BYRD WITHOUT AUTHORITY IN SHOOTING CASE

Virginia Official Requested To Probe Conditions In Washington County.

Richmond, Va., May 14.—(AP)—Governor Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia, who was recently petitioned by the student body of Emory and Henry College to see "that the ends of justice are served" in the fatal shooting of J. W. Kendrick, 17, Emory and Henry student, while he occupied an automobile that was being chased by three officers, finds himself without authority to order an official investigation, he has been advised by Leon M. Bazile, assistant Virginia attorney general.

The shooting of the student, however, continue to attract wide attention and late last night there appeared in Abingdon a petition calling upon the governor to order an immediate investigation into "the deplorable conditions" in Washington county, the county in which the shooting took place last Monday night. Specifically the petition of last night requested the governor to obtain an explanation of why the three officers involved in the shooting of the young man had not been suspended from duty.

Further, the petition requested the governor to obtain explanations, if possible, of the "promiscuous and indiscriminate gun play in Washington county and the common practice of town and county officers of stopping and searching private automobiles without a warrant."

Circulation of this petition was reported to have originated in Meadowsview, Va., late yesterday and to have been taken to Abingdon, where it was signed by 50 citizens late last night. It was understood that the petition was to be forwarded to the governor tonight.

Governor Byrd late yesterday, however, announced following advice from the assistant attorney general, that the case was one for the Washington county court to handle.

Kendrick was fatally wounded while he occupied an automobile with two companions, Sterling Dutton and Paul Phelps, near Abingdon last Monday night. James McReynolds, Abingdon policeman, and James Crowe and J. W. Worley, Washington county deputy sheriffs, were chasing the car, they said, and "fired at the tires" after an order to stop had been ignored. They said they had complaints that Dutton and Phelps were drinking and disorderly, and that they did not know Kendrick was an occupant of the car. The youths, following the shooting, did not stop, but hurried the wounded lad to a hospital where he died 24 hours later. Phelps and Dutton were later arrested but denied that any member of their party had been drinking.

On a warrant sworn out by Kendrick's guardian, the three officers were arrested and then released under $5,000 bail each, after they waived preliminary hearing. McReynolds, it is understood, asked for and was allowed relief from official duties until the case is disposed of, but the two deputies remain in their official duties.

Crowe was reported in a serious condition at his home near Glade Springs, Va., suffering from "nervous prostration and heart ailment."

The petition of the citizens of Washington county, if received by the governor, will make the second one that has come before him as an outgrowth of the shooting of the student. The Emory and Henry student body, soon after the young man's death, called upon the governor for a complete investigation, pointing out that the shooting was "a deplorable example of where men in authority have oversteered their powers and exceeded their powers with the consequence that a youth, whether to a degree culpable or not, has died the death which the law reserves for the most intractable criminals."

Citizens in their petition of yesterday said "prosecution of law violators, apparently, has been thrown into disarray by prosecution of law officers."

"With constantly increasing frequency in the past year," the petition reads, "these agents of the people have been indulging in promiscuous and indiscriminate gun play adopting as a matter of common course the practice of shooting at automobiles, the wholesale stopping without warrants, of private automobiles for the purpose of searching them, and the general terrorization of highways throughout this section from dusk until dawn."

ATTEMPT TO CLOSE BREACH IN CONGRESS

And House Continue With Provisions Objectious To President

Washington, May 14.—(AP)—Administration leaders in Congress were intent today on closing breaches in Republican ranks and increasing the legislative efficiency of their majorities. While both Senate and House were aware that they were proceeding with bills containing provisions objectionable to President Hoover.

As the Senate approached a vote on the farm bill containing the export debenture plan which the President denounced, the administration leaders were considerably relieved that the flare-up over the question of party regularity which developed out of the debenture controversy was as moderate as it turned out to be.

Many members had expected the speech of Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, on the subject of "pseudo-Republicans" to be a much more fiery retort than it was to the letter of Senator Pess, of Ohio, the party whip, criticizing him and Senator Borah, of Idaho, and Nye, of North Dakota, for their support of the debenture proposal.

While no doubt was entertained that the Senate would reaffirm its position on the debenture plan by passing the bill containing it, administration leaders have counted on the House to eliminate it from the measure so that legislation more in harmony with the president's views can be sent to the White House for his approval.

The Senate, meanwhile, is being counted on by the same group to bring the tariff bill now before the House more nearly into line with the president's desire to "limit" revision than the ways and means committee Republicans saw fit to recommend. At the same time, they are hopeful that, after the general debate is ended late this week, some of the administration's ideas can be worked into the measure in the House itself through the amendment route.

Progress toward reduction of the tariff stress over various proposals in the tariff bill was seen today in the House. In the ways and means committee, the bill was amended and means Republicans with members of the group from ten western farm states who are dissatisfied with the agricultural schedule. Chairman Hawley had promised that such of their proposals as met with favor among committee members would be offered to the House as committee amendments to the bill with privileged status.

A similar group from cattle-producing states was called by Representative Summons, Republican, Nebraska, to organize today along similar lines to present their objections to the bill's provisions affecting hides, meats and live animals. Considerable dissatisfaction has been expressed in this group with the duties proposed on live cattle and meats on the ground that they are inadequate, and with the failure of the committee to transfer hides from the free to the dutiable list.

Believing that, by these and other maneuvers, they can bring about sufficient harmony in the Senate and House majorities to assure prompt action on the tariff and farm bills, administration leaders have discarded the idea of an all-summer recess to let the controversies die out.

