ZEPPELIN STARTS, BUT IS FORCED BACK

HUGE GERMAN DIRIGIBLE DEVELOPS MOTOR TROUBLE AND HEADS TOWARD HOME

Giant Mistress Of The Air Left Friedrichshafen At 5:57 A. M. And After Crossing Over Spain Developed Trouble In Two Of Her Motors, Which Necessitated Return To Home Port.

Friedrichshafen, May 16.—(AP)—The trans-Atlantic air liner Graf Zeppelin, which left Friedrichshafen this morning, developed motor trouble and was returning to her home port late today.

New York, May 16.—(AP)—The Columbia Broadcasting Company today received the following bulletin from its correspondent on the Graf Zeppelin:

"Two broken motors. Heading back." The Radio Marine Corporation said it had received the same message and was attempting to conform it.

The full cable read: "Two broken motors. Heading back to Germany. Cannot go fast."

The Columbia Broadcasting Company officials said the cable was signed by Frank E. Nicholson, their correspondent. It came in over the commercial line cables.

The Graf Zeppelin has five engines and can fly without any difficulty with three, although the speed is reduced with every engine that goes out of commission.

Nicholson is a New York author making the flight to gather material for a book. He was under contract to send a daily story to the Columbia Corporation.

Friedrichshafen, Germany, May 16.—(AP)—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin, mighty mistress of the air, raced westward with the sun today above southwestern Europe on its second trip across the Atlantic to America. It made a previous trip last October.

Before it lay a variable course above Gibraltar, probably the Azores Islands and Bermuda, to Lakehurst, N. J., which the dirigible's master, Dr. Hugo Eckener, did not expect to reach before late Saturday night Sunday morning.

Aboard the ship were 40 of the crew, 18 passengers, and a female gorilla, "Sisi." The only woman passenger was Mrs. Mary Pierce, wife of a New York utilities broker, who made the trip despite urgent pleadings of her husband and her mother. Among the men was Captain Sir George Hubert Wilkins, Arctic explorer.

The ship was trundled from its hangar at 5:45 a. m., and at the pilot's command was released for its long voyage at 5:57 a. m. (11:57 p. m. E. S. T., Wednesday). It rose slowly in an intermittent chuzzle, while 200 or more spectators cheered. It circled the field once, and disappeared in ten minutes in the direction of Lake Constance and Basel, Switzerland.

After flying over Walahut and Saackingen the dirigible arrived over Basel at 7:30 a. m., obliging it to descend close to the ground to discharge its first load of air mail. Five Swiss airplanes joined it there and acted as escort as far as the French frontier which it willed itself had crossed at 7:55 a. m.

Dr. Eckener before he left announced his cruise: "After leaving France we will go along the coast of Spain until we reach Gibraltar and then we will see what next. If we went above the mouth of the Loire we would have strong south-westerly winds against us which would delay us so much we would lose five hours more time than by going by way of Gibraltar, even though that is 450 miles further. I have advised the French government accordingly. Whether we will cross the Azores I cannot tell as yet. When we get out there we'll stick our noses in the air, take a good sniff, and decide where to turn next."

He was hurried to the local hospital where every effort was made to save the injured member. It was indicated, however, that amputation would probably be necessary.

A. S. Haynes Indicates His Intention To Resign; Delegations Too Heavy.

Raleigh, May 16.—(AP)—With Commissioner A. S. Haynes of Winston-Salem, indicating his intention to resign, the State Highway Commission resumed its May meeting here today.

Commissioner Hanes said he planned to tender his resignation because "delegations are getting to be impossible." The commission spent a full day yesterday hearing conflicting views of various delegations which comprised some 500 representatives.

John H. Waldrop was made state highway engineer after filling the position in an acting capacity since the resignation early in the year of Leslie R. Ames, who accepted a plate with the Louisiana commission.

A list of 65 candidates for jobs on the highway patrol force was submitted by Capt. Charles D. Farmer, and approved for a 30-day course of training, after which the 27 most proficient will be chosen as patrolmen.

CONVENTION OF PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OPENS

Sixty-ninth General Session Got Under Way At Montreal This Morning.

Montreal, N. C., May 16.—(AP)—With a number of important matters, among them the church's position on divorce, slated for discussion during the week, the sixty-ninth General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States got under way here today.

The 49 commissioners from 17 southern and southwestern states and the District of Columbia, headed as the opening event the annual sermon of the retiring moderator, Harris Elliott Kirk, of Baltimore. Election of the new moderator was set for the afternoon session.

The commissioners, representing 92 presbyteries, were in the main accommodated in the New Assembly Inn. The building not yet completed is being constructed of native stone by native workmen under direction of Dr. R. C. Anderson, president of the Mountain Retreat Association. Dr. Anderson and Dr. Willis S. Wilson, pastor of the local church, are acting as hosts.

Students of the Montreal Normal School, which uses the buildings during the winter months, are assisting in entertaining the assembly.

Dr. Kirk, taking as his subject "The Presbyterian Mind," described the recent conception of church union which desires external unity in the interest of expediency under what he called the leadership of ecclesiastical bureaucracy. He presented Presbyterianism as the most thorough expression of the type of teaching best designed to restore the thoughtful man's confidence in the living God; and pleaded with his audience to do all possible to preserve the Presbyterian type of faith in these perplexing times. The sermon was followed by an observance of the Holy Communion.

