Terrifying.

Jerusalem, July 12.—(AP)—The earthquake which terrified the inhabitants of Jerusalem yesterday afternoon and wrought destruction there and in many parts of Palestine and Transjordan, while not so great a scale as some similar tremors in the Holyland in the past took a considerable toll of lives and caused widespread damage.

An incomplete casualty list emerging from the Jerusalem district placed the dead at 26 and the injured at 30 and officials fear that when reports are received from the outlying places, the death toll will reach a large figure.

In Jerusalem itself the material damage was extensive. The small dome of the Holy Sepulchre Church occupying a site which has been looked upon as sacred for many centuries, was badly cracked. But only death is recorded in the city proper, that of a servant at government house. Twelve persons are known to have been injured.

The escape of the inhabitants of Jerusalem seems largely due to the fact that the shock was not severe enough to bring down the comparatively solid buildings of the city, although cracked walls and ruined interiors are numerous. Nevertheless, the quake caused intense alarm and the people thronged the streets and remained there for a long time, fearing to return to their homes.

Outside the capacity, the loss of life undoubtedly was greater owing to the many destruction of many dwellings which collapsed upon its inmates before they were able to escape.

Ramleh, Es Salt, Amman, Ravalah and Beirzeit are among the places reported to have many houses down with resulting casualties. The collapse of a hotel in Jericho killed three Indian women visitors. Four children were killed when a house fell at Mount of Olives and five women lost their lives at Ain Karon, the modern name of the plain where according to tradition John the Baptist was born.

Among the buildings damaged in Jerusalem were the postoffice, the executive building, the church missionary society's school, and the university. So much damage was done the government house, residence of the high commissioner, Lord Plummer, that it is declared to be unsafe.

On a site regarded as that of the tomb of the Saviour, the Holy Sepulchre Church was consecrated in 336 A. D.

Ecclesiastical records are that during excavations in the reign of Constantine, the tomb of the Saviour was discovered and that Constantine's mother undertook a pilgrimage to Jerusalem where she found the Cross of Christ.

Hordes of Persian vandals swooped down on the Holy City in the seventh century and destroyed the church buildings, which were built only to meet the same fate again 300 years later at the hands of the Moslems.

Alterations were made to the church during the next 600 years and in 1719 most of the shrine was reconstructed.

In 1808 the Holy Sepulchre was wrought into a charred ruin when fire levelled the church buildings. With the financial aid of Greece and Armenians, a new edifice was built in 1810.

The dilapidated dome was restored by architects of various nationalities in 1868, pursuant to an agreement made with the Porte by France and Russia.

Cairo, Egypt, July 12.—(AP)—An eye witness who arrived here today by airplane from Transjordan, said that 300 persons were believed to have been killed in yesterday's earthquake.

At Maan, Arabia, the eye witness said that most of the houses there were damaged or had collapsed completely, while a mosque in the course of erection was seriously damaged.

The movements of the earth lasted 40 seconds and were visible in the surrounding lava beds, the witness said, describing the effect as terrifying.

Many persons were killed at Amman, Palestine, the witness declared, while others were killed at Radd and Ramleh as well as in various villages in Transjordan. Desert bedouins everywhere appeared terrified by the earth movements.

While the earthquake was felt in Cairo, no damage was reported.

London is interested in a baby girl, Alice Seabrooke, aged three weeks, weight one pound, ten ounces. She has gained four ounces since birth, was fed by a fountain pen dropper at first, now eats from a spoon and is well.

The Spartans, and later Barbarians would have tossed such a child aside as not worth rearing. But your sickly baby is often your best, too much brain monopolizing the blood supply.

Voltaire was puny, sickly baby with fits, and would have died had not his mother's father confessor given him special, intelligent care.

Newton, great mathematician in history, weighed less than two pounds at birth, and was called dull by his teacher in arithmetic. Newton told his mother he did not think the mathematical problems were intended seriously, as he could do them all instantly "in his head," and proved it. Take care of your sickly child, it is probably your best.

Marshal Foch predicts another world war, in fifteen or twenty years, bigger and worse than any affecting men, women and children, everywhere, on earth, and fought in the air.

Airplanes, the Marshal believes, will fight not singly, or in pairs, but "in serried masses."

Not a pleasant prospect, but sometimes human beings develop common sense, when you least expect it. Somewhere, in each of the nations, there must be intelligence and the influence enough to save the world from such a fate.

President Coolidge will be interested in the Foch statement, knowing that Foch is not exactly a theorist in war.

If a world war in the air is coming, would it not be a good idea to (Continued on page six)

Dr. A. E. Corey Addresses
Members Of Rotary Club

Dr. A. E. Corey of Winston, pastor of Christ church of that city, was the principal speaker at the regular session of the Greenville Rotary Club last night. The address came at the termination of installation of new club officials and the rendition of a program easily considered one of the best of the summer months.

Dr. Corey was very happy in his remarks as they pertained to the life of today. At the outset he laid down several principles by which not only club members, but the entire American citizenship should be governed. He stressed the need of honesty among all classes of people and especially of those uncounted millions who are laboring in behalf of a higher type of civilization.

J. B. Kittrell, chairman of the entertainment committee, had charge of ceremonies connected with induction into office of the new officials. The session was presided over by vice-president Curtis Perkins in the absence of President Haywood Dail. After new officers had been installed, however, Bill Rogers, newly elected president, assumed charge of the evening and the president's chair. Dr. K. B. Pace succeeded Curtis Perkins as vice-president. Julian White was installed as secretary, succeeded by J. L. Little. Members of the various committees were also announced.