REPARATIONS CONFERENCE NEARING END

Experts Restive Today And Plan Not To Tolerate Further Dragging Of Work.

Paris, May 14.—(AP)—The decisive stage of the reparations experts conference has now arrived with the burden of the work of finding a compromise apparently falling on Sir Josiah Stamp of Great Britain, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the German delegation, and Owen D. Young.

These three men conferred this morning. Sir Josiah and Dr. Schacht were to meet again later in the day to continue work on the German conditions for acceptance of the proposal made by Mr. Young.

It was expected that this will be completed tonight and that the report may be distributed tomorrow for consideration in a plenary session of the experts on Thursday.

Paris, May 14.—(AP)—End of the experts' conference on reparations, though possibly an unsatisfactory end, was in sight today. The experts have grown restive through delays of the past few days and their mood today did not favor their dragging out of the negotiations.

The storm of criticism which descended upon them last week from almost every quarter affected by the settlement they proposed so impressed the experts that they have become reticent. Despite closed mouths, however, the expected procedure of the next few days was revealed.

It was regarded as certain that Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, German spokesman, and Sir Josiah Stamp, head of the sub-committee drafting the experts' final report, would conclude a draft of the report some time today, to be submitted at a plenary session tomorrow.

At that plenary session the report, which some here believe will fall to do many of the things hoped for originally from the conference, will be discussed. When, after debate, it is voted upon it probably will be dispatched to the governments concerned, whether that vote signifies agreement or disagreement.

Such will be the nature of this report, it is believed in some circles, that an agreement will be possible without actual ceding of the various national views. Contested points, for instance, will be incorporated into its body, notable among these being the German conditions of acceptance of Owen D. Young's figures.

The German reservations, which were understood today provided for suspension or postponement of part of their economic conditions and to provide for another conference at some later date, have found no favor among the French and Belgians. A complete lack of accord when final debate is reached would not be at all surprising.

MILL WORKERS BACK AT WORK AT PELZER, S. C.

Men Who Struck Yesterday Returned To Jobs At Mill No. 4 This Morning.

Greenville, S. C., May 14.—(AP)—All employees of mill No. 4 of the New England-Southern Mills at Pelzer were back at work today following their strike of yesterday, it was announced by J. W. Kelly, general manager.

A conference between Mr. Kelly and a committee of three operatives was held last night, at which it was agreed that no soliciting of funds for any purpose would be permitted in the mill including funds for churches, ministers, societies, etc.

The mill management, however, refused to take back the two operatives who were discharged yesterday for soliciting funds in the mill in violation of the rules of the plant.

The operatives declared that the mill management had met them half-way by refusing to allow the soliciting of any funds in the mill, showing they were not discriminating against strikers in other cities, but that they would not agree to the reinstatement of the two men discharged.

The strike yesterday was in protest against the discharge of two workers who solicited funds in the mill to aid striking workers of the Brandon Mill Corporation here.

Eighteen Students Face Suspension At University In Scandal Sheet Probe

Chapel Hill, May 14.—(AP)—After conducting an investigation lasting until an early hour this morning, the students council of the university of North Carolina adjourned to meet again tonight when, it was indicated, judgment will be passed in the case of the 18 students now facing suspension as the result of their participating in "the yellow journal, a Student Scandal" sheet that has appeared on the university campus once each spring for several years past.

"The Yellow Journal" which takes digs and pokes fun at members of the faculty and student body has been published by active members of the University Chapter of Sigma Upsilon, National Literary Fraternity. As a result of protests made each year following the appearance of the sheet the student council last year gave warning that the entire fraternity would be held responsible for further issues of the publication.

As a protest against the publication this year virtually all of the faculty members of the fraternity have resigned and sent a letter to the National organization of the fraternity requesting an investigation and denouncing the journal of this year as "abounding in coarseness, indecency and libelous references."

Pending the outcome of the investigation being conducted by the student council all active members of the fraternity have been technically suspended from university activities. Those found not guilty will be reinstated. It was expected today that not more than two or three of the students, if any, would be found guilty and definitely suspended when final decision was rendered.

Des Moines College Case To Be Aired At Buffalo

Des Moines, Iowa, May 14.—(AP)—A faculty member and a trustee of Des Moines University have gone to Buffalo, N. Y., to present to the Baptist Bible Union convention the students' and faculty's side of the discussion that has shaken the school.

On the same train with these two—Dean Earl C. Callaway and Rev. Minor Stevens—was Miss Edith M. Rebman, secretary of the university board and also of the Bible Union.

Four others left the campus last night for their homes. They were E. Knechtel, Morris Rose, J. F. Dempster and Frank Smith, Canadian students. They were given police protection to the station to prevent a recurrence of a Sunday night demonstration which was the culmination of resentment which one faction of the student body has bore because of a belief that an effort was being made to "Canadianize" the school. Rose and Dempster were set upon by a group of students Sunday night in front of a minister's home where they had been given refuge.

Of the major actors in the discordant affairs of the university, only one, Dr. Harry C. Wayman, deposed president, remained. Although he is listed to speak before the Buffalo convention he decided to stay here to keep the university in operation. To leave, he believed, might be in contempt of a court injunction obtained yesterday by students under which the school is ordered to continue its classes, despite an edict by the board of trustees closing the institution indefinitely.

The four students who returned home last night expressed their support of the policies of Dr. T. T. Shields, chairman of the university board and president of the Bible Union, who left Des Moines under police guard following the student outbreak Sunday night. They said they might return to school "when the trustees officially re-open it."

