SCORES OF MINERS ENTOMBED BY BLAST

Many Killed and Injured When Flames Leap From Pennsylvania Coal Mine

One Hundred or More Miners Find Their Way to Safety Through Shafts Beyond Zone of Explosion; Company Officials Believe Many Others Will be Saved.

Pennsylv. Pa., March 21.—(AP)—More than one hundred coal miners were unaccounted for today six hours after an explosion in the Kinloch mine of the Valley Camp Coal Company. One hundred and seventy men came up out of the pit in small groups while rescue crews were endeavoring to learn the fate of the entombed.

Two bodies were reported seen by rescue men who pushed into the mine as soon as entry was possible. Flames raged about the Kinloch entry into the main heading and dangerous gas and after-damp was reported in the pit.

Mine officials could not say definitely how many men were at work in the mine. The day shift had gone into the workings but a few hours before the blast and under normal conditions 392 men were employed there. However, estimates of the number at work this morning ranged between 275 and 300 men.

Pennsylv. Pa., March 21.—(AP)—Scores of miners were entombed by an explosion in the Kinloch mine of the Valley Camp Coal Company near here today. Approximately one hundred men had escaped two hours after the blast and company officials said there was a possibility that many of the others would find their way to safety.

More than three hundred miners were in the workings when the explosion occurred. Of these, the great number was believed to have been at work near the main heading and many workers feared that they were near the center of the explosion.

Those who escaped from an entry about five miles from that known as the Kinloch entry, the center of the operations. The explosion occurred shortly after 7 a. m. 72-day shift of workmen had entered the mine not long before. Some said there were two blasts, one immediately following the other.

A sheet of flame shot over a hundred feet in the air, witnesses said, at the main tunnel at Kinloch. Six men at work near the tunnel were injured, but were not in a serious condition.

As the hours passed, more miners arrived at the Kinloch entry, many of them to the surface at the distant point known as the camp entry. At 11 a. m. company officials said that between 140 and 150 men were known to have escaped.

Women and children whose husbands, fathers and brothers were unaccounted for, questioned avidly those who came from the Valley Camp entry.

Despite the more cheering aspects of the explosion as the miners trickled into the town, grave doubts were expressed for those near the Kinloch entry. So fearful was the blast, miners long familiar with explosions, said, there could be no possibility that those near the main entrance had escaped.

One of the rescue men who went down with the crews in the Kinloch entry came back and reported one body was found in the main heading. The slope, he said, was fairly clear and there was no fire. George Ackay, United States Bureau of Mines safety expert, however, ordered hose lines laid in readiness to combat fire should it break out again.

The rescue men returning to the surface reported that the air was bad below. The effects of the fumes upon him were plainly visible. Even if his companions were attempting to push on into the workings.

Another rescuer returned from the Valley Camp entry and reported that on that side the mine was clear for a distance of 1,000 feet.

A belief was expressed that the explosion results from an accident on a mine car. Company officials were told that a car had fallen down into the slope just before the explosion and it was believed that a spark had been struck, igniting gas at the Kinloch entry.

AYDEN CASE FEATURES IN CIVIL COURT

Condemnation Proceedings Of Town Against E. A. Lancaster Still In Progress.

Condemnation proceedings of the town of Ayden against E. A. Lancaster continued to hold the limelight in today's session of the civil term of Pitt County Superior Court. The case was started Tuesday afternoon and indications today at the noon hour were that it would not be completed before late this afternoon or tomorrow morning.

The case involves a dispute between Ayden commissioners and the Lancaster estate over a piece of property which the town condemned about two years ago for use as a cemetery extension. The commissioners placed a certain price on the tract of land, involving something over an acre, but Lancaster contended that it was not enough. When the owner of the property continued to resist their claims, the commissioners carried the matter to Superior court.

The first hearing was before Judge Harris. He ruled that the case be turned over to the clerk of Superior court with power to appoint a commission to investigate and fix a price on the property. Lancaster did not agree to this plan and filed notice of appeal to Supreme court.

The Supreme court found no reason why the case should not be definitely disposed of in the lower court and returned it for further consideration. The second hearing resulted in mistrial, the jury having become hopelessly deadlocked during their consideration.

E. A. Lancaster, principal defendant in the suit, has died since the case had its inception, but the fight is being continued with unabated zeal by his widow. A considerable amount of testimony has been offered by both sides and the case is expected to continue for some time.

The commissioners offered $500 for the tract of land when they decided they needed it for extension of the town cemetery. They continue to insist it is a fair price for the property and the defendant's are just as insistent that it is not.

The outcome of the case is watched with interest from people in the Ayden community who are acquainted with the facts of one of the most stubbornly contested cases of its kind ever to come up for hearing in this county.

Royal Arch Masons, Greenville Chapter No. 50, R. A. M., will meet in regular convocation Friday night, March 22 at 8 o'clock. Installation of officers and other business.

PUSH RELIEF OF REFUGEES IN ALABAMA

President Hoover and Committee Take Swift Steps For Flood Sufferers.

Atlanta, March 21.—(AP)—The health of flood sufferers in refuge camps in Alabama and Florida was the principal concern of the various relief agencies today.

Children of families who fled homes before the rising waters last week were kept in the temporary camps, while their parents, inoculated against disease and carrying emergency rations, reentered their villages for rehabilitation work.

In southeastern Alabama about 100,000 refugees were released from camps at Troy, Enterprise, Slaton and other points to return to Elba and Geneva, two of the hardest hit villages.

Aviators from Maxwell field, Montgomery, Langley field Virginia, and Naval planes from the Pensacola air station, continued their systematic patrol of the flood areas, dropping provisions and supplies to those in need.

In Florida the situation still was considered acute at Caryville and were on hand and no one was in danger from the waters. A number of business houses still were inundated at River Junction, although little of the residential sections had been swept by the water.

Caryville was the strategic center for the Florida relief workers. A small tent colony of 300 workers and refugees was established there by the National guard and supplies were coming in by plane and boat from Westville.

Washington, March 21.—(AP)—Swift steps for the relief and rehabilitation of the stricken people in the flood swept area of southeastern Alabama were taken today at a conference between President Hoover, James L. Fiesch, acting chairman of the American Red Cross, Senator Heflin and representatives Jeffers and McDuffie of Alabama.

The Red Cross will have entire charge of the work of getting the people back to their homes, of supplying food and of furnishing seeds and necessary farm instruments for the replanting of crops which were swept away by the flood waters.

Immediate relief will be given to those whose farm holdings do not exceed 160 acres. In cases where the holdings are greater an inquiry will be made as to the financial status of the owners to determine whether they will require aid from the relief organization.

A call for funds to carry on the work will be made by the Red Cross in a statement which now is being prepared.

President Hoover assured the Alabamians that the bureau of roads would begin a survey of the damages to roads and bridges in the flooded area and that the government would do all it could to assist in their reconstruction.

The attention of the Chief Executive was called that such reconstruction had been authorized by the government in the case of the recent floods in Mississippi and in New England, Congress appropriating $3,000,000 for road and bridge construction work in the seven states which were affected by the overflowing of the Mississippi in 1927.

