NEW STORIES OF DISTRESS AND INCREASED FATALITIES REPORTED IN FLOOD AREAS

Sales of Suffering and Heroism Come From Northern Vermont and New Hampshire.

Boston, Nov. 8.—(AP)—New stories of distress came from northern Vermont today with additions to the ever growing list of fatalities from last week's flood which has claimed more than 140 victims.

Flood Hero

J. C. BALLOU

They brought the intelligence that at least three men have perished there with the possibility many more might have been claimed in the sudden rise of the Black River.

New Hampshire, taking calmer stock of its losses than was possible in the first few days following the storm, found them not as great as had been thought.

Springfield, Mass., was also confronted by the continued fall of the Connecticut city inspectors were making a severe examination of a flooded house before allowing re-occupation.

In Vermont, however, the full force of the storm fell, and there a situation persisted today that State officials and others, while praising the attitude of the citizens in their efforts toward reconstruction, did not attempt a miracle.

The four men who reached Burlington from Newport said that town was staring starvation in the face.

Flood waters were still rising, bringing water was being obtained from one small pipe that was carried across a cracked and rotting bridge, and food was barely to be had at any price.

Practically every house along the river bank was under water and many had been toppled into the stream. The yeast supply has gone, there was no meat and little fuel. The livestock perished almost to a head, eggs were non-existent. The men said they had lived on nothing but cornflakes and milk for four days.

Waterbury, Vt., Nov. 8.—(AP)—The mud spread across the flats here by the flood was measured today and found to be eleven feet deep. Relief workers expressed the belief that many bodies might be buried so deep in its silt.

Waterbury, Vt., Nov. 8.—(AP)—The story of a battle for life fought over the graves of the dead was told by relief workers here today.

When the flood struck this village its greatest force was in the region of the cemetery, beside which are several houses.

In those houses a score of people were trapped and an attempt at rescue was made by a villager in the collapsible canvas canoe that was the only boat in town.

Later the names of some of those persons appeared on the lists of dead or missing but the majority were saved by the strength of the boats in which they were caught.

TODAY

To Prevent Floods.
Let Her Marry.
Almost Arrested.
A Death Poem.
(By Arthur Brisbane)
Copyright 1927, by Star Co

Severe floods in New England destroying many lives and millions in property, sweeping away homes, forcing mills and factories to shut down, will concentrate attention more earnestly than ever on the flood control problem.

It is as much the duty of government to spend some of its superfluous hundreds of millions to protect people from floods, as it is to protect them in war, or especially to send billions to help foreigners at war.

William Hohenzollern's sister, the Princess Victoria Shuamberg-Lippe, aged sixty-three, wants to marry a young Russian only twenty-seven. Lutheran clergymen refuse to marry them, saying the difference in age makes it "unethical."

To refuse marriage to those entitled seems unethical. The spirit alone counts and many a woman of sixty-three is younger in spirit than thousands of others at twenty-three.

And what about Sarah, whose husband, Abraham, was 100 years old when her son, Isaac, was born, and Sarah not so much younger? Do Lutherans lack faith in this twentieth century? Let them read the twenty-first chapter of Genesis.

Assorted news today one item rather startling. The government actually talked about arresting a man with a good many million dollars, because somebody representing him seemed anxious to bribe a juror.

If it is all right to bribe a Cabinet member, why make a fuss about bribing one juror, especially when the case involves BIG stealing, the sort not usually punished.

Government realizes that dealing with "important" men, like walking on eggs, should be done cautiously. A warrant was issued for the "certain rich man" but the warrant was called back half an hour after it had been issued.

Two women killed themselves yesterday. One, all dressed, swam out into a lake, increasing her chance to escape a man that tried to rescue her. She was drowned.

Look for the man. Another put a pillow in the oven of her stove, turned on the gas and died after writing a poem headed "Farewell" (Continued on Page Eight.)

SENIOR LATOUR PASSES AWAY AT CAPITAL

Guatemalan Minister to United States dies In Midst of Brilliant Career.

Washington, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Senior Don Francisco Sanchez Latour, Guatemalan minister to the United States, and one of the most widely known of the Central American diplomats, died here last night.

The minister had been operated on last Saturday for appendicitis. It was believed by close friends and associates that his strength taxed perceptibly since he was found unconscious in his study last July with a bullet wound near the heart from his own pistol, was not sufficient to withstand the strain of the operation. The shooting was described by members of the family as accidental.

News of the illness of Senior Latour had been withheld from the public and it was not until shortly before his death that it became known he had undergone an operation. Inquirers at the legation were told earlier in the night that nothing could be given out about the minister.

Senior Latour's five years of diplomatic life in Washington, on charge d'affaires and minister, had been marked by frequent incidents which brought his name before the public of this country, as well as in his native land of Guatemala.

Just eight months before the shooting in July, the minister was named in a court action by his wife's divorced husband, James Armstrong of Washington, who sought to obtain possession of letters said to have been exchanged between Senior Latour and his wife six years before she was divorced.

Senora Latour, the former Miss Lillian Hall Davis of Richmond, Va., divorced Armstrong in 1915. The latter's suit, which dismissed, was against a lawyer in the divorce action who kept the letters, and was instituted, Armstrong said. With a view to obtaining information to support his efforts to have Minister Latour recalled.

The minister had sued Armstrong in 1912 for criminal libel, but the charges were nolle prossed when the diplomat failed to testify.

Held in high esteem by high officials of the Washington administration and by his many friends in the diplomatic ranks here, Minister Latour shocked official Washington when it was reported that he had been found near death in his study as a result of a self-inflicted bullet wound. An old-fashioned pistol, which he had kept in the drawer of his desk, was found lying near his body.

TO DECORATE CITY STREETS

Hundreds of Electrically Lighted Trees For Greenville Streets Christmas.

Hundreds of electrically lighted Christmas trees will illuminate Evans street and Dickinson avenue during the holiday season this year according to information issued today by the secretary of the Merchants Association.

The trees will be placed along the curbing of the streets, ten to the block, ten days prior to the Yuletide season, and each evening will furnish illumination for the hundreds of shoppers thronging the business district.

Members of the Merchants Association appeared before the Board of Aldermen Friday night to get permission to carry out the plan of decoration. They were later promised the co-operation of the Woman's Club in making the plan a success.

