TOBACCO MART IS ALL SET FOR OPENING DAY

Countless Thousands Expected to Attend Opening Here September 4th.

Thousands of persons from many sections of the country are expected to be present at the opening of the Greenville tobacco mart September 4th, according to prominent tobaccoists.

Crowds have been large in past years, but they were nothing like the countless hundreds who are expected to throng every available nook and corner in tobacco town many hours before the doors are thrown open. Ample preparations have been made to care for these people. Tobacco town at this time is taking on new life, and within the next few days numbers of changes in a business way will be perfected to take care of the uncounted thousands to come here from day to day while the season is in progress.

There is something about the Greenville tobacco market this season that is proving a greater drawing card than ever before. What is it? Go down in tobacco town and look around and see for yourself the numerous changes that have taken place since last season. It seems as if some fairy has waived a magic wand over the district, causing mammoth buildings to spring out of the ground, to employ a figure of speech, literally transforming the section into a great expanse of business district.

The improvements include two new warehouses, re-drying plant, and enlargement of two warehouses that have increased their capacity to such extent the market will be able to handle nearly 1,750,000 pounds of tobacco daily without congestion. The warehouses have increased their facilities until they can easily keep pace with daily sales and then have something to spare if this should become necessary.

Many forces have contributed to the unparalleled development of the Greenville tobacco market. Chief among them is the strong personal interest manifested by the entire citizenship of the city. Never, probably, has a population residing in a strictly agricultural community, given more hearty cooperation to make this one of the greatest bright leaf sales events in the country. Everybody seems to have joined forces in behalf of the cause, and the future is bright for even greater expansion.

All of this has invited the confidence of the hundreds of growers who sell here during the course of the season, and when the auctioneer's voice begins its monotonous drone next month numbers of new faces will be seen here.

The tobacco this season will be fully harvested by the time of the opening date. Already a majority of the growers have stripped the fields and cured their crops. By the first of the month everybody will have their entire crop packed and stored away only awaiting the hour of time to move around to September 4th for their annual pilgrimage to one of the greatest bright leaf shrines in the world.

Greenville tobaccoists have set their goal at seventy million pounds this season. They placed it at sixty millions last season. There were numbers who prophesied failure, but the tobaccoists clung tenaciously to former opinion that they should be able to reach their goal—and then some. The final check-up of sales showed that they exceeded the goal over a million pounds.

If there are skeptics this year, we haven't heard of them. Preparations in tobacco town have been of such proportions they have staggered the imagination of those whose perspectives get cramped occasionally from lack of fair and impartial consideration of conditions as they exist. Seventy millions of pounds sounds like a whole lot of tobacco—and it is—but it is not near as much this year as sixty millions was last season. The improvements have made up for the difference. That's what veteran tobaccoists say, and who would be foolish enough to match their judgment against brains that have been trained and hardened by long contact with the greatest industry of the section.

The opening of the market was postponed a few days ago because of inability of the buyers to leave Georgia markets in time to reach here for first sales. It was for the best interest of the growers that the deferment was made, because without every interest represented, tobaccoists felt that they could not get desired results for the grower. The postponement is only for one week longer. It sounds like a long time to the farmer in a hurry.

BERT HASSELL STILL LOST IN ARCTIC WASTE

Fear Increases That the Rockford Flyers Were Forced Down In Sea and Lost.

Copenhagen, Denmark, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Eskimos, sweeping along the western coast of Greenland in Davis Strait in their kayaks, or hunting canoes, today were searching for Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, missing American fliers.

Parties of Arctic hunters were exploring the Florida between Cape Farewell and Holstenborg in the hope that the fliers may have come down somewhere in that vicinity. Holstenborg is near Mount Evans, goal of the armen on their hop from Cochrane, Ontario.

Acting on the request of the American legation to assist in the search for the Americans, the Greenland ships have been instructed to keep a sharp lookout for the airplane, Greater Rockford, and its crew of two.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The hours have lengthened into days without word from Bert Hassell and Parker Cramer, trail blazers of the arctic airways.

It was a certainty that their monoplane, the Greater Rockford, had been down since Sunday, for its fuel supply would long since have been exhausted. That it succeeded in reaching some lonely landing place on the Greenland coast was the buoying hope for those anxiously awaiting word; that it had dropped in the sea somewhere off Cape Chidley, Labrador, was the ever growing fear.

Donald MacMillan, the arctic explorer now at Nain, Labrador, wireless the Associated Press last night that if the plane is down in open water "there is no possibility of the fliers getting ashore."

"If they are in a land plane," MacMillan added, "it is all over." If Hassell is down on the coast in the vicinity of Cape Chidley, he may hear nothing of them for several weeks as fishermen's schooners are now leaving. Some bays are deep, and walking to safety is almost impossible for one not knowing the sites of the Eskimo encampments.

The MacMillan message was sent from the field radio station WNP of the Rawson-Field Museum Expedition and received by station 9AFA, operated by Ralph Brooks, amateur operator at Calumet Harbor, Ind.

MacMillan corroborated what had

Tobacco Cheap At Camilla, Ga.

"Tobacco is very cheap down here now and we are having large sales. I don't see any chance for them to get through next week, as the weather has held us back to such an extent that we are only half through in this section, and I don't think that they are much better off in the other parts of the states. The farmers are very much dissatisfied and from the looks of things now, this crop will be cut considerably next year. Our average yesterday (Wednesday) on 110,000 was only $9.85 with L. and M. and Export buying most of it. We had about 25,000 pounds of real common tobacco on the floor that brought from three to five cents, so you see that this is what brought our average down."

The above paragraph from a letter received by R. V. Keel, manager of Farmers Warehouse, from a friend on the Camilla, Ga., market.

PREVENT PLOT OF PRISONERS TO BREAK JAIL

Attempt of Twenty Negroes to Saw Way to Liberty Frustrated Last Night.

A plot to effect the wholesale delivery of twenty or more negro prisoners in the Pitt county jail was nipped in the bud last night when Sheriff's officers discovered the presence of three hacksaws, a crowbar and axe in the colored compartment. The discovery was made following a confidential report whispered to an officer by one of the prisoners whose loyalty prevented his joining the plotters.

The negroes had planned to make their escape through one of the large steel ventilator plates, and had been sawing away so enterprisingly that they would have liberated themselves in a comparatively short time.

The sound of the saw was not heard outside of the building because all of the negroes made it a point to sing at one time while the sawing was in progress. They sang probably as they never had sung before, and but for the single member betraying them, probably would have sung themselves right out of jail, it was believed today.

Officers were unable to say how the tools were gotten to the prisoners. The general supposition is that friends slipped them into the building at night, or in the yard, perhaps, where they were delivered during the absence of officers or guards.

This is the first time in several months that a wholesale delivery of prisoners has been attempted. Not many months ago, a prisoner with hack saw almost succeeded in sawing to freedom when officers frustrated the plot.

The only mysterious jail breaking in the history of the local institution, in memory of local officers, occurred several years ago when a man by the name of Kettles, from Farmville, charged with the killing his wife and baby, left the jail by the main door one night and was never heard of again. That he effected his escape with a key was not doubted, but where he got the key and under what condition is one of the big questions that has puzzled the citizenship.

An investigation ensued but until this day nothing of any definite nature has been obtained concerning the disappearance. He vanished as completely as if swallowed up by the earth and it is probable he will never be heard of. He was about forty years of age at the time. He gripped public attention through one of the most atrocious crimes in history and a subsequent attempt to take his own life while awaiting trial here.

BUTLER VIEW BRINGS MANY STATEMENTS

Discussion of Hoover Stand By Columbia Head Causes Conflicting Opinion.

New York, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler's rejection of the stand of Herbert Hoover on prohibition and naval defense has brought conflicting views from Republicans and Democrats on the effect it might have on Mr. Hoover's campaign.

Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, as he passed through the city enroute to Washington from a vacation trip abroad, said "I do not think Dr. Butler's statement will have any effect on the campaign."

Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, vice chairman of the Republican national committee, said: "I expect Dr. Butler to vote for Hoover. I, for one, do not interpret Dr. Butler's statement as a bolt from the Republican party of from the ticket in this campaign."

Senator Joe T. Robinson, Democratic candidate for the vice Presidency, however, saw Dr. Butler's statement as "calculated to have an important effect in many parts of the country."

Senator Millard E. Tydings, head of the Democratic senatorial committee and speakers bureau of the national committee, also believed that the statement would have a great effect on the campaign.

Smith Replies to Some Charges of His Critics; Thinks Public With Him

By D. HAROLD OLIVER (Associated Press Staff Writer)

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Democratic legions swarming into Albany from all sections of the nation to see their new leader, officially notified of his presidential nomination tomorrow night, today found Governor Smith calmly waiting his hour of triumph as well as the reaction to his sweeping counter thrust at critics of his long record in the New York Legislature.

Early tomorrow evening on the east steps of the capitol the nominee will deliver a speech formally launching his campaign for the presidency.

Clearing his desk for the momentary event, the governor made public a detailed reply to William Allen White's charges that he favored the saloon and was lenient towards gambling and prostitution in his votes on a long list of bills while an assemblyman—an answer which he said must be considered final.

Declaring his legislative record "as an opponent of immorality as fixed and secure," and that he was satisfied the people of New York State did not concur in the "slandrous attack," the nominee assailed the Republican national committee for "openly associating itself" with a matter he regarded as personal.

He aimed the rejoinder principally at the Kansas editor, but he intended it to apply to his other critics, including Dr. John Roach Straton, New York Baptist minister, who has charged the governor with being the greatest foe of the forces of moral progress in the country today.