Pilot of Ill-Fated Plane to be Charged With Manslaughter

Newark, N. J., March 21.—(AP)—Capt. Philip Sebald of the police department, today announced that he would bring a technical charge of manslaughter against Lou Footo, pilot of the plane which crashed in the Newark meadows killing fourteen, and obtained a warrant for his arrest.

Footo was the only survivor of the accident.

War in China Is Inevitable

Nanking, China, March 21.—(AP)—War between the Nationalist government and the faction controlling the Wuhan cities of Hankow, Wuchang and Han-yank is believed here to be inevitable.

Right of World Court to Render Advisory Opinions Attacked By Sen. Borah

Washington, March 21.—(AP)—Resuming his attack on the right of the world court to render advisory opinions, Chairman Borah of the Senate foreign relations committee, is still of the opinion that the "whole trouble" about American adherence centers on that question.

In a statement coinciding with receipt by the State Department of the final draft of the new Root plan for American adherence, which his committee probably will be called upon to consider in December, Senator Borah said the court's advisory jurisdiction makes it an attorney general's department of the League of Nations, and declared:

"The United States, I take it, would not hesitate to become a member of a court or a permanent arbitral tribunal. But when it is asked to become a member of a body which is in fact the attorney general's department of a political institution, of which political institution it is not a member, that presents a more serious question."

He did not comment on the modified formula worked out at Geney by Elihu Root and other members of the commission on court's roles in an effort to adjust the differences between the United States and the world powers over the Senate's reservation, adopted three years ago in action on the question of adherence, that the court should not render an advisory opinion in a

Pulley Confesses Killing Bethel Officer and Draws Sentence to Penitentiary

Submitting to a charge of second degree murder, Hubert Jones, alias 'Tojo Pulley, was sentenced from 28 to 30 years in the State penitentiary by Judge Walter L. Small, of Elizabeth City, presiding over the regular criminal term of Martin County Superior court, in Williamson, yesterday afternoon. Pulley was charged with the murder of Policeman Jones of Bethel, on the night of January 2nd.

The sentence came after Pulley had given what he termed "a true story" of the automobile ride from Bethel, in which the policeman lost his life. It was in sharp contrast to the account which the prisoner had given to officers following his arrest at Henderson several days ago. At that time he said the policeman was shot by bootleggers while he and the officer were on their way to the Robersonville community.

But, on the stand with a crowded court room hanging breathlessly upon every word uttered, Pulley admitted that he himself had shot the officer at a point in the road where the lifeless body was found next morning. "I had slipped my gun from the back seat," Pulley said, "intending to get away the best way I could. I told the officer to stop, offering a plausible excuse. He did so. We both left the car. I told him I couldn't afford to be arrested and taken back for trial and then started to leave. Jones opened fire. I fired back. We then grappled with one another, and after tussling a few minutes separated. We started firing again and I continued shooting until the officer fell."

He said he immediately made his escape to the northern part of the county and remained there until several days ago when he decided to slay away from home and tried to visit his mother at Henderson.

Pulley is said to have told Sheriff Whitehurst after the trial that all of the evidence possible had been brought to bear up on case. "I was secure until you got possession of my pistol at Henderson. It was then that I realized the game was up."

Sheriff Whitehurst carried his prisoner to Williamson yesterday morning to face trial after a jury in the Martin County court had returned a true bill of murder the previous day. He turned his prisoner over to the Martin county sheriff, cautioning him to be careful that the prisoner was a "slick article."

This advice caused the officer to search Pulley. A hack saw was found concealed in his clothing. It was thought he had intended to saw his way to liberty if confined for any length of time in the Williamson jail.

After examination of a few witnesses, including Pulley himself, it was announced that the defense had decided to submit to second degree murder. This brought the trial to an end. Pulley filed from the court room with an air of nonchalance that had featured his conduct since his arrest.

After the hearing was over he told the Pitt county sheriff of some of his sensations during the several weeks he was at large, a fugitive from justice. He said he grew tired of being hounded from one part of the county to another, always with the fear of apprehension hanging over his head.

"I attempted to offer an alibi when the officers arrested me at Henderson but I realized the futility of this too late when they got possession of my pistol. I knew then that the 'game was up' but decided to hold my tongue to see what developments would take place after my confinement in the Pitt county jail.

It was not determined how long the criminal had had the hack saw concealed in his clothing. Why he did not attempt to saw his way to liberty while confined in the jail this city is more than officers are able to understand. He evidently thought he didn't have sufficient time, or was guarded too closely.

The sentencing of Pulley brings to an end one of the most ruthless cases committed in this section of the state in years. It was made more brutal by the fact that the Bethel policeman was attempting to render his prisoner a distinct service when the crime was committed. He had gone out of his line of duty, even against the advice of the head of the police department, in an attempt to arrange bond for a man who was "down and out" among strangers, and who faced a night's imprisonment in the tiny jail unless relatives could be brought to the rescue.

Pulley's trouble started one Saturday night in Bethel during the early part of January when he was arrested for the larceny of automobile parts. The theft is alleged to have taken place on one of the main streets of the town. The crime was detected and Pulley was arrested. Eugene Jones was the arresting officer.

Pulley was taken before a magistrate's court and sufficient evidence was found to justify holding him for bearing in county court. The defendant couldn't give bond and told the officer so. He is alleged to have told Jones that he had relatives near Robersonville who would stand his bond if he could get in touch with them. Jones agreed to accompany the prisoner to the Robersonville community. They left in Pulley's car.

Nothing more was heard of the two until next morning when the lifeless body of the policeman was found on the highway between Bethel and Williamson. He had been shot to death and ragged bullet wounds were found on his body. It was naturally supposed that Pulley had committed the crime and search was started for him in many sections of the state.

GERMANY TO TALK OVER REPARATIONS

Offer to Allied Experts To be Considered At Meeting in Berlin Tonight.

Paris, March 21.—(AP)—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, President of the Reich Bank, will take with him to Berlin tonight, it is learned, the offer of the allied experts' reparations to accept 1,750,000,000 marks (about $400,000,000) as the figure for the German reparations annuities.

The allies' offer carried with it various other conditions which were not revealed.

Dr. Schacht has given no indication that the German government will accept the allies' offer. He has described Dr. Rudolf Hilferding, minister of finance to call a meeting at Berlin of the great provincial industrialists and heads of the German institutions so that he may explain the present situation of the reparations negotiations.

The German banker asked this meeting deliberately. It was understood, so that responsibility for acceptance or conditional refusal would be widely shared not only by the government but by the great leaders of German industry and finance.

The figure of 1,750,000,000 marks is understood to represent reparations payments of all categories. This would entail a reduction of the present annuities under the Dawes plan of between seven and eight hundred million gold marks.

The 1,750,000,000 marks figure was guarded with the greatest secrecy; consequently when it was explained there was no attempt at explanation or comment to indicate the number of annuities, or if as generally supposed, it was the first figure of a schedule of rising annual totals.

Thus it appeared that the minimum which Germany's creditors will accept is in fact the equivalent of the fourth year's Dawes annuity payment of which was completed August 1.

LINDBERGH TO WED IN JUNE

Principals, However, Undecided Whether Wedding Will Be In Mexico or U. S.

Mexico City, March 21.—(AP)—Miss Anne Morrow is to be a June bride.

Miss Morrow and her fiancé, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, themselves have authorized announcement they will be married in that month. They have not decided, however, whether the wedding is to take place in Mexico or the United States.

