CHASE SPEAKS AT MEETING OF GEORGIA PRESS

President of University of North Carolina Tells of Civilization's Advance.

Athens, Ga., Feb. 22.—(AP)—George Washington, lifted out of his civilization of little more than a century whirl of events, would be as much out of place as a gentleman of ancient Rome, Dr. Harry W. Chase, president of the University of North Carolina said today in an address before the Georgia Press Institute.

Citing the tremendous advance civilization has made since Washington's day, Dr. Chase told his audience that Washington and his contemporaries were, in many fundamental respects, "much nearer the Greek and Roman civilization than to our own."

"A Roman gentleman would have been very much at home in the Virginia of Washington's day. He would have been at home in its political and social life, its outlook. On the other hand let us take this Roman gentleman and set before him the headlines in our morning newspaper. He reads of a man away down on the southernmost icebound rim of the world, thousands of miles from civilization, and yet he knows day by day how the gallant adventurer fares.

"The Roman reads 'wireless' and 'radio' and shakes his head, mutters black magic and passes on. The sad truth is that Washington and Jefferson and Hamilton and the rest would fare almost as badly. The world they knew was so much simpler than the world of today.

"I have wanted to make this point because what we call hero worship is such a great force in human affairs. A great name comes to us out of the past but stressed by such authority and prestige that we do not always stop to ask ourselves what it is in the life of the hero that we ought to pattern after.

For example here is Washington. His figure towers above his contemporaries. What does such a figure as that mean to you and me?

"In the first place, I do not think the real meaning of the lives of great men of the past lies for us any literal acceptance of their attitudes or the formula by which they acted. Washington once warned to beware of entangling alliances. We have all heard that statement advanced as an argument against our entry into the League of Nations—as though Washington's views about foreign affairs in his day and time could possibly be of the slightest importance in the new civilization of today.

"What I am trying to say is that your hero is, after all, conditioned by the environment he lives in. He is a creature of his own age, and for the most part, even the greatest of men do not get beyond the beliefs and the opinions of their fellows."

In the work of building the South and of carrying on the work of the past, Dr. Chase said, "we should not consider precedent and tradition, but to think of it as we now live in it."

"You and I are living in an age and in a civilization that is new. Here in these southern states a new order is coming into being. x x Here is all this great rich heritage of the south, with all its splendid history and high romance, its ideals and its values. Here is the long line of southern leaders that call to us out of the past—here Washington and Jefferson and Lee and Grady and Aycock.

"What is our duty to them? I think they would say to us, 'The south we loved and fought for, and labored to build was our south. We do our duty to what she was. Try to do equally your duty to what she is and will be. Strive at your problem as we strove at ours, so and only so, do you truly perpetuate our work.'"

STOCK MARKET CLOSES UNTIL NEXT MONDAY

New York Stock Exchange Members To Pass Up Two Hour Saturday Session.

New York, Feb. 22.—Wall Street was practically deserted today, and will remain so until Monday. As today, Washington's birthday, is a legal holiday, all banks, security and commodity exchanges were closed.

With stock trading having fallen off this week to the lowest volume in about two months, stock exchange members decided that they could afford to pass up the two hour Saturday session, and following their example the curb market and most other markets decided to take a three day vacation.

The banks will be open as usual on Saturday, and the Chicago board of trade will hold its regular Saturday session.

The Wheat market on the New York Produce Exchange will remain open. The New York Cotton Exchange will be closed for trading, although its offices will remain open. The rubber, metal, silk, coffee and sugar, and coco exchanges will be closed.

Unlike the Saturday stock exchange closing of two weeks ago, clerks and office forces will have a real holiday this time, as the exchange and member offices will be closed. Stock market traders left for their three-day holiday in a rather more peaceful frame of mind, as stock prices, despite the reduced volume of trading, generally turned upward this week, after the sharp breaks of the past two weeks, resulting from the federal reserve board's structure on excessive use of credit for speculation, and the federal reserve advisory council's unqualified approval of the board's stand.

