ANTI KU KLUX KLAN BILL KILLED BY THE LEGISLATURE

Number of Measures Defeated in Last Minute Clean-up Session of Assembly

Raleigh, N. C., March 5.—(AP)—The anti-Ku Klux Klan bill died today, the 60th and final pay day of the 1927 Legislature which made plans to stay over to Monday night to complete necessary legislation.

The bill went the way of the anti-evolution, anti-divorce, anti-pistol toting, and anti-immorality bills of the session while other bills killed in the last minute clean-up included measures to change day of the primary from Saturday to Tuesday; requiring registration of drivers of automobiles; further regulation of the salary and wage commission to the council of state.

The anti-Ku Klux Klan or 'unmasking' bill was killed by the House on agreement on the floor that the Klan was at present engaged in a factional discussion growing out of resignation of Judge Henry A. Grady of Clinton, N. C., as grand dragon of the North Carolina realm, and that enactment of the bill, virtually passed last week, would put the Legislature in position of meddling.

The eight months school term bill was introduced on eve of adjournment by Senator J. M. Broughton of Wake providing for popular vote in 1928 of the proposed constitutional amendment prolonging the school term two months more than the present one.

The introduction came as aftermath of settlement of the fight for an increased school support equaling fund of $3,250,000 provided in the Woltz bill. During the last two fiscal years $1,500,000 was distributed to 76 counties compared with $5 to be cared for the next two fiscal years, beginning July 1.

This is the largest equalizing fund that the State has ever set up to aid the counties in running the schools. The counties, under the new measure, will be required to levy a tax of 38 cents before they can participate in the equalizing fund.

An emergency fund of $100,000 to take care of any unusual and unexpected situation, is set aside from the fund.

The State last night killed the MacDonnell divorce bill 27 to 14 on second reading. The measure would have cut down the time limit of a divorce from five to two years.

The Cabo Torres, sister ship of the doomed vessel, emerged unharmed from the blackness of the night to range itself alongside the burning ship when the nearest aid was believed miles away.

EVANS DECLARES GRADY WAS ASKED FOR RESIGNATION

Imperial Wizard of Klan Expresses Gratification at Action of Legislature

Washington, March 5.—(AP)—Judge Henry A. Grady, who recently announced his retirement as grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan by North Carolina, was said today by Dr. Hiram W. Evans, Imperial Wizard of the Klan, to have stepped out at the Imperial Wizard's request and for the good of the organization.

'The Klan, a secret fraternal patriotic organization, saw fit to change its State representative in North Carolina,' said Dr. Evans and when in my judgment I deemed it necessary for the good of the organization I asked for the resignation of Judge Grady as grand dragon in North Carolina. All the incidents that have transpired in which the public is interested followed this severance of Judge Grady from his official position.'

Dr. Evans expressed satisfaction at the tabling yesterday of the 'unmasking' bill in the North Carolina Legislature.

'It is indeed gratifying to me that the Legislature of North Carolina, when all the facts were before it, killed the bill,' he said.

President Coolidge Will Not Call Special Session Of Seventieth Congress

Washington, March 5.—(AP)—Advised by President that he did not contemplate calling a special session of the 70th Congress Senators and Representatives today began a nine months vacation following the death of the 69th.

Sixty-two, nine Senators and 53 Representatives, will not return next December, they either having retired to private life or entered other federal fields of endeavor. Announcement that the President saw no necessity for a special session to consider the major bills that failed of passage before the gavel fell yesterday was made at the White House several hours after adjournment.

While the legislation adopted had been generally beneficial to the country in the President's opinion he feels that Congress had ample opportunity to put through other bills for which there was urgent need, but that failure of some of these does not develop an emergency warranting a special session.

The McAdams Branch Banking bill, the radio control measure, and the bill setting up the federal board of mediation in railroad labor disputes, were listed on the President's behalf as being among the more notable achievements of the sixty-ninth Congress.

Several hundred bills and resolutions, many essential to various governmental activities, die with the conclusion of the session.

