DEFENSE AND OFFENSE

That it is impossible to stop a whispering campaign by argument and evidence is known to all experienced politicians. If those who whisper and believe the whispers cared about evidence and were open to reason they would not whisper. They would either cease to slander or they would bring their charges into the open, prove them and crush the man they oppose. Any one of two dozen stories now in circulation about Gov. Smith would, if brought into the open and proved, end his career forever in humiliation and disgrace. Does any one suppose, for example, that if Gov. Smith were a drunkard that Democrats like Franklin D. Roosevelt or John W. Davis or Newton Baker would have anything to do with him? Since Gov. Smith is no more a drunkard than Theodore Roosevelt was a drunkard, the charge is never brought into the open where the accuser can be brought to book. It is passed along privately from one prejudiced ignoramus to another, and if you disprove it in a concrete case, as, for example, in regard to the Syracuse fair, the story will go right on circulating, except that Seagirt or Boston or some other place will be substituted as the scene of his alleged drunkenness. It goes on circulating wherever there are people who hate the Governor's social background and want to believe anything which will justify their hatred.

This kind of thing cannot be overcome by arguing with it but by transcending it. In New York and its neighboring States the great majority of people, Republicans and Democrats alike, are immune to the whispering campaign because the career and personality of Gov. Smith are so well established in their minds that they can no more believe these slanders than they would believe them of Mr. Hughes or Mr. Root. But in the rural districts and in the small towns, especially among women who live narrow and secluded lives, the conception of Gov. Smith is as fantastically unreal as if he were a Hottentot chieftain. That unreal conception cannot be supplanted with a true conception by exposing the slanders of the Whites, the Stratoms and the rest. It can be done only by establishing Gov. Smith as an authentic leader on issues of genuine importance. That task should, in our opinion, have begun at least a year ago. By the time of the convention Gov. Smith should have been established in the public mind not as a "wet" but as a statesman who proposes to lead the Nation out of the morass of Volsteadism; not as a New Yorker born on the east side but as a champion of the common people against the forces of entrenched privilege. His enemies would no doubt have gone on whispering, but his friends would have been shouting in the exultation of a cause.

That course was not pursued, and now on the 18th of September the campaign to establish Gov. Smith will begin. It deserves to succeed. The country needs the renewal of its ancient faith in human brotherhood which the election of Gov. Smith would signify. The character of the campaign which the Republicans have not only tolerated but in the person of Mrs. Willebrandt have authorized ought to defeat them. No party ought to win in this country which asks for organized sectarian help. The precedent is evil, the wounds which it inflicts upon the fellow ship of American life are deep. It is time, moreover, that the base of the American democracy was broadened to include all the races and religions of which it is composed. It is time to renew the faith that the humblest may by his merits aspire to the highest. It is time that the unprivileged had a voice at the seat of government. Gov. Smith symbolizes these hopes. He has now to demonstrate that he is the leader of a party.—New York World.

ABOUT TOWN

"The speech of Mr. Eringhaus, of Elizabeth City, delivered at the courthouse this afternoon should give Pitt County people something to think about for long months to come", observed an out-of-town man here to hear the distinguished political leader.

"The great part which democracy has played in the history of the nation was set forth in a plain and convincing manner by the speaker and those who heard him are, no doubt, convinced that its principles are safe and sound under all circumstances.

"Other speakers are to follow Mr. Eringhaus in the near future, but none of them will be able to improve upon his logic, although they may muster a greater array of facts dealing with party history".

"The county Welfare Department has reported the need of funds to help provide for sick persons who are unable to provide for themselves", a member of the department told us today.

"We have two cases at this time in urgent need of funds with which to provide medical aid and hospitalization. The public has been called upon from time to time to aid in this work, but this is one of our most urgent appeals and it is hoped the response will be liberal".

"This is felt that day all over the county and Greenville merchants are exerting every effort to get the public to dress up their heads before Sunday", said an interested observer of the campaign today.

"Some of the firms are offering a special price for old straw hats, providing of course, a new felt hat is purchased to take its place. A man with a straw hat on Sunday will stand no more show than a snowball in Hades".

"Tuesday evening", observed a member of the Greenville Merchants Association, "Greenville merchants will give their annual fall fashion display. It will be the greatest affair of the kind ever before held in the city and hundreds of people from a radius of fifty miles or more are expected to be in attendance.