The Federal Reserve directors meeting after the close of yesterday's session, was not perplexingly protracted as on the previous week, when the directors sat until nearly 7 p. m., and brought no change in the rediscount rate or other disturbing development. Federal Reserve brokers fell off $91,000,000, in addition to the previous week's drop of $101,000,000 bringing the total down to $5,447,000,000. This however, is some $1,700,000,000 above the volume a year ago, and the federal reserve system in understood to desire a reduction to near the $5,000,000,000 level. An encouraging development.

was a rise in the New York Reserve Bank's reserve rates of 6.4 per cent to 8.1 per cent, which compares with 8.2 per cent a year ago.

PATRIOTIC EXERCISES HELD WEDNESDAY

A very interesting program was given in the chapel of the high school Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 commemorating the birthday of George Washington and other patriotic citizens. The exercises opened with Jane Hall presiding, after a few appropriate remarks on why we celebrate birthdays. "America, the Beautiful" was sung, with Cotten Skinner at the piano. Short talks by Edna Stroud on Abraham Lincoln and one by Hoover Taft on Lindbergh and Edison were given which were well delivered and much enjoyed. A sketch of George Washington as a lover, given by Mrs. R. L. Smith, regent, seemed to greatly please the audience. Mrs. Della McGee, state chairman of the D. A. R., called attention to the recent organization in Greenville of the Children of the American Revolution, urging all present who were interested to attend the Monday night meeting.

Mrs. Travis Hooker, as chairman of the patriotic education of the Greenville Patriots Chapter D. A. R., through whose efforts the program was given, announced a prize would be given at the end of the school year to the pupil making the highest grade in American History, asking that many be contestants.

Celebrating patriotic occasions, encouraging patriotic education in any way that makes for better citizenship is one of the outstanding phases of the work of the D. A. R., and the chapter felt indebted to the teachers and pupils for their cooperation that made possible the program.

THE HIGH TOLL OF TRAFFIC

As an indication of the cost of inadequate traffic laws, in human life, A. B. Barber, manager of the Transportation Department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, draws a parallel for three groups of states, showing the increase in the number of fatalities compared with the increase in registration, between 1920 and 1926. They are:

North Atlantic States, (Maine to Maryland inclusive): Increase in fatalities, 64 per cent; increase in automobile registration, 158 per cent.

Middle Western States, (Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Kansas and Nebraska): Increase in fatalities 100 per cent; increase in automobile registration, 126 per cent.

Southern States, (Virginia North and South Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi, and Louisiana): Increase in fatalities, 230 per cent; increase in automobile registrations, 194 per cent.

"The states in the second and third groups," Colonel Barber adds, "had until the last year or two, and most of them still have, very inadequate motor vehicle laws and incomplete administrative organizations."

ABOUT TOWN

ABOUT TOWN
"I am delighted to hear of the organization of the Boy Scouts in this city," mentioned a prominent luncheon club member today.

"The movement is one in which every citizen should be interested. It tends to improve the morals of the boy of today and prepare him for the duties resting upon the shoulders of the man of tomorrow." Public spirited citizens should use every influence in promoting activities of the organization and in that way encourage the boys in the work ahead of them."

"The arrival of Lester Bangs, the new manager of the Greenville baseball club of the Eastern Carolina league will be received with general interest by sport lovers in this city," declared an ardent fan today.

"Bangs has the reputation of a successful manager. He does not go to Greenville with any false notions about the weakness of the club and is prepared to pull it to the top of the win column where play actually gets under way. Greenville people are willing to support a winning club, and if Bangs can give us that, then there is nothing else to say. Play ball."

"Cupid has his heart set on establishing a new record in Pitt county this year, if activities the last two mounts are to be counted as an index to his intentions," said a citizen today.

"Over two hundred licenses had been issued in Pitt county the first of the month and the little god of love has been firing his little darts consistently since that time. By the end of the month it is reasonable to believe the total number of licenses issued will be near the three hundred mark."

"This is quite a record compared with some other counties where only fifty or sixty licenses were issued since the beginning of the new fiscal year. But Pitt county is skilled in the setting of new records, and Cupid might as well claim one as anybody else."