Greenville people are urged by the Merchants Association to place Christmas trees in their front yards and in that way assist in the effort to make the Yuletide spirit general throughout the city. Other cities of the state are planning to decorate in a similar way, and the Merchants Association is hopeful that Greenville will rank with them.

AGED CITIZEN PASSED AWAY EARLY TODAY

W. T. Lipscomb to be Buried at Cherry Hill Cemetery To- morrow Afternoon.

W. T. Lipscomb, Sr., 79, pioneer tobaccoist, died this morning at 1:30 o'clock following an illness of three weeks.

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday afternoon at three o'clock at Memorial Baptist church by Rev. H. Frederick Jones, pastor. Burial will follow in Cherry Hill Cemetery beside his wife who died last year.

Mr. Lipscomb was born August 10, 1848, in Halifax county, Virginia. He moved to Greenville 33 years ago, entering the tobacco business, in which he was engaged until three weeks ago when illness caused his confinement.

He is survived by four children, Charles Thomas of Easton, Md., Mrs. T. S. Wilkinson of Durham, C. Mrs. H. W. Whitehead and W. Lipscomb, Jr. of Greenville.

Active pallbearers will be Gus Forbes, John Hodges, Ed Harvey, D. S. Spain, Tom Smoot, Robert Neil, W. D. Pruitt, Haywood Dell, Tolar Boykin.

FRIGHTENED BY FIRE DIES OF HEART FAILURE

Clinton, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Excited when his host's home caught fire here last night, the Rev. Preston Barr, aged Episcopal rector, died of heart failure. Funeral arrangements were being made today.

Mr. Barr was the guest of Major George Butler, whose home was damaged to the extent of several thousand dollars by fire of unknown origin.

Local Market Averages $29.79

The Greenville tobacco market yesterday sold 1,067,942 pounds of tobacco for $318,233.85 at an average of $29.79 per hundred pounds, according to information given out this morning by K. W. Cobb, secretary of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade.

Sales this week are beginning at 8:30 o'clock, it was stated. The market will suspend on Friday, Nov. 11, in order that tobaccoists may take part in the Armistice Day celebrations.

COUNTER FIRE MARKS PROBE OF OIL CASE

Government Attorneys Turn to new Wit- ness in Grand Jury Investigation.

Washington, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The prosecution advanced today a volley of counter-fire today in its efforts to convince the federal grand jury that the defense in the Fall-Sinclair oil case was guilty of jury tampering.

With vigorous protestations of complete reticence from William J. Burns, founder of the Burns Detective Agency, and Henry Mason Day, associate of Harry F. Sinclair temporarily taking the place away from them, government attorneys turned to new witnesses to prove its case, notably Sheldon Clark, of Chicago, another Sinclair official. The prosecution contends that Day and Clark were "contact men" between Burns' agents and Sinclair.

Day was on record today, with Burns, as professing his complete innocence of any unethical conduct in having jurors shadowed, and in the office Edward J. Kidwell, juror No. 11, to whom the government attributes indiscreet talk which it alleges in demands that he be allowed to clear himself in court.

Another work of grand jury inquiry into the jury surveillance charges was forecast today by those directing the investigation.

After several excursions afield the inquisitorial body has returned to the main issue, the identity of the person who furnished the funds which a dozen operatives of the Burns detective agency freely spent in shadowing the ten men and two women who were to have sat in judgment upon Sinclair and Albert B. Fall.

New efforts to connect the wealthy oil operator directly with the employment of those detectives were seen in the summons of Perry Jeffrey, chief clerk of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Company of New York.

The prosecution has been told he actually engaged the services of the Burns agency in the undertaking which furnished the latest sensation in the oil scandal.

Clark was on the witness list ahead of Jeffrey, and besides this angle, the charge of the Burns men that a government employe actually made contact with one of the jurors, Norman J. Glasscock, at the Potomac flying field near Washington, six days after the trial started, had to be dealt with.

Before going before the grand jury Glasscock declared that he never had been at Potomac field in his life; had talked to no agent of the government anywhere so far as he knew, and was at work all day on October 22 when it was claimed he was at the flying field.

William V. Long, the Burns' detective, who has asserted in an affidavit that he trailed to Potomac field an automobile owned by Harry R. Lamb, a special assistant to the attorney general, also came forward for examination.

Lamb, who on yesterday denied Long's story in every detail, offered himself for questioning again if the grand jury so desired.

Several other members of the trial jury were at the District of Columbia Supreme Court awaiting opportunity to appear before the inquisitors. They included Gardner P. Grenfeld, who was followed very closely by the Burns men.

Washington, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The defense laid a point in the oil conspiracy tangle today when a Burns detective failed to identify the government agent he claimed had improperly talked to a juror in the case.

William V. Long, the detective, had made an affidavit intended to show that H. R. Lamb, attached to the attorney general's office, had trailed juror Norman Glasscock to the Potomac flying field and there had conversed with Glasscock Long failed today to recognize Lamb as the man involved.

Lamb, to whom Long's identity was not revealed, told Neil Burkshaw, assistant district attorney in charge of the jury tampering investigation, that he had never seen the detective before in his life.

Burkshaw then lined up a number of other persons called in from the nearby corridor for Long's inspection. He said none of them was the man he trailed to the Potomac field.

FLOOD ISSUE IS DISCUSSED

Long List of Representatives Attend House Flood Com- mittee Meet at Cap- itol.

Washington, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Thirty Senators, headed a long list of representatives of organizations seeking the formation of a Mississippi Valley flood control program as witnesses today before the House flood control committee.

Five Senators, were Watson, Republican, Indiana, and Broussard of Louisiana, and Harrison of Mississippi, both Democrats. Representatives of various middle Western and Southern bodies, including the American Federation of Labor, also were called to give their views about last spring's disastrous inundation.

A continuation of yesterday's testimony, which depicted the hardships and losses of the recent flood and the need for preventing similar future disasters, was the order of today's session. Practically all of the witnesses were listed as representatives of the Chicago flood conference, which was held last spring by Mayor William Hale Thompson of that city.

Preceding the hearing, Mayor Thompson, with the executive committee of his flood conference, and the ranking members of the House committee, Chairman Reid of Illinois, and Representative Wilson of Indiana, ranking minority member, were invited by President Coolidge to a White House breakfast.

Louisville, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Joseph S. Lawton, commonwealth's attorney, announced today that the grand jury acting under sections 102 and 104 of the criminal code, will visit polling places in Jefferson county to see if there is any intimidation by police officers or any violations of law by election workers.