After taxing up each bill covered by White, the nominee denounced the whole thing as "unfair," "unmanly and un-American," and added:

"I have the satisfaction, however, of knowing that it is not concurred in by the people of my own state who year after year expressed confidence in me, notwithstanding that a large part of this matter herein referred to was laid before them in the past by agents of my political enemies.

"I am sure that I am right," he continued, "when I say it is not concurred in by the fair-minded, intelligent, thinking people of the country."

He said he was "glad to have this matter out of the whispering stage and put in the open. He regarded it as "purely political," and said "when the campaign begins I do not propose to have the issue of that campaign befogged by controversy over irrelevant things, such as the discussion of my votes as a legislator some twenty or more years ago."

"No one in all of the 25 years of my public life has ever dared to make the vile suggestions which emanated from Mr. White, with the approval of Henry J. Allen, publicity director of the Republican national committee," the reply continued. Then, referring to White's cablegram from Europe denying he had "retracted" his charges as to gambling and commercialized vice, and which Governor Smith said was given to the newspapers by the committee as an "official release," it went on:

"What a cowardly course the Republican national committee pursued; it issued a slanderous statement through its official publicity bureau and then after its general publication in the press, attempted to evade responsibility by the child-

PLAN DRIVE INTO HEART SOLID SOUTH

Democratic Chieftains Launch Plans for Campaign of Senator Robinson.

New York, Aug. 21.—(AP)—A drive through the heart of the solid South virtually has been decided upon by Democratic chieftains as the first move in the campaign for Joe T. Robinson, the party's vice presidential nominee.

Definite decision in the matter probably will be reached during the day, although it is doubtful if any formal announcement will be forthcoming until after the notification ceremonies for Governor Smith tomorrow.

The plan is understood to have the full approval of the Arkansas Senator who, upon his arrival here yesterday from Little Rock, gave members of the Democratic National Committee an optimistic report on conditions in the Southern states.

The speaking itinerary at the present time calls for addresses in eight Southern States within the space of three weeks from the time of the formal notification of the Senator of his selection for the Vice Presidential position, which will take place at Hot Springs, Ark., Aug. 30.

Immediately after the notification the Senator will go to Lonoke, Ark., his birthplace, where a large celebration is being arranged by the friends of boyhood days. He then will proceed to Texas for speeches in Dallas and Cisco and from there is regarded as probable that Mr. Nessee, Georgia, Northern Florida, the Carolinas, Virginia and Kentucky.

From ten to fourteen speeches are contemplated during this tour, and while a score or more cities have extended invitations, it is known that many members of the Democratic Speakers Bureau here look with favor upon selecting State Capitals and the larger cities.

Memphis, Atlanta, Jacksonville, Charlotte and Raleigh are known to have been suggested as likely points after the Senator leaves Texas. These have not been definitely decided upon nor has any final agreement been reached as to points in Virginia and Kentucky. It is regarded as probable that M. Robinson will deliver addresses in Chattanooga and Nashville after his swing up the coast through Virginia and on his way to Kentucky.

SIMPSON MAN ARRESTED IN SLAVERY CASE

K. G. Johnson and Mrs. Hardee Held at Chattanooga, Awaiting Local Officers.

Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst has gone to Chattanooga, Tenn., to bring back to this city K. G. Johnson, 35-year-old Simpson merchant, wanted by authorities of that place on a charge of white slavery. The prisoner will be returned to Greenville immediately to face preliminary hearing.

Johnson, it is alleged, left Simpson about two weeks ago in company with Mrs. Hardee, young married woman of Simpson community, and nothing was heard from them until Saturday when local officers were advised by Chattanooga authorities that Johnson and Mrs. Hardee were being held there awaiting action of Pitt county officials. They are alleged to have been living in the Tennessee city as man and wife, according to the communication received from Chattanooga.

Immediately after the disappearance of Johnson and Mrs. Hardee local officials advertised in state papers and sent out cards to police authorities in various cities of the country. It was in response to this advertising campaign that Chattanooga police got in touch with Sheriff Whitehurst Saturday.

Johnson is the owner of a small store at Simpson. He is married with a family. Mrs. Hardee is about eighteen years of age and has been married only a short time.

Sheriff Whitehurst was accompanied to Chattanooga by Deputy L. B. Tucker who will assist in bringing the prisoners back to the station.

COL. HARVEY TO BE BURIED AT PEACHMAN

The Former Envoy to Court of St. James Died Yesterday In New Hampshire.

Dublin, N. H., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Col. George B. Harvey, ambassador, editor and maker of Presidents, is dead at his summer home in Shalcross, Pumpelly Hill.

Death came suddenly late yesterday afternoon. Colonel Harvey was in his 64th year.

Colonel Harvey's body will be taken from Dublin to Keene, N. H., Thursday morning and a special train will carry it to Peachman, Vermont.

The funeral services at Peachman will be private.

A month ago he came here to seek relief in the high altitudes from asthma which in recent years had afflicted him. He seemed on the road to recovery. A heart attack, however, brought death within a few seconds. Mrs. Harvey and his physician were the only ones at his bedside.

As editor of Harper's Weekly, Harvey fought for the nomination of Wilson for the presidency. Later the editor turned from his former friend to ally himself with the Senate irreconcilables in their fight against the League of Nations.

To his influence in breaking the deadlock at the Chicago convention the nomination of Harding was largely attributed. Harding appointed Harvey ambassador to the Court of St. James. There Harvey created several sensations. He appeared in ancient court dress discarded by American ambassadors for many years with a resultant flood of editorial jibes in this country.

At a Pilgrim's Day dinner he criticized the American response to allied troop appeals in the early days of the war. The speech was severely censured in this country.

Harvey was born in Peachman, Vt., and was educated at the Peachman Academy, Vermont and Nevada universities and Middleton and Erskine colleges.

He held his colonelcy by appointment to the staffs of the governors of New Jersey and South Carolina. In 1887 he married Alma A. Parker of Peachman, who with their only daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Thompson, wife of Col. M. H. Thompson (U. S. A.) survives him.

HOOVER STOPS OVER IN TOWN OF HIS BIRTH

Presidential Candidate Revisits the Old Home Place at Long Branch, Iowa.

By JAMES L. WEST, Associated Press Staff Writer.

West Branch, Iowa, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover is back today in this cross-roads village of his birth, cares of the Presidential campaign forgotten as he renews old friendships and revisits scenes of his childhood.

Arriving early in the day from his adopted home on the campus of Stanford University, California, the Republican candidate drove directly to the little frame house where he was born to have breakfast as the guest of Mrs. Jennie Scellars, and now owns the building.

With him were Mrs. Hoover and their two sons, Herbert, Jr., who came east for the occasion, and Alvin, who accompanied his parents from California. The only other guest was Mrs. Molly Brown Carran, who was the first school teacher of the commerce secretary.

Mrs. Scellars greeted her distinguished guests upon their arrival after a short automobile ride from the station.

Their special train from Kansas City arrived five minutes ahead of schedule.

Color ran high in the cheeks of the white-haired, motherly woman who owns the homestead which Jesse Hoover built for his family half a century ago, as she shook hands with Mr. and Mrs. Hoover and their sons and invited them into the living room where a table had been set with simple white china. The only decoration was a small bowl of marigolds.

The breakfast menu was typically Iowa, consisting of peaches and cream, honey, ham and eggs, fried potatoes, rolls and coffee. Mrs. Scellars had prepared the meal herself and in order that there might be no doubt of the genuineness of the potatoes she dug them herself from her own garden.

As the visitors ate in the rather small room, the crowd which had followed the automobile procession from the depot milled around outside, overrunning the lawn and practically destroying the beautiful flower beds.

Still others gathered around the front porch of the two-story addition, which Mrs. Scellars added years ago to the original building. This porch had been leased to a concessionaire who did a thriving business selling pictures of Hoover and the birthplace.

Before the call to breakfast, the Republican standard bearer visited the kitchen where he once helped his widowed mother with the chores and then stepped out onto the back porch which overlooks a small garden in the rear and near which is a cistern and pump furnishing the water supply in dry weather. Some distance away Hoover saw the well from which as a boy he drew water.

Hoover wore a double-breasted suit of his favorite color, navy blue. Mrs. Hoover had on a white dress with a black crepe-de-chine coat with a cape collar and a small black hat. Mrs. Carran, who rode with the Hoovers from the station, also was in the black with a black bonnet. Mrs. Scellars had on a black and white figured summer dress.

Senator Smith W. Brookhart called at the Scellars home to greet the candidate to whom he has pledged his support. A number of Iowa congressmen as well as party leaders also were on hand for the homecoming celebration.

From the birthplace the party motored to the cemetery on the hill where Mr. Hoover's father, Jess, and his mother, Hulda, are buried. When the caravan was a block away, all cars were halted save that in which the family rode. The party remained for a short time beside the graves.

Continuing on past his birthplace, the commerce secretary drove along the west branch of the Waspi-Noc creek enroute to the old swimming hole where he and his playmates delighted to paddle in mud and water, but he never reached this objective.

First a stop was made on the high grass-covered banks of the creek at a point which had been designated as the hole. Hoover got out of the car, but after looking the scene over he informed his guides that this was not the place. Then Newt Butler, who went to school with him, volunteered to lead him to the right spot.

The motors started out again, proceeding for some distance across a pasture until they came to a place where automobiles could not make headway. Members of the party again alighted and proceeded on foot.

