minot and E. W. Clark, of Milan, N. H. The party has rested in roadside groves at night, the men in sleeping bags. The teams stopped in New England capitals en route to deliver and receive mail.

Clark a trade and dog driver, brought the teams from Baffin Land.

Pennsylvania considered chiefly an industrial state, has more money invested in agriculture than any other industry but mining. An income of $500,000 a year is produced by 200,000 acres.

SEE LITTLE HOPE ANTI-EVOLUTION BILL BE ENACTED

Father of "Lost Province" Railroad Bill Behind Anti-Evolution Bill

Raleigh, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Can the same fine hand that traded with the legislature over a railroad in 1925, trade it over a "Monkey law" in 1927?

That is the question going the rounds of Capitol gossip since the arrival of Tam Bowie, "the wild bill which was introduced by Rep. David Scott Poole in his pocket." Bowie, a former house speaker and politician of no mean ability, has of late added the role of attorney for the North Carolina Bible League, that body with headquarters at Charlotte which has pledged eternal vigilance in its campaign to make the State of North Carolina safe for Fundamentalism.

The Poole bill bears the official stamp of approval of that body. Mr. Bowie brought it to Raleigh, made the text public, and also his opinion that it would constitute a perfectly legal and constitutional measure.

The word went out that Zeb Vance Turlington, Iredell, recognized as one of the strongest men in the General Assembly, would present the measure. Mr. Turlington was offered the presidency of the North Carolina Bible League soon after its formation from the old "Committee of One Hundred" but he declined it.

He is known, however, as a staunch Fundamentalist, and a member of the league. Rumor has it that efforts were made to get the Iredell man to introduce the bill in an initial effort to lend it credence, but the father of the Tar Heel rum act bearing his name refused.

"I don't care for the limelight," he told the Associated Press. "I've been in it too much already on account of the prohibition law." Mr. Poole introduced the bill. There was hardly a ripple as he presented it and took his seat. Evolution was not formally mentioned again on the house floor but who is to say what was talked as the smiling bulk of Tom Bowie passed among the lawmakers?

entirely valid in North Carolina. Now the question remains of how many bridges in the east, parks in the west, fish hatcheries, roads, election laws and divers other things legislators are reputed to barter, the affable Tom will be able to get treaties for their support of his anti-evolution measure.

Rep. Poole is not a member of the Bible League. A recent informal house poll disclosed that certainly not more than a third of the membership could be lined up in favor of such a bill even if it did ride triumphantly out of the committee, but last session when Tom Bowie started talking a railroad to the "Lost Provinces" many people laughed. The bill passed, and probably the Ash's lawbreaker's rails would have been laid by now if the Supreme Court hadn't ruled the whole thing unconstitutional.

This time Mr. Bowie has looked into the constitutional affairs before launching his thunder. He says he has definite assurance that the "monkey" law he drew will be entirely valid in North Carolina. Now the question remains of how many bridges in the east, parks in the west, fish hatcheries, roads, election laws and divers other things legislators are reputed to barter, the affable Tom will be able to get treaties for their support of his anti-evolution measure.

Generally speaking the capitol has little idea that any "Monkey" laws will get by the 1927 General Assembly, but the same Capitol has eminent respect for the trading ability of Mr. Tom Bowie, who has his mail forwarded to Raleigh from Jefferson, N. C.

TREASURE LINCOLN MEMENTO IN KANSAS

Topeka, Jan. 29.—(AP)—A piece of paper stained by the blood of Abraham Lincoln on the night he was assassinated is one of the guarded treasures of the Kansas State Historical Society. As the mortally wounded president was carried out of Ford's theatre in Washington after he had been shot by John Wilkes Booth, two drops of blood fell upon a theatre program near the feet of T. D. Bancroft, a Union soldier. Bancroft picked up the program and tore off the corner with the crimson spots. About 25 years ago he presented the memento to the historical society.

The paper, with its two large red spots appearing almost as plainly as the black type which tells the name of the Ford theatre, seldom is exposed to light. Mr. Bancroft, a Kansas minister after the Civil War, died several years ago.

Henpecked husbands of Oldham, England, have organized a society which meets several times a week at a tavern where the barkeeper guards against the invasion of disgruntled wives.