"Merchants have been making ready for the display for several days now and when Tuesday rolls around everything will be all set for the occasion.

"Be sure and come to Greenville on this date and see what the various business houses have to offer."

OPEN FORUM

OFFICER MCKEEL DECLARES HE WAS DISMISSED BECAUSE HE WAS PERFORMING DUTY

To the People of Greenville:
Now that I have been discharged from the police force of this city, and am no longer on the payroll, in justice to myself, having served this city for two years faithfully and to the best of my ability, I desire the public to know the facts regarding my summary dismissal from the force.

Two days before I received the letter which is herewith published, a certain man came to me, in the back of the police station, and told me that he had been in conference with the Police Commission, and that they had promised him a place on the force; and that he heard them say that if McKee would let them keep him on, but the first time he messed in that liquor business, he would be fired. I told this man to go back and tell them that so long as I was a policeman I expected to arrest every man I saw violating the law, especially the liquor laws.

Two days later I received the following letter:

Greenville, N. C.,
August 30, 1928.
Mr. Walter McKee, Patrolman,
Greenville Police Department,
Greenville, N. C.

Dear Sir:
It has been decided by the Police Commission to ask you for your resignation effective September 15, 1928. We will thank you at this time to turn over all property belonging to the City of Greenville to its Chief of Police Mr. J. L. Whichard.

This action on the part of the Commission is strictly confidential and if you wish you can give Mr. Whichard notice that you are quitting of your own accord.

Very truly yours,
Police Commission of Greenville.
By W. H. Bradsher.

A few days after the receipt of this letter, I stopped W. H. Bradsher and demanded some reason for my discharge, and told him I thought I was entitled to know. He said to me that I had been a satisfactory officer, under both Chief Jones and Chief Whichard, but he refused to give any cause for my discharge.

And so I have been fired, for no other reason that I can find out, except that I tried to catch the bootleggers in the warehouses as well as any other place.

WALTER MCKEEL.
Sworn to and subscribed before me this 15th day of September, 1928.
F. A. EDMUNDSON,
Notary Public.
My commission expires 9-27-'28.

Listen Shower For Mrs. Bradshaw. On Thursday afternoon, Miss Annie Shields Vandye was a charming hostess at bridge, honoring Mrs. Edward Bradshaw, a recent bride, who was formerly Miss Ruby West.

The home on Dickinson Avenue was very attractive with fall flowers. The guests were served iced drinks on arrival. Bridge was played at five tables. A prize for high score was given Miss Rubelle Evans.

Little Miss Jane Tolar Massey, dressed as a bride, and Master Allan Holstead Vandye as a groom, showered Mrs. Bradshaw with many lovely gifts of linen. A delicious ice course was served at the conclusion of the game.

MISS AGNEW TO SPEAK FOR THE GARDEN CLUB MONDAY MORNING.

The Garden Club has been fortunate in securing Miss Ella G. Agnew editor of the woman's page of the Southern Planter, to speak in the auditorium of the Evans Street Graded School on Monday, September 17th, at 10 a. m. A cordial invitation is extended to all who are interested in landscape gardening to hear Miss Agnew. Dr. R. L. Carr will also be present and speak on this subject.

Many of the older residents of Greenville remember when it was said that "grass will not grow in this soil," and yards were swept clean. We have learned better, as our beautiful green lawns everywhere testify. Not only grass, but almost everything else that grows anywhere, will grow in Greenville and Pitt County.

How to cultivate and arrange these plants and flowers is the thing to be learned. Come and hear Miss Agnew and Dr. Carr on Monday morning, and then go home and make its surroundings more beautiful.

East And West Sharing Presidential Spotlight

By BYRON PRICE (Associated Press Staff Writer) Chicago, Sept. 15.—(AP)—East and west now share the spotlight of presidential politics as the two nominees make ready to quit their headquarters and carry their campaigns to the country.

For both Smith and Hoover, the present week has been one of preparation for a venture on none-too-familiar ground. Choosing to begin his real campaigning almost within hail of the sidewalks of New York, Hoover will speak Monday at Newark, and swing round the circle of other nearby Jersey cities. On Tuesday Smith will begin a western swing with a speech at Omaha, just on the border of his rival's native state, Iowa.

