LINDBERGH IS INJURED WHILE PLANE WRECKS

Fiance Escapes Uninjured as Plane Overtakes on Landing at Valbuena.

Mexico City, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, undisturbed by yesterday's "mishap" is understood to have made plans for another flight today.

Although no statement was made to that effect, it was believed that the colonel was planning to follow the custom of the Army, where he was trained, of sending aviators back into the air as soon as possible after an accident.

When seen this morning by reporters, the colonel said that he was feeling "all right."

Miss Anne Morrow, his fiancee who was with him yesterday when their plane overturned on landing at Valbuena airfield, a wheel having been lost, was reported to be resting.

The colonel, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow and Anne and Elizabeth Morrow planned to motor over to Ambarcoba tomorrow in the day after tomorrow makes another flight.

Colonel Lindbergh today had the pain of a wrenched shoulder and a badly damaged airplane to remind him of the narrowness of their escape. Miss Morrow fared better.

Police large against the memory of fright and mild shock was the knowledge of her fiancee's having thought and acted first for her in an emergency which threatened their lives.

The full measure of this gallantry and skill in the air was revealed only as closely guarded secrets of the excursion into the clouds became known.

After leaving Valbuena field yesterday with a small bag packed with sandwiches Colonel Lindbergh and Miss Morrow flew to a nearby spot for a picnic lunch. In the take-off for the return trip the airplane lost its right wheel—probably it is now believed because a mechanic in cranking it had failed to re-tighten the cotter key which held it to the axle.

When he was flying back to the field Lindbergh's thoughts were on his predicament, and how best to emerge from it. Finally he reached over to Miss Morrow, seated at his side, and told her above the roar of the motor, they probably would turn over when they landed.

He showed her how to take the cushions from the plane's seats and pack them around her body, with other planes in mind so that the shock of the crash would be lessened. Then, to guard against explosion of the gasoline when the plane turned over he maneuvered back and forth over the field until all but the dregs of the tank were exhausted.

He waved to Army mechanics and officers below, pointing to his landing gear, then shot out of space onto the land, lighting gracefully on one wheel and the tail skid. It seemed for a moment the plane would come to a rest without mishap, but the loose end of the axle struck the ground and it careened forward, turning over on its nose.

Field attendants helped the aviator and Miss Morrow, obviously badly frightened through the windows to the ground. His first words turning to her were, "Are you all right?"

She noticed he grasped his right shoulder, as if in pain, but when he protested he was not hurt she allowed him to escort her off the field to an embassy car which took them to the Morrow home. He remarked after a while the rain in his shoulder was present, and Mrs. Morrow insisted upon calling a physician.

Dr. Sydney Unfelder discovered the shoulder was dislocated. An effort was made to administer an anesthetic at the Morrow home, but when this failed the aviator was taken to the Lady Conroy hospital for the operation.

Governor Gardner Asks Legislature To Create State Tax Commission

Raleigh, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Governor Gardner today asked the legislature to create a tax commission as a measure for promoting efficiency and economy in the handling of North Carolina's fiscal affairs.

In a special message, the chief executive recommended to the lawmakers that this body be created to replace the present board of assessment. He suggested that it be composed of three members to be appointed by him. The new commission would also take the place of the advisory tax commission created in 1927 to report to the 1929 general assembly.

The house committee on roads turned thumbs down on the highway patrol bill passed by the senate and reported instead the Harris-Hargett measure sponsored in the house.

The bill favored would establish a highway patrol force of 37 members, to be paid out of the regular revenues of the department. Under the senate bill, a force of 125 motorcycle patrolmen would have been set up, and the cost would have been provided by the collection of a fifty cents' drivers license fee from all motorists. The house bill makes no reference to the licensing of drivers.

The calendar of both houses continued to grow today with many new bills tossed into the hopper. Many bills were passed in each house without precipitating a debate.

Raleigh, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The House passed, 86 to 10, on second reading today the bill of Representatives Young and Leavitt, Republicans, of Buncombe, providing for a vote on extension of the corporate limits of the city of Asheville.

A substitute for the Leavitt-Young bill was offered by the House committee on counties, cities and towns. It would have had Asheville and the sections proposed to be taken in vote together on expansion. It was voted down 57 to 39.

The original bill that the House adopted instead of the committee substitute permits the area to be taken in vote separately from the city of Asheville on the question.

An hour and a half of debate preceded action on the measure. Representatives Gwyn, Republican of Rockingham, and Brooks of Durham and Sutton of Lenoir, both Democrats, spoke in favor of adoption of the minority report.

Its adoption was opposed by Representatives Hutcheson of Madison, Lumpkin of Franklin, and Johnson of Halifax all Democrats.

A bill to provide for serving processes upon non-resident owners and operators of automobiles that were in accidents on North Carolina highways was passed by the Senate today and sent to the House.

FLOODS CLAIM THREE LIVES IN GA. TODAY

Three Persons Drown When Flood Washes Away Bridge Over Creek Near Warrenton.

Macon, Ga., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The Macon News said today that relatives of Lincoln McWhorter, prominent Lincolnton, Ga., attorney, had received word that he and three members of his family had been drowned late yesterday when flood waters washed away a bridge over a creek near Warrenton, Ga.

The Ocmulgee river, flowing a mile wide only four blocks from the business section of Macon, had reached a stage of 25.8 feet at 8 a. m. today, 7.8 feet above flood stage. The stream ripped and slashed at levees and embankments and threatened to wash away Central City Park. Although there was little apparent danger to downtown Macon, many persons were forced to evacuate their homes in the East Macon lowlands when flood waters swirled about the streets and fields.

Rainfall for the last forty hours in Macon and vicinity had totalled 7.09 inches at 8 a. m. today, the weather bureau reported. Clearing skies gave some indication of relief during the morning, however.

Other parts of the State also were suffering from the deluge of water. The Oconee river continued its rise and was marooned by the swollen waters, highways, with the general exception of those well paved, are reported impassable and railroads are having trouble maintaining schedules. The streaks of the Southern railway between Macon and Atlanta were under a foot or more of water where they parallel the Ocmulgee, and trains were being reported over the Central Georgia tracks.

In Central City park here workmen labored throughout the night and early morning placing sand bags on the levees to keep out the raging waters which were said to be growing more threatening every hour.

STATE RIVERS NEAR FLOOD STAGE TODAY

Streams Swollen In Many Sections By Recent Downpour of Rain.

Charlotte, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Rivers throughout the Carolinas today were rapidly approaching flood stage as a result of heavy incessant rains during the last three days.

