MEXICAN FORCES PLAN ATTACK ON CITY OF TORREON

Rebels Concentrating Heavy Forces As Government Pushes 18,000 Men Toward City; Canitas Falls Before Federals Without Bloodshed; Rebels Begin Offensive Against Mazatlan.

Opening of the second week of the Mexican revolution found government and rebel forces converging rapidly with the likelihood of a decisive clash in the region of Torreon where General Escobar, rebel commander-in-chief, is concentrating heavy forces.

General Calles, Generalissimo of the Federal Army, leading a powerful body of picked men, estimated at 18,000, was proceeding northward along the National railway toward Torreon.

Canitas, important railway junction held by the rebels for a short time, fell before the advancing federals without bloodshed, more than 1,000 men surrendering, according to Mexico City reports.

While the federals were proceeding northward through Zacatecas, the rebels were developing an important movement along the West Coast in Sinaloa. Under command of General Cruz, with Mazatlan as their immediate goal.

Should Mazatlan fall to the insurrectionists, a way would be open through Nayarit and Guadalajara to Mexico City itself, enabling the rebels to outflank General Calles and possibly attack him in the rear.

The federal forces were aligned in a wide half-moon which has been steadily contracting toward the northwest. Federals under General Almazan on the right flank were advancing toward Torreon from the east, keeping pace with the Calles movement from the south.

To meet this double threat heavy rebel reinforcements were proceeding southward toward Torreon. Other bodies were rushing down the Southern Pacific railway toward Mazatlan.

About 1,300 soldiers in the lower district of Baja California went over to the insurrection and were reported en route across the gulf of California to aid in the drive on Mazatlan.

General Aguirre, rebel leader in Vera Cruz, who was decisively defeated last week, was reported to have asked terms of surrender. Government vessels were guarding against his escape by sea. He was told unconditional surrender were the only terms he would get.

The likelihood that the government would take strong measures with the rebel leaders was indicated at Mexico City where court martial and executions were expected to close the uprising.

Followers of Adolfo de la Huerta, former Provisional President of Mexico, were reported joining the rebels.

The northern border was quiet. The federal soldiers defeated at Juarez on Saturday were interned at Fort Bliss.

Col. Lindbergh was back in Mexico City having completed a round trip inaugural aerial flight between the Mexican Capital and Brownsville, Tex.

Mexico City, March 11.—(AP)—Fall of Torreon, industrial City of Coahuila, within 24 to 48 hours was forecast this morning by Plutarco Elias Calles, Government Generalissimo.

Spurred by yesterday's bloodless victory at Canitas, the huge federal army of the former president moved on across the State of Zacatecas to cover the 150 miles which separated it from the Coahuila City where the rebel forces under General Gonzalez Escobar were located.

Arrival and possible fighting before nightfall was expected. It was believed General Escobar's force of possible a few thousand troops would be no match for General Calles, and retirement from the city northward to Chihuahua was not improbable.

Fall of Canitas to General Calles yesterday was such as to startle even the most optimistic here. An aviator flying over the rebel lines said he saw everywhere men waving white flags.

The aviator communicated with the federal vanguard which immediately established contact with the rebels with the result that three entire regiments of 350 men each surrendered and were incorporated into the federal ranks.

General Francisco Urbalejo, commanding the army, escaped with 30 of his followers, either for Durango where he may have other troops, or to Torreon to join General Escobar.

Thus without shedding a single drop of blood the federals gained possession of a railway junction, offering access to both Durango, and

Seagrave Sets New Speed Record Today

Ocean Speedway, Daytona Beach, Fla., March 11.—(AP)—Major H. O. D. Seagrave, famous British race track driver, today established a new world's speed record for automobiles when he sent his powerful Golden Arrow machine roaring over the ocean speedway here at an average two-way speed of 231.46 miles an hour.

The government explanation is that the rebel Generals have told their men they were fighting for the government and that they have been quick to return to their old allegiance as soon as they discovered their mistake. The federal commanders hope for further surrenders of this sort.

Dispatches indicated a state of affairs not so favorable to the federals on the west coast. There the advance of the rebel army under General Manzo had extended from Sonora down through the State of Sinaloa to Culiacan. Mazatlan, one of three strategic West Coast ports was the object.

Defending Mazatlan from the rebels was a small force under General Jaime Carrillo. A government announcement today said the advance had stopped, although it did not indicate when, where, or why. A possible explanation was found however in dispatches which told of withdrawal of some of Manzo's men for use on the Chihuahua front.