Several visitors were present from various towns of the state, including such well known business and professional men as Robert Rouse, prominent attorney of Winston-Salem, Sec. of the Kinston Rotary Club, and J. E. Stubbs, secretary of the Hendersonville Chamber of Commerce, who has been spending the past few days looking over conditions prevailing in this part of the state.

Each of the visitors talked briefly in response to their introduction to the club members. And each talk was filled with a spirit of optimism for Rotary and conditions as they prevail throughout the state and nation today.

Dr. Corey was introduced in a brief but effective manner by J. B. Kittrell. Mr. Kittrell paid tribute to the brilliant career of Dr. Corey as a leader of religious thought of the day, and declared him to be a character whose activities will be no confined to the locality in which he lived.

Dr. Corey said he had been requested to speak about outgoing and incoming officials, but that he had changed his mind and planned to let his remarks deal not only

PACIFIC FLIERS
NOISILY WELCOMED
TO SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco, Calif., July 12.—(AP)—A barrage of noise, the initial sign of a nation's acclaim greeted Lieut. Lester J. Maitland and Albert Hegenberger here today as they came back from their pioneer flight from California to Hawaii.

Whistles, bells, sirens and other available sound producing instruments were brought into play as the thousands lining the waterfront and the hundred aboard ships in the harbor caught first sight of the liner Mavi, which brought the aerial conquerors from Honolulu.

Above the din scores of aircraft—every plane that the army and welcoming organizations could muster—dipped and circled in salute as the Mavi idled through the Golden Gate.

U. S. Marine Commander Ready to Fire on Men Holding Mine at Au Fernado.

Managua, Nic., July 12.—(AP)—Major G. D. Hatfield, commanding the U. S. Marines here has sent an ultimatum to the rebel leaders General Sandino who has been occupying American mines at San Fernando, to lay down his arms at El Ocotal by eight o'clock of the morning of July 14.

General Sandino was notified that in that case of his refusal to obey the order an attack will be made upon him by joint American and Nicaraguan forces. "The General was appealed to lay down his arms in order to save the lives of his soldiers."

General Sandino who originally was leader in the liberal army which recently laid down its arms has been operating the American mines, assessing taxes and maintaining his forces at San Fernando. He is reported to have a force of 1,000 men and four machine guns.

Begin Work For
P. & N. Extension

Charlotte, July 12.—(AP)—Preliminary work looking to construction of the proposed extension of the Piedmont and Northern Railway from Charlotte to Winston-Salem is being steadily carried forward despite the fact that the Interstate Commerce Commission has not as yet given its permission.

Principal efforts, it was learned here today from officials of the railway, are being directed at completion of negotiations for rights of way along the greater part of the selected route.

Approximately 10 miles of right of way have been donated by land owners whose properties are situated between Charlotte and Kannapolis, a distance of 23 miles the line would be routed, it was announced. A total of 5,355 feet of right of way between these cities have been purchased at $40 an acre; 14,093 feet at $50 an acre and 6,080 feet at $100 an acre.

Officials said that a considerable portion of the right of way between Kannapolis and Winston-Salem would be donated by land owners.

Leviathan at Cher-
bourg.

Southampton, England, July 12.—(AP)—Carrying back to the United States its long distance air record won on his trans-Atlantic flight from New York to Germany, Clarence D. Chamberlin, accompanied by Mrs. Chamberlin, sailed for home today aboard the steamship Leviathan.

The giant ship, which promises to become known as "the aviators liner" left for Cherbourg where Commander Richard E. Byrd and his three trans-Atlantic companions of the great Moskoplane America, plan to board the vessel with their plans.

To make the aviation flavor of every more distinct, Frauken Thea Raschke, Germany's only woman licensed pilot, boarded the Leviathan at Southampton with her little stunt plane.

Chamberlin's mother, who came to Europe after the flight of her son, cancelled her passage homeward at the last moment because of her desire to remain with her sister, Mrs. George Pilotelle whom she has been visiting at Wembling. Mrs. Pilotelle is ill and Mrs. Chamberlin did not care to leave her at this time.

Charles A. Levine, Chamberlin's companion on the New York to Germany flight had been expected to make the run from Southampton back to London. He missed seeing Chamberlin who was late getting aboard last night after a visit to Bristol to look over the airplane future plans would be until the return to the U. S. and saw Giuseppe Bellanca, designer of the Columbia in which he and Levine made their trans-Atlantic flight to Germany.

Barnwell Last Night

Kinston, N. C., July 12.—(AP)—W. L. Lewis, federal prohibition officer in a local hospital in serious condition and Virgil Sermon of the Fort Barnwell section, also wounded in under guard in a Goldsboro Hospital, as the result of a gun battle at close range between federal agents and moonshiners in the Fort Barnwell section last night.

Lewis, who led a party of three agents in the raid on a still, suffered bullet wound in the hip and back when shot from behind after being promised immunity if he would leave the location of the still unmolested. Virgil Sermon is jointly accused with Red Sermon, his brother, of the shooting. Red Sermon is held in the Lenoir county jail here.

The shooting took place in a densely wooded thicket which has long been known as the location of moonshining operations. The officers in two automobiles, came upon the still and placed the Sermon brothers under arrest. After they had loaded what contraband liquor was about the still, into their automobiles and were preparing to leave, they were fired upon from a nearby thicket, one of the federal agents said.

Linburg, one of the agents' deserted his companions to search for the assailant, and the arrested men overpowered the remaining agents it was said. A hand to hand struggle ensued during which Virgil Sermon and Lewis were shot. Linburg and McDuffy, third member of the raiding party, made their way from the woods afoot.