A continuous downpour was reported from virtually every section of the two states, during the last 24 hours with Charlotte reporting 2.79 inches of rainfall during the 24 hours ending at 8 a. m. today and Greenville, S. C., 2.42 inches. A total of 1.48 inches fell at Raleigh and 78 inch at Asheville. Other points reported more than half an inch.

Many streets in Greensboro and highways in the county were flooded today as a result of nearly two inches of rain falling last night. A total of more than three inches had fallen since Monday at that point.

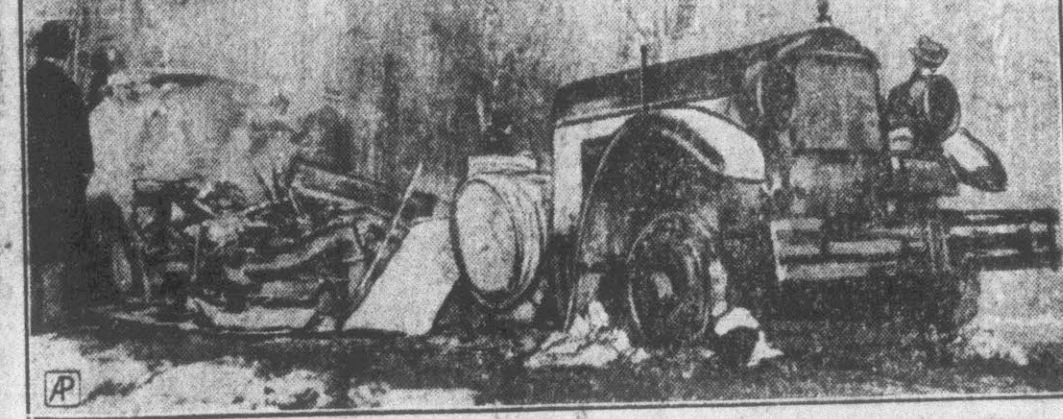

The Catawba and other rivers in the Piedmont section were bank full with lowering skies promising more rain. In the eastern part of the state at Fayetteville, the Cape Fear River stood at 38.4 feet and was still rising today. Salisbury reported all streams out of their banks as a result of a downpour totaling 5.62 inches in 48 hours, 3.14 inches having fallen in the 24 hours ending at 8 a. m.

No serious damage has been reported from any point.

MCLARNIN AND GLICK TO FIGHT IN NEW YORK
New York, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The ordinary run of boxing fans, those who had neither time nor money for journey to Miami Beach, will get their share of ring warfare in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. With Jimmy McLarnin, baby faced Vancouver youngster and Joe Glick, Brooklyn's prominent pants presser, as the principals it promises to be a good show.

The meeting is a return battle between the two battlers who put on a stirring ten round scrap a few weeks ago. The decision went to McLarnin then.

ORDER ARREST OF PROMINENT MEN IN CUBA

Attempt Made to Suppress Plot Against President And Peace Of Nation.

Havana, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Seventy-three warrants for arrest of prominent Cubans were issued by Superior Judge Manuel Quesada today in continuation of efforts at suppression of a plot against the life of President Machado and the peace of Cuba.

The action was preceded by a statement by Colonel Alfonso Fors, Cuban secret service chief, saying: "I can now say that an open state of rebellion and utter disregard for legally constituted authority exists throughout the nation."

A later statement by Colonel Fors said that the situation was well in hand and that there were no acts of violence.

Revelation of the plot came late yesterday with the filing of charges against ten prominent Cubans, including a plot to assassinate President Machado and create such a chaotic condition in Cuba that the United States would be forced to intervene.

Eight of the ten men named in the formal charges were arrested immediately. Two others were taken in custody before midnight and all were lodged in the principal fortress to be held without bail. The eight arrests were made in a single raid on the headquarters of the Nationalists, or Nationalist political party.

Among those named in warrants issued today were Rafael Urdaralde, former minister of war in the Machado cabinet and believed now to be in exile in New York, and Octavio Saigle, founder of the Nationalist party, accused of fomenting the revolt.

In his announcement of discovery of the plot Colonel Fors said: "So evident was the plot to execute these treasonable crimes among the plotters that we were told 'the President would not be able to be inaugurated May 20'."

He charged several organizations with implication. These included the Communist party, the Nationalists, the anti-Imperialist League and the Nationalist Union. He said anti-government parties had been formed throughout the island under the name of "Local Government." These parties he said, did not hesitate to term themselves "New Cuban Revolutionaries."

He charged their activities extended into several countries, a reference in which some see a connection with the activities of Jose Antonio Mella, Cuban student agitator who was assassinated in Mexico City recently.

While the details that will add color to the occasion are being attended to, the committee in charge is applying itself also to the more serious aspects—those of accommodating the crowds and preventing any hitch in the carefully laid plans for the parade. Daily additional wooden bleacher seats are making their appearance along the line of march and police officials are conferring with officers from Baltimore and other cities who will send police there to aid in handling the throngs. The fire department has contributed its part by arriving to divide the fire equipment into two sections prepared to care for emergencies in the northern and southern sections of the city without the necessity of breaking through the parade.

Hoover Nears End Of Cabinet Appointments

Washington, Feb. 28.—(AP)—After trials that usually beset a President-elect at this season, Herbert Hoover rapidly is completing his cabinet with clear indications that only one or two of the Coolidge advisers will be retained.

With James W. Good of Iowa, selected to succeed Dwight F. Davis in the war department, Andrew W. Mellon veteran treasury secretary, will find himself in entirely new company at the White House conference table after March 4 unless James J. Davis or William F. Whiting is named to succeed himself.

There have been suggestions that one or the other would get reappointment, but this is not now regarded as likely. Several brothers of William N. Doak, railroad brother-in-law of Hoover, is at Roanoke, Va., claim he will have the labor portfolio and it is known that Mr. Hoover sought unsuccessfully to have his old friend, Henry M. Robinson of Los Angeles, take the commerce post.

From circles close to the next president some hints that a number of the appointments which will be sent to the senate Monday are looked upon as temporary in character. It has been the general understanding in political quarters here that Secretary Mellon would remain only two years and it is known that Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, who is to be Interior Secretary, has obtained leave of absence from Stanford University, for only a like period of time.

Some research work done by the Hoover forces has shown that the average tenure of office of cabinet members over many years has been only a little more than a year. Many men go into cabinet with the intention of remaining only a short time.

As Mr. Hoover filled the posts of Attorney General, the President-elect sought with somewhat unusual persistency to prevail upon him to succeed Henry L. Stimson, the new secretary of State as governor general of the Philippines.

