Thirteen Lives Claimed By Flooded Streams In Four States Of South

Twelve of the Deaths Reported From The Flood Devastated Sections of Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia and Florida Territories Also Inundated As Swollen Streams Overflow Banks.

Atlanta, March 16.—(AP)—Inhabitants in the lowlands of four Southern States today were marooned or else evacuating their homes before the advancing flood waters of a dozen rivers and scores of smaller streams that spread far beyond their banks inundating many square miles of fertile farm lands. Deaths in the belt were known to total thirteen, but many more were believed lost and would be revealed by the receding torrents.

From Southeastern Mississippi across Southern Alabama, South Georgia and Northwestern Florida, streams were far beyond their bounds, with rail and highway transportation paralyzed, as the result of torrential rains that fell almost unceasingly for sixty hours. Skies had cleared today and fair weather prevailed throughout the flood swept area, but the larger streams continued to rise and spread over greater territory.

Upward of 20,000 persons were either marooned or routed from their homes by the raging torrents and property damage was mounting into the millions. A score of towns were swept by flood waters, while double that many were isolated because of washed out railroads and highways, and many towns of Southwest Alabama were also cut off from telephone and telegraph communication, leaving the conditions there a matter of guess work.

In many Alabama towns floods were receding, particularly at Edenton, Phenation and Castleberry, but Geneva and towns further south prepared for the torrents rolling down the valleys of the Choctawhatchee, Yellow, Conecuh and Alabama rivers.

In Southeastern Mississippi, residents of lowlands at Lucedale river were routed by the Big Dog and Ecatawpa rivers, and the residents of Merrill, Miss., seven miles away reported the inundation of that town last night. Highways in that section suffered severely.

South Carolina twice flooded within the past month, prepared for its third deluge as the highest of the crests rolled southward to the sea. Along the Flint river, at Montezuma, Albany, Newton and West Bainbridge, residents prepared for the coming floods.

Montezuma, flood swept ten days ago, was prepared for 27 feet of water tonight with a flood stage at 20 feet. The predicted crest was 9 of a foot above the last one.

Albany had volunteers and the American Legion raising the dikes to protect the Gas plant and prevent inundation of the cemetery. Newton, a town of 400, evacuated ten days before the rampaging Flint prepared for another deluge with citizens moving back to Camill, 12 miles away, after returning to their homes only Wednesday. West Bainbridge dwellers were similar condition.

Along the Chattahoochee, the boundary between Georgia and Alabama, lowland dwellers sought safety in the hills and livestock was driven out to high land.

West Point, on the Chattahoochee had from two to six feet of water in the business district and lower residential districts. The river gauge read 22 feet, 62 feet above flood stage, and was still rising.

The story was the same in the Oconee and Ocmulgee Valleys, where the highest stages of the year were predicted by C. F. Von Herrman, Government Forecaster in Atlanta.

Northern Florida, unscattered so far this year, prepared for higher stages than last year and the 1,500 residents of Carryville evacuated last night as waters of the Choctawhatchee river flowed through the streets. The gauge there as the last residents left, read 22 feet, ten feet above flood stage and was expected to exceed its record of 22.9 established last year.

Scores of residents of Milligan, Fla., on the Yellow river took refuge in the school house there.

Pensacola, situated on the Gulf of Mexico, while free from flood waters was isolated as were many other towns in South Georgia, Northwest Florida and Southeast Alabama.

In the beleaguered sections of Alabama, seaplanes and airplanes hovered over marooned towns with emergency food supplies and boats and hastily constructed rafts, manned by National Guardsmen and volunteers plugged away against

Biblical Story Of Flood Supported By New Evidence

New York, March 16.—(AP)—The Biblical story of the flood today had the support of material evidence unearthed by science.

Returning from an archaeological expedition to Mesopotamia, Prof. C. Leonard Woolley said he had found an eight-foot layer of silt and clay deposited during an overflowing of the Euphrates River and the Biblical deluge.

Prof. Woolley headed an expedition of the museum of the University of Pennsylvania and the British museum which with a crew of 160 Arab workmen has been engaged for seven years in excavating the ruins of ancient Sumeria.

Penetrating through a layer of evidence indicating a highly developed civilization about 4000 B. C., they suddenly came upon a layer of silt or sand, in which all manifestations of human life ceased to exist.

Beneath this deposit were utensils in the native fashion and properly moulded bricks, indicating a high peak of cultural development.

Senate Continues Debate On School Aid Measure; House On Appropriations

Raleigh, March 16.—(AP)—While the Senate debated its attitude in the deadlock between itself and the House on the school aid bill, the House today passed the maintenance appropriation bill, authorizing expenditures of $38,000,000 for running the State Government and institutions during the two years beginning July 1.

Senator Higgins, Democrat of Allegheny, declared a deficit of $1,000,000 would be incurred by the General Assembly, and because of this, he said it would be impossible for the equalizing fund to be raised above the $6,500,000 voted by the Senate and adopted by the conferees in the face of a huge demand for $7,500,000.

The House had before it a motion by representative Winston, Democrat of Bertie, to recall the Revenue bill from the Senate for the purpose of providing for a greater income for the State in order to avoid a deficit. Judge Winston made his motion yesterday but did not press for action immediately.