The automobiles containing their associates have not yet been found. Linburg returned here late this morning unhurt after following his assailant through the woods for several hours and finally losing him.

Poses of Lenoir and Craven county officers, and federal agents are combing the wooded sections in the vicinity of Fort Barnwell, for the negro and their two automobiles.

Daniels Scores American
Domination in Philippines

Raleigh, N. C., July 12.—(AP)—The Philippines would rebel if American military supremacy did not rule their country with a rod of iron, Josephus Daniels, wartime secretary of the navy told the Spanish-American war veterans today in State convention.

"The crime of continued military domination as at present administered is a political one," he said. "Volunteers share no lot of its responsibility. If it is persisted in some day the Philippines will resent our domination as the Cubans resented the more cruel Spanish rule."

"The continued rule of the Philippines by military government is not only wrong to a people, but it has done much to destroy the ancient faith that all governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed."

"We bought the Philippines at so much a head, and while we have improved schools and roads, our retention of control has reduced them, so far as self-government is concerned, to the position of a crown colony. They would rebel if American military supremacy did not rule their country with a rod of iron."

"Breaking our pledged word to the Philippines and to the world is the blackest page in the chapters of American history. It justifies imperialism abroad and weakens belief in democracy at home."

"But as you gather today, you and Higgins of Ireland.

Dublin, Ireland, July 12.—(AP)—George Plunkett, son of Count George Plunkett, was one of ten men who appeared in court today charged with conspiring to murder Kevin O'Higgins, vice president of the Free States Council, who was assassinated on Sunday.

Plunkett who had been arrested several times previously on charges of being involved in republican activities and the other men were arrested last night. They were remanded in custody until Monday. All protest against being arrested on what they called an "obviously false charge."

The names of the other nine arrested men were as follows: Frank Kerlin, William Doe, Michael Fitzpatrick, Owen Connelly, Brodon O'Carroll, Kevin O'Carroll, Joseph Reynolds, Aubrey Hunt, and Arnold Hunt. The men are charged with conspiring on July 10 and previous date with persons unknown to commit a crime punishable by law.

Least Cut of
Cotton Acreage
In Two States

Raleigh, July 11.—(AP)—The least reduction in preliminary acreage for this year's cotton was from North Carolina and Alabama. Frank Parker, agricultural statistician for this State, today reported.

"The preliminary acreage for this year's cotton shows North Carolina with a 10 per cent reduction, while that for the entire cotton belt is given at a 12.4 per cent reduction," he said. "Oddly, the least reduction was from North Carolina and Alabama. All of the remaining States had more than 10 per cent reductions. This State's acreage is 1,814,000 as compared with 2,015,000 planted last year. The entire belt's acreage is estimated at 42,683,000 acres."

"According to the North Carolina indications, the stand is estimated at 87 per cent as compared with 79 per cent reported for the same time last year. The average date of first blooms is estimated to be July 6 as compared with July 11 last year. Of course, the earliest blooms begin in the Southeastern counties, centering around Bladen, where a date of June 30 was given for their first blooms. The poorest stand appears to be in this same Southeastern area where 8 per cent is reported."

Mr. Parker said boll weevil infestation appears to be much more general and intensive than for several years.

Mr. Daniels said some minister had voiced the sentiment that they would never bless another war and "if they had stated they would never bless another war begun for power, or greed or imperialism, the whole country, or most of it, would have approved the declaration."

"There is no crime comparable to most of the wars that have cruised mankind. Nearly all of them could have and should have been avoided."

"And if the American government would take its rightful seat at Geneva, instead of fooling away its time with so-called naval disarmament."

WYOMING HAS LIMELIGHT AT WHITE HOUSEPony Express Revived For Sending of
Message From State
To President.

Rapid City, S. D., July 12.—(AP)—All other things stood aside at the summer White House today while Wyoming, reviving the pony express of wild West times, held the spot light.

A group of its citizens, headed by Senator Kendrick and Governor Emerson, were invited by President Coolidge to luncheon and to take part in the final ceremony of the 270 mile ride in the saddle by which an invitation was sent for President and Mrs. Coolidge to visit the State.

Twenty-seven riders have sped through the day and night from Cheyenne, in relays of ten miles each and from one to another a roll of buckskin was handed, bearing a message of good will for the President.

The last of the riders, Dakota Clyde Jones, in charge of the Custer Park Rangers, was expected at the game lodge shortly after noon astride a horse named Calvin Coolidge, and the presentation of the buckskin roll was planned on the front lawn of the summer White House.

The first rider left Cheyenne yesterday morning. On through the day went the buckskin roll, up through Wyoming, and across a corner of Nebraska. The moon was beginning to cast its glow over the countryside when A. H. Peterson, astride Adam McMullen, dashed into Harrison, Neb. (He tossed the roll to A. E. Knerl, riding George W. Morris and the message was on its way north into South Dakota.)

Overhead the riders went out into the night with their lanterns, airplanes, dodging clouds. It might have been the postal service plane carrying the overnight mail from Chicago to the coast. Between the plane and the horseman stretched the progress of half a century.

The thought of this difference wrought in such a brief space of time had caught the interest of President Coolidge and although he may find it impossible to accept the invitation on which the riders were bringing him, he awaited eagerly the successful termination of the old pony express.

BASE RUNNING BIG FACTOR IN MONDAY GAMES

(By The Associated Press)

If base running is a lost art in modern baseball it was found yesterday to win two games in the American League. Bucky Harris, leader of Washington's hopes which seem to be centered on second place in the standings, stole home in the tenth inning against Cleveland and enabled the Senators to win their sixth straight from the Indians 3-2. Bill Barrett's daring thievery in the ninth won for the Chicago White Sox against Boston 7-6, with the score tied in the final innings. Barrett singled, stole second, went to third when the catcher's throw to nab him rolled to the outfield, and came home while Flagstead juggled the ball.