Among the more important matters to come before the convention are the discussion of the church's position on divorce and the revision of the assembly's committee on the matter of realization and merger of executive and promotional agencies and a central treasurer for the whole church; the ministers' duty fund; the 17th annual report of the Woman's Auxiliary and the consideration of merger of the church with the United Presbyterian Church.

WATER MAIN DYNAMITED BY STRIKERS

Detachment of Troops Sent To Scene of Disorders at Elizabethton.

Elizabethton, Tenn., May 16.—(AP)—National guardsmen resorted to tear gas bombs here early today to quell riotous demonstrations growing out of fights between strikers and present employees of the American Glatzstoff and Bemberg textile mills. Three hours earlier the water main serving Elizabethton and the mills had been dynamited.

Over 100 picketers were rounded up by the guardsmen and marched to the Carter county court house where they were held under guard, charged with blocking the highways and intimidating workers.

The severing of the water main occurred at 3 a. m. and cut off the entire water supply of the city, but the rayon mills fell back on an auxiliary water system and were operating.

Sheriff J. M. Moreland arrested George Crow, whom he said had warned him last night that the water main would be dynamited.

Sheriff Moreland, later in the day said that a man had told him that Crow dynamited the water main and that Crow's arrest was the direct result of that statement. The sheriff declined to give the informant's name.

Elizabethton, Tenn., May 16.—(AP)—The water main serving Elizabethton and the American Bemberg and Glatzstoff rayon plant which were forced to close April 15 by a strike of 5,000 workers, was dynamited early today. A detachment of national guardsmen was sent immediately to the scene.

Sheriff J. M. Moreland, who last night requested Adjutant General W. O. Boyd to declare martial law after he said he had heard threats against loyal mill workers and had been told that the water main would be dynamited, could not be reached. Adjutant General Boyd ordered the troops out to preserve order, but would not make any statement as to whom he believed responsible for the dynamiting.

The point where the main was severed is about three miles from Elizabethton.

The rayon plants are equipped with an emergency auxiliary water system, and plant officials said operations, resumed a week ago with a limited force of non-union workers, would not be hindered.

Troops on the night patrol guarding the highway entering the town, arrested three men near the scene just before the explosion occurred on charges of driving without lights. The guardsmen said they were forced to fire at the car before the men would halt.

Orders were sent to a detachment of 120 guardsmen at Johnson City, where they had been stationed during a strike at the American Box Company, to prepare for removal here to supplement the four companies of state troops, sworn as special deputies, already patrolling the rayon strike zone.

Orders Capiases For Two Bankers

Raleigh, N. C., May 16.—(AP)—Capiases for the arrests of W. Linsford Long and W. T. Council, on charges of violating national banking laws had been ordered issued by Judge I. M. Meekins, presiding in Federal Court here today, Marshall R. W. Ward said, however, he did not know when they would be served, and District Attorney I. B. Tucker declined to reveal what bonds would be required of the defendants.

George Green, of Weldon, attorney for Long and Council, said he was prepared to post bond for his clients when informed of the amounts. Mr. Long, a former state senator, was a director of the First National Bank of Roanoke Rapids, and Mr. Council was president at the time of alleged irregularities. Twenty counts are involved in the indictments voted by the grand jury a few days ago.

Recover Body Of Young Man At Marshall

Marshall, N. C., May 16.—(AP)—The body of Bill Tyson, young Marshall man drowned in the French Broad river on Wednesday last week, for whose death "Wild Bill" Anderson is being sought, was found floating on the surface of the water late yesterday afternoon.

The body, found near the mouth of Rock Creek, about half way between Sandy Bottoms, where the youth was drowned, and Hot Springs, was brought to Marshall where the inquest was begun. After hearing part of the testimony, Coroner Frank Roberts continued the hearing until next Saturday.

Youths who saw some object floating on the water, got a boat and recovered it. The body was identified as that of the youth by his father and other relatives, although identification was difficult.

Dr. H. B. Dittmore, who made the examination, discovered breaks on the head, which he said might have been suffered either before or after the young man sank. It is charged by authorities that Tyson was knocked out of the boat in which he was riding with three others, by "Wild Bill" Anderson.

Gilbert had presented a motion for adjournment, signed by fifteen senators, one more than necessary to prevent impeachment of the governor.

Death Toll Reaches 124 In Cleveland Explosion

Cleveland, May 16.—(AP)—The death toll in the Cleveland clinic explosion reached 124 early today. Victims who had sought for their lives through the night succumbed one after another, and physicians predicted that eventually others whose bodies were poisoned with gas would die. There is little hope for them, they said.

The gas had attacked the blood, they said, slowly destroying red corpuscles and bringing death nearer as it worked. The victims were compared to the "walking gas cases" of the world war—gassed soldiers who withstood the imroads of the poison for a few days and then fell over dead.

Some of the survivors were patients, nurses and doctors at the clinic. Others were firemen and policemen who risked their lives in the acrid, yellow smoke to remove the bodies. Some were volunteers who had worked feverishly with them. Physicians said most had but little chance for their lives.

The impossibility of nourishing the blood against the attacks of the gas points to death in the more serious cases, the physicians declared. Administration of oxygen and blood transfusions already have failed in some instances.

Such a case was that of Dr. John Phillips, one of the founders of the clinic. Two tanks of oxygen were used but he collapsed after walking some distance to his home from the clinic. This recourse having failed, Dr. George W. Crile, co-founder and head of the clinic, performed a blood transfusion upon his colleague. In spite of everything that could be done for him he died.