Chief among these was the $92,700,000 deficiency bill, which provided funds for the army and navy, pensions government loans to veterans or bonus certificates, loans to farmers for seed purchases, and other activities.

While President Coolidge recognizes that inconveniences will be caused as a result of failure of this measure, he expects a way will be found for the government to carry on with some of the activities affected.

As to the bonus loans, the President feels that failure of the $25,000,000 fund provided by the bill for this purpose will not work serious hardships. He believes a workable plan will develop by which banks can make loans as originally contemplated.

Realizing that it must now go along without the $20,000,000 provided for it in the measure, the War Department has begun an examination of possible loopholes to effect a reduction of 20,000 men in the strength of the army before July 1. The bill carried between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 a day up to 1,500,000 men by that date from the present 112,000. Without the funds, it was said the army must be cut to 200,000 by July

Gray Wolf Hoping. If Nicaragua Came Here. The Ox and His Owner. Digging for Mone. (By Arthur Brisbane)

Thick snow, along the Union Pacific tracks here in Wyoming and herds of elk in Grosventre and Snake River districts are threatened with starvation. The State will feel them. West of the Utah boundary line, a gray wolf stood watching the train. Standing stiff as a statue, romantic in solitude. His purpose was prosaic. He hoped something to eat might be thrown from the dining car as it flew past. Miles away, on the Mojave Desert, crews gather along the track to meet the Santa Fe express and fly for miles behind the train watching the dining car.

The Wyoming State Tribune tells you that "The union of Central and South America and the Antilles" has ordered a boycott against everything produced in the United States. This seems ungrateful, in spite of our occasionally foolish treatment of sister republics, when you remember that this nation and the Monroe Doctrine protect those neighbors from conquest by Europe, saving them the expense of big armies and navies.

However, "put yourself in his place." The other day American marines regulating certain matters in Nicaragua were fired upon from ambush. Nobody hurt fortunately, but American forces were told to capture, punish and if necessary shoot those guilty of the attack.

When we send men on dangerous errands they must be protected, and if necessary avenged, but that would be the attitude of people in the United States if Nicaraguan soldiers were sent here in armored cars to travel over our territory and tell us what to do about a presidential election? Should we be good about it, do you think?

Governor Emerson of Wyoming invites President Coolidge to come here and fish on his vacation next summer. The President replies that he wants to come, but can not make his vacation plans "for some time yet," but he ought to accept Emerson's invitation, get a car and travel over a few thousand miles of this western country, northwest to Seattle, south to San Diego; back to the high Sierras where they fish for trout without harks on hooks, to save time taking off the fish at the rate of fifteen or twenty a minute. This part of the country likes President Coolidge, and he would like this country.

In his pre-Lenten advice to priests, in the parish of Rome, Pope Pius expresses vigorously his lack of sympathy with the Fascist government, without mentioning the word "Fascism" he disapproved the idea that man is made for the state, not the state for man. "Man," says Pope Pius, "is not and never can be a means. He is the end. Not of course the ultimate supreme end which is God but in the creation, man is really the end and centre about which everything is organized."

This reminder is needed in this country, where some industrial organizations have come to look upon men are mere cogs in great machinery, and where the men are willing to accept that view, if you give them $5 a day and up.

"The ox knoweth his owner, and the ass his master's crib." As Isaiah remarks, and what he says about the ox and the ass applies to some Senate members. When Hiram Johnson demanded cloture to force through the Boulder dam project which would be worth many billions a year to this nation and benefit tens of millions of Americans, solemn Senators said they couldn't think of applying the cloture. It was against their very great enterprise is postponed.

But when prohibition authorities in the state, needed extra supplies of public money to carry out their plans, demanded the cloture and warned that refusal would mean "disloyalty to prohibition ideals" those same Senators jumped through the hoop as ordered. They know that in millions of minds "back home" a glass of beer is more important than several Boulder dam projects.