Dean Callaway indicated that the principal point of attack he and Mr. Stevens would make to the Bible Union would be against continued control of school administration by Dr. Shields and Miss Rebman. He said the deans were willing to sign the trustees' resolution adopted Saturday, clearing Dr. Shields and Miss Rebman of charges of indiscretions, but that they had been given no opportunity to do so.

"The faculty was satisfied on that point," he said. "Now we are going to insist on a hearing of the other matters regarding Dr. Shields and Miss Rebman's interference in faculty affairs."

Curtailment of student social privileges also would be gone into, Mr. Stevens said.

There was a minor demonstration against Miss Rebman when she entered last night. A small group of undergraduates sang a song "uh-rah, George Washington," the song which was said to have provoked feeling between Canadian and American students.

The students also hissed as the car in which Miss Rebman pulled past them.

Miss Rebman was knocked down by a taxicab as she left her hotel, and slightly injured.

One of Miss Rebman's last public statements here was a denial that she was anti-American or that she had interfered with the raising on the campus of the American flag.

"There isn't a bit of truth in the report," she said. "I am a Canadian citizen, but in my five years of residence in the United States I defy any person to cite any instance wherein I have been disloyal to the Stars and Stripes."

Dean Callaway said before his departure that he would attempt to present to the Bible Union convention charges that Miss Rebman maintained an espionage system to

OFFER REWARD FOR GASTONIA MOB MEMBERS

Governor Continues Effort To Punish Those Responsible For Mill Disorders.

Charlotte, May 14.—(AP)—With the declaration that the state will "continue unceasingly" its efforts to ferret out and punish the guilty persons, Governor O. Max Gardner has offered a reward of $400 for the apprehension and conviction of members of a mob that destroyed headquarters of the National Textile Union at Gastonia, April 18.

In announcing the reward yesterday, Governor Gardner also revealed that detectives were employed by the state shortly after the mob violence, but had been unable to secure evidence enough to indict anyone. He said the reward had not been offered before because he feared it might interfere with work of the detectives. The reward is the largest his office permits him to offer.

As Governor Gardner sought anew to bring to justice those responsible for the principal act of violence in connection with textile strikes in North Carolina, fresh labor troubles broke out in South Carolina.

Employees of the New England Mill Number 4 at Pelzer, walked out in protest against the dismissal of one of their number who had solicited funds for striking employees of the Brandon Corporation mill at Greenville. The mill employs about 500 workers. Officials of the mill, however, expressed the belief that the majority of the workers would return to their places today.

A meeting of strikers from the Otway and Monarch mills at Union, S. C., was called for today to attempt to reach a settlement of the strike there.

The headquarters building of the National Textile Workers Union at Gastonia was destroyed by a band of masked men who used axes and crowbars.

SEVEN LIVES CLAIMED BY TEXAS FLOOD

Livingston, Texas, May 14.—(AP)—Seven dead and property and crop damage running into hundreds of thousands of dollars was the reported toll taken in Polk county yesterday by a flood following two days of torrential rains that swept the Trinity river and several creeks out of their banks. Communication was disrupted and the exact number of lives lost could not be determined.

Rescue forces in row boats worked frantically throughout the night, taking residents from house-tops and in the flooded districts. In the Long Cane community, 3 1-2 miles from here, four members of one family drowned when they were swept from a tree top.

A row boat on the way to rescue them capsized and its four occupants, who managed to escape, told of seeing the four carried away by the swift current.

Where three other deaths, generally reported, occurred could not be learned.

Several families were reported to be marooned in tree tops at Lamont another nearby hamlet. Attempts to reach the community were futile and fear was expressed that rising waters would engulf the refugees before aid could reach them.

Little Doris Fornes Died Early Today

Doris Mozelle Fornes, aged four years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Fornes, died this morning at seven o'clock at her home, 110 Church street. Her death came as a great shock and surprise, as she was only sick about 24 hours.

The funeral will be held from the home tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, by Rev. W. J. Nobles, pastor of the Holiness Church of Tarboro. Interment will follow in Greenwood cemetery.

TWO HUNDRED STRIKERS IN TOOLS OF LAW

Scores Arrested At Elizabethton Today On Charges Of Intimidation.

Elizabethton, Tenn., May 14.—(AP)—More than 250 strikers were arrested today on charges of intimidation and were escorted to the county jail here by a company of National Guardsmen. They were placed in jail as the jail is too small to hold that number.

There was a noisy demonstration from those under arrest as the procession wended its way to the square from the Stoney Creek highway where the arrests were made.

At one point along the line of march some of those in custody declared their intention of proceeding to Elizabethton unguarded. One car started off but halted when Bill Fair, a guard at one of the textile mills, leveled a gun at the driver and a squad of guardsmen with fixed bayonets blocked the roads.

More than 5,500 persons went on strike here a month ago, resulting in the closing of the American Bemberg and Glatstoff rayon plants, which, however, announced May 6 that operations were being resumed gradually.

Fair arrested a crowd of strikers, charging they were blocking the road and prohibiting workers from Gap Creek from reaching the plants. Those arrested filled five automobiles, two buses and a truck.

Fair and the strikers were violating an injunction obtained by the textile plant some time ago. Pat Taylor, a deputy sheriff, claimed Fair was not a commissioner peace officer and had no power to arrest any person of property.

While the prisoners were held under armed guard in the court yard, officers held a conference and decided to move them into the courtroom. They were escorted in by soldiers. A guard was thrown around the building and no one was permitted to enter.

William F. Kelley, vice-president of the United Textile Workers, said he did not know on what grounds the strikers were being held.