The Yankees drubbed the Detroit Tigers 8-3, in the last of the six game series. Lou Gehrig went into a tie with Babe Ruth for the home-run leadership by slugging the ball out of the park in the seventh inning. Gehrig's wallop was the ninth of four base propositions in the series. Pat Collins strated the Yankee assault in the fifth with a home-run and in the next inning the Hugen pounded Stoner for five runs. Waite Hoyt was in form but Bob Shawkey came to the Yankee rescue in the seventh and saved the game.

The Athletics hopped on Elam Vangilder for 14 hits and made it three out of four from St. Louis, the Browns drove Jack Quinn out in the second but Johnson allowed only three hits in five innings until relieved by Joe Tate. Ty Cobb got three hits including a homer with one man on base.

There was little activity in the National League. St. Louis gained half a game on the Cubs and Pirates, who were idle. Grover Cleveland Alexander had a great day against Philadelphia, holding McInnis men to four hits and whitewashing them 7-0. Alexander did not permit any batter to get beyond first base. Frankie Frisch increased his base stealing total to 23 with one left. Heine Schulte, the Cards' new shortstop, handled 11 chances without a bobble.

The league leading Chicago Cubs were rained out at Boston. Other teams were not scheduled.

PARIS TENNIS PLAYERS PRACTICE ON MACHINES

Paris—(AP)—Training machines for tennis players have been installed at the Parisian sport club. "Why not?" the proprietor asks. "Bicycle racers have their home machines, oarsmen have rowing machines, the boxer has the punching ball, the golfer the captive ball. And so far the tennis player has nothing. He has use a wall or the back-yard fence when he wants to practice alone."

The machine looks like a blackboard on a wooden horse. There are nets above and below to capture wild shots. The board has a white line to represent the net above which are arcs and horizontal lines. Beginners try to get the ball over the net, while advanced players perfect their accuracy by shooting at certain arcs or between two upright lines. The board returns all well-hit balls. The practice ground requires only a ninth of the space of a tennis court.

A number of leading tennis players, among them Suzanne Lenglen, Lacoste and Ochot have used the board and approved it.

OUT of KEELER'S GOLF BAG!

A 36-Hole Championship Play-Off

(By O. B. Keeler)

When the stories of ties in major open golf championships are told you may be sure that the story of 1925 will not be overlooked, for it was in that famous tie between Bobby Jones, amateur, and Willie MacFarlane, the bespectacled Tuckahoe professional, that 36 holes were required for the first time in American golf to settle an open championship that was all square at the completion of 72 holes.

In Britain, the play-off is prescribed as 36 holes; and we all remember the last tie experienced there, when the tall young amateur Roger Wethered, finished level with Jack Hutchinson, on Jack's original home course, the classic St. Andrews, where the British open was played again this year.

That was in 1921, and Wethered, playing earlier than Jack, would have won the title but for stepping on his ball while backing toward it after lining up his shot to the seventeenth green and incurring a penalty stroke. Jack was left with a 70 to tie. And shot the 70—and won the play off.

At Worcester, in 1925, Jones came with a rush after a terrible start, a round of 78, and went from thirty-sixth place to tenth, then to fourth, then to a tie for first place with Willie MacFarlane.

Sunday morning they started the play-off, and Willie gave an example of what he might accomplish by holing a putt of 70 feet—I paced it off—for a birdie 3 on the third hole. He got Bobby down, in fact, and Bobby got a great break when he sank a 50-yard pitch for a birdie 3 after two loose shots and picked up a stroke at No. 14. That tied for the first round as Willie, sinking his long putts with amazing regularity, missed a six-footer for the title at home green.

I spent the intermission between rounds in Bobby's room and we agreed that the providential break—almost the first Bobby ever had in a major competition—had given him another chance at the championship. When they started the afternoon round in a blazing temperature, about 3 o'clock, I heard Bobby say to Willie:

"The papers say it's 105 in the shade."

Willie replied:

"Well it's lucky we don't have to stay in the shade!"

And Bobby went on in beautiful golf to turn 4 strokes up on Willie, and I was beginning to be sorry for the tall, pedagogical professional, when he touched off a duce on the tenth green, and another 2 at the thirteenth, where Bobby took a bad 4; and when Bobby, trying with a mistaken ambition to get home in 2 on the long, dogleg fifteenth, lost last his stroke and was square, I began to see the handwriting on the wall.

I shall always regard Willie MacFarlane's finishing nine holes at Worcester in the play-off of 1925 as one of the grandest feats of golf ever accomplished.

"This thing is getting ridiculous," said Bobby to me waiting for Willie to play his second to the thirty-fifth green, the pair still square after 106 holes. I said yes, it looked like going another round. "No," said Bobby decisively. "It will be settled one way or another, this round!"

And at the final hole he tried a desperately close pitch to hit at the front of the small green and was roll up by the hole, after Willie was well on, but 40 feet past the pin. The pitch was two feet short. The ball rolled back into a deep bunker. Willie won a great and deserved victory, in 108 holes—the longest American open championship.

Dempsey Doing Secret Training

By Alan J. Gould
Saratoga Lake, N. Y., July 12—(AP)—Jack Dempsey has been up to something at his cottage very deep in the woods, a mile from the Lake shore training headquarters—and now the secret is out.