"This is the place where we went in a thousand times," said Butler, indicating a patch of trees some distance away.

"Oh, that's the place is it?" Hoover inquired as he stopped. The (Continued on page three)

TELLS STORY OF BATTLE OF SHIP AT SEA

Mystic Liner Log Portrays Loss of Fourteen Lives in Heavy Sea.

Panama, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The story of a fierce battle with sea and wind in which 14 lives were lost is recounted in the log of the Mystic Line steamer W. S. McKenney which docked here last night long overdue from Seattle.

The log shows that on August 8 when the men perished, the ship near midnight, while fighting a strong gale, lost its steering control. The engines were cut down to half speed and a successful attempt was made to bring the steamer into windward.

A heavy sea struck the vessel shifting the forward deck load. The port rigging foremast was broken off, the mast crumpling over the starboard side of the ship, and 150,000,000 feet of lumber went overboard.

The engines then were stopped and all hands were called on deck to cover the hatch, the cover having been washed off by a tremendous wave that swirled over the ship tearing away everything on deck from stem to stern.

It was while the crew was attempting to cover the hatch that a wave washed fourteen sailors into the sea, none of whom was rescued.

The Nelson line steamer, American star, which arrived at Balboa last night, also was caught in the storm. Although it outdred the gale without casualties, it was badly battered.

The American star was overtaken by the gales when 120 miles from Cape Corrientes in the Gulf of California and apparently did not receive the full force of the storm.

Captain Batterson, of the American star, estimates that the wind velocity reached 120 to 150 miles an hour, lashing the water into such a fury that mountainous waves swept over the ship, water pouring down the smokestacks and drowning the fires.

SMITH REPLIES TO SOME CHARGES OF HIS CRITICS: THINKS PUBLIC WITH HIM

gambling and prostitution come out of the record. I hope now American newspapers, and particularly Republican newspapers, will give the same consideration to this statement that they gave my statement yesterday.

At the beginning of this statement, I said the reason for the attack was known only to Mr. White. However, the appearance of the Republican National Committee in the controversy indicates that it was a political attack probably inspired by that committee, because the Republican National Committee this week issued an official release to the newspapers in which Mr. White retracts his retraction. Here we have an unmistakable evidence of the Republican National Committee openly associating itself with this personal attack. Lacking the courage to stand by its own complicity in the attack, the Republican Director of Publicity the next day states that he withdraws his issuance of Mr. White's withdrawal of his withdrawal.

I am glad to have this matter taken out of the whispering stage and put into the open; once and for all I shall meet it now. I regard it as purely political and when the campaign begins, I do not propose to have the issues of that campaign befogged by controversy over irrelevant things, such as the discussion of my votes as a legislator some twenty or more years ago.

My record as an opponent of immorality is fixed and secure. Publicly and by many letters in my possession, the late Reverend Canon John P. Peters, when Chairman of the Committee of Fourteen, the leading anti-vice society of New York, repeatedly thanked me for my cooperation with that organization. No one in all of the twenty-five years of my public life has ever dared to make the vile suggestions which emanated from Mr. White, with the approval of Henry J. Allen, Publicity Director of the Republican National Committee. What a cowardly course the Republican National Committee pursued! It issued a slanderous statement through its official publicity bureau and then after its general publication in the press, attempted to evade responsibility by the childish claim that it had been given out by accident. That is not fair play.

I am confident in the belief that the people of the State of New York approved of my legislative record; otherwise, they would not have threatened elected me to the highest office within their gift—the Governorship of New York for four terms.

I cannot, however, let go unchallenged the political attempt to tear down my character and reputation by seeking to align me on the side of opposition to the regulation of the liquor traffic and in favor of gambling and prostitution.

My critics seem to take the position that every amendment to the former New York Excise Law which apparently made it stricter was a good bill. If they had studied the question they would have come to the same conclusion which the Committee of Fourteen expressed in its Annual Report for 1914, which says:

"Very frequently the most obvious correction is found to conflict with the purposes of those interested in the law in another way."

Each bill mentioned by my critics has been listed separately without allowance for the duplication of a large number of bills dealing with the same subject matter in accordance with the well-known legislative practice. In this way a deliberate attempt is being made to show that my votes dealt with a far greater number of so-called liquor bills than in fact they did.

For convenience, I have divided the bills under discussion into groups. Reference is made to a great many bills designed to change the law with respect to the establishment of premises licensed to sell liquor within 200 feet of a church or a school. To the casual reader, it would appear that this was a concerted and long drawn out effort to break down this salutary provision of our Excise Law. The fact is that all of these bills were designed to accomplish just two purposes. The first was to permit the Hotel Gotham at 55th Street and Fifth Avenue to secure a liquor license; the second, a legislative enactment recommended by the Court of Appeals to straighten out an apparent mistake in the language of the Excise Law.

As an example of the unfairness of Mr. White's attack, he stated that I voted to allow saloons within 200 feet of a church or school any place on Manhattan Island south of 59th street. One of the bills mentioned was so drawn, but if Mr. White was disposed to be fair to me, he would read the bill in its entirety and find that by its wording, it applied only to the Hotel Gotham. This hotel was within 200 feet of a church. Acting under a decision of the Courts, the hotel served liquor to its guests by the device of renting a house outside of the 200 foot limit, having a hotel employee purchase the liquor in this house and then carry it thru the street for service to the guests in the hotel itself.

Fair-minded men were confronted with a decision as between a license for the sale within the premises of the hotel and the spectacle of bellboys walking through the street with cocktail shakers and winebaskets in their hands. I chose to end the hypocrisy of such a procedure and in view of the high character of the hotel I was entirely satisfied that if liquor was to be consumed within the hotel, it might just as well be sold in it.

The Gotham Hotel Bills received the support of the leading members of the Assembly of both political parties from the cities and one of them was passed by a Republican Legislature.

Even more strikingly unfair is the comment on Bill Number 517 of 1911, which is the other bill in this group. The language of the law which existed before this time made it impossible for a hotel to renew its liquor license if a school or a church came within 200 feet of it years after the hotel had been built. The question was litigated as to the wording and intent of the statute all the way to the Court of Appeals. In its decision that Court said:

"That the operation of the statute in cases like the one now before us is manifestly harsh and would doubtless be a cogent argument to support the proposition that the Legislature could not have intended such effect, and might be construed as being in violation of the constitution at all ambiguous; but in view of the clear phraseology of the law the contention is inadmissible and the Courts must remit those aggrieved thereby to relief by legislative action."

That relief suggested by our highest Court I voted to give. The bills were opposed by only a handful of assemblymen. On the 1908 measure only 31 men out of the 123 voted in the negative.

Another group of bills related to the subject of liquor tax certificates. Bill Introductory Number 1518 of 1910 sought to give to the holder of a liquor tax certificate the same benefit that the Court of Appeals gave to violators of other laws when that Court in an opinion said that suspension of sentence suspended all operation of the law against the convicted person. I voted against this bill because I thought it was harsh, unjust and unreasonable.

Bill 1062 of 1911 was an unimportant one, reducing the time from two years to one year when an application to renew a certificate might be made by one who had been previously deprived of it through the misconduct of a servant or agent, and not of the owner himself. The fairness of this bill is best attested by the fact that only 44 men out of 150 of the Assembly voted against it.

Bill 1247 of 1911 was designed to cure a defect in the law with respect to the transfer of certificates. It was supported by the Republican leader of the Assembly and only 11 men out of 150 voted against it.

Even more striking is the criticism of me for voting for Assembly Bill 1119 of 1911 which was a technical amendment to the Excise Law with relation to the surrender and cancellation of tax certificates. It was a departmental measure requested by the Commissioner of Excise. Not a single member of the Assembly voted against it.

I am criticized for voting against a large number of local option bills: Introductory Number 625 of 1904, Introductory Number 141 of 1905, Introductory Number 466 of 1906 in two different forms. Introductory Number 134 of 1910, Introductory Number 1329 of 1911, Introductory Number 617 of 1911. In the same class are Bills Numbers 1123 of 1911, 722 of 1907, and 25 of 1906.

Most of these bills are duplicates of one another. The popular opinion on this date at this time on the subject can best be seen by looking at the vote on Bill Number 134 of 1910. In that year the Assembly was strongly Republican and yet only 52 men out of 150 voted for this bill, 84 men, Democrats and Republicans alike, voted against it.

There was a strong sentiment at that time against the extension of local prohibition by the local option method because of the inability of officials to enforce the law in the dry sections, the substitution of so-called clubs for places licensed by the State, and the loss by the State, and the loss by the State of the license fee and tax which came to it where sale was made in the normal legal way. Practically every assemblyman from the cities voted as I did on these measures, and in thus casting their votes they were undoubtedly representing the will of their constituents.

Assembly Bill Introductory Number 616 of 1913 permitted a private school, not a public school, to consent that a liquor tax certificate might issue for premises within 200 feet of it. I was speaker of the assembly that year and did not vote one way or the other on that bill.

Assembly Bill Introductory Number 436 of 1915 sought to prohibit the sale of liquor in a city adjacent to a college or university supported wholly or partly by the State. There were grave constitutional objections raised to the bill and drastic criticisms of the technical features of its provisions. In an overwhelmingly Republican Assembly only 47 out of 150 members voted for it.

Similarly, Assembly Bill Introductory Number 81 of 1915 was attacked on constitutional grounds. The Speaker of the Assembly that year was a well-known prohibitionist. Even he opposed the bill. In voting against the bill, I was in the company of the Republican Speaker, the Republican Chairman of the Committee on Rules and the Republican floor leader.