The couple is expected to fly back to the States within a few weeks for another visit with Miss Morrow, at which time something more definite as to their plans will be revealed. There are indications he will make two visits before the wedding.

The announcement of the incomplete wedding arrangements was made yesterday by various close to the betrothed pair in line with the wedding nearly a month ago during the colonel's visit here that the plans of the young couple would be revealed in due course and that there would not be an elopement or secret wedding.

There was speculation here as to whether the present internal conditions in Mexico would cause the wedding to be held outside the country. Mexican officials have repeatedly expressed their hope that the two will be married in Mexico where their romance began.

It was believed Ambassador Morrow might exert his influence to have the ceremony performed either in Mexico City or at Cuernavaca in view of the expressed wishes of the officers of the nation to which he is accredited.

PERISHING VISITS RIER OF WORLD WAR HERO

Paris, March 21.—(AP)—General John J. Pershing visited the biex of Marshal Foch this morning, arriving at the Foch home shortly after Georges Clemenceau, France's war-time premier.

Rebels Threaten Calles In Advance on Sinaloa; Mazatlan Faces Attack

Rebel's Wife In U. S.

Mrs. Gonzalo Escobar, wife of the Mexican rebel chief, has crossed the border to come to El Paso, Texas.

Sharp counter-offensives by rebel armies faced the Mexican government today in the north and along the West coast.

As General Calles, federal commander in chief, continued concentrating his power in pursuit of the rebelling insurgents, a rebel movement developed in Sinaloa which may threaten his left flank and rear.

Insurgents descended upon Mazatlan to the West coast and demanded the surrender of the place, but General Carrillo, defender of the 2,000 men, prepared to combat any attack.

Should the rebels capture Mazatlan a way would be open for their advance southward into Amarat Jalisco where the insurgents hoped for further help against the government.

It also would offer peril to General Calles' left flank and rear. Reports that the rebels had captured Durango were received but could not be confirmed.

A rebel advance on the federal stronghold of Naco on the border also was threatened.

The insurgents claim that their strategy is to draw General Calles northward into a trap, to cut him off from reinforcements and then to launch a major drive against him.

General Jesus Aguirre, leader of the defeated insurgents in Vera Cruz, was captured and is understood to have been court-martialed and executed.

With the rebel army in Jimenez, Chihuahua, Mexico, March 21.—(AP)—General Jose Gonzalo Escobar, commander in chief of the revolutionists, today was pictured here as a military strategist, who has drawn his enemy into a trap, cut him off from his base of supplies, and who now awaits only an advantageous moment to launch a tremendous drive against the federal forces which may carry the rebels into Mexico City.

Rebel headquarters here received reports late last night that the revolutionists have occupied the cities of Puebla and Guajuato, near Mexico City, and that a rebel movement upon the capital has been started in the States of Michoacan, Nayarit, Guanajuato, Zacatecas and Jalisco.

The rebels were said to have destroyed some of the railroad lines and telegraph wires that the federal army under General Calles has been using. Calles' forces at present are in the vicinity of Torreon, an important railroad center in Coahuila, which the rebels abandoned Monday. Escobar is massing his forces in Jimenez and to reach here the Calles army must march across the Arid desert, through country where the civilian population generally is claimed to be friendly to the revolutionary cause.

Escobar was at the head of his troops again today, after a conference at Chihuahua City yesterday with General Marcelino Caraveo, and other revolutionary leaders. It was understood here that two campaign plans were discussed at the conference—one to start a "victorious march into Mexico City," and the other to withdraw the Escobar troops further north and then, when the federals followed, to endeavor to administer a crushing defeat. It was freely predicted here that the outcome of the revolution depended upon the battle between Escobar and Calles.

Gardner To Broadcast

One Mill Prepares To Resume Operation; Workers Decline Increase.

Elizabethtown, Tenn., March 21.—(AP)—The strike situation involving 5,500 rayon mill workers today remained unchanged with the American Bemberg Corporation, the largest of two plants affected, expecting to resume operations.

The plant of the Glastonoff Corporation, where the strike originated when 800 girls walked out more than a week ago was apparently near a settlement of its trouble.

Representatives of the newly formed Textile Union yesterday declined to accept a revised and slightly higher wage scale proposed by Dr. Arthur Mohrward, president of the plant.

The Bemberg plant circled Elizabethtown and the county yesterday with invitations to the workers to return today after paying them wages due up until the time the strike forced the plant to close. A statement issued by a company pressed belief 100 per cent of the workers would return.

Deputies reinforced by two companies of National Guardsmen continued to guard the plants today, enforcing two injunctions forbidding strikers from entering the plant grounds or from molesting workers going to and from work.

Begin Plans To Organize Highway Cops

Raleigh, March 21.—(AP)—With more than 1,000 applications for positions on hand, a committee composed of three members of the State Highway Commission today was charged with organization of the highway patrol force authorized by the recent legislature.

The committee was appointed by the commission yesterday in its lengthy executive session.

Discussing the new highway act, which provides for the taking over of county roads into the state system, the commissioners came to the conclusion that the member for each district should communicate with the county road officials in his territory, to ascertain their plans under the highway measure, and report back at a later session.

No action was taken toward fixing the salary of the new chief of the commission, R. A. Doughton, who presided. The law sets a maximum of $10,000 a year for any employee of the department. A S. Hanes of Winston-Salem, who served as acting chairman from the resignation of Frank Page in the appointment of Doughton was authorized by the commission to be paid at the rate of $7,500 a year.

More than 100 miles of new roads were ordered taken into the state system.

CROWN PRINCE WEDDED TODAY

Olaf, of Norway, Married to Princess Martha of Sweden.

Oslo, Norway, March 21.—(AP)—Olaf, crown prince of Norway, and the Princess Martha, niece of King Gustav of Sweden, were married today in the presence of royal kindred amid the acclaim and rejoicing of the Norwegian people.

The wedding took place in the ancient Church of Our Saviour, according to the simple Lutheran ritual which was keeping with the severe plainness of the edifice.

The spectacle was made impressive by the distinguished company of guests and the patriotic music of the organ and special choruses.

Princess Martha was given away by her father, Prince Carl, brother to the Swedish ruler. Prince Olaf was attended by his English cousin the Duke of York, second son of King George. The service solemnizing the union of the handsome princely couple was conducted by the Bishop of Oslo, Johan Lunde.

Leaving the church after the ceremony the bride and groom and 200 guests were entertained at a luncheon by King Haakon and Queen Maud at the royal palace. Departure of the stalwart prince and his comely little partner for a honeymoon on the continent was not to take place until tonight.

The simple benches of the 17th century church were occupied at 11:30 a. m. by high dignitaries of the Scandinavian states, the diplomatic corps, army and navy officers and friends—all except the royal guests. Young officers in full parade uniform were the ushers.

Prince Olaf and the Duke of York entered the church just prior to the ceremony, taking their place to the left of the altar. As they made their way up the aisle, the organ played a sonorous composition of the Norwegian musician, Richard Nordraa, written to Bjornson's drama, "May Stewart in Scotland."

