MANY KILLED WHEN SUBWAY TRAIN WRECKS

Fourteen Dead And Numbers Injured As Result of Crash In New York City.

New York, Aug. 25.—(AP)—At least 14 persons were killed in a subway wreck at the rush hour here last night.

A statement by the police this morning put the dead at eleven and the injured at 101. Later two of the injured died. The statement was issued after hours of confusion as to the exact casualties.

The ninth car of a ten-car west side subway train bound for Brooklyn, split a damaged switch near Times Square station at 5:09 p. m., and ripped through a concrete supporting wall, 20 feet high, separating south and north bound express tracks.

The scene of the wreck is the busiest transportation center in New York, perhaps the world.

The tragedy was the second worst in the history of New York Rapid Transit. Ninety-six persons were killed on November 1, 1918 in the derailment of a Brooklyn Rapid Transit train running through an open cut in Malbone street, Brooklyn. On September 11, 1905, 12 persons were killed and 42 injured when an elevated train ran into an open switch at 53rd Street and Ninth Avenue, and a car loaded with passengers crashed to the street below. But never had there been such a disaster in the subway itself.

Last night's crash occurred on the line of the interborough Rapid Transit company, advertised as "the Safest Railway in the World" and equipped with all modern safety devices. The train consisted of all steel cars. It carried 1,800 passengers.

The eighth car of the train, thrown against the concrete wall, was sheared in two, half of it careening 200 feet down the dark tunnel still attached to the train before collapsing, a shroud for its mangled passengers.

The eighth car also tumbled over. The tenth car crashed on into the wreckage but remained upright.

With the crash all but the emergency lights on the train went out and the scene was lighted only by those dim bulbs and the blue flames thrown off by the third rail, short circuited by the tangled steel train across it.

The train had been halted at the Times Square station five minutes. Due to work on the switch which caused the accident. The train was jammed to capacity as it pulled out.

Pulling slowly away from the platform it quickly gained speed. As it neared 40th street about 200 yards from the station there came a dull boom as the steel car left the rails and crashed into the wall which separates the tracks.

A detective on a northbound train which had just passed the scene of the wreck, sprang from the car and dashed up the steps to pull the lever on both the fire and police alarm boxes.

In the dim light of the overhead lights, the sparks from the third rail and the sickly gleaming emergency lights, police and firemen who were quickly thronging the tunnel saw the enormity of their task.

There on the floor of the tunnel were the two crushed cars, from whose windows came the moans of the desperately injured. Those still able to move screamed as they fought to get through the shattered windows.

In the upright cars of the train, women and children were struggling to break out the windows and escape from a peril they only sensed, many of them half stunned by being thrown to the floor of the cars.

On the street above excited throngs milled about as all available fire and ambulance equipment of the city came rushing to the scene.

Nurses and doctors grouped themselves about the kiosks as the police and firemen and many volunteer helpers carried out the dead and injured. Some bodies were mangled almost beyond recognition. Those who could walk were led from the stalled train to the nearest exit. All the power on the west side line was shut off. Many other trains were stalled between stations, their excited passengers adding to the confusion which extended up and down the subway for miles.

Emergency electric light lines were strung from street connections and searchlights played over the smashed cars.

Acetylene torches were brought into play to cut away the tangled steel of the shattered ninth car. All of the dead and critically injured

HOOVER LOOKS OVER RESULTS OF LONG TRIP

Republican Candidate Reviews Eight Thousand-Mile Trip Over Continent.

By JAMES L. WEST
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The first phase of his own campaign at an end, Herbert Hoover today reviewed the eight thousand miles' journey across the continent and the results it had produced.

Events in the national political arena during his six weeks absence from the National Capital had served to place the prohibition issue even farther to the front, subordinating for the moment at least the farm relief question, which was the high point of contention in the Republican convention that voted him the Presidential nomination.

Just when and where the Republican standard bearer will renew his discussion of the wet and dry issue has not yet been decided by him, but it can be stated authoritatively that he has no present intention of engaging in any debate with his Democratic opponent on that subject.

He regards the issue as very definitely defined by the acceptance speeches with clear-cut distinction drawn for the voters—retention of the Eighteenth Amendment in its present form or its modification to permit state option under state legislation.

Close advisers of Hoover who sat in with him on the conferences he held with political leaders of the Northwest at Cedar Rapids this week declare that the question uppermost in the minds of the several hundred visitors from a dozen great farm states seemed to be that of effecting a strong party organization rather than of seeking more specific details of the farm relief proposals the standard bearer put forward in his acceptance address.

These leaders made it clear, however, that much work remained to be done in the Northwestern states, particularly in South Dakota and Wisconsin, and that there was some unrest in the other states.

French Plane Forced Back After Take-off For U. S.

Le Bourget, France, Aug. 25.—(AP)—An attempt to span the Atlantic by air from East to West failed this morning when the monoplane France returned to the flying field here at 7:20 o'clock shortly after having taken off on what was hoped would be a non-stop flight to New York.

In taking off, the plane narrowly missed colliding with high tension electric wires skirting the field and it was due to dexterous handling by Captain Louis Courdoret, the pilot, that the machine was saved from destruction and its three occupants from death.