Six similar cases were recorded at Mount Sinai Hospital last night, three of the victims who had left the charred clinic with no apparent effects of the noxious fumes. One was Miss Ella Moeller, stenographer at the clinic who jumped from a window and went home, believing she was untouched.

Later she fell ill and went to Mt. Sinai. She laughed and talked while waiting for treatment and then collapsed. A blood transfusion was ordered with the hope that what seemed the inevitable might be averted.

The other two patients were a fireman and a woman who entered the clinic just as the first blast occurred. She got a whiff of the gas, returned to her home thankful to have escaped death, and then felt the ominous effects of the fatal fumes. All three underwent blood transfusions.

Physicians said that although all of the victims may not die, many seemed certain to succumb eventually. The fatal results of inhaling the gas might be delayed for hours, perhaps longer, they said, but slowly the red blood corpuscles might combine with carbon monoxide instead of oxygen, and the end would be inescapable.

The gas was identified by Dr. William E. Lower, one of the chiefs of the clinic, as nitrous peroxide, released by burning x-ray film. The celluloid preparation was fired in an undetermined way in a basement store room.

An explosion of the pent-up gas that rocked the building followed. It filled the building with gas and as the compression increased a second and larger blast demolished much of the interior and set the woodwork aflame.

More than 300 persons were in the building when the first explosion came at 11:25 o'clock in the morning. Some escaped before the fumes reached them. Others died in (Continued on Page Two)

Two persons have been held since the latter part of last week, Cora Anderson and Zack Ramsey said to have been in the boat at the time the youth was drowned, said Tyson was knocked out of the boat by Anderson, who disappeared a short time afterwards.

Anderson is believed to be in the mountains, and officers believe he will be captured soon.

SETTLEMENT OF S. C. MILL STRIKE SEEN

Conclusion Of Difficulties At Brandon Mills More Likely Now Than Ever.

Greenville, S. C., May 16.—(AP)—Settlement of the Brandon Corporation textile strike is now more likely than at any time in the seven weeks since the operatives walked out, and it is possible that a settlement will be reached this week, H. E. Thompson, secretary of the state board of conciliation said here today.

"Certain" neutral interests, Mr. Thompson said, have been active during the last few days and they are hopeful that success will crown their efforts. These interests, it is understood, are widely known business men, some of whom are familiar with the textile interests but who have the welfare of the Piedmont section as their first consideration.

In the event a settlement is reached, Mr. Thompson said, it will be on a "give and take" basis. Both the mill management and the operatives have indicated a willingness to make some concessions.

"Only the events of the next few days can tell," said Mr. Thompson, "but I think it most likely that we will reach a settlement this week. Certainly the outlook is brighter now than at any time since the strike began."

Mr. Thompson was in conference today with two disinterested business men who have been active during the last few days in doing all possible to bring about a settlement. Much progress has been made as a result of these conferences, he said, and many points at issue appear to have been solved to the satisfaction of both sides.

The Brandon strike started March 27 at Brandon mill and was followed the next day by the walkout of Prinsett and Brandon Duck mill employees. The 900 employees of the Woodruff mill also walked out a day or two later. Since that time the 2,700 operatives have been idle. Negotiations were entered into at first but until today no evidence of progress toward a satisfactory settlement had come from any source.

SAYS ATTEMPT WAS MADE TO BUY THE POST

Washington Editor Gives Testimony In Federal Commission's Power Probe.

Washington, May 16.—(AP)—Richard Crozier, editor and publisher of the Boston, Mass., Post, testified today before the Federal Trade Commission that a Boston advertising man, who claimed to represent the power interests of Samuel Insull last February made an offer of $20,000,000 in cash to buy the Post.

Appearing in connection with the commission's inquiry into financial interests in newspapers by public utilities, Crozier declared his managing editor, C. D. Garberry, in making a report on the bid, said the offer was "nine tenths bluff."

The publisher added he was the sole proprietor of the Post. The offer, Crozier continued, was made by Charles O'Malley, at a conference February 17, 1929, with Garberry, who made a report on the proposal to him. O'Malley is scheduled to appear before the commission tomorrow.

The Post publisher declined to read the whole report of Garberry, declaring "it was a reflection on my contemporaries."

Crozier said the Post was not for sale and "we didn't consider O'Malley's offer seriously as we thought he was talking through his hat."

In Garberry report, which Crozier read, O'Malley was quoted as saying the Insull interests "already had purchased the Indianapolis News and other newspaper." O'Malley, the report added, also ascertained the power interests were trying to buy fifty or sixty newspapers and Garberry in his report said, "The people simply won't stand for such a bold scheme."

In his report Garberry said O'Malley made the offer of $20,000,000 in cash and claimed he (O'Malley) "would put through the deal in a month."

Crozier also testified concerning two conferences between himself and one of his associates, Dr. E. Wingate, Sunday editor of the Post, with Chairman Fox, former governor of Massachusetts, concerning purchases of the Post and other Boston newspapers. Both conferences with Cox, he said, occurred in the fall of last year. Cox also is scheduled to appear before the commission.

On October 13, 1928, Crozier said he and Wingate talked to Cox concerning "long apparent rumors that the Boston Herald and the Traveler were to be sold," and also a report that Governor Cox was to take charge of the two newspapers.