Every morning Dave Shade, Jack's middle-weight pal from California, steals from the camp just after dawn and meets Jack in the hay field back of the cottage.

There with trainer Jerry Luvadis, the pair hold a secret workout for 30 minutes before Jack takes to the road for a five mile run.

During that time they practice just two moves—and on the result of Jack's secret drill may depend the fate of his comeback engagement with Jack Sharkey in the Yankee stadium July 21.

Dave, possessor of one of the fastest left jabs in the fist game, shoots that hand into Dempsey's head. The former champion catches the blow on his right glove, and with almost the same motion ships his left to Shade's body. Then they try the move again and again.

VIRGINIA HURLER WINS AGAINST "BIG THREE"

Williamsburg, Va.—(AP)—The "Big Three" brings no tase fright to Jimmy Wallace of Norfolk, Va. diminutive pitcher of the College of Williams and Mary. Wallace believes the coach sends him to pitch baseball and let the outfielders worry over sluggers.

Harvard, Princeton and Yale in succession fell before the dazzling slants of the youngster this season. Then, to add to his average, he added the scalp of Sayracuse, Holy Cross and the University of Richmond.

Jimmy is just a few inches over five feet, but he has a "whip" which may take him to the big leagues. His control is excellent. Much of his success comes from "working the corners." He is a consistent hitter. Accounts of games often carry the statement: "Wallace won his own game."

This is Wallace's first year on the varsity.

Sharkey Gets Rough With His Sparring Partners

New York, July 12—(AP)—Sparring partners of Jack Sharkey's staff are counting the days until battle with Jack Dempsey, July 21. Sharkey is getting more or less rough, although he still is disposed to his conditioners fier with only a minimum of retaliation.

The Bostonian conqueror of Harry Wills and Jimmy Maloney is making his blows count, trying himself on distance and timing. Two of Sharkey's sparring mates felt the power of Jack's wallops yesterday and one of them, Johnny Urban, was saved from a knockout when Sharkey's manager, Johnny Buckley, hurried the bell to end a furious round.

Sharkey had charged Urban savagely, dropped him to the canvas and, after picking him up, was preparing to drive home a finishing punch. Sharkey is perfecting some of his punches it is evident he plans to use to stop the former champion comeback.

BAKER AND CALLAHAN TO FIGHT TONIGHT

Chicago, July 12—(AP)—Sammy Baker, the New York boxer who stopped the hardy Ace Hudkins recently, and Mushy Callahan of Los Angeles, who holds the junior welterweight title, by reason of combined punch and ring cunning, meet at Cubs Park tonight, topping a card of four ten round matches. The fight has not been advertised as a championship affair but Baker expected to enter the ring at the 148 pound weight limit, thus qualifying to take the title should he win.

Walter Patrick, local man who was knocked unconscious in an automobile accident between this city and Kinston Sunday night, was reported to be resting nicely today. J. M. Captures Queen Of Bees and all Of Her Followers
A queen, followed by a royal train of servants, was captured at Five Points Sunday afternoon by Percy Forbes. The capture attracted attention from numbers of people riding through that part of town during the afternoon, and inquiries as to what all the excitement was about have been numerous.

The Queen—a bee—became discontented with the environment of a hive in some part of the city and flew until she lighted on the front of a Five Points store. Hundreds of other members of the hive followed the inclinations of the ruler of the hive and when she parked at Five Points, they did likewise.

Percy Forbes procured a box, mounted a ladder, and by persistent measures of coaxing and subterfuge, succeeded in getting the queen to place her royal self on the inside of the box. In a few moments the entire swarm entered and their wanderings were at an end.

Percy carried his bees home and last reports from their new place of residence was to the effect that they were still "buzzing around."

Shoots Wife And Then Kills Self
Robinsonville, N. C., July 12.—(AP)—Walter Grant, successful Graham County farmer, shot his young wife through the heart and then committed suicide at his home last night in an isolated section 15 miles north of here, according to word received at the office of Sheriff G. W. Shuler, early today.

A friend living more than a mile from the scene of the tragedy discovered the bodies about 8 o'clock last night apparently about an hour after the shooting when summoned by the plaintive appeal of a six year old daughter of the Grants who walked to the home of B. Carriagering Cried "papa has shot mama."

Sheriff Shuler and county coroner Frank Howell went to the Grant home this morning and were conducting an inquest shortly before noon.

Pending the report of the murder and suicide full details and a motive were lacking.

The Grants had been married for eight years. He was 35 years old and his wife 25. The shooting apparently had been witnessed by the six year old girl and another daughter, only 3 years old, who are the only children.

Elliott this morning. "Just are over unless you make the purchase that you want to buy some- chase."

LURED TO STAGE FROM HOME
The body of Mrs. Doris J. Pollard, killed in an automobile accident Sunday, was claimed today by her brother, C. P. Johnson, of Raleigh. Her husband, Henry Pollard, of Smithfield, whom she left last October, had requested that the body be turned over to her family for burial as he was financially unable to handle the expenses, as he had our children to support.

The woman was killed while automobile riding with two men, S. J. Jint of Raleigh and J. M. Houck of Cary. The car turned over three times on the highway a mile from here and plunged down a steep embankment. The woman died a few hours later. Houck is in the hospital with minor injuries while Jint is out under bond for his appearance Saturday at an investigation.

Commissioners Hear Complaints Of Tax Payers
Members of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners met in all day session here yesterday, considering the county budget, heard complaints for equalization of taxes from different parts of the county and received the report of Sheriff Whitehurst.

While the budget has been under consideration and discussion for sometime, it was not available for publication today. It was accepted by the commissioners during yesterday's session, but compilation of the various parts will not be completed until some time later in the week.

