PARIS TO NEW YORK FLIERS EXPECTED IN NEW YORK CITY ABOUT FIVE O'CLOCK TODAY

White Bird Sighted Off Isle of Shoals Shortly After Three O'clock.

Washington, May 9.—(AP)—Passage of the Nungesser plane over the Isle of Shoals, off the New Hampshire coast, was reported to the Navy Department today in the following message from the Portsmouth Navy Yard: At 3:03 P. M. the French plane passed over the Isle of Shoals.

The Isle of Shoals is closed to Portsmouth, about 30 miles from Boston and 25 miles northeast of Portsmouth at shortly after three o'clock, with a lightning load, he should be making a 100 miles an hour clip which would put him in New York soon after 5 o'clock standard time.

The Army signal corps was notified by its force at Governors Island that the French plane was passing over New England points and has ordered its searchlights in that region turned on as beacons for the fliers.

Washington, May 9.—(AP)—The Navy Department at 2:25 P. M. Eastern time today reported that Captain Nungesser had passed over Port land Main.

Previous reports from Boston had reported a large plane flying over Portland which was believed to be the French trans-atlantic flier.

The Navy's dispatch merely said that the Nungesser machine had passed Portland, flying at a high rate of speed. There were no details in the Navy's announcement.

Boston, May 9.—(AP)—A radio received at the Navy Yard today from the radio station at Portland said that a large plane passed over Portland flying west at 2:35 P. M. It was thought that it might be the Nungesser plane. It had passed over Rockland and hour and half previously at a high rate of speed.

New York, May 9.—(AP)—Two o'clock this afternoon came and with it there was no definite word of the whereabouts of Captain Nungesser and Coli flying over the sea from Paris to this city. Thirty eight hours had passed since the plane had hopped off from Le Bourget. Two earlier reports that the "White Bird" was sighted over Newfoundland had not as yet been confirmed. One of the reports was not credited. A heavy rainstorm and fog mantled the sea between New York and Boston and visibility was low.

Nungesser is flying a Levasseur-Lorraine bi-plane equipped with 450 horsepower motor. The hull is so constructed that if forced down it will float 24 hours. On the fuselage of the craft, Captain Nungesser has painted the emblem of his war-time plane, which was death to many Germans. This is a black heart surrounded by a skull and cross bone with a coffin, candles burning at either end, above them.

The plane left Paris with 4,625 litres of gasoline (more than 1,000 gallons) sufficient for 40 hours flying, or five hours more than the fliers thought the trip would take.

New York, May 9.—(AP)—The hop off of the "White Bird" bi-plane of Captain Charles Nungesser and Francis Coli from Paris to New York climaxed months of keen rivalry among five expeditions for the honors of being the first to make a non-stop flight between France and America.

Four expeditions had been formed in this country to make the trans-Atlantic flight which Captain Rene Fonck, French war ace attempted last year but those attempts ended in tragedy.

The American entry nearest to taking off is the Bellanca Monoplane which recently established a new world's record for sustained flight of more than 51 hours. Lloyd W. Bertaud as navigator and Clarence Chamberlin as pilot had expected to take off early this week, but sponsors of the proposed flight announced last night that it would be delayed until the result of the Nungesser attempt is known, and if successful the Bellanca plane would substitute some other long non-stop flight.

Another expedition that is nearing take off is that of Captain Winifred W. E. Hargott, air mail pilot, which is being formed in St. Louis. This plane expected to take off shortly for New York as a final step in its Trans-Atlantic flight. Accidents wrecked the planes of two other proposed expeditions. The "American Legion" plane in which Commander Noel Davis of the U. S. Navy hoped to make the trip was wrecked in Virginia and Davis and his pilot, Lieutenant Stanton H. Wooster, were killed. The "America" plane of Commander Richard E. Byrd of the U. S. Navy also figured in an

BYRD WILL TRY YORK TO PARIS FLIGHT IF NUNGESSER UNSUCCESSFUL

New York, May 9.—(AP)—The New York Evening Post says this afternoon that it has learned that Commander Richard E. Byrd will take off on the Fokker Monoplane "America" for Paris next Saturday if Nungesser and Coli are unsuccessful in their effort. The Post says that Bert Acosta, co-holder with Clarence Chamberlin of the World's Endurance Record, will replace the injured Floyd Bennett as Byrd's co-pilot.

MEMORIAL DAY TO BE OBSERVED

Parade and Other Exercises Here to Feature One of Best Programs in Years.

