BILLY SUNDAY EMPHASIZES HUMAN MORALITY AND DUTY IN SERMON TO YOUNG FOLKS

Famous Evangelist Preached to High School and College Students Last Night in Most Inspirational Service of Campaign.

Human morality and duty as a means of intensifying the usefulness of education, was the foundation upon which the Rev. Billy Sunday last night laid the structure of one of the most forceful sermons of the evangelistic campaign now in progress in this city.

Bringing into play vivid illustrations of some of the most prominent lives in the history of the world, the evangelist told a congregation of about four thousand people of the needs of perpetuating the ideals made extant by the men and women. The sermon was heard by hundreds of high school students from various sections of the county and a large part of the student body of the East Carolina Teachers College.

DAM MEASURE UP AGAIN IN THE SENATE

House Meets for Short Time to Name Committees For Madden Funeral.

Saturday Senate takes up Boulder Canyon Dam again, while House meets only to appoint committees to represent it at the Madden funeral before adjourning.

Senate naval committee continues hearing on cruiser construction bill. Read bill setting up department of education comes before House education committee.

Friday Senate passed several minor bills ordered floor control bill to conference with house, heard Walsh, Democrat, Montana attack "power lobby" receiving shipping board report opposing proposed trans-oceanic line of high speed liners on economic and other grounds, and adjourned when death of Representative Madden announced. House debated relief and adjourned upon receiving word of death of appropriation committee chairman.

Chairman Nye of Senate Teapot Dome committee, announced address copy of Robert W. Stewart's testimony to John D. Rockefeller, Jr. for information.

Senate committee committee appointed conference on flood bill and discussed differences in informal session.

Cruiser construction measure was before Senate fiscal committee.

Senate Finance committee Thursday morning passed bill reducing military committee of Senate favorably reported bill authorizing disincorporation of "Credit for German" bills.

Dr. George R. Mansfield told House during committee consideration of water bill that demand for fertilizers has made development of potash important project.

Impeachment charge against federal Judge Franklin E. Kenamer, of Northern Oklahoma district, dropped by House Judiciary committee upon subcommittee report that lack of disclosure did not substantiate charges.

Andrew Republican Massachusetts, in speech, expandered McClintock Democrat, Oklahoma, of any connection with alleged exploitation of franking privileges, and LaGuardia, Republican New York, in another address, accused prohibition officials in Pittsburgh district of selecting jurors in effort to prevent political patrons from going to jail.

Sylva Woman is Now Boosted for Political Honor

Sylva, April 26.—(AP)—Friends here of Mrs. E. L. McKee, widely known in club and political circles of the state, working for her appointment as Democratic national committeewoman, are receiving encouragement from Democratic leaders in various parts of the state it was revealed today.

The Sylva woman formerly was president of the State Federation of Women's Club, and served on the state education commission appointed by Governor McLean, being a signer of the minority report favoring the state-wide eight months school term.

Mrs. McKee's friends seek her election as one of the four delegates-at-large to the Houston convention, as stepping stone to the appointment as national committeewoman, in case Miss Mary Graham, who holds the post, retires. It is understood here that Miss Graham will ask to be relieved.

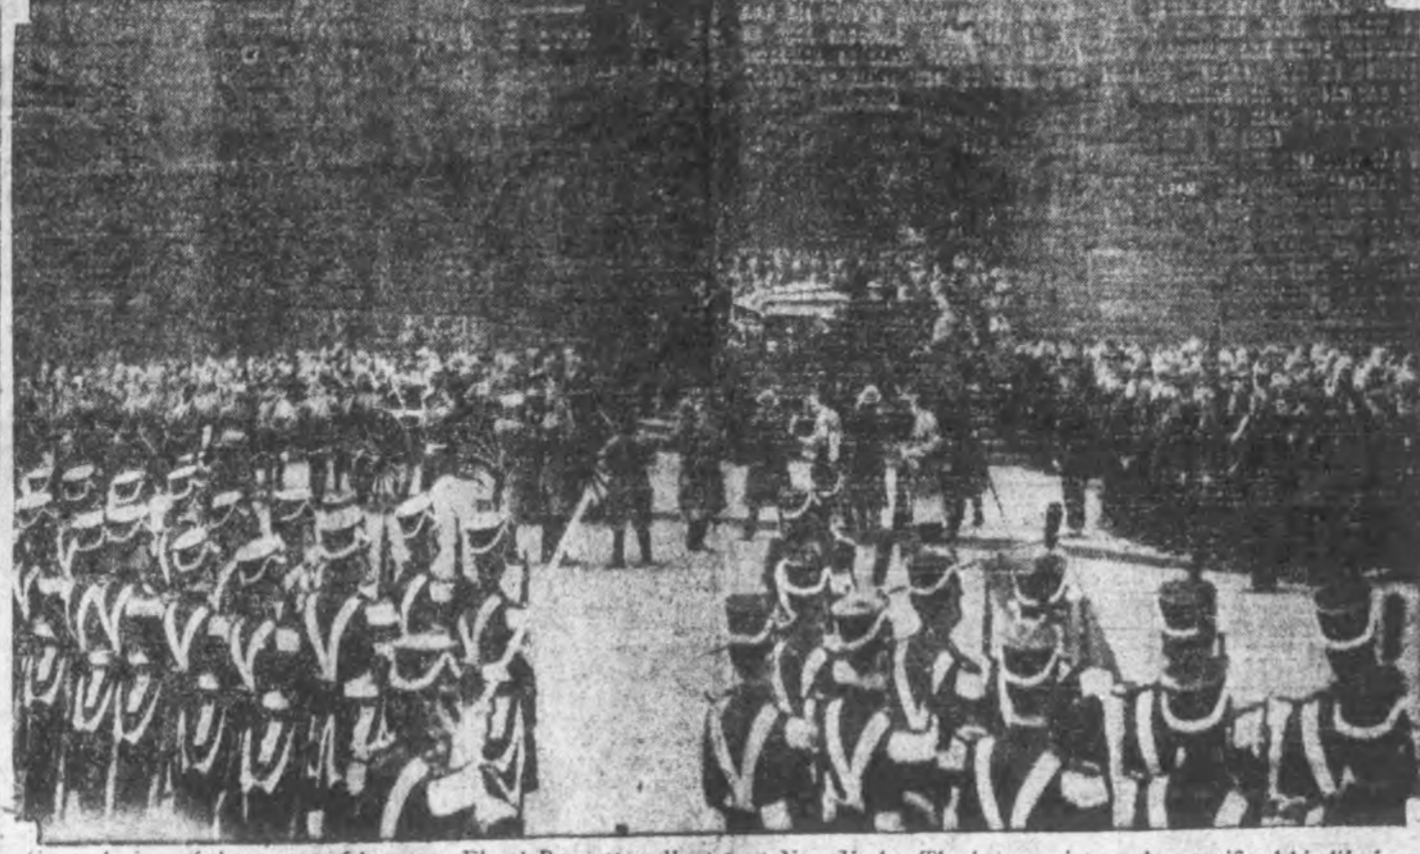

In addition to the support of club women of the state, Mrs. McKee is receiving assurances of support from many political leaders, it was learned here, among them being two of the major powers in the party—men who declined to permit use of their names at this time, but who have pledged their support.