Success of the rebel West Coast venture might give them a base of operations for at least a threat against Mexico City, by way of the State of Nayarit and the City of Guadalajara. Such an offensive would threaten the rear of General Calles' army and probably divert some of his forces from the northern front.

From Canitas some 2,000 federal troops had been sent westward to Durango, capital of the state of that name.

Only a small rebel garrison is believed remaining there and little difficulty is expected in capturing the city.

Moving westward from Monterey, government reports said, General Andres Almazan had between 6,000 and 8,000 men ready to aid in the attack on Torreon.

Government announcements said an offer of surrender had been received from General Jesus M. Aguirre, commander of the rebel forces in the State of Vera Cruz, who was forced to flee the city of that name after most of his force returned to the government banners.

The general's offer was made conditional upon his being allowed to make his way out of the country safely.

The announcement said the offer was refused and he was told he and his men would have to surrender unconditionally, and submit to Court Martial.

It is said here the government does not intend to be lenient with the rebel leaders and that if blood doesn't flow on the battlefields it will at least run freely before firing squads.

Thus far there have been three federal executions: General Jesus Palomer Lopez, Mexico City; General Juan Lazarrnas at Alvarado, Vera Cruz, and General Ireneo Villarreal at Parras, Nuevo Leon. If rebels have executed any it is unknown here.

Mean while Mexico City remains calm.

Colonel Ruppert Satisfied.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 11.—(AP)—Colonel Jacob Ruppert, who has his first glimpse this year of his New York Yankees and is satisfied.

The Yankees' owner arrived here yesterday and immediately trade rumors began to fly. But he, the colonel said if the champions had any trades in mind he didn't know of them.

Radio Fund For County Home Is Climbing Slowly

The County Home radio fund had been increased by gifts approximating $2.00 since the report issued through the columns of the Reflector Saturday afternoon. This brings the total sum to $130.00. The total amount needed for the purchase of the radio equipment is $178.50.

Anybody desiring to assist in carrying happiness to the indigent population at the County Home, are urged to send in their contribution to the Reflector at once. It is hoped to raise the fund as early as possible so that the radio may be installed and put in operation.

Contributors over the weekend were: J. R. Whitchard, $1.00; Cash, $1.00.

ADHESION TO WORLD COURT CONSIDERED

Jurists Committee At Paris Hold Hearing on American Participation.

Geneva, March 11.—(AP)—The question of American adhesion to the World Court of International Justice was taken up today at the first meeting of a jurists' committee which is to consider revision of the statutes of the court.

American apprehension expressed in Secretary Kellogg's note in February that the powers of the World Court might be modified through changes in the covenant of the League of Nations in which the United States is not a member, was taken up soon after the election of Vittorio Scialoja, noted Italian jurist, as President of the Commission, Elihu Root, American member whose formula for the accession of the United States to the court of under study, declined the honor of the post.

Sir Cecil Hurst of Great Britain, presented a memorandum the gist of which was that the United States should specifically be given the right to resign from the court any time that it desires and that the United States could withdraw if it found changes made in the league covenant not to its liking.

HINES AGAIN HEADS BUREAU

Utah Man Reappointed Director of Veterans Bureau by President Hoover.

Washington, March 11.—(AP)—Brigadier General Frank T. Hines of Utah, has been re-appointed by President Hoover as director of the veterans' bureau.

In common with the other directing heads of the more important independent agencies of the government, General Hines submitted his resignation at the close of the Coolidge administration. The President today returned the resignation and requested the general to remain in the post.

General Hines was appointed director of the bureau by President Harding in 1923 after Charles R. Forbes had been summarily dismissed as a result of disclosures in connection with the conduct of the veterans' bureau.

The general assisted Major General John F. O'Ryan of New York, counsel for the special Senate investigating committee, in uncovering the scandals in the bureau under the Forbes administration which subsequently led to the conviction of Forbes, who served a term in the Fort Leavenworth penitentiary.

While there has been some discussion as to whether parliamentary sanction is necessary for the appointment of a regent, it has been customary to obtain it.

Since 1800 there has been but one regent, the Prince of Wales, later George IV, during the latter's insanity, 1810 to 1820.

The parliamentary act granting authority for establishment of this regency set no restriction of the regent's authority over treaties, peace and war, or parliament, but limited his power of granting peerages, offices, and pensions.