Then came the royal guests at intervals of two minutes. These included King Haakon and Queen Maud, Prince Ingeborg of Sweden, who is the bride's brother, Crown Prince Gustav Adolph of Sweden, and the crown princess, Prince Axel of Denmark, Prince Henry and other members of the Scandinavian royal family.

Princess Martha entered at high noon escorted by her father Prince Carl, and followed by eight bridesmaids—four of them Swedish, and four Norwegian. The bride's party took the place at the right of the altar in the bridegroom's dressing room.

The music for the procession of royal figures had changed to the Grand Norwegian Wedding March and as Princess Martha walked to the altar on her father's arm the students' male choir of the Royal University in the gallery above the main aisle, sang the Swedish song "Sweden." This was a last greeting to the princess from her fatherland before she changed her nationality.

Then the mixed choir of 150 voices made the arches of the old church tremble with Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus." At the echoes of this mighty song the bishop took his place before the altar and pronounced the words which made Olaf and Martha man and wife.

During the ceremony the entire audience which numbered perhaps 1,000, remained standing. After the clergyman's blessing it closed with the audience singing a verse of the national hymn.

Not since the dissolution of the union of the Scandinavian peninsula in 1905 has there been such a demonstration for a Swede in this country as was accorded Princess Martha yesterday during a race through Oslo's streets. For an hour and a half long she then had officially been intended, she and Prince Olaf were driven about the city and palmed with flowers from cheering throngs.

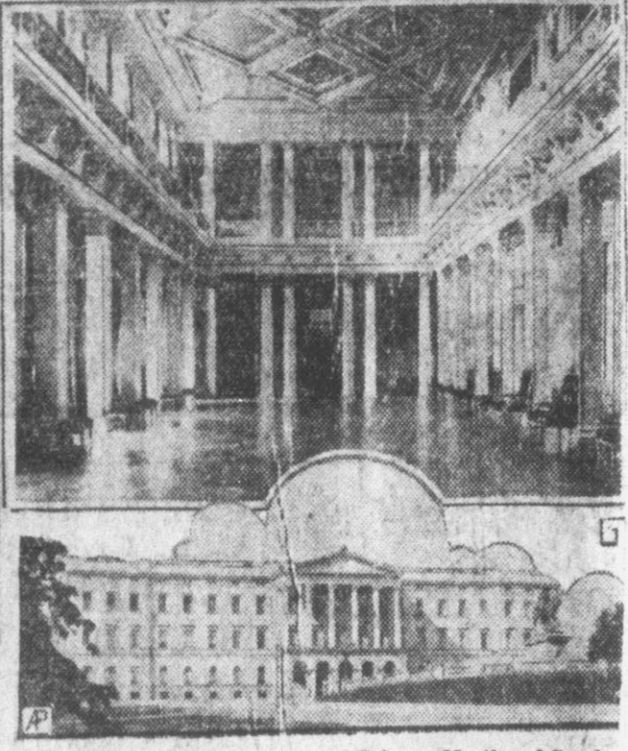

Prince Olaf caught many of the bouquets while his fiancée blew kisses to her admirers. At the end of the drive King Haakon was forced to life her bodily from the mass of flowers in the carriage and put her on the ground.

King Haakon in the course of the demonstration entered the crowd like any of his subjects and waved and cheered with the most humble of them. A man nearly knocked him over, trying to make acquaintance with the man who saluted to find his victim was his own ruler who laughed and was delighted with the incident.

Norway Celebrates Royal Wedding Today

Inman Divorce Fight Creates Sensation

Reno, Nev., March 21.—(AP)—Reno's divorce colony interested itself today in the sensational fight of Walker P. Inman, heir to a portion of the James B. Duke tobacco millions, to obtain a divorce from Mrs. Helene Garnet Patton Inman, daughter of a Kokomo, Ind., millionaire.

Mrs. Inman came here to fight the case and to seek the setting aside of a financial agreement by which she was said to have received $150,000 and valuable personal property at the time they separated.

After a jury had been chosen to hear the testimony, Harlan Howard, attorney for Inman, yesterday made his opening statement, declaring that he would produce evidence to show that Mrs. Inman "literally ran wild and lost all sense of decency" just before the couple separated in August, 1927.

Howard also told the jury that he would prove that Mrs. Inman had been intimate with John Steele, a vaudeville actor, and another man whom he termed as "Bill" Grant. The attorney also alleged that Mrs. Inman has been in the habit of using liquor excessively.

Inman's attorney mentioned trips which he said Mrs. Inman had made by automobile between New York and southern points, declaring that on at least twelve occasions she had become so intoxicated that her chauffeur had been obliged to act as her maid and put her to bed.

H. R. Cooke, attorney for Mrs. Inman, told the jury that before her marriage to Inman, his client was a woman "of unusual refinement." Cooke declared Inman had financed her divorce from her former husband, a man named Brent. Her ensuing marriage to Inman was described by Cooke as a plunge from limited circumstances to a life of luxury and wealth and that Inman had insisted that his wife be "a good sport, one of the boys and girls."

TWO UNMASKED GUNMAN ROB CHICKAMAUGA BANK

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 21.—(AP)—The Bank of Chickamauga (Georgia) was robbed this morning. Two unmasked gunmen, aided by a third who sat at the wheel of a car at the bank entrance, held up the two employees, gathered in $6,670 and made their escape in a green Chevrolet couple, license, "Georgia, 225745-D."

SICKENED BY BILIOUSNESS

Kentucky Lady Says That By Taking Black-Draught She Obtained Relief.

Richmond, Ky.—Many people who suffer from biliousness should be interested in the following statement by Mrs. Cora Mullikin, of this place: "I had been troubled with bad spells of biliousness. I would have pains in my side and in my stomach, and then a very severe headache. "I would have such a bad taste in my mouth, and my skin would look dark, and my, how dizzy I would get! My head felt too heavy to hold up."

"I had heard of Black-Draught and began taking it. About three doses would seem to cleanse my system and I would feel just fine. So we have used it in our home all these years, and I would not be without it. I recommend it to my friends and neighbors. I use it with my children, and have always found it satisfactory."

The medicine which this Kentucky lady mentions is also recommended by thousands of others because of the benefit it has been to them. Refuse imitations! Insist on the genuine Theoford's Black-Draught which has been in use nearly 100 years. In 25-cent packages.

Hoover Is Opposed to Any Set Plan For Farm Relief

Washington, March 21.—(AP)—President Hoover is believed to lean away from any plan to lay down hard and fast formulas for farm relief in the measure to be considered at the forthcoming special session of the seventy-first Congress.

Those who have discussed agricultural aid with him are of the opinion that he would like to see the Federal Farm Board it is proposed to create by the legislation clothed with board authority to deal with crises as they arise in the basic industry.

The chief executive is represented as holding that formulas for curing the present ills probably could not be applied in emergencies arising in the future and that experience has demonstrated that a board with full authority could act much more speedily than could the Congress.

This view point was reflected in Mr. Hoover's campaign discussions of what he has denominated as the greater economic problem before his administration. He pointed then to the disability of machinery which would promise a permanent solution of the agricultural problem. Not merely a removal of present cause of distress.

Some leaders in relief study, both in and out of Congress, are not taking any too kindly to this board plan, but supporters of it are of the opinion that these leaders will accept measures which would have been rejected almost instantly before or during the memorial conference over the equalization fee feature of the twice-vetted McNary-Haugen bill.