LAY PLAN FOR FORMAL OPENING OF BRIDGE

Beaufort, April 28.—(AP)—Plans for formal opening of the bridge and causeway connecting Morehead City with Beaufort were made here today at a meeting of citizens of Currituck county. The exact date has not been set but it is expected to be between June 1 and June 20.

The opening will be held, it was said, either a day before or a day after the historical pageant at New Bern.

Famous Flyer Escorted in State to 71st Armory

General view of the escort of honor to Floyd Bennett, gallant aviator, whose body is being taken to Washington for burial in Arlington Cemetery, as the cortege entered the 71st Armory at New York. The brave aviator who sacrificed his life in a great relief effort was received with full military honors.

MADDEN WAS BIG FIGURE IN AMERICA

Dead Congressman Held Check Reins on Nation's Expenditures Many Years.

Washington, April 28.—(AP)—Death has removed from Congress the man who held in his hand one of the greatest check reins on the nation's expenditures—Madden.

The veteran representative, stricken yesterday at the Capitol while at his desk as chairman of the house appropriations committee, had power, and he added to this a personal and determination that carried forward a check upon the state.

The closing years of his life were filled with legislative warfare and many times there was almost serious fighting on his floor. It was to this that Madden brought death, he was as full of fight as when he took over his chairmanship several years ago.

First, Madden had to fight for the prerogative of his committee in the house itself. He took over the chairmanship almost simultaneously with the inauguration of the national budget system which brought a realignment of house committees and almost overnight more than tripled the power of the appropriations body.

This change taking as it did the power to appropriate funds from a half dozen or more other house committees, aroused jealousy over the authority placed in the appropriation committee's hands and only a dominant leader's grip could have held for it the privilege it received by law.

Madden's third big job was to keep the total of the appropriation for the whole government machinery—amounting annually to more than four billion dollars—in the lowest minimum. For weeks each fall, before Congress convened, he and his committee were back at the capitol, going over proposed expenditures and doing their best to chip off here and there any item that could be passed up.

But in contrast to the economy of his nature, the Illinois member was liberal when liberality was actually needed. Last summer he virtually violated the laws of the nation to obtain funds, during the recess of Congress, to relieve the sufferers in the Mississippi flood area.

Immediately upon the announcement of his death, the house adjourned out of respect and a few minutes later the senate did likewise.

Today the house was called into session to appoint committees, one to arrange for the body of the veteran to lie in state in the house chamber for several hours Sunday.

Would Make South Great Textile Center of World

Savannah, Ga., April 28.—(AP)—A plan that people of the cotton states "join hand and head and heart" to make the south "the great textile center of the world" was made here by Senator Smith of South Carolina, speaking at the annual convention of the American Cotton Shippers' Association.

Senator Smith said he was urging "every effort and every proper sacrifice to bring the marketing of our cotton to the south."

"The mills are coming here, thereby evidencing the law of common sense," he said. "We have the cotton here, we have the water power here, we have the railroads and public roads; a matchless climate, the finest harbors in the world, never blocked by ice; the purest American stock on the continent. Why should we not begin capitalizing our own opportunities and make the south the great textile center of the world in production, manufacturing and sale of cotton, both raw and finished?"

The Senator, who is chairman of the cotton dump investigating subcommittee of the senate in Washington, said the inquiry had disclosed "obvious weakness and evil" of the present cotton marketing system and predicted that Congress would legislate to make operations of law and policy that might be necessary. He made no definite statement as to the form of legislation would take.

The Senator did touch on the question of southern delivery on New York exchange future contracts, saying that the present system gave the seller of such contracts "poorly the buyer looked."

"Why in the name of common sense give the seller any such right or privilege?" Senator Smith asked. "Why not require by law that each contract offered for sale shall name at the time the sale is offered the point of delivery of that contract? Then the buyer could govern himself according to his own convenience and not let himself be chided all over the country in case he accepts delivery."

BILLY SUNDAY LEADS STRAW HAT DAY HERE

Evangelist wears $100 Panama in Observation of "Straw Hat Day" Campaign

Today is "straw hat day" in Greenville, and despite overcast skies and a disconcerting drop of the mercury, the occasion promises to be most auspicious for numbers of merchants who have gone to the trouble to arrange elaborate displays of the latest creations in straw hat manufacture.

Rev. Billy Sunday, who, in the midst of a sermon a night or so ago, threatened to renounce the payment of $300 to any man entering his tabernacle Sunday without a straw hat, led off the "straw" campaign today by wearing a $100 Panama presented him sometime ago while conducting an evangelistic campaign in Florida.

Members of the campaign party said this morning Mr. Sunday was extremely proud of this part of his wardrobe and that all temporal experts in the country couldn't get him to part with it. The evangelist was considerably alarmed when he looked out his hotel window early this morning and noted the unseasonable weather, but he reiterated his determination to wear the straw hat the weather man would only give him half a chance.

Mr. Sunday will lose over the first ball at the opening of baseball season at the fair grounds this afternoon. Billy Sunday was lead off man at the bat for Pittsburgh and other clubs of the National League thirty years ago, and his appearance at the fair grounds this afternoon will be taken to preface the dawn of a new era in baseball and sale of straw hats in this immediate locality.

Merchants this morning peered cautiously from their doorways, took a squint at the weather, and returned to the narrow confines of business offices slightly discouraged.

But about the noon hour when the sun succeeded in disengaging its face from behind cloudbanks, long faces were converted into smiles and the whole business district took on the appearance of a city—a field where happiness prevails always.

Woman Held For Killing Husband At Hot Springs

Hot Springs, April 28.—(AP)—Constance E. Gogard, prominent local farmer and politician to dead and his wife is under arrest charged with shooting him after an altercation at their home at Spring Creek, ten miles west of here, yesterday afternoon.

According to reports reaching here, Mrs. Gogard is said to have fired two shots at her husband, one of which drilled his forehead and the other of which entered his temple. Gogard was said to have threatened his wife and to have fired at her before she shot him.

Sheriff Ramsey who made the trip to Spring Creek after the shooting, said there were no witnesses. Mr. and Mrs. Gogard being alone in their home at the time. Their two sons, 23 and 18, were at the house of a neighbor at the time of the tragedy.

No announcement was made regarding the quarrel which precipitated the shooting except that it was one of long standing.

HEAVY SNOW IN MARYLAND

Worst Storm in 59 Years Reported from Hagerstown; Snow At Egemont, N. C.

Hagerstown, Md., April 28.—(AP)—The worst April snowstorm in the Cumberland valley has seen in 59 years tore down wire communications, made highways hazardous with drifts and descended upon fruit orchards in full bloom last night and today.

A wet clinging snow and a wind blowing from 30 to 40 miles an hour broke down wires and leveled poles across highways, cutting off communication to the west interfering with lines to the north and south from here. Snowfall varied from four or five inches in the valley to a foot reported at Blue Ridge summit.