Captain R. T. Johnson, in charge of the company that escorted the strikers to town, said it was necessary to use tear gas bombs to break up a gathering on the highway shortly after the first arrests were made, about 100 strikers were ordered by soldiers to "move on," he said, and when they refused the guardsmen dropped tear gas bombs in the crowd, which quickly dispersed.

Laura Johnson, a striker, was cut about the hands and arms when she boarded an automobile in Va. 100 persons picketing the highway when a carload of workers en route to the mills passed. The girl jumped on the running board and was struck by a knife.

County officers announced they were seeking Fair on a charge of furnishing a pistol, declaring he had a pistol on him when he was a public highway since he was not a commissioned officer.

GRAF ZEPPELIN IS READY FOR FLIGHT TO U. S.

Big Dirigible To Take Off On Trans-Atlantic Flight Tomorrow At Dawn.

Friedrichshafen, Germany, May 14.—(AP)—Final preparations for departure of the giant dirigible Graf Zeppelin, on its second trip to America, were under way here today. The take-off is planned for dawn tomorrow.

A last trial flight of one hour and three-quarters was made at dusk yesterday under command of Captain Lehmann, assistant to the ship's master. The motors functioned perfectly and everything was pronounced in readiness for what, despite its having blazed the trail in a previous journey—is regarded as its great adventure.

The little South German town was a bee hive of activity today, with its quarters crowded with passengers, newspapermen and sightseers. As the Zeppelin's hangar mechanics and handlers busied themselves putting last-minute touches to the dirigible's apparatus and fittings.

It was assumed here, after taking off tomorrow morning Dr. Eckener will shape his course to Lakehurst, N. J., as far south as the Azores, or even further south, since adverse weather conditions are expected to prevail along the northern route. The extreme southern course measures 7,500 miles as compared with 4,000 minimum mileage along the northern course.

Fifty-nine persons and one "dog," "the Mitzie" by name, who is addressed to the Chicago Zoo, will make the trip aboard the ship, 30 of the persons being members of the crew. Among the passengers is Captain Sir George Hubert Wilkins, Polar explorer, who wishes to make some navigational studies on route.

Sir George will be accompanied by the full crew complement under Captain Lehmann. The torilla, however, is expected she would be taken aboard sometime today. The plans of an attempted stopway, a young painter's assistant, were frustrated when he was discovered and ejected from the ship.

Captain Hermann Koehl, one of the Bremen Trans-Atlantic fliers, told friends today that so long as ocean crossings had not yet been made safe for airplanes the Zeppelin problem was Germany's, but visiting card for America inasmuch as it was 20 years ahead of planes so far as flight radius was concerned.

He suggested that a good combination would be for planes to act as feeders for a trans-oceanic dirigible service from the Azores or another like point.

A ciphering and deciphering machine to guard the secrecy of passengers' private radio messages, and the machine's inventor will be aboard the Graf Zeppelin on its flight toward America tomorrow.

The inventor is Alexander von Kryha, native Ukrainian who fled his own country at the time of the Bolshevik uprising there. His machine, which was which insured privacy of newspaper dispatches on the first Trans-Atlantic flights of the Zeppelin.

Weather permitting the Zeppelin will leave Friedrichshafen about 7:00 Central European time (1:00 A. M. Eastern Standard time).

To facilitate departure, and arrive at Lakehurst, passport formalities have been reduced to a minimum.

Thousands of letters have stacked up at the little postoffice here to be carried aboard the dirigible. A branch postoffice has been installed aboard so that passengers may mail letters as well as send wireless dispatches.

Make Final Plans For Presbyterian General Assembly

Montreat, N. C., May 14.—(AP)—Final preparations were being made today for the annual meeting of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, which convenes here Thursday for a session which is expected to last approximately a week.

The assembly, which is the highest court in the church, a representative law-making body somewhat similar to the Congress of the United States, is composed of about 2,000 commissioners, from the various presbyteries. One-half of the commissioners are ministers and one-half are ruling elders. About 500 persons are expected to attend. Nearly every town in the New Assembly has already been taken.

The assembly will be formally convened at 11 o'clock Thursday morning in the Montreat auditorium for the session of the retiring moderator, Dr. Harry Kirk, of Baltimore. In the afternoon, the first business to come before the session will be the choice of a new moderator.

GOLD BULLETS

by Charles G. Booth

SYNOPSIS: Alex Peterson's famous gold-mounted revolver loaded with gold bullets becomes mysteriously linked with the murder of Andrew Ogden. Nathan Hyde, the antique dealer who sold the revolver to John Peebles, admits that he obtained it from Furlie, Ogden's queer visitor on the day he was slain. Hyde further reveals that after the weapon had been sold to Peebles, Ogden demanded to know what Hyde had done with the pistol.

Chapter 14
RAW GOLD
"Did you tell any one else that Peebles had bought the Peterson revolver?" MacNair inquired of Hyde.

"Dear me, no! Why should I have?"
"Hm!" said MacNair. "Well, every man to his taste. Some go in for pistols, some for pottery, some for pictures. My hobby is swords."

Hyde smiled and rubbed his hands. "Ah, to be sure. I have a very fine Japanese sword guard by Masamune in the shop. Perhaps you'd like to see it."

"I should," said MacNair. Hyde excused himself. The moment he was gone MacNair stiffened in his chair and listened attentively. Then, quick as a cat and bent double, he slid over to Hyde's chest desk, leaned across it, and, to my amazement, opened the top drawer. MacNair stared down into the drawer for a moment, then he slipped quietly back to his chair.

