In that garage the officers were told, there was an automobile last Saturday night. It was empty at the time of the raid.

Baranaman was captured while telephoning Los Angeles radio station in an attempt to obtain the broadcasting of a message from "George Fox" the name signed to the ramom letters sent Parker in possession were found several newspapers and a list of telephone numes of radio stations.

The police believe Barnaman would prove to be a "crank".

After questioning Long for some time, police released him. The woman booked on a charge of suspicion of murder. Barnaman was detailed ! on acharge of grand larceny pending further investigation.

The house was raided after police had been told that a woman had been running up and down the street shouting

"I didn't kill her. I didn't kill her, they did it.'

The police said the woman was intoxicated.

Long was hazy in his answers to the police questions, the officers He could not remember to whom he paid rent for the house, whose windows overlook the spot where Perry M. Parker Saturday night paid over $1,500 to the kidnaper who returned his daughter's mutilated body.

When pressed for the name of his landlady Long answered: 'Mrs. Parker'.

Within the house, the raiding offi cers found heel prints sharply etched in what appeared to be blood stains; bloodstained towels and towels which had been freshly wash ed in an attempt to remove similar stains; a piece of men's clothing which still bore a large stain alhough freshly washed.

Several razor blades were found which police believe may have been used in the atrocious crime.

Christmas Program Given at Christian Church Last Night

A crowd that packed the main uditorium to capacity and overlowed into the balcony attended Christmas exercises at the exercises given by city churches furing the present holiday season, and proved to be probably the most nspirational in many years. The regular church choir assisted by singers from the East Carolina Teachers College and other choirs of the city, furnished a musical program of surpasing excellence. Immediately following the rendition of opening numbers young women of the church presented a play dealing with the spirit of Christmas. The play conveyed in a of the trains, however, such mail plain an intensery gripping way that the only road to happiness is the road leading to the cross.

Just five more days. Don't let the last few hours before Christmas catch you unprepared. Get busy and complete your shopping now. For your convenience, the stores will remain open at night this week.

There are still a number of Christmas opportunities that have not been taken. Decide today what you can give to help relieve suffering in our community this Christmas, and call the Welfare office at once and "Christmas trading was conducted tell them what you can do.

Just one more week and Christmas will be passed, and attention will shift to resolutions for the New Year. Il is to be hoped that when the Board of Aldermen begin planning for the New Year their plans will include some other parking system than that now in effect on Evans street. While we are without a substitute at this time to offer for the present system, we feel that most any plan would work equally as well or better, and is at least worth a

Judge Roy Deal spoke a great truth to the Buncombe County Grand Jury this morning when he declared that: "Certainty of punishment was the greatest crime preventative." If every official and every law-abiding citizen in our state would make an effort to see to it that violators of the law were brought before the courts and real punishment was meted out in every case of guilt, there would certainly be a tendency on the part of would-be criminals to stop to count the cost before committing crimes. Judge Deal is right. Speedy trial and sure punishment is no doubt one of the best steps toward a crimeless
