Escape Compartments Suggested By Experts For Submarine Craft

Compartments like that pictured above, if built into undersea craft, might sid in the rescue of men trapped in a sunken ship, Simon Lake, submarine investor, suggests. Valves outside would provide openings through which rescue ships could p ump food and air, he says. When air pressure inside was strong enough to keep out the water, the men would leave by trapdoors, in diving suits.

By JOHN L. COOLEY,

Associated Press Science Editor, New York, (AP)-Three device for the rescue and safety of men imprisoned in a disabled submarged submarine, such as the S-4, are suggested b ySimon Lake, who has invented more than 125 pieces of apparatus for use on undersea craft. Escape compartments can be built fore and aft in the vessels, Mr. Lake says, through which the crew, after donning diving helmets, can rise to the surface of the water.

The inventor also asserts that two air hose connections might be installed in each submarine so that divers could attach tubes to the crippled boat. One of these tubes from cold has been reported from | would conduct pure air to the men;

Mr. Lake's third dewater is introduced into a submarine, thus permitting other sections of the vessel to be kept water-tight The escape compartment was invented by Mr. Lake thirty years ago, before his perfection of the even keel submarine, and has been used by foreign governments in old ype underwater vessels. It consists i two small rooms into which compressed air may be forced until the ressure is equal to that of the vater.

When accurate guages show that this point has been reached, a man steps into the second small room puts on a diving helmet and then opens a door in the hull. The water is held back by the air pressure and the seaman walks down a ladder int othe ocean. His rise through the water is checked by a special buoy that prevents rapid decrease of pressure

An air hose on the helmet supplies oxygen from the submarine luring the man't drift surfaceward. When he has reached the top he can drop his helmet back into the sea and the next man in the compartment, hauling it in, repeats the performance.

Such an exit fore and aft would mean that most, if not all, members of an improsined crew could reach safety, the inventor says, for the automatic doors would save the undamaged divisions of the subma-

Mr. Lake used the device years ago n his early experiments with submarines. It has been applied to nine sweeping from submarines, to the recovery of cables and to other services at considerable depths

for Economical Transportation

-a great new automobile so impressive in appearance, performance and staunchness that it marks the opening of a new era of luxurious transportation at low cost!

Built on a 107" wheelbase -4" longer than before - the Bigger and Better Chevrolet is impressively large, low and racy. Fashionable new colors in genuine Duco, rich new upholsteries and handsome appointments lend an air of notable distinction; while a type of big car performance once thought impossible in a low-priced car has been achieved by numerous engineering advancements.

The Bigger and Better Chevrolet is powered by an improved valve-in-head engine with such impressive features as alloy "invar strut" pistons, hydro-laminated camshaft gears, mushroom type valve tappets, AC oil filter and AC air cleaner.

The chassis has been redesigned. And as a result, the new Chevrolet provides delightful smoothness-click-of-the-heel acceleration-the ability to maintain 50, 55 and 60 miles an hour-the safety of four-wheel brakes-the steering ease that can only result from a ball bearing worm and gear steering mechanism-and comfort over all roads at all speeds, due to semi-elliptic shock absorber springs-84% of the wheelbase.

We urge you to come in-see this beautiful new car-and learn how Chevrolet has again electrified America by creating a Bigger and Better motor car and offering it at prices so low as to be actually amazing.