Ten Injured In Reading Fire

Reading, Pa., March 11.—(AP)—Fire early today destroyed the Colonial hotel, Fifth and Court streets leaving a casualty list of ten injured persons and a property loss estimated by the proprietor at $500,000.

Nine of the fifty guests were unaccounted for when the fire was extinguished but were believed to have reached places of shelter safely.

Among the injured were Mrs. Lillian Roth, 24, Pittsburgh, burned about the arms, Abe Selick, 57, Cleveland, O., fractured ankle, and John Love, 29, Fremont, Ohio, both hands burned.

Alleged Slayer Denies Killing Bethel Officer; Says Bootleggers Did It

Togo Pulley, alias Hubert Jones, was held in the county jail in this city today awaiting trial for the alleged murder of policeman Eugene Jones, of Bethel. Pulley was arrested at Henderson Saturday night at the home of his mother, Mrs. Pearl Woodard. A reward of $500 had been offered for his arrest by state and county authorities, and it was understood today that this would go to the Henderson officers.

The arrest was made by Deputy Sheriff J. L. Cash, J. E. Hamlet, Policeman J. D. Peck and Constable E. F. Murphy, who had been given a "tip" regarding the movements of Pulley in the section. They found the fugitive secreted behind a bed, and despite the fact that he had three guns and a pistol within reach, no resistance was offered.

"I am the man you want," Pulley told the officers as he came from behind the bed. "There is no need of my denying my identity. I am tired of being hounded from place to place for a crime I didn't commit."

He told the officers that Policeman Jones was shot down by a band of distillers as he and the officer were making their way through Martin county. "They were after me," he said, "but their bullets hit Officer Jones, and I fled to evade capture."

Policeman Jones came to his death on the Bethel-Williamston Highway on the night of January 12th. He had previously arrested Pulley in Bethel for alleged larceny of automobile parts. Pulley had been unable to give bond and suggested that the officer accompany him to Robersonville where he said he had relatives who would furnish bail for him.

The two left Bethel about midnight for the Robersonville community and that was the last seen of the officer until his dead body was found on the highway the next morning. Several bullets had punctured his body, and officers held the theory that Pulley had shot him to death and then made his escape. Pulley was reported having been seen in various sections shortly after the crime was committed, but he vanished completely and nothing was heard of his whereabouts until the arrest at Henderson.

It was understood that someone closely connected with Pulley's relatives informed Henderson officers of the fugitive's movements. He had been in Henderson only a short time before he found himself in the coils of the law. The officers appeared at the home of the man's mother and demanded admittance. It was given immediately. Pulley walked out from behind the bed and readily submitted to arrest.

He didn't look anything like the picture which officers held in their hands. They looked at Pulley and then at the picture. They were plainly puzzled. Pulley relieved the situation, however, by his declaration, "I am the man you want," and then told of the tragedy in Martin county with which he had been charged.

There was some doubt expressed today as to where Pulley would be given trial. The murder occurred in Martin county and under the law the defendant should receive hearing in that county. Owing to the fact that the case actually originated in Pitt county, officers were busy today in an effort to get the hearing set for this city.

Pulley himself, expressed a preference for a trial in Greenville. He said he had many enemies in Martin county because of his affiliation with the illicit traffic of the section. Powerful whiskey men themselves were against him, he declared and he preferred receiving hearing in this county. Officials said they thought little trouble would be incurred in bringing the trial here and were today attempting to make this possible.

Prince of Wales May be Appointed Regent of Britain

London, March 11.—(AP)—The possibility of the appointment of the Prince of Wales as regent to rule for his father during the remainder of King George's convalescence was discussed in London newspapers and parliamentary circles today. There were indications that legal aspects of the matter were under consideration by the attorney general and the solicitor general.

The Daily Mail said there was a possibility parliament would be asked soon to replace the present council of state, which has acted for the king during his illness, with a regency.

The action, if taken, would pave for its background the constitutional duties which devolve upon the crown in the course of a general election, which this year is slated for some time in May.

The king or the regent must dissolve parliament and in the event of a victory by the opposition party, in this case either Labor or Liberal party, would have to confer with the new leaders regarding appointments, future policy, and the like. In the event of a deadlock after the general election the king, or regent, would have to decide to which party to give power.