The crew consisted of Courdoret, Count Louis De Mailly-Nesle, relief pilot, and Captain Mailleux, navigator. The attempt to lift their machine, loaded with 1,220 gallons

MORRISON IS SUCCESSOR TO SEN. SIMMONS

Former Governor Succeeds Senior N. C. Senator As National Committeeman.

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 25.—(AP)—With the last vacancy in their official organization filled by the election of former Governor Cameron Morrison, Charlotte, as National Committeeman, North Carolina Democrats today turned confidently to making plans for the campaign.

The State Democratic Executive Committee's election of Morrison last night was by acclamation in a brief and harmonious session. An ardent supporter of Governor Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic Presidential nominee, he succeeds Senator F. M. Simmons who resigned as National Committeeman July 24th, and has since declared he will not vote for Smith.

Morrison was placed in nomination by Lindsay Warren, first District Congressman, who said his election "will serve notice that there will be no temporizing, and that a vigorous campaign will be waged for all candidates of the party. It will bring dismay to the enemies of the party. It means harmony will prevail, bickering cease, and that the ranks of the party will be closed."

Neither Governor Smith's nor Senator Simmons' name was mentioned at the committee meeting. Simmons' friends said after the meeting that he had taken cognizance of a suggestion by a state paper that he should resign if he could not support the Presidential nominee and had instructed them to present his resignation if called for, but that he would have filed immediately notice of his candidacy to succeed himself.

Following the Executive Committee meeting, State Chairman Odus M. Mull disclosed organizational plans for the campaign. He will meet party leaders of the Seventh District at Wadesboro today for an organization conference. August 28, a meeting will be held for the Eighth District at Statesville, and on August 30th for the Fifth District at Greensboro. This will complete organization of the state by districts except for the Fourth District of which Raleigh is the center. A conference of leaders in this district, Mull said, will be held some time after campaign headquarters are formally opened here September 3rd.

New Bern, Aug. 25.—(AP)—United States Senator F. M. Simmons, at his home here today, denied that anyone attending the meeting of the Democratic state executive committee was authorized to submit his resignation as senator from this state in the event it was requested at the meeting. Beyond this he declined to comment on the selection of former Governor Cameron Morrison as national committeeman.

Senator Simmons resigned as national committeeman a month ago because he felt he could not support the Democratic nominee for President.

The Senator's statement was made when he was shown dispatches from Raleigh quoting "friends of the senator" as saying Simmons had taken cognizance of a newspaper suggestion that he resign if unable to support the party's Presidential nominee.

Senator Simmons said that he knew nothing about the matter; that no one had been authorized to speak for him at the meeting and added that he had no comment to make about either the report regarding him or the executive meeting.

of gasoline, was made more difficult by an unfavorable wind.

So little altitude had been gained at the end of the take-off stretch that the landing gear struck a board fence bounding the field, smashing one of the wheels. The next moment death stared the flyers in the face, for after clearing the fence, they found they could not ascend rapidly enough to pass over the electric wires strung a short distance outside.

Taking the only alternative, Courdoret ducked under the wires in a swing loop in which the machine grazed the ground.

Just beyond these wires were a number of telephone wires over which Courdoret soared, carrying away two or three of the wires but getting clear. Finally dodging between trees he managed to return to the field.

Political Campfires Burning Brightly In All Parts Of Nation

By BYRON PRICE,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Washington, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Emerging from the fog of abstract discussion and speculation, the political campaign is disclosing a picture filled with promise for those voters who rely on men more than on issues, and want to get better acquainted with Herbert Hoover and Alfred E. Smith.

During what might almost be called "meet-the-candidate-week," the country has seen at close range than ever before the two personalities between whom the election is being fought. More than that, it has seen ample evidence that both candidates, liberated at last from the restraints of pre-notification days, mean to put the full force of their individualities into the balance as the revealing processes of the campaign go on.

Governor Smith began the week with a public statement reviewing and defending in detail his own record as a member of the New York legislature, attacked by William Allen White. Then, formally accepting the nomination at a Democratic jubilee at Albany, in a speech broadcast to millions, he gave point to his promises of national reform by repeated personal references to those administrative accomplishments which have led the people of New York to re-elect him three times to the governorship.

Mr. Hoover, crossing the country meantime from California to Washington, was meeting thousands face to face as he bantered in neighborly fashion across the rail of a rear platform and took with manifest relief to impromptu speech-making. He paused long enough in Iowa, where he sat in on a conference of farm leaders and recalled to old acquaintances at his birthplace how he used to play between the corn rows in the boyhood days before he became a celebrated engineer and administrator.

That these processes of self-revelation will continue no political observer now doubts. Not only has the rise of two such leaders from the humblest beginning caught the popular imagination, but both Smith and Hoover have accepted with eager confidence and determination the leadership placed in their hands by the party conventions. In many respects each has become his own campaign manager, and is making decisions which others might entrust to advisers and strategists. Senator Moses even has predicted that before the campaign is over, the personalities of the candidates will become the all-important factor, over-shadowing all other issues.

But now that Governor Smith has made his outspoken and detailed declaration for amendment of both the Volstead Act and the 18th Amendment, with the final object of inaugurating the Canadian system of state option as to the manufacture and sale of beverages, there are others who do not believe that any issue whatever can overshadow prohibition. They include F. Scott McBride of the Anti-Saloon League and Mrs. Ella A. Boole of the W. C. T. U., who read the Smith speech and then reiterated their endorsement of Hoover.

