HOLD WOMAN IN GANG CASE AT CHICAGO

"Lulu Lou" Rolfe, Most Picturesque Personality Of Arrests in Gang Murder.

Chicago, March 1.—(AP)—A picture of seven women, one of whom was killed in a garage fire two weeks ago, had superimposed upon its ugly outlines today the most beautiful beauty of "Lulu-Lou" Rolfe, Jack McGurn's "blonde alb". McGurn was in jail, held without charge in the massacre of the two women, Panelli, who was killed yesterday. But "Lulu-Lou" Rolfe, the woman's quarters of the police station, was the most picturesque personality among the only persons who had been arrested in connection with the seven murders.

Out north, on Addison street, five-year-old Bernada played; blue-eyed curly haired Bernada, daughter of Louise Rolfe by a short-lived marriage that took place when "Lulu Lou" was of high school age. She lives with her grandmother, Louise Rolfe's mother.

Louise Rolfe is not the mother type. She is modish, sophisticated, slender and bejeweled. She wore a squirrel coat when arrested with McGurn in a suite at the Hotel Stevens Wednesday. Her dress was of black crepe with moiré of white lace and touches of blue at the wrists. A rope of imitation pearls with which she toyed while being interviewed hung from her neck.

Not with all her sophistication, she expressed in the artifice of make-up, her complete complacency and even bored demeanor, there is a touch of wildness that is not so much to motherhood, after all, the "Lulu" herself confidently but, with the question, "Let me see your hair," which she is "letting grow out" falls in waves to her shoulder tips. Her attitude as she sits or stands reflects in her suggestion of artistry her training as a model. Dark eyes are macarand, and her eye brows thinned to pencil stripes.

A slender band of gold showed above one curved ankle. "It's got my name on it, so they can't lose me," she said.

As she talked, quite frankly, with reporters there was a brood hint at times that she was spoofing. She related for example, that she is of French, English and Indian descent, going into elaborate details; and when the roomful of writers seemed to be giving her story serious attention she laughed. A little contemptuous "but laugh, and she watched the faces of her questioners, to note the effect of her historicalism.

This drew a compliment on her nerves. "No nerves? of course not," she spoke with a trace of bitterness, holding her finely groomed fingertips out for them to see. Her polished nails were bitten to the quick.

To say that Jack McGurn was mixed up in the Valentine's Day gang massacre is, to Louise Rolfe, ridiculous. To say, as the police have often enough, that Jack McGurn is the age of gangster machine gunners, and "tough boy with a rod" doesn't go over with her.

There is no attempt at pretense from "Lulu Lou" as to her relationship with McGurn. "They are not married," she said.

"Do you like him?" she answered one questioner. "Oh, no, I love him." They have gone about the country together for a year or so, she said. Chicago, Illinois (in season) and Miami. They were in Miami "about Christmas."

"Sure," we say Al Capone. Not with him," she was careful to add, "just happened to be in the same town, is it?"

She smoked incessantly as she talked, lighting one cigarette from another. Her replies became brittle and her eyes narrowed only when the questioning took a tack toward the gang murders.

"Jack couldn't have had anything to do with them," she said. "We were in our hotel rooms all that day. If you don't believe me, ask the floor clerks. Nothing gets by them. If we had gone out, they'd have known it."

Police planned to charge McGurn with murder before nightfall, to defeat a move to free him under a habeas corpus action begun yesterday. It was not certain what police planned in the case of Roscoe Panelli, who walked into detective headquarters and inquired if anybody there wanted to see him. Police declared he had been identified.

Four men are still sought as members of the gang that did the actual shooting. Three of these were understood to be Stanley Novak, Danny Vallo and Rocco Belcastro.

Sixteen Mexicans Pay For The Death Of Two Americans

Mexico City, March 1.—(AP)—The lives of sixteen Mexicans were forfeited for the death of two Americans in the State of Guanajuato.

Two others, held as prisoners, today faced summary action by court martial, and probable execution for their part in the slaying. Troops were in pursuit of the remainder of the band.

The Military Commander of the State of Guanajuato reported to the chief of the Presidential staff here that federal troops yesterday encountered the bandit group which kidnapped and killed the two Americans and in a two-hour battle killed ten of them, capturing two others. Six others were killed in a previous battle.

One Federal soldier was killed in yesterday's encounter.

Alesthorpe and Underwood were kidnapped from their bunk at the Guanajuato mines in Northeastern Guanajuato Wednesday of last week. A ransom of $2,500 was demanded for their release. This was paid to an intermediary and was being carried to the bandits when Federal troops attacked them, killing six.