Later Crozier continued, he sent Wingate to see Cox to inform him that if the reports were true the Post would be interested in making an offer for the Traveler. At a second conference in December Crozier said Cox asked Wingate about reports that some persons were trying to buy the Post, and told him Sunday Post editor "that his interests wanted to be in on it."

Crozier said Cox in his conversation declared that "rather than have the paper (Post) go to outsiders if it were to be sold they would be interested."

Asked if the Insull interests owned any Boston newspapers, the witness said to his knowledge they did not but he had "heard a lot of rumors" to this effect. He repeated he knew nothing more than "common street gossip" which he indicated tended to show such ownership.

Frank D. Comerford of Boston, vice-president and director of the International Paper and Power Company, was the next witness. He said he became president of the New England Power Association in November, 1927, an organization of which Archibald R. Graustein president of the International Company, is chairman of the executive committee.

New York, May 16.—(AP)—Informed today that the dirigible Graf Zeppelin had cast off for its flight to America with his wife among the passengers, Henry Pierce, of Park avenue, a stock broker, exclaimed, "that's terrible."

Mr. Pierce spent about $500 in trans-Atlantic telephone and cable tolls and invited the assistance of the state department in a little effort to dissuade his wife from making the air crossing.

He said he would "not be able to stop a wink" until the ship landed and announced his intention to go to Lakehurst to meet it.

DEATH TOLL REACHES 124 IN CLEVELAND EXPLOSION

(Associated Press)

frantic flight, their bodies strewn the stairways and floors. Many died after reaching the open air and still some succumbed in hospitals.

A constant stream of ambulances hurried between the clinic and nearby hospitals, and other convoys bore the dead to the county morgue. There they lay while long lines of persons passed the bodies; many of them stretched in lines along the floor. The building was taxed to capacity.

As the bodies were identified they were removed but the long queue, silent and sorrowful, passed through the mortuary until late last night. Today several of the victims remained unidentified.

Official investigation from several quarters today turned toward learning the cause for the explosions. Deputy state fire marshals and representatives of the state division of the catastrophe.

Both the Cleveland police and fire departments organized their own inquiries, and City Manager William R. Hopkins declared he would devote his offices to determining reasons for the explosions. Coroner A. J. Pearce laid plans for an inquest as soon as the dead are identified and Dr. George W. Crile, head of the clinic, declared he too would attempt to learn the origin of the fire which ignited the film and released the gas.

Much official interest in the investigations was turned to the steel fire door to the storage compartment. Officials had been unable to learn whether this door had been left open or was blown out by the force of the bursting film.

The open door released the flames and sent the spiraling columns of mustard-colored gas up through the roof.

The gas reached the foyer on the second floor through the stair cases. There it rose through the open center of the building to the roof, penetrating to examining rooms in the clinic from the balconies which opened on the foyer below.

After the first explosion, firemen concluded the gas swept upward and filled the building. Pen in, with compression increasing as the heat intensified, the gas exploded a second time. It leaped in flames from the basement to the foyer skylight, searing woodwork, blasting masonry and enveloping the interior in an inferno of stench and heat.

The skylight was shattered and glass from the windows was hurled across the street. The doors entered with steel buckled under the terrific suction of air as the gas was released.

Then came the confusion. The swirling brown clouds, nauseating and made heavier by the sickening smell of burning celluloid enveloped the building. The fire soon spent itself, but the clouds of gas, smoke and odor of burning chemical clung to the building hours after the fire was extinguished.

It happened so quickly that few had opportunity to escape. It was past so soon that within an hour and a half all the bodies had been removed. Firemen said the loss to the building, despite the number of dead would not be more than $50,000.

The fire door leading from the x-ray room in the clinic, where the first explosion occurred, had been left open, state fire wardens investigating the tragedy announced today. The warden's statement read: "The fire door leading to the room where the celluloid x-ray plates were stored and where the first explosion occurred, had been left open. If this door had been closed the disaster might have been averted."

HUGE GERMAN DIRIGIBLE DEVELOPS MOTOR TROUBLE AND HEADS TOWARDS HOME

tar indicated that an almost extreme southerly great circle course probably would be followed, the distance to be covered thus approaching 7,500 miles as against a 4,000 mile minimum distance of the northern great circle course were followed.

Passengers and members of the ship's crew began to arrive at the dirigible's hangar shortly after five o'clock. The gorilla was taken on board first.

Mrs. Pierce was one of the first at the field. She was attired in beige traveling costume, straw hat trimmed with feathers, tan shoes and silk stockings. The silk stockings, however, she changed for woolen golf hose upon the advice of a newspaper correspondent.

Her French maid brought her a small bag which contained a costly brown fur coat.

"I do hope I'll see you again," the maid said with a catch in her voice.

Mrs. Pierce replied: "Oh! certainly, and don't forget to send the messages I told you to send."

Mrs. Pierce's decision to make the trip was believed here never to have been changed after her purchase of passage Tuesday, although to relieve anxiety of relatives in America she had it reported she had canceled her booking and she herself sent messages to America saying she was not going. To other relatives in New York, however, she cabled to expect her for Sunday dinner.

"I hope you all told your papers I'm not going," she told several American correspondents. "Won't my relatives be surprised when I drop in on them after all. I only hope I can alight unobserved from the gondola and slip away without anyone seeing me. I've got it all fixed. There will be an automobile awaiting me at Lakehurst which will speed me away." The chief concern seemed to be whether she was dressed warmly enough for her journey.