Tomorrow, May 10, is Memorial Day throughout the South. A very fine program has been arranged for Greenville. The Daughters of the Confederacy, the city schools, East Carolina Teachers College and the local military company are co-operating to make the day fitting to honor the memory of the Confederate dead.

The veterans, as is their usual custom will meet at the courthouse at 10 o'clock for the annual roll call. At ten-thirty there will be a parade from the courthouse to the cemetery. This parade will form at the courthouse. First there will be the Greenville High School Band, followed by the High School Glee Club carrying flowers. Then will come the local military company who will act as escort for the nineteen Confederate Veterans of Pitt County who are now living. When the Confederate grave at the cemetery is reached the following program will be carried out:

1. Tenting Tonight on the Old Camp Ground—High School Glee Club.
2. Invocation—Rev. H. Frederick Jones.

4. Just Before the Battle Mother—High School Glee Club.
5. Benediction—Rev. H. Frederick Jones.
6. Volleys over the grave—Military Company.
7. Taps—Military Company.

At the conclusion of these exercises the parade will re-form and in the same order proceed to the auditorium of the East Carolina Teachers College, going down Pitt Street to Third; East on Third to Evans; thence down Evans to Five Points and from there out to the college on Fifth.

The address of the occasion will be delivered by Hon. F. C. Harding of this city, who at this time will eulogize the late Gen. J. Bryan Grimes of Pitt County, one of the outstanding Confederate leaders in North Carolina, and also present to the Greenville High School a portrait of General Grimes. The descendants of General Grimes are presenting this portrait to the local high school and it was their wish that Mr. Harding should present the portrait. Mr. James L. Little, chairman of the board of trustees of the Greenville city schools will receive the portrait on behalf of the local schools. Supt. James R. Rose will preside over the exercises at the college. The detail program follows:

At the conclusion of the program the veterans will be the honor guests of the East Carolina Teachers College at dinner and during the afternoon will be the guests of the local movie houses.

WHICH WILL THESE TWELVE MEN BELIEVE

"I cannot see how anybody or any twelve red-blooded men can possibly believe the preposterous story that Judd Gray told on the witness stand. I feel confident that every member of the jury is convinced that I told the truth."

—RUTH SNYDER.

"Judd Gray is not expecting any clemency at the hands of the jury. Gray has told the truth—and only the truth. His conscience is clean and he is convinced that the jurors, all twelve, will believe every word he has told on the witness stand."

FLOOD WATERS PILE AGAINST BAYOU LEVEES

"Sugar Bowl" of Central Louisiana Threatened With Inundation Early Today.

New Orleans, May 9.—(AP)—The "Sugar Bowl" of Central Louisiana was threatened with inundation today as the flood waters of the Mississippi River from six crevasses in the Northeastern part of the State pushed up against the Bayou Des Glaises levee seeking an outlet to the sea.

A funnel-shaped stream covering thousands of square miles of the fertile delta of Northeast Louisiana poured its strength into the back water that already subjected the Bayou Des Glaises levee to an enormous pressure and federal and State engineers were apprehensive lest the dike could not withstand the strain.

Hundreds of men were working on the threatened dike, with engineers concentrating their forces at weak spot, while a rescue fleet consisting of all types of vessels was being mobilized to meet any emergency.

The "sugar bowl" where most of the domestic cane is grown, is thickly populated, and it is estimated that 250,000 people might be driven from their homes by a crevasse at Bayou Des Glaises, and 4,000,000 acres subjected to overflow.

Unless the dykes break, the waters will be diverted through old river back into the Mississippi, adding to the already record-breaking flood that is moving south from that point and to the strain against the levees south from Angola.

For weeks, battalions of laborers under the direction of engineers have been raising low spots on the lower river, and strengthening weak spots in preparation for the height of the flood. Should the bayou Des Glaises dike break, a large portion of the flood waters would be diverted through the Atchafalaya basin, bringing some measure of relief to the beleaguered lower river.

Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, and Secretary Davis of the War Department, arrived here last night from Baton Rouge after a motor trip inspecting the levee line between the two cities en route to a conference with the citizens flood relief committee and a visit to the Carnation crevasse 15 miles below this city. Secretary Hoover will return to Baton Rouge to remain until the crisis has passed. Secretary Davis will return to Washington.

Greensboro, May 9.—(AP)—The North Carolina Collegiate Press Association convention stood adjourned today with H. L. Hester, editor of the Duke University Chronicle elected president.

