CONTINUE TO PROBE MURDER AT GASTONIA

Some Doubt That Coroner's Inquest In Vanderburg Will Be Completed Saturday

Gastonia, N. C., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Some doubt that the coroner's inquest into the Vanderburg deaths will be concluded tomorrow, when the second session will be held, was expressed today by Solicitor John C. Carpenter. He said "a number" of witnesses will be placed on the stand to testify regarding details connected with the alleged murders of five members of the Vanderburg family here the night of December 27 and the burning of their home.

Deputy State Fire Marshall Scott arranged this morning for a conference at Charlotte with Marvin L. Fitch, Charlotte, counsel for Jacob Vanderburg, son of the family, who is held on suspicion pending outcome of the inquest.

Solicitor Carpenter said he received today information concerning the mysterious telephone call from Charlotte early in the morning after the charred bodies of J. W. Vanderburg, his two daughters and a son was found in the smoking ruins of their home the previous night. He was informed that the call was made for relatives here of the Vanderburg family, and was in an effort to confirm the report, received from Hickory, that the five members of the Gastonia family had been slain.

Sheriff Linberger and Solicitor Carpenter both said that "fairly satisfactory progress" is being made in their investigations. Each added that all possible clues are being "closely investigated."

Brazil Declines To Help Settle Boundary Dispute

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—In a note addressed to Secretary Kellogg as chairman of the Pan-American Arbitration Conference, the Brazilian government explained today that it could not accept membership on the Paraguayan-Bolivian council board because of pending boundary treaties with both disputing countries. Those treaties are undergoing ratification and Brazil holds that it therefore might appear as an interested party.

The note expressed Brazil's willingness to do her utmost for the maintenance of peace in this hemisphere, but in relation to the case in question, notes that Brazil is bound by the very territory disputed between Bolivia and Paraguay.

Angell's Speech Was Not So Bad

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Norman Angell's speech was not what some one who tried to prevent the address thought it would be. After hearing the lecture "The Crisis of Democracy" last night, H. Burton, Washington attorney, and one of those who asked the board of education to deny Angell, British author and lecturer, the use of a school auditorium, said he found no objection to Angell's remarks. Burton in his fight against Angell termed the lecturer a "menace to national defense" and was quoted as saying that the speaker was an "internationally known Pacifist and socialist whose views on these subjects tied him up with Communism."

JUDGE HEARS TESTIMONY IN MURDER CASE

Louisiana Official Refuses To Appoint Sanity Commission in Lebouef-Dyer Case.

Franklin, La., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Judge James D. Simon in the St. Mary parish district court today refused to appoint a commission to inquire into the sanity of Mrs. Ada Bonner Lebouef and Dr. Thomas E. Dyer, sentenced to hang tomorrow but who he would hear evidence as to their sanity.

Lying on a stretcher, Mrs. Lebouef was brought into the courthouse. She was proceeded by Dr. Dreher, who walked between the sheriff and a guard.

Mrs. Lebouef's face was covered with a sheet during the brief trip from the jail to the courthouse. She was dressed in a cream colored nightgown, covered with blankets.

Neither spoke a word as they came in. Mrs. Lebouef was placed before the judge's bench. She watched Judge Simon closely and fingered her beads. Dr. Dreher plainly showed strain and sat between his lawyers, resting on one arm.

The ruling came immediately after a formal petition requesting the commission appointment by James R. Parkerson of defense counsel.

TWO FACTORS BOOST KING'S IMPROVEMENT

General Condition Of British Monarch Much Better; Able to Get More Sleep.

London, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Two favorable factors have appeared in the latest developments in King George's prolonged struggle.

The restlessness which prevented him from getting adequate repose on two previous nights seemed to have left him in a large degree and he passed the night more quietly. This, it was assumed, would prove helpful, adding to the powers of recuperation he needs to lift him out of this sadly debilitated state.

Concurrently this morning's bulletin reported improvement in the locally infected area.

The king's general condition was reported as being stationary. The inference was that the king had maintained the slight improvement noted recently. The morning bulletin said:

"The king had a quieter night. The local condition shows a slight improvement while the general condition remains stationary."

A statement that King George has the will to live was hailed as the most encouraging feature in the long review of the monarch's illness contributed to medical journals by the royal physicians. Medical experts in the morning papers emphasized the importance of the patient.

It was contended that persistence of the instinct to fight for self-preservation was the sign itself of some measure of health because the desire to live probably has a physical basis.