About fifty taxpayers asked for revaluation of their property and equalization of taxes. They received assurance that the matter would be looked into, and everything done to bring about satisfactory adjustment.

The commissioners ordered Sheriff Whitehurst to get busy and collect more taxes. The list as presented in the sheriff's report contained too many insolvents necessitating concerted effort for collection.

A fifth child escaped with only slight shock.

The family were brought to Greenville and received aid at the office of Drs. Skinner & Smith. White said he was riding along at a leisurely rate of speed when another car forced him off the road. He lost control of his car, and it turned over.

BRIDGE OR ROADS?

While the proposed new bridge across Tar River here is a subject of discussion, it is well for citizens of Greenville and Pitt county to consider the question of which is most needed, a new bridge or more hard surfaced roads. Apparently we cannot have both, and a new bridge will mean that some of our proposed road extensions must wait for another session of the legislature, at least.

As we understand it, Pitt county's part of the road fund created by the last session of the legislature will be slightly above $400,000. Out of this is to be built the Farmville, Fountain highway which will probably cost above $200,000, and the State Highway Commission proposes to build a new bridge at an estimated cost of around $150,000. This means that very little, if any of the county's part of the road money will be left and the extension of Highway No. 11 beyond Bethel must wait until more funds are available regardless of how badly these extensions are needed.

If the present river bridge here is inadequate and unsafe for travel, we have no choice in the matter of how the present road money is to be spent, but if the bridge is safe for travel, in our opinion, the wise course would be to use the money now available for roads that are badly needed and let the bridge wait until a new one becomes absolutely necessary.

From all reports we are led to believe that the present river bridge is entirely safe and adequate to take care of travel for the present. If the state engineers have found this to be the contrary such findings should be brought to the attention of the people as a reason for the proposal to erect a new bridge.

As well as we would like to see a handsome bridge across the river here, we feel that an extension of certain of our roads is more important than the bridge unless it is definitely determined that the present bridge is unsafe. It is to be hoped that the State Highway Commission will give the honest needs of the county and adjoining counties careful consideration before it definitely decides to take a good part of our road allotment for a bridge.

SHOULD OPEN MARKETS SOONER

Governor McLean of North Carolina and Governor Richards of South Carolina have both appealed to the United States Tobacco Association of America to open the tobacco markets of these two states at an earlier date.

South Carolina wants the date set up to July 26 instead of August 9th, and if the suggestion meets with a response, that would automatically open the markets in eastern North Carolina earlier than September 6th.

Undoubtedly the season for selling tobacco is altogether too short. The farmers need the money, and of course, business is dependent on the farmers for the money they receive to move the wheels of industry and commerce.

The acreage this year is larger than the one last year, and therefore it will require more time to sell than last year, which was crowded into too short a period. We hope the buyers will see fit to grant more time, and agree to open the markets earlier than they were last year. They certainly should open not later than August 30th.—Wilson Times.

JOHN EARLY OUT AGAIN

Leper Again Escapes From the Leprosorium at Carville, Louisiana.

New Orleans, July 12.—(AP)—John Early is gone again, officials of the leprosorium at Carville, La., have announced. Whether this is the fifth, sixth or seventh time the noted character has taken French leave from the camp the officials are unable to say off hand, but he has fled so many times that his record looks like that of a traveling salesman on a hotel register.

It is believed that Early has headed back for his home in North Carolina and health officials have been warned in various States along his probable route.

Early was almost ready to be discharged from the leprosorium when he got tired of it this time. He would have been the first patient released from the colony whose name was made public. Early's case had responded favorably to the Chaulmoogra oil treatment, officials said, and he was almost ready to go out into the world clean again. He would have been the tenth to be thus discharged from the colony, but no one has ever heard about the others, because the government has placed a strict ban on the use of names in cases of leper patients, presumably to eliminate the chance that stigma might be attached to the person who has been so released.

Early's case is different, however, because he has been a turbulent figure, in an out of the spotlight since 1908. In 1908 he developed a strange malady, one which puzzled all the doctors who saw him. He had been discharged from the army after service in the Philippines and after his discharge had married and had two children. When he was stricken with this strange disease he visited specialists all over the country but they were unable to tell him what was the matter or treat him successfully.

Finally he went to Washington and appealed to the government as a former soldier and was immediately placed in quarantine. The doctors were unable to tell him exactly what was wrong with him. But they were taking no chances so they placed him in an abandoned house just outside the city and put an armed guard over him. His wife and children came to Washington and took the nearest house to him and every day they would come as close as the guard would permit and thus converse with their husband and father.

In the course of time it was decided Early had leprosy and his world tumbled down about him, he was kept in the house outside Washington for several months and then moved to a hospital in New York for treatment; from there he was sent to the colony at Penikese Island in Boston harbor and later was transferred with the colony to Carville.

Officials are confident that it will not be long before Early will be back for Early wants that "clean bill."

Raleigh, July 12.—(AP)—State Board of Health officers today had heard nothing of the possible reappearance of John Early, North Carolina leper, in his native State following report from Carville, La., last night that he had escaped again from the federal leprosorium.

At the board office it was said that the same routine would ensue as obtained at the time of Early's last escape from Carville and his encampment in his beloved Western Carolina hills.

The board will advise the U. S. public health service at Washington, D. C., that the federal charge has escaped, and if the federal authorities desire the State Board to act as an agency for it in returning the leper it will do so.

Some time ago Sheriff Weaver in Polk County put up to the State and Federal authorities Early's request that he give bond and set up an encampment at his home at Tryon, Polk County, to be near his aged father.