Other officers elected were first vice president, David Carroll, of the University of North Carolina; second vice president, Miss Ann Johnson, of Queens College; secretary, Miss Frances Gibson, of North Carolina College; treasurer, A. L. Aydtette, of State College; a student from Elizabeth City.

Snyder Murder Trial Will Reach the Jury Late Today

New York, May 9.—(AP)—Defense summations were completed in the Snyder murder trial today. They lasted almost four hours.

The defendants then retired and adjournment was taken for one hour when the summation of the District Attorney was scheduled to begin.

"I am going to plead to you," Millard told the jury, "just as though Judd Gray was my boy, because I believe in him."

He then outlined Gray's home background during his youth, the care his mother gave him, his church affiliations.

Millard pictured the bright future which spread out before Gray as he became a success in business, married and had a daughter.

"Then, suddenly," he said, "in 1925 a sinister, fascinating, unscrupulous woman came across his path. What a catastrophe that those two should have met."

"I would not blacken any woman's name if I could help, but you must have the truth."

"That woman, like poisonous serpent, drew Judd Gray into her listening coils and there was no escape."

Millard said that Gray turned to the stimulation of whiskey because he was exhausted by the stormy nature of his love.

"And while he was under the influence of drink," he said, "she inserted into his weakened mind her desire, her determination, to kill her husband."

As Millard spoke Gray sat behind him in alert pose, listening attentively and Mrs. Snyder lounged back in her chair with a twisted smile in thin lips.

"This woman," he continued, "hard as it is for me to say, tried to kill her husband by herself at least four times. By poison, by gas and by asphyxiation from the fumes of an automobile engine she sought and failed to end his life."

"She had in tow this poor fellow"

JUDGE BROWN WILL CASE TO COME UP SOON

Issue to Reach Court At Washington Some Time Today; Half Million Involved.

Washington, May 9.—(AP)—A special venire of 100 men was ordered for tomorrow by Sheriff James H. Harris in the Brown will case today.

Of the 24 veniremen called today when the trial was called by Judge Frank A. Daniels in Superior Court here 9 were excused, one had left the county, leaving but 14. Counsel on both sides announced a satisfactory jury could not be obtained from that quota and the special venire was ordered. Court then adjourned.

Judge Brown made his will January 5, 1926, and died March 14, 1926.

He was for fourteen years a judge on the Superior Court bench and at the end of that time was elevated to the North Carolina Supreme Court. He was an active member of that judiciary body for more than fifteen years, at which time he retired.

When Mrs. Brown, as executrix, offered the will for probate, a caveat was filed by relatives of the judge. Among these were two sisters and several nieces and nephews.

The caveat was filed in the ground that Judge Brown did not have the mental capacity on January 5, 1926, to execute a will.

More than a hundred witnesses have been subpoenaed by both sides. An imposing array of legal talent will be lined up in the courthouse Monday morning. Representing Mrs. Brown will be Harry MacMillan, of this city; Judge J. S. Manning, of Raleigh, and J. C. B. Ehringhaus and P. M. McMillan, of Elizabeth City. On the other side will be Judge Stephen C. Bragaw, Hallet S. Ward, Junius D. Grimes, H. C. Carter and John Bonner, all of Washington.

Judge Brown's will was written in his own handwriting, with Jesse B. Ross and William B. Harding as subscribing witnesses.

Judge Brown is reported to have made a number of verbal statements, promising certain bequests to various relatives and others. A letter also will be introduced as evidence in which he is said to have made certain promises relative to bequests. There is no question of any undue influence having been brought to bear upon the judge in having him prepare the will, which was filed for probate after his death. The sole contention of those who filed the caveat will be that he was not mentally capable of preparing such a document on January 5.

A short while before he was taken ill on February 20, the judge presided over a term of Superior Court in Washington. Efforts will be made by one side to show that his administration at that time was not normal, while the other side will have witnesses to prove that he was entirely rational. Other instances also will be brought out in the evidence submitted to the jury.

Lawyers have been holding repeated conferences for the last few weeks and many witnesses have been interviewed. It is expected that the first two days will be taken up with the selection of the jury. The case undoubtedly will run through the two weeks of the term.

APPLICATION OF PENALTY INEXPEDIENT

Sir Austen Chamberlain Tells British Cabinet of Chinese Situation.

London, May 9.—(AP)—Sir Austen Chamberlain, the foreign secretary, told the House of Commons today the British Government had decided that the present application of penalties for the anti-foreign outrages at Nanking and the failure of the Chinese Nationalists to observe the conditions of the Hankow agreement was inexpedient, however fully justified.