Before I could demand the reason of this extraordinary conduct Hyde reappeared with the sword.
"A beautiful bit of workmanship. Mr. MacNair," the dealer said smoothly.

"Hm!" MacNair responded dryly. "Not bad. How much?"
Hyde's eagle eyes narrowed a trifle. "Ah, yes. The figure is just $1,300."

MacNair laughed ironically. "If you haven't sold it in, say, two months from now, I'll give you $500."

"My dear Mr. MacNair," Hyde protested. "I couldn't take a penny less than $1,200."

"Well, put it away and we'll talk about it a couple of months hence. Do you know anything more about his Peterson pistol?"

The old pirate shrugged. He followed us to the door.

We left him then.

"A beautiful liar!" MacNair said harshly, as we crossed the street.

"What was in the drawer?"

"If you had been watching him closely as we entered the office you would have seen him snap that drawer shut. I concluded there was something in it that he didn't want us to see, so I determined to find out what it was."

"Curious," I remarked, "but when I dropped in on Hyde yesterday afternoon he flipped a letter over some object on his desk. Hammond, one of our lawyers, was with him at the time and both of them seemed startled at my appearance. Well, what did you find?"

"A bit of rich gold quartz like that piece Deacon came upon in Ogden's desk."

"You don't say!" I exclaimed. "I'll bet that was what Hyde covered up yesterday afternoon. Gold quartz, eh! Do you connect it with Furlie?"

"Hubbard's description of Furlie suggested an old desert rat and a connection is inferable, of course."

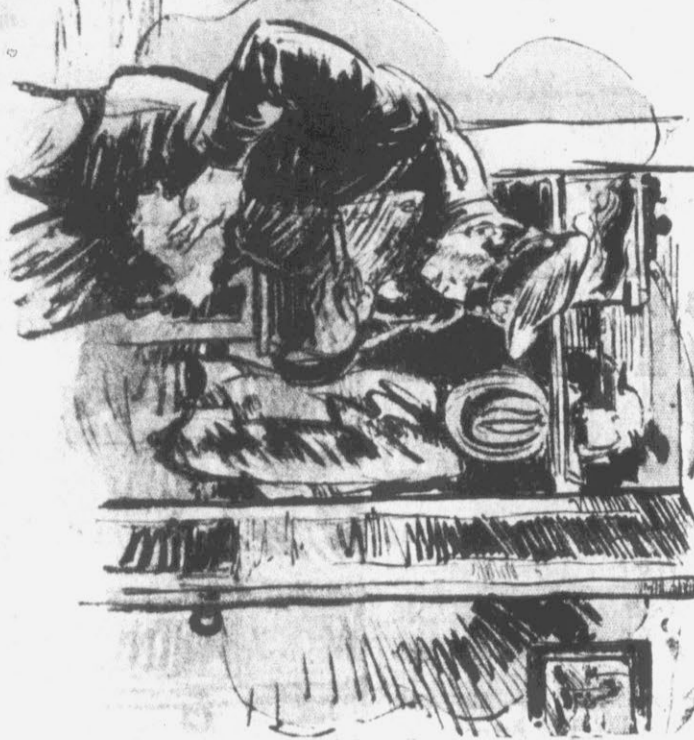

"That would bring Hyde into the case," I muttered. "Hammond, too, maybe. By the way, Hammond was a prospector in his younger days. And I told MacNair what I knew of him."

"Interesting," he muttered. "But it by no means eliminates young Ogden. However, we have two possible lines of inquiry open before us. Blackmail is one of them; the gold-hunting instinct is the other. One of them should lead us to Ogden's murderer. They may converge before we find him."

"Hello," I cried, suddenly. "There goes Hammond now."

The lawyer did not see us. Turning, we followed him with our eyes. He came to Hyde's shop, and entering it, disappeared from our sight.

The inquest was held that afternoon. Stimson, Hubbard, and I were the principal witnesses. I told my story truthfully, but I was careful to make it clear that I had neither seen Jerry's face nor heard his voice on the walk. Stimson hadn't either. The Peterson revolver, my experience of the early morning, and the curious discoveries Deacon had made among Ogden's effects were not introduced as evidence. Nor did Luther MacNair present any of his theories. The jury found that Andrew had died of a dagger thrust in the back of his neck, inflicted, in its opinion, by Gerald Ogden, the victim's son.

It was late afternoon when I swung the car into Magnolia avenue, MacNair beside me. Deacon had promised to meet us at the Ogden home. We found Deacon in the library. He gave us a grave nod.

"Any word of Jerry?" I asked.

"None, John."

A new fear seized upon me. Had Jerry, like Andrew, been done away with?

"You saw Hyde?" Deacon asked.

Nodding, MacNair lit a cigarette. Henry's honest face was troubled.

"Anything new?" I inquired.

He considered us thoughtfully for a moment. "Yes. About this woman in black. Her name is Lundy. Mrs. Joe Lundy. Andrew gave her a check the other day."

"A check?" I echoed.

"A check," Henry said slowly, "for $1,000."

"Ogden seems to have been liberal with his cash," MacNair drawled. "How did you get on to it?"

"My man Thompson found his check book in the pocket of a suit upstairs. One of the stubs was made out to a Mrs. Joe Lundy for $1,000. We got in touch with Ogden's bank, the First National. The check was cashed the day before yesterday. Mrs. Lundy is this woman in black. The teller remembered her by the odd clothing she wore."

The information bewildered me. What possible connection could this strange figure, Mrs. Lundy, have with the tragedy of the night before? Deacon must have sensed my thoughts.