Legal authorities here say this action is the first of its kind anywhere in the United States.

NEGRO DIES OF INJURIES

Moses Brown, Shot by Policeman Brewer Sunday, Died Yester- day Afternoon.

Moses Brown, colored, died yesterday afternoon of injuries received Sunday when he was shot by policeman Brewer, in an encounter on First street. Two bullets fired from a 32 calibre revolver entered the negro's body just below the heart and in the abdomen, producing injuries, which, although serious, were not considered necessarily fatal in the examination following the shooting.

Brown was shot during a scuffle over a revolver which the policeman had taken off him when he was arrested at his home on First street, on a charge of disorderly conduct. The policeman, it was stated, shot in self defense after the sun had been wrested from his hands by the negro.

MANY ISSUES IN ELECTIONS HELD TODAY

Two Governors and Various Other Offi- cials to be Elected in Scattered States.

(By The Associated Press)
J. Hampton Moore's endeavor to defeat the Vare political machine at Philadelphia and a lively contest over the proposed removal of Par-Mutuel machines from the race tracks of Kentucky furnished the particular points of interest in elections today in the scattered States throughout the country.

For the most part, only local issues with but a minimum effect upon national political affairs lay before the people. These included the election of two governors, three members of the lower chambers of Congress, numerous municipal and State officials and decisions by referendum of enactments of State Legislatures.

The most important of the last, perhaps, was in New York where the voters were called upon to determine the fate of a proposal that the term of the governor be extended from two years to four, with gubernatorial campaigns falling in the same year as presidential elections. Governor Smith has been active in its opposition.

The Philadelphia mayoralty campaign has been bitterly fought. Losing at the Republican primaries to Harry A. Macey, but drawing much encouragement from the number of ballots he polled, Moore, a former mayor, entered the lists of the general election as an independent candidate. Mackey has the backing of the Vare organization.

The Kentucky betting machine contest involved one of the two gubernatorial elections. J. E. W. Backman, who has served two terms as the State's chief executive, and has represented it in the Senate, was the nominee of the Democrats. Although not opposed to racing, he has contended that a "racing lobby" is seeking to control the State government and has pledged himself to remove it. He favors the removal by law of the Par-Mutuel machines. His Republican opponent, Flem D. Sampson, has asserted that the Par-Mutuel law involved no issue.

In Mississippi, the second State choosing a governor, the outcome of the election was not considered in doubt. Theodore G. Bilbo was the Democratic nominee and nomination is generally considered in that State the equivalent of election.

The congressional elections were for the purpose of filling vacancies caused by the death of Representative Magee of the Thirty-fifth New York district and Stephens of the second Ohio, and the resignation of Representative Hazlett of the second Pennsylvania. All were Republicans. James M. Beck had the support of the Vare machine for the Pennsylvania post.

New York, Nov. 8.—(AP)—New York voters today were interested primarily in a proposed constitutional amendment to extend the biennial gubernatorial election into presidential years.

Opposition to the measure, which is sponsored by Republicans, brought Governor Alfred E. Smith out on the stump in a number of speeches.

There were mayoralty fights in 51 cities, while the voters also were called upon to elect 150 assembly men, a congressman and one State Senator and ten Justices of the Supreme Court.

Philadelphia, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Control of political affairs in Philadelphia by the Republican organization under the leadership of Senator-Elect William S. Vare, was at stake today.

Leaders of the organization here predicted the utter collapse of the independent movement and admitted that the Republican ticket, headed by Harry A. Mackey, for mayor, would defeat his independent opponent, former Mayor J. Hampton Moore, by more than 175,000.

Moore who was defeated by Mackey at the primary election by approximately 80,000 votes is running on the Citizens party ticket.

GEORGIA BACK LEADS SOUTH IN GRID SCORE

Plenty of Action In Prize Ring At Raleigh

Raleigh, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Jack Laken, fight promoter, today looked in vain for a boxer hereabouts to meet Willie Greb, new Raleigh boxing pride, formerly of Scranton, Pa.

Willie waded through the infernal passes of Spike Webb of Charlotte last night in the feature middleweight go at the city auditorium to win in the seventh when the towel was tossed in to save the blood-pattered Mike from a k. o. When Greb met Webb, boxing science triumphed.

The other bouts were more obvious. Frankie Lewis of Washington, D. C. laid out Terry Roberts of Charlotte in the same manner that Webb hit stable mate, had gone. A bloody cut over the left eye disposed of both Mecklenburg men. Roberts' second heaved the towel in the fifth.

Tommy Pagan flying N. C. State College colors and inspired by a 40-piece Wolfpack band, showed the way through eight rounds of knee-deep and nose-straining over Irish Tommy Galloway of Durham while Jack McDowell, a likely candidate for the visionary all-Southern football team and Wolfpack star, carried the pall in Pagan's corner.

The Kid Johnson, redoubtable Durham Bull, tossed Soldier Brunetti of Fort Bragg out of the ring in the second round for a long 1 1/2 seconds.

Question Dempsey As To Intentions For The Future

New York, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey probably will be called upon by the New York State Athletic Commission to decide whether he intends to fight in the future or have others fight for him. Under the boxing laws of the State he cannot do both.

This declaration, made unofficially by the State Boxing Fathers, resulted from published reports that the former heavyweight champion had ordered $150,000 of Madison Square Garden stock through Promoter Tex Rickard. If the report is true, the board indicated it would make an issue of the matter.

One of the questions asked a boxer applying for a license in New York is: "Has the applicant any financial interest in any corporation promoting boxing in this State or any other place?" An answer "no" probably disqualified the applicant.

Trying To Set New Record For Gaining Ground

New York, Nov. 8.—(AP)—With three games to go, "Ten Yards" Briante, line-crushing ace of the New York University eleven, is bent on smashing the ground gaining record Red Grange set in 1923.

In seven games this season, statisticians discovered Briante has plunged 1161 yards for an average of 7.95 yards per plunge. He has clicked off 3.25 yards for each minute of play and has yet to be stopped for "no gain."

Back in 1923 when the galloping zebra of the Illinois backfield was performing, experts set his seasonal gain at 1,280 yards. Last Saturday Briante hammered ahead 167 yards in forty minutes of play, including one dash of 50 yards.

ON THE GRID

Raleigh, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Chink Outen, Wolfpack halfback who proved himself a great line plunger until injuries put him on the bench just as his team rounded into shape for its three straight big five victories, will not be used in the Duke game Friday.