Assembly Bill Introductory Number 1049 of 1911 was a bill which added one hour in the morning to the time when liquor could be sold, and provided that the hours of sale in cities of the third class and villages of over five thousand inhabitants should be the same as in first class cities. The latter provisions were earnestly sought by the large villages on Long Island. Under the old law the closing hour for them was 11 o'clock. It was not being observed and its existence was a source of corruption among local police officials in those villages. I remember the addition of an hour in the morning was intended for the accommodation of night workers. In my own district all the morning newspapers were printed. It probably contained more night workers than any other region of similar size in the country, and in voting for the bill I was certainly representing my constituents. It is worthy of note that on this bill the division was between the city and the country representatives, but the representatives of the villages in the vote voted in the affirmative and with a balance of power passed the bill. The foregoing record indicates that not only cities of the first, second and third class but also the larger villages favored the passage of this bill.

Mr. William Allen White sailed for Europe with a happy and contented mind. I hope, and I would not disturb it by attempting to describe to him the heavy weight that he laid upon my family when he accused me of being a friend of prostitution. Apparently, he was ashamed of it himself as is evinced by his attempt to withdraw it. It was all predicated on my vote against Assembly Bill 2627 of 1920. Among other things this bill sought to regulate the renting of rooms in hotels. Like a great many other measures intended to bring about some highly desirable purpose, it was unquestionably unconstitutional and unworkable. In 1910 the Assembly was strongly Republican. When the bill first came before that body it was overwhelmingly defeated, and in all of my legislative experience I never heard from lawyers in the Assembly a more convincing argument against the constitutionality of a pending enactment than that made against this particular bill. Three weeks later, after considerable pressure from certain sections of the State and admittedly for political purposes, the vote was reconsidered and the bill was passed. It was freely admitted that it created no new provision of law and added nothing that was not already in the Penal Code. I was right in my first vote when an overwhelming majority of the Assembly, both Democrats and Republicans, voted with me. I stood by my position as no argument was made to change my mind. The political expediency of the Republican party, appealing to certain sections of the State, was not sufficient for me to compromise with a principle. On this bill and this single bill alone, William Allen White, would have my wife, my children and my friends believe that in my long public career I was a friend of public prostitution.

Mr. White also made reference to bills dealing with betting. All of these bills had to do with the race tracks. I was in sympathy with Governor Hughes at the regular session of the Legislature and voted with him against the race tracks. In the extraordinary session, I voted the other way, not that my vote made any difference, but I joined with a substantial number of members of the Assembly who used their vote as a protest against what they believed to be the unjustified action of the Governor in calling the Legislature back into extraordinary session after the matter had been fully thrashed out and disposed of at the regular session.

One other bill referred to by Mr. White sought to prevent oral betting at the race tracks. How impossible such a statute was of administration I need not say. It requires but a small amount of common sense and judgment on the part of any intelligent person to know that that was nothing more or less than lumbering up the State's statute books with a gesture that never could have any real force or effect.

I have given to this matter a great deal of my time and I have answered subject by subject and bill by bill. In my speech of acceptance I will define in no uncertain language my attitude to the public saloon, and I lay before the people of this country for a close study, the record of my twenty-five years in elective public office. I denounce as unfair, unmanly and un-American this slanderous attack upon me and my record. I have the satisfaction, however, of knowing that it is not concurred in by the people of my own State who have year after year expressed their confidence in me, notwithstanding that a large part of this matter herein referred to was laid before them in the past by agents of my political enemies. I am sure that I am right when I say it is not concurred in by the fairminded, intelligent, thinking people of the country.

I have been called by my party to the leadership in a great campaign. I am hoping to be put in a position to do for the people of this country what I have accomplished for the betterment of the government of my own State, and from now on I shall refuse to be drawn into any further discussion of these matters.

IMPORTANT MEETING OF WINTERTVILLE P. T. A. There will be a special business meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association next Thursday evening, August 23, at 8 o'clock, in the Winterville school auditorium.

Celebrates Fourth Birthday. Yesterday afternoon, from four to six, little Miss Dorothy Daventport entertained about thirty of her little friends, at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. W. W. Moore, on Chestnut street, in honor of her fourth birthday.

Many games and contests were played, causing much merriment among the children. Favors consisted of parasols for the girls and balloons and whistles for the boys.

At six o'clock the little guests were invited into the dining room, which was appropriately decorated, the table being centered with a birthday cake with four candles. An ice course was served.

At a late hour the little guests departed, wishing little Dorothy many more happy birthdays.

Celebrates Birthday. Bethel, Aug. 21.—Miss Rachel Manning celebrated her fourteenth birthday Tuesday evening, August 14. The living room was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and ivy, with a birthday cake in the center of the room.

Craven Farmers And Wives Visit Important Cities

A truck load of men and women—farmer leaders of Craven county—passed through Greenville this morning on a sight-seeing tour to Washington City, New York and other points of interest.

The party was in charge of Farm Agent Ferris, who stated that the object of the trip was to give the farmer and his wife a better opportunity of studying conditions prevailing in America.

The truck stopped at the court house for several minutes where Mr. Ferris conferred with members of the local department of agriculture and home demonstration department.

The sight-seeing tour is something new in the life of Eastern North Carolina farmers and farm women, but it is possible it will increase in favor.

The Craven party left New Bern this morning, stopping along the way to inspect anything of particular interest to any member of the group.

GIVE PICNIC AND SWIMMING PARTY

Saturday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Vincent entertained at an enjoyable picnic and swimming party at Riverside Park near Washington, in honor of their guests.

The guests were Misses Clyde and Rena Woodard of Kenly; Miss Viola Wilber of Battleboro; Miss Anne Bullard of Lumberton; Gilbert Boyette of Kenly and Edward Batten of Goldsboro.

Half Holidays For City Stores To End Tomorrow

Tomorrow will be the last time stores of the city will observe the half Wednesday holiday during the summer months, it was announced today by members of the Merchants Association.

With date of the opening of the tobacco market drawing nearer, employees of business houses are going to be mighty busy from now on and little time will be had for closings, only at regular afternoon intervals.

The half holidays have been a source of much gratification to hundreds of employees this summer. Numbers of employees expressed themselves as highly pleased with increased efficiency resulting from the holiday recreation, and believe they have been fully rewarded for the experiment started years ago.

Movie Cowboy Promises Real Fight In Court

Los Angeles, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Faced with two charges of battery as a result of his fight with Will Morrissey, film comedian, last Saturday night, Tom Mix, cowboy film star today promised Morrissey "a real fight when the matter comes up in court."

Warrants against the actor were preferred late yesterday by Miss Midgie Miller, Morrissey's wife, who claims she also was marked in the encounter, which occurred at a house warming at Playa Del Rey, attended by many film notables.

She wore a bandage over her left eye when she appeared at the prosecutor's office. Her husband, she said, was in bed recovering "from the bootleg Mix gave him." She said Morrissey suffered slight concussion of the brain.

Mix announced through his attorney that he would appear today for arraignment and to answer the charges.

"Morrissey will find us ready for a real fight in court," the attorney said. "We will be ready with both guns when the time comes so that the truth about the whole matter will be known ultimately."

Mix attributed the charges filed against him to a desire for publicity.

Miss Miller alleged Mix made an unprovoked kicking attack upon her husband after he had handed the screen star some "left-handed compliments." She alleged she was assaulted when she went to his aid.

Mrs. Chaplin To Seek Last Divorce Degree Tomorrow

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Charlie Chaplin will have the lead role in a court scene tomorrow that lacks all the elements of comedy, and which costs him $750,000.

At that time his wife, Ita Grey Chaplin, will seek the final decree in the interlocutory divorce granted here on August 22, 1927. With it goes a court award of $750,000.

Reports that Mrs. Chaplin would marry Roy D'Arcy, film actor, were current today.

"The day when the decrees become final will be just like any other day to me," Chaplin said. "As a matter of fact I hadn't even given it a thought."

Asked regarding her reported marriage, Mrs. Chaplin said: "It would be foolish for me to say we are going to be married, first because Mr. D'Arcy is not in a position to do so and second because one can never tell what will happen in the meantime. We are of course, very dear friends, and while we have discussed the subject on several occasions, we have never reached a definite decision and probably will not until he is in a position to talk marriage."

D'Arcy was granted an interlocutory divorce six months ago, but six months more must elapse before he can seek the final court decree.

ROTARY HEAD TO COME HERE NEXT MONDAY

George Butler, District Governor, To Make Visit of Inspection Locally.

George Butler, of Warsaw, governor of this district of Rotary, will visit the Greenville club next Monday, according to information given out last night at the regular weekly meeting of the local club.

HALLET WARD WILL SPEAK IN CITY MONDAY

Well Known Washington Attorney to Discuss Political Issues at Courthouse.

Hon. H. S. Ward, of Washington, will address the citizens of Greenville and Pitt county at the Pitt county court house next Monday during the noon recess of the criminal term of Pitt County Superior court.

Mr. Ward will confine himself exclusively to a discussion of political issues, presenting many of the most important things which Democrats are fighting for in the approaching campaign.

Mr. Ward is a member of the United States Congress from this district, and has followed political developments of the State and Nation with more than passing interest since his retirement from office.

This is the first political speech delivered in Greenville for the presidential campaign and may be counted as the first volley which Democrats are firing in behalf of their claims for White House supremacy.