These duties are considered sufficiently arduous as to make it unlikely King George would be able to leave his room soon enough to undertake them. The council of state appointed to act for him during his illness is expressly forbidden to dissolve parliament in the act creating it, and hence the appointment of a regent appears as the only solution of the difficulty.

While there has been some discussion as to whether parliamentary sanction is necessary for the appointment of a regent, it has been customary to obtain it.

Since 1800 there has been but one regent, the Prince of Wales, later George IV, during the latter's insanity, 1810 to 1820.

The parliamentary act granting authority for establishment of this regency set no restriction of the regent's authority over treaties, peace and war, or parliament, but limited his power of granting peerages, offices, and pensions.

Foch Reported As Unimproved

Paris, March 11.—(AP)—The condition of Marshal Foch today was described as "less satisfactory" by his physicians, Drs. Degennes and Heitz-Boyer. They emphasized, however, no relapse had taken place, but that their pronouncement merely reflected a fluctuation in temperature.

The Marshal's customary period out of bed was cancelled today the physicians stating they were taking no chances of raising his temperature which was given as 99.6 with the pulse at 86.

DOES CAVEMAN STUNT TO WIN HIS BEST GIRL

Long Quiet Chicago Man Slashes Woman With Knife; Then She Wants Him.

Chicago, March 11.—(AP)—When cavemen get going ladies, run (don't walk) to the nearest exit. Ask Miss Florence Golbe—when she gets out of the hospital.

Francis Nessel, 25, relates that he long has regarded Miss Golde with high favor. His bashfulness, he complained, proved a stumbling block in courtship, and it seemed as though he were not making proper progress.

He was talking it over last night with John Russell, Miss Golde's brother-in-law.

"You've always been quiet, shy and bashful," Russell said. "Get next to yourself, Francis."

The two men had been waiting a long time for Miss Golde and Mrs. Russell, a theatre party having been planned. Finally the women arrived, and it was evident that Miss Golde had been reluctant to keep the appointment.

Francis Nessel sat, as was his wont, quiet. He heard his friend John ask Miss Golde why she lacked enthusiasm over the impending party; and he heard Miss Golde reply:

"I didn't want to go. I knew I wouldn't have any fun. Francis is so quiet."

Francis arose and glowered. A new light shone in his eye.

"Too quiet, eh?" he said. "Well, fry this!"

Miss Golde found herself propelled across the room. The shove was followed with some quick and hard punches. A knife flashed, and its sharp edge left its mark of her face.

This done, Nessel picked her up and carried her to a hospital.

Police reached the hospital shortly afterward and were about to seize Nessel when Miss Golde interceded. "No, no, don't arrest him," she said. "I liked Francis before, but now—well, I'll marry him whenever he says the word."

Shot by Highwaymen, Man is Near Death

Greenville, S. C., March 11.—(AP)—Marshall Pennington, 21, of Greer shot by highwaymen in a service station where he had stopped to buy a cold drink, was believed near death today.

Witnesses said two men, one masked, entered the place about four miles from here last night and ordered Pennington and Harling Moore, the manager, to "stick 'em up." Moore attempted to back away from the bandits fired, the bullet striking Pennington.

The men, without waiting to complete the robbery, disappeared in a large touring car. Pennington was taken to the Chick Spring health resort near here.

Lynchburg Girl Still in Coma

Lynchburg, Va., March 11.—(AP)—Marjorie Dowdy, 10, of this city who remained in coma here 738 hours as the result of an automobile accident, was reported today as being able to swallow food for the first time since February 8.

Physicians today expressed the expectation of her early return to complete consciousness.

Philosopher Released

Williamsburg, Va., March 11.—(AP)—James Ford, wandering philosopher of the open road, who was arrested here Friday on a suspicion of murder, has been released. Ford, who was believed to be Joe Gardner, wanted in New York for shooting to death a motorcycle policeman, was freed late Saturday after police here were informed that Gardner had been killed in Harrisburg, Pa.

Several Minor Measures Passed By Legislature

Raleigh, March 11.—(AP)—The House and Senate held routine sessions today and adjourned until tonight without receiving either the school aid bill or the revenue committee's report on the revenue bill. Another hearing on the school aid bill was announced for this afternoon by Senator J. M. Boughman, acting for Blue, of Scotland, chairman of education committee.

VARIED TASKS FACE HOOVER DURING WEEK

Chief Executive To Hold Number Of Conferences With Members Of Congress.