Presumably in retaliation for the attack the two Americans were killed, their bodies being found near the scene of the battle by pursuing troops.

PARIS INTERESTED IN OUR INAUGURATION

Permanent Improvement Bond Issue Bill Killed By House Action Today

Raleigh, March 1.—(AP)—Plans of State Institutions for building projects during the next two years went by the board today when the House killed the Appropriations Committee's permanent improvement bonds issue bill by a vote of 79 to 30.

Advocates of the measure, however, indicated they were not prepared to accept the vote as final and representative Nash, Richmond Democrat, a member of the committee changed his vote in order to be able under the rules, to make a motion to reconsider.

The fight on the bill was made by representative Oduis M. Mul, of Cleveland, Democratic State Chairman and regarded as a spokesman for Governor Gardner in the House. Mul declared he believed it unwise for the state to issue any more bonds except in an emergency, and added that the projects covered by the bill did not constitute an emergency in his opinion.

Bonds of $1,972,000 would have been authorized by the measure, for financing various permanent improvements at State Institutions during the next biennium. This figure was a reduction from the amount recommended by the budget commission, which had approved an issue of $2,000,000.

Both Senate and House continued to grind out new laws, most of them of a local nature, and the flood of new bills introduced showed no recession. A proposal in the Senate looking toward adjournment sine die at the near future was lost when Senator Cranford's resolution providing that no public bills be introduced after Monday was rejected.

In the House, the proposed revision of the State's judicial system was approved by the committee on Constitutional Amendments, which gave a favorable report to the bill providing that the question be submitted to the voters in the next general election.

HOOVER HAS DISPOSED OF MAIN ISSUES

President-elect Ready To Assume Duties as President of United States.

Washington, March 1.—(AP)—All of his pressing problems solved, President-elect Hoover today calmly awaited the arrival of the day now but three removed when he will take over the administration of government in the midst of pagantry such as Washington has not known in many years.

Of course he is not completely inactive but with the strain of final decisions on cabinet posts ended and other questions put aside until after inauguration, Mr. Hoover was able to relax and to move more leisurely in conferences and with the work at hand.

Among other things before him were the proof sheets of his inaugural address which he planned to go over carefully so the printer might have the finished copies ready tomorrow morning for their distribution to the press of the country in advance of the delivery of the address.

There also were some conferences in prospect, although there were no definite appointments. However, it was expected that several Senators and members of the House would call during the day as a number had expressed their desire to call.

Friends of the President-elect said he had reached no decisions regarding selections of successors to assistant secretaries in the various departments who soon are to leave the government service to enter business fields. It was indicated that he would make no appointments until he had conferred with the men he has called for conference.

Simson, who is to be Secretary of State, will not reach Washington until April 1. It was assumed that changes in the diplomatic corps would be made after that time.

Mr. Hoover had hoped to keep all of his appointments secret until he had seen the nominations to the Senate Monday, but he will be well satisfied if he is able to keep out of the newspaper until that time the names of the new secretaries of agriculture and commerce.

One decision Mr. Hoover will be called on to make between now and his inauguration is whether he will re-submit the nominations of Secretaries Andrew W. Mellon and James J. Davis, who were confirmed by the Senate eight years ago. Some of his friends suggest that he not do so since there is requirement at law for such a course, but others advise that he send in all ten of the names for Senate action.

DRYS WIN OUT SEVEN KILLED IN FIGHT OVER THE JONES BILL

Measure Passes Congress And Goes To President For His Signature.

Washington, March 1.—(AP)—Approved by both Houses, the Jones bill today needed only the President's signature to become law. The measure was passed by the House yesterday by the one-sided vote of 283 to 90.

The bill provides for a maximum penalty for a first violation of the prohibition laws five years in prison, or a fine of $10,000, or both. Discretionary power is given Federal judges to discriminate between minor and major offenders.

Introduced by Senator Jones, Republican, of Washington, the measure was probably the only one considered during the session in which the issue between the wets and drys was well defined. A new drys were against it because they thought the law too stringent but very few in the Senate it precipitated a debate between Reed of Missouri and Borah of Idaho, but all the Missouri's eloquence did not keep the bill from passing the Senate by almost as large a margin, comparatively speaking, as it did the House.

During the debate on the bill in the House, F. Scott McBride, General Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, whose leader and whose dictator sits there in the corner watching your every move and who is sending messages down here somewhere.

"He sits up there," Dr. McBride, the Saper President of the United States O'Conner continued. "Many of you know he is there. That is the constitution and that is the amendment you are supporting and not the Eighteenth Amendment."