State officials announced no chances would be taken with the M. Holly boy's mended leg. Indications were that he would get into action Thanksgiving Day against South Carolina.

The Pack, instructed by coaches to observe strict training this week, engaged in another afternoon's workout. Coach Slaughter handling the line and Coach Tebell the backfield.

Duke University, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The team will be "worked hard this week" was the announcement today from coaches who put the Blue Devils through another day of training for the all important game with State here Friday.

"We intend to play State hard," was the word. "If they beat us it will be because they are better than us, not because the boys are not in good condition."

Chapel Hill, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Although injured slightly in the V. M. I. tussle, Ferrell, Lipscomb and Shuler, regulars on the Tar Heel varsity squad, will be able to face Davidson here Saturday, trainers indicated today.

No seriously injured player was to be found today, coaches expecting to have the full strength of the squad on hand for the coming contest which will be the first in the new Kennan Memorial stadium.

WIS PLAYERS TRAIN ON BADMINTON COURTS

London.—(AP)—Mrs. Kitty McKene Godfrey, Mrs. Lambert Chamberlain, and other well known British tennis players will keep in physical trim throughout the winter by playing badminton, a shuttlecock game similar to tennis.

More than 1,000 clubs in all are affiliated with the Badminton Association, and it is estimated that at least one thousand other clubs in the British Isles.

Badminton is especially popular in rural districts, where the village hall often is used. The game requires a court 44 feet by 20 feet, laid off like a tennis court with a center net five feet high. The light racquets for badminton are smaller than tennis racquets and shuttlecocks are used instead of tennis balls.

PRINCETON-YALE MEET SATURDAY

New York, Nov. 8.—(AP)—There will be a battle of massive lines—two surging frontiers keyed to fighting pitch—when the Princeton Tiger leaps into the bowl of Yale Bull Dog at New Haven Saturday.

All the glamor that once colored the annual meetings of the "Big Three" now shattered by Harvard's break with Princeton, has settled about this meeting of the most ancient of American football rivals for the 52nd time.

TO TEST CURATIVE POWERS OF SPRINGS IN THIS STATE

Raleigh, Nov. 8.—State Geologist H. J. Bryson and Dr. E. E. Randolph, professor of industrial chemistry at State College, prepared today to conduct tests to determine whether springs in western North Carolina possess radio-active contents.

They laid out equipment for testing the spring waters for radio-active qualities in Henderson and Madison counties following interest elicited in reports of finding radio-active qualities in Ashe county some week ago. Alleged curative qualities of the Ashe county water drew considerable attention.

Seek To Organize Baseball Loop In This Section

Rocky Mount, N. C., Nov. 8.—(AP)—Sentiment looking to formation of a new Eastern Carolina Baseball League in being sounded in telegrams sent to Chamber of Commerce in nine cities of this section today by officials of the Kinston Chamber of Commerce. Queries asking the degree of interest and cooperation to be expected were sent to Rocky Mount, Tarboro, Wilmington, Fayetteville, Greenville, Goldsboro and Washington.

The message received here said that in the event of a sufficient response a meeting would be called in the near future. Chamber officials here were not in position to comment.

GERMANY CLAIMS TWO MORE RECORDS IN AVIATION WORLD

Berlin.—(INS)—Germany now claims two more world records in aviation, for altitude in a glider, and altitude in a small airplane. Ferdinand Schulz, holder of all world's records for gliders, bettered his own previous altitude when he sailed his motorless airplane to a height of 652 meters and stayed at this height for one minute and thirty-eight seconds.

An altitude record for small airplanes was made by chief pilot Bohme of the Baumer Works when he reached a height of 5690 meters in his tiny monoplane "Sausewind II." The record which beats the previous world record of 55273 meters by 407 meters, has been referred to the Federation Aeronautique Internationale for registry.

Built for comfort, what I mean!

COMFORT and lots of it. I'm talking about Prince Albert, Gentlemen, the National Joy Smoke. Why, there's friendliness in the very aroma of P. A., as you open the tidy red tin. Some fragrance it is, too.

The first pull on a pipe packed with P. A. tells you the taste is equally friendly. Cool and long-burning. Sweet as grape-clusters, hanging on the vine. Mild as arctic sunshine, yet with plenty of good, rich tobacco-body to let you know you're smoking. So mild, infact, that you can load-up and light-up from breakfast to bedtime.

Now, I'm not one to mix in on other people's affairs. But this pipe-thing is different, somehow. I can't resist tipping you off to what I consider the greatest pipe-tobacco in the world. Get some P. A. now and get some of this comfort I've been telling you about.

Quality and quantity both—TWO full ounces in every tin.

Gives Dinner In Honor Of His 48 Birthday

H. W. Renfrew entertained several friends last night at his home on Third Street in honor of his 48th birthday. The occasion was an enjoyable one, being featured by a spirit of comradeship that did much to make it long remembered.

A souvenir booklet had been placed at each place. This contained the picture of the host, a song "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," the Twenty-third Psalm and a list of the guests.

The guests remained about two hours after dinner and engaged in informal talk dealing with topics of present day interest. Upon departure the guests wished Mr. Renfrew many happy returns of the day.

ALL EMOTIONS PRESENT IN "RESURRECTION"

In the film version of Tolstoy's "Resurrection," which comes to White's Theatre, Armistice Day, matinee and evening, every human emotion described in Tolstoy's immortal classic of love lost and regained is depicted in pantomime. Rod La Rocque is the star and Dolores del Rio the featured player. Edwin Car-we, director, was assisted by Count Ilya Tolstoy, son of the author of "Resurrection," in filming the classic novel.

The joyous, care-free spirit of youth is to be found in the opening sequences when the Prince falls in love with the peasant ward of his aunts, and before the camera reel is over that white love has turned to purple passion. Then in rapid-fire succession come despair, abandonment, buoyant humor and utter indulgence, life, death, spiritual rebirth following vile degradation, imprisonment, exile, bitterness and yearning, sacrifice and "Resurrection." If the impact of emotions through which Blanche Walsh on the stage and Mary Garden in opera have swept in the part of Katusha Maslova is now the course of Dolores del Rio in "Resurrection," while Rod La Rocque loves and leaves, and love again in the dramatic role of Dmitri the part which Sir Herbert Beerholm-Tree created in London in 1903.

