AL SMITH TO DISCUSS DRY LAW TONIGHT

Says It Is The Right Of Every Person To Worship As Dictated By Conscience.

By D. HAROLD OLIVER Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 29.—(AP)—In this former brewing center, Gov. Smith tonight will lay before a waiting electorate his detailed program for prohibition reform. The speech, the sixth and last of two weeks' western invasion, will be the first devoted to the Democratic presidential candidate to the Eighteenth Amendment and Volstead Act since he advocated their modification in his acceptance speech at Albany August 2.

With only this one subject as his text, it is expected that the nominee will elaborate to some extent on the stand he took in that address for state control of liquor sales and in the side discussion of prohibition at Omaha September 18, when, at the close of his farm relief speech, he answered one of several questions propounded to him in a newspaper advertisement with the declaration that he did not consider liquor "the great issue" of the campaign.

As is his custom, Gov. Smith worked late on a draft of his speech last night at the hotel Schroeder, where his party is quartered on the nineteenth floor. A press conference was the first engagement facing him after breakfast today.

They had planned to take him on a tour of the city, probably for a visit at Marquette University, whose students, in brown berets and college flannels, turned out in such large numbers last night and paraded several miles alongside the automobile procession.

A visit to the soldiers' home also had been arranged for the nominee, who is spending 42 hours in this Wisconsin metropolis before making a bee-line for Rochester, N. Y., for the state Democratic convention Monday.

At this meeting, which he plans to address an entire state ticket, including a nominee for governor, will be named and a platform adopted, and unusual interest is being manifested in it because of the effect it is to have on the presidential situation. Arrangements had been made by Gov. Smith today to receive reports on the Republican state convention at Syracuse, which also was to name a gubernatorial candidate.

By spending two nights in Milwaukee, Gov. Smith and his political lieutenants planned to make the best of their odd moments, getting some first hand information on his prospects in Wisconsin in November.

The late Senator LaFollette carried the state four years ago, running on an independent presidential ticket, and it is the old followers of this Republican progressive upon whom Democratic managers are banking heavily to aid Smith. Wisconsin normally has been Republican in presidential elections, although Cleveland captured its electoral votes in 1892 and Wilson carried it in 1912, with Roosevelt and Taft in the field.

One Killed And Two Hurt In Fire At Garner, N. C. Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Lynn Broughton, 30, filling station employee, was burned to death; and William Wall, 21, and Arch Wood, a customer, were injured early today when the Henry Allen Filling Station at Garner, N. C., near here, was destroyed by an explosion and fire.

Franco-British Naval Accord Unacceptable To The United States

Washington, Sept. 29.—(AP)—The Franco-British naval accord is utterly unacceptable to the United States. It is construed by Secretary Kellogg as proposing that sharp restrictions be placed upon vessels of particular value to the United States of a type essentially suited to her needs. Further, he feels that it would defeat the purpose of naval arms limitation and also to a "redundance of naval competition disastrous to national economy."

All this was made clear in identical notes delivered to the London and Paris governments late yesterday in reply to the British note of July 31 and the French communication of August 3. "The American government seeks no special advantage on the sea," Secretary Kellogg said, "but clearly cannot permit itself to be placed in a position of manifest disadvantage."

Such a situation he believes would result from an application of the French-English accord. From the British note outlining the agreement he drew the conclusion that the limitations to be determined on the basis of the accord would deal with four classes of war ships: capital ships; aircraft carriers of more than 10,000 tons; surface vessels of or below 10,000 tons with guns of from six to eight inches in calibre; and submarines of more than 600 tons.

The note went on to point out that the first two classes were provided for at the Washington arms conference, which would leave only the last two to be discussed by the preparatory commission for the disarmament conference, to which the Franco-British agreement is to be submitted.

This, Secretary Kellogg declared, would leave without restriction surface vessels armed with guns of less than six inch calibre and submarines of less than 600 tons. For fighting purposes, he asserted, vessels of this description have a high combat value, particularly to a nation possessing well distributed naval bases.

"The limitation of only such surface vessels as are restricted in class 3, of the draft agreement, that is cruisers of or below 10,000 tons, armed with guns of more than six or up to eight inch calibre," the note said, "would be the imposition of restrictions only on types peculiarly suited to the needs of the United States. The United States cannot accept as a distinct class surface combatant vessels of or below 10,000 tons armed with guns of more than six and up to eight inch calibre. It is further clearly apparent that limitation of this type would add enormously to the comparative offensive power of a nation possessing a large merchant tonnage on which preparation may be made in times of peace for mounting six inch guns."

As to submarines, Mr. Kellogg said that much the same idea would apply, and asserted that the United States cannot accept submarines of more than 600 tons as a distinct class for limitation leaving smaller types unrestricted.

The note went on to point out that the first two classes were provided for at the Washington arms conference, which would leave only the last two to be discussed by the preparatory commission for the disarmament conference, to which the Franco-British agreement is to be submitted.

LEAF MARKET IS AHEAD OF LAST SEASON

Local Tobacco Market Up To Present Date Has Sold 19,636,090 Lbs. Of Leaf. With the conclusion of sales yesterday the Greenville tobacco market had increased its season's total to 19,636,090 pounds, according to official figures made public today by K. W. Cobb, secretary of the local Tobacco Board of Trade. For the same period last season the market had sold 18,340,188, which gives it a lead of something like a million pounds toward the seventy million pound goal set for this year.