"Unlucky '13' holds no terrors for members of the high school basketball team," mentioned a citizen today, referring to the several teams that have fallen before the local with the score of '13' to their credit. "It seems to make little difference to the pigskin tossers how many points the visiting teams make as they always manage to emerge with a larger score. As long as this continues '13' or on other number will matter."

"The real test is to come later, however. If we survive, then we shall never fear the jinx again."

"While the register of deeds of '13' county was issuing seven licenses to marry yesterday, civil court another part of the same building, issued seven decrees of divorce," observed a prominent man today.

"This goes to show there is plenty reason for Dan Cupid working overtime in this locality. We had been wondering for sometime why the little mythical god of love was playing around in this community so long, but the record of court activities compared with the records in the office of the register of deeds proves quite enlightening."

"If Cupid is just bound to send him to the altar, it is hoped he will be able to stick for life. This business of going to the courts for divorce isn't what it is cracked up to be. Just a little more common sense on the part of the participating couples would eliminate the rate of divorce and put this country on a much happier plane of living."

"I'm in favor of electing another weather man," emphatically stated a visitor to Greenville today.

"In some sections of the state it is so hot at times one can hardly stand an overcoat. In another section on the same day it is cold enough for two overcoats."

"Now who in the world can put up with such conditions. If the present weather man can't give us something more dependable, I favor firing him and putting somebody else in his place."

"It's a hard job, I realize, but it looks like anybody might offer something more acceptable than what we have been getting the last several days. Maybe, however, the old boy will settle down now that spring time is approaching and give us something of the right sort."

Kitty Hawk Memorial Design Turned Down

Washington, Feb. 22.—The design for the great memorial to be erected at Kitty Hawk, North Carolina to commemorate the first airplane flight by Wilbur and Orville Wright was yesterday rejected by the Senate Committee on the Library, and the actual work on the memorial will now be delayed for over one year. Thirty six of the most distinguished artists in America entered the competition for the design, and the successful one was to receive a prize of $5000 and was to be designed as the architect of the memorial. The Board of Award appointed by Major General B. F. Cheatam unanimously approved a design for a lofty tower to be built on top of Kill Devil Hill, which would contain a light with a visibility of thirty miles. The tower was to sit on a large star like base. The design was then successively approved by the Cabinet Commission, the Fine Arts Commission and the House Committee on the Library, the approval in each instance being by unanimous vote. The plans were also approved by Congressman Lindsey C. Warren joint author of the bill creating the memorial and by W. O. Saunders, President of the Kill Devil Hills Memorial Association. The tower would have cost $27,000 the Coast Guard Station $50,000, while a further sum of $50,000 was asked in order to anchor Kill Devil Hill, and stop it slow shifting down the Coast. The design, however failed to meet the approval of Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut, who with Mr. Warren introduced the bill in Congress, and Senator Bingham was today successful in getting the Senate Library Committee to disapprove same, after all other boards had voiced their approval. Objection was also raised by Senator McKellar of Tennessee. As a result of the disagreement new designs will be called for, and again submitted to Congress next December.

Hit the Nail on the Head

It's getting up courage to drive the first nail that's the hard part about building. You can trump up dozens of reasons for postponing the job—but did you ever know anybody to be sorry he built?

Most building materials are low priced now. Not every thing is as cheap as lumber but by the time the other things have dropped probably lumber will rise. So all in all this is a good time for building. Hit the nail on the head!

NEW BASEBALL MANAGER HOLDS CONFERENCE HERE; NINETEEN PLAYERS SIGNED

Mr. Bangs, new manager of the Greenville baseball club of the Eastern Carolina league, spent last night in Greenville in conference with President Smith relative to the organization of the local club for the coming season. Immediately after the conference, Mr. Bangs left for Norfolk. He will return to Greenville in time for the meeting at the City Hall Monday night.

Speaking of preliminary plans for the approaching season, Mr. Bangs stated that he had already signed up nineteen players. They will report here in time for training season which opens March 25th. The circuit begins playing ball on April 19th.