Edwin Car-we's reason for filming "Resurrection" was given last week by the director himself, who played the role of Prince Dmitri on the American stage in 1905. "The emotional scale is traversed by both Dmitri and Katusha," said Car-we, "and it is the one great story wherein man and woman like suffer and triumph in life. I have always thought that this was the most dramatic work in existence."

Duke of Durgal Destitute

Meun, France, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Don Fernando De Bourbon, Duke of Durgal, reputed to be a cousin of King Alfonso of Spain, languished in jail here today charged with being without visible means of support.

He was arrested on the complaint of a Containbleau hotel keeper when he was unable to settle his bill.

The Duke is the son of Prince Pedro De Bourbon, Duke of Durgal, by his morganatic marriage with Maria De La Caridad Madam of Cuba.

TELLS ROTES ABOUT EQUITY

F. C. Harding Delivers Address at Regular Weekly Meeting of Club.

Members of the Greenville Rotary club met in regular weekly session last night, enjoyed the usual supper and heard a forceful address on "Equity," by F. C. Harding, prominent local attorney.

Mr. Harding sketched in a brief and interesting way the progress of equity in law. He told of the development of equity from the days of King Charles of England down to the present days. In the old days there were two separate and distinct courts—the court of equity and the court of law. No question could be settled without both courts rendering a decision, one from the standpoint of the law and the other from that of justice.

"Equity in law is nothing more than justice. It is that which softens the harshness of the law itself," he said.

New York was the first state to combine courts of equity and courts of law. Other states soon adopted the plan, and today, he said, the courts of America return decisions embracing both equity and law.

He said he looked forward with pleasure to the day when our lawyers should be permitted to present juries only with matters of fact. Juries are so confused by voluminous evidence presented in various cases that they are unable to differentiate the legal side of a question from other facts involved.

President Bill Rogers called at ention to the Armistice Day program arranged for Greenville Friday, Nov. 11. He said the Pitt county post of the American Legion had planned to make the day one of the greatest in years, and hoped the public would help celebrate the event.

The club accepted an invitation to join the Ayden-club in a meeting at Pierce's schoolhouse, three miles west of Ayden at 6:30 o'clock next Monday evening. Supper will be served by women of the locality. Members of the local club will assemble at Dal's filling station prior to departing for Pierce's community.

GORMAN'S MARKET REPORT

The sales were large Monday. Gorman's had more than a house filled. We had a snappy sale and every one praised us for the sale we made. The tobacco up to thirty one or thirty two cents is higher than it has been while the prices above are weaker, except in the wrapper grades. Our Monday's sale of 287,918 pounds sold for $85,858.02 and averaged $29.83 for all sold. Not so much has come in for today's sale and it looks now as if we will clean up today.

Gorman's has first sale Wednesday 9th., second Thursday 10th., no sale Friday 11th., on account of Armistice Day, first sale Monday 14th., first second sale Tuesday 15th., first sale Wednesday 16th., first sale Thursday 17th. and second sale Friday 18th.

the prisons of the nation. Too long has the cell of the rich man been empty, not because of a lack of subjects who should occupy the cell, but because of the rich man's power in most cases to escape his just deserts. Unlimited resources have too long kept many a man out who should be on the inside and there are still many, who by the use of their money, are enjoying their freedom when they should be behind prison bars.

ABOUT TOWN

"Right much has been said recently about violators of traffic laws going unpunished in Pitt County," remarked Sheriff Sam
A. Hurst today, "but this condition is no fault of the sheriff's department."

"We are doing everything possible to bring about punishment of all lawbreakers, and especially those guilty of driving unlighted vehicles along our public highways.
This is one of the gravest menaces of the present day, and this department stands ready to bring to justice anybody guilty of violating the law."

"It has been a pleasure and joy to work with the people of Greenville the last two years, candidly admitting that Dr. H. Frederick Jones, pastor of Memorial Baptist church, traffic legislation and see what happens."

"The county jail has been fairly congested the last few days as result of the session of criminal court here last week," a court official stated today, "but this situation will be relieved today when numbers of prisoners will be sent out to the convict camps to board with Superintendent Fancher for a term of several months."

"It is more than likely there will be several others sent to the roads in today's session of county court.
Cases have been accumulating the last three weeks, and there are quite a number of violations of prohibition laws, assault with deadly weapons and larceny charges on docket. Many of these defendants will find their way to the roads."

"Superintendent Fancher ought to have force enough now to fight most anything undertaken in the way of road improvement."

BOMB WRECKS IND. THEATRE

Estimated Damage of $500,000 Caused by Mysterious Explosion at Hammond

Hammond, Ind., Nov. 8.—(AP)—A series of mysterious explosions which the police attributed to black powder bombs wrecked the State Theatre here early today, damaged all Saint Church across the street, blew down trolley and telephone poles, broke plate glass windows for blocks around, causing estimated damage of $500,000.

The theater is in the rear of the three-story brick State block which cost $1,500,000.

The blasts blew out the theater walls on State Street for almost a block, demolished the roof, balcony and stage which crumbled into a twisted mass of bricks, masonry and steel.

The bombs apparently had been placed in the Sibley street entrance to the theatre where steel doors were blown in.

The first blast about 3 a. m. was followed by two more. As the theater walls crumbled, trolley and telephone poles tumbled into the street in front of the block and windows and part of the roof of All Saints church across the street crashed down.

Fire which followed was quickly extinguished. Owners of the theatre could assign no reason for bombing, stating that they had no labor troubles and no enemies that they knew about, and the police were working without tangible clues.

Yaqui Indians Held in Mexico

Mexico City, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Having executed General Arnulfo Gomez, and six other leaders of the revolution in the State of Vera Cruz, the government today held captive 600 Yaqui Indians, who recently surrendered in the State of Sonora.

The small bands of Yaqui Indians remaining in the field will soon be exterminated. The government announced, since the backbone of the revolt has been broken. Scouting parties in Vera Cruz under General Escobar were purging the two rebel leaders, General Almeida and Medina.

General Francisco R. Manzo, military commandant in Sonora, arrived here with 600 Yaqui Indians who recently surrendered in Sonora, led by Chieftain Ignacio Matus and Manuel Espinosa.

Since Saturday seven Gomez leaders have faced the firing squad. The first to die was Gomez himself. Fernando Reyes and Silvano Garcia were the last. Their capture and execution was announced by the government last night.