One motorist who succeeded in getting over the national trail from the west reported encountering drifts at some places 4 or 5 feet deep and the added hazard of telephone and telegraph poles fallen across the road. Highways north into Pennsylvania and south into West Virginia and Virginia were in use but some damage was reported also in these directions.

The extent of the damage to fruit crops could not be determined. Although the trees were in full bloom the temperature was recorded at from 36 to 38 degrees, serving to lessen the damage.

A western Maryland freight train was reported stalled on South Mountain but other railroads said they suffered only minor delays.

Asheville, April 28.—(AP)—Sweeping down on Asheville in the midst of a country-wide record record-breaking cold and record-breaking snow had accompanied it all evidence of spring. All records for temperature for the day were shattered by the mercury that went to 29 degrees. Likewise, snow records for the date were established by a fall of an inch and a half with only one snow in the April history of the weather bureau extended it.

Smith Enters For President In W. Virginia

Charleston, W. Va., April 28.—(AP)—Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York has decided to enter the race as a Democratic candidate for President in the West Virginia primary against United States Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri.

Announcement of Smith's intentions was made today by C. W. Ozenton, Democratic national committeeman for West Virginia, and a leading supporter of the Smith boom in this state.

Jail Negro Robber at Tarboro

Tarboro, April 28.—(AP)—Police with the aid of bloodhounds today traced Exum Lewis, negro, in his home and jailed him following the robbery party this morning of the weekly payroll of $1,000 from the office of the Frontline cotton mill. A handkerchief found near the window of the office had Lewis' initials on it. None of the money was recovered.

TODAY

The Future City.
Going for a Ride.
Earthquakes and Floods.
Quick Travel.
(By Arthur Brisbane)
Copyright 1927, by Star Co.

In 1978, fifty years away, according to General Heppenheimer of the city of New York authority, New York city will have 50,000,000 population, and will be made into separate state, No. 49 in the union.

How much population do you suppose California, Florida, Texas will have fifty or a hundred years hence? It sounds incredible, but the increasing child of today will probably live to see an American city with a population greater than today's population of the United States.

New York has adopted the institution: "Taking a man for a ride." Yesterday morning, one who had ridden was found with a bullet in his right temple only the laundry mark on his silk shirt to identify him.

The man chosen is put on the front seat, not knowing that he is to travel further than he ever went before.

At the right spot a man on the back seat puts a bullet in his head. He is thrown out, blood stains washed off, and the car is ready for another ride.

That is one by-product of bootlegging.

Europe is bewildered by earthquakes. Thousands of homes in Bulgaria were shaken to the earth, and the population hoping that divine providence would stop shaking the earth, walked solemnly among a city, singing hymns of repentance.

Divine providence apparently is not placated.

More earthquakes in the Balkans. Varna on the Black Sea is flooded by a tidal wave, islands in the Aegean swept by a cyclone.

Men might well find in their way.

FLAGS OF TWO NATIONS OVER FLYER'S GRAVE

Flyers of the Bremen Plane Pay Final Tribute to Bennett early Today.

Washington, April 28.—(AP)—The flags of Germany and Ireland which the Bremen carried on its trans-Atlantic flight, were laid across the grave of Floyd Bennett today by the German and Irish there, the aviators, who participated in a simple ceremony at the grave of their fellow aviator, who succumbed to illness contracted while flying to their last at Greely island.

First Captain Hermann Koehl placed a wreath of green on the fresh earthen mound, which was already completely covered by floral tributes. Then Baron Von Huenefeld went slowly forward and unfolded the flag of his country to top the wreath of his companion.

He was followed by Major James Fitzmaurice, who lifted a huge silk emblem of green, white and orange. This Irish flag alike was spread sidewise over Floyd Bennett's resting place.

Finally, Major Howard Williams, commandant at Bolling Field, produced the smaller emblem of the stars and stripes, which he put beside the Irish flag.

The crew of the Bremen paid their tributes today and left Washington by train for New York. They departed at 1:05 p. m. in a special car attached to a Pennsylvania railroad train.

Rainy weather prevented the fliers from returning to New York by airplane as they had hoped to do. They begin out until the last in a determination to fly, but shortly afterward they conceded this would be impracticable and so they decided to go as they came last night.

Washington, April 28.—(AP)—Floyd Bennett, who died trying to intercept the brave of his own adventures, calling genius in the pursuit of the honors of Arlington national cemetery today.

Three daring European aviators whose behalf the United States naval aviator sacrificed his life, stood ready to do their utmost, the honors defined them. It is understood only because the elements which they ignored in successful spanning the Atlantic in westward flight, had balked their efforts to complete by air, the much shorter trip from Canada for the services.

They reached here from New York, where their flight was interrupted, last night and today planned to lay wreaths on the Bennett grave and return immediately to that city.

During one of the worst April rain and wind storms ever to descend upon the national capital, Bennett, the sailor-aviator, was laid to rest just before dusk yesterday on a steep hillside across the Potomac that faces the pole he was first to conquer by airplane, with Commander Byrd.

As the nation mourned and high government officials and officers of the army and navy stood by with the widow in a cold drenching rain, the body of the 38-year-old aviator and mechanic was lowered in a grave close to that of Admiral Perry, first man ever to attain the Arctic summit.

Full military honors were accorded the aviator, who, though humble in rank, stood high in the hearts of his countrymen and fellow fliers as a man of dauntless spirit, and untiring energy in the pursuit of aviation knowledge.

Three crackling volleys from naval rifles and a muffled "taps" from a sailor's bugle were his requiem. A battalion of blue-jackets, comrades of his last resort.

The simple rites at the grave were pronounced by the Rev. E. L. Smith of Norfolk, pastor of the church of which Bennett was a member. Senior Chaplain Dickens of the navy, assisted.

Behind the clergyman, in a space that sheltered only partially a little group of mourners, stood Mrs. Bennett, leaning heavily on the arm of a naval officer. Close by was a man bidding a last farewell to a comrade in whose hands he had placed his life in the dash for the pole and who was prepared to renew this faith at the earth's southernmost extremity had Bennett lived. He was Commander Byrd, who rushed to Bennett's bedside in Canada, when he was stricken with pneumonia.

As the last prayers were said, a commandant brought the rifles to "present arms" on the slope nearby, and a moment later, as the rattle of breech blocks broke the stillness, three volleys rang out their final salute.

Then the slow notes of a bugle pierced the mist with the familiar soldier and sailor lullaby. As the last of the rain-soaked hundreds wended away to waiting cars, the widow walked slowly to the grave and laid on it her own tributes of flowers.

OVERBROOK FIRE OUT

Crew Returned to Burned Vessel After Rescue by Another Ship.

Charleston, April 28.—(AP)—The fire on board the tanker Overbrook which was abandoned by its crew last Thursday, is believed to have burned itself out, it was announced at the navy yard here today. The crew, which was brought here last night by the coast guard destroyer Wilkes, will be returned to the ship today.

The Overbrook, attended by the coast guard destroyer Tampa, is reported today to be at latitude 31.35 north, longitude 78.27 west. This would be about 180 miles off Charleston.

Advices to the navy yard from Tampa said that the line, which the tanker made fast to the ship yesterday had broken early today but that an effort was being made to pass another line to the vessel.