DRY CLEANERS HOLD MEETING GOLDSBORO

The respective heads of the Cullins Brothers Cleaners and Dyers met in Goldsboro the latter part of last week to discuss the enlargement of their plants.

The plant in Winston-Salem, which is the largest plant in the chain of four plants, is owned and operated by the Cullins Brothers. Plans were made to install two new systems in this plant, which is known as the New Method and Dry Cleaning Company. This plant is one of Winston-Salem's largest laundries and dry cleaning plants and is located in the largest city in North Carolina.

Many other things of importance were discussed and Nathan Cullins, manager of the Greenville plant, stated that many major improvements and enlargements were to take place in each of the four plants soon.

The Cullins Brothers have been in the laundry and cleaning business since 1914, which gives them fourteen years of practical experience in the art of dry cleaning. They have ever since their first opening, specialized in fancy ladies' cleaning and all high grades of dry cleaning.

The plant in Goldsboro, known as the Wayne Laundry and Dry Cleaning Company, is managed by M. J. Cullins, who is widely known and respected in his community. The plant in Raleigh, known as the College Laundry and Dry Cleaning Company, is managed by J. B. Cullins, who is a master in the art of dry cleaning.

The Winston-Salem plant is managed by W. L. Cullins, who for many years has been in the business. The Greenville plant is operated by Nathan Cullins, well known and popular in this city and community, by his never-ceasing efforts in behalf of his customers to render first class dry cleaning at the lowest possible prices.

The four plants of the Cullins Brothers will total an investment of seventy-five thousand dollars. This is a close estimate and with many enlargements pending this amount will be greatly swelled.

The chain of plants operated by the Cullins Brothers ranks among the largest in the State, and thru unexcelled service and undying efforts to render satisfactory service, the plants have grown to their present immensity.

NEGRO MAN AND WIFE ARE HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

Willie Wooten, negro of the Falkland community, died last night of injuries sustained when shot by Frank Diggins, colored, last Saturday night.

Diggins and his wife are being held in jail here today awaiting preliminary hearing.

The shooting is said to have occurred while Diggins and his wife were engaged in an argument. The shot was really intended for the woman, but Wooten, standing nearby, got the full discharge of the shotgun, receiving injuries which doctors a short time later pronounced as fatal.

Diggins and his wife were arrested by deputies from the sheriff's department and brought to Greenville where they have been held ever since awaiting hearing.

THREE KILLED IN TRAIN WRECK

McCracken, Kansas, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Three trainmen were killed and four men injured dangerously when "the Westerner" Missouri Pacific passenger train en route from St. Louis to Denver ran head on into a loaded moving extra freight train 6 miles west of here late last night.

An undetermined number of passengers were shaken up but none was reported badly hurt.

The dead: P. H. Young, Hoisington, passenger engineer; Bert Kline, Hoisington, freight brakeman; Charles Cotton, Hoisington, freight brakeman.

SIMMONS WILL NOT SUPPORT CANDIDATES FOR THE PRESIDENCY

New Bern, Aug. 21.—Neither Governor Alfred Smith nor Herbert Hoover will receive the vote of Senator F. M. Simmons, who recently resigned as Democratic national committeeman for North Carolina, in the Presidential election this fall.

Senator Simmons made this statement to L. B. Homan, editor The New Bern Times, yesterday and confirmed his stand when questioned further by the Associated Press.

Guiding Your Child

TALKING THEM OVER (By Mrs. Agnes Lyne)

Naturally parents want to talk about their children, and why not, since they are among the most precious and fascinating things in life?

It is an inevitable temptation to tell the clever thing that Junior said the other day; or discuss with a neighbor the foods that little Ruth will and will not eat; or ask grandmother whether Peggy isn't looking rather peaked.

Very likely real help or pleasure may be derived from talking the children over. But what if the child's ears are pricked up to hear? Why then Junior learns what a smart boy he is and tries to think up another. Little Ruth decides that her not eating rice pudding is an important event and maybe next time she won't eat spinach either. Peggy, looking into the mirror, begins to wonder whether it isn't a pretty fine thing to be so pale and so interesting. And thinks perhaps she feels a little dizzy too.

No one wants Junior to grow up to be a show off, or Ruth to be always finicky about food, or Peggy one of those people who finds nothing so interesting as her own symptoms. Yet recent scientific research shows unmistakably that these traits are formed in early childhood in just this way.

Personal comments direct the child's interest towards himself and draw it away from action and inquiry in other fields where it belongs. They lead him to attach undue importance to his own talents.

USE COMMON SENSE

Automobile drivers who insist on running their cars in the path of approaching fire trucks in the future will be arrested, and fined, was the warning issued yesterday by Chief of Police J. L. Whichard.

The warning issued by Chief Whichard is indeed a timely one and we urge all automobile drivers to pay strict observance to the ordinances governing the parking of cars and remaining still for five minutes after the alarm sounds in order that the streets might be clear of traffic for the fast moving fire fighting equipment. Whether it is curiosity or just habit brought over from the old days of the bucket brigade when everybody went to the fires to lend a hand, we do not know, but we do know that now when a fire alarm sounds the trucks and firemen can hardly get to the scene of the fire because of the number of people and automobiles rushing in that direction in order to be one of the first to get there.

Sometimes interest in the welfare of your friend or your friend's property might prompt you to go to a fire, but we feel safe in saying that about 90 per cent of the people who attend fires here have no business there and are a hindrance to the fire fighters rather than a help. Of course, you have a perfect right to attend a fire if you wish to do so, so long as you do not interfere with traffic and fire fighting but when you make it a point to rush to the scene of a fire the minute the alarm sounds you are making it harder for the fire fighters to get there, you are endangering your own life and the lives of others and you are so doing in violation of the laws of your city.

Chief Whichard is right in declaring war on this habit of rushing to fires and it is to be hoped that the general public will view such a warning for what it is worth and avoid arrest and prosecution by doing the sensible thing when the fire alarm sounds.

EMPTY PROMISES

Rightly declaring that two broken pledges destroy confidence in promises, the News and Observer in the following editorial points out the Republican record for the past eight years with reference to farm relief and national prohibition:

"The Republicans have been in complete control of the Federal government for eight years and in control of Congress for ten years. If everything in this country is not all right, which might have been made right by national legislation or national administration, the Republican party is responsible." It claims credit for the sunshine and good crops and employment. If it is entitled to that credit, it should also be given blame for the storms and low prices of crops and unemployment.

"With full power to do what it desired, the spectacle is witnessed of the Republicans asking re-election upon these pledges and other promises:

"1. To give farm relief. In 1921 they passed a high tariff bill and told the farmers it would assure them higher prices for their crops and complete prosperity. It didn't take long for the farmers to see that they had been given a gold brick. Then in 1924, when Coolidge was nominated and the farmers were asking for bread in the place of a stone the Republicans pledged equality of agriculture with industry. Then, when the administration did nothing to formulate a plan for carrying out the pledge, the organized farmers drew up a measure of their own. Congress passed the bill the embattled farmers desired. Coolidge vetoed it and offered nothing in its place. Hoover was in the cabinet and stands for "the Coolidge policies." And yet, with a record of unfulfilled promises, the Republican party has the effrontery to ask the farmers for re-election so it can break some more promises.

"2. The Republicans have had full control of the enforcement of prohibition since March 4, 1921. National prohibition went into effect January 1, 1920, under Wilson. As long as Glass and Houston were at the head of the Treasury Department and Dan Roper was Internal Revenue Commissioner and Kramer was Prohibition Commissioner, there was little violation of the law. When "the Ohio gang" came in, notice was virtually given that violations would be winked at, and the enforcement has been a flagrant piece of incapacity and party politics which has done more to weaken prohibition than its open enemies. The Houston Convention truly declared: "The Republican party, for eight years in complete control of the government at Washington, present the remarkable spectacle of feeling compelled in its national platform to promise obedience to a provision of the Federal Constitution which it has flagrantly disregarded and to apologize to the country for its failure to enforce laws enacted by the Congress of the United States."

"In view of a record so reprehensible for eight long years, the Republicans ask dry Democrats to vote for a member of the cabinet of the party which has betrayed prohibition. The Republican platform promises to enforce the eighteenth amendment, and it asks to be trusted to keep a fresh promise when it has broken the promises formerly made to support it. A boy defined a lie to be "a present held in time of trouble." Republicans regard a platform pledge as something to get in on but not to stand on. "No advocate of farm relief and no dry Democrat can trust to revamped promises, which have been broken, and which are now made again to the ear to be broken to the hope."

ABOUT TOWN

Pitt county people ought to turn out next Monday and hear H. S. Ward, of Washington, discuss political issues of the present campaign," said one of the life-long Democrats today.

"Mr. Ward is one of the best informed politicians in this section. What he will have to say will be of vital consideration of every voter. Mr. Ward once represented this district in the United States Congress. He knows American politics as no other man of this district and is fully qualified to advise of conditions as they prevail today."

"Now that the opening of the Eastern Carolina tobacco markets has been set back to September 4th, people of this territory will be forced to curb their impatience a while longer," declared a prominent grower of the weed today. "The first of the season we were all clamoring for earlier opening. Everything went along smoothly until it leaked out that the big companies could not get buyers here by that time, and warehousemen and planters got busy and urged that the date be postponed. "With the crop already housed in many districts, farmers will have plenty of time for recreation before the opening date, and should be better able to enjoy the exciting life they live through the tobacco selling months."