Where money is men will dig it was proved in Italy, before architects had learned how to make great domes like that on St. Peter's, hold themselves up as they rose in the air. One dome was built and filled with earth to support it, as it rose, until the sides met at the top. Putting in the earth would be much less expensive than taking it out. So they mixed with the earth beneath the

Rush of Business Before General Assembly as End Of Session Approaches

State Capitol, Raleigh, March 5.—(AP)—The fast dying General Assembly delivered itself of two vigorous kicks today as both Houses set about winding up their affairs.

With pay cut off tonight by Constitutional limitation of sessions to 60 days, members today were preparing to stay over at their own expense to see the end predicted for early Tuesday.

Speaker Fountain in the House has been assured that at least 80 members would stay over, which would relieve him of having to exercise his powers in arresting members and holding them by force to retain a quorum.

Calendars in Both Houses were in condition to be cleared by midnight tonight but the revenue bill, a roll call measure, is still hanging in the Senate and must be concurred in by the House. It, by itself, will keep the Assembly in session until Monday night. When by the simple process of turning up the clock, two legislative days may be made in one.

The Assembly can not adjourn until every bill passed has been ratified.

Without benefit of debate, the Price workman's compensation bill was killed by the House today by an overwhelming vote to table and clinch. The motion was made by Rep. Riceotte, Rowan, acknowledged labor leader.

Last day introductions brought in bills by Makepeace, Lee, for relief of widow of Sheriff J. L. Turner; Nettles and Lee, amending charter of city of Asheville; and Brawley, Durham, giving county coroner $15 an inquest.

Passage of new bills on suspension of rules ran into a score. The bills were not read and nobody knew what was in them except the introducer.

The process was stopped by Rep. Wilson, Pasquotank, who demanded that every bill be read.

The second offering under this provision, sent in by Boyd, Howwood, was killed and no more bills came in.

Rep. Connor had the Woltz school equalization bill, passed by the House yesterday, recalled from the Senate and the vote by which it had passed reconsidered in order to pass it on roll call which requires 3 separate days. Today counted for first reading.

Grind of new laws amended the charter of Rocky Mount, and other local measures before Rep. Moss Nash, gave the House a school equalization bill, passed by the House yesterday, recalled from the Senate and the vote by which it had passed reconsidered in order to pass it on roll call which requires 3 separate days. Today counted for first reading.

The four were William Klondyke O'Donnell, who was held for a time in connection with the slaying of Assistant State's Attorney McSwiggan last year, William 'Fur' Sammons, known to police as a gangland power, John Barry and John Davis.

A fifth man was pursued over the roof of the warehouse but he escaped amid pistol fire by dropping down a wall of the building, which houses pre-war liquor valued at $1,000,000.

O'Donnell and Barry were found manning two high pressure pumps, from which the raiders trailed the long stretch of hose to a battery of tanks in the apartment building. The tanks already had received whiskey, which federal agents estimated was worth $200,000.

More than fifty detectives and federal men took part in the round up of the liquor thieves after they had received a tip that the government warehouse, operated by the Morand Brothers, was to be raided.

The two men at the pumps were taken after a brief struggle when the officers, who had lain in wait for hours, popped out of hiding places and surrounded the pair. Sammons and Davis, posted on the roof, were captured after they had emptied their guns.

REED COMMITTEE TAKES STEPS TO CONTINUE PROBES

Washington, March 5.—(AP)—Democratic Senators in caucus today unanimously approved the decision of the Reed campaign investigating committee to go forward with its inquiry in any state it chose.

Washington, March 5.—(AP)—Despite failure of the Senate to sanction its continuance after adjournment, the Reed campaign funds investigating committee is planning to hold further meetings. The committee already has held a post-Congress session, and by unanimous vote, ordered the impounding of ballots cast in four additional counties in Pennsylvania.

Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, chairman of the committee, contends it has full authority to act in the Pennsylvania election contest under a resolution adopted last January, and tentative plans have been agreed upon to hold another meeting here March 25, when the question of opening the ballot boxes already brought here from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh may be decided.

The committee's order to seize the boxes was entered late yesterday after the Senate had been formally apprised that William B. Wilson, Democrat, had contested the election of William S. Vare, Republican. Senator Reed said this was the only action taken by the committee.