Representative Moore, Republican, Ohio, attacked O'Conner because the New York member had declared in a speech on Wednesday that he despised and abhorred the eighteenth amendment and would not vote for any measure to enforce it.

During the discussion in the House and amendment proposed by representative Tucker, Democrat, Virginia, to discriminate between the first offenders and the habitual violators of the dry laws was adopted by a standing vote, but when the amendment was submitted to a roll call it was defeated.

Villages Wiped Out By Tidal Waves On The Coast of Japan

Tokyo, March 1.—(AP)—Dispatches to Tokyo newspapers today said that tremendous damage had been wrought by tidal waves along the coast near Choshi, Isle of Nippon. Entire villages were destroyed.

The coast line caved in for many miles, burying villages to a depth of twelve feet in water and mud the number of casualties was unknown.

Earthquakes, tidal waves, typhoons and disastrous fires have frequently been the lot of Japan. The last serious Typhoon and Tidal wave was in September, 1927, when about 600 persons were killed, many of them being drowned in the onrush of water.

There were numerous other minor disasters, but the most serious previous to the Tidal wave was in March 1927, when a terrific earthquake took the lives of several thousand persons. The quake which lasted three minutes was felt over a wide area including Tokyo, Osaka and Kobe.

CAPITAL CITY ALL SET FOR INAUGURATION

Washington Gaily Decorated For Inaugural Ceremonies Next Monday.

Washington, March 1.—(AP)—Bunting, red, white and blue, like strange flowers suddenly blooming out of stone and brick and capital buildings. The city has become a city of proudly flying flags. On Pennsylvania avenue there is the incongruous sight of crude wooden stands, built of unpainted lumber. Every incoming train brings its group of visitors. The inauguration of Herbert Hoover as the 31st President of the United States is only three days away.

Four years ago the city outwardly was much the same. Bunting draped brick and stone buildings, flags were flying and every train brought its group of visitors—but today Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States, is preparing to go back to the quiet town of Northampton, Mass. He will not even wait to ride up Pennsylvania avenue with his successor after the inauguration but will go to the train almost directly after Herbert Hoover takes the oath as President. Herbert Hoover was Secretary of Commerce four years ago. He had been mentioned for the presidency, had even been put in nomination at a Republican convention. He got much applause from the galleries but few votes from the delegates.

Charles G. Dawes vice-President of the United States, today was also preparing to leave Washington. He plans to leave for Evanston, Illinois Monday evening. He will not go unnoticed but four years ago he was drawing almost as much attention as the President. His fame as a banker, soldier and a user of the expression "Hell and Maria" in moments of stress had preceded him and he had been taken as one of his closest companions, an underling pipe. The Senate was in session then but it could not foresee that Dawes was to astound them by his vigorous lectures on the body's rules.

Charles Curtis, vice-President-elect, was a Senator then and today he was still busy in the Senate but his time there is short.

Senator Curtis has a strain of Indian blood, and at the inauguration more than 100 Indians are to be present. They will wear at the inaugural and in the parade, fringed, paint and buckskin and during their stay here will pitch their tepees on the ground around the Washington monument. Almost all the tribes in the country will be represented and lest the memory of old quarrels and feuds make them forget their purpose in coming to the capital, diplomacy will be exercised in pitching tepees. There is also talk of a special police force to see that the remote possibility of a miniature Indian war at this late date does not come to pass.

Other employes immediately placed the dead and injured on a work train which brought them to Stone Mountain where surgeons and nurses took charge. Five of the men had been killed instantly while two others died in a hospital.

The workings of the Stone Mountain Granite Corporation, employing about 180 men, are situated little more than three miles from the towering perpendicular face of Stone Mountain where the Confederate memorial of the Civil War is being cut from the granite.

All of the dead and injured lives in Stone Mountain, a little village lying in the shadow of the huge boulder from which it takes its name.

Los Angeles, March 1.—(AP)—Charles Chaplin, screen comedian and producer, today apparently had won his fight against ptomaine poisoning and intestinal influenza. His studio representatives said they expected he would be able to return to work next week.

Merchants Association To Ask For Extension Of The City White Way

The new board of directors of the Merchants Association met at the office of the secretary last night and discussed many matters dealing with activities of the present year. President J. J. White presided.

In an effort to improve congestion in the business district, the entire board will appear before the Board of Aldermen at their regular meeting next Thursday to urge the enforcement of laws already in effect relative to traffic and parking. The merchants will insist upon complete enforcement of the one hour parking law. They will ask, however, that this shall not apply to the hundreds of people who visit the city from other communities.