Mr. Bangs said only five or six more men would be signed up. He intends to begin training with seasoned material and is not expected to have much trouble picking the regular team from this number. Approximately forty men reported for training last season. Many of them had seen no actual service in league baseball, and considerable trouble was experienced in the "pruning" process.

The men already signed up have seen considerable service on the diamond. Five or six of them were held over from last season's team. They were considered the outstanding players of an organization which played with the jinx at its heels nearly the entire season. This was especially so during the final days of play when the club fell so far behind that finishing up near the top of the win column was a matter of impossibility.

"Deacon" Joliff, first manager of the local club, has been retained for action on the mound this season. Joliff was considered one of the leading heavies of the circuit. It was his mighty right arm that featured in the winning of a number of games for the Tobacconists when the jinx was at his worst.

Barron and Cherry, mound artists who stood out prominently last year, will again be seen in action. Both are said to have improved over last season and the new manager is expecting them to turn in a number of victories for the Tobacconists.

Ralph Williams, Crosjean and Joe Mattox have also signed to return. All three of these men were handy with the stick last season and their mighty walops turned the tide of victory in the local's favor a number of times.

Bangs gave no intimation as to the other five or six players under consideration. It was understood however, that practically all material would be signed up following his return from Norfolk. He is expected to make public a list of players at the meeting set for Monday night at the City Hall.

CUBS PLAY BALL IN CALIFORNIA

Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, Calif., Feb. 22.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs have played their first game of the 1929 season.

Continuing to harden the Cub pitchers and catchers, manager Joe McCarthy yesterday ordered a game to wind up the day's workout. Captained on one side by Pat Malone and the other by "Gabbit" Hartnett, the practice contest wound up with a score of 5 to 3 in favor of Malone's team.

Hal Carlson, right hand regular, pitched what approximated three innings, each side was allowed six outs per inning, Joe Bush and Art Nehf, two other veterans of the Cubs hurling staff, finished.

Carlson appears to be coming through in great shape, and the idea was prevalent that he is getting back to his old form. The Atlanta rookie, Tom Angley, gave the audience a few thrills in the way he swung on the pellet, making several good drives. Angley held a batting average of .336 last year with Atlanta.

WASHINGTON CAGERS TO PLAY LOCALS TONIGHT

Followers of the Greenville High School basketball team are manifesting much interest in the game with Washington tonight, in spite of the one-sided score by which Greenville won in the last meeting. "You never can tell how stubborn a defense Washington will put up," said one close student of the game this morning, "and I should not be surprised if the score will be much more even than Greenville people in general are expecting. The local boys are prone to be overconfident and that will make their game less effective, of course."

The local team will also be the weaker for the loss of some of the best players, due to unfortunate disciplinary infractions, but this will only tend to give the scrub team, who have been coming out steadily all year, a better chance to play thru one or two contests. It is planned to let the second string carry considerable of the offense tonight, unless, of course, Washington develops a strength much beyond what the home team counts on.

Christner to Fight Spaniard Tonight

New York, Feb. 22.—(AAP)—The boys have quoted Meyer (K. O.) Christner the big rubber tire man from Akron, as saying that he loved to have his fists rivals "come to him." The chances are Meyer will get his fill of that tonight when he battles the rugged and rough Spanish, Paulino-Uzudun, in a ten round match in Madison Square Garden.

Paulino's idea of an evening of great fun is to start wadding into his opponent at the opening gong and quit only when the battle is over. Christner insists that style is made to order for him because it gives him a chance to snoot over that powerful right hand, the 33 year old Akron heavyweight's best weapon and the one that stopped Knute Hansen in eight rounds.

But then Christner and Paulino an extremely shifty target despite the Spanish woodchopper's continual rushing tactics. Paulino does not lead with his chin. He tucks it deep into his chest and weaps a couple of brawny arms around it for additional protection. You can't knock a man out by hitting him on the arms.

No opponent, not even George Godfrey, the huge negro, has been able to make much impression on the Spaniard's chin or body. And when Paulino gets in close he deals out plenty of punishment. His blows are not particularly dangerous but generally they land often enough to win him the decision.

