ADDRESSES ROUND TABLE

The members and guests of the Round Table club were delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. Wiley Brown, Tuesday afternoon. After the usual club business and the distribution of Christmas seals, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. E. B. Higgs, chairman of the program

Mrs. Higgs introduced to the club Mrs. A. L. Purrington, of Scotland Neck, who presented the subject for the afternoon, "Hindu Myths." Mrs. Purrington, who is making ar. exhaustive study of myths and who is especially qualified to speak of Hindu myths, be- hibited at a horse show here, today cause of her acquaintance and cor- championed the cause of the stray respondence with brilliant Hindus, dog gave in a marvelous way an introduction to Hindu mythology. As a frame-work on which to hang her myths and their interpretation, she gave a graphic description of the multiplicity of Hindu gods, of their remote antiquity, of the Hin-du caste system and their religious ideas involving a great system of creation of evolutionary cycles and of their ideas of philosophy, lofty and pire. As clamples of myths interpretative of the logic once stated by Carlyle that all causes a great pet. have their effects, even in remote ages she told the stories of "Gan-'-a nature myth, of "Huri"the Hindu Noah and of "Gantama," better known as Buddha. In the teachings of such myths and in life of Buddha, western ears have had to recognize that the Orients. have had a clear idea of an powerful Creator and the de-

By HORACE C. FENEGER Associated Press Sports Editor. Lexington, Ky., Dec. 9,-(AP)-A veil of secrecy penetrated only by the beliefs of outside observers sur rounded the "proposed amend-ments" of the Southern Conference official body as it prepared for the opening of the seventh annual meeting this afternoon.

W. D. Punkhouser of the University of Kentucky, secretary of the Conference, said the list of proposed amendments would not be made public until shortly before the officials gathered which will be at three p. m

Coaches and athletic directors at tending the conference informally expressed the opinion that reactions on the change in dates ending the football season, the policy toward college baseball players who engage in semi-professional games during the summer and the decision as to allowing the conference all senior team to go to the Pacific coast for a Christmas game would be three of the paramount issue before the conference.

The selection of a city for the conference basketball tournament an dthe naming of another for the track and field meet were other matters to come up today. Atlanta

TOMORROWS MANY TODAY'S GIFT FOR

LAOOK at these uncommonly handsome Cabinets! For chaste, decorative beauty they are ideally suited for your living room or foyer. A bit of Oriental brocade or an etching aboveand either would furnish a wall space with rare distinction! . . . Yet it is not as a piece of handsome furniture that we present the Edisonic so proudly. It is because it holds the gift of infinite hours of inspiration and beauty-the gift of "close-up" music! It is characteristic of Mr. Edison's thoroughness that his supreme schievement in the realm of music should be so fittingly framed . . . The full-throated harmony of lavish sound which pours forth from the Edisonic brings musician, vocalist, orchestra "close-up" to you. Edisonic volume reveals a new dimension in music - a depth and richness which endows the artist with life-like quality-like a "close-up" on the cinema screen! But why try to imagine this astounding advance in musical re-creation, when less than a half hour spent with us will convince you of the amazing nature of Edisonic music?

The EDISONIC

The Schubert Edisonic - $135 Imagine this compact and beautifully pro-portioned Cabinet in your bome! It is finished in two-tone English Brown Mahogany and occupies but little space

The Beethoven Edisonic - $225 If your foyer or living room is of generous proportions, you will want this larger Edisonic, a majestic example of fine cabinet making in two-tone English Brown Mabogany.

Struggle Seen Between Vice-President Dawes and Secretary Herbert Hoo-

New York, Dec. 9 .- (AP) -- Opin ions, rumors and speculation re-garding presidential possibilities were given prominence in today's New York newspapers.

The New York World, democratic printed the views of William Ran-dolph Hearst, publisher of other papers, appraising Secretary Mellon as the ideal republican candidate but saying that there was prospect of a struggle between Vice President Dawes and Secretary Hoover. "As the hour of the convention approaches," Hearst wrote, Mellon and Dawes "will loom even larger upon the political horizon." Hoover, Hearst said, was a man of moderate and thoroughly sound progressive views. He has done much in public service, Hearst wrote, but "is not a good politic-

Dawes was regarded by Hearst as "a formidable figure." He said the vice president is particularly strong politically in the middle west, es-pscially in the states of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Iowa, Michigan, Wis. consin and Missouri."

The New York Times quoted Hollins Randolph, who was chairman of the Georgia delegation at the last democratic convention, as say ing that he had been in the south working to smooth the way for Gov ernor Smith of New York toward the democratic nomination. He had urged, he said, the delegates to leave religious and other prejudice at home. The Times said it is un derstood that Georgia may send at uninstructed delegation or one pledged to Sen. Walter F. Georg as a favorite son. If Hoover should be nominated the democratic candidate would by forced to campaign in the south to offset Hoover's popularity becauof flood relief work. The Tones as treme dry, of Birmingham, The Times attributed the statement tha Smih could not carry the south and would split the democrats.

The New York Herald Tribue, republican, said there were rumou that Senator James E. Reed, o. Missouri, would withdix w from the presidential race to aid Governor

Final Consideration Given Carolina System at Hearing in Washington Today.

Washington, Dec. 9.- (AP).-Exrensive construction plans of the Pledmont and Northern Railroad for new lines along the North Carolina-South Carolina border cante whore the Interstate Commerce Commission today for final considcration with a distinguished array of lawyers and public men in apnearance.

Charle Evans Hughes opened the argument for the Piedmont conmany whose construction plans are appased by the Southern Railway and other frunk lines.

W. G. McAdoo former Secretary of the Treasury appeared for the Georgia and Florida Railway, while the Covernors of North and South carolina were on hand to follow he proceeding ..

The burden of presenting trunk the railroad objections to the Piedmont proposals was assumed by L Jeffries, vice-preside

"The Piedmont and Northern ofers by its construction plan very create a connecting link over which brough north and south business can move. Its projects will result in a natural and convenient and aproved through service.

The only possible grounds of obetion to allowing this enterprise to proceed is that it will result in mry to other railroads. It must be conceded that the construction relif will open new territory, ren-tir available new tites to new enterprises and increase business

The Southern Railway is the reas opponent of this proposition. ret we say the construction will cause no substantial injury to othes and will have an advantage for them in increasing prosperity nich they will share."

Mr. Hughes cited in recent years, everal other cases, all of which nowed increases.

That's proof that you have had emaritable development in this territory in past years," he resumed. inere had been wholesome comration, no monopoly and general perity in which everybody has had a reasonable share. Thy: is be situation which we wish to ex-

Mr. Hughes also undertook to Mr. Hughes also undertook to cal with the legal points involved, and his argument was supported by counsel for the states of lierth and South Carolina and by our E. Benton, representing the National Association of State Resul National Association read Commissions.

J. F. Byrnes representing the liste of South Carolina, attacked particularly the tentative report made to the Commission by examiners, which recommended rejection of the Piedmont and Northern application. J. F. Byrnes representing the application.

The law never intended that an pplicant should prove there was nint diate necessity for the servwhich it intended to offer," Mr. street said. "The language of the part as to the lack of proof of my liate necessity for this contruction consequently should be regarded. There is now appearing since the evidence was gathat the original hearing delor d for factory sites and transto tation service at many points long the line of these projected retensions.