The map shows an imposing total of ten trans-ocean flights this season, but against them were nine failures, costing more than a score of lives. Among the season's heroes were Lindbergh (above), Byrd (left) and Chamberlin (below). Among the victims was Miss Mildred Doran (center inset) lost on a flight to Honolulu.

New York (AP)—The curtain has descended upon the trans-oceanic flying season of 1927, and aviation has turned to tabulation of the gains and losses of a historical summer.

Ten ocean flights have succeeded; nine have failed. Twenty-one persons have ridden the wings of the air to safety across the two great oceans; 20 have lost their lives in flight and five more in preparation for flight.

The Atlantic has been spanned five times from America to Europe, and once from Africa to South America. The Pacific has been crossed to Hawaii four times.

Five planes attempting Atlantic flights have gone down, three planes have perished on Pacific flights, and Paul Redfern, Georgian-Brazil flyer vanished above the Caribbean.

In addition to human lives there has been a loss in airplanes, in flights of American origin, which aviation experts set at above half a million dollars.

The cost of using naval vessels and private ships in searching for lost flyers is reckoned at another half million dollars. The total does not include losses to backers of ill-fated flights, or the sponsors of trans-oceanic ventures which never progressed to a take off.

In searching for the missing Dole prize flyers the navy estimates it consumed $125,000 in fuel, that the 8,000 men employed consumed $40,000 in rations; and that naval equipment valued at $60,000,000 was used. As many as 52 naval vessels were employed in the search at one time, as well as naval planes. Summing up the American activities of the season, government air experts declare that the flights have given birth to a new era in aviation, and have laid a carefully-constructed foundation for the development of air traffic as safe as rail, motor or steamship transportation.

They deem that long flights even when attended by directors, demonstrate amply that the airplane will play a bigger role in wars of the future.

One effect of the year's flying has been the shaking off generally, they said, of the feeling of danger and sensationalism once attached to aerial ventures, and the substitution of a national "air-mindedness."

"If progress in the past year or so in army aviation, as well as in other fields of air activity, is an index to what the future may hold, America will soon be ahead of the rest of the world in aviation," Assistant Secretary of War P. Trubee Davison head of the army aviation department said.

He gave the opinion that while long non-stop flights of extra hazardous nature should be discouraged unless conducted under the most favorable auspices, nothing should be done "to interfere with the efforts of military authorities to extend the usefulness of military planes."

A psychological rather than a mechanical change in aviation is seen by Assistant Secretary of Navy Edward P. Warner, head of naval air activities. From a navy viewpoint the activities "prove the real usefulness of the application of aircraft." A reawakened inter-

ABOLISHMENT INHERITANCE TAX TALKED

Controversy Over Repeal Comes Before Attention Ways and Means Committee.

Washington, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The long standing controversy over repeal of the federal inheritance tax once again came to the attention today of the House Ways and Means committee.

With the whole of the day and tomorrow set aside for discussion of the issue, the witness list was a long one and included both those favoring and opposing continuance of the levy.

Consideration of the subject also was enlivened by the announced intention by one of the committee members, Rep. Rainey, Democrat, Illinois, to seek investigation of charges that a lobby was being maintained in Washington to bring about repeal of the tax.

Even before the chairman had rapped the committee to order the Illinois member had declared he would question each witness closely as to the source of money to pay his expenses.

The contest over retention of the tax for years has split the ranks of both parties. It was brought to a head during the first session of the last Congress by the Senate voting for its repeal.

At that time, however, chairman Green of the House committee, and Rep. Garner, of Texas, its ranking minority member, led a fight which forced the Senate to recede from its action and finally vote to refrain from the tax. In the Senate, however, the line-up found chairman Smoot of the Finance committee, and the Senior Democrat, Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, along those seeking repeal.

The tax has been attacked from the angle that the federal government should retire from the inheritance tax field and leave this source of revenue open to the states. It also has been assailed on the ground that the provision for an eighty per cent credit on a federal tax in instances where a state tax is paid, is unconstitutional in that it coerces states to enact inheritance laws.

A burst of applause greeted a statement by John H. Kirby, Houston, Texas, president of the National Council of State Legislatures, in favor of elimination of tax, when Green leaned forward in his seat and declared:

"This room has been packed by your organization."

Before the witness could reply he continued:

"We know now they are gathered."

"I don't think you do," Kirby answered, "but let's come back to the merits of this legislation," adding those present like himself always were ready to applaud patriotic statements.

Kirby directed his assault on the inheritance tax by appealing to Representative Garner of Texas, ranking minority committee member.

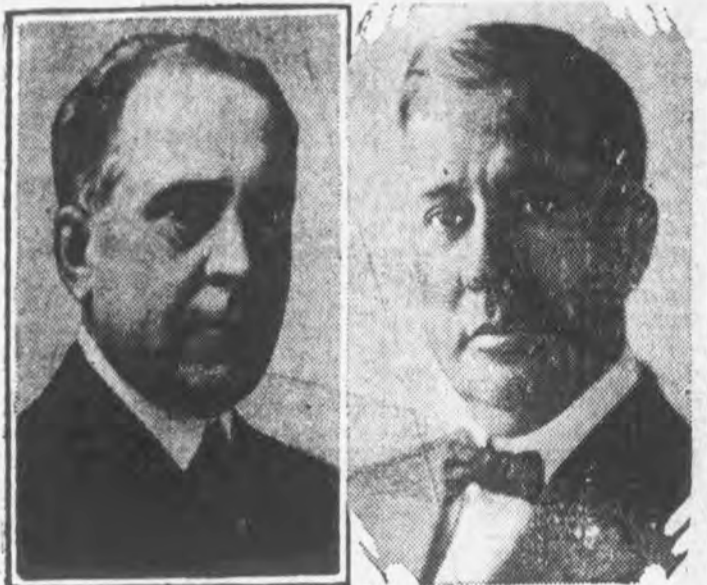

"John Garner," he said, "how can you support a law that would take away part of the estate of my wife and I have built."

"The history of the world, John, is the right of the children to take the property of their fathers."

The witness said he had always gone along with Garner on good Democratic principle until recently "when John began to wobble a little."

Kirby was questioned closely by Representative Rainey of Illinois, Democratic committee member, concerning financing of the National Council of State Legislatures, but the witness could add little to previous testimony by William H. Blodgett, tax commissioner for Connecticut, who said the funds of the organization were raised by $10 subscriptions.