While the question of whether boxes already seized will be opened was left for later determination, Vare has written the committee calling attention that it had been directed by resolution to secure ballot boxes "merely for preservation" while Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, who led the filibuster against the resolution to continue the committee, holds it "clearly does not have the power" to open the boxes.

Both Vare and Senator-Elect Frank L. Smith of Illinois, whose primary campaign expenditures on the Senate payroll with the report by the elections committee that their credentials were in due form. While counsel for Smith advised him that this action gave him a seat, Senator Caraway of Arkansas, a Democrat on the elections committee, told the Senate this question had not been considered during examination of the credentials and that he presumed every one would hold that the setting of both Smith and Vare was a question for the next Congress to decide. There was no dissent from this view.

Since there is no contest pending against Smith and in view of the fact that his case as Senator-elect was referred to the elections committee after an uncompleted investigation, it is not believed the Reed committee will attempt to pry into it, at least during the recess.

During his formal notice of contest filed with the Senate yesterday by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Wilson charged a failure to count many of the ballots cast for him and asserted a fair count would show he had been elected.

Senator Horton of Chatham, attacked the original bill and said the Democrats, in the minority in Wilkes county, were solidly opposed to the issue. His brother, Caswell, however urged adoption of the bill. Senator Clayton Moore, one of the Democratic leaders, opposed the measure.

Officers Capture Whiskey Thieves After Pistol Fight

Chicago, March 5.—(AP)—More than 600 feet of hose was used by thieves in siphoning bonded whiskey from a government warehouse to an apartment building 35 was revealed today after police and federal agents had captured four men in a spectacular pistol fight and recovered thousands of dollars worth of liquor.

The four were William Klondyke O'Donnell, who was held for a time in connection with the slaying of Assistant State's Attorney McSwiggan last year, William 'Fur' Sammons, known to police as a gangland power, John Barry and John Davis.

BELIEVE MAZER HAS TOLD STORY MELLETT KILLING

Canton, Ohio, March 5.—(AP)—Louis Mazer, charged with the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton editor, was taken into the jury room in the courthouse today for a secret conference with Prosecutor Henry W. Harter, Jr.

The court stenographer was summoned soon after Mazer was brought into the room. Judge A. W. Alger was not present but was in the courtroom adjoining.

Reports that Mazer was "telling all" about the killing gained credence. None of the court officials would talk.

Inquiries Into Pennsylvania and Other Primaries Be Made During Recess of Congress

Washington, March 5.—(AP)—Democratic Senators in caucus today unanimously approved the decision of the Reed campaign investigating committee to go forward with its inquiry in any state it chose.

American Marines Stage Big Parade In Shanghai Today

Shanghai, March 5.—(AP)—United States Marines today gave Shanghai one of the finest military displays which the many international troop concentrations have furnished. Fifteen hundred of them paraded through the principal streets of the city for two hours, not a show of force, the authorities announced, but merely to provide exercise for the men.

Landing at the race course, where Colonel Hill, commandant, reviewed them. Then they marched down the historic Nanking road with banners flying and their automatic rifles slung over their shoulders. The band blared "Valencia."

They marched through brilliant sunshine, as tremendous noon hour throngs of Chinese looked on unemotionally. The majority of the foreigners in Shanghai turned out from the review where several companies of British also drilled.

The scene provided one of the most impressive international military spectacles in the Orient since the days of the Boxer rebellion.

After the review and march, the marines returned to their ships.

"WATERING THE CAMELS"

Genesis 24:19:—I will draw water for thy camels also"

Rebecca, daughter of Bethuel, lived in a land of deserts and vast sandy plains, with little vegetation, dotted here and there with oases—verdant and fertile spots surrounding a well or spring of water, and a few widely-scattered villages.

Her father was a man of wealth, and she herself was very fair to look upon. Good looks do not always go with good manners and kindness of heart. When they do they are enhanced into the beauty that the world never forgets. Rebecca was as industrious and courteous as she was graceful, and the story of her courtship is one of the most beautiful idyllic tales of the whole literature of the world.