There are still others, in the Democratic ranks, who opposed the Smith proposal as "unwise" and "impossible," while asserting that prohibition is not an issue. Senator Glass and Governor Byrd of Virginia, two dries of the first water, declared the question does not belong in politics; Senator George of Georgia, said Smith himself realized that, and Representative Crips of Georgia, declared he would vote modification legislation.

Joseph Daniels voiced praise for Smith, but never for any Smith generally for the acceptance speech but viewed Smith's state control argument as "inconsistent." Governor Richards of South Carolina, also opposed it, but Senator Edwards of New Jersey, had only praise, especially for the nominee's "brutally frank" statement concerning "crime and corruption" under prohibition.

The first comment from the Republican ticket quickly came from Senator Curtis who departed from a prepared address on the tariff in Rhode Island to say that the Democratic prohibition plan was an attempt to "fool the people."

Insofar as general campaign strategy has revealed itself, the immediate concern of both sides appears to be in making secure what they have—or think they have—before embarking in serious quest of electoral votes in doubtful quarters.

In this nailing-down process, the Republicans have begun in the most heavily Republican farm states. Mr. Hoover's Iowa conferences were designed to have their impression on a rather wide circle in the Mississippi valley section, and his promise to take former Governor Lowden and other outstanding McNary-Haugen sympathizers into consultation after election was an open offer of conciliation to the mid-west block leaders who went away from the Kansas City convention bitterly disappointed. One immediate result was the announcement of Senator Nye of North Dakota that he would support the party nominee.

Similarly, Gov. Smith's running mate, Senator Robinson, a dry and a southerner, is to attempt some nailing down in the south, where the Bishop Cannon-Dr. Barton Anti-Smith campaign continues with great earnestness. It is announced that soon after his formal swing through the Democratic strongholds from Texas to Virginia.

Should the nails thus purposefully pounded in hold fast in the Republican mid-west and the Democratic south, four major theaters of action will be left in the category of debatable ground. Into these four sections both Republicans and Democrats now are looking speculatively. One is the tier of states just inside the Pacific Seaboard, from Montana to Arizona and New Mexico. Most of these states usually are Republican in Presidential years, but this time there are some confusing elements. Mr. Hoover was told on his way east that opinion in New Mexico is not yet at the decisive stage, and Chairman Work openly and pointedly warned a gathering of Colorado Republicans that unless they joined hands and went to work, they could expect to reap nothing but grief on election day.

A second block of normally Republican states to which the Democrats are looking with much longing and some hope lies in the north-west. The McNary-Haugen-Lowden campfires burned very brightly in Minnesota and the Dakotas.

Then there is the border strip—Oklahoma, Missouri, Kentucky, Tennessee, and West Virginia, always looked upon as debatable, and finally the east. Here at last is a region admitted by everybody to be debatable. The contest will extend right down the coast from New

GOV. SMITH ATTENDS BIG RALLY TODAY

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
(Associated Press Staff Writer)
Seagirt, N. J., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Here in the same surroundings where Woodrow Wilson mapped out campaign plans 16 years ago which carried him to the Presidency, Governor Smith today found himself the central figure of a huge Democratic rally intended to boost his own chances for that high office.

The Democratic Presidential nominee, with Governors Moore, of New Jersey, and Ritchie, of Maryland, late today will review the State National Guard regiments in encampment here on a wide stretch of ground between Mr. Moore's summer home and the Atlantic Ocean.

It was estimated that more than 100,000 persons would turn out for the "Governor's Day" affair, which is arranged each year and which Governor Smith has attended three or four times before.

Since the nominee's campaign speaking plans still are in the making and the event is an open air one, Governor Smith planned merely to review the troops and to stick to his determination to steer clear of outdoor speeches as much as possible.

With Governors Moore and North's Ball in honor of the three Ritchie, who attended a "Governor's Day" affair at the new Governor's Hotel at Spring Lake last night, the Democratic Presidential candidate was to ride around the guard camp in an old-fashioned barouche, between long lines of the state troops and in full view of thousands expected to occupy seats in flag-decked tents set up in the grounds.

KELLOGG IS HONORED BY PARIS TODAY

American Representative Attends Many Social Functions for Treaty Signers.

Paris, Aug. 25.—(AP)—After a good night's rest in his comfortable quarters at the American embassy, Secretary Kellogg today had to attend a long program of official social events in honor of the statesmen here to sign the war renunciation treaty Monday.

Frenchmen who have talked with him have been impressed by his simple, dignified manner and his insistence that credit for the great work about to reach its culmination is due to M. Briand's initiative. This has been a notable source of gratification to the French people and is referred to by almost all the newspapers.

The secretary's moderation also appeals to the people. Le Matin refers to the wise formula pronounced by Kellogg when he landed at Havre—"to render war more difficult." This, the paper observes, clearly defines the object of the pact and does not hold out hopes impossible of realization.

Le Temps sees in Mr. Kellogg's desire to have the signature take place in Paris a homage to France's wish for peace and a proof that the pact is the result of the unbreakable friendship which unites the French and American peoples.

MacKenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada; Jacobus Smit, high commissioner in London for the Union of South Africa, and Baron Uchida, Japanese envoy, also are here to sign the treaty. The rest of the signers will be here tomorrow.

Secretary Kellogg gave audience to a large group of newspapermen this morning at the Embassy. Later he went to the Arc De Triomphe to place a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier.

After luncheon with Ambassador Herrick at the Embassy he planned to slip away to play golf for a while. Ambassador and Mrs. Herrick will give a formal dinner at the Embassy tonight for the secretary.

CITY BOOSTED AT MEETING OF KIWANIS CLUB

Roseate Future Painted for Greenville at the Kiwanis Boosters Night.

Last night was "Boosters Night" at the Greenville Kiwanis Club and the possibilities of Greenville as a business and industrial center was set forth in a plain and convincing style by speakers representing the various civic and business organizations of the city. An optimistic note pervaded the entire meeting, and it taken as a barometer to progress the future for the town and county is bright indeed.

The session was presided over by J. F. Harrington, who called attention to the district Kiwanis convention to be held at Winston-Salem Thursday and Friday of next week. A committee composed of W. H. Woolard, Ralph Deal, C. B. Rowlett and K. T. Futrell, was appointed to see that the local club is represented by a large attendance.

The program last night was in charge of W. H. Woolard, former president of the club. He said as this season of the year was always considered the beginning of the financial and business season of this section, it was only appropriate that the business interests should be brought together to talk over the outlook for the future. He enumerated some of the achievements of the city in past years, and urged his hearers to greater activity in the succeeding years.

Other speakers of the evening were J. F. White, first vice president of the Merchants Association; K. W. Cobb, secretary of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade; K. B. Pace, president of the Rotary Club, and M. K. Blount, of the Kiwanis Club.

Mr. White explained the operation of the Merchants Association. He said that although the organization functioned as a medium for the merchants, it was performing the part of chamber of commerce and other business and civic organizations for Greenville. He spoke of the recent advertising campaign launched for the city through his organization and declared that incalculable results had been obtained.

Mr. Cobb told of the activities of the Greenville tobacco market—outlining the great part which publicity had played in development of the industry. He declared as the tobacco market grew and prospered, so would Greenville, and urged his hearers to give support to members of the Tobacco Board of Trade at every opportunity possible.

Dr. Pace saw great opportunities for expansion ahead of the city, and warned his hearers that achievement in the future did not depend solely upon the acquisition of new enterprise, but upon closer attention of the things we already have. He said money was being spent in other districts that should be spent at home and told the business men to guard against this by increasing the attractiveness of the things we have.

Mr. Blount enumerated the growth of the city and stated that an increase in the economic and educational life history showed many improvements already completed and numbers of other under way.

Deaf Close Convention

Raleigh, Aug. 25.—(AP)—A business session today closed the second annual convention of the Dixie Association for the Deaf, which met here yesterday with 150 delegates in attendance from the two Carolinas, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama and Virginia.

Action was expected before adjournment on a proposal to sponsor a southern home for the aged and infirm deaf.

SIMPSON MAN HELD ON BAD CHARGE HERE

K. G. Johnson Bound Over On Charge of Eloping With Another Man's Wife.

The sordid story of how a woman abandoned her husband to live a life of immorality with a married man in a distant city, was brought out in this city today when K. G. Johnson, Simpson storekeeper was arraigned before Magistrate John Ivey Smith, charged with eloping with Mrs. Alva Lee Hardee, wife of Moye Hardee, also of the Simpson territory.

Johnson was bound over to the next term of Pitt county criminal court under bond of $2,500. He was remanded to jail when he failed to provide bond.

Johnson and Mrs. Hardee were arrested in Chattanooga, Tenn., and returned to this county in the custody of Sheriff Whitehurst and Deputy Tucker yesterday morning. They are alleged to have eloped from Simpson something like three weeks ago, finally winding up in the Tennessee city, where they lived as man and wife, according to the woman's testimony given in the preliminary arraignment today.

Only three witnesses were placed on the stand this morning. They were Mrs. Hardee, her husband and Sheriff Whitehurst.

Mrs. Hardee's testimony covered a period since 1926 when she said she first met Johnson. She related of coming in contact with the defendant in the presence of his wife on numerous occasions, but denied any intimacy until the trip to Chattanooga when lack of funds forced them to stay in the same room at an apartment house.

Questioned as to her motive for running away from her husband, the woman declared that Johnson had told her Hardee was not worthy of her, that he was immoral and not capable of caring for her. She admitted she did not care for her husband as she should and, upon the advice of Johnson, went to his home in Georgia to remain there while divorce proceedings were in progress.

Asked what inducements Johnson offered her while she was away from her husband, she said that he said he could allow her as much as $300 a month. She told of seeing Johnson at beaches and numerous other places after that time, but denied that his conduct had not been other than that of a gentleman toward her.

The trip that finally ended in Chattanooga carried them from Suffolk, Va., through Tennessee, to Alabama and back to Chattanooga where they decided to live as man and wife.

Sheriff Whitehurst gave a vivid description of his trip to Chattanooga following advice from authorities of that place that they were holding Johnson and Mrs. Hardee as they had been requested to do.