Oklahoma Gets Fourth Governor In Six Years

Oklahoma City, March 21.—(AP)—W. J. Holloway is Oklahoma's fourth governor in six years, following the removal from that office of Henry S. Johnston by a Senate court on a charge of incompetency.

Holloway, lieutenant governor under Johnston, has been acting chief executive since the latter was suspended pending trial. Johnston was the second successive elected governor of the state to be removed from office. J. O. Walton, his predecessor, was ousted in 1923. Governor Holloway is the fourth to hold the office since then although the constitution provides a four year term.

As president pro tempore of the Senate, Holloway was acting lieutenant governor under Governor M. E. Trapp, who succeeded to the executive chair when Walton was removed. Trapped served out Walton's term and was succeeded by Johnston who was elected in November, 1926. Holloway who had been only ex-officio lieutenant governor, was elected to the office at the same time.

Expressing confidence, even on the eve of the verdict, that his administration would be vindicated, Johnston had not considered the alternative of conviction chosen by the Senate court in a vote of 35 to 9 on the charge of general incompetency. On all other articles of impeachment preferred by the House of Representatives he was acquitted.

"I have lost the office of governor, I have retained my honor and integrity," was Johnston's only statement after the verdict.

Two men Killed In Chicago, Ill.

Chicago, March 20.—(AP)—Two men were killed last night in separate slayings, one by a bullet, the other by blows from a piece of pipe; and each crime was marked by mystery and unusual circumstances.

The Pony Inn Cafe in Cicero, in front of which William McSwiggan, assistant state's attorney, was shot dead in one of Cook county's most baffling crimes, was the place of the first killing of the night. William J. Vercoe, 51, a man of good back of the head. He had this explanation: "Vercoe strayed into a tough spot and spoke out of turn." Vercoe's head coming into the car.

Vercoe was heard of a fire oil corporation. Why he was in the Pony Inn Cafe was not clear, especially since the saloon has been officially "closed" for three years.

The other slaying—that of Michael Kribiski, 25, a finance company employe—was revealed by the slayer himself, Stanley Reicher, 28, told police he had killed Kribiski, striking him down in self-defense.

New School Law Comes Under Fire Of Schools Heads

Raleigh, March 21.—(AP)—The school law enacted by the recent General Assembly came under fire today at a meeting of County Superintendents of Education preliminary to the annual convention of the State Teachers Association.

A. T. Allen, State Superintendent of public instruction, declared the Superintendents and Teachers must do their best to carry out the law, although he added that neither he nor Attorney General, Dennis G. Brummitt were able to say exactly what effects the act would have.

A committee to confer with the Attorney General for a ruling on some of the unsettled points. If Union, Rawlins of the state is composed of Superintendents, Funderburk of Union, Rawlings of Vance, Jerome of Wayne, Pittman of Edgecombe and Edwards of Montgomery.

Another committee was appointed to draw up resolutions indorsing July B. Warren, secretary of the association, who was criticized for his public comments on the bill by Senator J. M. Broughton, of Wake county.

R. E. Senelle, Brunswick County superintendent, characterized the school law as "a miserable, bone-head law that even the Attorney General can't understand."

MRS. GRIFFIN ENTERTAINS ROUND TABLE CLUB
Mrs. E. W. Griffin entertained the Round Table club on Tuesday. A profusion of spring flowers made the rooms very attractive. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. J. E. Winslow, the newly elected president. The program committee reported four plans of study for next year. A final decision will be made later.

After a short business session the program committee introduced Miss C. T. Munford whose subject was "Present Day Club Women." She talked particularly on Mrs. Willebrandt, Mrs. Kate Burr Johnston, Mrs. O'Berry and our own Mrs. Cohen. We enjoyed Mrs. Munford's paper.

Miss Eugenia Thomas gave a very delightful piano number, "The Nightingale," by Liz. Miss Madge Daniels continued a vivid account of her visit to Europe, giving particularly the events of her stay in England.

Miss Daniels, Miss Thomas and Mrs. G. V. Smith were guests for the afternoon. Mrs. Griffin, assisted by Mrs. Rose, served a very attractive sweet course, using green as the color scheme with yellow jonquils.

The procession of the choir will march in promptly at 8:15 tonight. Then will follow the Cantata. And after that an offering will be taken for the church building fund of St. Paul's Episcopal Church of Greenville.

GODFREY LUDLOW HERE TOMORROW EVENING

Tomorrow evening at eight-thirty o'clock, is the time for the concert by the great Australian violinist, Godfrey Ludlow, assisted by Madame Gainsborg, a famous pianist. The place is the campus building of East Carolina Teachers College.

Season tickets are to be presented at the door and admission for this single attraction is to be paid at the door. There have been inquiries about seats from people from a distance. There will be no trouble about getting seats, as the auditorium is large.

Radio fans from far and wide are interested in the coming of Ludlow to this section. Thousands who have been in his radio audiences throughout the country would consider it a rare privilege to see and hear him directly.

Music lovers have a double treat in store. Madame Gainsborg, his accompanist, a pianist of note, has two groups of selections on the program, playing between Ludlow's groups while he rests, so there will be no waiting.

There are three familiar selections on his program by request, and others requested were saved for encores.

Survivors Tell Of Train Wreck; Nineteen Killed

Parry Sound, Ont., March 21.—(AP)—Survivors of the wreck of two Canadian National express trains near here told today how they were forced to stand helplessly by while men, women and children burned to death.

Nineteen dead were accounted for and a score or more were injured. Wrecking crews were searching the debris for other bodies. The wreck occurred when train number three, east bound, and number four, west bound, collided head-on near Bro court, a siding, 46 miles northwest of here shortly before dawn yesterday. It was not until late in the day that the extent of the disaster was known because of poor wire facilities.

The greatest loss of life was in colonists' coach near the head end of the west bound train, which caught fire immediately after the crash. The flames held rescuers at bay while passengers trapped in the wreckage of the car perished.

The colonists' coach was of wood construction and was provided with a stove. It is believed the overturning of the stove set fire to the car.

Lester Jones Out For Chief Officer Of Highway Patrol

Lester Jones, chief of the Washington police department, has been announced as a candidate for the office of commanding officer of the State Highway Patrol, a body created by an act of the recent legislature. Jones is a former head of the Greenville police department.

The appointment of the commanding officer of the patrol is to be made by members of the State Highway Commission now in session at Raleigh. The patrol is to consist of thirty-six members. The appointment of the commanding officer will be subject to the approval of Governor Gardner.

Chief Jones is a native of Pitt county. He started his police work as a patrolman of the Greenville department January 1, 1920. He was later promoted to traffic officer and then to head of the department. He remained in this capacity until July of last year when he went to the Beaufort county capital.

COUNTY HOME PLEASED WITH RADIO OUTFIT

Soliciting Committee Continues Effort To Extend Radio To Colored Section.

Members of the county home are delighted with the radio recently installed through public subscription of the people of this city, according to information given out by the superintendent.

"We wish to express our thanks to K. W. Cobb for the work he has done in soliciting funds, the Reflector for its publicity, and the Electric Service Supply Company, who donated liberally. We also wish to thank the entire citizenship for the splendid manner in which they contributed."