Completion of comparative figures of sales for the two seasons brings to mind the sharp contrast between weather conditions of last year and this year. Last season only the most splendid weather had prevailed up to this time. This season, however, the market virtually lost three days because of the torrential downpour of rain accompanying the hurricane which passed over this section last week. Had the weather been similar to that of last year there is little doubt but that sales would be beyond the twenty million mark.

With the disposition of 996,654 pounds of bright leaf yesterday, tobaccoists saw the floors of all warehouses cleared completely, and turned their attention to preparation for the enormous volume of leaf expected to pour into the city over the week-end. The market paid out to the farmers yesterday the total sum of $174,804.94. The average for the day being officially estimated at $17.43 per hundred pounds.

Sales for the week also bear a striking comparison with sales for the same period last season. With the ending of sales yesterday, 5,551,964 pounds of bright leaf were disposed of for a total sum of $988,530.82 at an average of $17.80. For the same week last season, 4,847,444 pounds had been disposed of at an average of $20.17.

It was stated that there was a considerable amount of damaged tobacco on the floors of the various warehouses during the week despite efforts of tobaccoists to get the farmers to hold it out until favorable weather justified reworking of same. This naturally had much to do with the price situation, which, even under this handicap, reflected considerable strength during the week.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Clinton S. Carnes, missing treasurer of the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, was being held for Atlanta, Ga., authorities here today. He is under two indictments in Atlanta for embezzlement and misappropriation of funds, estimates of his speculations running as high as $1,000,000.

His arrest followed a continent-wide search, instituted in August by officials of the church he served who at first feared he had met with foul play. Embezzlement of the church funds was only revealed when auditors started checking over his books in preparation to turn them over to a temporary treasurer. It was later discovered that a man answering his description had served a term in the federal prison at Atlanta for misuse of the mails, and a five months sentence in the Clinton, Mo., jail.

He was located here three days ago, but the arrest was not made until fingerprint records, identification circulars and a picture of the missing treasurer were obtained from St. Paul, Minn., authorities. Authorities said he readily admitted his identity and said he would waive extradition proceedings. He came here three weeks ago, staying for a time at a downtown hotel and later moving into a private family. He registered under the name of F. L. Lewis, representing himself as a manufacturer of breakfast foods. He said he was planning a plant in Winnipeg.

Seeks Re-election

Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts is seeking re-election. He was unopposed in the democratic primary.

SEN. ROBINSON TO APPEAR AT COLUMBIA, MO.

Vice-Presidential Nominee To Make Last of Three Speech Drive Tonight.

Robinson Special Car Enroute to Columbia, Mo., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Senator Joe Robinson, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, moved forward to Columbia today for the last of a three-speech drive to win the border-state of Missouri for the Democratic banner. He proposes, as he did in Kansas City last night, to open up with another attack on the way Republicans have run the government, religion, farm relief and several of the other issues injected into the campaign.

Here, as in southern states, the Senator has been advised that Gov. Smith's membership in the Catholic church is a question of concern to some voters and in Kansas City he loosened up on those opposed to the Democratic presidential nominee for that reason.

An audience that packed the hall where the Republicans in June held their national convention was on its feet howling and snorting as Mr. Robinson thumped away at any preacher who attempted to mix politics and religion and also got applause when he said that he didn't see how anyone could oppose Smith for following the religion of his mother.

Clinton Carnes Held At Winnipeg, Manitoba

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 29.—(AP)—Clinton S. Carnes, missing treasurer of the Home Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, was being held for Atlanta, Ga., authorities here today. He is under two indictments in Atlanta for embezzlement and misappropriation of funds, estimates of his speculations running as high as $1,000,000.

His arrest followed a continent-wide search, instituted in August by officials of the church he served who at first feared he had met with foul play. Embezzlement of the church funds was only revealed when auditors started checking over his books in preparation to turn them over to a temporary treasurer. It was later discovered that a man answering his description had served a term in the federal prison at Atlanta for misuse of the mails, and a five months sentence in the Clinton, Mo., jail.

He was located here three days ago, but the arrest was not made until fingerprint records, identification circulars and a picture of the missing treasurer were obtained from St. Paul, Minn., authorities. Authorities said he readily admitted his identity and said he would waive extradition proceedings. He came here three weeks ago, staying for a time at a downtown hotel and later moving into a private family. He registered under the name of F. L. Lewis, representing himself as a manufacturer of breakfast foods. He said he was planning a plant in Winnipeg.

An informant, whose name the police refused to divulge, but who is believed to be a woman, tipped them off that a man answering Carnes' description was living here. Detectives were assigned to shadow the suspect while requested pictures and information were enroute from St. Paul. With the arrival of the pictures, yesterday Carnes was arrested. He at first gave the name of Lewis but later admitted his identity. Police said a search of his room revealed a considerable sum of money, how much they would not say, and numerous personal papers.

Three Great Issues Hold Public Attention In The Campaign For President

By BYRON PRICE

In tones that reverberated from coast to coast prohibition, religion, and farm relief still command the double time march of the presidential campaign as it swings clamorously through the closing days of September.

Other issues intrude momentarily, but these three set the pace. During the present week each has again demonstrated its hold on the attentions of political leaders and voters alike.

Campaigning in the West and back through the Canadian border states, Governor Smith has addressed himself most earnestly to the farmer. He has talked of other things as well, but it was the farm relief issue to which he returned oftenest, and it was the farm problem which he discussed repeatedly with party chiefs along the way.