The whole country is certain to look on with more than ordinary interest as the two candidates make their bows in east and west. To a large degree, both will be stepping into unaccustomed roles. Hoover's automobile circuit through north Jersey will give him his first opportunity at catch-as-catch-can campaigning in the populous section about the metropolis, while Smith is stumping among western voters with whom he has had no great contact.

Quite aside from what they say, the nominees will each have his chance to show the extent of his personal resourcefulness in the broader field upon which he is entering.

Hoover's week at Washington has been given over largely to conferences with his friends and supporters. One of those with whom he talked longest was President Coolidge, back from his Wisconsin vacation and ready to help the new leader of his party toward victory.

Smith, also receiving advice at Albany from many quarters, took time to scotch "a lie in the whispering campaign." In direct and dramatic fashion he furnished the country with documentary evidence that there was no truth in a privately-circulated story that he had been intoxicated at the Syracuse fair. It was his first open thrust at "whispering," a subject about which many of his Democratic colleagues have been talking for weeks.

The governor's most unusual statement was the second extraordinary contribution within the week to the literature of the campaign of 1928. The first was a public pronouncement by Republican Chairman Work, saying that no self-respecting party headquarters would countenance the sort of personal attacks that have been made covertly against both candidates.

The eastern field to which Hoover goes has not been largely produced of political news during the week. In that vital section both sides are hard at work, however, perfecting state tickets and steam-rolling up for the crucial stretches of the campaign. The eastern highlight was the tremendous Republican sweep in the Maine election, producing the greatest majorities in history. The usual debate as to the national significance of the result now is in progress, with about the usual fervor.

But there is a disposition in both parties to wonder at the falling off of the total vote, and party leaders are asking themselves whether many dry Democrats did not stay at home on election, and if so, what that indicates as to the nation itself in November.

The Republicans say it may mean big Democratic defections from Smith, but the Democrats reply that a stay-at-home Democratic vote is better than a Democratic vote for Hoover.

Further realignments have taken place in the more restless west, where Smith presumably is to make his supreme bid for the farm vote during the remaining days of September. In the state where he will deliver his first speech, the Nebraska federation of Labor has voted him "100 per cent the friend of labor." In the same state, Mark Woods, a leader in the effort to stop Hoover at Kansas City, has come down from the fence on Hoover's side, while to the north the Democratic juncture with the non-partisan wing of the Republican party of North Dakota seems to have been promoted by the decision of Gov. Maddock, who was chairman of the state's delegation to the Republican national convention, to run for reelection as a Democrat.

Meantime in Minnesota public discussion of a swing to Smith continues, whether it has the wings behind it or not, and in Republican Iowa surprising rumors have reached Republican state officials, and they have begun a thorough canvass of the whole state situation.

Democratic tightening-up processes in the south continue to produce visible—and in some cases audible—results. In Texas a Democratic state convention lockout against the few county delegations who refused to pledge themselves to Smith was followed by a bolt, and some black eyes and bloody noses on both sides. The same convention, however, heard the dry governor, Dan Moody, himself a candidate for reelection, take the pledge for Smith.

In Georgia, a Smith-pledged member of Congress, Leslie J. Steele was renominated over a dissenting former member, William D. Upshaw. Throughout the southeastern seaboard states, from Virginia to Florida, Senator Robinson continued his campaign for party regularity and repeated his charges that the religious issue accounts for much of the southern dislike for Smith.

DIZZY, NO APPETITE Since Taking Black-Draught This Man Is Eager For His Meals and Feels Much Better.

Harrisburg, N. C.—Mr. M. F. Fink, of this place, says: "It must have been fully twenty-five years ago that I began taking Black-Draught regularly. It wasn't so long after I married."

"I was in town one day, and while talking to a friend I stooped over to pick up something. When I straightened up, I felt dizzy. I spoke to him about this and how I had not felt like eating. My friend told me to take some Black-Draught. I knew my mother had used it, and so I bought a package. When I got home, I took a good, big dose, and the next night, another. In a few days I felt much better. I was hungry and the dizziness was gone."

"A good many times I have had this dizziness and a bad taste in my mouth, or headaches, and then I take Black-Draught and get better. I do not have to take it very often. We buy from five to seven packages a year."

Theodore's Black-Draught has been found to relieve sick headaches in thousands of cases that were due to constipation. Containing no mineral drugs, it acts gently, yet promptly. Try it. NC-193

COTTON MARKET

New York, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Revised weakness marked the cotton market today, prices making new low ground for the movement under further southern selling and liquidation.