Capt. J. S. Huling of the Overbrook said today that the fire was discovered at 3:50 o'clock Thursday morning.

"The first warning we had of a fire on board," said the captain, "was when an explosion occurred. A few minutes later there was another explosion."

"When the first blast occurred all hands were summoned and the fire fighting apparatus turned on. The Overbrook is equipped with smoothing apparatus but this, while working properly, could not quench the flames. There was no disorder on board and abandonment of the ship was accomplished without loss of life or injury to any man."

Capt. Huling said that he ordered abandonment of the ship after the second explosion, fearing the fire would reach the 70,000 barrels of crude oil on board ship and cause it to explode.

The tanker Fred S. Weller was just over the horizon and noting the glare from the burning ship came to the rescue and picked up the crew. The coast guard destroyer Wilkes, about this time, radioed that she had picked up the Overbrook's call for help and was coming. The Tampa also responded.

The Wilkes arrived several hours later and took the crew off the Fred S. Weller, while the Tampa passed a line to the burning ship and started towing her here. The Wilkes brought the crew into port and at 2 o'clock this afternoon got to sail to return them to the Overbrook.

LOCAL BALL CELEBRATION ON MONDAY

The celebration in connection with the opening of the Eastern Carolina League in this city, which was prevented yesterday by rain, will not be held until Monday, when Goldsboro comes here for a two-game series. It was announced by the president of the local club last afternoon.

However, in the face of a chill northeast wind and overcast skies, the first game was scheduled for this afternoon with Fayetteville. Closing of stores, parade of the ball team with the high school band, and catching of the first ball by Rev. Billy Sunday, famous evangelist now conducting an evangelistic campaign in Greenville, will come off Monday just like members of the club intend it should yesterday.

While a good crowd was expected to be present at the game with Fayetteville today, the contest was expected to be devoid of the usual enthusiasm because of the unseasonable weather and soggy grounds. The Fayetteville club arrived in Greenville yesterday afternoon in time for the game and spent the night here awaiting today's engagement.

More than general interest was manifested in the opening planned for yesterday and despite the delay occasioned by the elements, it is expected that the enthusiasm will be in evidence when the exercises get under way Monday afternoon. Billy Sunday had planned to wear his $100 straw hat as a part of the opening program today, but this feature quite likely will go along with the rest of the exercises Monday.

The Greenville club was in fine fettle for today's conflict, and while they will play under extreme difficulty on account of the unfavorable weather, the fight promises to be one of the best of the season.

Members of the club said today they were hopeful large crowds would turn out to see the game on Monday and that every seat in the grandstand and bleachers would be taken.

Double Headers In Sally Today

Atlanta, Ga., April 28.—(By the Associated Press).—Ball players in the South Atlantic Association paraded in light lunches today in somewhat defensive preparation for the regular Saturday afternoon double headers.

Yesterday's game were all rained out, giving the teams a day's rest to put them on edge for this afternoon's activities.

The league leading Asheville tourists are performing on home soil with Knoxville's Smokies furnishing the opposition. Real battles are expected here, the Smokies endeavoring to come through with their second victory of the season and the tourists determined to widen the narrow breach between themselves and the bothersome Macon Peaches.

At the same time Macon is entertaining the baseball representatives of Columbia in an effort to enlarge their percentage.

Spartanburg is at Greenville and Charlotte in the domicile of the Augusta Tigers.

TEN-SECOND MOVIE OF FAMOUS GEORGIA PEACH

In spite of rumors that the senile decrepitude of advancing age is slowing him down, Ty Cobb covers acres in the outfield and socks them out as of old. The yearly crop of "Second Ty Cobbs" is larger than ever this year, but Ty is still the one and only, Georgia Peach.

NEW LEADERS HEAD MAJORS

A combination of adverse weather and fortuitous hitting resulted in new leaders being at the top of both major leagues today.

The weather was adverse in so far as it concerned New York's Giants and Yanks both of whom were forced to remain idle yesterday and see themselves shunted into second place in their respective league standings.

The opportune hitting was done by Brooklyn and Cleveland and enabled the Robins to oust the Giants from the National League crest while the Indians were doing the same thing to Babe Ruth and company in the American League.

George Uhle registered his fourth straight win of the season as the Indians routed Detroit at Cleveland 10 to 6. The Tigers hit Uhle hard in the first inning, scoring five runs, but the Indians came back with seven in the second and third.

At St. Louis the Browns frolicked to 14-5 verdict over the Chicago White Sox.

The Chicago Cubs fell victim on their home lot to Jess Haines and the St. Louis Cards, 4 to 2. Haines allowed nine hits but kept them scattered.

Rain caused postponement of the National League games between Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and New York as well as the Washington-Philadelphia game in the American. The Yanks and Boston Red Sox decided it was too cold to play in New York.

Goldsboro To Play in City On Next Week

By the Associated Press. Yesterday's battles in the eastern Carolina League, all rained out, were to be played today weather permitting with Kinston at Wilmington, Rocky Mount at Goldsboro and Fayetteville at Greenville.

Fayetteville and Rocky Mount, in games played so far this week, lead off with a perfect 1,000 count and two victories each. Kinston and Goldsboro each have won and lost one while Wilmington trails with two losses.

Today's line-up shows Billy Sunday, evangelist and one time Major League pitcher, tossing out the first ball at Greenville, while in the other cities prominent local officials were vying to perform this ceremonial duty programs.

Monday the new league swings into the first full week of play with the opening series showing Kinston at Fayetteville, Rocky Mount at Wilmington and Goldsboro at Greenville.

Rookies Hit Hard

PAUL EASTERLING

FRANK O'DOUL

Hitting big league pitching has proved easy so far for these former bush league sluggers—Paul Easterling of the Detroit Tigers and Frank ("Lefty") O'Doul of the New York Giants. Before the season was two weeks old they had made three home runs apiece and Easterling was leading his league in batting.

Easterling went up to the Tigers this year from Bloomington of the Three I League, where he batted .342 and made 14 homers last season. O'Doul in 1927 made 23 homers and hit .378 for the San Francisco Seals, from whom he was drafted by the Giants. Both are outfielders. Easterling signaled his big league arrival by making three home runs in three successive games, while O'Doul made two of his in one game.

HAROLD KEITH SENSATION OF CINDER PATHS

By ALAN J. GOULD, Associated Press Sports Editor.

Philadelphia, April 28.—(AP)—For the second time within a few days athletic courage, ingenuity and perhaps fate have combined to produce an outstanding American Olympic prospect.

Early a week ago it was Jole Day, the old miler, suddenly blossoming forth at Boston as a marath runner of the first class under difficulties and now picked by veterans coaches as a likely winner of the Olympic laurel wreath.

Today the sensation is blond and youthful Harold Keith, sturdy University of Oklahoma foot racer, who ran the first steeplechase of his life on the opening day of the Pennsylvania relay carnival on a few minutes notice and won it—all because of a mistake.

A little matter of five minutes lost time converted Keith from the anchor runner on a meek relay team to a steeplechase victor in a spectacular performance.