His testimony coincided with much of that given by the woman, in that he found them occupying the same apartment. He graphically portrayed the finding of their clothing in the apartment.

Hardee told of the friendship which he and his wife had enjoyed with the Johnsons. He said he didn't have any idea of the existence of intimacies between Johnson and Mrs. Hardee until the former approached him one day and told him he was in love with Mrs. Hardee. At this time, he said, Johnson proposed a plan whereby he would cause his wife to get a divorce and that would give him a chance to marry Mrs. Hardee after she had obtained her liberty.

Hardee said he warned Johnson to stay away from Mrs. Hardee, and to prevent their meeting again, carried his wife to Georgia. While there, Johnson sent them money to return to North Carolina so that Hardee might get a job. Hardee went away to some other section to go to work and didn't see his wife again until she was returned to this city in custody of the sheriff.

It was stated this morning that Hardee had been persuaded to return home and live with his wife. They left the court room together, and it was stated later that domestic relations had been restored between them.

NO REASON FOR LOW PRICES

Now that the farmers are through curing their tobacco reports from almost every section of this and adjoining counties would indicate that the yield is far short of what was first anticipated. In view of this information the buying companies would do well to give careful study to the real conditions as they exist. Earlier reports of a bumper crop are declared by some to have a tendency to lower the price paid to the farmers and surely this should not be the case. Had the farmers saved their entire crop, we are of the opinion that the increased use of tobacco is great enough to have taken care of any increased production but with this information that the crop is short of first estimates, surely there is no reason and no legitimate excuse why the farmers should not receive a fair price for their tobacco.

SHOULD KEEP THE OLD BRIDGE

Information that the old bridge over Tar River here is to be replaced by the new bridge will not be the new bridge is completed, despite the fact that the long fill and approach to the new bridge will not be paved before the spring is causing much concern to various local, civic and business organizations. It goes almost without saying that as soon as the heavy fall traffic sets in that the newly made fill will in all probability become impassable and traffic to and from this city over that route will be greatly impeded. During the past week various organizations and citizens have taken up with the State Highway Commission the matter of permitting the old bridge to stand until such a time as the approach to the new bridge can be paved and surely it is to be hoped that their efforts will be successful.

To tear down the old bridge before paving the approaches to the new bridge would surely work a hardship on the people who have to use this route in the way of loss of business. To be sure the highway commission does not want to do anything that would work a hardship on any community and for this reason we cannot see how that body can do otherwise than permit the old bridge to stand until such a time as the new bridge and its approaches can be used freely without impeding traffic.

ABOUT TOWN

City schools will open for the 1928-29 session, September 10th, according to information given out yesterday by J. H. Rose, principal. The session this year is expected to be even more successful than previous years by reason of the number of improvements in buildings, etc.

The new high school building replacing that destroyed by fire last year is a structure which local people should be more than proud. It contains many features of arrangement that have been needed for years, and will enable the handling of entertainments which had to be carried to other buildings in past years because of lack of room. The future of the Greenville school system is very bright. It wouldn't take an optimist to predict a year filled with outstanding accomplishments.

"You don't have to take my word for it—go down and see for yourself," firmly declared a member of the Greenville tobacco board of trade, speaking of the numerous developments which have taken place on the Greenville tobacco market the past several months. "This market has experienced unprecedented growth under the direction of members of the Board of Trade, but our achievements have been nothing to what they will be in years to come. It doesn't look possible that one single industry should expand so rapidly in such a short time, but when one considers the enormous volume of business handled, it may be readily seen that such is not only possible but very necessary."

"Greenville tobaccoists have set seventy million pounds as the goal for this year. They will not only reach it, but surpass it, if I am not badly mistaken."

"Boosters' Night at the Kiwanis Club last evening was everything we expected it to be" members of the Merchants Association and other organizations who attended the gathering, stated today. "The Kiwanians had provided an intensely interesting program and everybody seemed to enjoy it. What was said about the future growth of Greenville had a very optimistic note. It all reflected a spirit of confidence in the future possibilities of the locality."

"These Boosters' Nights should be conducted more often. They bring the leading business men, who comprise the membership of the majority of clubs, in closer contact with one another and enable them to more fully understand and appreciate what is required of them as representative citizens."

"Former Congressman H. S. Ward, of Washington, is one of the most forceful speakers of the Democratic party in this state and Pitt county people should turn out and hear him," declared W. E. Hooks, of Ayden, chairman of the Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee, who was in the city yesterday, making preparations for the appearance of Mr. Ward at the court house Monday, at the noon recess hour.

"Mr. Ward is well known to the citizens of this section by reason of his long representation of the district in Congress, and his appearance in numbers of important legal cases in Greenville. "Mr. Ward has made a close study of the political situation. What he has to say will be in accordance with principles enunciated in the platform of the Houston Democratic convention and broadcasted to all the world. "He represents a school of thought that is rapidly gaining ground in the political life of the nation and Pitt countyans will do well to hear him."