Donovan was prevailed upon to come here from New Mexico to the insistence of the President-elect. There was some talk about the war portfolio, which Donovan was willing to accept, although naturally he preferred promotion to the attorney generalship.

However, Mr. Hoover urged that he go to the Philippines. Donovan flatly refused declaring that for many reasons he could not leave the United States at this time even if he wanted the Manila post.

Walter F. Brown, of Ohio, and Charles Francis Adams of Massachusetts are thought to be likely selections for the posts of postmaster general and secretary of the Navy respectively. The post of agriculture and commerce are regarded as still open, with final selections for these expected within the next 36 or 48 hours.

Heavy Rains Swell Streams In N. C.
Asheville, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Heavy rains of the past 72 hours today had swelled rivers of the Asheville district to flood stage though no damage was reported and no repetition of the inundation of last fall seemed probable.

The French Broad river stood at 4.4 feet, 4 of a foot above flood stage, and the Swannanoa river too was swollen, though still within its banks. Weather predictions held the possibility of more rain. During the night 70 of an inch of rain was reported to have fallen, bringing the total for 3 days to 1.49 inches.

National Capital All Dressed Up For Inauguration
Washington, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The national capital is rapidly acquiring holiday garb and the thousands of visitors who will come here for the inauguration of Herbert Hoover as the 31st President of the United States probably will find the city more gaily bedecked than at any time in its history.

Already hundreds of flags and miles of red, white and blue bunting have been hung out and inauguration officials believe that the decorations that will be flaunted along Pennsylvania avenue will be of any similar display in the United States.

Sargent Plans To Return to Vermont
Washington, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Fishing, hunting and the pleasure of living in the small town where he was born are the things that beckon to John G. Sargent, for four years the silent attorney general of the Coolidge cabinet, as his term draws to a close.

ARREST ONE GANG KILLER AT CHICAGO

Jack McGurn Identified as One of St. Valentine's Day Gang Assassins.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Jack McGurn, rated the ace of gangster machine-guns, was identified last night as one of the St. Valentine's day gang assassins.

He was arrested at the hotel Stevens in a suite three floors above that on which the State's Attorney investigators had headquarters. An attractive blonde who said she was Louise Wolfe and who McGurn said was his wife occupied the suite with him.

In a "showup" at detective headquarters following the arrest McGurn was picked from a line of 30 by two witnesses and identified as one of the killers.

David Stansbury, directing the slayer search for the State's Attorney said: "The crime has now been solved. There is no question about it. The prisoner has been viewed by witnesses who declared positively that he was one of the killers. I also know the motive—and have known it for two days."

"McGurn, of course, will fight. He will set up an alibi, using as his witness the young woman" with whom he was arrested. But the alibi will not stand. All we want now is five more men. We shall have them soon."

The prisoner had little talking, but he did deny having had any part in the crime. He said he could establish through the Hotel that on the day of the sevenfold murders he did not leave his room until after 1:30 p. m.—Three hours after the crime.

"We have been living at the hotel for two weeks," he said. "We rarely left the hotel and seldom arose before noon. I don't know a thing about this murder."

Police said McGurn had "plenty of reason" for wanting at least two of the slaying gangsters out of the way. The Greenberg Brothers, who were killed, are believed to have been the ones who twice last year sought to kill McGurn and once nearly succeeded. He was shot as he stood in a telephone booth, being seriously wounded. On another occasion the automobile in which he rode was raked by machine gun fire, but he escaped harm.

On May 14, 1926, police entered a room in the Guyon hotel and found McGurn there, machine gun on his lap and a pistol, loaded with dum-dum bullets, in his possession. Although possession of the weapons is a penitentiary offense, McGurn was freed on a technicality, the police having entered the room without a search warrant.

Yesterday's arrest was the first to be made since Commissioner Stege broadcast a list of 17 "wanted" men. McGurn's name headed the list. Police said they had established the fact that their prisoner went to Florida in December and conferred with Al Capone, but that he returned to Chicago several weeks before the gang massacre.

Sharkey Wins Decision Over "Young" Stribling

By ALAN J. GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The impetuous fling of youth, it seems, isn't entirely enough. Young Stribling, idol of the south and a veteran of pugilism despite his 21 years, had his fling last night but at the end of a glamorous melodrama of Miami Beach, the official decision went to Jack Sharkey, the sour, chunky, and had hitting sailor from down east.

In a ten round match that was alternately fast and dull, Sharkey overcame a big lead on points piled up by Stribling in the first six rounds and won with a strong finish throughout the last four rounds.

The battering Bostonian had his hand lifted aloft as the victor by Referee Lou Magnolia of New York, but his margin of victory was thin and far from convincing, either to a majority of experts or to most of the crowd of 40,000 that was packed in the picturesque setting of Flamingo Park.

Maracila, sole arbiter of the bet, did not hesitate to lift Sharkey's hand, nor did his score sheet showing six rounds for the Boston boxer, three for Stribling, and one even, leave room for any doubt in his mind. Ringside critics, although widely at variance in their opinions, were not far from unanimous in agreement with the verdict. The majority, in a poll taken by the Associated Press, credited Sharkey with no more than a single round's margin. But only about one out of every twelve in the critical group assembled around the ring believed Stribling was entitled to victory or at least a draw.

Stribling, overlighted and club-footed, but not outwitted, fought the more spectacular fight. He furnished the one big moment of drama in the fourth round when he came to Sharkey's flank on the left temple with an overhead right that staggered the Boston staller and made his knees sag momentarily. Then, as at other times, however, the valiant Georgian was unable to follow up his advantage.

Sharkey, in better fighting condition, was woefully slow, ineffective and wild at times but he also fought the more businesslike fight. He won by the colorless but nevertheless effective method of pounding Stribling's body until it was sore, bruised and blotchy red. That punishing mode of attack slowly but certainly took the steam from Stribling's own punches, slowed up his movements and wore down his resistance in a bout that was filled with plenty of pushing and pulling, tugging and hugging.

Yet for all the closeness of the decision, for all that Sharkey may yet have to prove before he regains the top rank he held more than two years ago in the heavyweight scramble, the victory moves the Boston boxer another furlong along the pugilistic path. His next opponent—in the program leading up to a possible comeback by Jack Dempsey in the struggle for Gene Tunney's vacated throne—probably will be the muzzed and iron jawed Frenchman Pauline Uzcudis, who fought last night as he watched one of his bouts in action and accepted the challenge to the winner.