Among the first amendments offered to the appropriations bill was one to make the contribution for the Confederate Reunion at Charlotte $25,000 instead of the $10,000 carried in the bill. The measure followed closely the recommendations of the budget commission except that the equalizing fund for schools was placed at $6,500,000, instead of the budget figure of $5,000,000.

The House passed the maintenance appropriation bill, authorizing expenditures of $38,000,000 for the coming biennium on third reading today and sent it to the Senate. An amendment by the Mecklenburg delegation was adopted, 46 to 36, making the State's contribution for the Confederate Reunion at Charlotte $25,000 instead of $10,000. The State contingent fund was raised from $100,000 to $200,000 on motion of representative Wilson of Pasquotank, chairman of the appropriations committee, and the allotment for the Insurance department was increased from $104,780 to $114,380.

The House defeated, 57 to 35, today a bill to increase the amount allowed Superior court judges and Su-

BOTH SIDES CLAIM GAIN IN STRIKE

Textile Strike Enters Fourth Day at Elizabethtown With Factions Divided.

Elizabethtown, Tenn., March 16.—(AP)—The strike that Wednesday forced the shut-down of the American Glangstoff Corporation rayon plant, today entered its fourth day with both strikers and company officials claiming advantages.

The company claimed that its offer to reinstate all employees at the current wage scale, accepted by a group of workers yesterday, would be accepted by a greatly increased number today.

Striker leaders on the other hand insisted that the return of workers would be negligible and would cause new demonstrations similar to that of yesterday when 200 men and girls gathered at the plant gates and warned the employees who had returned, to leave.

Dr. Arthur Mothwurf, president of the corporation, reiterated belief that approximately 1,600 of the plant's force were ready to go back to work "if they were given adequate protection." This was met with the claims of organizers of the United Textile Workers of America that the union was gaining strength and that no general return to work would result unless wages were adjusted on an upward scale.

The plant was closed after 800 strikers walked out on an "unorganized" strike and a local of the textile union was formed subsequently. Sheriff's deputies were guarding the plant today. National guard officers announced yesterday there was no need for troops.

C., all manufacturing Lonsdale Sheeting and Cambric.

LIQUOR TRUCK DRIVERS HELD

Washington, March 16.—(AP)—The Siamese legation today is in "full and legal" possession of its annual supply of 60 cases of choice liquor and wines.

Prohibition authorities are in possession of a five ton Baltimore truck which brought it to Washington and spent the night stuck in the road soil of the legation's back yard.

District of Columbia law enforcement authorities are in possession of the bonds of the truck driver and his assistant, who are charged with illegal transportation of the locally imported liquor. But they have none of the liquor.

Just what is to be done about it remains to be worked out. Whatever the outcome may be, it is expected to clarify understanding of the police department's interpretation of the Jones law as it affects the transportation of diplomatic liquor supplies, which are immune to search and seizure.

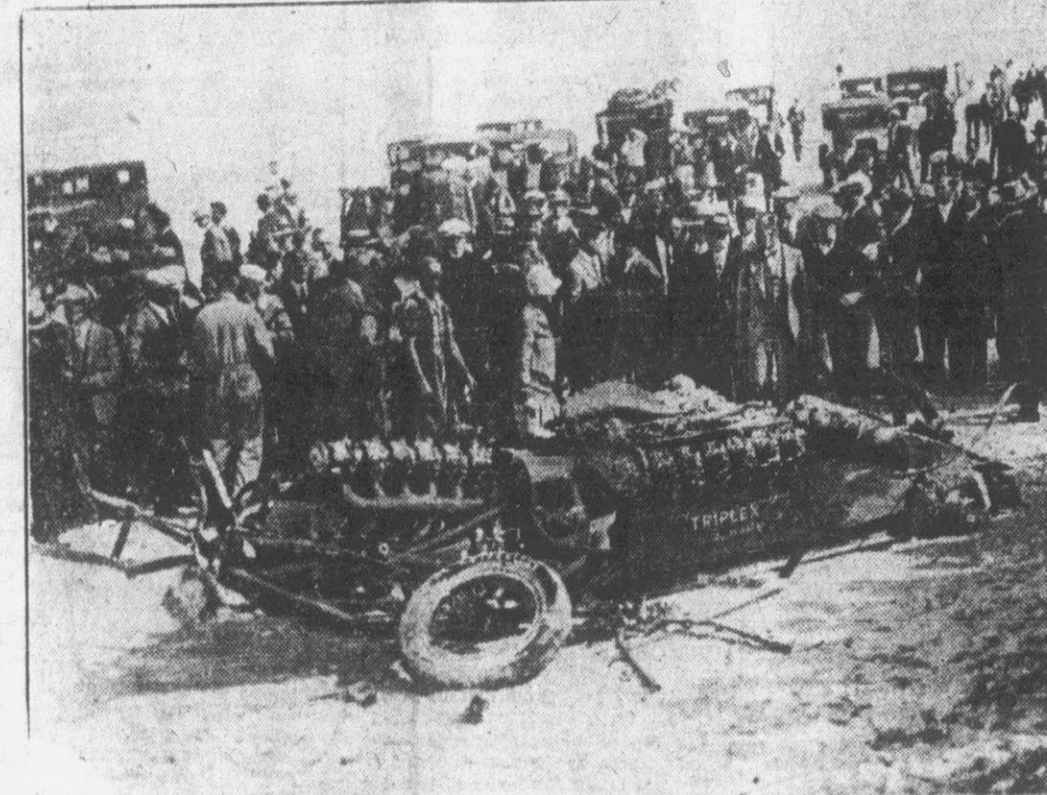

The trucking concerns which have been patronized by the foreign embassies and legations to bring in their supplies from ports of entry were notified recently that privately driven conveyances carrying liquor were subject to seizure and drivers lacking diplomatic credentials were subject to penalties under the Jones law.