The argument over prohibition took an astonishing turn when Senator Bruce of Maryland, gave currency to a quickly denied story that Mr. Hoover does not refuse a drink. Even Chairman Raskob of the Democratic National committee joined in the denial, saying he knew that the Republican nominee did not serve liquor in his home, and admired him for it.

Scarcely less unusual in a presidential campaign was a renewed outburst of dissension over the religious issue, centering about Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general at Washington.

She denied that her series of speeches to Ohio preachers had any other purpose than to spur them to oppose Smith because of his prohibition views, but even so, her disclaimer did not quiet controversy within her own party. While Walter Newton of the Republican speakers bureau said he was only sorry Mrs. Willebrandt didn't have more time to devote to her speechmaking, Ohio's Republican committeeman, Maurice Maschke described her activities as "well intended but misguided," and a member of the Republican committee in Wisconsin asked that she be kept at home.

Following a policy he adopted early in the campaign, Mr. Hoover remained silent on all of these subjects as he consults aides at his Washington headquarters. The reply to Senator Bruce was made by his secretary, George Akerson, who said Mr. Hoover had not taken a drink since he became a constitutional officer of the government. Chairman Work and Senator Moses replied to some of Governor Smith's western attacks on his opponent, Mrs. Willebrandt made her own denial.

This silence on Mr. Hoover's part did not go unchallenged by Governor Smith, but this far the challenge has gone unheeded. At Helena the Democratic nominee sought to address himself to his opponent on the subject of Teapot Dome, and declared he wanted no answer except from Mr. Hoover himself.

A constant roar of welcome and acclaim has accompanied Governor Smith throughout his western swing. Whether the personality under the brown derby has made a dent in Republican hopes, and whether the cheering can be translated into votes remains for the ballot boxes to disclose, but certainly this visit to the western country has coincided with certain developments which have given no aid or comfort to the Republicans.

Senator Norris of Nebraska, an independent Republican and a political leader of parts, particularly in the northern farm states, ventured the opinion that Smith's Omaha speech ought to satisfy everyone who favored the principle of the McNary-Haugen bill, and that his Denver speech on waterpower was the most "progressive" ever delivered by a candidate for the presidency. Norris disagrees with the prohibition specifications, but regards waterpower as the paramount issue.

In Wisconsin, where Smith speaks tonight, another Republican, Senator Baline, announced that he could not support Hoover, while the same state committee member who is objecting to Mrs. Willebrandt advised his superiors that impartial observers now were placing Wisconsin in the Democratic column.

From North Dakota a warning of serious trouble among the farmers was given Mr. Hoover himself by Senator Frazier, and at the same time the North Dakota governor, Walter J. Maddock, was telling Governor Smith that 80 per cent of the farmers of the state were ready to vote the Democratic ticket.

The Republican report to these continued signs of ferment in the main belt is that much time remains before election day, and that none of it will be wasted. Many Republican politicians believe their nominee will say something further about farm relief, and that he is likely to say it in the farm states, in the course of an expanded speaking trip just at the close of his campaign.

The South appears to have been much in Hoover's thoughts during the present week. Interrupting preparation of the speech he will deliver on October 6th in Tennessee, he received a delegation of first voters from Virginia, and told them that the Republican party was being enough to look after the needs of every section of the country.

The present plans of the Republican nominee will not take him beyond the border country but other Republican speakers of prominence are to go into the heart of the South, where the usually placid political waters are still in commotion. Already Senator Borah has been stumping through the border states and Hoover's running mate, Senator Curtis, has returned to the same disputed sector after a swing through the West.

In Missouri Curtis' pathway crossed that of the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, Senator Robinson. The situation there is so intriguing that both sides are willing to spend freely of their best talent.

For that matter neither side is overlooking reasonable bets in any quarter whatsoever that is untouched by the ramifications of his queer campaign. Even the Indian now is plastering on his political warpaint, and if tribal differences were to be selected in the old historic way, the western plains would be drenched with gore. For Senator Curtis has smoked the pipe of peace and made a compact with Chief Plenty Coos of the rows, and in the same week Governor Smith was twice adopted into a tribal fellowship by admiring men who named him "guiding star" and "charging hawk."

Smith has been the idol of New York voters for several years because of his wise administration of the government of that state, she said. "He is an expert on government and fully capable of dealing with any situation confronting the American people during this progressive age." She quoted Charles Evans Hughes, one of the most prominent members of the Republican party and distinguished jurist, when he one time declared Smith "the greatest expert on government in the nation."

LADY ASTOR NOW VISITING IN NEW YORK

Declines To Express Preference In Political Fight In This Country.

New York, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Lady Nancy Astor, member of the British Parliament, was here today for a two weeks' visit, clad to see the United States stirred up over the presidential election but non-committal as to her own preference. "As a native Virginian, I should undoubtedly have my coat off and be in the thick of the fight," she said, "but as an M. P., not one word—not even a gesture. It would be unbelievable for me to express an opinion."

"The coming election has developed a real fight, hasn't it? This is good. Citizens need to be awakened. Politics, religion, prohibition, the farmer. Issues that strike home—that reach the individual."

Accompanied by her daughter, the Hon. Phyllis Astor, the former Nancy Langhorne of Virginia arrived yesterday on the Aquitania. She spent the night at the home of Roger Winthrop on Long Island with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson. Tomorrow she goes to the family home at Mirador, Virginia.

The first woman ever to take a seat in the British Parliament, Lady Astor "pooh poohed" the idea that women vote as their husbands do. "That is one of the delusions men have got which they must get over," she said. "I can say however, that many men vote as do their wives."