Betting Law Is Issue In Kentucky Election; Loss Of Derby Hinted

Louisville —(AP)—Two men, each of whom has risen to leadership of his party in the state are opposing each other for governor of Kentucky in today's election.

J. C. W. Beckham, twice governor and once United States senator, won the democratic nomination for governor on a platform for repeal of the pari-mutuel betting law. He announced he would do everything in his power to bring about repeal of the law.

Appellate Judge Flem D. Sampson, a member of the state's highest court, defeated Robert H. Lucas for the republican nomination. Lucas opposing the betting law, fought Sampson, whom he called the candidate of the racing interests, but the judge remained silent on the subject.

Beckham and the democrats are standing on the anti-pari-mutuel plank that succeeded in August, Judge Sampson has said the pari-mutuel law is not an issue, but that free textbooks in the schools are the greatest necessity in the state.

The fate of horse racing is contradicted. Beckham has said repeal of the betting law would end a "corrupt lobby" maintained at Frankfort, but that other sports flourish without legalized gambling privilege and that he was not opposed to legitimate horse racing. Friends of Sampson said repeal of the law would end racing in the state and cause the Kentucky Derby to be transferred to Lincoln Fields, Chicago, where the Kentucky Jockey Club has large interests in a new racing plant.

Sampson voiced his intention, if elected to "destroy powerful subsidized lobbies at Frankfort" maintained, he said by "powerful interests—the railroads, the race tracks, the school book trust and the oil and coal interests."

Religious organizations have adopted resolutions urging voters to support candidates known to be opposed to the betting law.

GOATS AND SHEEP EAT TEXAS STATE FLOWER

Stamford, Texas —(AP)—The Texas bluebonnet, State flower, which used to cover the ranchlands out here like a blanket, may soon disappear in the western part of the State.

Besides being a thing of beauty, it also is one of utility. The sheep and goat ranchers have found that their flocks will eat the flower in preference to almost any other vegetation on the range.

In spots the bluebonnet already is gone, and the hungry flocks are reaching out for more territory.

BOY WAS SICK

Texan Tells How He Got Acquainted With the Good Work of Black-Draught as a Laxative.

Glenfords, Texas.—"I had a sick spell when just fifteen years old," says Mr. George W. Maness, R. F. D. 2, this place. "Anyone who has had chills, like I had, is apt to remember them. I was a sick boy—just lay around the home, weak. My skin was yellow and I could hardly stand up. I had hard chills.

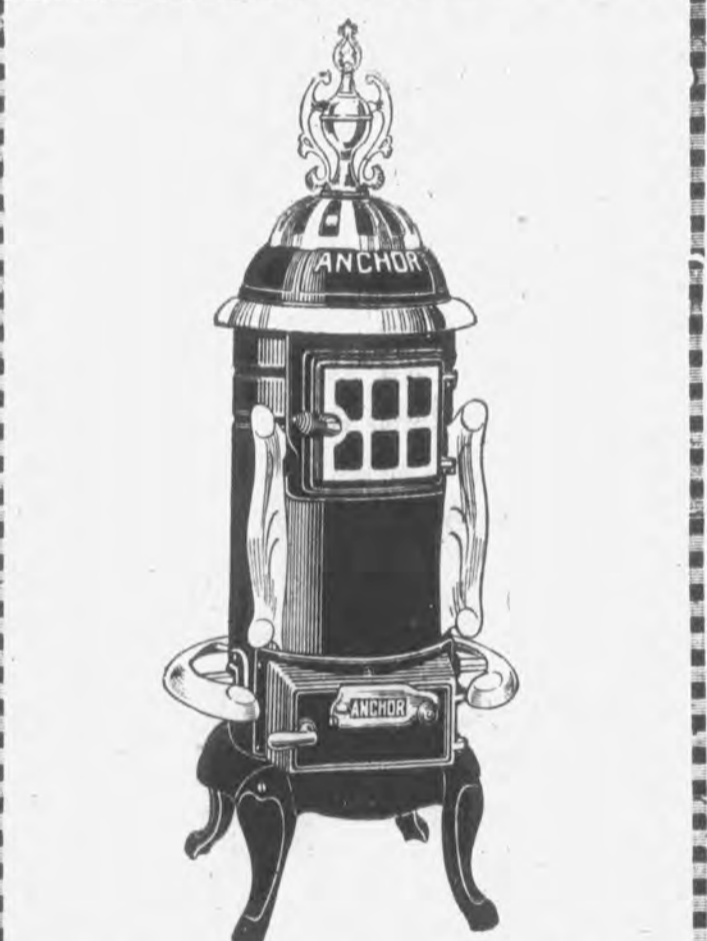

"My father gave me quinine. Someone told him to give me Black-Draught with it. He brought some home, and they fixed it up like a tea. It wasn't very good, but I was so sick I would take anything.

"After a few days, I began to feel better. I was hungry and could eat. I kept on taking the tea for awhile, and I got well. I haven't had chills since then, but I have taken a lot of Black-Draught since that time. It is a family medicine with me."

Where assistance is needed in the way of a laxative or cathartic, Theford's Black-Draught should be taken, as often as necessary, to open the bowels and put them in a healthy and normal state of activity.

Try it; it's a dose. NC-185

Why The Anchor Hot Blast Saves Fuel

When you purchase a stove or heater for your home, you want heat first—dependable heat that will keep your home warm all winter regardless of zero weather outside. But you also want this heat at a fair price. You want a heater which will give you the greatest possible amount of heat from your fuel, assuring a cozy, comfortable home.

The Anchor Hot Blast saves one-third or more in fuel over any lower-draft or oak air-tight type of heater of the same size, it holds fire 36 hours, and will save 25 percent in fuel over any other hot-blast stove on the market. A lifetime of service is guaranteed by the sectional inner linings and the air space which insures uniform radiation from top, bottom of the stove body.

Coal burned in the ordinary lower draft heater burns at the bottom and all of the gases escaping from the coal on top are lost up the chimney. So when you see smoke pouring out of your chimney it means that fuel is being wasted.

By permitting the right amount of pre-heated air to enter the Anchor Hot Blast fire-box through the hot-blast tube, all these gases which otherwise would be lost are completely burned, thereby insuring the fullest heating result.

By a simple regulation of the main draft damper in the ash-door, the hot-blast slide damper at top, and the check damper located in the reversible smoke collar, the fire is instantly controlled to give just the amount of heat desired.