Striving to comply with the wishes of the District of Columbia authorities, the diplomats promptly adopted the practice of having accredited members of their staffs drive or at least ride in the trucks hired to transport their liquor. Several shipments have been brought in since without molestation.

The Siamese shipment was halted near the legation yesterday, however, and ordered to the nearest police station, where the drivers were confined.

Recognizing that the liquor belonged to the legation, prohibition agents and a policeman then drove the truck to the door of its wine cellar.

General Appleton Dies In New York

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Major General Daniel Appleton, retired publisher and soldier, died last night at a private sanatorium at White Plains. He was 77 years old.

Togo Pulley Will Face Trial In Martin County

Togo Pulley, alias Hubert Jones, alleged slayer of Policeman Eugene Jones, of Bethel, will go on trial in the Martin county criminal court at Williamston sometime next week, according to information given out at the sheriff's department today. Pulley at the present time is confined in the Pitt county jail in this city. He will probably be taken to the Williamston jail the first part of next week to await hearing.

Pulley was arrested by Henderson officers last Saturday after being at liberty several weeks. A reward of $500 had been offered for his capture by the state and county and this was claimed by the Henderson officers. Pulley went to the northern section of the country after the alleged murder of the Bethel officer. He had just returned when officers captured him at the home of his mother at Henderson.

Although having three guns and a pistol at his command, Pulley offered no resistance when the officers ordered him from behind a bed where he had secreted himself in an effort to escape capture. Walking out from behind his place of concealment he declared, "I am the man you want." This declaration established his identity with pictures of his likeness which had been sent out by the Pitt county sheriff's department.

"Pulley further surprised the officers by declaring, 'I didn't kill the Bethel officer — bootleggers who were after me did it.' He has steadily maintained this fact all through his confinement at the jail in this city.

He declared that enemy bootleggers with whom he had former dealings, shot Policeman Jones as the officer and he were making their way from Bethel to the Robersonville community to arrange bond for himself after theft of automobile parts.

The bullet-riddled body of the Bethel policeman was found on the Bethel Williamston road the morning after he and Pulley had set out by automobile for the home of Pulley's relatives. Officers held the theory that Pulley had shot the officer, thrown his body onto the pavement and then started when he was arrested at Bethel on the night of January 12th for the theft of parts from an automobile standing on the streets of that town. Officer Jones made the arrest. Pulley was given preliminary hearing in a magistrate's court the evening of his arrest, and bound over to Pitt county court under bond.

The prisoner was unable to arrange bail and told Officer Jones of his predicament. He is alleged to have told the policeman, however, that he had relatives in the vicinity of Robersonville who would stand his bond if he could get in touch with them. He had an automobile and suggested that the policeman accompany him to Robersonville so that he might get in touch with the relatives.

Desiring to befriend a man in tough luck, Jones agreed to the plan and told the chief of police of his intention. The chief, it was said, advised Jones against making the trip, declaring that the relatives could be gotten in touch with some other way.

Despite the advice of the head of the police department, Jones set out with his prisoner for Robersonville. He was not heard of again until the next morning when his lifeless body was found on the highway between Bethel and Williamston.

Assuming that Pulley had killed the Policeman, officers of several counties started a search for the alleged slayer, and although he was reported to have been seen in the Kinston community two days after the crime was committed, he succeeded in covering his movements after that time and vanished as if the earth had swallowed him.

The first intelligence Pitt county officer's had of the fugitive's movements was a day or so prior to his capture at Henderson. Henderson officers were instructed to keep on the lookout, and they succeeded in landing their man behind the bars within a short time after his arrival at the home of his mother.

Concord Citizen Commits Suicide At Philadelphia

Philadelphia, March 16.—(AP)—The body of S. E. Widenhouse, 30, Concord, N. C., a sailor of the battleship Oklahoma, was found in the apartment of Miss Lillian Humphries, 35, here early today. There was a bullet wound in his chest near the heart and by his side lay a heavy revolver.

Police said they were notified by the owners of the house that a man had committed suicide. They are making an investigation in conjunction with Naval authorities.

Miss Humphries said she had known Widenhouse for sometime and had attended a theatre with him last night, returning to her apartment early this morning, she said they had talked a while when Widenhouse gave her $150 and then handed her a note, together with a $10 bill asking her to send a telegram for him. Before she could prevent him Widenhouse drew the revolver and shot himself.

The note addressed to Miss Essie Harrington, Concord, N. C., read: "We will meet soon again, but you will see me before I see you."

His two months illness has slowly sapped his strength, they said. One of them said that he had undergone neither great setback nor shown any permanent improvement during the last three weeks. His heart, it was said, however, was "not so strong as it was."

Epidemic of Measles Adds To Suffering of Refugees At Pea River Flood Camp

National Guard Base, Big Creek, Ala., March 16.—(AP)—Measles has broken out among refugees children in the Pea river camp here. Authorities have taken prompt steps to suppress the disease by injections of antitoxin and by transferring the refugees from the camp here to Troy.