Abraham was anxious that his only son Isaac should marry a girl of his own race and religion, and being too old to travel back to Mesopotamia himself, he entrusted his old faithful servant Eliezer to go and procure Isaac a bride.

Eliezer started off with a caravan of ten camels to the land of Abraham's birth. Halting his caravan he rested after several days' journey outside the gates of Haran near the well.

It was evening, and Rebecca drew near with her pitcher on her shoulder to draw water for her home evening meal. The old man, having offered a fervent prayer to God, asked the girl, "Let me, I pray thee, drink a little water out of thy pitcher." She promptly replied, "Drink, my lord"; and, lowering her pitcher gave him refreshment, adding, "I will draw water for thy camels also."

Little did she know that she was answering the prayer of the old servant or of the patriarch Abraham far away. Still less did she know that through her gracious act she had proved herself acceptable as a bride, and that she would become the ancestress of the Lord Jesus.

Yes it was so. Matrimonial customs are always interesting to old and young alike, but you must read the whole story to enjoy the betrothal of Rebecca and of her meeting with Isaac. It ended with "and he loved her"—as all happy unions end; and it all came about from her saying, "I will draw water for thy camels also."

expected which is always arresting and alluring. That Rebecca should have given a drink to Abraham's servant is the least matter of surprise. Any woman at the well would have refreshed the old man with a drink. That was Eastern hospitality. There was nothing significant in that; nothing that opened a window on the heart. The revelation of Rebecca's heart and of her fitness to enter the lineage of God's promises lay in her gladly going a great deal farther.

She belonged to the Chosen Souls of the New Testament.

1. There was Zaccheus, when Jesus came to his house and brought him salvation, it was not enough for him to promise restitution to those he had wronged. That could not satisfy him. Just to give back what he had stolen was not enough. He said he would restore "four-fold" to all he had wrongfully used. He broke bounds and went farther than anyone would expect, because nothing less than his best could express his gratitude to Jesus. Love never asks how little; love always asks how much. Zaccheus, like Rachel, has the authentic mark of all who deeply love Christ.

2. Then there was the woman, the poor widow, putting her "two mites which make a farthing" into the temple treasury, and our Lord recognized her spirit as being like His own, "for she gave ALL SHE HAD," with glorious abandon. She went further than was expected, and so joined the fellowship of Rebecca and Zaccheus.

3. Then, again, the woman who broke the alabaster box, belonged to the same Royal Souls. The disciples did not understand her act. Many thought it wasteful, and did not hesitate to say so. But Jesus understood. Just as Rebecca "gave water to the camels ALSO," so this sinner reached out into the glorious unexpected.

4. This largeness was characteristic of our Lord Himself. Every miracle of healing which He performed, every gracious message He spoke, makes us wonder at His abounding generosity. He always gave more than was asked for; and "having loved His own He loved them TO THE UTTERMOST."

5. So, too, in the handiwork of God we find the same rich over-plus. We cry for bread, and He gives it to us with the beauty of the harvest field. We crave for water, and He sends it in pleasant and babbling brooks and streams. Everything God does for us He does with that largeness of heart and wideness of love. Let us, like Rebecca and the others I have named, be big in our response to His love, and say, "Here we offer unto Thee, O Lord, ourselves, our souls and bodies, to be a reasonable, holy, and living sacrifice to Thee," forever and forever.

Paris, March 4.—(AP)—Not content with having a passage de luxe in a series of small shops de luxe right in the center of the fashionable Champs Elysees quarter, Paris is also going to have its grand restaurant de luxe in the very same place. Plans are fast being carried out for one of the most delightful eating places in the capital which will have room for just forty people. And these forty people will have to be ones with large bank accounts, for no meal in this luxurious restaurant will cost less than one thousand franc per head. But it will be a royal repast, beginning with various cocktails, a meal worthy of Brillat-Savarin, himself, all well moistened with the best wines of France and finishing up with a spectacle of the best vedettes from the music halls—all this for a little less than fifty dollars, tax de luxe included.