Request of the 50-year-old leper was not passed upon one way or the other by either State or federal authorities and State Board officials today said informally they believed that failure to obtain official sanction to live in his native region possibly had something to do with this, Early's fourth escape from the leprosorium.

Health officials do not believe Early's condition is a source of danger of those with whom he might come into contact.

GUILLOTINE SMASHES BOOTLEGGERS' STILL'S

Pittsburg Pa.—(AP)—The idea of the guillotine has found favor in America. Not for chopping off people's heads, but for "killing" stills.

When John D. Pennington, federal prohibition administrator here, had gathered an assortment of 3,000 stills, he found himself under court order to destroy them.

He was unwilling to spare his agent's time for smashing them with sledge hammers.

He adopted the French instrument. A heavy weight replaces the knife. After the weight has dropped the still is a wreck.

thorities desire the State Board to act as an agency for it in returning the leper it will do so.

Some time ago Sheriff Weaver in Polk County put up to the State and Federal authorities Early's request that he give bond and set up an encampment at his home at Tryon, Polk County, to be near his aged father.

Request of the 50-year-old leper was not passed upon one way or the other by either State or federal authorities and State Board officials today said informally they believed that failure to obtain official sanction to live in his native region possibly had something to do with this, Early's fourth escape from the leprosorium.

Health officials do not believe Early's condition is a source of danger of those with whom he might come into contact.

GUILLOTINE SMASHES BOOTLEGGERS' STILL'S

Pittsburg Pa.—(AP)—The idea of the guillotine has found favor in America. Not for chopping off people's heads, but for "killing" stills.

When John D. Pennington, federal prohibition administrator here, had gathered an assortment of 3,000 stills, he found himself under court order to destroy them.

He was unwilling to spare his agent's time for smashing them with sledge hammers.

He adopted the French instrument. A heavy weight replaces the knife. After the weight has dropped the still is a wreck.

Are You "Toxic?"
It Is Well, Then, to Learn the Importance of Good Elimination.

FUNCTIONAL inactivity of the kidneys permits a retention of waste poisons in the blood. Symptoms of this toxic condition are a dull, languid feeling, drowsy headaches and sometimes, toxic backache and dizziness. That the kidneys are not functioning as they should is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Many readers have learned the value of Doan's Pills, stimulant diuretic to the kidneys, in this condition. Users everywhere endorse Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

Salesman For Face Cream Learns a Good Lesson

Mr. Vandiver, New York, writes: "I was a salesman of creams for healing pimples, blemishes, etc., but when my face broke out with blotches, pimples and blackheads, I tried one salve after another with no results. I found it as impossible to sell skin creams as a bald headed man finds selling hair tonic. Finally I decided I would have to get at the cause—constipation. I was amazed to find that within a few days after taking CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS my skin took on a new healthy look." Druggists, 25c and 75c red packages. Try to-night—To-morrow refreshed.

CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels

Most folks forget that the kidneys like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorder.

You simply must keep your kidney active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region began drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Gossip of Staff Correspondents at World Centers of Population

Paris.—The ties of friendship between America and France were never more secure," declares Albert Gallatin, art critic of New York City, who, for many years, has been doing much to build up this friendship. "Lindbergh's success was a fine answer to the cynics who think there is so much ill-feeling between the two countries."

"What little irritation there is—and I find very little—is all on the surface. France at the bottom, has great affection for America and is particularly curious in all that is going on in the young democracy which she feels has been a success."

Mr. Gallatin's great-grandfather was one of the first ministers from the United States to France. That was back in 1817. Mr. Gallatin himself, spends six months of the year here and the other half in New York City. Just now he is picking up the best works of modern artists in Europe to take back to the new gallery of modern art in New York University, the plans of which are just being discussed by the committee, of which Mr. Gallatin and Henry McBride are chairmen.

It is hoped to erect a building and build up a permanent collection of important examples of contemporary painting, sculpture and drawing and also arrange loan exhibitions. There will be no favorite schools, but a real recognition of merit. Presumably, a personal point of view, life and vitality as distinguished from the academic, will be the qualities looked for.

Mr. Gallatin has selected drawings by Picasso and Matisse to take back with him. Jacques Mauny, Roux and Lapique are included among the most talented French representatives. John Marin, and Charles Demuth, painters and Gaston Lachaise and Eli Nadelman, sculptors, will represent America in the new art gallery. These four, according to the art critic, have first rate ability and compare very favorably with any European artists.

"Art in America," says Mr. Gallatin, "is in a healthy state today and we are making great progress along every line. The stage designs in the Revues is far ahead of what one sees in Paris and our architecture leads the world."

"Our industrial arts, however, lag behind those of Europe. I would like to see many of our poor artists leave off doing poor landscapes and turn their wits to fine book-binding, the making of lovely silk curtains and other decorative bits which make the world a better place to live in."

Josephine Baker, colored Follies star, has signed up for the movies. The Central Cinema Company has engaged the black-bottom queen for her first appearance on any screen. The exact terms of the contract are not known although rumors say that a huge slice of the profits are to be given to Josephine. Two well-known directors, Monsieur Henri Etievant and Monsieur Mario Nipias are in charge.

not ready for such a war, even though estimable old ladies, male and female, object to war preparations?

Why not take less interest in other nations' affairs, Britain's cruisers, French submarines, and concentrate on giving what it needs to this country?

Five important railroads consult the Interstate Commerce Commission about adding aircraft to other transportation. That's encouraging. Railroads have always believed that the government does not know how to do much of anything, and may prove it by distancing government in the air.