She expressed the belief that there was nothing very wrong with the recently disclosed secret naval pact between Great Britain and France, except that "it was very stupidly done." "If we are agreed, as I think we are, that peace is desirable it is very silly to continue arming for war," she said.

She reported that the cause of temperance in England was constantly gaining ground. She said that the cities which had voted local option were happy in the experiment and that where there were ten "pubs" a few years ago there was only one today.

In the course of her interview, she let fall the following epigrams: "I do not believe that I must stand by my party right or wrong. Or my country right or wrong, either."

SMITH LAUDED BY SPEAKERS IN THIS CITY

Mrs. Jerman and Miss Henderson Spoke At High School Last Night.

"Al Smith is the hero of a new age as he swings around the continent telling the people of the principal issues of the presidential campaign," declared Miss Mary Henderson, of Salisbury, vice-chairman of the North Carolina Democratic Executive committee, speaking at the new high school auditorium in this city last night. "Smith is a real representative American citizen," Miss Henderson told her hearers, "and an outstanding figure in the political life of the nation today."

Miss Henderson was followed by Mrs. Palmer Jerman, of Raleigh, who delivered one of the most masterful discourses heard here in many a day. E. G. Flanagan, member of the Executive Committee of this county, acted as chairman. Miss Henderson was introduced by Mrs. R. L. Smith, while Miss Sally Joyner Davis, member of the faculty of East Carolina Teachers college, presented Mrs. Jerman.

Miss Henderson confined her discussion almost entirely to Al Smith, presidential candidate of the Democratic party. She told in clear, concise fashion of his splendid administration as the governor of New York. She used as her subject, "Smith and Why I Am for Him." She declared the nominee to be the exemplification of principles of the Democratic party and a representative American citizen ready to serve the country with experience gained from long association with state and national affairs.

"Smith has been the idol of New York voters for several years because of his wise administration of the government of that state," she said. "He is an expert on government and fully capable of dealing with any situation confronting the American people during this progressive age." She quoted Charles Evans Hughes, one of the most prominent members of the Republican party and distinguished jurist, when he one time declared Smith "the greatest expert on government in the nation."

She said the law enforcement plank adopted at the Houston convention provided for enforcement of prohibition and that Smith would live up to this regardless of an expressed desire for reform.

Referring briefly to the attack made on the candidate because of his religion, she declared that no man should be judged because of his religious views. She then quoted the religious intolerance test, showing that a man should be permitted to worship according to the dictates of his conscience.

Speaking of Smith's affiliation with Tammany, she described efforts of opponents to disparage his record because of this connection. "Smith is not lead by Tammany Hall," she declared—"Tammany follows him."

Mrs. Jerman said there was no doubt about the way Eastern North Carolina would vote in the forthcoming election. Western North Carolina may diverge slightly from the principles laid down by her forefathers, she said, but this section can be counted on to hew to the mark every time.

She briefly outlined development of political life of America from the days of the illustrious Jefferson until the present day, showing conclusively that the government is run by two dominant parties caused by the split of opinions between Jefferson and Hamilton.

Mrs. Jerman said she was a member of the Anti-Smith forces prior to the Houston convention. She declared that her opinion of the candidate changed during the hectic gathering in the Texas city and since that time she had been for Smith, heart and soul.

Declaring party principles to be greater than individual opinion, Mrs. Jerman said the voters should stand behind these principles. "If we fail to lend our support to the party at a crucial period, we weaken it and cause it to lose its influence in the communities where it has flourished for so many years."

"There is only one issue before the public today, and that is Smith or Hoover. We may discuss minor points, but when we get down to the bottom of the entire campaign the two figures stand out among all other things. It is either Hoover or Smith for the presidency and this fact is inescapable to every citizen of the nation."

WINTERVILLE MAN WRITES OF HURRICANE

Thomas Wyatt, of Arcadia, Fla., Writes Father of Devastation By Storm.

Mrs. J. L. Hassell, chairman of the Pitt County Chapter of the American Red Cross, is in receipt of a letter from W. J. Wyatt, Sr., of Winterville, containing a contribution of $5.00 to the Florida storm sufferers. Mr. Wyatt also enclosed a letter from his son Thomas P. Wyatt, of Arcadia, Fla., in which he graphically described the hurricane as it affected the district in which he resides. The storm in that vicinity was light compared with neighboring territories, but crop damage was sufficiently great to be felt most keenly by the planters.

Mr. Wyatt's letter to his father follows:

"Yes, the storm did hit Arcadia but very lightly. Most of us sat up all night Sunday night expecting every minute for it to reach the gale stage, and you can rest assured that when morning came we were mighty glad to learn it had passed about thirty miles east of us going north."

"From the Okeechobee Lake section it struck through Sebring, Avon Park, Bowling Green, Fort Meade, Bartow and Lakeland. The country adjacent to these towns due to the high winds, suffered mostly from the loss of uprooted trees and blown off fruit, the fruit crop being estimated at a loss of fifty to seventy-five per cent."

"On Tuesday following the storm Rose and myself with others went over to Okeechobee City which was about three miles from the lake front. At this place we saw only one building, the Court House, which was not damaged at all. Many of the store buildings were demolished completely while the residences seemed to only suffer the loss of their roofs and drenches with water. We reached there in time to see three bodies brought in from the lake. At this point the lake front was sparsely settled and upon investigation at the Court House, which was under charge of Arcadia soldiers and undertakers, there were only seventeen bodies taken care of. There were some pitiful tales told by the survivors. There was one man who had lost a family of ten."