Christner's only chance seems to lie in a knockout, and there are few who believe even so patient a slugger as Christner can succeed where others of greater reputation have failed.

Cubans to See Miami Fight Havana, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Cuba will send several thousand fight fans to the Hharkey-Stribling heavy-weight match in Miami Beach February 27. A survey of applications for tickets to Miami Beach during the fight shows that 3,000 fans will travel to Florida by way of one of the three main arteries of travel from Havana.

LAND DISPUTE IS AIRED IN CIVIL COURT

Long Drawn Out Controversy Expected to Be Completed Sometime Today.

The civil term of Pitt County Superior Court continued hearing today in the case of P. A. Wayne vs. O. T. Stokes. The case involves a dispute over several acres of land in Swift Creek township and is not expected to be completed before late this afternoon or early tomorrow morning. Both the plaintiff and defendant claim title to a tract of land lying between the boundary lines of their plantations, and several deeds dating back many years have been brought into play on both sides in an effort to establish ownership.

The case is the only outstanding one that has come up for hearing at this term of court and involves many details which prevented early settlement.

The opening of this term of court set for last Monday morning, was postponed until Wednesday morning on account of the inability of Judge Daniels to reach the city the first of the week. The first day's work, however, resulted in the disposition of seven divorce cases and the signing of several compromise actions.

There are several hundred cases on the civil and criminal docket in this county. While only a minor number are expected to be completed this term, considerable relief is anticipated during the two weeks' term scheduled for the month of March.

NEW FEATURE ADDED TO FRIGIDAIRE LINE

Easy methods for preparation of a wide variety of frozen foods and desserts, many of them never before possible to make in the home are contained in a new recipe book being distributed by Litchfield Motor Co., local Frigidaire dealer.

These recipes were devised in the experimental kitchens of Frigidaire Corporation, and are intended for use with the new cold control, now standard equipment on all electric refrigerators manufactured by this organization. This improvement may be installed on models now in use, the local dealer has been informed.

A choice of six freezing speeds in the preparation of ices and other frozen delicacies is afforded the housewife by the device, Mr. Litchfield says. Various combinations formerly very difficult to prepare in an electric refrigerator, now freeze perfectly when the control is set in the proper notch. Ice cream is held in good condition until wanted for use.

"This new cold control, an exclusive Frigidaire feature, is regarded as the most outstanding development of the refrigeration industry in many years," Mr. Litchfield says. "Every woman knows the necessity of having proper control over her oven temperatures. The same need of temperature regulation exists in satisfactory freezing of desserts."

"Prior to this revolutionary invention many recipes for frozen desserts had to be made in an electric refrigerator had to contain ingredients which helped to congeal the dish. With this cold control and the near-zero temperature it affords, such special ingredients are no longer required. In the new Frigidaire recipe book they do not appear as an essential."

The cold control is now standard equipment upon all Frigidaire household units. Arrangements have been made to supply it as special equipment to hundreds of thousands of owners of earlier models.

The new household model announced today, is said by many who have seen it to be one of the most attractive household cabinets in the entire Frigidaire line. It is the smallest model that has ever been comparable in size with the average family ice box. It is equipped with the new cold control, quiet motor and all other features which have contributed to the tremendous popularity of the more than 750,000 now in use.

Duty On Hides Draws Interest

Washington, Feb. 22.—(AP)—An example of divergent tariff views has come with the idea of farm representatives for a duty on hides and a plea just as insistent by New England shoe and leather manufacturers that hides be kept off the free list.

Chester Gray, Washington representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation, made a proposal before the House ways and means committee that a tariff of 45 per cent ad valorem be placed on hides.

At a session of the committee last night representatives of New England manufacturers expressed themselves as stunned by Gray's proposal and said that they came to Washington prepared to protect a duty of only 15 per cent on hides.

J. E. McEwain of Boston, representing the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' Association, estimated that a duty of 45 per cent would mean that everybody who bought shoes would pay from ninety cents to a dollar a pair more. He said that in the course of a year this would probably mean about $270,000,000 more for shoes over the nation.