Emulating the brave and courageous Alan Gerbault, the young Frenchman who has been sailing the high seas alone for more than two years in his little boat "Firecrest," an old Breton sailor, is now planning to cross the Atlantic Ocean in a little 7-metre boat. Michel Mery comes from an old family of seafaring men and will sail his craft alone and carry provisions for two months. By July first he hopes to be ready to start from Cape Finistere and seems very confident he will be successful.

In order that her fortune would revert to none, widow Toussaint Leferon, 58 years old and wealthy landowner at Vendee-sur-Arroy, spent her last hours on faith casting up into line pieces numerous bills of one thousand, one hundred, fifty and twenty francs, and then threw herself into the river. She also did away with her fortune in gold and silver pieces.

A theatre seat should not be served warm. This is what a certain Parisian, named Maillaut, thinks, and is determined to stick to his opinion. Having reserved orchestra stall No. 141 at a certain theatre, the gentlemen in question presented himself at the establishment and was conducted by the usher to this seat which, to his great disgust, he found occupied by an Englishman who had been given No. 141 instead of No. 143. All excuses were made but Monsieur Maillaut was adamant.

The seat is warm. My principles of hygiene prohibit me from sitting in this place," he declared to the manager who even offered him his box. "Since seat No. 141 which I reserved a week ago, is not in condition to receive me, I shall leave, but you will hear from me in due course of time."

Monsieur Maillaut is now claiming 71 frs. 50, the price of the seat, together with two hundred francs damages for taxi fares and the loss of his evening. The manager will fight the case.

Washington Senators Have Varied Assortment Pitchers For This Year's Pannant Race

(By Brian Bell)
 Tampa, Fla., March 5.—(AP)—Washington plus its hopes for a third American League pennant on the assembly of a varied assortment of pitching talent and the addition of Tris Speaker.

The Senators have 21 pitchers, many of them knocking at the big league door for the first time. There are pitchers everywhere, long and short, right and left handed, and coming from every section of the country. So many arms are at concert pitch in the Washington camp there are not enough catchers to make up the other end of the combination and two have been engaged locally to serve for the duration of the training period.

After that there won't be so many pitchers. President Clark Griffith, once a star pitcher in his own right, has felt the lure of the battle royal of the mound to such an extent that he has turned his back on his beloved golf course to watch the pitchers do their stuff.

"I have $100,000 worth of young pitchers out there, so it is no wonder I can't keep my mind on golf," the president said.

That Tris Speaker has "made the club" is the statement of Griffith and Manager Bucky Harris. "Spoke" has as much enthusiasm as any youngster in the camp and moves about the field with an ease that belies his 40 years, half of them spent in baseball.

Speaker will do more for Washington than play centerfield. He will be a sort of captain of the outfield, working with Goose Goslin in left and Sam Rice in right. A battle is in progress for the understudy outfield roles. McNeely, a regular until Speaker appeared on the scene, is safe and Cullip will probably be retained as he can also play first base. Sam West, who played with Birmingham last year, at the moment seems to have an edge in a three cornered contest with Ollie Tucker, late of New Orleans and Bernie Neis, who has spent some time in majors in years gone by.

Sensational fielding by Bobby Reeves, former Georgia Tech captain, has been a feature of the training period. He played a few games with the Senators last year. Fast and boasting a good arm he has established himself as a fixture, though he can not break into the starting infield for Judge, Harris, Myer and Bluege.

Myer, a youngster who fell heir to Roger Peckinpaugh's shortstop place, is a hard hitter and will be the regular shortstop. Harris would like to combine the best qualities of Myer and Reeves. If Myer could field like Reeves or Reeves could hit like Myer, we would have a world beating short stop," the manager said.

Harris has a good substitute second baseman in Steve, who is one of the game's really great base runners. Grant Gillis, who donned his brass by playing football and baseball at the University of Alabama may or may not hit major league pitching. McNamee, once an athletic infielder, has been playing first base here.

The catching will be in the hands of Alby Ruel, Bennett Tate and John Berger, an iron armed recruit from the Eastern League.