"She can't be this James Dillon," he said sharply.

"It was no woman that fought me this morning," I declared vigorously.

"Never mind Mrs. Lundy just now," he growled. "She doesn't fit—yet. I found something else." He opened a drawer in the desk. "This. It was wrapped in oiled paper on the shelf in Andrew's bedroom closet."

At what he had brought forth I cried out in astonishment.

"Alex Peterson's gun," I whispered.

"Alex Peterson's other gun," Deacon replied.

The Colt was a replica of the one I had bought from Nathan Hyde. I ejected the cartridges into my palm. There were six of them and the bullets were gold!

"Alex Peterson would have two guns," MacNair said crisply. "Those high-flyers always had. I thought we should be turning it up."

George Stallings To Be Buried At Macon, Georgia

Macon, Ga., May 14.—(AP)—The state where he was born and on whose sandlots he learned the rudiments of baseball, will be the final resting place of George T. Stallings, one of the greatest figures in the national pastime and who long before his death had come to be known as the "Miracle Man" of the game.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at his Haddock, Ga., plantation, where he died Monday, and the body will be brought here for burial.

Stallings, a native of Augusta, Ga., the home of Ty Cobb, another of baseball's colorful figures, gained recognition as one of the game's immortals in 1914 by leading the Boston National League club from the lowest league position in July to a world's championship.

He learned the fundamentals of baseball during his boyhood in Georgia, and was later successful both as player and manager. Since 1920 he has retired twice, but each time to yield to the call of the game, being at his death head of the Major League club of the International League.

Consumption Of Cotton Increases Over Last Year

Washington, May 14.—(AP)—The Census Bureau announced today that 631,710 bales of lint and 79,008 bales of linters had been consumed in April compared with 524,765 bales of lint and 59,930 bales of linters in April last year and 632,808 bales of lint and 76,746 bales of linters in March this year.

Cotton on April 30 was held as follows:

In consuming establishments 1,606,832 bales of lint and 235,789 bales of linters compared with 1,507,599 bales of lint and 223,232 bales of linters in April, 1928, and 1,730,944 bales of lint and 228,544 bales of linters in March this year.

Put Ban On Greek Letter Activities At Hollins College

Roanoke, Va., May 14.—(AP)—A petition originating among students including representatives of seven national sororities, today had initiated at Hollins College a ban on Greek letter activities, effective when present sorority members leave the institution.

Declaring among other things, that "standards for membership (in sororities) are largely based on social standing and popularity rather than character and ability," the petition asked that President Matty

L. Coker and the faculty eliminate that phase of campus life.

Accordingly, President Coker issued a statement published today, which said:

"The present sorority membership may be if they so desire, continue co-operative life in their several groups. As Hollins girls in the past have received bids and been initiated into fraternities in their sophomore year, the sorority membership next year will include only juniors and seniors, and within two years all sorority members will graduate and sorority life at Hollins will come to a definite end. There is a possibility that members of several of the sororities may voluntarily cease sorority activity even within this period."

Hams—Hams—Hams.

A golden opportunity for a famous Onslow county ham. Don't neglect. I am off today to the finest fields of these famous hams and will secure the best to be had if possible. Speaking about neglect and carelessness. I am forcibly reminded of an instance that happened in my career that was possibly a turning point in my life to my good and all that meant best for me. I don't care to be personal in advertising, but once upon a time, a charming, beautiful little widow when I braced up nerve and courage enough to ask her to be mine, she lowly whispered. I will if you will only be true and good—a little neglect and carelessness another fellow captivated her and I am lonely today without her and many times I have sighed for one glance of her eye.

About forty-five years ago I happened to be a freshman in Dr. Thomas Hume's class (professor of English), at Chapel Hill. Many a time, as others remember, I have seen him rap on his desk and speak out in thunder tones. You insignificant, careless, and neglectful freshmen, you are missing the golden opportunity of your life by not having your recitations prepared. You owe it to your guardian and to your parents to awaken and be up and doing. You are missing the golden opportunity of your life.

Dr. Thomas Hume got 'em told of their golden opportunity, many of the best men of the state, namely, Gov. Charles B. Aycock, who fell in Birmingham, Ala., (spousing the cause of education, who said that every child should have and take advantage of an education, regardless of financial conditions, race or color, to make North Carolina a great state; Dr. Charles D. McIver, who established the Normal Industrial Female College at Greensboro, the greatest female college in the state and probably in the whole south, who said that every mother, the head of a family should have an education. Last but not least, our own Dr. R. H. Wright, president of East Carolina Teachers College, the educational center of Eastern North Carolina, and our own Mayor, J. C. Lanier, all of them, Dr. Thomas Hume got 'em told of the golden opportunities of the state of North Carolina.

People of Greenville and Pickens county, the greatest bright leaf tobacco county in the world, although it may come from a humble source, if you have not acquired one of these hams, and when they are so delicious, so appetizing and so good, you are missing a golden opportunity. Call

Veteran Snake Handler Killed By Rattler Bite

New York, May 14—(AP)—One of the world's leading authorities on snakes is dead, the victim of the infuriated mate of a rattlesnake he just had captured.

Charles E. Snyder, former head reptile keeper at the Bronx 200 and pupil of Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, zoo curator, died at Good Samaritan hospital, Suffern, N. Y., yesterday, from the effects of a snake bite inflicted earlier in the day while he was hunting snakes in the Ramapo Hills.

Snyder and a companion, Paul Snyder, no relative, were on Tom Mountain, a region known to be infested with rattlers when the former zoo keeper came upon a large specimen.