Dr. Eckener was the last aboard the Zeppelin. At 5:56 he gave the command to start the motors and the next moment the dirigible was on its way.

All the windows on the starboard side were lined with faces, whose owners waved their hands in answer to the "Hoos" of the crowd below.

As the dirigible was taken from its hangar another stowaway—the

CONGRESS SEES HOPE OF SUMMER VACATION

Washington, May 16.—(AP)—Hopes for a summer vacation for most members of Congress were raised today by the progress made in negotiations to avert the threatened controversy between the Senate and House over the former's right to initiate export debenture legislation in the farm relief bill.

The outcome apparently rested with the Republican steering committee of the House, which was called upon today to decide whether the bill should be received as passed by the Senate with the disputed debenture section in it or sent back on the ground that only the House has the constitutional right to initiate such legislation.

Speaker Longworth and other House leaders were inclined to favor the former course in view of the emergency nature of the legislation and the probability of a long controversy if it were turned back. At the same time, they were convinced that the Senate had invaded the right of the House to initiate revenue legislation.

CHILDREN OF PRIMARY GRADES TO PRESENT OPERETTA TOMORROW

The children of the first three grades of the Greenville public schools will present the operetta "In a May Day Garden," tomorrow evening at the high school auditorium at 7:45 o'clock.

This operetta has been prepared by Miss Grace Van Dyke Moore, head of the public school music department of North Carolina College for Women, and is especially suited to small children.

The scene is a garden ready for May Day celebration with the May Queen's throne, etc. Children are playing in the garden. They skip out to hang up their May baskets. The Brownies enter and perform many pranks. Later the little fairies tiptoe into the garden and cast a spell over the flowers so that they can sing for the May Queen on the following day.

Act two is the May frolic. The surbeams wake up the flowers. The queen enters with her attendants and is royally entertained by the children. The flowers sing, the clowns dance, the toy band plays, the children play singing games, etc.

A chorus of over one hundred children will furnish the musical numbers.

Every teacher in the primary grades has assisted in preparing this program. No admission will be charged.

MORGANTON MAN KILLED IN FIGHT LAST NIGHT

Morganton, N. C., May 16.—(AP)—Walker Jaynes, 22, is dead and Dan Ollis, charged with killing him, was taken from jail to a hospital today because of wounds received in a fist fight staged at the Ollis home, nine miles west of here last night.

Four other men, alleged to have engaged in the fight following an argument over a fountain pen, were slightly hurt. Ollis' wife was injured by a blow during the melee.

John and Bob Baliye and Homer Simpson, all connected with a filling station on Highway No. 10, west of Morganton, went with Jaynes to the Ollis home last night to borrow a fountain pen from one of Ollis' daughters. One of them is alleged to have struck the girl on the head with a flashlight precipitating the fight.

Ollis is alleged to have secured a gun from the house and to have shot Jaynes. Jaynes died on the way to a hospital here. Ollis' head was bruised and cut.

Ollis is slated for a preliminary hearing next Tuesday. He claims self-defense.

Hams—Hams—Hams.

A golden opportunity for a famous Onslow county ham. Don't neglect. I am off today to the finest fields of these famous hams and will secure the best to be had if possible. Speaking about neglect and carelessness, I am forcibly reminded of an instance that happened in my career that was possibly a turning point in my life to my good and all that meant best for me. I don't care to be personal in advertising, but once upon a time, a charming, beautiful little widow when I braced up nerve and courage enough to ask her to be mine, she lowly whispered, I will if you will only be true and good—and a little neglect and carelessness another fellow captivated her and I am lonely today without her and many times I have sighed for one glance of her eye.

About forty-five years ago I happened to be a freshman in Dr. Thomas Hume's class (professor of English), at Chapel Hill. Many a time, as others remember, I have seen him rap on his desk and speak out in thunder tones. You insignificant, careless, and neglectful freshmen, you are missing the golden opportunity of your life, by not having your recitations prepared. You owe it to your guardian and to your parents to awaken and be up and doing. You are missing the golden opportunity of your life.

Dr. Thomas Hume got 'em told of their golden opportunity, many of the best men of the state, namely, Gov. Charles B. Aycock, who fell in Birmingham, Ala., (poussing the cause of education, who said that every child should have and take advantage of an education, regardless of financial conditions, race or color, to make North Carolina a great state; Dr. E. A. Alexander, native North Carolinian, once president of the University of North Carolina, later president of Tulane University, New Orleans, now president of the University of Virginia at Charlottesville; Dr. Charles D. McIver, who established the Normal Industrial Female College at Greensboro, the greatest female college in the state and probably in the whole south, who said that every mother, the head of a family should have an education. Last but not least, our own Dr. R. H. Wright, president of East Carolina Teachers College, the educational center of Eastern North Carolina, and our own Mayor, J. C. Lanier, all of them. Dr. Thomas Hume got 'em told of the golden opportunities of the state of North Carolina.

People of Greenville and Piv county, the greatest bright leaf tobacco county in the world, although it may come from a humble source, if you have not acquired one of these hams, and when they are so delicious, so appetizing and so good, you are missing a golden opportunity. Call

ABOUT TOWN

The proposed road to be built through Wake Forest to the east should go through Zebulon instead of Spring Hope, firmly declared a member of the Rotary club, who heard the proposition outlined last Monday night.

The State Highway Commission should give the matter the attention which it so surely deserves. It would not only result in an enormous financial saving but would serve far more people than would be served should the road be run through Spring Hope.