The radio outfit was installed by the Electric Service Supply Company last Saturday and since that time inmates have been enjoying varied programs daily. The machine is the latest type eight tube Philco, and is electrically operated.

Following the raising of the fund for the radio, the same committee set out to raise an additional $20 for extending the service to the colored section of the county home.

They have already made a fairly good start in this direction and it was thought the entire amount would be completed by the end of the week.

All persons who did not contribute to the first fund are urged to give to that now being raised. It is one of the greatest causes the citizenship has had an opportunity of contributing to in months, and it was hoped as many people as possible would take part.

Mississippi River Threatens Levees

Chicago, March 21.—(AP)—An angry Mississippi rushing past the highest flood stage in 26 years, hurled itself against levees along a fifty-mile front today, battering already weakened dykes, seeping through in places and splashing over in others.

Patrolmen standing by the sandbags at scores of danger spots found new cause for worry today when reports from Des Moines said the Iowa and Cedar River crests had not yet been reached. This news, they said, meant continuance of the high water stage for several days and removed hope of relief for the retaining walls.

Negro Murderer Given Respite

Raleigh, March 21.—(AP)—Leo McCurry, young negro, who was sentenced to die in the electric chair tomorrow, today had a two weeks' respite granted by Governor Gardner in order that a further investigation may be made into the prisoner's mental condition.

McCurry was convicted recently of the murder of J. N. Dixon, elderly farmer of Gaston county. At his trial, the negro admitted dealing the fatal blows with a heavy in-

CLEVELAND IS SET FOR BIG SEASON

New Orleans, March 21.—(AP)—Baseball wise railbirds who compare the Cleveland Indians of 1929 with the 1928 edition declare the club has been improved more than any other outfit in the American League. However, this prognosis, if correct, will not necessarily insure the Redskins a big place in baseball for they had more room for improvement than most of the other clubs.

There seems no reason to doubt that Manager Roger Peckinpah's re-made team will offer a far lighter front than he was able to present last season. His infield has been strengthened by the addition of the little but rugged Iola Turner and transfer of Jay Sewell to third base, and a much needed punch in the outfield has been supplied by the addition of two promising recruits and an established star, Dick Porter and Earl Averill have shown indications of living up to their minor league reputations and Bib Falk, the former Chicago White Sox can swan base hits with most of the major league batsmen.

No radical changes have been made in the battery forces but Hines Zinn, who has pitched good ball for several years in AA baseball, will have a chance to see if he does half as well higher up.

Luke Sewell, junior of the famous Sewell brothers, and Glenn Myatt, will do the catching with Grover Hartley, a veteran who is listed as a coach, acting as emergency relief unless General Manager Bill Evers finds a likely prospect unattached. Zinn and Ken Holloway, late of Detroit, seem to be the best of the new pitchers on the staff but Wesley Ferrell, who was farmed to Terre Haute, is back evidently to stay with an even better fast ball than he had last spring. Verne Underhill, another farm hand, probably will make the grade this time.

Willis Hudlin, Walter Miller, Joe Shauts, George Grant, Mel Harder and John Miljus are retained from the 1928 staff.

Three-fourths of the infield is set. Joe Sewell, although he has never played third base, is already at home and seems to have conquered the queer angles a short-stop finds at a corner of the infield. Tavenner, who gets as many extra base hits as singles in a year's work, will play shortstop with Carl Lind, the double play expert, at second base. Lew Fonseca and Johnny Hodaph are available for first with Fonseca, the Portuguese song bird, having the call. The main fight in the Indian camp is for the reserve places. Ray Gardner, New Orleans shortstop, can field but his hitting remains in doubt.

John Burnett, big and fast, who is a product of the University of Florida, has made a good impression and may be kept as he is a versatile performer.

Porter and Averill seem destined to start the season in right and center as both have hit well in the spring. The clever Jamieson is in a contest with the hard hitting Bib Falk for the other field. Fox will be an extra outfielder with Ed Moran, the old right handed batter in the first five outfielders.

CRIMINAL WANTED IN MURDER CASE STILL CONFINED IN PRISON

Raleigh, March 21.—(AP)—James I. Boso, whose name was found in the automobile abandoned by the alleged slayer of J. C. Kelly, Southern Pines police chief, is now a convict at the state prison farm in Halifax county. State prison authorities here communicated with the farm this morning, when they read of the name in connection with yesterday's shooting, and were informed that Boso had not escaped.

Boso was committed February 16 this year, to serve a two-year sentence imposed in Rowan county on a charge of breaking and entering.

Lejeune to Head Board at V. M. I.

Richmond, Va., March 21.—(AP)—Major General John Archer Lejeune, former commandant of the United States Marine Corps, has accepted the invitation of the board of visitors of Virginia Military Institute to become superintendent of that institution.

The committee of the board, who recently conferred with General Lejeune, in making known his acceptance today said that the board of visitors would meet here Saturday night to take his acceptance under consideration.

Cotton Spinning Shows Decrease

Washington, March 21.—(AP)—The census bureau report on cotton spinning activity for February today showed a total of 8,221,265,059 spindle in place compared with 9,223,309,967 or an average of 261 hours per spindle in place for January this year.

Spinning spindles in place February 1 totaled 35,327,824 of which 31,007,836 were operated sometime during the month compared with 33,757,552 for January, and 31,726,452 for February 1928.

The average number of spindles operated during February was 39,119,076 or at 110.7 per cent capacity on a single shift basis compared with 111.6 per cent in January and 101.3 per cent for February 1928.

Segrave Winner Of First Boat Race

Miami Beach, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Major H. D. O. Segrave, holder of the world's automobile record and pilot of the speedboat "Miss England," prepared today for his second race against the skill of Gar Wood and his "Miss America VII."

Segrave yesterday won the first of two races between the two boats at Miami Beach Yacht club's sixteenth annual regatta, after Wood had been forced to withdraw during the third lap.

Wood completed repairs to "Miss America VII" early today, replacing the steering quadrant that broke in yesterday's race and declared the boat ready to travel the 12 miles course in Biscayne Bay against the Englishman's speedily constructed craft.

Both pilots expressed the belief last night that the 59.228 miles an hour average established by Segrave yesterday would be bettered in today's race. The English speed king slackened his speed of better than 60 miles an hour in yesterday's race after he had seen Wood draw to the side of the course when the steering quadrant forced him to discontinue.

Neither of the men, however, expected to approach today the world's record of 92.838 miles an hour held by Wood for a measured mile on a straightway course.

Mississippi River At Highest Stage In Thirteen Years

Quincy, Ill., March 20.—(AP)—The Mississippi River was approaching the top of its levees today, still rising after reaching the highest stage in 13 years.

The river was expected to reach its crest here some time today, just short of the flood stage of 22 feet. There was danger, nevertheless, that the levees, weakened by the continual pressure of the last few days, might give away, especially in case of rain or hard winds.

Seepage had already caused some damage and cracks were being stopped with sand bags. Firemen were called out to pour out overflow in manufacturing plants along the river or levee.

Engineers had predicted last night that the levees would withstand a stage of 19.7 feet soon afterward it was reported that the river had reached 19.6 feet and was still rising. The last time the river reached this height was in 1916.