He pinned its head with a forked stick and leaned over to pick it up. The mate of the captive emerged from the underbrush and struck his hand. One fang slashed the flesh, the other made only a slight puncture.

Snyder concentrated first-aid efforts on the open wound, apparently overlooking the smaller puncture. It was through this that the reptile had injected its deadly venom into a vein.

The injured man made his way three miles to a highway where passing motorists took him to the hospital. Several injections of serum were made but without avail. Snyder was 58 years old.

ROTES WANT NEW HIGHWAY THRU ZEBULON

Resolutions Ask That New Road Run Thru Zebulon Instead Of Spring Hope.

Members of the Greenville Rotary club in regular weekly session here last night passed resolutions petitioning the State Highway Commission to bring the proposed hard surfaced highway to run east from Wake Forest to Zebulon instead of to Spring Hope.

It was stated that there was a movement around Rocky Mount to have this highway brought into highway 90 at Spring Hope, but people along highway 91, or from Zebulon east, are contending that to bring the highway to Zebulon instead of Spring Hope would make it bring residents of the sections along both highways 90 and 91, while to bring it to Spring Hope would only be a service to those people traveling highway 90.

It was also brought out that to run the proposed highway from Wake Forest to Zebulon would make it approximately 8 to 9 miles shorter than would be the case in the Spring Hope route. This saving of miles of hard surfacing would prove of great benefit to the highway Commission and at the same time the road would be of more service to the people of the Eastern section of the state.

The major part of the program last night was taken up by a talk by Hayward Dail, who discussed the tax situation from the standpoint of the farmers of the country. For the past several meetings the club has listened to several addresses by school men who discussed

Long Distance Walker Dies At New York Today

New York, May 14—(AP)—Edward Payson Weston, famous long distance pedestrian, died yesterday. He was 90 years old.

The man who at the age of 70 walked 3,895 miles from New York to San Francisco in 104 days and seven hours, spent his last days in a wheel chair. He had been an invalid since being struck by a taxi cab two years ago.

Shortly after the taxicab accident he was found wandering about the streets of New York in a daze. Anne Nichols, author of "Abe's Irish Rose" established a trust fund for him which yielded an income of $150 a month. With this money Miss Anna O'Hagan, for 21 years his secretary cared for the aged pedestrian in his quarters in Brooklyn.

Weston began his career as a walker while serving as a spy in the Union army in the Civil War. Later

Santa Claus of his pamphlet on the Ontario Government Hydroelectric plan against whose misrepresentation the Canadian Government protested was the Duquesne Light and Power Company of Pittsburgh. But it was the Power-Transportation Educational Foundation of Columbus, O., which financed various monographs which were distributed in schools, "from the sixth grade to college students."
"Pamphlets written by paid agents of the foundation and prefaced by subsidized college professors were all very well for school use. For adults there were the newspapers that power interests could acquire or influence by stock purchases. The details are now familiar of the investments of the International Paper and Power Company in the Boston Herald and other prominent Northern newspapers. The hearings before the Federal Trade Commission have developed the fact that the South was not overlooked. Who says a poor young man has no chance in business? Look at Messrs. La Varre and Hall, who acquired a "chain" of four Southern newspapers and priced a dozen others by the simple process of blithely borrowing every cent of the $870,000 they needed from the benevolent International!
"Let the Trade Commission go on with its good work. It may succeed in unearthing other instances where capitalism interested in the development of public power for private profit has bestowed its stray millions for the 'education' of the people without ostentatious display of its acts or avowal of its motives."

IT SHOULD SERVE THE MOST PEOPLE

The proposed routing of the Wake Forest highway eastward by Spring Hope instead of Zebulon, we believe would be a serious mistake, and it is to be hoped that when the State Highway Commission holds its hearing on the matter tomorrow the Zebulon route will be chosen. There are several points in favor of the Zebulon route which should help the highway body in making its decision. At present highways 91 and 90 connect at Zebulon and to bring this new road to this point would make the route serve traffic from both the east-west highways while to bring the new highway into number 60 at Spring Hope would leave it to serve only such travel as passed over number 90. Not only would more people from the east be able to use the road via the Zebulon route but the construction work on the part of the Highway Commission would be eight and nine miles less this way than to route the new highway by Spring Hope. If the new road is built to Zebulon the distance from Greenville and points east and south of us to Durham and points beyond will be shortened approximately twelve miles, and at the same time will prove little or no inconvenience to persons who travel over number 90. Should the new road be routed by Spring Hope it will serve only that section north of this city. In the face of these facts it is to be hoped that the highway body will decide in favor of the Zebulon route. In this way the road can be made to serve the largest number of travelers.

SCHOOLS, POWER AND THE PRESS

Commenting on the findings of the Federal Trade Commission in its investigation of the power trusts and rightly declaring that the commission should not cease until it has all the possible facts in the case, the New York World says:
"James Smithson never saw the United States, and he died 100 years ago next month. He could hardly have been expected to foresee that the Smithsonian Institution, which he founded in Washington, would ever have need of special monographs favoring the private-ownership side of the power controversy. So, as Samuel S. Wyer, consulting engineer, explains, various pamphlets put out under the aegis of the Smithsonian to bolster up that cause need a 'Santa Claus.' Thus the

LOCALS SPLIT DOUBLE BILL WITH EAGLES

Greenville and Kinston quit even here yesterday afternoon in the first double-header played on the local diamond this season. The Tobaccoists won the first game, 5 to 4, and Kinston emerged victorious in the last clash, a seven-inning affair, by the score of 3 to 0.