Dr. T. G. Gill and Dr. A. H. Graham of the State Department of Health, arrived yesterday with medical supplies. Dr. Gill immediately set off for the scattered refugee camps along Big Creek in a canoe to administer to those already stricken with disease.

The announcement of the transfer of the refugee camp from Big Creek to Troy was made after a survey of conditions at the camp. Authorities stated that its capacity probably would become overtaxed.

Scores of homeless persons are brought to high ground. Adequate facilities for handling the approximately 3,000 refugees are available at Troy. The State Highway department rushed road building equipment from Troy toward Big Creek to repair the highway to Elba.

Sweeping Circling Movement of Government Troops Closes Around Revolutionists at Strategic City; General Calles Reported In Control of Durango

(By the Associated Press) Juarez, March 16.—(AP)—Capture by the rebels of the city of Aguas Calientes in the state of the same name, about midway between Mexico City and Torreon, was reported in a bulletin issued from revolutionary headquarters here today.

Federal lines of communication with the army of General F. Elias Calles, the government commander-in-chief, whose forces have been threatening Torreon, were severed through the victory. The revolutionists claimed. They asserted the advance of the Calles army will be hindered by the fall of Aguascalientes.

Many federal soldiers were killed in the fighting for the possession of the city and a large number of prisoners were taken, said the revolutionary bulletin, which came to rebel headquarters here via Chihuahua city.

The long impending battle of Torreon grew closer today as strong federal armies crept in steadily on the heels of the rebels in an ever-tightening circle.

Strong federal columns were reported within 30 miles of the insurgent stronghold this morning, while General Calles himself was reported in the city of Durango, having taken it after a bloodless entry.

The rebels who had held Durango were reported as being northward along a spur line leading to Tepic, Mexico. This would have them facing a long overland trek on foot and horseback to reach the next railroad point.

The federal army closer in on Torreon is estimated as being 30,000, while General Escobar, the rebel chief, is stated to have only 5,000 men.

The only line of retreat apparently left him is northward to Chihuahua.

While rebel quarters state definitely that Escobar will hold Torreon and even has been advancing to meet the federals, General Calles informed the government that air scouts had noted apparent preparations for a retreat.

Mexico City, March 16.—(AP)—Battle for possession of Torreon, Coahuila key city, was expected today to be under way by night-fall.

Three federal generals were last night within thirty miles of the city from the east, while the south and southwest forces of General Calles were only a little further away.

The government expected the battle to be the decisive encounter of the rebellion. It is estimated as many as 30,000 federal troops would be in the field in an attempt to take the city from General Juan Gonzalez Escobar, rebel chief.

Government announcements said General Escobar had only 5,000 men at Tlaxiaco of which 1,000 were poorly equipped. Scouts were said to have reported lack of artillery, machine guns, and armored cars. The city, which derived its name "Torreon" or battle tower from its splendid natural fortifications, was said to be in poor shape for defense from milt attackers.

Possibility of retreat along the railroad leading from the city north of Chihuahua was seen by the government, which regarded such retreat as the rebels' only chance to evade crushing defeat at the hands of General Calles. Some believed even that when federal troops arrived they would find it abandoned and would be able to occupy the city without so much as a skirmish.

It was announced that a government encircling movement, designed to prevent escape in this fashion, had failed and that the railroad to the north was still open.

There was a feeling that General Escobar would put in a real battle to retain possession of the city and that perhaps the only big encounter of the rebellion would be fought here. Retreat to Chihuahua, it was pointed out, could mean little less than eventual dispersal of the rebel leaders into the United States.

The battle promised to being into use cavalry, infantry, artillery and aeroplanes by the federals. The rebels possessed smaller armaments, although not so well equipped.

REDS HAVE BIG SUPPLY OF MATERIAL

This is the twelfth of a series of stories dealing with first hand surveys of 1929 Major League Baseball clubs.

By BRAN BELL, Associated Press Sports Writer.

Orlando, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—Manager John C. Hendricks, of the Cincinnati Reds, is glad that the National league season will not open for a full month and that he will have sixty days after that to reduce his active personnel to 25 players. The manager resembles the old lady who has been slow to sign and has lost the benefit of early training, can repeat his last season's performance. Jack believes his club is as good as in the first division.

Manager Hendricks also would like to know how good Val Picinich will be in 1929. The clever catcher had his best year in 1928, catching nearly 100 games and batting over .300 for the first time in his Major League experience. If Picinich, who has been slow to sign and has lost the benefit of early training, can repeat his last season's performance Jack believes his club is as good as in the first division.

If President John A. Heydler's proposed pitchers batsmen plan could be applied to catchers Cincinnati would have no further worries over completion of the staff to assist Picinich. Leo Dixon, great defensive catcher, could do the receiving with Hugh McMullen, able batsman, doing the hitting.

This, however, would make no provision for Clyde Sukeforth, who was on the club last year.

No change will be made in the infield. Long-George Kelly will play first until threatened by his co-worker of last season, Wally Pipp. Hughey Critz, promote to captain of the ship, at second, and Horace Ford, at short, will have a chance to break their record breaking double play performance. Charles Dresen is the leading candidate for third base in the absence of Joe Stripp, convalescing from an appendicitis operation.