Sir Austen said he believed similar reasons had led other interested governments to a like conclusion. Under those circumstances the British government did not propose to address any further notes to Eugene Chen, the Chinese foreign minister at Hankow.

Great Britain, the foreign minister said, has informed the other powers of its decision but has reserved fully liberty of action concerning the future and particularly concerning further outrages which might be perpetrated upon the British fleet, British subjects and British property.

Great Britain also has decided not to reoccupy the British concession at Hankow, which was given over to the Chinese authorities by an agreement with the Hankow government, at the present time.

More Than Two Million Dollar Property Damage Reported in Middle West and Southwest.

(By The Associated Press.)
At least fifty persons were killed, more than a hundred injured and property damage more than two million dollars by tornadoes and cyclonic winds, accompanied by downpours in some sections that lashed the Middle West and Southwest over the week-end. Death lists were expected to increase momentarily as additional reports were received.

Texas was hardest hit with 25 deaths and a half hundred injured reported from tornadoes at Garland and Nevada, both within 35 miles of Dallas. Early today in Missouri the tornado toll reached 14 dead and an undetermined number of injured.

In Kansas where a tornado swept four counties Saturday night ten were reported dead. In Iowa a woman was drowned when her motor car was swept into a ditch during a heavy wind and rainstorm.

Garland, 15 miles northeast of Dallas, and Nevada, 35 miles northeast of Dallas, were struck by twisters early today. Miss Irma Coone, Red Cross nurse at Greenville, telephoned to the Red Cross at Dallas that there were 17 dead at Nevada.

Twisters raged last night in central, south-central and eastern Missouri. They struck at or near Auxvasse, New Bloomfield, Carrington, Eldon and Mexico, with a high wind at St. Louis. Loss of life was heaviest at Eldon with six reported dead. Five were killed in the Auxvasse-New Bloomfield-Carrington area, two near Mexico in Calloway and Audrain counties and one, a negro, at St. Louis.

Greatest property damage in Kansas was at Hutchinson where the tornado swept through an industrial district and poorer residential section, causing damage estimated at more than a million dollars. There was one death in Hutchinson, four nearby in the country and five in Barber and Kingham counties to the South.

The tornado which lashed Garland and Nevada passed high over Dallas. Torrents of rain fell over Dallas, the first anniversary of the hailstorm that caused $2,000,000 damage there.

Kansas City, May 9.—(AP)—Blizzards, tornadoes and hail storms in the Western States Saturday night and yesterday killed at least 13 persons, injured scores and left hundreds homeless.

Kansas was hardest hit when a twister started near the Oklahoma border in the central section of the State late Saturday night and swept four counties, leaving eleven known dead.

Two women and two children were killed in a tornado near Eldon, in south central Missouri last night. Meager reports indicated the storm also struck Olan, seven miles north of Eldon, causing heavy property damage.

High winds, rain and hail storms extended from blizzard swept northern Rocky Mountain States to the Dakotas, Nebraska and Iowa.

A woman drowned in a ditch near Sioux City, Iowa, while high winds damaged buildings in southeastern South Dakota, northern Nebraska and Iowa. The disturbance reached its climax near North Platte, Nebraska, where a tornado razed buildings, but no one was known to have been killed or seriously injured.

Dallas, Texas, May 9.—(AP)—Four persons were known to have been killed, several were unaccounted for and more than forty injured by tornadoes and high winds that struck northeast of here today.

Seven persons were listed as dead or missing at Garland, 15 miles northeast of here. Four bodies were recovered. Upwards of a score of injured were brought to Dallas hospitals.

Two residents of Nevada, Collier County, were believed to have perished and more than a score injured by a twister.

Virtually all wires were down in the storm area. Nevada was completely isolated, said a resident who drove to a nearby village to summon aid.

Unconfirmed reports told of damage to other communities near Nevada. Thunderstorms followed the tornadoes.

The Ocean Flying Season
Mrs. Coolidge's 1,000,000
How High, How Deep
Why Did I Do It?

(By Arthur Brisbane)

Copyright 1927, by Star Co.

The first real Ocean-flying season is open. Nungesser, highest French "ace" surviving the war, had planned yesterday to start his Paris-New York hop this morning, and may be over the Atlantic now. If he first makes the unaided, non-stop flight the world will congratulate him. It is not unusual, for France to do things ahead of others.