Keith and his teammates came 1,500 miles to take part in the distance medley relay against the pick of the east and middle western colleges. It was a cold, rainy day and the Oklahomans hugged the warmth of the clubhouse. A mistake on the scoreboard misled them as to the time of their race. They came out to find that the distance medley already had been under way five minutes.

There was an athletic tragedy for these schoolboys. They appealed to the meet officials, who sympathetically offered to let the Oklahomans run an extra heat by themselves to get their performance record. But this did not satisfy their competitive spirit.

They looked at the steeplechase course, with its flock of obstacles to hurdle, including a big water jump. No pink tea party there but they were game. Keith and two of his teammates, Carson and Heald, asked permission to enter this gruelling race and received it. The fourth, Taylor, only a quarter miler, decided the distance of early two miles was too much for him.

"I've never tried this before, what do you suggest?" Keith asked one of the referees.

"Stay up with the leaders; let some other fellows set the pace and then if you have enough stuff beat them on the last lap, the referee advised.

Keith followed instructions to the letter. He let Mel Dalton, little Seton Hall star, stay out in front most of the route over slippery turf, hurdles and that cold shower bath. They called a water jump, then galloped out in front on the final lap to win by fifty yards. Carson finished fourth and Heald fifth.

The first half of the Decathlon yesterday, furnishing the first official olympic test of all-round skill, ended with Tony Pankov, ex-Georgetown half back, in front of 17 rivals with 3,778.7105 points.

In the principal college relay races yesterday Penn state tied Pennsylvania for the quarter mile and won the distance medley while New York University's crack quartet, anchored by Phil Edwards, romped off with the sprint medley crown and middle states one-mile championship.

KEARNS APPEALS TO THE SUPREME COURT

New York, April 28.—(AP)—Beaten by Jack Dempsey in a federal court engagement, Jack Kearns, one time manager of the "Manassa Mauler" is attempting a comeback in the state supreme court.

Basing his action on rulings obtained in his unsuccessful legal battles against Dempsey in United States district court this week Kearns has filed suit for $500,000.

In his first action, dismissed last Wednesday, Kearns sought to collect $701,063 from Dempsey as a share of earnings from August, 1923, and July, 1925. The court jury ruled a contract had existed during that time but Kearns' claims were dismissed when it was ruled that a settlement had been made after the latter date.

Double Headers On in Piedmont

By the Associated Press. Piedmont League teams had on their card in close of the first week's play doubleheaders today. High Point at Raleigh, Durham at Greensboro, Winston-Salem at Salisbury.

Yesterday's postponed games will be played off late in May. The doubleheaders are regular Saturday drawing cards.

Counting play up to today, Salisbury, last year's pennant winners, had a perfect percentage with two wins in as many games, while Raleigh, Durham, Winston-Salem and Greensboro each had won one and lost one for a .500 count and High Point defeated twice in two starts retained its three goose eggs in the percentage column.

By offering a car so advanced in design, so modernly equipped and so completely appointed, Oldsmobile has opened the fine-car field to thousands once barred by price.

Not only are there provided the basic elements of fine car performance, beauty and construction—but in addition are included numerous items ordinarily listed as extras.

In addition to the added values they represent, these features lend new delight to the power, speed and smoothness of the new Oldsmobile 55 h. p. high compression engine.

They emphasize the impressiveness of Oldsmobile beauty, which expresses the whole new spirit of our times.

Beyond all doubt, they stamp the new Oldsmobile as a unique achievement in fine-car building—a car you will want to drive—and want after you drive it.

Baseball.

Our baseball date was Friday. But it rained so awfully hard. It was impossible for the boys to play.

So our pleasure greatly was marred.

But today if God's sunshine Sends forth its shining rays, All of us fans will be there To cheer them on their way.

Be sure that your smiling presence Will do great wonders for them. Like us they need pushing To keep them full of vim.

If Cherry does the pitching The victory will be ours. Don't prophesy a failure And look like milk that sours.

If "Deacon" Joliff could have his way They would win every game. But that must not be possible We would gain too much fame.

Just let one do his darndest To win every game he can. And when the ball quits rolling You'll know you've been a man.

So when time comes to boost them Just pas the boys on their back And if dimes and dollars are needed Just past the boys on their back.

Don't expect every game to be won Matters not how hard our boys work, We must fail sometimes for the others to win.

To keep their boys on the alert.

LOTS OF VARIETY IN ROLES PLAYED BY BILLIE DOVE

Beautiful Star Seen as Showgirl in Latest First National Film, "Heart of Follies Girl."

Billie Dove's beauty has graced the screen recently in the roles of a Creole damsel, a Hungarian noblewoman, a cafe cashier and an American society girl.

She has never been so appealing in all her career, however, as in her latest starring picture for First National, "The Heart of a Follies Girl," Monday and Tuesday at the White Theater.

While the story is one of drama and romance dealing with a Follies girl away from her theatrical environment, many scenes of the famous girl-show, front and back stage, figure in "The Heart of a Follies Girl." The plot is based on Adela Rogers St. Johns' magazine story of the same title.

Larry Kent plays opposite Miss Dove in a new sort of hero role, and Lowell Sherman presents as novel a characterization of what is popularly called the villain. Mildred Harris and Clarissa Selwynne figure prominently in the supporting cast.

County Officials Indicted in Surry

Winston-Salem, April 28.—(AP)—W. L. Kirkman, county road supervisor, and Commissioners J. S. Patterson, D. E. Nelson and J. C. Lovell, were indicted by the Surry county grand jury here this week on charges of violating various laws, it became known here today, says a special dispatch from Dobson.

Supervisor Kirkman is accused of embezzling $5,000 of funds and road machinery, padding highway payroll, and using the county property for his personal gain. The three commissioners are accused of trading with themselves.

The cases are expected to be tried at the fall term of criminal court.

GENERAL ELECTRIC Refrigerator

This simplified General Electric Refrigerator works automatically, economically. It needs no attention—not even oiling. Inside the hermetically sealed casing there is a permanent supply of oil.

The all-in-one icing unit is merely lowered into the top of the specially designed cabinet. There is no assembling, no plumbing to be done. There are no pipes, drains, fans or belts. The unit is intact. It just has to be plugged into any electric outlet. Instantly it starts. It's as simple as that.

And quietly, economically, it gives you scientific refrigeration. Cuts down your marketing problems, your cooking tasks.

You should know all about these remarkable refrigerators. Come in and study them. Compare them with others. And send for an interesting booklet. If you wish it, time payments can be arranged.

COTTON MARKET.

New York, April 28.—(AP)—Some-what reactionary tendency was noted in the cotton market today after recent advances but there was still considerable nervousness over weather conditions and early declines of 10 to 15 points were followed by rallies.

May sold up to 21.15 to 21.34 and October from 20.76 to 21.00, or about four to thirteen points net higher during the forenoon on unfavorable eastern belt weather details, but later eased again under renewed realizing.

The market closed steady at net declines of one to seven points.

Futures closed steady, one to seven points lower; spot steady, middling 21.75.

GRAIN

Chicago, April 28.—(AP)—Bust forms sweeping over drought regions of Nebraska and Kansas today and prospects of continued dearth of rain sent wheat soaring to above previous top records for the season.