The outfield assignments are not so easy. Three recruits have shown ability and five of last year's outfielders are back. Only one, Jack Hill, a California University player seems a year or two away. Crabtree, Swanson and Shaner certainly have a chance to push the former regulars completely out of the picture although the ability of Curtis Walker to play the treacherous Cincinnati right field places him in better position to defend his place than his fellows.

Ethan Allen, Marty Callaghan, Bill Zippmann, Pid Pury, and Walker are the veterans back. Cincinnati lost the services of two good pitchers, Red Lucas and Dolph Luque, last season, and Manager Hendricks thinks it unlikely that he will be visited by such a catastrophe again. Pete Donohoe was last starting and Jack thinks the Texas will be able to move off in high gear this year. Eppa Rixey, tallest of left handers, Jackie May, another southpaw, much lighter than a year ago, and Ray Kolp, complete the veterans.

Roy Meeker, formerly with the Athletics, may make the Major league grade at last after serving long years in the minors. Ken Ash, farmed to Columbus, has returned with more experience.

Silas Johnson, graduate of Rock Island, in the Mississippi Valley league, has been impressive. He has been graduated from A class D league.

Bill Kemmer who pitched for New Haven last year and was almost overlooked by the majors, was brought from Newark by Cincinnati and has a great chance to make good. Another prospect is Marvin Gudat, who was drafted after he had a trial with the Cardinals and was sent to Dayton.

PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES AGAINST FLOOD IN TENN.

Memphis, Tenn., March 16.—(AP)—While Meteorologists have emphasized that with the water now in sight there is no immediate danger of a serious flood in the lower Mississippi Valley, precautionary measures are being taken and considered in the event of general rains. The main river has reached stages where further heavy rainfall within the next 10 days or two weeks would cause grave misgivings, for the Mississippi is above flood stage now.

RESIDENTS OF GENEVA MOVED TO SAFETY

Dothan, Ala., March 16.—(AP)—Reporters of the Dothan Eagle returned here at 9:30 a. m. with word that the last of 3,500 residents of Geneva had been removed from immediate danger.

They were temporarily at refugee camps at Samson, Hartford and Slocumb, nearby towns. Dr. Arthur Keyton of Dothan, returned from Samson at the same time with word that sanitary conditions were bad at Samson.

Clearwater, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—Daisy Vance, signed to a Brooklyn calling for $25,000 a year, has taken his first workout of the training camp season but he didn't work up as much of a sweat as did the photographers.

"Deacon" Joliff Will Be Retained By Local Club

"Deacon Joliff, iron man pitching ace, will be retained by the Greenville club of the Eastern Carolina league, it was stated by club officials today.

The announcement followed the reported release of Joliff to Selma, Alabama, in exchange for an outfielder and a financial consideration which was not named by the club officials.

The decision to retain Joliff came as result of protest registered by Manager Lester Bangs following his return to this city after an absence of several days.

"I can not replace a man like Joliff late in the season," Bangs is said to have told club officials. "He will be of value to the club when the mighty arm of a good hurler is badly in need."

And right here is where negotiations started that resulted in Selma, Alabama, losing a man who was responsible for the winning of about twenty games for the Greenville club last season, and who is expected will play an even more important part in the life of the club this season.

While Joliff would have received a considerably larger salary if the exchange had gone into effect, it was stated today that he was content to remain in Greenville where he found employment all the year around. Following completion of the season last year the big mound artist was employed during the fall and winter on the Greenville tobacco market.

The reported release of the "iron man" hurried produced consternation among fans who were acquainted with his value to the club's pitching staff, and the subsequent announcement of his retention was greeted with more than passing interest on all sides. Numbers breathed a sigh of relief this morning when the report that "Joliff would stay" gained circulation among fans in various parts of the city. It acted like soothing syrup to a tired and fretting baby, and the city can now look confidently to a successful season backed by the mighty arm of the "Deacon."

GOLFDOM TO COMPLETE FLORIDA RACE TODAY

Jacksonville, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—Headed by Johnny Farrell of St. Augustine, Fla., and young scion Smith of Joplin, Mo., golfdom's elite descended upon the difficult Timuquana course today to complete their drive for the rich Florida open championship crown. Farrell and Smith yesterday fought their way to a lead in the $5,000 event, turning in cards of 142 each for the first 36 holes, played in a heavy rain which fell thru-out practically the entire route over the Florida country club links.

Close on their heels trailed Densmore Shute, Youngstown, Ohio, and Frank Walsh, Appleton, Wis., who offered the leaders their only real competition, carding a pair of 143, to leave well in the rear some of the nation's foremost exponents of the game.

Tom Jenkins, recruit, is to start in right with Blaeholder on the mound.

Washington, March 16.—(AP)—Manager Walter Johnson does not look with favor upon spring forecasting but, considering the showing of his Washington Nationals in their first three exhibition games, the "big train" has modestly admitted that if his pitching holds up he may finish in the first division. The St. Louis Cardinals snapped the winning streak yesterday but the Nats were ready to start anew today, fresh and confident, against Boston.

Avon Park, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—A walloping single by a recruit infielder, Delker, gave the St. Louis Cardinals the winning run in a 7 to 6 exhibition contest with the Washington Senators here yesterday. Hafey and Bottomley also enjoyed a good day with the big stick.