"Reflector advertisements certainly get results," bragged one of our old advertisers a few days ago. He didn't know at the time he was talking for publication; neither did we at the moment. However, we have decided it wise to tell others what our old friend thinks of our results, and leave it to the majority to say whether we are justified in going so. The gentleman had lost his pocketbook. It contained a fairly large sum of money. He knew positively he would never see it again. We felt the same way about it when he called it to our attention. Still, we advised him to advertise. "Maybe there are still some honest people in the world, and it is possible one of them found your wallet."

He agreed this might be the case and told us to advertise. The next day a stranger stepped into the office and said he had found a pocketbook corresponding to the description of the one advertised in the columns of this paper the day before.

We called our friend, who said the purse was his. He rewarded the stranger, turned around to our desk and said, "Truly, all honest men are not dead yet."

"When did that happen?" inquired a feminine reader of this column today, speaking of an accident that occurred in the upper part of the county a day or so ago in which several persons were injured.

We gave all the information at our command. She said, "I declare—really, I didn't know about it." "Why didn't you read the Reflector?" we questioned. "I do sometimes." "Why not do so every day and be sure of keeping abreast of the times?"

She promised she would, but considering that she is one of these kind of persons that likes to be on the go late in the afternoon and until a late hour of night, we hardly expect her to do so. Good resolutions are wonderful, but making them effective is another thing.

"Truck crops sold low down in this section of the country and money is mighty tight," complained a farmer of the truck belt in a letter to the writer. "Money gets a little tight around here some times," we wrote back, "but we always have enough to keep life flowing along like a song. Should it get too hard down there, pack up your little kit bag and move to Pitt county. We have thousands of acres of undeveloped land, and men who don't mind work should be able to produce wonderful crops on it. "Think it over and then decide to come on down here where people are kind and generous and dollars go a long ways before they give out." "Between thirty and forty youngsters are leaving this morning for a week's camping trip at Camp Leach," said Mr. Totten, director of the municipal playground movement, before leaving this morning for the Pamlico river playground. "We are anticipating a big time. The boys have been making preparations for the trip several days, and carry enough luggage with them to supply a continent for a period of weeks. This is always the case of youngsters making their first camping trip—and we have quite a number in the bunch. "However, this is going to be the climax of a summer filled with success of the playground movement, and we mean to end it in a blaze of glory."

Movie Star In Distress. A foreign born movie star, resident in this country from childhood, was a very recent victim of this loss of international identity mixup. He is a highly paid, important unit in screenland, possessor of houses and goods and all sorts of friends with pull. But because he was born in Transylvania, then under Austro-Hungarian sovereignty but now war-transferred to Rumania; because he had failed to seek American citizenship on the one hand or register his intent to become a Rumanian on the other, he found himself ordered to Europe on a hasty picture shooting job and unable to go for lack of national identity.

Even if he could get a steamship to take him over and could wiggle ashore in Europe, he could not return here lacking a re-entry permit obtainable only on proof of identity. The movie concern paged its trouble-shooter. "Sure," he said. "Fix him up easy." And he did in just four and a half working days' time. The movie hero sailed on schedule carrying an armful of be-sealed and bestamped and beribboned papers and this is how it was done:

Race for Signatures. The trouble shooter rushed his man to the steamship office and got a certificate of identity filled out. Then to a notary public to have it sworn, cost 50 cents. Then to the clerk of the New York county court to have the seal and signature of notary officially attested, cost 25 cents; then to Albany to have the secretary of state, New York State, attest the authenticity of the clerk of court who had attested authenticity of the notary, cost $2. Then to Washington to have Secretary Kellogg attest the authenticity of the seal and signature of the New York secretary of state who had attested the signature of the clerk of court who had attested the signature of the notary who had signed and sealed the certificate of identity, cost, nothing.

Now for re-entry permit and necessary visas, and time to spare. But the actor-traveler had mis-stated his date of original entry and Ellis Island couldn't check him up. A frantic rush to the island straightened that out but the approved application for re-entry barely reached Washington 15 minutes before closing time of the day before sailing. It did come; went back approved that night to New York and next morning the movie star was waiting on consular door-steps to get his visas. At noon he sailed and the trouble shooter went home to catch up on sleep and await the next emergency call.

TERRIBLY ILL Kentucky Lady's Health Was Very Bad. Had Severe Pains and Could Not Sleep.

Lexington, Ky.—Mrs. J. H. Nichols, who lives at 513 Elm Tree Lane, this city, says that Cardui has been of valuable assistance to her on two occasions, which she tells about below: "Some few years ago, my health was bad. I had very severe pains in my sides. My nerves were in a terrible condition. I could not rest. "The lower part of my body was very sore. I could hardly stoop over to lace my shoes. I would have to put my foot on a chair. I did not feel like eating, and did not sleep well at all at nights. "A friend of mine recommended Cardui. I began taking it and saw quite an improvement in my condition. I kept it up until I felt strong and well." "About a year ago, Mrs. Nichols says, she found herself in a nervous, run-down condition. "I took Cardui again," she adds, "and it helped me wonderfully. It is a splendid tonic." "Thousands of women have written to tell how Cardui helped them to get rid of pain and suffering. Cardui is a mild, medicinal tonic, made from purely vegetable ingredients. At all drug stores. NC-190

he says:

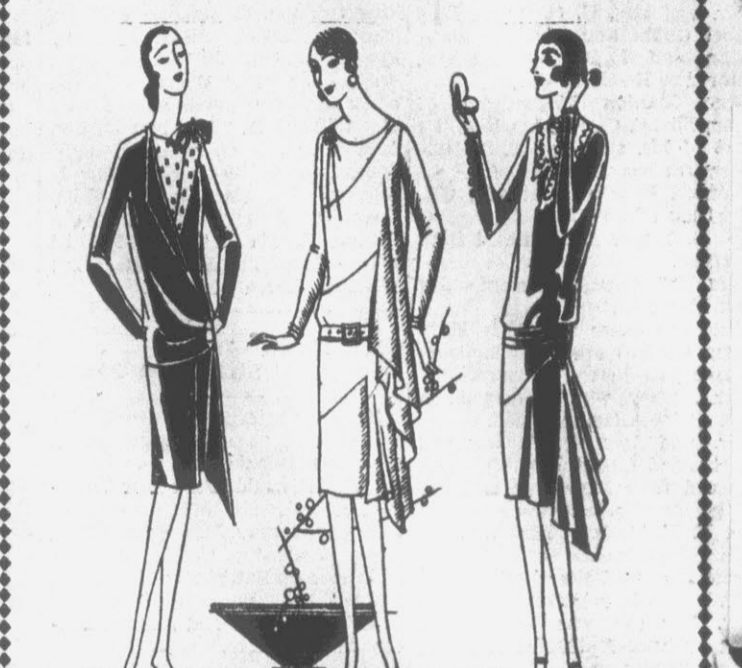

In the early part of 1926 I came into possession of a second-hand Ford that had been badly treated. The motor was in bad shape and the old car was otherwise run down and it was next to impossible to start it in the morning. I had a special reason for not wanting to put out any money for repairs on the car and intended, if possible, to get along with it for awhile, making it somehow fill my needs without extra expense. Just at that time there were half a dozen so-called high-powered gasolines coming into notice, some with one name and color and some with another, and I tried out one or two of these with poor results. Finally, I noticed a tank of Esso in town and having just read one of your advertisements and knowing that the Standard never gets behind anything that is not first-class, I decided to try it out. I knew if it came up to your claims, it would help me solve my motor expense. You can imagine my pleasure when I filled up on this red gas and stepped on the starter and my motor "kicked off" like a shot. After a few weeks Esso cut all the carbon out and the motor was as clean as a hound's tooth and I ran that old motor 7,000 miles in addition to the 22,000 it had already made when I got it and never put out another cent for repairs. The man I got it from asked me about five months afterward, if I had ever had the motor overhauled and was astonished to find that I had not and that it was running better than when I got it. I traded the old car in after it served my purpose without any extra expense.

TOBACCONISTS TAKE ONE OFF ROCKY MOUNT

Rocky Mount, Aug. 20.—The second Dudley in the past two days has made exceedingly merry at the expense of McMillan and his Buccaneers. The Greenville member of the Dudley clan held the hitting Bucs to five scattered safeties while his mates were gathering nine off the slants of "Merrivell" Mackay to win, 3-2, here today.

It was a game characterized by speedy performance on either side and, while local fans were disappointed at the result, they had plenty of thrills for their nickels.

"Doodle" Daniels was the star performer afield, making several difficult stabs in the garden to spoil Buc hopes of winning.

McMillan led his club in hitting, gathering in a pair of safeties out of two tries at the plate. The Bucs were frequently on base but were not able to get hold of the offerings of Mr. Dudley when a hit might have meant a run and when a run or so would have placed the ice packs about the affair.

Allen for the visitors clouted out a single in the ninth frame, and with a single that followed, scored to break the tie and win for the Abbotts.

Beginning tomorrow, the local baseball team has only nine more games to be played on the home lot. Four of these are scheduled this week with a two-game series each with Fayetteville and Goldsboro. Next week there will be four staged in Greenville and the season will close on the afternoon of September 3rd, with the Rocky Mount Buccaneers opposing the Tobaccoists here.

There is a tremendous expense in maintaining a professional ball club, even in the minor leagues, and Greenville is no exception in this respect. The cost of operation of the local team is far in excess of what the gate receipts and incomers have amounted to; consequently the management is now responsible for a deficit of a few thousand dollars.

Due to the fact that a baseball club is a wonderful advertising medium for any city which it represents, and for various other reasons, all of which are plausible, the citizenship should lend their financial support to the club by attending the remaining games to be played here.