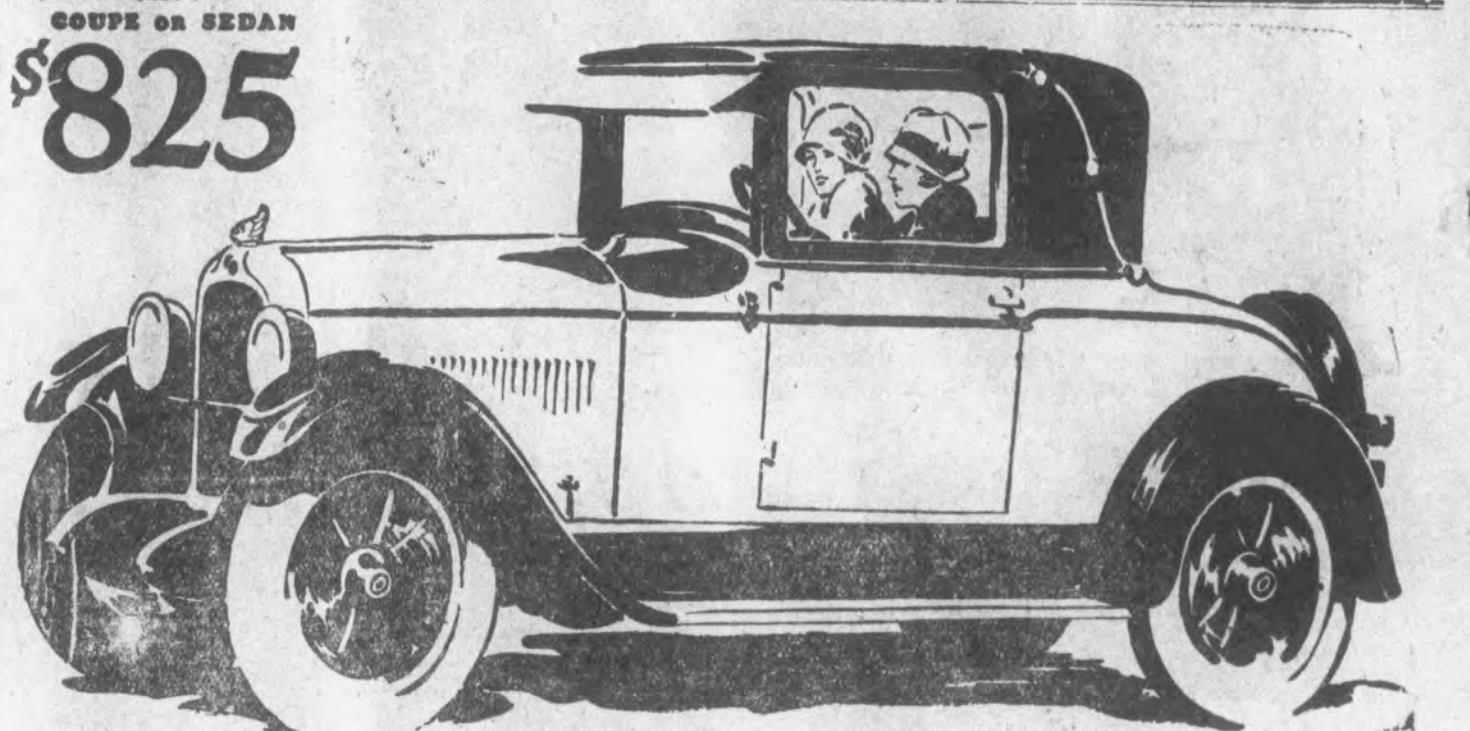

William Turner 94, of Barnstable, England, has drawn an army pension for 50 years, a post-office pension for 39 years and an old age pension for 18 years.

Disappearance of 4 "Ailments" From List of Diseases

Berkeley, Cal., Jan. 29.—(INS)—Nowadays when every medical journal carries word of the discovery of a new disease, the announcement of Dr. H. O. Moody, professor of anatomy at the University of California, that four ailments have disappeared is especially encouraging.

Dr. Moody has found that enteroptosis, visceroptosis, gastropotosis and colopotosis afflictions, which, reduced to their lowest terms mean simply a fallen stomach, have disappeared.

Dr. Moody has taken X-ray photographs of the "tumblers" of more than 1150 Americans and British students. The stomachs on British students, Dr. Moody found, are lower than those of American pupils.

The spectacular success of the Pontiac Six is as simple as A-B-C. When introduced it was a car such as no one had ever seen before—a six developed by General Motors, manufactured by Oakland and offering, at $825, qualities of performance, comfort, beauty, economy and reliability entirely new in the field of low cost sixes.

Actually overnight, the American public took this revolutionary six to its heart. So swiftly did the demand increase that Pontiac Six production more than doubled the greatest previous first year record ever scored by a new make of car.

Yet revolutionary as it then was, the Pontiac Six is even farther in advance of its field today. For not only is it still the lowest priced six with Body by Fisher—not only is its power plant still the largest used in any six selling up to $1000—not only does it typify the finest of quality construction with a 46 lb. crankshaft, honed cylinders, automatic spark control, full pressure oiling and the costliest type of bronze-backed bearings——but the fundamental rightness of its entire design has been proved by actual service in the hands of over 60,000 owners!

Pontiac Six, $825 to $975. Oakland Six, companion to Pontiac Six, $1025 to $1295. All prices at factory. Bodies by Fisher. Easy to pay on the liberal General Motors Time Payment Plan.