The authorized review of the king's illness which appeared in the Lancet and the British Medical Journal today stated that because of exhaustion the course of the illness must be long and for the present anxious. None the less, improvement and progress were taking place slowly but surely enough to justify the hope that the king would be restored to his people.

The potency of the infection was diminishing. In the meantime the margin of reserve power must be narrow, and small setbacks, inevitable at this stage, have a correspondingly more severe effect. Disinclination toward food, dryness of tongue, low blood pressure, weakness and wasting, notable exhaustion, though steadily improving, will for a long time be an anxious problem.

The Review said that the public should not interpret setbacks of reports of no change as relapses. During each week there would be ups and downs and progress would consist of slow and increasing predominance of the up over the down.

MRS. SCALES PASSED AWAY EARLY TODAY

Mrs. Florence Blow Scales, wife of W. M. Scales, well known tobaccoist of this city, died at the local hospital this morning at 7 o'clock following illness of a short time. Funeral arrangements had not been completed today, but will be announced through the columns of this paper tomorrow afternoon.

News of the death of Mrs. Scales came as a profound shock to hundreds of friends in this and other sections. She was a member of one of the city's oldest and most prominent families and had lived in Greenville practically all of her life.

NEW YORK'S GOVERNOR AT HIS DESK

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt at his desk in the state capital in Albany, following his inauguration as governor of New York.

Local Tobacco Market To Re-Open January 8th

After closing three weeks for the holiday season, the Greenville tobacco market will resume activities Tuesday, January 8th it was stated today by K. W. Cobb, supervisor of sales.

Full sets of buyers will be in evidence on the various warehouse floors during the remainder of the season and bidding is expected to be as spirited as any other time. All warehouses and factory floors have been cleared completely during the period of inactivity, and the market will start off the last half of the season with a clean slate.

Prominent tobaccoists said today they expected the price situation to be even stronger than when the market closed for the holidays. The situation at that time, despite the large volume of inferior grades of tobacco was considered unusually strong, and opinion prevails generally that this condition will continue the remainder of the season.

Farmers were again urged to carefully prepare their tobacco before marketing. Wet, damaged grades should be given careful attention and not marketed until in proper condition. However, growers are urged to rush the remainder of the crop as hurriedly as possible as the market more than likely will close the latter part of the month.

The goal set by the local market this season was seventy million pounds. When activities were suspended for the holidays, the market was slightly over a million pounds short of the mark. It is believed however, that the amount needed to complete the goal will be offered for sale here during the remaining days of the season. Reaching the

Big Army Plane Breaks World Endurance Record And Still Flying Today

Metropolitan Airport, Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 4.—(AP)—Five determined men who have driven the army's monoplane Question Mark through all existing records for sustained flight by heavier-than-air machines, continued their epochal adventure today showing no inclination to come back to earth.

The Question Mark began its fourth day in the air at 7:25 o'clock this morning.

When taking on 150 gallons of gasoline at 6:30 a. m. the plane showed no ill effects from its long grind.

While the great black plane passed the 72nd consecutive hour of flight, a pursuit plane hovered above it and dropped breakfast to its crew. Through a contact hose 25 gallons of oil was supplied.

TREATY HOLDS LIMELIGHT IN SENATE TODAY

Kellogg Measure Renouncing War Furnishes Main Point of Interest At Capital.

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The Kellogg treaty for the renunciation of war, resting on the board shoulders of Senator Borah, of Idaho, journeyed along its Senate path today, furnishing the point of major interest at the capital.

Over on the House side the War Department appropriation bill was the business at hand with passage assured in short order and House committees began to get into action after the Christmas holidays.

One Senate committee, that which investigated the primary election of William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, was in session but without the presence of Mr. Vare. His representative told the committee that if he was required to appear at this time he would be a dead man. Vare has been ill for several months and now is in Florida.

Senator Borah, who is chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, resumed his argument for the treaty as soon as the necessary morning routine was out of the way. He was surrounded by a group of Senators desirous of having him tell in his own words about any relationship between the treaty and the Monroe Doctrine.

Before the treaty fight was resumed Senator Edge of New Jersey presented a resolution to have a committee of citizens appointed by President-elect Hoover to investigate prohibition. He did not want such an investigation by members of Congress. At the same time Representative Swank of Oklahoma, offered a bill to put more teeth in the enforcement laws.