Conditions in South Alabama were similar to those in Georgia, with the alarm, Tombige, Coosa, Black Warrior, Tallapoosa and one or two smaller streams rising rapidly with crests at upstream points expected during the day.

At Hamburg, S. C., for the second time in six months, several hundred negroes were forced from their homes by spreading waters of the Savannah river, and two large mills suspended operations. A stage of 40 feet was expected there tomorrow.

Through the rest of South Carolina, streams still were rising slowly, but the weather bureau at Columbia, S. C., said most of the streams would reach their crest during the day without causing great material damage. Some highways have been closed and bridges carried away, but the end was believed in sight.

Clear weather diminished the threat in the Piedmont section of North Carolina, but the Cape Fear, Neuse and Roanoke rivers still were rising and weather bureau predictions said they would reach flood stage before cresting. Little damage has been done in the Tar Heel State.

Launch Attack On Big R. R. Merger

Washington, March 1.—(AP)—The first attack on the Atlantic railroad merger plan presented to the Interstate Commerce Commission last week by the Baltimore and Ohio was instituted today by hostile railroads.

The Southern System and the Louisville and Nashville, acting jointly took direct issue with the merger project, in so far as it involved the purchase of the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville, generally called the Monon system. They appealed to the commission not to allow the Baltimore and Ohio to purchase the Monon, pointing out that they owned 93 per cent of the outstanding Monon common stock and 77 per cent of its preferred.

Constantinople, March 1.—(AP)—A report worthy of credence today said that Leon Trotzky was so seriously ill that local soviet doctors are unable to treat him, and a specialist from Berlin, named Kiemperer, has been called here to attend him.

FLOODS CLAIM EIGHT LIVES IN THE SOUTH

Heavy Damage Reported in Georgia, Alabama and Two Carolinas.

Atlanta, March 1.—(AP)—Clearing skies accompanied by moderate drops in temperatures today brought a gleam of hope to four Southern States where lowlands had disappeared under flood waters of streams spread far beyond their normal banks, bringing a death list of eight.

With the cessations of a drenching rain that fell for more than 48 hours over most of Georgia and South Alabama, some of the rampaging streams reached their crests along the upper reaches, but down stream lowland residents still were apprehensive as the waters steadily mounted.

In North and South Carolina similar conditions prevailed, with numbers of smaller rivers inundating in lowlands, flooding highways and railroads causing interruption of transportation.

Even though the end was believed in sight, the amount of damage rose as the flood waters rolled down fertile valleys to the sea, carrying away bridges, and washing out roadbeds.

Six of the lives directly chargeable to the flood were lost in a wash-out of a roadway near Lincolnton, Ga. Wednesday night, a small boy, Lorie Jordan, lost his life while bathing in backwater at Augusta, Ga., yesterday and the eighth, at Butler, Ga., where Sam Davis, a negro, fell from a foot log into a swollen stream and drowned.

Hundreds of lowland dwellings in the four states have been routed from their homes and manufacturing plants have been forced to suspend operations in some instances because of water flooding them, throwing many out of work.

Through the four states many smaller towns and villages were isolated by the waters that cut off highway and rail communication, but none was reported in danger.

Georgia bearing the brunt of the rain also was hardest hit by the floods, with half a dozen or more rivers above flood stage and scores of bridges washed out, miles of highway carried away and badly damaged, railroads under water, and most trains in the southern part of the state either badly delayed or their schedule cancelled.

Conditions in South Alabama were similar to those in Georgia, with the alarm, Tombige, Coosa, Black Warrior, Tallapoosa and one or two smaller streams rising rapidly with crests at upstream points expected during the day.

CAGE TEAMS BEGIN CLASH AT ATLANTA

Atlanta, Ga., March 1.—(AP)—With the championship at stake, sixteen Southern Conference basketball teams squared away today for the ninth annual tournament at the municipal auditorium.

Washington and Lee's Generals with nine wins and a single loss in the conference to their credit in the "open" season were cast in the roles of favorites. The Generals have averaged 47 points a game for the season, bowing over all opposition, except Kentucky's Wilders, who nipped them out in a single point victory.

Despite their being favorites, the Generals faced stiff hurdles before they reach the finals with Georgia, North Carolina and Georgia Tech. Not to mention the possibility of dark horses, as strong contenders for the crown. The Tar Heels, four times champions, carried more than sentiment to back their bid. Only twice during the season did the North Carolina squad fail to win a decision in its pre-tournament conference games, and each of these teams was hedged with a more decisive victory over their previous conquerors.

