Red, and Bright Red. Better Pay for R. R. Men Historical Accuracy.

(By Arthur Brisbane)

In battle fleet manoevers off the Pacific Mexican coasts last week, a fleet of our destroyers made believe locate battleships after dark. A torpedo attack "the-oretically" sank the battleships. The "abandon ship" order was given and twenty thousand American sailors actually entered life boats and floated around awhile to make it seem real.

If we had real war, there would be no such comic-opera. Air planes going two hundred miles an hour would overhaul our antiquated battleships and other antiquated battleships and other floating craft, like a wolf over-hauling fat pigs. And those ships would go to the bottom without giving time to "abandon ship."