"The following day I went with the Fire Chief and his family again to Okeechobee and on to Ft. Pierce on the East Coast. The latter place, which a month ago suffered a severe storm and was just recovering from same, again had, instead of a wind, a tidal wave which stripped shores of Indian River of all docks, fishing houses, pavilions, and again damaging the causeway considerably. These people were very despondent. We would have gone on to Palm Beach but were informed that no sight-seers were permitted. I'll have to admit I have never witnessed such sights before in my life. The '26 storm was a mild one compared to this. The latest report in the Tribune this morning estimated 2300 deaths besides the injured with no figures available as to the property damage."

Says Cotton Still Selling 'Too Low'

"Cotton is still selling too low, in my opinion, although we have had some advances," said U. B. Blalock, General Manager of the North Carolina Cotton Growers Cooperative Association in a statement just issued. "My opinion may be wrong but I am prepared to give the facts and figures upon which I base my opinion."

"We have had overproduction in berry and truck crops, potatoes and peaches, wheat and tobacco, and corresponding slumps in prices of these commodities."

"But not so with cotton. Garside says that the carryover of cotton last year was 7,756,000 bales, and that the carryover this year is only 4,900,000 bales, making a decrease in carryover August 1, 1928, of 2,856,000 bales."

"The U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates the 1928 crop to be 14,439,000 bales. The total production of the United States in 1927 was 12,955,000 bales, making a difference in crops of 1,484,000 bales and a shortage over last year's supply of 1,374,000 bales."

"Last year's average price, New Orleans spots, was 19.99. Six year average, New Orleans spots, is 22.48."

"Annual consumption of American cotton has averaged for the past three years over 15,000,000 bales. Garside says the long term trend of consumption is clearly upward."

"But will we make a 14,439,000 bale crop? That estimate was as of September 1st. Since that date terrific deterioration has taken place over a large area of the cotton belt on account of the continuous heavy rains and storms."

"While in New York on the floor of the Cotton Exchange, just after the storm, I made the statement to the 'Bears' that North Carolina had suffered a loss of 150,000 bales, and that the two Carolinas and Georgia over 400,000 bales. Since that time our Extension Agents through a careful survey estimate North Carolina's loss as 150,000 bales."

"The ginning report as of September 24th certainly offers poor encouragement to the 'Bears' with Texas running about even with last year and most all other states running far behind."

"It would seem to be impossible for the Government to increase its estimate on the next report. The odds seem to be greatly in favor of a heavy decrease in the Government's estimate of production."

"This true the textile situation has not been very promising of late, and yet mill conditions are showing considerable improvement."

"United States Census Figures (September 14th) showed that our American mills consumed in July 438,743 bales, and consumed in August 526,729 bales, a gain of 87,884 bales. Mill stocks showed less than forty days' supply of only 782,068 bales."

"The Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York in its August report shows a good increase of cotton cloth and a 4.6 per cent decrease in stocks."

"A leading Worth Street wholesale dry goods firm has just issued the following statement:

"Sales the past week doubled that of production. Weekly average sales in September twenty-five per cent ahead of August and one hundred per cent ahead of July sales."

"Mr. Blalock thinks the farmers should store their cotton and wait for better prices—that cotton facts and figures warrant this advice."

HOOVER WOULD KEEP RELIGION OUT CAMPAIGN

Nominee To Give Detailed Program Of Prohibition Reform At Milwaukee.

Washington, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover has spoken out for the first time since the delivery of his acceptance speech upon the injection of the religious issue in the presidential campaign.

Vehemently repudiating a letter, purportedly from the headquarters of Mrs. Willie W. Caldwell, Republican national committee woman from Virginia which included a plea to American women to save the national form from being "Romanized," Mr. Hoover late last night declared that whether authentic or a forgery the communication did violence to every instinct that he possesses.

"Such an attitude," he said in a prepared statement, "is entirely opposed to every principle of the Republican party. I made my position clear in my acceptance speech when I said:

"In this land, dedicated to tolerance, we still find outbreaks of intolerance. I come of Quaker stock. My ancestors were persecuted for their beliefs. Here they sought and found religious freedom. By blood and conviction I stand for religious tolerance both in act and in spirit. The glory of our American ideals is the right of every man to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience."

"I meant that then and I mean it now."

The letter, described as a "form letter," was brought to light by the Washington Post which in a copyrighted story today said it had received it from Mrs. Clara Lyon of Virginia Highlands, Va., to whom it had been sent under the mistaken assumption that she had accepted the post of vice-chairman of a Republican precinct committee.

Mrs. Caldwell was interviewed by the Post at her home in Roanoke, Va., and the Post quoted her as saying that such a letter had been distributed and by her headquarters but that she did not believe it had contained the words quoted from it. As given to the Post by Mrs. Lyon, it was written on stationery of the Republican national committee and contained Mrs. Caldwell's rubber stamp signature.

Social Insurance

Next time you have visitors, stop for a moment and think what makes pleasant evenings at home possible. Modern heating for one thing. Running water, for another.

Think what inconvenience you have when one of these two features of your home refuses to do its work.

If it weren't for these things, it would be impossible for use to have the fine theaters and movies, at any rate during the Winter.

The plumber and heating contractor installed these conveniences. It's his work to keep them in repair. It is wasteful to allow them to be in bad condition. Constantly dropping water costs money. And an inefficient heating plant wastes coal.