Frenchmen built the Suez canal and showed us the way at Panama and Frenchmen, since the days of Montesquieu, Rousseau, D'Alembert and the great Voltaire have shown the world how to think. Thinking is more important than flying, which is mainly one application of thought.

Yesterday our big, slow dirigible Los Angeles sailed, in circles above the Capital at Washington. Like other great things, far away, it seems not to move because nothing is beside it, to show motion, to our feeble minds, motion means nothing unless you pass something. For that reason we are unconscious of the steady movement of civilization.

MANY ESCAPE DEATH WHEN STORE FALLS

Four Story Building at Chicago in Mass of Ruins Following Col- lapse Today.

Chicago, May 9.—(AP)—Nearly 100 customers and employees were believed to have escaped uninjured today when the Louis Department Store, a four story structure at 1631-35 West Chicago Avenue collapsed in a mass of ruins.

Louis Goldblatt, proprietor, declared that ten minutes before the building crumpled with a rumbling crash, a cracked wall had given warning and he had sounded the alarm, getting most if not all the people to the street in safety.

Mrs. Ma McGinnis, a clerk, was hurled from the fourth floor story and badly injured. She was taken to a hospital.

Walls fell in a d d the entire building was smashed to a heap of ruins. Many persons were at first believed to have been trapped and killed but after an hour of digging at the ruins, neither dead or injured was found and the officials then accepted M. Goldblatt's belief that virtually all had escaped.

YANKEES AND CARDINAL WIN YESTERDAY

(By the Associated Press)

Smashing victories by the Cardinals and Yankees left no doubt in the minds of fans today that the leaders of the major leagues have pitching power as well as slugging force.

One of the finest hurling exhibitions seen this year in either league was turned in by a Red Bird, Flint Charles Rhen, as he held the Robins to just two hits for 5 to 1. Cardinal win at Brooklyn. Three of his team's runs were scored on two homers by his walloping mate, Chuck Hafey.

While the Cardinals were showing the east what kind of baseball it was that won them a world crown in 1926, the Yankees were hammering home a lesson of their own in how to win a pennant.

For the second time in two days the Huggins blanked the White Sox at Chicago, the burden of their victory borne on the competent shoulders of Walt Hoyt. Backed by errorless fielding and the vicious hitting of his team mates, the veteran held the White Sox to nine scattered hits for a nine to nothing win. No Yankee game is complete without its homer so catcher Pat Collins stepped up in the seventh and bounced one into the left field bleachers.

In others of the White Sox games this year the day has been saved when all seemed lost by the timely insertion of Connally, star relief man in the pitchers box. But even that failed this time and it was Connally's fast one that Collins knocked for the loop.

To make it two for New York over Chicago the Giants at the same time were noosing out a close 5 to 4 decision in their game at the Polo Grounds with the Cubs. Until Terry doubled in the ninth and drove Roush home the game was anybody's Detroit 3 to 2 decision over the Red Sox also was won in the ninth when Marcy McManus singled with the bases full.

The west was victorious over eastern foes in both the other games played.

The Cleveland Indians, who are next to last in the American League standing, reached up to make it two straight over the Philadelphia Athletics who are second in the race. A fumble by the certain Eddie Collins helped the home team to its victory 4 to 2. The St. Louis Browns, sixth in the ranking, topped the fourth place Senators 8 to 3, to square their series at one all.

Two fine individual records came to an end as Pothergill, of the Tigers for the first time in 18 games failed to make a hit, and Frankie Frisch of the Cardinals, made his first error in 19 games by throwing wild to first.

The intersectional flavor of the battles now being staged brought out huge crowds everywhere. The Yankee-White Sox game at Chicago drew 32,000 and set a new record for Comiskey Park.

SPORTS SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD

New York, May 9—(AP)—An old axiom of the prize ring that "They never come back" but Jack Dempsey's chance of regaining the heavyweight peak appear brighter at least to Tex Rickard, than the prospects that face any of the former champion who tried it and failed.

This is for the reason that youth and condition favors the erstwhile "Manassa Mauler" in the promoter's opinion. He points out that Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Jeffries and Jess Willard found the "comeback" path difficult to negotiate; they were from two to eight years older than Dempsey is now. Rickard promoted the comeback of Jeffries and Willard.

Dempsey will only be 32 this June Rickard went on, "and if he accepts my offer, he will be in action within nine months after losing the championship."

Corbett was 31 when he lost the heavyweight crown to Fitzsimmons. He was 34 when he made a great effort to come back against Jeffries at Coney Island, only to be knocked out in 23 rounds. Three years later at San Francisco, Corbett was knocked out again by Jeffries, this time in eight rounds.