Visions of a Georgia-Georgia Tech battle during the tournament heightened interest locally, though with North Carolina in the same bracket, the possibility was considered slim. The pairings are such that Tech must eliminate the Tar Heels in the second round, granting of course that both win, before the age-old rivals could meet.

Tennessee's Volunteers, the Crimson of Alabama and the Blue Devils of Duke were names to conjure with as finalists were hoped prior to the opening game at 1 p. m., when Mississippi, defending champions, and the Old Liners of Maryland clash to officially start the elimination proceedings.

First round games were:
 1 p. m.—Mississippi vs. Maryland.
 2 p. m.—Kentucky vs. Tulane.
 3 p. m.—Washington and Lee vs. Louisiana State.
 4 p. m.—North Carolina vs. Tennessee.
 5 p. m.—Auburn vs. Georgia.
 6 p. m.—North Carolina vs. Mississippi A & M.
 9 p. m.—Clemson vs. Georgia Tech.

GLOOM HANGS OVER NEW YORK YANKEES

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 1.—(AP)—Gloom hangs over the New York Yankees' training camp for there are whispers that all is not well with Tony Lazzeri's arm.

CONNIE MACK HAS ALL MEN AT WORK

SPORTS SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD

Miami Beach, Fla., March 1.—(AP)—The main mystery in the boxing business, if not the success of the whole heavyweight program for 1929, still revolves around the dynamic figure of the one time man mauler, Jack Dempsey.

The fight crowd that came here for the big show left apparently more interested in whether Dempsey will fight again this year, than in what will happen next to either of the principals of the Melodrama of Miami Beach.

Dempsey would like to fight one more; first, because he loves the cuffed game; second, because it would afford him the chance to regain heavyweight championship recognition and retire at least $500,000 richer. Jack admits all this. The reasons are potent in favor of a comeback but it is a question whether they will be sufficient.

"I don't know, honestly, what I will do," he said. "I've been turning things over in my mind, of course. It's hard to keep away from the game. It gets me. Every time I sit at the ringside, I feel like coming up in. I catch myself bobbing and shifting unconsciously as I watch a fight, its in my blood, I guess."

"But you know, I'm no spring chicken any more. It is increasingly hard after long absences from the ring to regain fighting condition. It will be two years this September since I fought Tunney the last time. In a total period of six years I have had only three bouts—two with Tunney and one with Sharkey.

"Even if it has meant a lot of money, a total of only 27 rounds of actual fighting in six years is hardly enough to enable me to say I have kept in active trim."

Without exchanging a blow and after dodging only one stray shot, Dempsey collects approximately $20,000 for his part in the promotion of the Miami Beach bout. Whether or not his connection with the Madison Square Garden Corporation is resumed, he may figure that this unexpected venture opens up a new as well as profitable field of action. All things considered, it may appeal to him more than running the risk of possible injury in the ring. After both Tunney bouts Dempsey was seriously cut and bruised about the eyes. He was under treatment of doctors for a considerable time.

"When I get back to New York and have a chance to consider all angles of the situation, I will let you know what I'm going to do—fight or remain a business man," Dempsey concluded.

If Dempsey does not return to the ring, it is entirely conceivable

Defend Their Titles

Charles Brown, middleweight, University of North Carolina (at top) and Fred Lindstrom, bantamweight, University of Florida, defend their championship titles at the Southern conference boxing tournament March 1-2 at University of Virginia.

Sharkey if they meet, as appears likely, at the Yankee Stadium in June. Schmelling has passed all tests with honors so far.

A Paulino-Schmelling match would lack nothing in color and interest even though it would be embarrasing evidence of a lack of homebred talent for the main fistic argument.

That the final test for number one ranking position among the heavyweights for 1929 may involve two foreign sluggers—youthful Max Schmelling of Germany, who punched his way to fame with knockout victory over Johnny Risko, and the acrobatic basque, Paulino Uzcudun. Paulino is confident he can "take"

New York, March 1.—(AP)—Jimmy McLarnin, smiling battles from the Pacific coast, enters his bout with Joe Glick at Madison Square Garden tonight a nine to five favorite to record his third victory over the Williamsburg pants presser.

TOM HEENEY TO FIGHT JIM MALONEY

Boston, March 1.—(AP)—Tom Heenev, of New Zealand, returns to the ring here tonight after a lay-off since his defeat by Gene Tunney in last July's title bout. He will face Jim Maloney, the Boston heavyweight, whom he knocked out in the first round of a fight several months ago.