WELCOME, FAIR
VISITORS

In advance we take the opportunity, in behalf of the citizens of Greenville, to extend a cordial welcome to visitors at the fair here next week. "Our Greenville, Yours If You Come," is the slogan of our city, and we will make an honest effort during your stay here to convince you that it is not just an idle boast. We not only want you to visit and see the wonders of the Pitt County Fair, but we want you to see our city as well and local business men extend you a cordial invitation to make their stores your headquarters while in this city.

Come to the Pitt County Fair next week. By so doing you can learn much about Pitt County and the surrounding section, you will find plenty to amuse you and you will find a hearty welcome here.

THE BEGGAR NUISANCE

While it is not our desire to deprive anyone, more especially an unfortunate, of his or her means of existence
the number of beggars on the streets of Greenville are becoming more and more a nuisance and some steps should be taken to prohibit this street begging. To begin with, it has been noticeable that very few of these persons are residents of Greenville or even Pitt County, but are here from other places to sit on our streets and get money by playing upon the sympathies of citizens who pass along.

If a person has suffered the misfortune that prevents him or her from making a living, of course they should be helped by those of us
that have been more fortunate, but some other method of providing this help should be used instead of our present system of permitting street begging.

As a remedy for the present bad situation we would suggest and urge legislation that would prevent all street begging here except in cases such as are now covered by our state laws; to-wit—War Veterans and the blind—and only in those cases, after careful study by the county welfare department to ascertain that street begging is absolutely necessary to existence. In no instance would we permit street begging in this county by a non-resident of said county. Of course, it is our duty to aid and take care of unfortunates to the limit of our ability, but our charity should begin at home taking care of the worthy cases in our own county and it is the duty of every other county to do the same. If conditions are such in any county that it cannot take care of its needy cases, then appeal should be made to the state or other counties through regular organized sources instead of permitting the individuals to go into other counties to beg.

This street begging, as we see it, presents two main objections: First, there are among the street beggars
many underserving persons who are following begging as a profession and who know conditions in the various sections of the state and nation and make their plans at all times to be in the localities where "pickings" will be best. Because of these professional beggars
many persons have ceased to give anything whatever to street beggars, with the result that the persons who really are in need are the losers.

Another objection to the street beggars is that they are a bad advertisement for any community, the visitors to our city, not aware that the beggars on the street are from all sections of the globe, get the impression that we are neglecting our local indigents to the extent that they are forced to resort to street begging for existence. All of us know that such is not the case for only a very small percentage of the begging on our streets is done by Pitt County people.

We reiterate that it is not our desire to deprive any deserving person of a livelihood but we do feel that there is some better way to take care of them than by permitting wholesale begging and we earnestly urge that steps to get rid of the street beggars here be taken immediately.

ABOUT

"The Pitt County Fair opens next Tuesday morning," said members of the local organization today, speaking of the enormous crowds expected to attend the attraction during the five days it is in progress.
"The city will take on its annual gala attire and thousands of people will flock here from all communities to witness from day to day.

"The agricultural department,
without doubt, will eclipse all previous seasons. Numbers of exhibits from over the county will be open for inspection. They will graphically portray the possibilities of this section. Don't fail to attend the fair and all the results of the labors of the various committees."

"The addresses of Mrs. Jerman and Miss Henderson at the high school auditorium last night were thoroughly enjoyed," said members of the local Democratic committee
this morning.

"Both of these women are well acquainted with the political situation in the State and nation and were able to present many facts in connection with the campaign.
"The splendid audience last night was tribute to the record which these women have established over the State in their efforts to foster
the success of the Democratic party."

"That seem: to be a wise plan of the farmers adopted here yesterday whereby the tobacco acreage will be reduced 25 per cent next season," observed a citizen who attended the public meeting held at the courthouse.
"The most important part about the program, however, is not so much in the reduction of acreage as is the plan to plant surplus, or idle land, in feedstuffs. This will bring us much nearer the 'live at home program' discussed from time to time during the past years.
"Our farmers have never given as much attention as they should have to the raising of the things used at home. The quicker they make this a reality the sooner Pitt county will rank among the really great diversified agricultural sections of the country."

HORNSBY HAS STICK LEAD IN NATIONAL

New York, Sept. 29—(AP)—The National League moves to the close of its season tomorrow with Rogers Hornsby, now manager of the Braves, in full possession of his seventh individual batting championship but his first since his departure from St. Louis two years ago. Always prominent among the leaders, Hornsby first gained the peak in 1920 as he fought his fifth National league campaign. He remained on there through 1925 for a run of six straight championships and a new National league mark.

Then burdened with the added cares of managing a big league club, the St. Louis star in 1926, his first full season as a team pilot, led his charges through to the first National league pennant St. Louis ever won, but lost his batting crown in the mixup. Traded to New York, he hit hard but not hard enough to prevent Paul Waner of Pittsburgh from scampering off with the 1927 title.

The elder Waner continued to annoy Hornsby this season, and as recently as two weeks ago was actually in the lead—for the first time. Waner's battle to reach the top seemed to sap his strength so that he toppled almost immediately. And now, with Hornsby "in", it isn't even close. The Boston manager owned a mark of 291 in 137 games today against Paul Waner's 377 in 150.

The averages issued today include games of Wednesday. They show the other leaders to be Klein, Philadelphia, 362; Lindstrom, New York, 356; Sisker, Boston, 342; Roettger, St. Louis, 341; Hadley, St. Louis, 329; Reithorn, Boston, and Hogan, New York, 338; and Herman, Brooklyn, 337.