Buying was on a large scale and was further stimulated as a result of crop damage reports from Australia, Hungary and Czecho-Slovakia. Big profit taking sales were readily absorbed and wheat market closed at the day's highest level.

Final quotations on wheat were buoyant, 30c to 37 1/2 net higher with corn unchanged to 5-8c down, oats varying from 1-2c decline to an equal advance and provisions unchanged to a set back of 10c.

Paris.—(AP)—American automobiles will soon be the only ones in France with left hand drive. The two principal makers of popular cars have adopted the right hand drive to increase safety.

STOCK MARKET.
New York, April 28.—(AP)—Heavy buying of the oil shares under the leadership of Standard Oil Co. New York, which advanced three points to 38, a new high for the year, featured the sharp upturn in prices in today's stock market. Public utility and mining shares also gave impressive demonstrations of group strength. Extreme gains in the active issues ranged from 1 to 10 points, with trading again in very heavy volume.

Buying operations of powerful speculative pools furnished the chief impetus for the advance. Oils were accumulated on reports of trade improvement and stiffening gasoline prices. Enormous blocks of Standard Oil of New York and Louisiana Oil changed hands.

Buying of the rails was rather selective in character with Jersey Central, Delaware and Hudson, Texas and Pacific and Chicago Northwestern up 2 to 4 points, in the vanguard of the advance.

Sharp gains also were recorded by such issues as McCray's Stores, B. DuPont, Adams Express, Falmes Mines, Consolidated Gas, Brooklyn Edison, Westinghouse Electric and Otis elevator.

The closing was strong. Total sales approximated 2,000,000 shares.

against nature enough fighting to do without killing each other.

The fliers of the Bremen are on their way from the north to New York, coming through the air in an airplane built by Henry Ford and hired by an organization of various newspapers.

The body of Floyd Bennett is on its way to burial in Arlington. No more honor, glory or excitement for him on this earth.

"Rebe" Meigs, formerly a giant football player at the University of Chicago, now publisher of the Chicago Herald and Examiner, calls attention to the fact that Ford's all metal tri-motor planes have flown millions of miles without loss of life.

The other day Meigs flew in one of the Ford planes, used by Standard Oil of Indiana, from Chicago to Detroit in three hours, spoke at an advertising luncheon, flew in another Ford plane from Detroit to Cleveland, that afternoon and took the 20th century to New York. In 24 hours he went from Chicago to New York stopping to speak in Detroit.

He might have reached New York at 10 p. m. of the day he left Chicago but no airplane was available. Mrs. Meigs flew with him.

Postmaster General New, wisely and because it was necessary, orders the Baldwin locomotive works to build 275 armored cabs for mail trucks to protect drivers from hold-up men and machine guns.

That sheds light on law and order in 1928. The general crime wave started and financed by the bootlegging industry, was not expected by those whose well meant efforts for prohibition established the bootleggers on a $500,000,000 a year basis.

This year leads all others in steel production, and this month surpasses any preceding April. Gigantic is the steel business, nobody knows how far it will go. If you have stock in a good steel company keep it. But don't gamble in steel, remember the late Judge Gary's statement to this writer "United States Steel can sell at a profit below the production cost of our competitors."

This country is gradually getting rid of its gigantic gold accumulations that worried our dear friends in Europe. They felt sure we had too much gold, and are helping us to get rid of it.

Last month France and Germany drew $57,007,146 gold from us, and Italy $6,000,000.

Nothing to worry about, for the President, advised by Mr. Mellon, will know how to keep all the gold we really need.

Notice of Sale.

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a deed of trust from H. H. Proctor and wife, Sallie Proctor, to me, which deed of trust is dated April 1, 1922, and of record in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, North Carolina, in Book K-15, Page 343, I will, on Monday, May 7, 1928, sell at public auction for cash at the court house door in Greenville, North Carolina, the lands described in said deed of trust, as follows, to-wit:

FIRST TRACT: Being tracts No. one (1) and two (2), three (3), situated near the Town of Grimesland, in Chicod Township, on plat of property formerly owned by Stanley Dixon and others and now known as "John Dixon Farm," as surveyed and platted by S. J. Respass, which said plat or map is recorded in Plat Book Two, Page 47 of Public Registry, Pitt County, reference to said map is hereby made for more perfect description. Tract one contains 10.74 acres; tract No. 2 contains 10.41 acres; tract No. 3 contains 10.66 acres, total 31.81 acres, it being the same land conveyed to H. H. Proctor by Joe (John) Dixon and wife, by deed recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County in Book H-13, Page 231.

SECOND TRACT: Beginning at a stump, Samuel Elks corner, and runs thence North 29 West 123 poles to a stake, Nancy Mills corner; thence North 10 West 59 poles with John Gaskins line to an iron stake; thence South 81 East with C. A. Elks line, 172 poles to a stake and pine; thence North 25 East with J. D. Hudson's line 163 poles to a pine; thence South 37 East to John C. Dixon's line 36 poles to a stake and gum; thence South 2 3-4 East with John C. Dixon's line 179 poles to a ditch in the Horse Branch; thence with said ditch down to Horse Branch to a maple and gums; thence South 20 West 20 poles with Grimes line; thence with the old chipped agreed line made by James Galloway and John S. Dixon South 86 West 73 poles; thence South 41-2 West 30 poles to a stake; thence South 10 West 42 poles to a stake; thence South 84 1-2 West with Claud Adams line 270 poles to the beginning, containing 222 acres more or less, and being the same land conveyed to H. H. Proctor by E. L. Clark and others, by deed recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, in Book B-10, Page 268.

THIRD TRACT: Beginning at a pine in J. J. Dixon's line (it being the terminus of the line of Clark's land running from the stump on the South side of the County Road, North 81 1-4 East 236 poles), and running South 18 East 391 poles; thence South 26 West to a stake on Grapevine or Creeping Branch, which is a Northern boundary of the Barrington land; thence with the Grapevine or Creeping Branch Eastwardly to a stake, Henry Carrow's corner on said branch; thence North 25 West 26 poles; thence North 5 1-2 West 39 poles; North 84 1-2 East 18 poles; thence North 61 East 20 poles; thence North 37 West 19 poles; thence North 47 West 19 poles; thence North 45 1-2 West 21 poles; thence North 52 1-2 West 43 poles; thence North 67 West 24 poles; thence North 86 1-2 West 55 poles; thence North 27 West 16 1-2 poles; thence North 22 1-2 West 13 poles; thence North 21 West 61 poles; thence North 22 West 12 poles, more or less. Known as the J. W. Dixon land which was conveyed by heirs-at-law of said J. W. Dixon to H. H. Proctor, which deeds are duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County. This description being taken from deed recorded in Book 1-10, Page 372, in said Register's office, reference to which is hereby made for more accurate description.

Sunday Emphases Moral and Duty To Young Folks

Jesus' blood did not save him from hell.

The text of his sermon follows: At the time of President McKinley's funeral in this country, for five minutes the wheels on every railroad and in every factory stood still; the student sat by his gold books, and the banker by his gold unaccounted, and the merchant by the commodity unswept or unmeasured; the farmer stopped his plowing in the field and for five minutes, with bowed and uncovered head, he attempted to pay a mark of respect to the man who had opened his veins and poured out his blood to make a better nation, happier homes, and more prosperous people.