The local club got away to a bad start in the beginning of the season which form they were unable to reverse until a few days ago, then too late to place them even in the first division. But they are still fighting to climb from the bottom round which they are bound to do at their present gait.

At times the team has suffered various slumps with the stick, but the fielding honor of the entire league belongs to Greenville, they making fewer errors than any other team in the circuit.

Make every day a booster day for the local team.

LOCALS HAVE ONLY NINE MORE GAMES

LOCALS SHOW UP GREAT IN FIELD MEET

In the annual field meet of the 113th Field Artillery of North Carolina National Guardsmen, Battery "E" of Greenville, came out in second place with twenty points. The Silver Loving Cup was won by the Headquarters of First Battalion of Youngsville, Wake Forest and Franklinton.

Individual high score honors went to Louis Winston of the Headquarters company, his work for the way aggregating twenty-one points.

Glen Robeson of Battery "E", was the next high scorer with eleven points.

Winston won first score in the high jump, the base-ball throw and the running broad jump, and second places in the one hundred yard dash and the shot put.

Robeson won first place in the one hundred yard dash and the two hundred and twenty yard dash and third place in the running board jump in addition to being one of the four relay representing his team in the one-mile relay.

One of the most spectacular runs of the meet was the four hundred and forty yard dash, won by Robert Eason of Battery "E" of Greenville. Eason was trailing in second place until near the end, but was successful in leading his nearest man by several yards when crossing the white line.

Battery "E" won second place in the one-mile relay in which it was represented by "Runt" Bostic, Charlie Allen, Derock Vincent and Robert Eason. All four runners showed up well.

"Runt" Bostic won in the one-mile run for Battery "E" and Beatty represented in high jump.

GIANTS STILL HOLD TIGHT TO TOP COLUMN

By HERBERT W. BARKER (Associated Press Sports Writer) If John McGraw wins his 11th National League pennant this year, the Boston Braves, themselves assured of finishing no higher than seventh, can take a good share of the credit.

Some of the most important cogs in the New York Giant's machine came under McGraw's control after apprenticeship at Boston. Without Larry Benton, Frank Hogan, Joe Genevich, Jim Welsh and Les Mann, it's a bit difficult to believe that McGraw, great manager though he is, could drive the Giants into the leadership of a league boasting as many strong aggregations as does the National League this year.

All five of these regulars or semi-regulars, made the trip from Boston to New York during the past year or two.

After Benton had pitched the Giants into first place at St. Louis, Sunday, Genevich enabled them to remain there yesterday at Cincinnati, where he turned back the Reds 5 to 3. Joe had plenty of uneasy moments but in the long run the Reds found it easy to hit, but exceedingly hard to score upon.

Eppe Rixey, the longest left hander in the majors, pitched out of turn and found himself well snatched over the job to Pete Jablonowski in the eighth.

Downing the Brooklyn Dodgers, 2 to 1, the St. Louis Cardinals gained fractionally on the Giants whose lead dwindled to two percentage points, despite their victory at Cincinnati.

Dazy Vance, who had won seven straight games, was a victim of a ninth inning rally in which the Cards pushed over the winning run with one out, Jimmy Wilson's single, with the bases full, turned the trick.

The Phils pounded four Cub pitchers for 18 hits and an 11 to 6 victory at Chicago.

The Braves and Pirates battled for nearly three hours before Hornsby's crew beat the Pirates 14 to 11 in a slug test in which 36 safe hits were recorded by the scorer, 19 of them going to the Pirates.

In the American League the idle New York Yankees added another half game to their lead over Philadelphia when the Athletics bowed to the St. Louis Browns 9 to 2.

Red Faber granted the Red Sox only six hits and the Chicago White Sox trimmed Boston 6 to 4.

Goldsboro Takes Stemmers In Tow

(By The Associated Press) The Goldbugs hit timely yesterday and took the engagement with the Stemmers, 2 to 0, to add to their prestige as leaders of the Eastern Carolina loop. Shoaf allowed only five safe blows to the Bugs but they made these count and runs were chalked up. Coltrane on the Bugs mound, gave up six hits.

Greenville's Dudley trimmed Rocky Mount, 3 to 2, allowing McMillan's hopefuls but five safe hits while the Abbottians were taking nine outs at the expense of Merrivell Mackay. Allen, sturdy center fielder of the Tobaccoist staff, tied in hitting, securing a triple and a single. The triple was decidedly the exciting feature of the affair.

The highlanders were pitched to a 3 to 2 victory over the Pirates by Ralph Patterson. He struck out 11 Wilmington stickmen and allowed but seven safe blows. The Gouchmen touched McKay for but five hits but two of them were for the circuit. Herbert got the first with a runner on the paths in the second stanza and Partridge the other in the sixth without anyone on the circuit.

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 21.—(AP)—They may talk about Jack Britton in boxing and old Jack Quinn in baseball, but tennis practice, three women who have made athletic backed pretty well off the boards for stamina that defies the years.

Augusta Licks Asheville Team

(By The Associated Press) Odie Strain gave his Augusta teammates much relief yesterday when he homered in the ninth inning at Charlotte, breaking up what had all the appearances of being an extra inning affair, but to Charlotte fans it meant just another disappointment.

McClung for the Tygers, and Peetz for the Hornets, breezed along in a nice hurling battle with four baggers accounting for most of the scoring. Williams of Augusta, and Wise of Charlotte, also hit for the circuit.

The score: Augusta 3; Charlotte 2. Sawyer held Spartanburg to five hits and Greenville pounded Cranford hard enough to warrant a 4 to 0 victory. The Spinners secured 14 bingles off the Spartan hurler, the nine of them being evenly divided among Piers, Price and Johnson.

Pitcher Baylin of Asheville, had his battling blood aroused when Kennedy was walked by Hunter, Knoxville hurler, to get to him, and proceeded to slant out a double, scoring two runs and breaking a one-all tie. The Smokies scored another later on but the Tourists won, 3 to 2.

Macon, although out of beat Columbia 4 to 2. Cy Moore gave the Comers 13 hits but was tight in the pinches while Cebula was not able to keep the Peaches down.

Pointers Move Back to Second Berth Section

(By The Associated Press) The Pointers moved back into second berth in the Piedmont league yesterday after defeating the Colonels, 12 to 7, while the Twins were beating the Patriots on a double bill. Salisbury took an early lead and maintained it throughout the affair.

Pulling the "iron man" stunt, "Lefty" Jim Fogleman, rookie left-hander, bested Sallie Barnes in both ends of the double bill against Greensboro and won for Winston-Salem, 3 to 2 and 2 to 0. Fogleman was master of the Patriots in both engagements, allowing only one earned run. Barnes was nicked timely for safe blows. Both aggression showed brilliant display in the field. The double win gave the Twins a three and one half game lead in the loop the nearest challengers, the Pointers.

The Durham Bulls marked a 13 to 4 victory over the Raleigh Caps after going on a rampage in the early sections of the mixup. Morris Wilson started on the mound for the Caps but lasted only long enough to register a single out. McMahon shifted from first base to the box and was greeted with trouble by Phillips and Whitted and gave way to Pat Townsend in the fifth stanza.

NEW YORK COTTON
New York, Aug. 21.—(AP)—An opening decline was followed by advances in the New York cotton market today as a result of covering and fresh buying promoted by numerous reports of increasing boll weevil damage and prospects for further showers in eastern belt sections. Near months were relatively firm on covering by October shorts who appeared to be influenced by the comparatively small stock of certificated cotton now available here for delivery on contract. The mid-afternoon market was 8 or 9 points off from the best prices of the day under realizing but showed net advances of 30 to 40 points.

Futures closed steady 17 to 25 points higher; spot steady; middling 19.15.

GRAIN MARKET.
Chicago, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Frost at several points in Canada led temporarily to higher prices here today for wheat, but there were no reports of crop damage. Toward the last the market receded, warmer weather favorable for the Canadian harvest now in progress being expected. Export demand today for what from North America was only fair, with sales estimated at 500,000 bushels, including some winter wheat to go via the Gulf of Mexico.

Wheat closed heavy 1 3/8 to 1 5/8 net lower; corn 3/4 to 2 5/8 down; oats ranging from 3/8 decline to a shade advance and provisions unchanged to 10 cents off.

STOCK MARKET
New York, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The stock market gave an impressive demonstration of strength today as pool operations were resumed on a broad scale in a wide assortment of rails and specialties. Nearly two score issues were elevated to new high levels for the year or longer, on gains ranging from 1 to 9 points. Trading showed a marked expansion in volume.

The market appeared to have thrown off the restraint recently imposed by tight money rates. Call money renewed at 7 per cent, as against 6 yesterday, despite the calling of about $15,000,000 in bank loans. Time money and commercial paper rates held firm.

Operators for the advance concentrated on issues reporting large current earnings, or in which favorable trade developments are pending. Increased attendance and activity at commission houses indicated that they were attracting a larger public following.

Short selling was relatively light in volume although a renewed selling attack against Manhattan Electrical Supply carried that stock down nearly 5 points to 33 3/4 or nearly 100 points below the record established a year ago.

Prospects of heavy crop movements this fall stimulated buying of the railroad shares. Texas & Pacific, St. Paul preferred and St. Louis Southwestern all reached new high ground, the first named climbing 7 points. Pere Marquette jumped 5 points and Southern Pacific 2.