Phoenix, Ariz., March 16.—(AP)—An indication of what the Detroit Tiger battle front is to be this season was given yesterday when 23 men for the exhibition trip to the Coast were named.

Ten pitchers, including two recruits, were included. They were Left Barnes and Prudhomme; and the veterans are Carroll, Yde, Uhle, Whitehill, Sorrell, Smith Vangilder, and Gibson. The catching is to be handled by Shea, Woodall and Hayworth.

Infielders will include Heilmann, and Alexander first; Genteser and Harris, Keystones; Schuble, shortstop and McManus third. Stone, Johnson, Rice and Fothergill, were the outfielders.

San Antonio, Tex., March 16.—John McGraw and the New York Giants like San Antonio so well they've decided to train here for the next three years.

Incidentally McGraw hopes that the Chicago White Sox also will train here next year so the two teams can arrange an exhibition tour through Mexico.

IN RACE FOR TIGER JOB AT FIRST

It's a close race young Dale Alexander, Detroit rookie, is giving the veteran Harry Heilmann for the position of regular Tiger first baseman. Alexander is a first sacker by trade; Heilmann is not, but the latter with his heavy hitting may get the call unless Dale shows exceptionally well at the plate.

MUST SHOW MCGRAW THIS YEAR

It's up to Eddie Roush and Bob O'Farrell, prize flops of the 1928 Giants, to play some ball this year. Roush was of little use after signing a three-year contract worth $18,000 annually. He hit .251 in 46 games. O'Farrell, a $21,000 beauty, batted only .200.

VICTIMS OF TORNADO ARE BURIED IN SOUTH CAROLINA

Six Mile, S. C., March 16.—(AP)—While thousands fled silently through the little Baptist church here, where the bodies of nine victims of Wednesday's tornado lay in state, the funeral of almost all of two families of Garretts was delayed for hours. The funeral was set for 11 o'clock this morning but was well along in the afternoon before the two big graves were dug and the crowd small enough for the funeral.

The caskets stood in two rows in front of the pulpit of the little church. In one row were Mr. and Mrs. Nison Garrett and three of their children, J. C., and Edward, sons, and Bertie, daughter; in the other Mrs. B. Tullman Garrett and three of her children, Lucia, Maudred and Evelyn.

As he told the story in court, he had knocked an opponent down three time and was about to polisy him off when the uncle started razing him from a side seat; Lawrence glared at the uncle and got walloped to the floor by his opponent.

Dinner Coat Rule Unpopular.

Havana—A dinner coat rule for gamblers at the National Casino seems unpopular. At society night some prominent young bloods appeared in sport clothes. The waiters tried to put them out. There were fights. A policeman pulled a gun. Women hid under tables. But out the sport togs went eventually.

the open season for human beings—there would be far fewer tragedies on the Carolina highways this summer. Reason would tell him these things among others: That cutting in unless the road is perfectly clear for a considerable distance ahead is dangerous. That there will be persons in automobiles darting out of side roads without warning until all of their kind have been slain and buried. That all curves cannot be taken safely at a speed of 60 miles. That a slippery pavement and rubber are a dangerous combination. That trains sometimes run over railway tracks. That the concrete and asphalt and not the shoulder of the road were laid to run upon. That hand signals ought to be used out of common decency, as a courtesy to the man behind even if there is no regard for life and property."

ABOUT TOWN

"We want all school children possible to take part in the contest for best suggestions looking to a bigger and better Greenville," said a member of the Merchants Association following of the contest plan yesterday.

"This affords ample opportunity for the children to show their knowledge of the needs of the community, and it is hoped every school will be represented in the contest. Several cash prizes will be awarded to the winners and members of the Association will act as judges. This is one of the outstanding movements of the year and we are looking for much interest from the juvenile element."

"Greenville's ten guests to the Eastern Carolina Exposition to be held in Farmville the week of April 8th ought to stand a good chance of carrying off some of the cash prizes," confidently declared an admirer of the young women today.

"The boys saw lots of interesting things," said E. F. Arnold, director of the Pitt County Department of Agriculture, following his return today from Richmond, Va., where he went with the prize winning members of Pitt County's pig club.

"The majority of the boys had never been to the Virginia capital before, and they saw lots of things in which they became intensely interested. The greatest source of interest, however, was the stockyards where the boys had an opportunity of viewing thousands of heads of cattle on their way to northern markets."

"They also exhibited more than passing interest in the sale of the carload of pigs from Pitt county. They watched the transaction and returned home with visions of many other sales of the kind in coming years."

With a pretty spring day like this following yesterday's announcement that training for the coming baseball season would get under way Monday week, already we are beginning to get the fever and can hardly wait for Mr. Umps to shout "Play Ball." Next to the picking of the players which will begin with the workouts, the most important thing for a successful club and season is the hearty support and co-operation that the people of the town give the club. If we really support our team this year we can expect some baseball but on the other hand, if we spend our time in knocking the team and its management we cannot expect the boys to put forth the effort they should. Last season there was plenty of grumbling and from the standpoint of our position in the percentage column at the end of the season the year had proved a disastrous one. Let's change our tactics this year and start the season determined to do our best to win and if we lose doing our best surely we will have no misgivings. Anybody can support a winner but it takes real sportsmanship to take victory and defeat alike.