The Public Census Committee approved the Fern bill, for re-approval of House membership according to population, the Irrigation Committee approved a Senate bill for a survey of the Columbia River Basin irrigation project in the Pacific Northwest. The House Appropriations Committee presented a deficiency bill calling for $84,000,000 for various government needs including a large lump sum for refunding taxes illegally collected. A report on the hearings on the bill showed the government had paid back $975,000,000 in such taxes since 1917, but had collected $4,000,000,000 in back taxes.

TO MAKE WAR ON LIQUOR IN CAPITAL CITY

Ten-Week Warfare on Speakeasies And Bootleggers Will Be Launched Sunday.

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—A ten-week war on bootleggers and speakeasies to make the national capital an "example" to the cities of the country will be launched in Washington next Sunday.

The campaign will be waged under the auspices of the National United Committee for Law Enforcement with the purpose of preparing the national capital for the incoming administration pledged to a better enforcement of the law and to make Washington an example and encouragement to the cities of the nation.

Former Governor Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, has issued a demand that President Coolidge ask the commissioners of the District of Columbia to submit a list of speakeasies and close them on penalty of doing their jobs within a week.

Dr. Clinton N. Howard, of Rochester, New York, who is in charge of the campaign, announced that he had been pledged the co-operation of the Washington Ministers' Association. He will initiate the onslaught on the liquor sellers at a meeting of Sunday at the First Congregational church.

Even should the plane in the closing hours of its unprecedented flight be so crippled that it could not return here it will nevertheless have carried human beings to a new record of aerial residence in airplanes.

Two dawns hence if the plane remains up, and its Army sponsors now vision the ship as still in the air possibly a week distant, it will be near to the existing endurance record of a man-made contrivance which now is held abroad.

That record of 111 hours, 46 minutes of continuous flight was made by the German-built Graf Zeppelin in its limping voyage from Germany to Lakehurst, N. J., last fall.

To Judge A Judge

Judge W. W. McCrory will preside at the trial, set for January 7 at San Antonio, of Judge A. J. McCloskey, charged with altering election returns to show himself winner in the fourteenth Texas district congressional race over Rep. Harry M. Wurzbach, republican.

MORE LIQUOR MEN JAILED IN NEW YORK

Whalen's Raiders Visited Fifty Speakeasies Last Night and Arrested Owners.

New York, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Another sortie by Police Commissioner Whalen's liquor raiders caused more than 50 speakeasy proprietors to be in jail today. Fifty places were raided Wednesday night and 50 last night.

The first tour of poolrooms and hide-aways of crooks and gangsters by the newly revived "strong-arm" squads brought on the faces of underworld characters, known to the police, had deserted their usual haunts.

The Manhattan squads visited places on the Bowery, in Chinatown and along the wharves, then swung into the mid-town white light district without finding any of the undesirable they had been instructed to drive out. But in one place the squad demonstrated strong-arm tactics.

The detectives entered a basement resort in West 51 street, searched and questioned patrons and ordered them out. Then after seizing a quantity of liquor, they wrecked the place. Crowbars and axes were used to smash the bar, furniture, mirrors and glassware.

This was the second place demolished in the campaign against the "crime-breeding speak-easies." A place in Greenwich Village was wrecked in a similar manner Wednesday night.

Members of the liquor raiding squads concentrated their activities in Harlem.

Lindy's Girl Was Married Jan. 1st

Chicago, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Lindy's girl, as they used to call Leona Longley in Maywood, Ill., is Mrs. Harold Knoot now.

The pretty brown-eyed daughter of Albert Longley, at whose home Col. Charles A. Lindbergh roomed when he was just plain "Slim" of the air mail, was married New Year's Day. Mr. and Mrs. Knoot were to fly today to Cleveland, Ohio, where they will make their home.

When Colonel Lindbergh lived at the Longley home, Miss Longley often assisted in preparing his breakfast, and occasionally she played the piano for him. She is 18 years old.

STOLEN GIRL IS FOUND AT ATLANTA, GA.

Kidnapped School Girl Found Bound And Gagged In Dirty Old Shack.

Atlanta, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Kidnapers, death threats, drugs, and a dirty old shack formed the melodramatic sequence of the story told today by a pretty high school girl who was found bound and gagged after two days' absence from her home.

Doris Turner, Hoke Smith High School athlete and student councilor, collapsed last night in a filling station. She had been found near by bound at the ankles. Two hours later the girl said she had been released unharmed by a "kindly old man with a cane" for whom police had been searching two days.