Washington, March 11.—(AP)—President Hoover went into his second week at the nation's highest post today with a host of widely varying tasks claiming his attention.

Already the chief executive has taken the initial steps toward carrying out some of the plans that were uppermost in his mind during the campaign. Of these, however many of the details incident to the change of administrations have scarcely been touched.

The button has already been pressed which will set in motion the wheels of Congress on April 15, but there remains ahead of the President many conferences with Congressional leaders and a message to be written in which he will deal specifically with the farm relief and tariff revision legislation he believes necessary to aid the farmer.

He still must determine the personnel of the law enforcement commission which is to make a study of the general abuse which have grown up to hamper the effectiveness of various laws, including the prohibition, narcotic and immigration acts.

Immigration presents an additional problem but, that for the present is in the hands of the attorney general who has been asked for an opinion as to whether it is mandatory for the President to issue a proclamation April 1 putting into effect the national origins provisions of the 1924 law.

Beyond these major tasks, there lies the difficulties surrounding the many lesser appointments the President must make, now that his cabinet has been completed. Some twenty or thirty assistant secretaries and members of the diplomatic corps are to be selected. The Chief Executive already has made it clear, however, that he does not contemplate any widespread changes and that most of the vacancies to be filled are those of persons who desire to retire to private life and those that come through promotions or new assignments.

Another of the changes which the President outlined in his inaugural address, but to which he has been slow to devote but little time thus far, is the proposal to transfer to the department of justice many of the prohibition enforcement duties which now rest upon the treasury department.

Some of the Congressional leaders believe that this will require new legislation, but no opinion yet has come from the office of the attorney general on the subject.

Part of the President's time today was set aside to enable him to receive most of the 56 members of Washington diplomatic corps headed by Sir Esme Howard, the British ambassador. One of the most colorful incidents since his inauguration, it follows a custom of the foreign ambassadors and ministers to call in a body to pay their respects to a new President soon after he takes office.

Mr. Hoover a continuing to show great interest in the developments in the Mexican revolution and has indicated that his administration will follow the policy of supporting the present government in that country. He already has authorized the sale of surplus war materials to the Mexican government.

HOOVER KEEPS OPEN MIND ON VOLSTEAD ACT

President Believes Law is Medium For Enforcement of Prohibition.

Washington, March 11.—(AP)—President Hoover as he casts about for the members of his law enforcement commission is believed to be keeping an open mind on the Volstead act as a medium of enforcement of the prohibition amendment, which he has announced he wishes to see succeed.

This is indicated by the context of what he has had to say on the subject of prohibition, one of the foremost issues in his campaign for the Presidency. In all of his pronouncements from the time of his reply to the questionnaire of Senator Borah, of Idaho, more than a year ago down to the present there has been no mention of the Volstead act and consequently no enforcement of it.

Each time Mr. Hoover has discussed prohibition his reference has been directly to the Eighteenth Amendment. This was the case with his acceptance speech, with his campaign utterances, his inaugural address a week ago and his last statement on the subject last Friday in which he amplified the work the proposed law enforcement commission is to undertake.

Those who profess to know Mr. Hoover's views regard this as a studied attitude and one leaving him free to deal with amendment to the present dry laws should the investigation of his National Commission show to his satisfaction that such amendments would aid in making the Eighteenth Amendment more effective.

Viewing the whole situation through the eyes of an engineer and an executive and not those of a dry leader, Mr. Hoover long ago recognized the abuses which have grown up around the prohibition law after his nomination and immediately after his election he would name a commission to make investigation with a view to supplying a remedy.

The announcement of this intention was made in his acceptance speech at Stanford University last August. On that occasion Mr. Hoover said that "common sense compels us to realize that grave abuses have occurred—abuses which must be remedied," adding that "an organized searching investigation of facts and causes can alone determine the wise method of correcting them."

At that time information came from what were regarded as authoritative sources that the inquiry would go into the Volstead Act itself and that if the facts disclosed that a liberalization of that act within the scope and intent of the Eighteenth Amendment was likely to result in better enforcement, recommendations to that end could be expected.

During his campaign Mr. Hoover had the wholehearted support of the dry organizations of the country. The leaders of these bodies, and especially of the Anti-Saloon League, which has by far the most potent voice of all in the matters of National prohibition legislation, are now disposed to give him a free hand in his efforts to bring about a more wholesome condition than now exists.