For all the fluff may have lacked in spectacular elements, or in the drama that would have gone with a knockout or exciting victory, it was nevertheless a completely exciting and a most interesting all the novelty of the spectacle itself, its tropical surroundings, its gathering of the masses and the big crowd and its testimony to the successful completion of one of the most interesting sports ventures of all time.

Of the crowd of some 40,000 about 35,000 contributed to an astonishing "gate" of $400,000 for the venture that was the richest since the days of the "Big Boy" fight, and which his successors led by Jack Dempsey and "Big Boy" Casey saw through to success, only after many misgivings.

"I light a Lucky and stay slender -"

Hope Hampton, Famous Star of the Opera, Stage and Screen.

"Luckies have helped me win the laurel crown of my musical career—singing in opera. Stage presence demands a slim, youthful figure. Rich foods cannot tempt me. I light a Lucky and stay slender. The toasted flavor of a Lucky soothes the craving for goodies. Then, too, a Lucky never irritates my throat. Even, after smoking many, my voice is still clear."

The modern common sense way—reach for a Lucky instead of a fattening sweet. Everyone is doing it—men keep healthy and fit, women retain a trim figure. Lucky Strike, the finest tobaccos, skillfully blended, then toasted to develop a flavor which is a delightful alternative for that craving for fattening sweets.

Toasting frees Lucky Strike from impurities. 20,679 physicians recognize this when they say Luckies are less irritating than other cigarettes. That's why folks say: "It's good to smoke Luckies."

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This surely confirms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

Tobacco Soil Is Poor

Tobacco soils of either the Piedmont or coastal plains sections should have a rather sandy or sandy-loam topsoil to a depth of 6 to 10 inches, underlain by a sandy, sand-clay or clay subsoil. Such soils are usually deficient in plant food and contain little organic matter, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. That's why fertilizer—V-C Fertilizer—plays such an important part in growing good tobacco.

ACALA COTTON, A NEW FAST-GROWING

upland variety from Mexico, is recommended by the U. S. Department of Agriculture for growers along the northern edge of the cotton belt, where seasons are short.

Farmer Mines Own Gold

The farmer gets his riches from the earth as surely as if he were digging them out of a mine—with this difference; the miner must depend on the geology of past ages to place his bonanza for him, while it is the farmer's privilege to plant his wealth in springtime, using his brains, and gather it in at the harvest season—a little crop or a big, not as luck would have it but as skill has shaped it. U. S. Department of the Interior.

"We are entering an era of large increase in the use of fertilizers. It means an economic gain for the farmer just as much as good seed, better machinery, or better marketing methods."—AMERICAN FARMING

"I CONSIDER V-C Gold Medal 3-8-3 the best cotton fertilizer on the market. We always pick from one to one and a half bales per acre."—Dr. C. R. Young, Angier, N. C.

Good Burn, A Prime Quality

The interests of the free-cured tobacco industry as a whole, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture, will be served best by the general use of fertilizers which will aid in producing free-burning tobacco, in addition to the other elements of quality and yield. Good burn is a prime element of quality.

IT PAYS!

V-C Fertilizers are serving their third generation of cotton growers. Farmers whose grandfathers used

V-C have come into their own and plow V-C under with every new planting. From father to son the good old tradition is handed down—that V-C is an investment that pays!

More than 203,000,000 cigarettes were smoked every minute of the year 1928.

It's not the best that's best, but the best that's best—the ones that hang on and endure—these are the bolls that pile up your cotton profits. V-C does its job clear to the end.

"The average man learns from his own experience. The wise man learns from the experience of others."—Quoted.

Saves Time, Adds Profits

V-C Fertilizers—the fertilizers with the Fourth Ingredient—are famous for their uniformly good mechanical condition. They flow smoothly through the drill, giving thorough and even distribution. This saves precious minutes at planting time... and adds precious profits at gathering time.

"Sold my crop 'th' other day." Old Faithful writes to Mizal Goods. "Didn't get as much as I expected, but I knew I wouldn't."

"About all the good needs to do is buy from a reliable fertilizer dealer and use a fertilizer that has been mixed specially for tobacco."—J. M. Purdom.

But V-C Beats Him

A boll weevil that enjoys weather too hot and dry for a field hand has been quarantined by the government in Arizona. They hope to hold him—but he can sew himself up for the winter in tough little hulls that look like cottonseed and can pass right through a gun. The government figures his ancestors got stranded in the desert lands and had to change their ways to keep going. They call him the Thurberia weevil because he has learned to live on a wild plant of that name which is kin to cotton and grows in the Arizona mountains. But give him a chance and he takes to real cotton like a dog to the bushes. Cotton farmers of the far southwest were riding high with dry-land crops when he had to come along. Thurberia may be his right name, but what those farmers call him couldn't be published in a family paper like FULL ROWS.

"Farmers are learning how to make fertilizer expenditure an investment and not an expense."—H. D. Wilson, Louisiana Commissioner of Agriculture.

Why Waste Time Trying?

Quality is everything, in the tobacco crop. But you can't make good quality with poor materials, or good tobacco with poor fertilizer, or good fertilizer with poor ingredients.

"The legislation that would help farmers would be for scientific research appropriations. Chemists have already put enough kick in a bale of cotton to sink a battleship. There is no reason why many other uses could not be discovered for other farm by-products."

H. H. Heinann. Takes a smart boll weevil to beat V-C cotton.

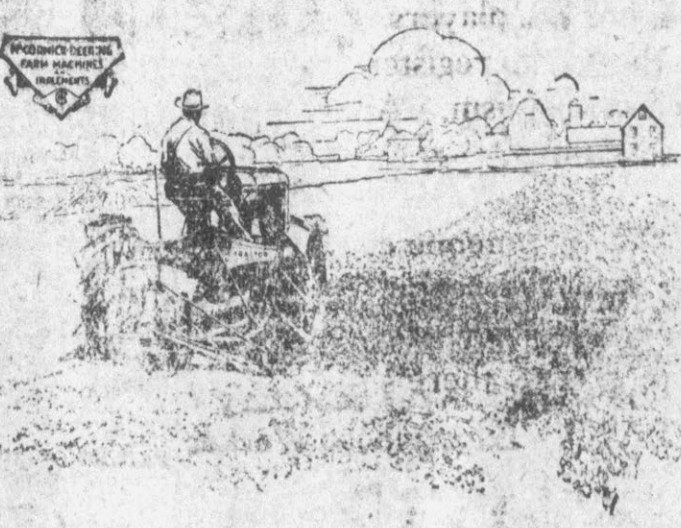

"You would not try to overdraw your bank account. You should be equally sure that you do not overdraw your soil fertility account."—NEW YORK CENTRAL LINES.