Blindfolded, she asserted, had kept her from discerning where she was after being held most of the two days in a dirty old shack. She said she had made her way with difficulty to the station after having been released across town from her home.

The authorities started an investigation Wednesday at the request of her parents, who had received a special delivery letter from her to the effect that she had been abducted by a stooped old man who cried when he recalled that she resembled his daughter, now dead. Detectives declined to say today whether further investigation would be attempted.

Doris' letter and plight not only alarmed her parents, but demoralized classroom activity at the Hoke Smith school yesterday. When she was a leading student. As revealed in her letter, the girl said she was enroute to school and because she accepted a ride in the old man's car. He drove away from school, she said. She snifled in a profuse handkerchief, the account went on, and the man, Doris remembered, was when she woke up in the old shack.

In explaining to her parents last night, Doris said the old man threw a towel about her face, and that when she woke up in an old shack, he was not stopped, and did not need a cane. He dictated the letter received by the girl's parents, she said. The old man wanted to kill her, she added, in quoting conversation between the abductor and "a man in the next room," but the other man objected and persuaded his companion to return the girl to Atlanta because "things were getting hot."

Fearing drugs, she declined all food offered her while held captive, she asserted, except a hard-boiled egg.

The family physician examined the girl and ordered her to bed. He said the child had not been hurt or molested in any way, and was suffering only from exposure and a weakened condition, caused by lack of food.

This was the recent testimony, made public today, of W. Irving Glover, second assistant postmaster general, before a house subcommittee in urging a deficiency appropriation of $5,000,000 to take care of air mail transportation this fiscal year.

Glover said under the old rate 214,000 pounds of mail were carried by planes last July and that the figure jumped to 419,000 pounds the following month when the five cent rate took effect. He placed the loss to the government at from $5,000,000 to $7,000,000 a year and said that, while the receipts under the new rate equalled those under the former, the expense went up as more mail was carried.

Air Mail Service Is White Elephant To The Government

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Decrease or air mail postage rates from ten to five cents an ounce has doubled the postage-carried, but cut returns to the government in half and postal officials see little hope of ever operating this business without a loss.

This was the recent testimony, made public today, of W. Irving Glover, second assistant postmaster general, before a house subcommittee in urging a deficiency appropriation of $5,000,000 to take care of air mail transportation this fiscal year.

Teachers College Resumes Session

East Carolina Teachers' College opened for registration yesterday. Regular classes will begin tomorrow. The influenza situation seems to be some worse with respect to the students than it was when the school closed before Christmas. On the day school closed before Christmas no cases were in the infirmary. About were unable to return today on account of influenza. Two students who were here during the fall term were married during the holidays.

Forty-five new students are entering this term. This will run the enrollment for the year to about 940. It is to be expected that a great deal of influenza will develop in the colleges following the holidays on account of the students coming from so many different homes where they have been exposed to the disease.

Former Crazy Man Springs New One

New York, Jan. 4.—(AP)—John Armstrong Chaloner, author of the famous phrase "Who's looney now?" was satisfied today that he had successfully demonstrated how to turn gray hair into brown. Chaloner came to New York from his home in Virginia especially to demonstrate his discovery. This consists of gazing intently into a piece of black walnut while vigorously brushing the hair. He said he has been doing it for fifteen years and that his hair remains brown for several hours after each treatment.

Here's how he explains it: The color of the wood enters the eyes and penetrates the skull and the roots of the hair, which becomes after a quarter of an hour of the treatment a dark brown. Reporters before whom the demonstration was given, have another explanation. They said the vigorous brushing causes the inner surfaces of the hair, which normally are darker, to cover the outer surfaces. But they admitted to Chaloner's satisfaction, that his trick works, his hair at the conclusion of the text was a shade or two darker.

Chaloner gained wide publicity when after escaping from New York where he had been adjudged insane he sent a telegram reading "Who's looney now?" to his brother, Bob Chaloner, upon the latter's marriage to Lina Cavalleri, opera singer. He later was declared sane.

Boston Councillor To Answer Charges At Bribery Hearing

Boston, Jan. 4.—(AP)—City Councillor William G. Lynch was expected to appear today before the Boston finance commission, which charges that thirteen councilmen sought $5,000 each from the Boston National League Baseball club for permitting big league baseball on Sunday.

Lynch was named by Emil E. Fuchs, president and manager of the Braves, as the one approached in his hotel suite last November to lay before the demands of the other councilmen.