While the elder of the Waner boys surrendered to Hornsby in the big race, enough of the minor crowns rested on the Pirates' head to satisfy almost any player. He led in runs scored with 140, and in doubles with 51, in addition to holding a tie with Jim Bottomley of St. Louis in triples, of which each had 19. Cuyler of Chicago crashes into this monopoly for the lead in stolen bases with 36. P. Waner and Lindstrom of New York were tied with total hits each with 223.

Bottomley also was leading Hack Wilson of Chicago by the thin margin of one home run in a spirited duel. Sunny Jim had 31 against Hack's thirty, with Chuck Hayes of St. Louis, holding 27 and third place, Del Bissonette of Brooklyn, had 23.

Larry Benton, the Giant ace, had clinched pitching honors with 25 victories and only eight defeats for a percentage of 758. His teammate, Fred Fitzsimmons, owned twenty victories and eight defeats for .714 for second place, but was crowned by Jess Haines of St. Louis, who had won one fewer and led the same number for .701.

Jack Scott and Carl Mays, extra hands on the New York bench, both topped Benton in the percentage, each with four victories and one defeat for .800, but neither rates as a regular.

Benton also retained a chance to beat out Burleigh Grimes of Pittsburgh for total victories, as Grimes, with 25 to his credit, failed in his final game against Brooklyn. Grimes ended up with 14 defeats and percentage of .641. Benton and Grimes also were tied in complete games, each with 28.

The Pirates had the satisfaction of any leading the league in team batting. They had a mark of .311, and were safely entrenched against anything the second-place Giants might do to dislodge them. The Giant average was just .296, but it would be hard to convince rival pitchers that it was less than 1.000.

The Cubs and the Red were tied in team fielding, each with .575. St. Louis was third, only one point away. The Reds were the proud possessors of 188 double plays, six more than the previous major league record, made by Washington in 1923.

Two British officers of the China Navigation Company's steamer Nanking have been killed by Chinese pirates. The pirates captured the ship with its 1400 passengers on Wednesday and steered it to Honghai Bay, which is north of Bias Bay, the notorious lair of Chinese pirates. The Chinese quartermaster of the vessel was also killed.

YANKS AGAIN WIN PENNANT IN AMERICAN

By HERBERT W. BARKER (Associated Press Sports Writer)

It was a long and painful journey but the New York Yankees finally have staggered to their sixth American League pennant in eight years and, barring an unexpected upset in the National League, will face the St. Louis Cardinals in the world series.

An 11 to 6 victory over the Detroit Tigers yesterday clinched the 1928 pennant for the world champions of 1927 and gave Miller Huggins his first chance to breathe freely in months.

Baseball's long history reveals few such form reversals as characterized the Yankees' play this season. Formerly thin two months, Miller's machine downed all opposition relentlessly, gained a thirteen and a half game lead over the field and caused experts to view with great alarm this baseball "monster" that devoured all that came within its reach.

But beset by injuries, particularly to Herb Pennock and Tony Lazzeri, the champions slowed down almost to a walk simultaneously, Connie Mack applied the spurs to his Philadelphia Athletics, who responded with a spurt that finally carried them to the front by half a game on September 8.

Their vaunted supremacy put on a real test, the Yankee rallied their forces for a final stand, crushed the A's thrice in a four game series and returned to the lead, never again to surrender it.

"Murderer's Row" performed in all its power in the pennant-winning game against the Tigers. Pappas was given a seven run lead by the time the fifth inning had rolled around and he was not extended to win.

Babe Ruth hit his third home run in as many days and his 53rd of the season in the eighth inning with Koenig on base.

California Star

Irvine Phillips, speedy end, is this year's captain of the University of California football team.

Braves until the 15th when the Cards clouted him and his successor Keft Greenfield, for seven runs and the game.

Also-rans completed the major league schedule yesterday. Alvin Crowder, leading hurler in the American League, pitched the St. Louis Browns to a 4 to 3 victory over the Washington Senators, recording his 21st victory in the process.

Jack Russell shaded a recruit, Wesley Farrell, in a hurling duel at Cleveland and the Boston Red Sox beat the Indians 1 to 0.

DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME TO END TOMORROW

New York, Sept. 29—(AP)—Daylight saving time, which has been in effect in this and many other Eastern cities during spring and summer, will officially end at 2 o'clock tomorrow morning. Clocks at that hour will be set back one hour to conform to standard time.

GRID SQUADS SWING INTO ACTION TODAY

New York, Sept. 29—(AP)—Fightskin warriors tramp the country's gridirons today in the first general engagement of the current football season. Most of the big eastern colleges swing into action today against their smaller brethren in tune-up contests, although Yale, Harvard, Princeton and Brown, among others, will not open the season for another week. Some of the major elevens may receive prize packages in the shape of defeats at the hands of low-rated elevens, but in general, it appears that the large will devour the small much as usual.

A nightly-touted Navy team, perhaps will get the softest opening test. The midshipmen take on little Davis and Elkins of Elkins, W. Va., coached by the wily Cam Henderson.

The Army, tackling a most difficult schedule, takes on Boston University, while Pitt, unbeaten in the east last season, expects a romp against Thiel.

Syracuse hopes for nothing more than a victory over Hobart but most of the other major elevens are more optimistic.

TUNNEY ENTERTAINED BY AMERICAN AMBASSADOR

Rome, Sept. 29—(AP)—Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, was the guest of honor at a luncheon given today by Henry P. Fletcher, American ambassador to Italy.

During the morning Tunney spent several busy hours in pursuit of the necessary pre-matrimonial documents for his coming marriage to Miss Mary Josephine Lauder, of Greenwich, Conn., which may be held in Rome.