Buying at Home Is the Secret of Town Growth

"One of the greatest movements in local success is the buy-at-home movement which has gradually been gaining impetus during the past few years," says Mr. Earhart, manager of the J. C. Penney Co. store in this city. "It is the keynote to a successful city or town, the expression of confidence in the town and its ability to meet the competition of the rest of the United States. "The buy-at-home movement is a co-operative one, requiring the interested help of the local merchant, the local residents and the local newspapers and other factors in publicity. "If the townspeople show confidence in the local merchant, he can, in turn repay their confidence by carrying a line of merchandise which will give them a range of selection and a standard of value which will equal that to be found in any city or town within trading radius. "The local merchant owes it to the townspeople to tell them what he has in stock and what values he is able to offer. Here is where the local newspaper becomes the means of communication between the merchant and the customer. "With modern methods of transportation, with modern buying facilities, with modern roads and conveniences, the local store in a city or town is never more than a few hours away from the very latest in materials, styles and values. "The metropolitan city with millions of people, or the average city or town with 2,500 or 25,000 people can be served equally well and to the same advantage by the manufacturers, producers and designers. "The automobile has shown this to be true. More and more the live merchant in other lines is coming to the customer first. "The customer reads the local newspaper, sees that right at his or her door there are selections in clothing, footwear, furniture, the entire range of necessities and luxuries, which are metropolitan in their scope. "If, right then, he or she goes to the local store, the first step in increasing local prosperity is taken. With increase in local patronage of local stores comes an increase in money turn-over inside the town. "Steps that the local merchant may take in the buy-at-home movement include attractive and carefully prepared local advertising, tastefully arranged local window trims and high standards of service to the customer inside the store. "This program will instill the local residents with a feeling of confidence for the local store."

MANY KILLED WHEN SUBWAY TRAIN WRECKS

(Continued From Page One) were either in this car or the 8th car. Hampered by the smoke and dust, the rescue workers entered the cars and carried out those who, either killed or rendered unconscious, still lay in the shattered cars. In one end of the ninth car they found the body of a baby, decapitated, and that of a woman, almost all the clothing stripped from her body. Above on the street police lines were established and all traffic cleared for several blocks. Other police were sent to other subway stations where the home-going crowds fought to get into stations already crowded to suffocation, not knowing what was causing the delay. All stations were cleared and thousands forced to go home over elevated lines, street cars and cabs, the extra burdens placed on the other lines taxed them beyond capacity and for hours after the accident street cars and elevated were still crawling along, delayed at every station by the pushing, shoving crowds. At 1:10 o'clock this morning, eight hours after the accident, traffic was resumed on the local subway tracks, which run parallel to the express track on which the accident occurred. Mayor Walker was one of the first city officials to arrive at the scene. Setting up headquarters at the 30th precinct police station nearby he aided police and fire department officials in expediting the care of the injured. When the motorman of the wrecked train was slow in appearing, the mayor threatened Frank H. Hedley, president of the Interborough Rapid Transit Intransit, with arrest unless the man was produced. W. E. Baldwin, a maintenance man, and switchman king, who had been working on the damaged switch and had pronounced it safe, were finally found and taken to the 30th precinct station where they were questioned several hours. Baldwin later was arrested on a charge of homicide. Police commissioner, Warren, took charge of police forces and started his own investigation. The mayor said he would not carry on his investigation until he had received all the reports from police and fire department officials.

KELOGG IS HONORED BY PARIS TODAY (Continued From Page One) Kellogg answered, "The President makes treaties and it is the Senate that ratifies them. I have done my part and you ought not to ask me that question." After dismissing the newspapermen, Mr. Kellogg received former Premier Herriot, chatting with him a few minutes in English. The former cabinet head paid a tribute to the American statesman's efforts in favor of peace and shook his hand cordially when Kellogg accompanied him to his car. Upon leaving Herriot cried out "Good-bye until Monday." In his quiet way of doing things unannounced, the Secretary gave Paris a surprise when he appeared at the Arch De Triomphe at 12:30 p. m. After laying an anonymous wreath on the tomb he knelt before the shrine and remained in silent meditation for a moment. Then, after rising and standing at attention a full minute, he turned away without saying a word. The few fortunate photographers who happened to be present at the time obtained an unique picture of Mr. Kellogg kneeling before the tomb, the first public official so

POLITICAL CAMPIRES BURNING BRIGHTLY IN ALL PARTS OF NATION

(Continued From Page One) Hampshire to Maryland. It already has been started on a major scale by Senator Curtis, the Republican vice-presidential nominee, with his speech on Rhode Island on the tariff. It is conceded by all politicians that within these four groups lie the electoral votes that will decide the election. And of the four the eastern seaboard group is the one that each side would be most reluctant to give up.

Within both party organizations, there appear constantly increasing signs of realignment. Democratic Chairman Raskob dealt out one of the surprises of the campaign when he went to Philadelphia and indicated after a luncheon conference that an entirely new Democratic organization would be set up in that Republican City, with the apparent purpose of seriously contending for the electoral votes of Pennsylvania. The real proportions of this effort are yet to be disclosed. In the south it is the Republican organization, largely, which is undergoing realignment. In several states where the Hoover managers have set up lily-white leaders, the negro has protested loud and long, and the echoes of his lament have been heard among his brethren in the north. What is happening among the negro voters, in fact, is one of the things that Republican managers are rather anxious to know. Three negro leaders recently have refused to serve on committees named by Hoover headquarters; a negro mass meeting in Florida organized against the Republican state ticket; a similar meeting attended by leaders of the race from all parts of Virginia heard speakers urge against any present endorsement of Hoover; from South Carolina have come mysterious reports of an unusual registration of negro votes; while from Chicago and other cities having large negro population the accounts of racial leanings have been equally confusing. Some Republican leaders appear a little concerned; others say it will all adjust itself before election day.