FARMVILLE IS WINNER OVER LOCAL CAGERS

Farmville High School's quintet took their revenge from Greenville last night, when the locals lost on the Webb Warehouse floor in a thrilling game by 22 to 19 points. This was, of course, of great satisfaction to the Farmville contingent but the edge was somewhat taken off the event by reason of the fact that obviously Greenville was experiencing an off night. This is no in the way of an alibi, but if the visitors had had their eyes on the basket in anywhere near their usual form, the result would have left a different score.

The first half stood with both teams on an even basis, 13 to 12 with Farmville having the one point lead. Burnett had caged two, Bostic, Hearne and Hicks each one and two fouls made the Greenville 12. Barrett and Caraway led in Farmville point column, but Smith excelled on the floor.

In the second half, Greenville points became as scarce as hen's teeth. Farmville also did less caging of the ball. This is the first game in some time where the most of the scoring occurred in the first half and indicates that the defense tightened considerably on both sides. Only two men for each dropped the ball thru the rim for either field goals or fouls during the half. Barrett added two more, and Smith one, with four fouls for Farmville. Burnett scored once and Tucker twice with one foul for Greenville. That was all. But up and down the floor the game raged, with many long chances and wild heaves toward the basket. Onfield goals, both teams were tied with eight goals.

When the final whistle blew, the score board showed Farmville 22, Greenville 19.

Giants Hard at Work.
San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The New York Giants have had their first taste of the twice-daily practice regime instituted by manager John McGraw and that taste wasn't so good for Carl Mays. The submarine ball hurler was the victim of the first serious injury in the second of yesterday's sessions. He suffered broken bone in his left thumb during a brief batting practice.

STRIBLING TO TOUR EUROPE

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Now that Young Stribling once the Macon schoolboy, has grown to such an extent that he is recognizable even in defeat, as a formidable heavyweight contender, "W. L." is bound for another lengthy tour. This time, instead of fighting bi-weekly through the flatlands, adding knockouts to a string already as long as his arm, the clean-cut Georgian is headed for Europe and a fighting tour of foreign fields.

Although edged out of a decision last night by Jack Sharkey, the belting job from Boston, the southerner is by no means distressed by the defeat. He feels as do "Ma" and "Pa" Stribling, his parents and managers, that regardless of the merit of the verdict, the boy who has fought from a flyweight to a full fledged heavyweight at 24 has at last impressed his prowess in the fight faithful.

"We think we won that fight," said "Pa" Stribling editorially, "but that isn't important now. There are no alibis. The boy wasn't in as perfect condition as we would have wished but he has proved that he doesn't have to pick his opponents. Fight fans must recognize today that the boy is capable of giving any man in the world a battle. It was no alibi that Son had injured his side. He displaced his fourth rib in his left side in the back last Wednesday. After four rounds last night he could hardly lift his hand."

The southerner's tour of Europe probably will last for several months. He plans to rest for a time and then arrange a series of exhibition matches that will take him through all the prominent cities abroad. On his return, Stribling plans to challenge all the leading heavyweights, seeking first a return match with Sharkey.

The Boston sailor, booked to leave for his home at 9 a. m. today, was so pleased with the outcome of the battle that he will claim the heavyweight championship and demand a return match with Jack Dempsey, promoter of his match with Stribling, and the man who checked his surge toward a title match with Gene Tunney by a seven round knockout in 1926. The silent sailor had nothing but praise for his adversary after the match. The only marks he showed of the ten round conflict were slashes across the knuckles, caused, he said, by four ounce gloves that broke under the power of his punches.

"Stribling," he said, "is a tricky, fast, resourceful fighter with a deceptive attack. He'll murder any man that walks into him. His right hand is a pip. He'll cause lots of trouble for lots of heavyweights."

GRAY BACK WITH ST. LOUIS BROWNS

West Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Sammy Gray, star right hander, showed up in the St. Louis Browns' camp yesterday fully recovered from the finger injury which forced him to the bench earlier in the final months of the 1928 pennant race. With his was Oscar Estrada, Cuban southpaw, acquired during the winter.

"Please pardon my frown... but someone in the studio just coughed... and spoiled our love scene"

"They've often called the movies 'the silent drama.' But there isn't much silence during the making of a movie.

"It's in the making of a 'Talkie' that studio silence is required. No one is allowed to make any noise, but the players. For the slightest sound in the studio registers on the sensitive recording mechanism. And an uninvited cough is a calamity.

"The other day someone coughed during the recording of a love scene. Since then OLD GOLDS are the order of the day. For as all Hollywood knows, there's not a cough in a film-ful."

DRIVER'S LICENSE NECESSARY

We agree with the Wilson times that the clause of the highway patrol bill that would require the licensing of drivers is equally as important for safety as is the establishment of the patrol. The realization that the habitual breaker of the measures that make for safety on our highways would suffer revocation of his privilege to drive an automobile, we believe would have the desired effect of preventing much of the present careless, reckless and drunken driving and by all means, this feature of the bill should receive favorable action at the hands of the legislature.

Declaring that action so far is a case of politics rather than safety, the Times

The indications are that the Legislature will establish a constabulary of 37 men to patrol the roads, and this will help, but it will fail to enact the clause relative to licensing drivers, which to us seems far more important.

The whole purpose of the law should be to protect life and property. It would be better in our opinion to license drivers, and make every automobile responsible for the damage that it did to the other car than to have even several patrolmen in every county, for the speeder and the careless driver will take chances in being caught, and will look out for the officers.

But if every one labored under apprehension that their license would be taken away from them if they had too many accidents to their credit, or that they had the reputation of being reckless drivers, or they were in the habit of violating the law regarding the operation of cars, they would think several times before they drove at an inordinate rate of speed, or tried to pass cars in a jam, or took hold of the wheel under the influence of liquor.

Then too there are people who are lacking in judgment, and discretion and these should not be allowed to drive cars under any circumstances. They are a menace every time they get out on the road.

But politics play a very important part in all legislation, and North Carolina will continue to maintain her length record on the road.

THE LAST LAUGH

Something less than a hundred years ago the city fathers of a small town in a New England state were debating over the advisability of changing from whale oil to the newly discovered kerosene for street lamps.

The town was stirred by the controversy until finally a citizen, doubtless of the reactionary school, contributed this bit of verse:

"It would not cause us great surprise

If some presumptuous ass Should snatch the lighting from the skies

Or light our streets with gas."