And allowing that there were 75,000,000 people in the United States at that time, and that each contributed five minutes of our time, that would have made over seven years of service, we rendered to the memory of McKinley. I am glad we did it. I am glad that we can refer to the fact that we could step making gold for five minutes to pay a mark of respect to the memory of the great man.

I am glad and thankful that we have a Fourth of July, when once a year we unwork our enthusiasm and eat peanuts and drink lemonade, and shout like Comanche Indians, and let the world know that we have not forgotten what it cost to lay the foundations of this, the greatest nation God's eye ever has seen or that His hand ever made.

And I am glad that we have a Christmas, when we recall Him that was born in the midst of the malodors of unwashed beasts.

I am glad that we have an Easter when we recall Him that burst the bands of death that none ever broke before and rose in conquering majesty to stoop to death no more.

I am glad that we have a Labor day when we pay a just mark of tribute to the man with the dinner bucket and the calloused hands, who is such an important cog in the great commercial machinery of our prosperity.

I am glad that we have a Thanksgiving when once a year we sit around our sumptuously laden tables and recall the fact that as a nation we have never gone to bed hungry, we have never scraped the bottom of our meal barrel and we have never known what it was to be "out food" and that our granaries can feed the world. It is a great thing.

The Sailor's Story. I read of a sailor who was shipwrecked on an island where everything and everybody was big. Why the men and women were sixty feet high and he was the smallest thing they had ever seen, and he created a commotion and sensation by his contrast. A giant saw him. At the same time he saw the giant, and he started to run, but the giant took a couple of steps, caught him and shoved him into his pocket, took him home and dumped him in the lap of his little girl 9 years old and twenty-two feet high and he said to her: "Sit, here's a plaything I caught for you down on the seashore."

And to be made a cage for him and hung him on her bell like girls do chastalaine bags today, and whenever she went out she took it along as a plaything.

Later on I read where he was shipwrecked and he landed upon an island where everybody and everything was small. Men and women were about six inches high and children and nature in proportion to size, and he was the largest thing they had ever seen, and he created a commotion and sensation by his contrast, and they requested that when he wanted to take a stroll he notify the mayor that he might call out the police and a brass band to warn the people lest he might stop a labor parade or step on a funeral procession.

They asked him as he walked the streets not to swing his arms lest he might topple over a church steeple or knock down some of their skyscrapers.

When I imagine myself on the island where everything and everybody was little, Oh, how chasty I become. I swell up as big as I imagine Alexander the Great felt when his feet were on the earth and his hands could touch the sky. But when I imagine myself on the island where everything and everybody was large, how wizened and miserable and mediocre I become. So you are large or you are small, largely owing to where you are.

Squire Jones, in a little way, puts down because everything there next of magnitude the Squire and diminishes the Jones, but bring him to a big city and turn him loose on the main street and let him butt into the crowd and look at the skyscrapers, and you know what happens to the Squire. It is squeezed out of him and he is nothing, my friends, but one to a great big crowd. So you are big or little; (he is a big man back there but he is swallowed up by the great thing that we call the crowd) largely owing to where you are in the world.

"Like a grasshopper sat on a sunflower and said: 'I am the biggest thing that has ever happened. When I leap and strike the earth, she will tremble as with an earthquake.' So he jumped up and struck the earth and landed right in front of a fat young turkey gobbler. Presently up came an old hen, just crawled from a setting nest, with her feathers starting on end, and she said: 'Did you see a big fat, juicy grasshopper pass this way?'"

"And as the turkey gobbler gulped, he said: 'He didn't pass, he stopped.'"

"And so the grasshopper tried to adjust himself to a comfortable position in the craw of the turkey, he thought: 'How big I was on the sunflower; how wizened and useless I am in here!'"

"So you are big or little, largely owing to where you are in this old world."

And yet, how many little people we have in this land, although they have the greatest opportunities to develop and grow the world has ever known! You are the one that puts the limitations on your success. We put no social, we put no financial, we place no educational limitations upon you. You can go so far as your ability and your decency will take you. And if you are handicapped, we didn't put it on; you put it on yourself because of the gang you go with and the life you live. You are the one that puts yourself out of the running—not we at all. Now I say, the man who is sober is bigger than the one who drinks, and drunkards are made from moderate drinkers; drunkards are never made of total abstainers—never! One may drink and never get drunk but it's only those who drink that get drunk—that's sure! So you will never get drunk if you don't drink! That's a four-to-one shot, and a lead pipe cinch.

Drinkers Make Drunkards. "You take all of the drunkards out of the world tonight and leave out the moderate drinkers, and you won't have to wait long until you'll have another crop of drunkards. Not very long! You can't beat the game!"

There have been many people who tried to drink the breweries dry. They have all had to go up against it and take the consequences, and since running the risk of being a moderate drinker is so great, I commend you to the caution of a French minister, who was officiating at a wedding of two young people. He said marriage is a blessing to a great many people and a curse to others, and a risk to everybody who will take the venture. Now do you wish to take the steps?

"Do you suppose that Edgar Allan Poe dreamt when he took that first drink of liquor in the home of that Virginia gentleman, that the time would ever come when it would bring that wild, heart-broken wail from his lips, 'Take you from off my door; take you from off my heart. Quoth the Raven, Nevermore! Did he dream it? No!'"

And do you suppose that Tom Marshall, that brilliant, gifted Kentucky orator, dreamt when he stood at the foot of the ladder of fame and all Kentucky pointed to the golden summit at the top, that his last words would be: 'And is this the end? Tom Marshall dying? Dying in a borrowed bed, dying under a borrowed sheet, without a decent out of clothes to bury him in?'"

The Visit With Gen. Bain. I preached in Lexington, Ky., not long ago. I was entertained in the home of my friend, Gen. George W. Bain, the silver-tongued orator of Kentucky. Pointing across the street, he said to me, 'Bill, the last time I saw Tom Marshall he was standing on that street corner across there; his hair hung in a tangled mass about his shoulders; his eagle eyes were dimmed from the debauchery and this thin, worn coat was buttoned over his soiled linen. He made his way into a nearby barroom, traces of his greatness still lingering upon him, and the hangers-on shouted and cheered and laughed at his witticisms and at his idiosyncrasies and his stories. Then they cried, 'Give us another one, Tom. That's a good one! When presently a sense of his better self seemed to dominate him and he whirled upon that gang of barroom loafers and he said, 'You remind me of basium obsequens picking the sore head of an eagle after his wings have been broken.'"

Young men, he stood right where you stand now, with just as bright prospects before him as ever dawned on your path. He stood in front of a blacksmith shop in Louisville, Ky., one day and watched a blacksmith welding a piece of red hot iron, and as the tears trickled down his cheeks, he said: 'I would take that piece of iron and hold it in my right hand until it cooled off if I knew it would take away this appetite for drink.'"