Hawkins and Rose were the opposing mound artists in the first game. Emmons and Jefferies did duty in the nightcap.

Jones, Greenville first baseman, came back strong with the bat yesterday after a slump of several days. Out of four trips to the platter in the first game, he hit for the circuit and a double. Both were long drives and figured prominently in the scoring. Bangs tripped in the ninth and came home on a single by Edwards.

Smith was given fielding honors for Kinston in the second game. He had seven putouts to his credit, some of which required more than usual skill in executing. Both clubs were credited with three bobbies in the first game. In the last game, Greenville had two and the visitors one.

Hits were about evenly matched in the initial skirmish Kinston securing 9 off Rose's delivery and the locals piling up 8 off Hawkins. Emmons for Kinston proved decidedly stingy in the nightcap, allowing only four hits, while his teammates banged out seven.

Kinston will conclude the series here this afternoon. The local club will go to Rocky Mount tomorrow for a two game series. They will return home Friday and Saturday for two games with the Pirates from Wilmington.

GEORGE UHLE REGAINS OLD SKILL AGAIN

(By The Associated Press)
If you don't believe the old saw about the benefits of a change in scenery consider the case of George Uhle, now throwing up his right hand slants for Bucky Harris' Detroit Tigers.

For ten years Uhle did all his work for the Cleveland Indians and very good work it was for the first eight of them. After a sensational season in 1926 when he won 27 games and lost eleven, Uhle slid back in alarming fashion. He won only eight games against nine defeats in 1927 and only 12 against 17 reverses last season. Apparently at odds with their start right handed, Cleveland officials traded him to Detroit during the winter for Ken Holloway and Jackie Tavener.

Under Bucky Harris' soothing influence at Detroit, Uhle has come back with a bang this year. Beating the Philadelphia Athletics 5 to 3 yesterday, Uhle chalked up his sixth victory without a defeat, a brilliant record in either major league.

Despite their defeat, the Athletics held onto a tie for first place for the Yankees obligingly lost their third straight, this time to Cleveland by a 4 to 3 count. Hudlin gave the champions only three hits in the first innings and stuck to his guns in the ninth to quell an uprising that ended with the tying run on base. Babe Ruth hit safely in his thirteenth consecutive game.

Behind fine pitching by Danny MacFadden, the Boston Red Sox bunched three hits off Grady Adams in the fourth inning to down the Chicago White Sox 2 to 1.

Rain washed out the St. Louis Washington game.
Over in the National league the Chicago Cubs bounced back into first place with a 6 to 4 triumph over the Boston Braves, while Philadelphia was beating the St. Louis Cardinals 10 to 9.

The Braves hopped on Clarence Jonnard for two hits in the first inning and with two Cub errors and a base on balls scored four runs. Charley Root then relieved Jonnard and held the Braves scoreless the rest of the way while the Cubs were pecking away at Seibold for the winning tallies in the third and seventh innings.

Barney Friberg's double with the bases filled in the ninth enabled the Phils to win an uphill struggle from 2-0.

SIGNED FOR TITULAR BATTLE

The Cardinals, The Phils trailed by five runs in the eighth but Williams' punch hit home run with one on accounted for two runs in the last half of that frame and four more came across in the ninth.

At New York John McGraw's Giants were blanked by Dolf Luque and the Cincinnati Reds and dropped into seventh place in the standing. Luque held the New Yorkers

Goldsboro Takes E. Carolina Lead

(By The Associated Press)
Goldsboro took undisputed possession of the topmost place in the Eastern Carolina league standing yesterday by defeating Rocky Mount 6 to 3.

The Goldbugs were outthit by Rocky Mount 8 to 7, and four errors by the Buccaneer infield played their part in the Goldsboro victory. In the Piedmont league, the Durham Bulls and the Greensboro Patriots kept step at the front of the procession by trimming Henderson and High Point respectively. The Bulls' verdict claimed an 8 to 3 advantage.

Winston-Salem defeated High Point 3-2 with a ninth inning rally that brought in two scores in the other Piedmont game. Lefty Huffman forced in the winning marker when he hit Malby with the bases loaded.

Wilmington pounded out 23 hits to down Fayetteville 17 to 5, while Kinston and Greenville split a double-header in other Eastern Carolina contests. Greenville took the first game 5-4, then lost the second 3-0.

The same clubs are scheduled to meet again today in both leagues.

It costs very little to recondition a MODEL T FORD

THE Ford Motor Company is making a new car, but it is still proud of the Model T. It wants every owner of one of these cars to run it as long as possible at a minimum of trouble and expense.

Because of this policy and because of the investment that millions of motorists have in Model T cars, the Ford Motor Company will continue to supply parts as long as they are needed by Ford owners.

So that you may get the greatest use from your Model T, we suggest that you take it to the nearest Ford dealer and have him estimate on the cost of any replacement parts that may be necessary.

You will find this the economical thing to do because a small expenditure now will help to prevent costlier repairs later on, increase the value of the car, and give you thousands of miles of additional service.

For a labor charge of only $2.60 you can have your generator put in first-class condition. A new universal joint will be installed for a labor cost of $3. Overhauling the carburetor costs $1.50; steering gear, $3.50; radiator, $7.50. A complete overhauling of the rear axle assembly runs between $5.75 and $7 for labor. An average price of $22.50 covers the overhauling of the motor and transmission.

These prices are for labor only because the need and number of new parts depend on the condition of each car. The cost of these parts is low, however, because of the Ford policy of manufacturing and selling at a small margin of profit.