Hard surfaced roads are expensive and they should cross those sections of the country where the most people can be served. The road now under consideration through Wake Forest presents a question for much thought and the State Highway Commission will no doubt give it deserving consideration.

"Next Monday night will be Ladies' Night with the local Rotary club," said a member today, "and we are planning a program that will outlast anything in previous years."

"The Rotas have always given more than passing attention to Ladies' Night and nothing is left undone to make it a memorable occasion. Plans have been under way for sometime on this year's program and the wives and sweethearts who attend next Monday night will find plenty of entertainment."

"Three or four loving cups will be offered at the State Convention of the Merchants Association to be held in Hickory soon," said a member of the Greenville association today, "and we are going up there with the intention of bringing back most of them."

"The first cup we are going to try for is that given for attendance. While we are not sure how many members are going to attend from here, it is believed that a majority of our membership will be represented. In that case we shall stand a pretty fair chance of returning home with the bacon."

"The other cups will be awarded from the standpoint of some particular service rendered during the year, and as we have been active along all lines, we are going to make strong bids for them."

"The president of Peabody College is going to deliver the commencement address at East Carolina Teachers College," observed a citizen this morning.

"The college always has a speaker of prominence for its final address and the coming of the head of Peabody College will be greeted with interest on all sides."

"Closing exercises are always looked forward to with interest by Greenville people and this year will be no exception."

"I was glad to hear of the proposal to establish a radio broadcasting station in the town of Greenville," asserted an out-of-town map today.

"You people ought to be able to put on an interesting program here almost every night. It ought not be long before you would have people tuning in on Greenville from many of the surrounding communities. It would not only be good advertising for the city, but would enable the outside world to keep in more intimate touch with local happenings."

"With the growth your town is making at this time it is nothing but natural that you should desire to expand in proportion along other lines. And nothing is more significant of growth than establishment of advertising mediums such as is represented by a broadcasting station."

GOLD BULLETS

by Charles G. Booth

SYNOPSIS: Discovery of a famous gold-mounted pistol in Andrew Ogden's home after his murder develops the theory that the wealthy civic leader had been, 30 years before, adventurer and overlord of Torridity, Alex Peterson. Stunned by the revelation, John Peebles, Ogden's intimate friend, still insists that the blackmailer Dillon, and not Ogden's son, Jerry, is the murderer. Peebles' niece, Lucy, engaged Luther MacNair, famous detective, to prove her fiancé innocent, but MacNair also supports the police theory of Jerry's guilt.

Chapter 16.

ON JERRY'S TRAIL

There was nothing else to be done, and so we followed Deacon from the Ogden home. I put the car in the garage and MacNair came into the house with me. Mrs. Moffit had got a fire crackling in the den and I put his back to the blaze while I sat down at the desk and began to pencil in the little red notebook. MacNair watched me, his ironic look tempered by amusement.

"Jerry Ogden was seen racing toward Skull Valley"

"Crews?" he inquired when I had done.

"In a way," I admitted. "I thought I might be able to supplement your conclusions with one or two of my own."

"Good idea! Two heads are better than one. Well, I must be off."

"No, indeed!" I exclaimed, standing up. "You must have dinner with us."

He laughed. "You tempt me. I have an indifferent cook."

"Mine is the best best in San Felipe. You will stay?"

"Thanks. I will."

The meal wasn't especially lively, although both Mrs. Moffit and Lucy did their best, and I must admit MacNair was interesting in his gold-blooded way. But his twisted outlook and his ironical philosophy of life took from our intercourse that spontaneity which always graces my table. I suppose the trapping of one's fellow beings discourages the social instinct. He and I had a pleasant hour in my den, though, and I found him able to tell me a good many things about small firearms.

When he had gone, Lucy came in. Dropping on a stool at my feet, she leaned her dark head against my knees. My fingers were soon stroking her sleek black hair. A common sadness of spirit suffused us and neither of us spoke for a little while.

"There's no word?" Lucy whispered presently.

"None," I said, huskily, and she pressed her head hard against my knee.

When she looked up I tried to avoid her eyes, but there must have been some magnetic quality in the look she turned on me for I felt my eyes drawn down to hers. Her expression tore my heart and I had to blow my nose violently before I felt equal to recounting what had transpired during the day.

"You still believe in him, Uncle John?"

"My dear child! Of course I believe in him!"

"And—you don't think—anything—dreadful could have happened to him?"

I sensed the terror leaping in her breast, but I kept my voice steady.

"Certainly not! He'll turn up in a day or two."

She nestled softly against me then. In her tender moments Lucy is inexpressibly dear to me.

I must admit I am getting on for the sort of thing that began at breakfast the next morning. Nothing like it had come my way in 10 years or more and it surprises me that I carried on to the end as well as I did. Probably my pride in the audacious thing Lucy was to do, re-kindled the fires of my vanished youth, for I have the timid man's admiration of daring. How intensely vivid a woman's love for a man may become! The miracle of it leaves me a little breathless even now.

The horn of MacNair's car sounded in front of the house and I hurried out in my slippers.

"I am going to Los Angeles," he announced curtly.

"Have you got word of something?" I asked eagerly.

His face was inscrutable. "I don't know, yet. It may not amount to anything."

"Well, silence is the prerogative of the Holmes tribe. You have a fine car, MacNair. Just ten miles over the 5,000-mark," I observed, with a glance at the speedometer.