HOGAN CAN'T KEEP MIND ON HIS JOB

San Antonio, Texas, March 1.—(AP)—Frank (Shanty) Hogan, burly catcher for the New York Giants may play third base during the spring but the chances are that Fred Lindstrom will be at the hot corner when the season starts. Hogan can't keep his mind on his work at that position. He was too busy watching Ray Schalk behind the plate yesterday and let a ground ball go unmolessted.

OWNER "SWEET ON" CARDINALS' MANAGER

Avon Park, Fla., March 1.—(AP)—Although the training season is only two days old, owner Sam Braddon of the St. Louis Cardinals is "sweet" on his new manager, Billy Southworth, the fifth pilot in as many seasons.

Braddon said he found "Southworth is a student of baseball" as well as a leader of men. He indicated it was the "heads down" spirit of the Cards during the last year's world's series fizzle that caused the change in managers.

GIRL CAGERS PLAY TONIGHT

Tonight the girls hold sway in the local high school gym, with two games, while the boys play the part of spectators. The Varsity team plays Belhaven in the last game of their conference series, and the Freshman team connects with the Ayden High School girls in another return engagement. In both the previous encounters away from Greenville, the home teams won, and therefore there will be the harder struggle tonight, to even the score on the part of both Greenville teams.

The Varsity has had a more successful season than any in the last few years, and a victory in the final game will make a good wind-up for the year. The Freshman team has been even more successful, with a percentage record second only to that of the boys' Varsity, and, if they win tonight, will have the record of losing but two games, each to a team that they beat once. This will make their game a hard fought one, for every player is jealous of that record.

Tomorrow night the annual Freshman-Sophomore games will take place, with both classes well represented and both teams out for blood. On form and performance both Sophomore teams should come away victors, but neither Freshman team is willing to concede an inch or a point before the Sophs take it.

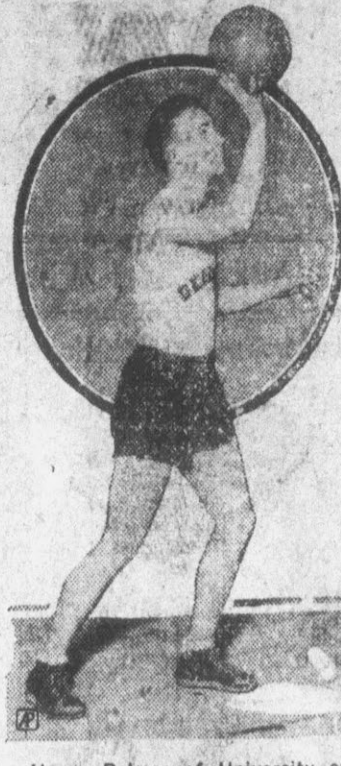

Next Tuesday night the boys will take on the strong Roanoke Rapids team, runners-up in the Conference, for a game that will be replete with thrills. Led by their four-letter men Goodman the boys from Halifax will come prepared to give Greenville the game of the year.

Roanoke Rapids has all year regretted that the schedule did not bring them into conflict with this club, and will welcome this opportunity to prove their superiority. Their record for the year is second only to our own in Conference games and this will turn out a real game.

Signs With Robins.

Presbyterians To Have Radio Service Sunday Evening

Greenville will have her first radio service in the Presbyterian church next Sunday the 3rd of March, when the congregation and their friends will listen to one of three speakers: Rev. B. R. Lacy, D. D., D. Clay Lilly, D. D., A. B. Gilmour, D. D., all of them some of the very best speakers of the church in North Carolina.

The service will begin promptly at six o'clock in the evening and last for one hour. It will be a regular service, with singing and prayer, scripture reading and preaching by one of the above men. One of the very best Radios in the city will be installed by the Smith Electric Co., and as far as possible will assure the audience a good, clear program. Since Greenville has heard Dr. Lacy before, it is likely that he will be the speaker. The service will be in charge of the young people and in event weather conditions are unfavorable, a program, with sermon by the pastor will be given.

This service will take the place of the regular evening service for this Sunday. We invite all of our friends to worship with us.

This broadcasting is for the purpose of informing the people of the work of the church, and in preparation for the every member canvass on March 10th.

ORTHOGON
Wide-Vision Lenses

Early spectacle lenses were flat. With these lenses perfect vision could be obtained only thru the center of the lenses. More recently "Toric," or deep-curved lenses, came into common use. These lenses were a decided improvement on the older type, and a much larger portion of the lens was optically correct. Now we offer ORTHOGON—accurate from edge to edge—the most efficient and comfortable spectacle lenses that science has yet produced.