Just what their attitude would be if modification of the Volstead Act were proposed, however, remains for the future. Heretofore, they have actively and effectively opposed any attempt at modification and at the same time have been able to have written into the original act provisions designed to give it more teeth.

It may be a month or more before appointments to the commission are announced by Mr. Hoover as he desires to consult not only with his own law enforcement officials but also with jurists and prominent members of the bar.

The commission's work is to embrace a critical review of the whole machinery of federal justice and this task is of such magnitude that its completions within even a year is regarded as well nigh impossible.

It might be that prohibition would be given first consideration with a partial report covering it made in advance of the final report on re-organization of the systems of courts, selections of jurists and prosecuting arms of the government.

Christian Leader Dies in Kentucky

Versailles, Ky., March 11.—(AP)—Dr. John Aitchison Alexander, widely known as a leader in the Presbyterian church and in prohibition activities within the Democratic party, died at his estate "Woodburn House," last night.

Dr. Alexander, who was 83 years old, was given credit for being largely responsible for the ratification of the 18th amendment by the Kentucky legislature. He was a graduate of Princeton and was for a time a merical missionary in Korea.

Demented Woman Attempts Life Of Husband And Self

Charlotte, March 11.—(AP)—Martin Biggers, farmer of near Allen, N. C., and his wife were brought to a Charlotte hospital yesterday after police, called to the home, had found the man in a blood drenched bed and the woman walking about the room in a dazed condition.

The theory of the officers who found the couple was that Mrs. Biggers, brooding over the suicide of a brother recently, had become crazed, clubbed her husband with an axe and slashed her own throat. Members of the family also advanced the same theory.

A seven year old child, sleeping in the same bed with his father, was uninjured.

Biggers was found by officers with his skull fractured and two teeth missing. He was conscious but could not explain his injuries. Blood was flowing from a knife injury on Mrs. Biggers' throat.

Members of the family today said that they were preparing for Mrs. Biggers' mental treatment as soon as she recovered sufficiently from her wounds to be removed from the hospital. They said that she had appeared to be in a state of mental depression for some weeks, since the death of her brother, Will McRorie.

Woman Confesses Shooting Priest

Canton, Ohio, March 11.—(AP)—The Rev. Father Joseph A. Riccardi was shot and fatally wounded in his church yesterday, just after the celebration of mass. Prosecutor Henry W. Harter, Jr., announced shortly afterward that Mrs. Mamie Guerrieri, a member of the congregation, had confessed to the crime.

After most of the congregation had left after the services, the woman approached the priest. The two exchanged a few words. Five shots rang out and Father Riccardi fell.

The dying priest told the prosecutor that the woman had spoken to him of her five-year-old daughter, Palmena, who was with her at the time of the shooting. He said she complained that the child had been mistreated at the parish school.

Mrs. Guerrieri gave the same account of the conversation. An examination of the girl failed to reveal any evidences of mistreatment. Bishop Joseph Schrembs, Cleveland, said he thought the woman was demented. She was held today without bail.

BUYS LEE HOUSE ON PITT STREET

In the story of real estate transfers carried in the columns of the Reflector Saturday, it was stated that R. D. Harrington had purchased the home of Mrs. I. F. Lee on Greene street. This was a mistake. Mr. Harrington bought the Lee house, on Pitt street, near the Farmers Bank.

"My Thirty Years at Sea"

by CAPTAIN GEORGE FRIED

On one of Fried's most interesting voyages the America transported troops from Siberia. Even on such a mission his ship gave succor in the form of provisions and water to a becalmed schooner. In each foreign port of call he found an interesting story to tell; life in ports from New York to Trieste.

By CAPT. GEORGE FRIED
 (Copyright 1929, Associated Press)
 CHAPTER XIII

I have been master of the America nearly a year and was indeed proud when assigned to her. For I had previously been navigating officer of the liner during the war when she was in the Army Transport Service. While in that capacity I had one of the most interesting voyages of my career.

With the rank of lieutenant I was appointed navigating officer of the America in August, 1918. The vessel plied regularly between Brest and New York carrying troops, first to Europe, and then participated in the homeward movement. On one of the former trips an influenza epidemic started on board resulting in 90 deaths. The bodies of the men were all taken to Brest as the officers decided not to conduct burials at sea. Everyone on the ship at that time was more or less affected but the situation was taken in hand by the medical corps and the epidemic stemmed before we actually reached our destination.