The big shake-up is in the pitching staff. Only three pitchers, Walter Johnson, Stanley Coveleskie and Fred Marberry, are left over from the pennant winning team of two years ago. Crowder and Murray joined the team last year. Of the numerous youngsters Horace Lisenbee, up from Memphis, seems to have definitely won a place. He is long on control. At one practice batting session Lisenbee threw 20 balls in succession so close to the plate the batsmen hit them all. Irving Hudley, late of Birmingham and with Washington last spring, has made a favorable impression as

D. A. R. CHAPTER MET LAST SATURDAY

The Col. Alexander McAllister chapter of the D. A. R. met on last Saturday with Mrs. C. M. Warren and Mrs. W. S. Harden, at the home of Mrs. Warren on Ninth street.

Mrs. W. B. Murphy, of Snow Hill, the regent, presided. A short business session was held, there being several matters of importance to be discussed. Delegates to the state convention to be held at Wilmington the 27th of this month were elected. They were Mrs. Person, of Greenville; Mrs. Parker, of Farmville; and Mrs. Palmer of Hookerton.

Mrs. Murphy called attention to the unveiling of a tablet to the North Carolina signers of the Declaration of Independence to take place at the capitol in Raleigh on the seventh of March. Mrs. Murphy is state chairman of the committee that has this in charge. All Daughters of the American Revolution of the state are invited. A luncheon will be served at the Sir Walter Raleigh Hotel on the day of the unveiling of the tablet.

The chapter authorized the treasurer to pay one hundred dollars on the chair to be purchased for the new D. A. R. building in Washington, every chapter in the U. S. being asked to purchase one of the chairs at a cost of one hundred and fifty dollars.

This being the annual election of officers, the following were elected for the new year: Regent, Mrs. W. B. Murphy, of Snow Hill; vice-regent, Mrs. Felix Harvey, of Kinston; recording secretary, Mrs. Dan Quinerly of Kinston; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. W. Parker, of Farmville; treasurer, Mrs. J. I. Morgan of Farmville; registrar, Mrs. Palmer of Hookerton; chaplain, Mrs. T. A. Person of Greenville; historian Mrs. R. H. Wright of Greenville.

This completing the business for the afternoon, Mrs. Dan Quinerly, of Kinston, gave a most interesting account of the marriage of George Washington and Martha Custis, it being the custom at the February meeting to have something pertaining to the life of Washington as the outstanding thing on the program.

At the close of the program, a social hour was enjoyed during which the hostesses served a salad course.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Felix Harvey in Kinston.

Hear Rev. John Cowell at the Woodmen's Hall tonight. You will enjoy it.

MRS. MOYE HOSTESS END OF CENTURY CLUB

(Reported) The End of the Century Club had a very enjoyable meeting at the home of Mrs. Hortense Moye on Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Moye and Mrs. C. A. Bowen as hostesses.

In the absence of the president Mrs. J. L. Fleming, Mrs. R. R. Cotten, honorary president, conducted the meeting. The club members were delighted to have Mrs. and Mrs. Cotten present once more.

At the conclusion of the regular business there was a spirited discussion as to the merits and demerits of wearing cotton clothes but no definite action was taken at this time.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. E. T. Dickinson, chairman of the program committee. The program for the afternoon consisted of a very interesting article on Renoir by Mrs. Travis Hooker; an article on modern French art with a brief sketch of Cezanne; a short outline of the story "Moon and Sixpence" by Maugham, and a reading of Corot's beautiful description of dawn and evening by Mrs. W. A. Bowen; and a most entertaining and instructive talk by Miss Scarborough of the high school faculty on the noted masterpieces and their many unique settings as observed in her trip through the European art galleries last year. She also displayed good copies of the great picture which impressed her most and described their coloring and the various settings in which they are placed. Her talk was much enjoyed by the club.

After this Mrs. Edgeworth Smith of New York, delighted the company by playing two beautiful selections on the piano which were heartily enjoyed and warmly applauded.

Among the guests present—other than club members—were Mrs. Edgeworth Smith and Miss Martha Tyson, of New York; Mrs. James Tyson, Mrs. J. H. Boyd and Miss Scarborough.