State Teachers Association To Meet in Raleigh

Raleigh, March 21.—(AP)—School officials predicted a record breaking attendance for the annual meeting of the State Teachers Association which begins here tonight for a three day session. The education bill passed by the recent General Assembly was said by Arch T. Allen, superintendent of public instruction, to have aroused much interest among the teachers of the state because of their uncertainty as to whether it would cost many of them their jobs, and reduce the pay of others.

Julie B. Warren, secretary, who engaged in a controversy with Senator J. M. Broughton over the school bill last week, will make his report at the first session, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Dr. E. C. Brooks, president of State College, will deliver an address at the same meeting.

TRAINING CAMP NEWS BRIEFS

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Three successive victories proved too much for the St. Louis Browns yesterday and they fell before the Columbus Association club 3 to 2.

Rip Collins, getting another big league tryout, showed to good, allowing four hits and two runs in five innings.

Clearwater, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Brooklyn's Robins have started the 1929 baseball season where they left off in 1928—with defeat, starting them in the face. The Robins thought they had won their first exhibition of the year yesterday until the eighth inning but the Phillies came along then to score five runs and won 6 to 5.

Avon Park, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—Fred Haney, coming up from Indianapolis to play third base for the St. Louis Cardinals in the two game series against the Philadelphia Athletics at Miami Saturday and Sunday, Manager Billy Southworth has indicated.

Southworth is keeping Frankie Frisch out of the lineup while he obtains a good look at his rookies, Selph and Charlie Wilson. Selph probably will be retained during the coming season.

San Antonio, Texas, March 21.—(AP)—John McGraw is giving the Giants plenty of work on defense. He has the outfielders drill in keeping base runners from getting home. With the sacks populated with one to three runners.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 21.—(AP)—The New York Yankees and Boston Braves have had to postpone an exhibition game because of rain. The result may be the first, double header of the year or a Yankee victory in the championship of the St. Petersburg series.

The Yanks were leading in the series, three games to two when it was decided to call of yesterday's contest. Only two days are left to complete the series, so the Braves proposed a double bill to save their last chance of victory.

Yale men decide which is the best cigarette.

[Reproduced from the Yale News, Jan. 25, 1929]

OLD GOLD CIGARETTES WIN FIRST IN TESTS AT YALE

In the recent cigarette test made at the University, OLD GOLDS were chosen by the students as the best. The cigarettes were masked by black labels so that the names of the brands were concealed. Each label was numbered. This was judged to be the most sporting way of testing the merits of the four leading brands. Some 208 Yale students were asked to smoke the four disguised brands without knowing their identity.

They were merely to choose, by number, the one that was most appealing to the taste.

The News supervised the test on January 18 at various fraternity houses and in the News office.

When the votes were recorded it was discovered that OLD GOLD (Cigarette No. 3) had won. Old Gold was given 63 first choices, which was 11 per cent ahead of Cigarette No. 2, 34 per cent ahead of Cigarette No. 1, and 53 per cent ahead of Cigarette No. 4.

MARSHAL FOCH TO BE BURIED NEXT TUESDAY

Funeral To Be Held With Great Ceremony At Cathedral Of Notre Dame.

Paris, March 21.—(AP)—Funeral of Marshal Ferdinand Foch probably will be held Tuesday with great ceremony at the Cathedral of Notre Dame. It is learned Premier Poincaré is expected to be the only speaker.

Paris, March 21.—(AP)—The body of Marshal Ferdinand Foch, who led the Allied armies to victory in the world war, lay in state today in a simple bed in a sparsely furnished room of his stately old mansion near the Invalides Palace. A guard of honor, soldiers who marched with the dead marshal in victory and in the dark days preceding triumph, took possession of the courtyard in front of the old soldier's home.

Parisians passed with heads bowed and hats off while the nation planned its sixth great national funeral, its highest honor in death for the man who did so much for it.

The body was clad today in the marshal's field uniform of Herion blue. On its breast the ribbons and medals of almost every order of prominence in the world reposed, among them the star and grand cross of the Legion of Honor. This last was brought and pinned on by General H. J. E. Jomard, shortly after his death late yesterday.

The hands are crossed on his breast, clasping a crucifix placed there by his chief of staff during the war, General Maxime Weygand. Over his left was thrown the cloak he wore at his entry into Strasbourg, November 28, 1918. On a little night table at his side were other of his decorations, among them his croix de guerre, and a font of holy water.

The great soldier's features are calm and serene though, displaying with the air of energy which marked them when alive. Death has erased the lines of suffering and he seemed today as one asleep, the only unfamiliar thing being his mustache which he clipped and shortened himself yesterday.

The marshal's physician and faithful friend, Dr. Maurice Heitz-

Boyer, has hardly left the room since the body was laid out there. General Weygand and Father Doncoeur, were constant in their attendance also. Two Catholic sisters and three general-staff colonels, Bonilly Eninger, and Demury, in full uniform, took turns last night in guarding the room, dimly lit with two candles placed on each side of the bed.

While the marshal slept his last sleep in his own little bed, plans were made to give him the stately funeral within the power of the nation. The government, responding to general desire, immediately decided that he was to have the rare distinction of national obsequies.

This is an honor never before paid to a soldier of the French republic. In its history but five others have received it, the Presidents, Carnot and Faure; the scientist Pasteur; the statesman, Gambetta, and the poet, Victor Hugo.

It was proposed that he pass the night before his interment lying in state beneath the Arc de Triomphe beside the unknown soldier's tomb—the great name beside the great nameless. Prior to this it was expected the body would be placed in the Invalides before the tomb of Napoleon Bonaparte and there was a feeling that he would be laid to his final rest in one of the niches of the crypt where the body of the great Corsican lies.

But these and other details were to be decided at a cabinet meeting. While the government desired to bury Marshal Foch in the Invalides nothing could be arranged officially because the family, before consenting to any arrangement, wished to be sure there was nothing in the marshal's will and papers to the contrary.

Certain things he said in his last days have given rise to the belief in some quarters that he desired to be interred at Tarsis, in the Pyrenees, the town of his birth. A national funeral involved a special appropriation bill which the financial committee of both the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate were arranging to report rapidly so that it would become a law with the least delay. This and other considerations involved made it seem likely that the funeral would not take place until Monday.

This delay, it was pointed out, would permit arrival of distinguished pall bearers and delegations of the various Allied armies' veterans' associations who would be disappointed if deprived of the privilege of paying their last tribute of respect and love for the man who created victory from chaos for them.

There was talk of a solemn religious service at the Notre Dame Cathedral in addition to the service at the Invalides, but this, as other funeral arrangements, was still a matter of speculation.

Members of the household told over and over again today the story of the marshal's last hours. Yesterday morning he had seemed better and showed some signs of old cheeriness. He smiled and talked to his doctors.

"What beautiful sunshine," they told him. "You'd like to go out, Monsieur le Marechal?"

He answered, looking out the window. "Yes, indeed, it would give me very great pleasure." As he spoke a wistful smile lighted his rugged features.

"Well, we will let you very soon," they answered. But they knew that could never be and that his grim enemy death could not be kept off for more than two weeks.

However, the idea seemed to cheer the marshal who chatted in a way he had not done for days. His doctors left him reassured, not dreaming that they would never hear his soldierly voice again.

During the day he talked with Mme. Foch but shortly after noon she noticed that he was growing pale. She called his nurses and the marshal was taken from his lounge near an open window to his bed.