He nodded. "It's fairly speedy. I expect to be back tomorrow."

"Somebody wants to speak to Captain Deacon," Lucy announced from the door of my den.

"He's not here. Why didn't you stop?" Her eyes were fixed on me anxiously. "What's the matter, child?"

"I don't know—oh, nothing," she whispered. "I didn't—tell him. I thought it might be—something might have happened—he seems excited."

"Nonsense!" I cried, but my old heart thumped a bit. "Deacon must manded crisply. I have been told that my voice over the wire resembles Deacon's. Before I could make my identity known the voice ran on: "Come! Just phoned in they seen Jerry Ogden driving along the Peakella road to Skull Valley night before last!"

I almost dropped the instrument. "This is Peebles, Captain Deacon isn't here yet?"

The floor was rocking beneath me. Jerry... Skull Valley... night before last.

"If you'll leave a message..." I began in a voice strangely unlike my own.

"Tell him to call headquarters. He said he might stop at your place first. Don't forget!"

I stared into the mouthpiece numb with horror. Jerry... Skull Valley... Torridity. Torridity and Andrew's death had come to form a sort of unholy unity. Jerry had gone there... But, why? And why hadn't he returned?

"Good God!" I muttered. "Unless he can explain himself Deacon will bring him back under warrant!" A horrible fear that Jerry might not be able to explain his flight to Deacon's satisfaction, although he would to mine, overwhelmed me.

Jerry fleeing to Torridity—the police on his trail—accused of murder. Another amazing development in tomorrow's chapter.

BUCS BATTER JOLIFF AND WIN ANOTHER

Rocky Mount, May 15.—The veteran arm of Deason Joliff was easy for the Bucs this afternoon, serving them 18 hits, a homer and a pair of doubles in the collection, and the locals took the opener of the series 11-5.

In the second inning the Bucs batted around, touching Joliff for six hits to score four men and take a lead that kept them to the front throughout.

McKay, for the locals, was wild in the earlier innings, but tended down when his mates gave great support and checked the Greens. Cohen's hitting featured. He got four for five, with a homer and a double in the collection, and batted in three men. Vance made a running catch of a hard-hit fly that featured the fielding.

HAGEN-WALES MATCH DRAWS MUCH INTEREST

London, May 16.—(AP)—The prospect of a match between the Prince of Wales and Walter Hagen stirred up lively interest among British golfers today and achieved first page prominence in the morning newspapers. The Prince's handicap is generally understood to be 16, but it is said that his play has shown great improvement lately under the coaching of James Braid and that his handicap has been lowered somewhat as a result.

There is much speculation among golfers concerning what handicap Hagen will concede, one suggestion being that he may offer a stroke a hole.

The Mail today says it has learned that the match is almost certain to be a foursome in which the Prince will have a scratch golfer as his partner.

Greensboro Whips The Durham Bulls

(By the Associated Press)
The Greensboro Patriots pulled up within striking distance of the league-leading Durham Bulls yesterday by downing the Bulls, 1 to 0. A second victory would give the Patriots the top place in Piedmont standing. Jay Turner batted Hank Reid in a mound duel as the Pats copped the contest yesterday. He let the Bulls down with three hits. Reid allowed only five, but Cox and Baker bunched a double and a single on him in the second inning for the Patriot score.

The Rocky Mount Buccaneers increased their lead in the Eastern Carolina League to a full game yesterday by pounding out an 11 to 5, victory over Greenville, while the second-place Goldsboro club was losing a 10-inning game to Fayetteville, 2 to 1.

Henderson broke a seven-game losing streak by beating Winston-Salem, 8 to 3, and High Point nosed out Salisbury, 5 to 4, in the other Piedmont contests.

Wilmington had an easy time trimming Kinston, 6 to 2, in the third Eastern Carolina game. In both leagues today the same opponents meet as yesterday.

MUDDY TRACK FOR THE KENTUCKY DERBY

Louisville, Ky., May 15.—(AP)—Horses that can perform in the muck, and like the sloppy going which may prevail at Churchill Downs Saturday, are objects of the closest attention of handicappers of Kentucky Derby candidates.

The track may be heavy, as it has been all this week so far, or it may not. But the question most frequently asked concerning any of the eligibles for the fifty-fifth running of the turf classic is: "Can he perform in the mud?"

Anyway, Windy City, Fred M. Grabner's entry, added a legion of supporters to his train yesterday when he romped to the wire ahead of ten other Derby candidates in the fifth and feature race of the Downs. The Derby candidates moved down by Windy City's impressive performance were Paraphrase, Port Harlem, Nalshapur, Lord Bradelbane, The Choctaw, Ervast, Prince Pat, Sutor, Double Heart and Botanical.

As a result of this contest under colors, it is predicted that a number of additional withdrawals will

REDS RUN OFF WITH THE GIANTS

By WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

John McGraw didn't know what a break he was getting when the Giants put him to bed. After ten pleasantly idle afternoons, he discovered yesterday that he got well too soon. Back at the Polo grounds he saw the Reds skip away with the remains of a two-game series by a score of 12 to 3.

The top heavy total for the Cincinnati expedition was the handiwork of a pair of green campaigners. Joseph Stripp, recently from Columbus, outraged Frederick Fitzsimmons with two home runs while Evar Swanson, from the Pacific slope, contented himself with one.