THE SENATE'S OPPORTUNITY

It seems that the opposition to the MacLean bill in the House, having been able to substitute the measure offered by a close vote, have secured a compromise. The House seems to have agreed to an equalization fund of even and a half million dollars, or two and a half million more than the budget recommended. Representative MacLean has felt compelled to agree to such measure in order to insure his two-thirds of a loaf, though he has done so reluctantly, and in order to hasten action that looks toward a longer school term with some reduction of tax in real property.

The giant mistake of the House this session is its unwillingness to measure up to its opportunity to do three great things:

- 1. To guarantee an eight months school to every child in the State. 2. To secure a reduction of land taxes somewhere around five million dollars. 3. To secure sensible business management, omitting the unworkable and too detailed provisions in the substitute.

These three things, which seems the House did not envision as the greatest opportunity of the session, ought not to be lost. A majority of the State Senators have signed a round robin that they will stand for a ten million dollar equalization fund, the money to be derived from sources not burdening industry. The close vote in the House seems to have moved the supporters of the MacLean bill to acquiescence in getting a half loaf rather than run the risk of greater losses. But the compromise in the House should not at all alter the course of the Senate. More than 30 members, having pledged a ten million dollar equalization fund, should go ahead and pass a bill incorporating that sum in a measure that will meet the needs of the State, insure an eight months school and a five million reduction in tax on land. If the Senate measures up to this golden opportunity, it will do the biggest thing that has been done in the Legislature since the great Road Bond program was put through in 1921. If the Senate will do what the MacLean bill provided in principle, the House will accept it when it goes back, and victory for an Eight Months School and Lower Taxes and Practical Business School Administration will crown the record of this General Assembly.

ABOUT TOWN

"If Haywood Dail had enough consumers for his 'dollar eggs' he would soon become one of the financial wizards of the nation," commented a reader of this paper, speaking of the story yesterday about the introduction of the 'dollar egg' by the Greenville man.

"Poultry raising is receiving considerable attention in this community at this time, but this is the first time publicity has been given to the raising of high class stock. More attention to chicken raising would result in financial independence for numbers of farmers of this section of the state. It is to be hoped a lot of them will get busy and get in the 'dollar egg' market with Haywood."

"Governor Gardner has asked the legislature for a permanent tax commission," observed a citizen today, speaking of the outstanding things of the legislature yesterday.

"Should the proposed commission have anything to do with reduction of taxes, the governor unquestionably would have the Eastern Section of North Carolina behind him. The tax commission could do much good in this way, and the people would be for it if it could accomplish anything in this direction."

tives having given only a portion of what the people in the State earnestly desire, the Senate will cover itself with glory and lead in a great movement if it will carry out its ten million dollar pledge and insure an eight months term.

Greater victories have been won by wise, courageous leadership with vision.—News & Observer.

"The victory came as sweet revenge for Farmville. They met defeat at the hands of Greenville earlier in the season and their ability to win over the conference champions caused much elation."

"The meeting of directors of the Merchants Association plays in was one of the most enthusiastic gatherings in sometime," a member of the body stated today.

"Plans dealing with activities of the association for the present year were discussed at length. They will become effective from time to time and mean much to the development of the city."

"Greenville merchants are interested in anything having public progress at heart and they plan to make the next several months count for much in this direction."

"Watch developments from time to time and note the part which the Merchants Association plays in them. It is a part of the organization—this service in behalf of the entire city."

"My Thirty Years at Sea"

by CAPTAIN GEORGE FRIED

Fried's struggle to get to sea and the ups and down of his life as a seaman, brought a measure of reward in his first foreign shore leave. There is education in travel, romance and lore in every port, he found and here he gives a few reminiscences.

BY CAPT. GEORGE FRIED

CHAPTER V

Sailors, I believe, are afforded wonderful opportunities to develop themselves mentally. Travel is educational. Aside from the routine duties aboard ship, sailors are permitted to go ashore in foreign ports. Shore leave is granted usually by the heads of various departments, such as deck, engine and stewards' departments.

It is natural that every man wants to leave the ship as quickly as possible, but it is also obvious that a skeleton crew must be aboard at all times, so the various departments can function smoothly. Aboard a naval vessel or a tramp steamer efforts are made by the officers to divide the shore leave between men so that one crew goes out first in one port and the next in the other, and so on.