A most delicious salad course was served at the close of the meeting.

Kiwanis Minstrels Was Great Success

Greenville Kiwanis Club never did a finer thing than to successfully pull off its minstrel entertainment on behalf of our city library. The show was held in the E. C. T. C. old auditorium last Tuesday, and was highly appreciated by a full house.

Hobart Steele, of Burlington, was the master of ceremonies, and acquitted himself like a professional. The program was entitled "In Harmony Land," and in the opening party the following guests were present: the Misses J. G. Curran, Peggie G. Owen, Mary Emma Gaskins, Carolyn Fullilove, Bessie Brown, Agnes Fullilove, Emma Mallison, Hattie Sue Scoville, Bobbie Allison, Mittie Smith, Hazel Kennedy and Florence Lawrence.

The gentlemen guests included Messrs. T. W. Rouse, Frank Rice, Guy Smith, John Barker, Ed. S. Williams, W. W. Lee, Berry Bostic, W. H. Bradsher, E. W. Griffin, D. M. Sellers and Dr. M. B. Massey.

It would be invidious to praise any of the performers more than others, for each filled his part splendidly, but C. B. Rowlett, the manager of the Kiwanis minstrels, deserves high credit for his personal contribution to the program and for the way he had managed the whole troupe. We give the items of the program as follows: "Eradicators of Gloom," C. (Soup) Porter, Harry L. Morris, J. F. Harrington, "Red" Horton. "Premier Comedians," C. B. Rowlett and Tige Gardner. In the musical numbers, besides the minstrel selections, the following ballads were well rendered: "Looking at the World Thru Rose-colored Glasses," by Emma Mallison; "Could I?—I Certainly Could," by Charlie (Soup) Porter; "Cherrie, I Love You," by W. H. Bradsher; "Don't Caddillac Me," by Harry L. Morris; "How Many Times," by C. B. Rowlett; "She's a Corn-fed Indiana Mamma," by Tige Gardner; "Moonlight and Roses," by Troy W. Rouse; and every one received a generous encore. Chas "Chassis" Forbes distinguished himself with "Poor Pappa." Our Greenville male quartet, Messrs. D. M. Sellers, W. H. Bradsher, W. W. Lee and Ed. S. Williams, maintained their reputation with several selections. Miss Gene Morton rendered violin selections to the accompaniment of her sister, Miss Mae Morton at the piano, with their usual charm and ability. E. T. Robeson and his Greenville "Synecopators" kept the air throbbing and pulsating with melody.

The concluding burlesque was entitled "On An Alabama Excursion" in which everybody seemed to have a part. It was a riot of music and fun.

The scenery and sets were by Amelia Groin, Philadelphia, Pa.; and the costumes by Hooker Howe Costume Co., Haverhill, Mass.

The whole performance was staged by the Associated Production Co., of New York, whose southern offices are at Burlington, N. C.

We repeat, the Kiwanis Club deserves credit for again providing our people with a tip-top entertainment and generously donating all the profits to our city library. Acts like this makes "Kiwanis" mean much to the whole community.

PALE & PEAKED

Texas Lady Was Advised by Her Mother To Take Cardui, Which She Did With Good Results.

Hamilton, Texas.—Mrs. Gladys Poitevint, of this city, says: "At times I suffered awfully with pains across my back and through my sides. I would have to go to bed and stay two or three days at a time. It was very worrisome. I managed to keep going, but... did not enjoy myself at all."

"One day my mother remarked on how bad I looked. She said: 'You look so pale and peaked, why don't you take a bottle of Cardui?' She had taken it herself a number of times, and it had always improved her health, so she thought I had better try it."

"I got the Cardui and began taking it, and from the first dose or two I could see a change for the better. The first thing I noticed was that my appetite was improved. I began to be hungry and I enjoyed my meals. I slept better at night. My rest was so much quieter that I got the benefit from it. I kept on with the Cardui and took it for several months. The pains in my back and sides grew less until they finally quit bothering me."

Try Cardui for your case. At all drug stores. NC-170