Fitzsimmons was jerked at the end of the eighth, and the Reds welcomed Joe Genevich with a real merry-go-round in the ninth. Five solid hits produced four runs.

With Dazzy Vance ill, Glenn Wright on his way home and Burleigh Grimes in the box for Pittsburgh, the Robins found a perfect setting for their eighth straight defeat. Babe Herman's homer off Grimes in the fifth with two Robins on base, tied the score at 4 to 4, but the Mirates soon regained command to win by 9 to 4.

While all of this brawling was going on about the metropolis, the Cubs were tomahawking the Braves 7 to 4 at Boston, and the Cards were punching the Phils by 4 to 1. These two contending forces thus remained on even terms at the head of the National League parade.

The Yankees and the Athletics wound up their prospective campaigns in the west with much the same result—a defeat for each—and remained in a close grapple for the lead. The Macks head the champions by half a game, but the Browns are only one full game from the top, in a virtual tie with the amazing Tigers.

Harry Heilmann butted himself into insensibility against a ball held in the iron paw of Nickey Cochran in the ninth inning at Detroit yesterday, but conscious or unconscious, sprawled across the plate with the winning run. The score became valid when Mr. Cochran let go of the ball after the umpire had called Heilmann out. This antic won for the Tigers by 6 to 5.

The Yankees put the Indians to no such extreme in the finale at Cleveland, contenting themselves with Lou Gehrig's eighth home run as the tribe pounded George Pippas and three other Yank slabmen to win by 7 to 1.

The Browns shaded the Senators by 5 to 3 in the get away game, remaining in the thick of the fight, and the White Sox of Chicago nipped their red hosed namesakes from Boston by 8 to 4.

WIND UP AFFAIRS OF WAREHOUSE CORPORATION

Raleigh, N. C., May 16.—(AP)—With creditors paid in full, plus interest, and preferred stock redeemed with dividends, receivers of the Central Warehousing Corporation, a subsidiary of the defunct Tri-State Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, today looked forward to an early winding up of the receivership and their discharge. Assets of $144,500 were turned over to the parent organization by the receivers in Federal Court yesterday, along with a report showing full payment of creditors and holders of preferred stock.

BAD HEADACHES, NERVOUS, UPSET

Virginia Lady Says She Prevents These Troubles by Taking Black-Draught.

Elliston, Va.—“Sometimes I suffer with blinding headaches,” says Mrs. I. G. Conner, of this place. “They come on me after a little spell of constipation and nearly drive me crazy.”

“I get nervous and upset. My color gets yellow and my skin just as sallow. I begin to suffer with a kind of intestinal indigestion, which makes me sick all over, resulting in one of these fearful headaches. I have to give up and go to bed for several days.”

“I have found that if I take Theford's Black-Draught in time, it will prevent a spell of this kind, but if I neglect it I always suffer for my carelessness. That is why I have grown to think so highly of Black-Draught—it keeps me well.”

“We never are without Theford's Black-Draught. A box of it is always kept in our medicine closet. I give it to the children too, when I find that they are bilious or constipated.”

Insist on the genuine Theford's Black-Draught, in yellow packages, plainly marked for your protection. Sold everywhere.

SPORTS SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD

New York, May 16.—(AP)—Batting kings are to be crowned in May but if this month's performances are any criterion, the Major Leagues will have a brace of new rulers in the domain of the royal and ancient wallop.

The kings of 1928, Goose Goslin and Rogers Hornsby, dashed forth with lowered lances in April, apparently ready to ride rough shod through all opposition, but both have slumped badly in the last few weeks. The great rajah, in fact, has had trouble keeping around 300 the last few days, slipping well back in the pounding rapade, but it is too early to count him out altogether. The Goose promises to be honking as effectively as ever, in time to defy all rivals.

Meanwhile new faces take prominence in the slugging procession as the names of Cobb, Spraker and Collins, among others of the old guard, no longer appear. Gehring and Alexander of Detroit, Averill of Cleveland, Lindstrom and Ott of the Athletics, and the celebrated Wagners of Pittsburgh, all are helping supply the new punch, just now Brother Lloyd is outdistancing Brother Paul Waner, but the latter may be expected to hit his real stride at any time.

By precedent this should be

Harry Heilmann's year. He has won the batting crown of the American League in the odd years since 1921 but Handsome Harry has started slowly. He has a race of clouting teammates to beat this year before looking elsewhere for battle laurels.

Baseball packs some of the queerest turns of any sport and this spring is furnishing a flock of good examples.

Barney Friberg, considered a “bust” as an infielder, turned pitcher this spring but when Tommy Thayer was hurt he jumped in at shortstop for the Phillies and has played sensationally.

Up among the “five leading batsmen” of the National League is Frank Frisch, blasting away while the man for whom he was traded after the 1926 season Hornsby, is way down the list; also Andy High, carrying at third for the Cardinals after being cast off by the Robins and Braves; not to overlook Rabbit Maraville, playing brilliantly for the Braves again after being a vital cog in the 1914 championship.

George Uhl changed his Cleveland uniform for Detroit livery and promptly wins six in a row. Sam Gray and Alvin Crower, the Brown pitching aces, were discarded by eastern clubs. Caylor, Hornsby, Stephenson and Wilson, the big four of the Chicago Cub attack, all were traded or released by other big league clubs.

An English air service has made a special rate of $17.50 for week-end trips to Paris and return.

A night airmail service has been inaugurated between Croydon airport, London, and Lee Bourget, Paris.