The week has not been so prolific as some of its predecessors in the production of prominent party bolters, but on neither side has there been a complete absence of outspoken dissent from the present party leadership. Among the Republicans the loudest speaking of this character was done by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, who forcibly dissociated himself from Secretary Hoover's views on prohibition and armaments; while among the Democrats the long-silent Senator Simmons of North Carolina, let it be known that he would not vote either for Smith or Hoover.

SPENT MOST OF LIFE IN AN OLDSMOBILE
Miss Nina Bell Hurst has led an Oldsmobile life, automatically speaking. During the greater part of her motoring experience, which dates from childhood, she has ridden in or given an Oldsmobile.

When Miss Hurst started attending school at Stillwater, Oklahoma, her father drove her to the sessions in his Oldsmobile.

(1) of the original curved dash cars manufactured in 1902. Despite its somewhat noisy operation, this one cylindered runabout was the envy of Miss Hurst's school chums because it really ran and was much more spiffy than a horse drawn rig.

Other Oldsmobiles entered the life of the Hurst family, but it was early in 1924, more than four years ago, that Miss Hurst bought one for her very own self. She was then no longer a school girl but was (and is) a school teacher at Sawtelle, Calif., a suburb of Los Angeles.

During the four years that Miss Hurst owned her 24 model she drove it a mere matter of something better than 40,000 miles. It was still running in fine shape, even had two original but retreated, tires on its wheels when, a few weeks ago, Miss Hurst could no longer withstand the lure of the new Oldsmobile and purchased one.

Last summer Miss Hurst made a motoring trip for Jack Holcomb, 'automotive' editor of the Santa Monica, Cal., Outlook. She drove her three-year old Oldsmobile 1400 miles in five days, visiting Needles, the Grand Canyon, Phoenix, Yuma and El Centro. The route covered all altitudes from the desert to mountain tops and the wide variety of climate to be expected on an up and down trip of this kind. This year Miss Hurst drove her new Oldsmobile on a vacation trip to her old home at Stillwater.

"I am in reality an Oldsmobile fan," said Miss Hurst. "My car seems just another part of myself. How can it be otherwise, considering our intimate association? San Francisco to Los Angeles in one day; Los Angeles to the brink of the Grand Canyon in two days, my own hand steering every foot of the way; San Diego and back the same day is but a little jaunt."

GOING UP

There's only one conclusion
IT MUST BE GOOD

*This line shows how the sales of Oldsmobiles have mounted month by month for the last six months

When a car wins success as quickly as this new Oldsmobile, there is only one conclusion—it must be good! And the facts confirm this judgment.

Its magnificent new bodies by Fisher reveal the surpassing beauty and craftsmanship for which Fisher is world-famous.

Its great 55 h. p. engine provides high-compression performance without special fuels.

Its silenced chassis embodies every principle of fine-car design. Its complete equipment shows exceptional concern with owner satisfaction.

Thousands of motorists acclaim it "The Fine Car of Low Price." Owners grow more and more enthusiastic with each mile of driving. Sales have leaped to a new high point.

So the evidence rolls up—until your own good judgment tells you... "I must see this Oldsmobile. I must drive it myself. There's no denying, it must be good!"

GRAIN MARKET. Chicago, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Assertions that there had been a renewal of frosts in Canada did much to give firmness to wheat values today in the later dealings. Many wheat traders showed a pronounced disposition to go slow on the selling side, wheat being relatively low in price compared with other commodities.

Wheat closed firm, 3-8 to 1c net higher, corn showing 1-8c to 1-3-8c gain, oats 1-8 to 7-8c up, and provisions unchanged to rise of 17c.

LOCALS LOSE FIRST GAME TO GOLDBUGS

Goldsboro won the first game of the series from Greenville at the fair grounds here yesterday. The score was 9 to 2. The Goldbugs entered the game with the idea of holding their lead to place in the standing of clubs of the Eastern Carolina, and at no time did they fail to forget the fact. Playing matchless ball in every stanza, they held the locals to a minimum of hits and still less runs. Allen did mound duty for the locals, yielding a total of eleven safeties, which bunched, netted the visitors three runs in the first inning, three in the sixth, two in the seventh and one in the eighth. Johnson hurled consistently for the Goldbugs and prevented the Tobaccoists from pushing runs across the plate at moments when scoring appeared almost inevitable. Both clubs fielded in splendid fashion and were enabled to play out the given number of innings in faster time than customary. The Goldbugs conclude the series here this afternoon. Monday will find the locals playing in Kinston. WANER VIES FOR HONORS IN NATIONAL