The author has been forgotten. But he unknowingly proved himself a true prophet. What was conceived in ire and sent on its way as a bit of withering satire became an actuality, probably within the author's lifetime.

Those who are skeptical of our modern industrial age and its future may find themselves in the same position as this village wit. Progress waits for no man and has a talent for turning jokes back upon their creators.

ABOUT TOWN

"Fourteen consecutive victories for the championship of the North-eastern conference is a record which people in this city should be proud" declared a citizen today, speaking of the splendid record hung up by the Greenville high school basketball team this season.

"The club has been able to vanquish some of the fastest organizations in this section of the state. They are now looking for something outside conference circle. Just what they will find remains to be seen. But it is a foregone conclusion they will make enough showing to let the other club know they have been in a real fight."

"Not many cage teams have been able to capture such distinct honor, and the record is a source of much gratification to the hundreds of supporters of Soup Porter's outfit."

"How about Captain Fried" mentioned the manager of the Reflector today, referring to the story of the famous navigator carried in the columns of this paper daily.

"Have you read it?" he continued. "Well, you should. It is one of the most thrilling narratives of present day life at sea. The story portrays the life of a real hero a man who conquered the elements at their worst and brought countless numbers of human lives to safety in two of the most outstanding ship rescues on history of the world."

"The story will be continued in the columns of this paper for some time yet. If you are not a subscriber, why not send in your subscription at once and join our happy family of readers. You'll enjoy this tale of the sea. It is a real story of modern life and full of adventure."

"Everybody was of the opinion Sharkey would win—and he did," said a supporter of the Boston sailor, speaking of the fistic engagement between Sharkey and Stribling in Miami last night.

"The Boston job has the distinction of knocking Jack Dempsey out of the ring several months ago. And any man that can accomplish such

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS Street Improvements Greenville, N. C.

Sealed proposals for constructing Street Improvements in the Town of Greenville, N. C., will be received by the Mayor and Commissioners until eight P. M. on the seventh day of March, 1929.

The work will consist of approximately 5200 lineal feet of concrete curb and gutter, together with the necessary grading, etc. Blanks forms of proposals, plans and specifications may be obtained from the Engineer at the office. The right is reserved to reject for five (5) percent of the bid is to accompany the proposal.

The right is reserved to reject any and all bids, or to award contract, which in the opinion of the Engineer and City Commissioners, appears to be for the best interest of the City. J. C. Lanier, Mayor. J. O. Duvall, City Clerk. Henry L. Rivers, Engineer. Feb. 25-28; Mar. 4-6.

a feat should not find it a hard task to win a decision over a man like Stribling, although the latter has a long string of victories to his credit. "Sharkey desires the crown set aside by Gene Tunney sometime ago will most likely have the honor of fighting Dempsey again in the near future. This match will decide the championship of the world. At least this is the fight plan talked over the country at the present time, and Dempsey certainly will not disappoint the followers that have supported him both in the ring and as a promoter."

"The tax feature and the increased school term were two of the most important parts of the McLean school bill," declared a supporter of the measure today.

"While the tax problem is covered in the new bills which have come up for consideration the last two or three days, the longer school term is not mentioned at all. "And right here is where many of the counties are going to squel. They believed a longer term was the proper thing for those sections of the country where only the six months term is offered and supported the measure for that very reason.

"Apparently the child has been forgotten and only the tax question left as the outstanding feature of the measure. Still, this will mean something to the oppressed landowner, and may eventually lead to extension of the school term."

"I really believe we are going to have a winning team this season," firmly declared a fan today, speaking of the enthusiasm in evidence at the public meeting held in this city the other night.

"With the public behind a club, there is no reason on earth why it should not be made a great success. Moral and financial support are two things absolutely necessary to a successful organization—baseball or anything else.

"If you are interested in success of the Tobaccoist, prepare to buy liberally of the stocks to be offered for sale in the next several days. The more money the club has, the better they can play ball. Bear this fact in mind and subscribe until you feel like you have done your part.

"A winning ball club is one of the best advertisements a city can have. It keeps the public eye centered on the community and causes people to talk in familiar terms of the club's activities."

Resolutions.

Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God to call to his eternal home our friend and fellow-worker, Brother S. Smith, and whereas, we were grieved and encouraged by his noble example in discharging the duties and responsibilities conferred upon him in his Christian work, and whereas, the death of our fellow-worker and fellow-member at a time when his Christian influence was being felt so beneficially is a loss to this board, church, and community. Therefore, be it resolved that we, the members of the Board of Stewards of Jarvis Memorial M. E. Church, South, in remembrance of one who was so loyal, and beloved, shall cause a copy of these resolutions to be spread in the minutes of this Board. A copy be sent to the North Carolina Christian Advocate, and a copy be sent to the family of the deceased.

ENDS OF CENTURY CLUB MEETS WITH MRS. HOOKER

The End of the Century club held its regular meeting Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Travis Hooker. Mrs. R. L. Smith and Mrs. L. A. Stroud were guests for the afternoon. After the business portion and the exchange of books, the meeting was turned over to the hostess who also had charge of the program. Mrs. W. L. Huff, who presided, highlighted the club with her own poems which were given in groups, dialect, children's, home, seasons, love and miscellaneous. With her poem the "Sycamore Tree," she made each of us feel that the sun was always shining on our path, the birds singing in the trees for us, the flowers filling the air with fragrance and every thing going merrily and every marriage bell ringing when she gave the poem, "Partache," the words of a former poet came to our minds. "Into every life some rain must fall. Some days must be dark and dreary."

At the close of the program Mrs. Hooker invited the club into the dining room where a delicious salad course was served by her daughters, Mrs. Bradshaw and Miss Alice Lee Hooker. —Reported.

Headache

I never hear a bird sing
But that I think of you
I loved every bird and bird note,
Knew every shining tree.

The sight of fishing pole and line,
Or boat upon the river,
Fills my eyes with bitter tears,
And sets my heart a quiver.

Gone for him the happy days,
With rod and reel and gun,
All day long my darling sits
A dreaming of him.

Clinics For Pre-School Children.