William H. Vanderbilt—he and his great mare, Maude S., have long been dead—was asked to invest in New York's elevated railroad system. He replied:

"Americans do many foolish things, but will never be fools enough to ride in the air."

His little thought that his New York Central Railroad, now controlled by George F. Baker, long past eighty, would eventually take to flying.

In a few years, surface railroads, except for short runs, will be out of use.

The Federal Trade Commission says Adolph Zukor and Jesse L. Lasky are "conspiring to monopolize the motion picture industry." The two men mentioned and many others, Fox, Loeb, the Schencks, L. R. Mayer, Lemmie, etc., are trying to produce the best pictures, and get the biggest, greatest number of theatres in order to show them.

Nobody can "monopolize the motion picture industry" unless he can monopolize various kinds of intelligence. As well talk of monopolizing book writing or picture painting. At any moment there might appear some one man that would make the monopoly very sick. Pictures are not like railroads, public necessities. No one is compelled to see a picture, as many producers know to their sorrow.

Motion picture men have built up an industry that rules the world, to the great profit of this country. It advertises our goods, spreads our ideas.

"The government would better attend to its own business, build a few flying machines and let those that understand motion pictures attend to their business."

If our government did as well in flying as Zukor, Lasky and others have done in pictures, this country would be safer and less ridiculous.

Cotton farmers in America have cut down their acreage 121-2 percent, reducing cotton planting by more than six million acres. That may help, for a while, but too much planting here is not the only danger. Great irrigation dams in the Sudan and elsewhere mean increased cotton competition from abroad.

British ship owners boast that none but a British ship can carry one pound of Egyptian cotton—ask young Mr. Averill Harriman about that.

Our Congress, with the right tariff, should say "not a pound of foreign cotton can be sold in America until the home crop has been sold at a fair price."

The government wants more college men to take up aviation. In British young men are taught flying at universities—at Oxford—for instance, many young men combine flying with other studies.

This government—first scrapping the deadly, out-of-date planes that have recently killed a number of army men—should buy safe plans, send two or three good pilot instructors to each big university and teach all students willing to learn. Thousands would fly eagerly.

DANIELS SCORES AMERICAN DOMINATION IN PHILIPPINES

(Continued from page one) ment conferences, which have so far been productive only of strengthening British domination of the seas, it would help to find a substitute for war. War will exist until some world-wide and world accepted substitute is found."

Mr. Daniels held up Lincoln, McKinley and Wilson as an immortal trio of chief executives who exhausted every possible resource before advising war.

"They long stood for a peaceful solution when many, perhaps, most of the people were demanding war. It took courage for McKinley to stem the tide immediately after the sinking of the Maine. It took courage in Wilson to stem the tide when the Lusitania was sunk. Results proved both were right in trying to find some other way. In 1893 Spain would not allow any other. In 1917 the Imperial German government did likewise."

"The entry by the United States into the World War was required by the simplest dictates of humanity

Poor-Eyed Hero

When veterinarians decided that Perous's poor eyesight was keeping him from winning races, R. R. Bradley, the thoroughbred's owner, ordered glasses for him. The glasses are set into a pair of "blind-ers," as the photo shows.

We did not go to war because the Maine was sunk, we did not go to war because the Lusitania was torpedoed in each instance our President helped to secure the end of humanity without the hell of war.

"The American people for three years heard the cries of the Cuban as they were driven and beaten and murdered before they mobilized to end this crime against civilization."

Mr. Daniels added "if you read a paper that a brute of a man a thousand miles away is engaged in cruelly beating his wife, you are indignant that such brutality continues among people who have supposedly passed the days of savagery. But you do not buy a ticket and travel a thousand miles to make the brute behave himself. However, if the same sort of base man lives in an adjoining apartment, and the cries of his suffering wife deny sleep to anybody in the apartment, what happens? The other occupants tell him he must quit being a brute. "If some night he throws her into the hall, tramples upon her, and threatens to kill her, what would you think of the white livered men who see and hear the tragedy, who do nothing to end her torture? "That was the exact situation during the uprising in Cuba according to the declaration of war in 1898. Cuba lives in an adjoining island. "We couldn't be deaf to her and entreaties as men and women were treated with inhumanity, to this nearest neighbor, we said "stop" and repeated it, but the more we protested, the worse became the brutality. "It was only when it was to be a neighbor devoid of the commonest feeling that the United States said, "This thing must stop. We will stop it." We could no longer sit by.

POLK COUNTY FARMER SLAIN SUNDAY NIGHT

Tryon, N. C., July 12.—(AP)—James Turner, well known Polk County farmer was slain Sunday night on his farm seven miles from Columbus, according to word just received here and Harrison Pritchard, a tenant on Turner's farm, has been arrested and lodged in jail here charged with the murder. Turner's body was found by children who heard the shots and went to investigate. A pistol was found at Pritchard's home and was loaded with bullets similar to those which caused Turner's death, investigating officers found. Pritchard would make no statement after his arrest.

The funeral of Turner, 56 years old, was held this afternoon.

BODY OF KESTLER TO BE TAKEN TO TEXAS

Statesville, July 12.—(AP)—The body of Sam Kestler, found dead late yesterday at the old Kestler homestead on the Catawba River 10 miles from here will be taken to Fort Worth, Texas, tonight, according to present plans. Burial will be in the family plot at San Antonio beside the body of his wife and children.

Mr. Kestler is survived by one sister, Mrs. C. P. Hegwood of Spencer, N. C.

The coroner stated that Mr. Kestler apparently was killed by a premature explosion of dynamite. One arm was badly shattered.

Ah, well; those who now fear for the young once hid in the barn to smoke and read Deadwood Dick.