Then there's old Fitz, a veteran of 35 when he beat Corbett with the famous solar plexus punch for the title at Carson City in 1897. Knocked out by Jeffries two years later for the championship in 11 rounds Fitz was 40 when he fought a return match with Jeffries in 1920, again being knocked out.

Jeffries was only 35 when he came out of retirement to fight Johnson at Reno in 1910 but he had been idle six years and failed to regain his old punch and endurance. Jeff had grown fat living in ease. He took off 80 pounds, trying to get in shape for Johnson.

Willard was 40 and had been out of the ring four years when he returned to action in 1923. Firpo stopped him and blocked the chance of a return match with Dempsey. It might have been a repetition of Toledo if they had met anyway.

It is taking some heroic work by the reservists to keep Washington in the American League pennant scramble with good share of the regulars on crutches or in the hospital since the start of the season but manager Harris, himself a casualty on three separate occasions, isn't giving up hope.

Besides Marris, the Washington "Jinx" in the form of either injury or illness has hit Johnson, Coveleskie, Marberry, Rice, Bluege and Goslin, to mention only the most prominent victims since training began in the south, which probably can be claimed as a record.

Mother's Day

Well Observed

In Greenville

Mother's Day was appropriately observed in Greenville yesterday. Special programs were given at virtually all churches, and huge crowds attended both morning and evening services.

Threatening clouds hung over the community all the afternoon, but hundreds of people felt the call of the open and went to nearby or distant sections to be at home with mother during her one great day of the year.

Some of the churches were not content with honoring mother at the morning services. They also found a place for dad at the evening services. The part which dad is playing in the building of civilization was brought out in a particularly interesting way by special sermons prepared for the occasion.

Who Held Guns That Killed Terror of Bad Men? State Puts Wife on Trial

Luther Bishop, terror of the bad men of Oklahoma, was shot to death in his bed at home. Neighbors tell of an automobile leaving the scene immediately after the shooting, but circumstantial evidence has involved his wife, who is now on trial in Oklahoma City. Her son Leo (right), is an important witness.

OKLAHOMA CITY (I-N Special).—Two guns—his own—blazed forth death at Luther Bishop, State detective and probably the most feared peace officer in Oklahoma.

The State of Oklahoma, in court here, is attempting to prove that the hand of Bishop's wife held the revolvers and not those of a revenge-seeking criminal.

The crime was as mysterious as it was daring. Bishop feared the men with which he had to deal, almost as much they feared him. He slept with doors and windows locked.

At two o'clock on the morning of December 5, 1926, seven shots rang out. His wife, according to an automobile sped away immediately to her story, awoke and ran to his study after the shooting; one woman told of seeing two men running from had been his father's closest friend, the scene, Bishop's guns were found in a box in a linen closet in the doctor arrived Bishop was dead. house; there were no footprints on a Coroner's Jury assembled. Evi- the damp roof adjoining Bishop's dence was conflicting. Neighbors room; no footprints could be found told "hearing the grinding of gears on the ground outside.

Mrs. Bishop was arrested, only to be set free. Governor M. E. Trapp ordered an investigation, and a few days later Mrs. Bishop was rearrested.

She admitted that her relations with Bishop were not as close as they might be, but she insisted that she loved him, and loves him in death.

"Why should I think of committing a crime like this when I thought so much of my boy?" she asked. "That's what hurts. They can accuse me if they will, but do you think that I would do a thing like this to the shame of the baby I love so much?"

Nevertheless, the State does, and she is now on trial for murder.

FINE SERMON BY McCLEES

R. G. McClees Delivered Another Splendid Sermon Sunday Morning at 11 a. m.

At the 11 o'clock service in the Presbyterian Church here Rev. R. G. McClees, Pastor-Evangelist of Chatham Virginia, preached with his wonted vigor to an audience unusually large, Sunday morning. And well was every one rewarded for coming. He also preached to good crowds Saturday night and at Sunday school Sunday morning.

Text: "Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus Phil. 3:13, 14.

A. What is it all about? What is it all for? That I might win God and His infinite heaven!

Is it worth while? Let us ask ourselves, is it worth while?

Paul, standing on the mountain slope of holiness, look back and exclaimed "I count not myself to have apprehended"

"But I press on" As in the Greek games the athlete pressed on for his goal to win the crown of wild olive leaves, and strained every power of body and mind, so will I press on toward the mark—my goal which is, to win God and His infinite heaven. The Greek strained every fiber of his being to win a crown that perished in a few moments, I shall win a crown that fadeth not away, reserved in heaven for me, and for all those who love His appearing.