Valorous Bremen Crew On United States Soil

Through ocean storms and bruises of a hazardous landing on tiny Greely Island, the crew of the German Junkers monoplane Bremen, has come at last to the United States, being the first three men ever to make a westward trans-Atlantic hop and the first Berlin-to-New York flight in history. This deed adds to the roster of aviation's daring sons with three new names—those of Captain Hermann Koehl, Baron Gunther von Huenefeld and Major James Fitzmaurice, Irish pilot of the Bremen. After a forced landing on Greely Island the trio waited patiently for repairs for their plane and finally because of softening ice, were forced to abandon the Bremen and complete their flight to New York in the Ford relief plane, piloted by Berni Balchen. Arriving in New York yesterday, the flier paused just long enough to be refueled and continued on to Washington to lay a wreath on the grave of Floyd Bennett, who gave his life in an effort to carry aid to them while they were marooned on Greely Island. New York's official welcome of the German-Irish trio will be staged Tuesday.

to be tried for murder committed while drunk. And in that same city at that same hour, in a police station a few blocks away, dead drunk was lying the grandson of the author of 'Give me liberty or give me death!'"

"Who was it? Who was it that Daniel Webster left the United States Senate and went over to the House of Representatives to listen to? S. S. Prentiss. Oh, he came from a gifted Southern family and they gave the nation the gifted son and they sent him to the halls of National Congress and drink wrought his ruin. Horace Greeley was his friend. Meeting him one day on Pennsylvania avenue in Washington, he said to him: 'Prentiss, why don't you give up what is ruining you?'"

"He said to him: 'Horace, ask me to take a jack-knife and cut off my arm. I can do that, but I can't stop drinking.'"

"A few days later the guests in the St. Charles Hotel were startled by the report of a revolver, and S. S. Prentiss had plied his brain with a bullet."

Don't Let the Devil Fool You. "So don't let the devil fool you because you will lose out in the world! Never! and you bring me all the drunkards with their appetites—they would be fathers and husbands and sons and noble citizens, they'd be an asset instead of a liability to the universe in which they live."

"I want to say something that will help every one of you, old or young, to put your life in Italy so that when you leave the world you will leave something besides an epitaph on a tombstone or an obituary in the newspapers. This unrest is in yourself this hope in us for better things that is clamoring to grow and develop—that's why the emigrant leaves his friends, and goes West. He is tired of being a molehill here; he wants to be a mountain out yonder. That's why the emigrant leaves the fatherland, crosses 3,000 miles of sea, he is tired of being a nonentity, he wants to be a factor in the world, and that's why, my friends, so many of your fathers and grandfathers there away across the sea came to America; that's why you stand when we sing, 'My Country 'Tis of Thee! and cheer. This is your land; this is your home now. This is what makes the difference between an acorn and a stone, between a man and a monkey; it is the quality in you that will develop and grow."

tempted until I am as big as the biggest spike in that barrel!"

Go With Bigger People. "I will tell you what to do, go with people bigger than you are, bigger in mind, bigger in ambition, bigger in morals. Go to college. Read good books. Go to school. Get an introduction of yourself to yourself. In God's name, young people, don't go with anybody that will assassinate, murder and electrocute every good, high, noble thought that ever struggled for birth to get you to be decent. Don't you go with a dirty, stinking bunch like that!"

"You go home, my boy, and count up the names in history of men who crept and crawled out of the cover of splendor, want, poverty, obscurity, hard knocks, and left their names to scintillate upon the pages of history until they dazzle us today! Obscurity didn't keep Ben Franklin walking the streets of Philadelphia moving a loaf of new bread! Obscurity didn't keep Tom Edison a train butcher on the Grand Trunk railroad from Chicago to Detroit! Obscurity didn't keep David Herdard sheep all his days! No! And so your obscurity of today may become famous tomorrow like the college of Robert Burns; like the jail of John Bunyan; like the dungeon of Paul; like the foxglove of Garfield; like the forward of Grant or the rail pile of Lincoln."

Emerson's Theories. Emerson said: Write a better book, preach a better sermon, deliver a better lecture, build a better house, make a better mouse trap than your neighbor, and although you live in the wilderness the world will beat path through the woods and rap on your door."

The angels said: Let us hide Abraham Lincoln where the world will never find him!"

They had that great his generous humanitarian, God-fearing, sympathetic soul in that long, lean, hawk-like, homely, earnest, unambiguously cadaverous body; they bronzed his cheeks, until he looked like an Indian; he hardened his hands with toil, for employment they gave him common work like poling in a flat-boat on the Ohio, and working in a country store. For a hour they gave him a log cabin in the wilderness, for parents, common people.

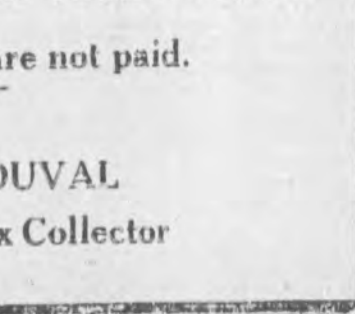

HYSTERICAL South Carolina Lady Then Tried Cardui and Says She Noticed Remarkable Improvement. Anderson, S. C.—I suffered a long long time before I tried Cardui, and my only regret is that I did not know about it sooner," says Mrs. Lillie Pruitt, 150 "K" Street, this city.

"I was badly run down in health. My nerves went to pieces, and I had to go to bed. I was not able to do my house work for many months. I got so bad off, I could not bear to leave an empty bed, and the floor of my room. The least little thing upset me. Sometimes I became hysterical. I had bad pains in my back and sides, and my head and limbs would take spells of aching, which almost set me wild."

"One day I was reading and I saw where a woman, who had a trouble like my own, had been relieved by Cardui. I decided at once to try it, so I began on a course of the 'Home Treatment.'"

"It began to help me from the very first. I took Cardui regularly, for several months, and my improvement was so remarkable, that my family and friends were delighted. 'Cardui has no equal, in my opinion,' I gladly recommend it to others."

whose names were unknown five miles away.

"But while clerking in the country store he was solving problems that were ever afterwards to help him to win. And while poling a flatboat he was solving problems from human experience which became golden rounds in the ladder of fame up which he clambered to the top; and while other young men that had a better chance than he were sleeping off a drunk in a feather bed, Abraham Lincoln spread the ashes thick upon the dirt floor of his little cabin home and with a hickory log for light and a hickory stick for a pencil, he solved problems from Euclid and read the life of George Washington and other great men."

"The battle grew hard. He used to bite his lips and fight away the tears and say: 'Till I guess I'll quit.' Then the angels would flap their wings; all Nature would cheer him and they'd seem to say: 'Abraham, don't give up! Don't give up!' and he'd buckle up his old worn gallouses and say: 'Well, I will be somebody, anyway.'"

"They never knew how it happened but they could not keep him bid any longer, and one morning this deep, dreamy, stony old world crawled out of bed, rubbed its eyes and started on a still hunt for a great man. It struck a new scent and a new trail and it led through the woods to a log cabin in the wilderness, on the hill among the trees, and the world walked up and tapped on the door Abraham Lincoln arose, so big, so high, so manly, so tall that the roof fell off and the logs rolled down. He stepped forth a giant among men, where he towered above all human competitors."

"We want you all to win."