Aside from this incident the America was fairly lucky during her career as a transport as she was never attacked by a submarine, although the doughboys were given a number of scares.

In January, 1920, the America started on a cruise of the world to help carry some of the Czech-Slovakian troops out of Siberia. About 500,000 of these troops had been three years in crossing Russia and were in Vladivostok. Each of the allied nations had assigned several transports to aid in their transportation. We left New York under his arm and was thrown overboard. A number of small boats were alongside but not one Chinaman offered to help the victim. Finally one of the members of the America crew jumped overboard and rescued him, pushing him into one of the Chinamen's boats.

These coolies were a crafty lot. When they were loading coal many of the larger pieces were cast into the water alongside the pier to which the America was moored. Later they came along with their small boats and dove for the big lumps, bringing them to the surface and carrying them away to sell again to other ships. It was rather slow work but many of them were active in it and it was not unusual for them to gather several tons every time a ship was loaded.

At Singapore, we coaled again. We experienced greater discomforts going through the Straits of Malacca and across the Indian Ocean, because of the monsoon weather. The wind blew from half to full gale force steadily for days. Without this breeze the heat would have been unbearable but it was bad enough at that. The Czech-Slovakian soldiers made quite an impression upon the personnel of the America. They had endured all sorts of hardships for three years but were a happy lot on their voyage home. They carried their own tailors, barbers, doctors and cooks. For hours they engaged in calisthenics, that kept them in splendid condition. During the organized drills they were clad only in trunks and upon arrival every one had a fine coat of tan. The women also had classes and went through their drills with enthusiasm. In the evening they divided themselves into groups of 500 or 1,000 and sang folk songs long into the night.

We continued through the Suez Canal and on to Trieste where the troops debarked. The voyage con-

This does not give the motor muscles the exercise they should have.

ORTHOGON lenses, accurate from edge to edge, give perfect vision in using your eyes the way nature intended.

Market Report Cotton--Stocks--Grain

COTTON MARKET N. Y. STOCK LIST

New York, March 11.—(AP)—Cotton opened steady today at a decline of 8 to 14 points in response to lower Liverpool cables and sold about 10 to 15 points below Saturday's closing quotations during the early trading under realizing or liquidation. There was also some southern selling.

May eased off to 21.31 and the new October contract to 20.50. This decline seemed to bring in renewed support, particularly in May. Prices steadied up several points from the lowest.

At the end of the first half hour May was selling around 21.38. The general list showed net declines of 6 to 10 points.

Private cables from Liverpool reported London, continental and Bombay realizing but said there was an improved demand for cotton cloth from the continent.

Seaman Loses Life In Fire at Hotel

Victoria, Hongkong, March 11.—(AP)—An American seaman, Kish, of the cruiser Memphis, lost his life today in a fire which took 14 lives in destroying the King Edward Hotel.

Kish jumped from a high window of the burning building to a sheet held for him by firemen and spectators but missed the sheet and struck the pavement instead.

A petty officer of the U. S. S. Nashville named Phillips, refused to make a similar jump and instead knotted two sheets together and lowered himself safely to the fire escape.

General Chang Ming-su, civil governor of Kwangtung, jumped with his wife to sheets held under their window. They were injured slightly.

Besides the American seaman a European man and a European woman, a Japanese woman, four Chinese and six others are believed to have perished.

The fire started early in the morning and burned for more than seven hours.

The hotel was one of the largest and most frequently patronized by tourists in the city. It was located near the waterfront in the heart of the British section.

Recover Body Of Drowned Workman

Charleston, W. Va., March 11.—(AP)—The body of one of six bridge workers drowned Saturday when a cable supporting a bucket in which they were riding across Kanawha river, collided, has been recovered today. Search for others continued as an inquest was planned today.

The body recovered was that of R. E. Bayard, of Canby Bridge, W. Va., the bodies of H. A. Squire of Danville, Va., M. T. Tokker of Henderson, N. C., Charles Anderson of Danville, Va., George Nicholson, of Western Union, W. Va., and E. C. Lacy, of High Point, N. C., still are missing.

W. F. Morrison, supervising engineer, and George Hunter, superintendent of construction of the bridge, being built by the Atlantic Bridge Co., were held under bond pending an investigation. Police charged the collapse of the cable resulted from improperly hardened bedding for the cable anchor.

The cable was suspended 100 feet above the water between towers erected on each bank.