"Forgetting the things which are behind" If ever anyone had a right to remember the past it was Paul. For he left a pathway of glory from Damascus to the Pillars of Hercules. But all his achievements are forgotten; all his hardships, sufferings, toil defeats and success—all forgotten because his gaze is forward.

So, it is infinitely worth while Let us not brood over the past which Jesus has forgiven; let us strive and labor on and on with our goal being to win the plaudit of our Master and to have Him place the victor's crown upon our brow in glory.

An umbrella which folds and can be put in a vanity case has been invented.

MUSIC — EARTH'S GREATEST POWER

(By Arthur Brisbane)

Last week was music week, dedicated to concentration on the value and power of music, and the many ways of producing it.

In each year should be FIFTY-TWO music weeks, and in each day of every week there should be music in every home.

Music is the oldest and noblest form of expression. Birds sang long before men talked. Before the birds sang, there was the music of the wind in the great fern tree forests that created our coal beds.

Music is, or ought to be, part of everything important in life. It expresses as nothing else can, men's highest aspiration, deepest sorrows, patriotic courage, love of country and OF HOME.

Take music from life and you might as well take color from the sky, flowers from the field, and kindness from the human eye.

The air is full of music when young people are courting. Music leads them to the altar and back to the church door.

There is music when the baby is christened, and solemn music leads us to the grave.

With martial music men march to war, and with triumphant music return from victory.

The first sound a child hears is the sweet voice of its mother, singing to awaken the new little soul, and the last memory of an old man is the tune he heard in his childhood.

Music awakens the human mind, as the plough awakens the soil. Let music be heard, while you are reading a difficult abstruse book, and instantly the meaning becomes clearer.

Music lightens toil, and in days to come it will be heard and enjoyed by the workers in the field, as it has always been provided for soldiers marching out to kill each other.

Henry Ford's advice to fathers and mothers is: "Let your children play some instrument. If they can't play WELL, let them play BADLY," and he quotes the Bible:

"But be ye doers of the word, and not HEARERS only."

Be CREATORS of music, not merely LISTENERS.

The woods are beautiful now in spring, each bird singing, the humble chirp of the sparrow as pleasing to its mate as the proud song of the lark, or the sad melody of the nightingale.

It would be a sad world if in the wide forest only

—and the Worst is Yet to Come

ONE bird sang, while all others listened, in silence. Let this not be a nation of listeners, gathered around the talking machine or the performing artist.

The so-called "mechanical music" is of greatest value to the human race, and will do more than everything else to stimulate the creation of new, more beautiful music.

Music of the radio, talking machine, player piano and the other devices is to the world of music that printed books are to the world of knowledge and of literature.

But men should not merely READ or listen to reading. They should also TALK, creating and expressing their own thoughts.

And similarly they should not be content merely to listen to music. They should desire to create it.

Every home should possess its radio, hear the voices and the instruments creating music as you listen.

Every home should have its talking, singing and playing machine and its library of records, from which each may select what he will, as he selects his reading from the library of books.

But above all, THE FAMILY SHOULD BE MUSICAL.

The children should be taught to sing. There should be a piano in every home. And those that can afford it, nearly all can, FORTUNATELY IN THESE PROSPEROUS DAYS, should have a separate instrument for each child.

Each of us should cultivate music in his soul and mind, and every father and mother should ENCOURAGE MUSIC IN THE HOME.

If your little boy wants a saxophone, sacrifice yourself and let him HAVE it.

If your daughter wants a ukulele, a banjo, guitar or violin, GIVE it to her.

COTTON

New York, May 9.—(AP)—Failure of the weather may show as much rain as anticipated over the week-end and a tendency in some quarters to scale down estimates of damage to coming crop prospects by the Mississippi flood appeared responsible for reactions in the cotton market today. Futures closed steady 21 to 24 lower; spot quiet, middling 15.75.

SENSATIONAL PASSAGES IN CHAPLIN SUIT

Attorneys of Wealthy Comedian Seek Or der to Blot Out Allegations.

Los Angeles, May 9.—(AP)—Sensational passages in the 45-page divorce complaint of Lita Grey Chaplin against her husband, Charles Spencer Chaplin, were the targets of attorneys for the wealthy comedian today as they sought a court order to blot the racy allegations from the case.