In the American service, for instance, aboard the America, the crew is also divided into groups, but in this case they are granted shore leave only in the two terminal ports Bremerhaven and New York. When the America calls at Cherbourg, Southampton, Plymouth or Queenstown, it is impossible to allow any one to leave the liner, as the passengers' baggage and freight are taken on as quickly as possible and the vessel resumes her voyage.

Again in the case of the America and other trans-Atlantic liners, the members of the crew have large numbers of relatives and friends in those ports, and spend practically no time in sightseeing, unless it is their first trip. In the Navy, however, it is different. Most of the members of the crew divide themselves into parties and the first two or three days are devoted to sightseeing. After that, if the ship remains longer, the men seek whatever diversion they can find.

The American sailor is not as bad as he is painted. Sightseeing trips develop his mentality and often I have seen sailors go to the ship's library to get volumes pertaining to the particular city or country the ship is headed for, so that they can acquaint themselves with the customs and ideas of the people they will visit.

It is true that they spend money; they often spend all that they have a port. In recent years, however, through the co-operation of banks and saving institutions, these men lay aside part of their earnings for a squall.

I have been in many ports in foreign lands and I have always found enough entertainment and sightseeing trips to interest me. I cannot point to any port that left me more impressed than another, but I do remember a time that my ship touched one of the Azore Islands. The vessel was anchored and we went ashore in a small boat.

The heat was terrific. There was little to be seen except natives, thatched huts and tropical plants.

This was nothing new to me, but most of the fellows in our boat started on a promenade, going to this point and that, but not having been in the Navy very long myself, I decided, after a hasty survey, that under no conditions would I be left behind. I returned to the beach where our boat lay and sat down under a palm and waited patiently for the other fellows to return. They laughed at me, of course, but I had the satisfaction of being on hand when the boat was ready to pull off.

Sightseeing trips in various lands have been very valuable. I had opportunities to study art, architecture and the customs of various people. Every sailor likes to read history, the chief reason probably being that he gets first hand knowledge. He sees monuments, places of historic interest, gets facts from natives that would leave more of an impression upon him than the written word.

The historic data gleaned from books, however, fill the gaps that very often are not supplied by the guides and natives.

A sailor has every reason to enjoy life. The routine is varied by new places, new faces, and I remember when going ashore with groups of men we headed first for the best restaurant in town and ordered the finest meal from soup to nuts, irrespective of the cost. After a man has been under strict discipline aboard ship, it is only natural for him to relax when he gets ashore, but in all my experience, I cannot recall an incident in which a sailor did not behave himself as a gentleman in the ports we visited.

Fellows will sometimes get drunk and that is only natural. However, in the Navy patrols are sent from the ship to prevent their comrades from becoming disorderly, and if an occasion should arise the men are recalled.

In this way fights are prevented among the men and with the townspeople. The situation is always under control. In my experience, however, I never have witnessed any of our naval men create any disturbance that would necessitate drastic action by the local authorities.

We send out no patrols from the America for the simple reason that the two ports we touch where shore leave is granted are so large, and have so many diversified interests, that the several hundred men in the crew quickly disperse and are lost in the cities. They are then no different from the civilians.

There are occasions, however, when men miss the ship. If that happens on the other side the man is deported on another vessel of our fleet or is held until the arrival of the ship from which he is classified as a deserter. However discipline usually keeps the crew intact.

Up and down the entire musical scale, here's natural reproduction of musical instruments and the human voice. The moment you listen in—you'll

Market Report

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

COTTON MARKET

New York, March 1.—(AP)—The cotton market opened unchanged to 6 points higher. Active months showed good advances on covering or rebuying. Liverpool cables were relatively firm and reports from the dry goods trade were more encouraging. May sold up to 20.58 and new October to 19.91, or within 4 or 5 points of yesterday's high prices. This bulge met realising, while there may have been a bias selling on reports of better weather for farm work in the south.

The offerings were sufficient to supply the early demand and reactions of 5 to 6 points from the best by the end of the first half hour.

Private cables said that Liverpool was higher on trade calling and continental buying and reports of encouraging sales of cotton cloths in India and China with their buying of yarns.

GRAIN MARKET

Chicago, March 1.—(AP)—Reductions in wheat deliveries of wheat on March contracts were announced today after initial declines. Total Chicago March deliveries of wheat were 2,788,000 bushels, nearly three times as much as had been forecast by some authorities.

Wheat closed firm 3-4 to 1-1/2 cent higher; corn 7-8 to 1-3/4 up; oats 1-4 to 3-8 to 1-2 advance; and revisions unchanged 1/4 cent of 25c.