Fuchs, who told his story at the first day of the inquiry, was followed on the stand yesterday by Chas. F. Adams, vice-president of the club, president of the Boston Bruins Hockey club, and the man who made the original charges.

Adams corroborated in a general way the testimony of Fuchs and declared that before the sports bill had come before the council for action he received a telephone call from an anonymous person warning him that "certain members of the council were trying to get $5,000 each and if they didn't get it they would delay until the bill had cobwebs on it."

He testified that the voice sounded like that of Councilman Robert C. Wilson.

Wilson, one of the thirteen councilmen named by Fuchs as those who Lynch said constituted the holdout bloc, characterized Adams' story as "too thin even for my worst enemy to believe."

Edward Ferguson Entertains

Among the many entertainments during the holiday season, one of the most enjoyable was the breakfast given by Edward Ferguson at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Cupid Continues Heart-Piercing Drive In Pitt

Cupid continues active in Pitt county according to records in the office of the register of deeds today. Since the second day of the month, the mythical god of love has succeeded in sending twelve couples to the altar, and the curious part about it is he made a fifty-fifty split between the white and colored races. Previously the colored race had the big end of marrying activities by a three-to-two lead.

ABOUT TOWN

"This weather," complained a well known citizen today, "is just as huckle as a flapper. One day it is just like springtime and the next day we are in the grip of a cold snap.

"It probably wouldn't be quite so bad if the radical changes did not catch one unprepared. If it turns cold while I am at home my overcoat is certain to be at the office. If it rains while I am uptown my raincoat and overboots are at home.

"But I guess it's all right. If everything in life came too easy we wouldn't appreciate it. Therefore, let the weather man have his fling, maybe will come along one of these days."

"With inventoring over Greenville merchants are able to start another year with a clean slate," said a prominent merchant today.

"If the New Year should prove as satisfactory as the old year we have nothing to fear. Things appeared rather uncertain when 1928 started off, but conditions became adjusted and we got by just like we did previous years.

"The outlook for the present year is as good as it has ever been before. Some may disagree with me but I feel confident the future holds nothing but continued progress for a town that has expanded so rapidly the last five years and which has such splendid possibilities for further advancement."

"The induction into office of W. L. Wheabee as judge, and W. S. Tyson, as solicitor, of Pitt county court, will be received with more than passing interest throughout the county," the writer of this column was told today.

"Both are young men with promising futures and their elevation to the highest offices of the county is a deserved recognition of their work."

Judge Wheabee rendered distinguished service in behalf of the Democratic party in the recent presidential campaign in organization of the young men and women of this congressional district. His efforts resulted in the vote of many young people who possibly had never been to the polls before.

"Mr. Tyson in the capacity of chairman of the young people's Democratic organization of the county, also rendered notable service and has come in for right much commendation."

"The court should make remarkable progress during the administration of these two representative Pitt county men. The public will surely lend every assistance possible."

"Men and women should read every advertisement in their home town paper," declared an experienced advertiser this morning.

"By so doing they are able to keep well informed concerning the hundreds of things the business houses do from time to time and in many instances reap a splendid saving in a financial way."

"The merchant today decides to do something, then he advertises. Those who do not read the ad. don't know anything about what is being done and may miss an opportunity of acquainting themselves with something in which they are intensely interested."

"Watch the advertising columns in your home town paper and see how much better informed you'll be from day to day."

"If you have never shopped in Greenville, do so in 1929," invited one of the city's pioneer merchants, speaking of the numbers of out-of-town people who shopped here during the holiday season.

"Greenville merchants are trying to live up to the reputation of 'the greatest shopping center in Eastern North Carolina.' They carry an extensive stock of goods in order to live up to this reputation and this affords you a varied line to choose from.

"The next time you have anything to buy, come to Greenville and select your needs. You will find prices in keeping with your pocket-book and service prompt and efficient."

NOT OUR ATTITUDE

Recently in these columns we commented on the fewer number of lynchings through out the country in 1928 than in former years and urged the efforts of all officials and citizens toward the end of ridding this country entirely on mob rule and mob slayings, declaring that such acts were without justification whatever.

Right on the heels of this came the regrettable news of the burning to death of a negro by a Mississippi mob, but what made the situation even worse was the apparent sanction it received in the statement of Governor Bilbo of that state, who, in response to requests that he give the matter his attention, declared that he had neither the time nor the money to investigate 2,000 people. Such a statement from the chief executive of a state whose laws have been grossly outraged was no doubt a severe jolt throughout the south as well as other parts of the nation and surely does not express the attitude of the citizenry of the south as a whole.