THE OPEN SEASON

Declaring that the open season for slaughter in the form of the large death toll that always accompanies the spring and summer crop of automobile accidents is near at hand, the Kinston Free Press issues the following timely warning:

"The season for slaughter approaches. There have been comparatively few automobile accidents in this section since the holidays. It has been the off season for manslaughter on the high roads."

"The toll will pick up now, and it will reach its maximum within a few weeks. It will continue heavy through the summer and the fall."

"There is no need of preaching, perhaps. Certainly it has done no good in the past. People will take chances—will violate all the rules of reason and all the laws enacted to make the highways safe. Most drivers are safe and sane, but there is a mentally defective minority that just must run wild on these none-too-wide, though otherwise excellent roads of ours. A moron behind 60 or 80 horsepower is as dangerous as a lunatic with a machine gun."

"If every driver takes a few minutes off and commences with reason—at the beginning of beginning of Health Department. Steps were taken immediately to transfer the camp to Troy, where sanitary conditions were normal, and Dr. Gill set off by boat with serum to use on children in isolated refugee quarters along Big Creek.

Meanwhile Dr. M. C. McKinnon of Troy returned to the National guard base on Big Creek with reports that only four were known dead at Elba, and that one was named Uncle Ben Lee, second oldest resident of the town of 4,000.

The State Highway department today was repairing the road between Elba and the Big Creek camp as fast as receding water permitted. Montgomery today began to cope with her own flood problem, and to rush aid to South Alabama. Four outlying sections of the city were submerged by the mounting Alabama river just night and today, and scores of families were carried to safety by police.

The river was expected to reach a crest of 55 feet or more late today. The weather bureau's estimates were undergoing revision this morning.

The Red Cross laid plans today to send food for 1,000 persons to the refugee camp at Big Creek and Troy, as well as Enterprise, where 56 more Elba refugees were taken during the night.

Scores Lawyers For Organizing Against New Prohibition Law

Washington, March 16.—(AP)—Professed intention of New York attorneys to "educate" juries not to convict under the Jones law providing stricter penalties for prohibition law violators, was assailed here today by Dr. Ernest H. Cierington, Secretary of the World League against alcoholism, as "frank confession of the disrespect for law which is typical of the liquor group."

"It seems almost incredible," he declared in a statement, "that lawyers, who, by their own oaths when admitted to the bar, are presumed to be officers of the court and defenders of the law, should embark upon such an undertaking."

Dr. Cherrington said "the weakness of the liquor advocates in the United States could not be better evidenced than by the tactics they are pursuing in their futile attempt to defeat the purpose of the eighteenth amendment."

His attack followed the formation in New York yesterday by a group of lawyers, including four former assistant United States attorneys, of a committee with the avowed purpose of combatting provisions of the Jones law.

Singer Again Licks Taylor

New York, March 16.—(AP)—Al Singer, east side featherweight, again has taken Bud Taylor's measure and, has proved his gameness. Accused of lack of courage, especially when hit about the mid-section, Singer withstood a terrific body assault to capture a close decision over Taylor in ten furious rounds in Madison Square Garden last night.

The decision was received with considerable criticism by some of the 20,000 spectators, about half the ringside experts and one of the judges. One judge and the referee voted for Singer and the other judge for Taylor.

Singer won on a foul from Taylor here a month ago and immediately was charged with taking the easiest way out. Last night Singer took all Taylor could hand out and showed not the slightest inclination to fold up. He was much the fresher and stronger when the final bell rang.

There were no knockdowns. Singer weighed in 128 1/4; Taylor at 125 1/2.

Constipation and Indigestion Relieved By the Use of Theford's Black-Draught.

PRES. HOOVER DEPENDS UPON HIS ADVISERS

Chief Executive Confers With Number of Authorities On Governmental Affairs.

Washington, March 16.—(AP)—President Hoover neither is playing a hand in the conduct of the affairs of the national government nor is he relying largely upon the counsel of a single adviser, as have some of the chief executives of the past.

With the engineer's insatiable desire for all the facts of a situation he is consulting with those who can supply them and whose opinion and advice can be of material assistance to him in solving the manifold problems with which a President constantly is faced.

Mr. Hoover has placed in his cabinet men upon whose judgment he relies, especially in the carrying out of administration policies in the conduct of their departments, and he is in frequent consultation with a number of them outside of the regular cabinet hours.

But the President is not limiting his circle of advisers to those with in the public service. There are many men on the outside to whom he has turned or is apt to turn as vexing problems arise. Some of these might be termed the "aide statesmen" of the country as well as of his own party while others are his personal friends with whom he was associated in the many endeavors which helped to form the whole picture of his colorful career before he attained the presidency.

Charles Evans Hughes, former Secretary of State and internationally called upon whose counsel the President is believed to rely. They were associated together in both the Harding and Coolidge cabinets are close friends, and beyond that each has the projective type of mind which studies the major problems of the time.

Mr. Hughes frequently is in Washington and often has been a guest at the Hoover home on S street. By invitation of the President he recently spent the night at the White House and discussed with the President the world court, the proposed law enforcement inquiry and undoubtedly many other subjects.

Another former Secretary of State with whom Mr. Hoover has consulted often is Elihu Root, who now is overseas in an effort to work out a basis from which may be realized an ardent desire of the chief executive—adherence of the United States to the world court.

Another of the "elder statesmen" who generally has been credited with a place in the Hoover circle of counselors is William Howard Taft, the first man to be both President and Chief Justice of the United States.