December sold off to 17.34 and closed at that figure. The general market closed easy at net declines of 12 to 16 points.

Futures closed easy, 12@16 points lower; spot quiet, middling 17.65.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Surprising strength of wheat prices at Liverpool did much today to lift wheat values here and so too did assertions that the Chicago market had been seriously oversold by adventurous speculators who appeared to have over-reached themselves counting on burdensome pressure of the newly harvested wheat northwest.

Another bullish factor as to all grain was aggressive buying in the corn market.

Wheat closed firm 5-8 to 1 cent net higher; corn showing 1-2 to 3 1/4 advance; oats 1-4 to 1-2 up, and provisions varying from 5 decline to a rise of 20c.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Reversal of activity and strength in the railroad shares featured the resumption of the upward price movement in today's stock market. Despite the absence of many traders because of the Jewish religious holiday, trading was in substantially large volume for a half holiday session. The day's sales approximated 1,500,000 shares.

Buying of the rails was influenced by predictions of unusually heavy crop movements in the last quarter of the year. St. Louis Southwestern common, a non-dividend payer, advanced 4 1/4 points to a new peak at 113. New York Central and Canadian Pacific each advanced 3 points and Missouri Pacific common, New Haven, Chicago Northwestern, Erie and Consolidated Railways of Cuba preferred sold 2 or more points higher.

Extreme gains of 3 to 4 points were recorded by Houston Oil, Stanley Co. of America, Fox Film, Union Carbide, Montgomery-Ward, Calumet & Arizona, California Packing and Warren Bros.

The closing was strong.

GOLDSBUGS WIN LAST GAME OF THE E. C. SERIES

Wilmington, N. C., Sept. 15.—(AP)—Goldsboro won the Eastern Carolina League pennant for 1928 by taking the seventh game from the Wilmington Pirates here today, 2 to 0.

The Bugs' runs came in the last two innings after both aggregations had battered away in a futile effort to cross the home plate. The first run resulted from a miscue in the eighth while the second game in the nature of an earned tally in the ninth.

Thomas gave up seven hits to the Pirates while Newbury and Newsome dropped seven safeties to the Bugs. Each team was credited with one error.

GIANTS HARD ON BOSTON'S BRAVE TEAM

If John McGraw and his New York Giants could spend the rest of the season in Boston there would be nothing to this National League pennant struggle.

Eight times in four playing days did John's hirelings smash the hapless Braves into defeat and boosted themselves thereby into a position only one game from the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals.

So John returns to Coogan's Bluff today to face the Brooklyn Dodgers in a single game and then to take the four powerful western clubs in succession. It is scarcely likely he will find them as docile as the Braves.

Before the Giants invaded Boston those four successive double headers with the Braves gave McGraw a headache every time he thought of them. By sweeping the series the Giants established a new major league record for victories in consecutive double headers and turned what looked like a burly obstacle to their pennant hopes into a threatening position in the standings.

Good pitching by Freddy Fitzsimmons and Jock Scott gave the Giants both ends of the final twin bill yesterday 6 to 2 and 5 to 1. The second game was called in the 6th because of darkness.

The Cardinals kept danger from growing into actual disaster by turning back the Phillies 13 to 6. Back of Burleigh Grimes' deadly effectiveness in the pinches, the Pittsburgh Pirates trounced the Cincinnati Reds 4 to 1 and tightened their hold on fourth place.

Only one game of the Piedmont league championship series over Winston-Salem here today, 3 to 1. Howard Conklin held the Twins to four scattered hits while the Pointers were nipping Olin Perritt for fourteen safeties.

The exhibition was marked by brilliant field work and sensational catches that nipped runs in the bud.

The Twins took a one run lead in the second stanza. Three singles, a wild throw and a walk afforded the Pointers two runs in their half of the same inning. The third Pointer score came in the fourth on three singles and a fielder's choice.

The win gave the Pointers a two to nothing lead on the Twins in the series.

The third game will be played at Winston-Salem tomorrow.

Pointers Still Going Strong

High Point, N. C., Sept. 15.—(AP)—High Point claimed the second successive game of the Piedmont league championship series over Winston-Salem here today, 3 to 1. Howard Conklin held the Twins