During the next few months the Health Department will hold clinics in various schools throughout the county for the purpose of examining children who are to enter school next year for the first time. The clinics will be conducted by a physician and a complete check-up will be made of every child's physical condition. Parents are urged to accompany their children to the clinics in order that they may be made familiar with any defects that may be found. The purpose of these clinics is to get every child in the best possible physical condition before entering school. The failure of many children in school is no doubt due to some physical defect which might be easily remedied. Children will also be vaccinated against smallpox and diphtheria at the clinics in order that this may be done and out of the way before entering school. It will not be possible to examine some of the small schools and parents are requested to take their children to the school nearest to them on the date as given in the schedule. Only children who will become of school age before the next school year begins will be examined at these clinics.

The schedule for March is as follows:
Black Jack, March 4, at 9:30 a.m.
Renston, March 4, at 2:30 p.m.
Cox's Mill, March 5, at 9:30 a.m.

In Memory of Lymiah B. Venters.

In loving remembrance of my dear son, Lymiah B. Venters, who departed this life six months ago today, August 23, 1928. Oh, the memory of that morning when we knew that he was dead; our hearts were crushed with sorrow. And many more tears were shed. I oftentimes sit up at night and weary after the toll of day. Thinking of my darling boy who is so far away. Not now, but in the coming years. It may be some time, but I'll stand by the meaning of our tears. And I'll love some day, we'll understand.

Dollar Eggs Make Appearance Here

The term "dollar egg" has been introduced in this community. The originator is on other than Haywood Dail, secretary of the Pitt County Fair and poultry fancier, who told friends last night that he had three hens laying eggs which he valued at "one buck" each. The declaration caused mouths to fly open in astonishment. But it was a fact, and to prove it the versatile fair secretary offered to take his friends out to his farm to view the chickens. The three hens are to go under the classification of "special stock" which a poultry raiser of another community sent to Mr. Dail. And they are proving everything represented.

Mr. Dail said his daily production of eggs included from two to three of the dollar variety. Through a process of propagation he plans to fill his poultry yard with hens of the proverbial golden egg variety.

ENACTMENT OF DEFICIENCY BILLS PENDING

Three Measures Receive Consideration In U. S. Congress Today.

Washington, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The second deficiency appropriation bill, the last of the necessary supply measures, was passed today by the Senate and sent to conference with the House.

The Senate struck from the bill all of its provisions which had been in the banished first deficiency bill, thus forcing a revival of the first bill with its controversial $24,000,000 increase in prohibition funds.

Additions to the bill, proposed by the Senate appropriations committee and approved, include:

- $6,000,000 for loans on seed purchases in the hurricane area of Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama.

Washington, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Enactment of the last three of the big appropriation bills was the task toward which congressional leaders today directed their energies.

The overnight threat of a senate filibuster—always a danger to the legislative calendar in short session hours but other difficulties still remained.

The three bills of chief concern are the Naval measure carrying funds to initiate the 16 warship construction program; the Interior Department supply bill providing funds for a host of governmental activities, and a second deficiency measure to care for deficits in current appropriations.

Of this group, the Naval bill was on its way back to the house for consideration by that body of senate revisions and leaders were hopeful that before tomorrow night this measure would be completed and in the hands of President Coolidge.

The outlook for the other two was less hopeful. Senators Walsh and Wheeler, Democrats, Montana, have refused to abandon their opposition to a provision in the Interior bill affecting national parks, while prohibition enforcement funds and a $150,000 appropriation to enable a survey of the proposed Nicaraguan canal are controverted sections of the second deficiency measure.

Senator Dill, Democrat, Washington, held the senate in session until 2:40 a. m. today as a result of his opposition to the Nicaraguan item.

Senate leaders, however, gained some satisfaction today over a gentleman's agreement reached last night to defer consideration for the remainder of this session of a bill to provide for reappointment of the house and also a companion measure to authorize the taking of the 1930 census.

But the lessening of pressure in on this legislation apparently was offset by the difficulty arising from the Senate's action in side-tracking the house plan to kill the proposed $24,000,000 increase for prohibition enforcement in favor of a $2,700,000 appropriation for this purpose.

The $24,000,000 items was attacked by the senate to the first deficiency bill. House leaders decided to let this huge sum die in the hands of a conference committee and took practically all other items out of the measure and incorporated them in the hands of a conference committee and took them in the second deficiency bill now before the senate.

But the senate last night eliminated from the second bill all items the house had transferred from the first measure. Now the house, if the transferred items are to be saved, must revive the first bill and thereby breathe new life into the $24,000,000 dry law enforcement controversy.

Donovan to Retire From Political Life

Washington, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Herbert Hoover, almost upon the eve of his inauguration, finds himself parting political company with one of his closest friends, William J. Donovan, of Buffalo, upon whose counsel he relied heavily in his fight for the presidency.

Offered the post of governor general of the Philippines, the now assistant to the Attorney General put it aside with a finality that stood against the most persuasive arguments alike of the President-elect and some of his most trusted advisers.

Colonel Donovan is believed to have thus become the first man to refuse an office which proved a stepping stone to the presidency for William H. Taft, which was held by Major General Leonard Wood, after he had barely failed to win the nomination to the presidency, and from which Henry L. Stimson goes into the secretaryship of state, the highest office a chief executive can bestow.

All these things were pointed out to Donovan, but his answer was that he did not seek a political career. And so on March 5 he will retire from public office after an eventful career as assistant to the attorney general, but one far less exciting than that he made for himself on the battle fields of France where his valor won for him the three highest decorations the American government can bestow—the distinguished service cross, the congressional medal of honor, and the distinguished service medal.

"My Thirty Years at Sea"

by CAPTAIN GEORGE FRIED

A picture of the brig, trial by court, dishonor, all faced Fried at the time of his lesson in discipline. It everlastingly curbed his temper; he learned obedience, whatever the hardship.

By CAPT. GEORGE FRIED (Copyright 1929, Associated Press) CHAPTER IV

Learning to toe the mark was never a difficult experience for me. I learned the rudiments of discipline in the Army, but I had more of a thorough training when I enlisted in the Navy. Sometimes it is rather difficult to receive orders constantly and obey them.

There is a routine the Army and Navy have outlined for their men. This routine is, of course, interrupted by special orders and commands. They must be carried out, and it is not unusual for a superior officer to issue orders that are annoying to the recipient. Early in my career I learned to follow all commands and to question none.

Nevertheless, I cannot say that I have never been disciplined for an infraction of regulations, and I recall my only experience when I was in Gibraltar. At that time I was aboard the Hartford. We got into port early, and my first duty was to reef off the signal halyard on the end of the topsail yard arm. My rank was that of a quartermaster.

While I was aloft an English launch happened to come alongside. I was busy and naturally I did not see the approaching launch. When I returned to the deck the officer on duty reprimanded me for not reporting the arrival of this boat. I explained to him that I did not see it, but I was sent back to the bridge on starboard watch.