Today's luncheon was in Ambassador Fletcher's apartment in the historic Rospioglio palace, built in 1908 by Cardinal Scipio Locchese, nephew of Pope Paul V. It stands near the Royal Palace of the Quirinal which was once the papal residence.

AMERICAN POLO TEAM MEETS ARGENTINE TODAY

New York, Sept. 29—(AP)—Faced with the sternest test American polo has received in years the United States international four, led by dashing Tommy Hitchcock, Jr., meets Argentina in the first game of the series for the championship of the Americas at the Meadowbrook club field, at Westbury, L. I. today. The second game is scheduled for next Wednesday and the third, if necessary, a week from today.

It has been a long time since the United States team operated international polo competition on the short end of the betting but that is the case in the present series. The Argentines, a Polish outfit strong on team work and superbly mounted, rule strong favorites.

San Diego, Calif.—Tommy Hughes, Cleveland, outpointed Ray McIntyre, Philippine Islands, (10); Herman Ritterhaus, Los Angeles, defeated Billy West, Pittsburgh, (6).

COTTON MARKET N. Y. STOCK LIST

New York, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Early declines of 10 to 25 points in the cotton market today were followed by rallies on week-end covering, combined with local and commission house buying, promoted by reports of rains in the Eastern belt, and talk of probably reduction in private crop estimated.

December contracts sold up from 18.91 to 19.14, but the market realizing and southern selling at the advance and last last prices showed reactions of 5 to 10 points from the best.

The close was barely steady net 2 points higher to 17 points lower, with late months relatively easy.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Fluctuating with extreme rapidity, the price of September corn today covered a range of 12 1/2 to 1 1/2 bushels and closed wild, 71-2 to 11 1/2 under yesterday's finish. Toward the end of the day, holdings of September corn were offered on a large scale and the price shot downward. Wheat was bearishly affected by the action of corn.

Transactions were at the day's lowest figures on September contracts, whereas new crop months were but little changed.

Aside from the September delivery, corn closed at a shade to 3-4 decline. Wheat finished unsettled, 1-2 to 2c net lower. Oats unchanged to 1-4c off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 30 cents.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Heavy buying of the high priced specialties, several of which soared 4 to 14 points, featured the resumption of the upward price movement in today's stock market. Week-end profit taking sales developed in several of the recent favorites but there were well absorbed and trading continued at a brisk rate, with total sales for the two-hour session running above 1,500,000 shares. The closing was strong.

Wall Street apparently had recovered from the fear of high call money rates, Friday's run-up from 5 to 8 per cent being regarded as incidental to heavy quarterly settlements. Week-end trade reviews were generally favorable, with signs of further improvement seen in several of the basic industries.

Coty was the spectacular feature, turning up 14 points to a new high at 260 on talk of recapitalization. Among the many new highs established during the morning were General Ice Cream, Engineers Public Service, Eisenlohr and First National Pictures.

Oil Companies Merge
New York, Sept. 29.—(AP)—Wall Street heard today that five independent oil companies having properties in California, Arkansas and Texas have been merged to form a $3,000,000 company known as the MacMillan Petroleum Corporation, with headquarters in Los Angeles.

ROUTIS WINS BATTLE OVER SON OF ITALY

New York, Sept. 29.—(AP)—A blue-eyed, chunky little Frenchman whose fighting style is as bristly as his hair, is the new featherweight boxing champion of the world.

This game little invader, Andre Routis, won the title last night at Madison Square Garden from Tony Canzoneri, clever Italian, with one of the most remarkable comebacks the ring has witnessed in some time.

Knocked down and badly battered in the first round, apparently hopelessly beaten at the end of the seventh, Routis put on a stirring finish to beat Canzoneri in a sensational 15-round slugging match. Remarkable endurance, tireless courage and persistence, plus an effective body attack, enabled Routis to overcome a bad start, wear down the champion and gain the verdict. It was a close fight, decided on a 2 to 1 vote of the judges and referee, but the crowd of 11,000 as well as ringside experts appeared satisfied that the new champion had fairly won his new honors.

The victory, a decided upset to those who had installed Canzoneri a 2 to 1 favorite at the ringside, sends the title back to France after a five year lapse and crowns the career of the 25 year old lad who has fought his way to the top through sheer grit and determination.

Routis, orphaned thirteen years ago, when his father was killed in the war and his mother died from the shock of this tragedy, has been in the professional fight game for the last ten years.

For the first seven rounds of the bout last night, Canzoneri sparred and punched the challenger almost at will. The champion's sensational bid for a knockout in the first round, when he put Routis down for a count of two, fell short but he appeared to have the fight well in hand until the eighth.

From then on, Routis piled up points that cut down the champion's lead. He pounded the champion's ribs. He mauled and worried Tony as a terrier worries a bull dog. They were head to head most of the time but Andre's close range, short armed attack was more punishing. The last four rounds, in which Routis kept up a steady drive, definitely turned the tide.

Complete Lighting System on New Span Over Local River

The lighting system for the new bridge spanning Tar river has been completed, according to announcement made today by Smith Electric Company, who were awarded contract for the job.

The system contains sixteen light standards with four hundred-watt lights. The standards are eight feet high and 120 apart with octagon decorative heads. The globes are panel shaped.

The white way will be one of the splendid features of the new bridge, the lights having been placed near enough apart to furnish adequate illumination for all purposes. The current will be thrown on within the next two weeks or as soon as grading has been completed on the approach to the bridge.