The News and Observer in rightly declaring that Governor Bilbo, in issuing such a statement is no true friend of the South, says:

"Governor T. G. Bilbo, of Mississippi, is no true friend of the South.

"The whole country was shocked at the gruesome lynching of the Mississippi negro the other day. The negro's crime, awful as it was, is no mitigation for the crime of a mob. No single handed killer in the history of the world has been so dangerous an enemy of civilization as a mob moving furiously to a murder.

"That ugly mob made the South again open to the scorn of other sections but the mob in all its fury did not hurt the South so much as Governor Bilbo's remark of complacency or cowardice.

"I have neither the time nor the money to investigate 2,000 people," he said.

"Happily Governor Bilbo's attitude is not in line with that of the Governors of other Southern States. Intelligent Southerners realize that the lynchings of the South make its civilization and its justice seem as unstable and ridiculous as the revolutions of backward Latin American nations make those nations appear.

"Men who love the South wish for it the respect of the world. Such officials as Governor Bilbo win for the South only the world's scorn."

JACK DEMPSEY TALKS ABOUT RING OUTLOOK

Macon, Ga., Jan. 4.—(AP)—En route to Miami, Fla., to talk it over with Tex Rickard, Jack Dempsey is issuing a one-man consensus of the heavyweight situation, and as interpreted by his interviewers along the line, it runs something like this: "The winner of the Stribling-Sharkey fight at Miami Beach February 27 will be the next heavyweight champion of the world. "I am willing to meet the winner of the Stribling-Sharkey fight, but I will have no announcements to make until I see Rickard. "I'm not sure yet that I want to box again. "I will not referee the Miami Beach fight. "I believe George Godfrey, the negro, is the best among the crop of heavyweights just as present." These contributions to fight ballyhoo left the scribes in cities through which the former champion has passed in the last 24 hours amazed and somewhat groggy. The gong will ring on the next round of the scribblers' battle with Dempsey at Miami Beach tonight and it appears that Dempsey's might might has been bolstered with rhetoric that will carry a knockout punch. His last official contribution was made last night when he passed through Macon. Young Stribling, back from Kansas City and a New Year's day bout, had just arrived and was at the station when the Dixie Flyer came through with Dempsey aboard. "By Strib," was Dempsey's greeting to the young Georgian whom he had never seen in action. Dempsey said he was in a hurry to reach Miami, where Rickard is ill after an appendicitis operation, and Young Stribling, a licensed pilot, offered to fly him down. "No, I'd better go on," Jack replied, "but I would have been glad to have stayed over with you for a while if Rickard had not been ill. Thanks for your offer and for coming down to the train. "To interviewers the Mauler said he was not sure yet whether he wanted to box again, and voiced the opinion that he thought the winner of the Stribling-Sharkey fight would be the next champion. At Atlanta, earlier in the evening, Dempsey said he would not referee the Miami Beach encounter as had been planned by Rickard, but he would not be drawn out. "Sharkey's good fighter," he told sports writers who asked his opinion of the Miami Beach fight, "but I haven't seen Stribling work. I understand, however, that he has got a powerful sock in that right hand now, and has improved a lot in many ways." While in Atlanta Dempsey said he had just received a telegram saying Rickard was improving after his operation of Tuesday night in Miami, when his gangrenous appendix was removed. At Nashville, still earlier on the trip down from Detroit, Dempsey was quoted by newspapermen as saying that he thought Godfrey was the best heavyweight just now and that he would meet the winner of the Stribling-Sharkey fight, or at least he was "willing to do so."

Strangler Lewis At Boston Tonight

Boston, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Ed "Strangler" Lewis, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, and Gus Sonnenberg, former Dartmouth football player, meet in a championship match at the Boston Garden tonight. Lewis, who tipped the scales at 235 pounds, had a 35-pound weight advantage over Sonnenberg. During their training this week both men have concentrated on the holds which have given them their present position in the wrestling world. The champion has worked on his deadlock, the hold that won him his nickname, and Sonnenberg has further developed the flying tackle which he borrowed from his college football training. Last year Sonnenberg, then a rank outsider, had his first chance at the title, and won the first fall from Lewis with this hold. A few minutes afterward, however, the champion deduced him, and Sonnenberg landed head first on the mat outside the ring. He was in a hospital the next week.