Secretary of Navy Plans to Dispose of Magruder Case

Washington, March 16.—(AP)—Secretary Adams, of the Navy, intends to make some disposition of the case of Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, who has been "awaiting orders" since he was relieved as commandant of the Fourth Naval district by former Secretary Wilbur in October, 1927. The secretary has not indicated, however, what this decision will be or when it will be announced.

Admiral Magruder incurred the displeasure of Secretary Wilbur in September, 1927, by writing an article for the Saturday Evening Post in which he criticized the Navy's general organization. In this article and others later, he charged that the Navy was overorganized, that it had failed to demobilize as it should have after the World War; that it had too many officers on duty in Washington; that too much money was spent on the maintenance of Navy yards and Naval stations along the Atlantic Coast and that there were too many Navy yards, stations and bases.

Reaction to Magruder's charges came quickly. Secretary Wilbur disputed his claims of lack of Naval economy. President Coolidge said he did not agree with Magruder's conclusion that the Navy was over-officed. It was contended that Admiral Magruder had violated rules in not submitting his articles to the Navy department before publication, and there was talk of punishment on this score.

Not all of the comment was adverse. Senator Borah of Idaho, declared he "would like to have Magruder in every department in Washington." Representative McClintic, Democrat, Oklahoma, ranking Democrat on the House Naval affairs committee, said the articles had "hit the nail on the head" and other legislators also commented favorably.

"My Thirty Years at Sea"

by CAPTAIN GEORGE FRIED

Storms at sea have made Fried a hero but he accepts them as philosophically as he accepts crew troubles, eccentric passengers and other complications in the job of a ship's skipper. He believes there is nothing to confirm the layman's idea that storms come in cycles at sea, but points out that some years appear to be worse than others. Casualties are very few, he says, considering the conditions seamen face.

By CAPT. GEORGE FRIED (Copyright 1929, Associated Press) CHAPTER XVIII Some folks consider an ocean voyage pretty much of a failure unless the vessel passes through a storm. Some of them have never been other ships which I have commanded made the crossing without a roll or pitch and then again there are times when the vessels encounter a succession of gales.

It seems to the layman that the storms ravaging shipping and sweeping the Atlantic come in cycles, but there is no evidence to confirm that idea. We have very cold winters as well as protracted periods of heat during the summer and there is no regularity to these unusual seasons. So it is not reasonable to believe that the storms of the Atlantic come in cycles.

This year it seems we are experiencing a very severe winter at sea. There already have been several disasters; a number of vessels have limped into port partly disabled. The newspapers are con-

The sea is no different. Covering a tremendous area, it has its temperate and frigid, calm and rough zones. The winds have a great time playing across the vast expanse of water sweeping with terrific force in the winter time from the North Pole to the South Pole and no breakers to interfere. Just eastward of the Grand Banks the winds become violent, driving the seas before them in mountainous numbers. This is the area referred to by the sailor as "The Roaring Forties." The next time you hear that expression you will know that it refers to the region of the Atlantic that marks the center of Davy Jones's locker rather than the white light district along Broadway.

The winter of 1925-26 was severe on the North Atlantic and January of that season was one of the worst. It was during this month that the Antioch foundered, as well as numerous other smaller ships. Several trans-Atlantic vessels reported passing through four to five distinct storms on their voyage. Prior to this time, sailors experienced a rough winter in 1911-12. Thirteen years elapsed between these severe seasons whereas there is a repetition this year of only three winters ago.

During the winter months of forceful winds there is not so much fog menacing navigation. However, there is plenty of rain, snow and hail squalls which the sailor usually places in the same category as fog. A heavy snowfall is as bad if not worse, than a dense fog. With this type of weather the skies are invariably overcast, preventing observations. Periods of these greatest fogs on the North Atlantic are during November and April. It is impossible to select any time of the year to make a voyage without storm or fog but the summer months are pretty good gamble, although they, too, can stage a good show for the inexperienced.

I have often read accounts in the newspapers telling of waves at sea from 75 to 100 feet in height. You will find that such statements are credited to passengers and never to the master of the vessel for every seaman knows that the highest combers are the so-called cumulative waves that have at times been reported as high as 25 feet. While a passenger liner is going through heavy seas a passenger gets a distorted idea of the height due to the fact that the ship is rolling. As the side of the ship dips slowly, the passenger looks straight up the side of a wave at an angle that gives him the impression the top is some 100 feet above the deck line. If this wave then strikes the ship, and perhaps damages a life boat on the boat deck, the passenger is convinced that, if this deck is 60 feet from the water line, for example, that the wave must have been that high or higher. As a matter of fact, the vessel rolled to an angle that made it possible for the comber to strike it with terrific force and cause the damage.

During the actual rescues of the crews of the Antioch and Florida the weather conditions were reversed. When my vessel reached the side of the British freighter there were heavy seas running but, after several days, had moderated to the point where the transfer was made with ease. In the case of the Florida, the sea was fairly moderate when Chief Officer Harry Manning started out with the boat crew. Slowly and almost without warning a hail squall struck us and the wind was whipped to gale force.

making the return from the Florida to the America extremely hazardous. Considering the extreme conditions we are frequently obliged to face the number of marine casualties are very small, due to the care and efficient handling of these huge ocean greyhounds in tumultuous seas.