The order, which would be in the form of a motion to strike, is asked particularly against that portion of the complaint charging with improper relations with five prominent motion picture actresses. Thus far the names of the actresses have not been revealed and if such motions are granted no testimony covering the allegation can be introduced during trial of the case. Attorneys for Chaplin also were scheduled to argue a demurrer to the complaint.

accident which damaged disrupted the expeditions plans. Byrd suffered injuries. The plane was slightly damaged.

Captain Ponck, who was the first to actually take off in a New York to Paris flight, also is in this country preparing for a second attempt which, however he does not expect to make before late summer. In his first attempt from Mitchell field last year the plane crashed shortly after its take off and two of his crew were killed.

While a $25,000 prize offered by Raymond Orteig, New York and Paris hotel man, for the first non-stop flight from New York to Paris has been the means of attracting attention to a flight between the U. S. and France, several of the expeditions have not registered for the prize money. The Nungesser plane is not eligible for the Orteig prize.

change from cannibalism to soup-kitchens.

However the shining ship Los Angeles was visible from the White House, and from the war and navy buildings. Perhaps somebody looked through a window and reflected on what bigger, faster and HOSTLE flying machine could do to Washington.

It is a pity the two houses of congress were not all on the Capital steps, to look up and think what such a visit, from Europe or Asia multiplied by 1,000 might mean to this nation.

It will come some day, if we remain unprepared, when it does come congress and whoever happens to be president will be held responsible, and have an unpleasant quarter of an hour.

When Judd Gray, who arranged with Mrs. Snyder to kill her husband was asked "why did you enter that murder plot?" He replies, "That is what I want to know" If you had a penny for every man that has asked himself the question, "Why did I do it?" your wealth would make of Ormuzd look like poverty.

Since the day when Eve picked the apple Adam took a bite and Cain killed his brother, men and women have asked, as much amazed and puzzled as anybody "WHY" did I do it.

Miss Bloom says "Mrs. Coolidge is worth $1,000,000 a year to the republican party" and that is an under estimate. Mrs. Coolidge is worth to her husband's party more money than the combined fortunes of Ford and Rockefeller. Here is a limit to the purchasing power of money.

There is no limit to the value of a good example.

An American in a floating balloon beat all "Altitude" records, going more than eight miles above the earth.

A hole has just been found in the Pacific ocean, more than six miles deep, greatest depth ever discovered and we, little earth microbes, exclaimed, "How high, how deep!"

Take in your hand a smooth apple. In proportion to size, the earth is more nearly round than the apple and germs on its surface could find on it mountains higher than Mount Everest, chasms, more fearful than the Grand Canyon. A hole six miles deep is equal in depth to less than one thousand part of earth's diameter.

struck by a tornado last night, arrived here today and said at least six persons were killed by the storm.
Rankin said the twister struck the western section of the town and demolished everything in its path.

Rankin said he spent most of the night in first aid work and helped carry at least a dozen persons, some of whom were killed and others seriously injured from demolished buildings.

St. Louis, May 9.—(AP)—Charles Williams, 40, negro, was killed and Annie Edmunds, 29, negro, was seriously injured and considerable property damage was caused by a heavy windstorm which struck St.
Louis early today. Numerous trees were blown down and window glass shattered.

Greenville, Texas, May 9.—(AP)—
Four persons were killed near Wolfe City about 20 miles north of here and two were killed near Kellogg, seven miles north of Greenville, by a tornado early today.

Fulton, Mo., May 9.—(AP)—Five persons are reported to have been killed and a number seriously injured in a tornado last night at Auxvasse, New Bloomfield and Carrington, towns near here.

At New Bloomfield, Rufus Phillips was killed and his daughter, Della, was seriously injured. A Miss Clay also was reported killed.

John W. Sameson, about 70, former accessor of Callaway County, was killed near Carrington.

Near Auxvasse, Mrs. R. E. Biggs was killed and her son, Thomas, was injured. Mr. Biggs escaped injury. A farm hand on the Biggs' place is reported missing. A child whose last name is Culver, also was reported killed. A number of per-sors were seriously injured.

Telephone wires were down and communication is disrupted.

St. Louis, May 9.—(AP)—Eleven were killed early today in a tornado at Garland, Texas, and 16 in a tornado at Nevada, Collins County of the same State, according to telegrams by Red Cross Mid-western headquarters here from chapter representatives.

The message said that 50 to 80 were injured at Nevada, three fourths of the residents and nine-tenths of the business buildings were destroyed and property damage was estimated between $500,000 and $800,000.