Those last minutes passed quickly. Members of the family were summoned and Reverend Father Berdrud came to administer the last sacraments to his distinguished parishioner. Dr. Daveniere arrived but it was too late to bring the dying back, and he breathed his last at 5:50 p. m., just as the sun was setting.

"God's will be done," his wife said. The marshal spoke his last words when he was lifted back into his bed. "Monsieur le Marechal," he was told, "we are going to put you in bed." The marshal replied, "Bien allongé," which may be translated, "All right, let's go ahead."

Trying Times For Debs.
New York—It has been a particularly trying season in society because of the lateness of guests; therefore, 14 debutantes have sent a questionnaire to 3,000 young people, other debs, Harvard, Yale and Princeton boys and young business men, asking if they favor getting to dinners and dances on time and if they have any suggestions.

Capone Appears At Chicago Injuiry

Chicago, March 20.—(AP)—"Scarface Al" Capone, Chicago gang leader, summoned to appear before a Federal Grand Jury today appeared suddenly and mysteriously in the United States District Attorney's office a few minutes before he was scheduled to go before the jury.

Chicago, March 20.—(AP)—The Herald and Examiner said today that Al (Scarface) Capone had arrived at Rockford, Ill., and that he would appear here today in answer to a federal subpoena.

Capone spent last night at a country estate near Rockford, the newspaper said. Earlier in the evening he was a guest of the Roman Benefit Society Club, Rockford. He was to drive from Rockford to Chicago today to appear as a witness before the federal grand jury.

There was considerable secret activity among deputy United States marshals yesterday and last night, indicating that the government may have plans concerning Capone which it has not made public. An investigation was reported under way to learn how sick Capone was when the subpoena was served and whether, as he then stated, it was unable to appear at the date fixed. If it could be shown that Capone was not ill at the time, an assistant federal attorney pointed out, Capone would be liable to imprisonment for contempt.

It was not likely that Capone, should he appear, would be questioned by police, who have expressed a desire to hear what he might have to say about the Valentine's day gang massacre. The police said the federal authorities would do whatever questioning there was to be done.

OAK RIDGE PRESIDENT DIED LAST NIGHT

Oak Ridge, March 21, (AP)—T. E. Whitaker, 68, president of Oak Ridge Military Institute, died late last night at his home here after an illness of one week.

Professor Whitaker, who had been a member of the Oak Ridge faculty the past 40 years was taken ill with acute indigestion last Thursday and his condition had been serious since that time.

Tammany Leader Must Come From Rank And File

New York, March 20.—(AP)—With district leaders determined that the next Tammany Chieftan shall come from the ranks, Martin C. McCue, a former prize fighter and John F. Curry, one-time insurgent, appeared today as leading candidates to succeed George W. Olvany.

A caucus has been called for tomorrow at which the beaves are expected to settle upon the man who will be elected chairman when the executive committee meets Friday to take final action on Olvany's resignation and pick his successor.

Both McCue and Curry qualify under the dictum that the new leader must come from the ranks.

Meanwhile Mayor Walker continued to confer with Democratic leaders regarding the situation. Former Governor Smith arrived in the city during the day but refused to discuss the Tammany situation and as far as was learned took no action regarding the selection of Olvany's successor.

"My Thirty Years at Sea"

by CAPTAIN GEORGE FRIED

Harry Manning, 32 year old one of the outstanding roles in the rescue of the Florida. He commanded the lifeboat which took the crew off the disabled ship. Fried again pays tribute to the courage and coolness of his young officer and says if any recognition is given to the men of the America it should go to the members of the lifeboat's voluntary crew.

CHAPTER XXI

"He went to the forecabin to choose his rescue crew."

Chief Officer Harry Manning is 32 years old. He is a graduate of the New York State Naval School. On January 22, when he commanded the lifeboat from the America and rescued the 32 members of the Italian freighter Florida, he demonstrated his courage and ability. American crews have made rescues before but the one executed by him and his shipmates was accomplished so efficiently and expeditiously that it will always stand as the work of seasoned experts and an example to the seafarer of every nationality.

The brotherhood of the sea knows no race, creed or color. When an SOS is flashed the hearts of the thousands aboard ships quicken and everyone within a reasonable distance is ready to sacrifice his life if necessary. When I decided to go to the aid of the Florida every man aboard the America was on tip-toe. The human machines of the vessel functioned quietly and smoothly. Every man wanted a chance to go out in the first lifeboat but the selection was left entirely to Mr. Manning.

The chief officer of a vessel has the privilege and I might say, it is really his duty if he is physically able to command the rescuing boat. Mr. Manning was ready. I knew he was deserving of the chance. He is daring but not foolhardy. In a crisis I felt he could control himself and be as calm as the seas were wild. So he left the bridge and went to the forecabin to choose his crew from the volunteers. The men who decided to wager everything against tremendous odds included W. K. Clark, junior engineer; Aloys Wilson, boatswain's mate; Salvatore Bracco, storekeeper, who acted as interpreter; John Talls, sailmaker; Victor Walleck, master at arms; Walter Trettin, quartermaster; and John Harrobin and Fonce Kellam, able seamen.

As we proceeded toward the Florida, Mr. Manning and I discussed briefly the plan of rescue but our plans were necessarily dependent upon the situations as they arose. The most important thing was to see that sufficient provisions and water were in the boat, a compass, several lengths of rope, flares, flashlights, a hand lantern and buckets for ballast. Every man wore a life belt. It is always wise to re-check and make certain that everything is in satisfactory condition. Lifeboat Number One was decided upon as it was nearest the bow from which the crew would have to pull on their start across the waters for the Florida.

Our plans for the boat getting away worked perfectly. However, my thanks and appreciation to my officers and men for their assistance. Their courage and ability should give our people something to think about and make them proud of the men in the American Merchant Marine. They are not looking for rewards, but if any recognition is given to the men of the America it should go to the lifeboat crew in charge of one of the most gallant young officers with whom I have ever been associated.—Harry Manning.

It had not progressed very far before the unexpected happened.

White caps suddenly began to appear on the heavy swells. Then came a snow squall. The wind was increasing to force. An hour after the boat had left the side of the America the wind was blowing at hurricane velocity and a blinding rain was pelting the rescuers.

The visibility was poor as the boat started from the Florida. A flashing light was blinking. Mr. Manning evidently was trying to get some message to me but we could not make it out, due to the rise and fall of the boat. For a moment I thought something was wrong. The America was being maneuvered. I was trying to watch every detail and every man in sight to make sure he was carrying out his orders. The America was giving but slight protection to our little boat, but what little there was it helped. I could see them struggle. The oars often rushed them back further than any way they had made.

On our ship everyone was silent. I have been asked how I felt at that time. It would be hard for me to describe my emotions. I was not nervous. Not was I excited. I knew that when the ordeal was over and my men were safely aboard, I was almost on the point of collapse from the mental strain.

It was then the full significance of the deeds of these men came to my mind. It was then that I felt a tinge of pride for having a crew that could overcome such great obstacles—rescuing not only 32 men but themselves as well in a sea from which few crews would ever have emerged triumphant. The water was so rough that even the thought of raising the lifeboat could not be entertained.

I again wish to express publicly