I was rather annoyed at being admonished for this error, which I hardly considered my own, and was pacing back and forth nervously when I saw another English launch coming in the direction of the Hartford with a torpedo in tow. Wishing to be alert, I immediately made the report to the officer and to my surprise was again "bawled out."

The officer stated that I should have known better than to think that this launch with a torpedo was coming alongside an American ship. He was right. I felt rather disappointed, and then there began to feel that if I were to continue in my rank I must improve in some way.

While I was debating whether I lacked ability to go ahead a German passenger ship passed and dipped her colors. I ran aft to lower our colors, and on my way forward to the bridge again she dipped three times. Of course I failed to see it. For the third time I had to listen to the officer reprimand me for my neglect or duty.

"My temper rose, then forever was curbed. I learned my lesson."

This was about all I could stand, and I was angry. I admit, at that time, I had a temper. I felt that I was doing everything possible in attendance to my duty and that there was no intention or neglect on my part. I explained to the officer that I was doing my best. He said I was not. I took exception and spoke harshly, perhaps. He reported the incident to the captain and I was summoned before the mast. I was really frightened then. I could picture myself in the brig, dishonored.

Court was held. The captain, executive officer, navigating officer and chaplain listened to the officer's story first. In addition to charging me with neglect of duty he said I was disrespectful. I explained that I had a temper and admitted that I lost it because I believed that the officer was trying to "ride me." There was a short conference by the court and the matter was dropped.

This was a lesson and proved very valuable to me in later life. I went back to my usual course of duties with great zest and determination and made up my mind that no matter what happened, I would always be on the alert, keeping an eye on the job to which I was assigned. After all, it was not so difficult. There was no reason why I should not watch the waters carefully around the ship when that was part of my duty. I should have kept my eye on the German ship after I had saluted her, and above all, I should have taken the reprimand like a man.

Looking at it from another angle, I might say that I should be pleased that I lost my temper, because it was a result that I have been able to control my temper ever since. Life works hardships on all of us. We have duties to perform that may be distasteful and not at all pleasing, but if we have selected a vocation after careful consideration and we plan to go through with it we must realize that we have got to take everything as it comes.

The average sailor knows he must accept orders, and if he refuses to abide by the advice of his superior he is threatened with being confined to the brig. A man cannot be discharged at sea, so threatening him with the brig has its effect, but is only used as a last resort. Sometimes men are logged a few days pay or given extra duty in addition to their routine for punishment. Insubordination I have found to be rare, however.

COTTON MARKET N. Y. STOCK LIST

New York, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 6 points to a decline of 2 points. Most months were higher on overnight buying orders with May selling up to 20.62 or into new ground for the movement.

A disposition to take profits on recent purchases was increased by relatively easy Liverpool cables, however, there was also southern hedging and prices eased off a few points after the initial buying had been supplied.

May reached to 20.56, or within a point of yesterday's closing quotation, but there was further trade buying or covering in near months. Commission house buying of new crop positions was promoted by reports of further rains on the Atlantic. The market held fairly steady at the end of the first half hour.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago Feb 28.—(AP)—Despite a temporary break because of a selling spurge from the east and northwest, wheat ruled higher most of the time today. Free buying on the part of strong commission houses took place, based largely on talk that the crop damage season is now at hand, as well as on assertion that the Hoover farm plan is likely to be disclosed by the inaugural next Monday.

Corn also showed stubborn resistance to selling pressure and averaged higher, with arrivals at primary terminals today amounting to only 87,000 bushels against 2,105,000 bushels a year ago.

STOCK MARKET

New York, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Ten per cent call money, making its second appearance on the New York Stock Exchange this month, checked a promising rally in prices today. Thirty issues were marked up to new high records, a few high priced specialties soaring 5 to 50 points, and a long list of popular industrials selling 1 to 4 points. Above last night's closing quotations before the selling movement started around mid-day.

Trading started off at a brisk pace but showed a tendency to slow down on the reaction.

Call money renewed at 8, advanced to 9 and then to 10 as banks called loans in preparation for month-end settlements, and the strengthening of their positions at the Federal Reserve bank. Loanable funds were scarce, even at the 10 per cent level, and there was a possibility that the rate might be advanced to 12 before the close.

While the unusually high call money rate was a disappointment to Wall Street, traders derived considerable encouragement from the reduction of the 5-1/2 per cent reduction rate by the bank of England, and the reply of the Federal Reserve board to the Helms resolution that no remedial legislation was necessary at present on the brokers' loan situation. Wall Street seems satisfied that no increase in the New York Federal Reserve Bank discount rate is likely until after the treasury's March 15 financing is out of the way, although an increase in loans in the weekly statement to be issued after the close would not be surprising.

The day's trade and business news again had a distinctly bullish tinge. Copper prices were advanced another 1-2 cent a pound, making an increase of 1 1-4 cents this week, and the Greene Canada and Inspiration Copper companies increased their annual dividends. A long series of 1928 earnings reports were published, most of which made excellent comparison with the year before.

On the reaction Radio (old stock) broke 12 points, Matheson Alkali 7 and St. Joseph Lead, Union Carbide, Johns Manville and Warner Bros. pictures sold 2 1-2 to 4 points below yesterday's final quotations. Reactions in the general list ran from 1 to 3 points below the morning highs on the first flurry of selling. U. S. Steel common lost its early gain of 3 3-4 points.

Place Pedigreed Cotton Seed In This Territory

The local office of the North Carolina Cotton Growers Association, with the assistance of the county agent, has placed more than a thousand bushels of pedigreed cotton seed in this section. The amount of money invested in these seed is $2,250.00. One thousand bushels will plant one thousand acres, under normal conditions, this acreage should yield eight hundred bales of cotton. These seed will produce cotton of 1 1-16 inch staple, and during the past season this kind of cotton has been selling for $10.00 per bale more than the short staple varieties of cotton. At $10.00 per bale this increase would be worth $8,000, or almost four dollars for every one invested the first year.

Man Who Fired First Shot Of Civil War, Dead

Austin, Tex., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Colonel William Stewart Simkins, 87 year old Professor emeritus of law at the University of Texas, who died yesterday, was said to have fired the first shot in the Civil War. Colonel Simkins, who had been a member of the University faculty since 1899, was a senior in the South Carolina Military Academy when war between the North and South seemed inevitable. His whole class joined the South Carolina army and was assigned to the entrance of Charleston harbor to prevent reinforcement of Fort Sumter.