Study this hot-blast system of combustion and design and construction of the Anchor Hot Blast and you will see why it is superior to any other heating stove on the market.

The Anchor Hot Blast is made in both Front Door and Top Door types, and in five sizes to meet every home-heating need. Your dealer will gladly show you the Anchor line of Hot Blast Heaters and the price will prove a pleasant surprise to you. In point of looks, service and economy, the Anchor Hot Blast represents the most in value for the least in price.

While nursing in New York, in my early twenties, I was poisoned by food, my sister nurse recommended your wonderful CARKER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS. The doctor told me that I would have died had I not taken the pills.

I am never without them and have prescribed them for thousands of my patients who were suffering with indigestion, gas and sour stomach, biliousness, sick headache and constipation. These pills are indeed a wonderful laxative, being purely vegetable, small and easy to take, children, as well as older people can swallow them easily."

Three Seamen Lose Lives In Heavy Storm

Elizabeth City, N. C., Nov. 8—(AP)—Trapped by heavy seas in a roaring gale off Ocracoke last Saturday, three fishermen lost their lives and a fourth, able to withstand the buffeting waters, managed to swim ashore to safety.

First definite details of the tragedy received at coast guard station here today from James H. Garrish, keeper of the Ocracoke life guard station. The sinking of the craft, the Motor Boat 2021-T, was witnessed by M. P. Guthrie, member of the Ocracoke coast guard crew patrolling the beach Saturday morning.

The lone survivor, Joseph Gascins, was observed wading in the surf near the shore a short time later. He was taken to the coast guard station and the crew set out in a motorboat in an effort to save the others. The body of John P. Spencer was found floating and by use of a seine the bodies of William and Ivory O'Neal were recovered.

Gasoline Taxes Show Increase

Washington, Nov. 8—(AP)—Gasoline taxes were 19.2 per cent lower for the first six months of the year than they were in the same period a year ago. A total revenue of $101,250,841 flowed into state treasuries for that period, the bureau of public roads reported today, indicating that 4,919,000,000 gallons of gasoline were consumed by motor vehicles, including estimated amounts for those states not imposing the tax. Gasoline consumption was reported to show an increase of 11.4 per cent while vehicle registration increased only 7 per cent.

POLICE GUARD JAILS IN COAL STRIKE AREAS

Arrest of Nearly Score of Strike Leaders Followed by Demonstration.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 8.—(AP)—A war-time atmosphere prevailed in the southern Colorado coal fields today after a night of riotous burning which special police guarded jails where strike leaders were confined while signals were sent and lines marked.

With the arrest of nearly a score of strike leaders yesterday, including several officials of the Industrial Workers of the World, picketing ceased and many mines returned to work. However, strikers immediately started demonstrations protesting the arrests, causing the authorities to muster scores of special officers.

The strike leaders first were confined at Walsenburg, headquarters of the I. W. W. in the southern field. Hundreds of miners abandoned their mass meetings on mine-owning farms as "legalized picketing" and took up position in nearby hills and along highways.

They found these camps marked by fires and as darkness settled they gathered at several points. An occasional rocket was set off, while the meaning of the signals was unknown. Officers found all roads leading from Walsenburg were blocked by strikers. At midnight a state posse current that they were making to attack the coal fields their leaders were sworn in and armed with shot guns.

During the highway patrols, Walsenburg officers succeeded in transferring several prisoners to Pueblo about 70 miles north. The sheriff at Pueblo mustered more than 200 deputies to guard the road.

Others arrested and held in Walsenburg included Rogers, chairman of the national executive committee of the I. W. W. and Kristin Swanson, in charge of all I. W. W. activities in coal and metal mines. Authorities declared that they had arrested all the leading I. W. W. organizers in the Walsenburg field.

While picketing stopped in the southern field, operators in the northern field area reported that the strikers had again walked out. W. H. Adams, who recently took advantage of a state law to order a score of special officers to northern points.

At Walsenburg had more than 100 automobiles at their disposal and one large caravan of 20 miles north of that place was understood they planned to invade properties where miners were returning to work.

In addition to heavy forces of armed guards, a machine gun was placed in the court house at Walsenburg. It covered the entrance to the jail. A squad of state police went to an unknown point with a machine gun. They carried 50,000 rounds of ammunition.

Coolidge For Constable
Waynesburg, Pa.—A Greene county voter cast his ballot at the primary for Calvin Coolidge for high constable of Jackson township. His was the only Republican vote cast in the township.

to R. S." One verse reads:
"A few short weeks of happiness,
A few short weeks of gladness,
And now my heart just aches and aches,
It's just so full of sadness."
Such poetry is no excuse for suicide. The poor girl, only twenty-seven years old, could have found another "R. S."

John Seybold, seventy-one, a farmer, wants back $7,500 paid a medium Seybold talked to a spirit named "Sarah," like Sarah's voice paid for Sarah's wedding dress, at her request donated $500 for wayward girls. Then, after he had spent $7,500 to please Sarah, on her promise to come to earth and marry him, "Sarah" says the farmer, "never showed up."

Do not laugh. This old farmer simply paid in advance for happiness to come later. Believers in some of many religions on earth, the false ones, are now doing the same and will be disappointed as former Seybold was disappointed. Their disappointment will come hereafter.

There is talk of building another Westminster Abbey to hold corpses of immortal heroes, scientists, and statesmen. The old Abbey is now crowded, and Americans are expected to contribute to the new building. We ought to contemplate on raising a few immortals here. Besides, if the British will wait two or three hundred years, many immortals in the Abbey will not longer be immortal and soon will be available.

The German fliers, Merz and Bock, in their Heinkel hydroplane, have arrived at the Azores on their way across the Atlantic to America. Good luck to them, their monoplane, and their 800 horsepower motor. Going by the Azores, as Lindbergh points out, puts down fuel weight by half. That will be the real road, until the airplane is really developed.

Platinum has been found in Alaska, where one man makes $300 a day by primitive mining. That will start travel to what used to be called "Seward's Folly" because Seward paid $8,000,000 for it. Eight thousand million dollars would not buy it new, and a hundred thousand million dollars wouldn't pay what it is really worth.

They are digging up a tomb nearly 6,000 years old, holding the body, and what is more important the treasures of King Zoser. He is the pharaoh that built the famous step pyramid. The diggers saw the "print of metal," and will keep on digging.