New York, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Regardless of the final outcome of the race for the individual batting championship of the National League, Paul Waner has converted it from a walk-away for Rogers Hornsby to a struggle which matches the intensity of the battle now being waged by five clubs for the team championship. The Pittsburgh star played a steady, plugging game with his bat all summer and then just at the point where a spurt would have made the crown comparatively safe for the Boston manager, Waner himself spurted while Hornsby slumped. According to averages issued today and including games of last Wednesday, the rajah tops the regulars of his circuit with a mark of .376 in 99 games, but Paul, on the same figures, is only four points lower in a total of 116 games. This is the closest approach the elder Waner has made to the lead since the season really got under way, and he could gain the top in one or two good days. Other leading regular batsmen are: Lindstrom, New York, .354; Traynor, Pittsburgh, .344; Grantham, Pittsburgh, .342; Roetter, St. Louis, and Sisler, Boston, .341; Bottomley, St. Louis, .336; and Hafey, St. Louis and Herman, Brooklyn, .334. Paul Waner sets the pace in total hits with 174, in runs scored with 110; and in doubles with 41. Bissette of Brooklyn and Bottomley are tied for the greatest number of triples, 13 each, while Sunny Jim stands alone in batting in runs with 101. In addition, Bottomley is only two home runs behind Hack Wason of Chicago, who leads the league with 28. Bissette and Hafey are tied with Don Hurst of Philadelphia for the next notch, each having nineteen. Cuyler of the Cubs continues at the top in stolen bases, this time with 25 to his credit. Larry Benton, the New York ace, remains the best pitcher in the league on the games won and lost rating, with twenty victories and four defeats through Wednesday for a percentage of 833. Benton also tops the league in complete games, this week with twenty-three, although he is crowned by Burleigh Grimes of Pittsburgh, who has started and finished twenty-two times. Grimes also leads in total victories with twenty-one. Braine, the Pittsburgh recruit, is the nominal second man in the pitching averages with four victories and one defeat for .800, but the

Freak Baseball In New League

(By the Associated Press) A win by freak baseball may be just as orthodox as any other win as far as the scorer is concerned, but it is hard to convince the team that loses by this method that it's all in the game. Take the Kinston Stemmers for instance. In Fayetteville yesterday the Stemmers pounded Craig, Lanning and Smith with everything but the keystone sack. While they were tolling up a total of 16 safeties the Highlanders were touching Emmons and Ellison for eight bingles. Yet the close of the ninth inning found the Stemmers on the short end of a 10 to 8 score. And there was no denying that they had lost the ball game. Fayetteville bunched hits. Kinston was not so particular about the sequence of their safeties. Then there was Goldsboro. Everything broke right for them. Several double plays, snappy fielding, timely hitting and quick recognition of the breaks gave them a 9 to 2 win over Greenville. True, Greenville banged Stanley Johnson for seven hits, four less than the victors recorded, but they didn't have the punch to turn them into runs. Hal Weaver's Pirates spurted ahead in the seventh and eighth innings before the holiday crowd in Wilmington to defeat Rocky Mount 5 to 3. In this game Charlie McMillan's crew got to McKay and Newberry for only 2 hits but they stretched those two into three runs. The league standings were not affected.

Twins Widen Gap In the Piedmont

(By the Associated Press) The Greensboro Patriots made a determined effort to overhaul the league leading Twins yesterday even to the extent of tying the count in the ninth inning of their game with the Capitals at Raleigh but opposition stickwork in the final inning proved too much and they lost to Raleigh 6 to 5. Meanwhile the Twins were doing their part to widen the gap separating them from the Patriots by trimming the third place Pointers 5 to 3. Conklin's wildness in the first inning allowed three runs, margin enough to decide the game. He was touched for 13 hits but kept them well scattered after the opening round. Salisbury, leading the second division, pounced on the hapless Bulls and pounded Page and Sullivan for 16 hits to win 10 to 0.

Hectic Playing Features Sally Fights Last Night

(By the Associated Press) Chicago: Billy Petrolle, Fargo, N. D., technically knocked out Jack Berg, England. (5); Murray Layton, New York, Larrabee, St. Paul, drew. (5). Long Branch, N. J.: Leo Lomski, Aberdeen, Wash., and Max Ross, New York, and Harry Larrabee, St. Paul, drew. (5). Long Branch, N. J.: Leo Lomski, Aberdeen, Wash., and Max Ross, New York, drew. (10). Waycross, Ga.: Sammy Buchanan, Waycross, technically knocked out Bobby Martin, Greensboro, N. C. (5). While the South Atlantic Association games yesterday were all wobbly afield, the run makers packed a bag of thrills for fans in each contest. Two games were decided by a single run while in the other two the scores mounted so high they kept the crowds on edge with the probability of anything happening. The Asheville Tourists added another to their long string, showing their number of victories above 80. Kennedy's men, engaged at home, repulsed Greenville 4 to 3. Sinythe allowed the Spinners only seven hits but his mates bobbled three times while Greenville was turning in a perfect performance, the only such exhibition of the day in the circuit. Columbia, playing at home, beat Charlotte's Hornets 3 to 2. Hodges of the Corners and Williamson doing mound work for manager Mackey allowed 11 hits each but Charlotte piled up three miscues to two for Columbia. Knoxville corralled fifteen hits to defeat Spartanburg 12 to 8. Macon trounced Augusta 13 to 9, each team using two pitchers.