Montgomery Ward again was one of the most active features climbing nearly 9 points to a new top at 201 3/8. Sears Roebuck moved up nearly 5 to 139 3/4. Commercial Smelting, National Tea, American Electric, Radio, U. S. Realty, National Biscuit and American Radiator sold 4 to 9 points higher. New highs included Best & Co., American Can, Paramount Famous Lasky, Union Carbide, Loft, Matheson Alkali and Otis Steel.

The close was strong. Total sales approximated 2,900,000 shares.

TO SETTLE GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP.
Bob O'Link Club, Chicago, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Lifted from sectional to international prominence by the invasion of the British Walker Cup team players, the 29th annual western amateur golf championship was to be settled on the hazardous Bob O'Link golf club course starting today.

So difficult was the 7,045 yard course, one of the longest courses ever used for a championship, that it was generally believed a total of 156 strokes or higher for the two 18 hole qualifying rounds today and tomorrow would be low enough to gain admission to match play for the title, which is being defended by Bonstein of Seattle. The low 31 and Stein, who automatically qualified, will start the match play Wednesday. Two 18 hole match rounds will be played then, cutting the field to eight. The remaining three rounds are 36 holes each on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Some 300 American amateurs were entered, from veterans to tyros and from one boundary of the country to another, although the playing committee weeded out more than fifty applicants, whose ability as golfers seemed too indifferent.

Democrats Go to Mississippi Polls
Jackson, Miss., Aug. 21.—(AP)—From 8:00 a. m. to 6:00 p. m., today Democrats of Mississippi will move on the voting precincts to cast their choice for a United States senator, eight United States representatives, a State Supreme Court Judge and eight highway commissioners.

With interest stirred by the battle over the senatorship and a fair weather forecast by the Weather Bureau, a large outpouring of voters is expected.

The result at the polls today is expected to settle the Senatorial issue as the winner at a Democratic primary in Mississippi during the last half century has been equivalent to election. But in view of the approaching Presidential elections the Republicans might attempt to put a strong candidate in the field in the hope of indenting the Solid Democratic phalanx.

In the House of Representatives, only three contests are found, out of the eight Congressional districts. This means that John Elliott Rankin, of Tupelo, from the First District, William Madison Whittington, of Greenwood, from the Third District; Ross A. Collins, of Meridian, from the Fifth District; Percy Edwards Quin, of McComb City, from the Seventh District and James William Collier, of Vicksburg, from the Eighth District, will be nominated without opposition.

In the Sixth District, four candidates are contending for the seat in the House, given up by Mr. Wilson when he entered the Senate fight.

Robbers Make A $19,000 Haul At Chicago, Ill.
Chicago, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Five robbers held up two bank messengers in a taxicab today, robbing them of $19,000 in cash and negotiable paper. The robbery took place at Lawndale and Division street as the messengers were transferring the money from the Service State Bank.

Armed with pistols and rifles, the five robbers riding in a blue sedan drove alongside the taxicab and crowded it into the curb, forcing it to stop. Covering the messengers and the cab driver, the robbers grabbed up the satchel containing the money and speeded away.

The messengers were taking the money to the Union Trust Company, a Loop branch.

J. L. Randolph Laid to Rest

J. L. RANDOLPH . . . . .
Funeral services for Joseph Louis Randolph, 29, were conducted from the home of his father near Stokes this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, by Elder W. T. Pollar. Interment was made in the family burying ground.

Mr. Randolph was fatally injured when hit by an automobile truck at the Pitt Chevrolet Company, on Fifth street, this city, Saturday afternoon, succumbing to his injuries yesterday morning.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Velma Davenport Randolph; father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Randolph; two sisters, Mrs. Eva Brewer, Tarboro; and Mrs. Jim Latham, Washington; three brothers, J. F. Randolph, Farmville; W. R. Randolph, Newport News, Va.; and Charles R. Randolph, Pennsylvania.

He was a member of the Free Will Baptist church and leaves many friends to mourn his untimely passing.

TORNADOS CLAIM EIGHT

Several Also Injured And Property Damage Heavy In Iowa And Minnesota.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Two tornados took eight lives, injured more than three score persons and caused property damage estimated in excess of one million dollars in southern Minnesota and northern Iowa late yesterday.

Austin, Minn., was the community that suffered the heaviest loss. Three were killed there, more than 50 persons were injured, and business buildings and residences were wrecked.

A fourth Minnesota casualty was near Greenville, while two women lost their lives at Twin Lakes, a resort near Rockwell City, Iowa.

The known dead are: August Newbauer, automobile mechanic, and Harold Baumgartner, 12, both of Austin; and Laverne Roberts, of Nora Springs, Iowa, all killed at Austin.

Mrs. Chris G. Hagen, at Greenville, Minn.

Stella Powell, of Traer, and Mrs. George Steer, 50, of Havelock, killed at Twin Lakes, Iowa.

One hundred members of the American Legion aided Company H, Minnesota National Guard, in patrolling the streets of Austin today as a check of the damage was started, after a night of darkness, due to failure of power lines.

The Minnesota tornado apparently started in the vicinity of Emmos, in Freeborn county, near the Iowa line. It swung northeastward, missing Greenville and working its way into Austin and then returned to enter Iowa.

As the tornado swept on toward Austin, farm buildings and crops were crushed. A heavy rain followed and roads were flooded and some pavement washed away. More than fifty automobiles were wrecked in Austin by the storm which seemed to pick out and follow the main street, the principal thoroughfare through the city.

Dr. Hobbs, heading the University of Michigan expedition now at Mt. Evans, had cooperated in making arrangements for the greater Rockford's landing on the 1600-mile flight from Cochrane, Ont., which was started at noon Saturday.

Although several amateur wireless operators reported hearing the Greater Rockford's signals at 3 a. m. Central Standard time Sunday morning, only one, P. L. Hall at Stamford, Conn., told of hearing anything besides the plane's call letters and the letter "R," which indicated its position as 75 miles off Cape Chidley. Hall said the letter "R," which was a pre-arranged code signal, was followed by six repeated S O S calls. The distress signals, Hall felt sure, were from the plane. Hall said that message was sent after the call, but that interference prevented his getting it.

Canadian government planes and the United States coast guard cutter Marion had started a search for the airman today.

The Danish government also has been asked by the Washington government and by the Rockford, Ill., chamber of commerce sponsoring the Hassell flight, to lend its assistance in the search for the airman.

At Rockford, Mrs. Hassell was beginning to show signs of the long vigil without word of her husband, but she expressed the belief that the plane had landed at some isolated spot in Greenland.

GIVE ANALYSIS OF U. S. COTTON SPINNING

Washington, Aug. 21.—(AP)—The Census Bureau's analysis of conditions in the cotton spinning industry for July shows:

Active spindle hours for July totaled 6,258,620,372 or an average of 176 hours per spindle in place compared with 7,247,726,545 and 203 for June this year and 8,042,790,747 and 219, for July last year.

Spinning spindles in place July 31 totaled 35,542,12 of which 28,228,024 were active at sometime during the month, compared with 35,749,944 and 28,624,488 for June this year and 36,728,086 and 32,311,802 for July last year.

The average number of spindles operated during July was 28,351,621 or at 79.8 per cent capacity on a single shift basis, compared with 31,569,503 and 88.3 per cent in June this year and 36,399,306 and 99.1 for July last year.

Schilt Continues Nicaraguan Flight

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Lieut. C. Frank Schilt marine corps aviator, piloting a tri-motored transport ship to Nicaragua for use with the marines there, hopped off for Miami at 9:18 o'clock this morning on the third leg of his flight.

Lieut. Schilt expected to continue without a stop to his destination after refueling at Miami. He is accompanied by Sergeant Pilot Archie Paschal and Sergeant O. C. Adams, radio operator.

The plane was brought down here yesterday while en route from Pope Field, Fort Bragg, N. C., because of bad weather.

Lieut. Schilt said he probably would spend the night in Miami after arriving there about noon. He will take off for Nicaragua tomorrow morning if weather conditions are favorable, he said.

The Proven Value Of Persistent Advertising

Do you know, Mr. Merchant, that according to Boyd's Official List there are now 2,530 mail order houses in the United States who sell direct to the consumer?

Each and every one of these concerns issue catalogs, including supplements, booklets, folders, bulletins, special price lists, etc., throughout the year.

Most of the larger mail order houses issue catalogs twice a year; many of which have sections in colors and contain fifteen hundred pages or more.

The weight of one of these catalogs, after being trimmed, is about four and one-half pounds, and on a recent issue the paper alone in car load lots, would have cost over fifty-five cents.

Some of these houses distribute from ten to twelve million catalogs a year; the estimated cost of each complete catalog being about $2.00, with the monthly supplements, booklets, folders, price lists, postage, wrapping, etc., extra, bringing approximate cost $2.50 to $3.00 for each "live" name or prospective buyer on their lists.

Any person any place may secure one of these large mail order catalogs free of all cost simply by mailing in their request on a one-cent post card.

This means, Mr. Merchant, that a single mail order house will invest approximately $3.00 a year in advertising—catalogs and follow-up literature—for each customer or prospective customer residing within your trade territory.

From figures recently compiled by the National Buy-at-Home Movement of Fort Wayne, Indiana, after a thorough investigation and the checking-up of thousands of country newspapers, it was proven that the merchants of the smaller cities and towns invest on an average of only nine cents each a year in advertising in their local papers, for each customer or prospective customer living within a seven mile trade-zone of their home town.

The investigation proved conclusively that the secret of the mail order house's success was simply persistent advertising and the use of liberal space in describing the merchandise they have to offer.
