THINK BALDWIN IS PLANNING TO QUIT CABINET

Impression Strong In London That Premier Plans To Resign Immediately.

London, June 3.—(AP)—In conference with his colleagues of the cabinet this afternoon, Stanley Baldwin, Prime Minister of England and heads of the Conservative government which has guided the nation since October 1924, decided to tender the resignation of his ministry to the King.

His action, caused by the defeat of the Conservative party in the general election Thursday, is in agreement with constitutional usage and with the advice of powerful Conservative party leaders and most of London, June 3.—(AP)—Although it was stated in authoritative quarters that Premier Baldwin will not announce his course of action until tomorrow, the impression became stronger today that he will resign immediately.

The prime minister spent the week-end at Chequers Court, official country place of British premiers, and was believed to have conferred with leaders of the Conservative party during what may have been his last two days' residence there.

What decision, if any, was reached during these conferences could not be determined. The prime minister has either to surrender the reins of government to Mr. MacDonald, or to reorganize his government and fight it out before Parliament when that body meets June 26, hoping with Liberal help to stave off a vote of no-confidence.

It was no secret that those members of his cabinet who survived Thursday's calamity at the polls were divided as to the proper course. Sir Austen Chamberlain, foreign minister, believed his party should carry on as long as possible. Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, believed the proper and more dignified thing would be to resign at once and let the Laborites have their way.

Public opinion, too, seemed divided, although there was a tendency in evidence, in published expressions and in editorials in the press to favor immediate resignation and formation of a labor government.

Hardly less than the riddle presented by Mr. Baldwin was that offered in the person of David Lloyd George, the canny Welshman whose politics have influenced the British government so much in the past. He appeared that he and his followers, with full realization of the important role they play as holders of the balance of power, will remain silent as to their intentions until the prime minister has shown his hand.

Meanwhile, there were several interesting reports current, among them one that Sir Oswald Mosley, the young baronet who married Lord Curzon's daughter, Cynthia, would be the labor minister for foreign affairs to replace Sir Austen Chamberlain. Sir Oswald is a patriotic laborite and has worked unceasingly for his adopted cause.

Lady Cynthia is the granddaughter of Levi Z. Leliter, pioneer Chicago merchant. Her mother was Mary Curzon, famous Chicago belle, later Lady Mary Curzon. She herself just won a seat in the Commons.

Another report was that Premier Baldwin would relinquish leadership of the Conservative party. The Sunday Dispatch, one of Lord Rothermere's papers, suggested he might well ask himself whether he should continue as its leader. It then added that the only conceivable successor was Neville Chamberlain, a brother-in-law of Sir Austen, who in the general slump of Conservative vote totals last Thursday won his own constituency by a large majority.

One of ten unreported seats was placed in the Conservative column with completed returns Sunday, leaving but nine seats uncertain.

The standing now is: Labor, 287; Conservatives, 254; Liberals, 57; Nationalists, 3; Independents, 4; Prohibitionist, 1. Total, 606.

Gastonia Man Is Killed By Nephew

Gastonia, N. C., June 3.—(AP)—J. Oscar Smith, 48, was shot and instantly killed about midnight last night by his nephew, Amos Smith, 20, during a quarrel and fight said to have started over money matters.

Young Smith, held in the county jail on a charge of murder after having waived preliminary hearing, was said to have admitted the killing but would say nothing beyond the fact that his uncle would have killed him had he not fired the fatal shot.

NEAR FINAL REPARATIONS SETTLEMENT

Last Question Standing in Way Of Settlement Headed For Solution Today.

Paris, June 3.—(AP)—With the important problem of German marks in Belgium shortly to reach the stage of active negotiations, the last question standing in the way of complete accord on reparations today seemed headed for solution.

The experts, while apparently marking time pending the negotiations between Germany and Belgium regarding redemption of German marks, were just putting the finishing touches on their report as far as can be done before complete agreement is reached.

News from Berlin that Dr. Ritter, a ministerial director, was about to start for Paris, to meet the Belgian plenipotentiary, M. Gutt, brought relief to the tense situation that existed since the experts came to an agreement on all other points.

There were good prospects, in the opinion of well informed circles that the Germans and Belgians would reach an agreement and make possible signing of the report before the end of the week. It was even thought that Owen D. Young, Thomas W. Lamont and Thomas N. Perkins, the American experts, might be able to catch the Aquitania on Friday. J. P. Morgan, the fourth American expert, already has left Paris.

The financial settlement on which the experts have agreed involves annuities averaging 2,350,000,000 marks (about $492,000,000) for 37 years, of 1,700,000,000 (about $408,000,000) for 21 years, and a final annuity of 900,000,000 marks (about $216,000,000) in the 59th year. The sum would have an eventual value of 122,450,000,000 marks (about $30,388,000,000), or a present or capital value of less than $9,000,000,000.

Commencement Exercises Continue At The College

Commencement exercises continued at East Carolina Teachers College yesterday in spite of the rain. The graduating exercises of the Senior Normal group were completely rained out at six o'clock Saturday. These exercises were to take place on the front campus, at which time the class was to present to the college a new flag pole.

The graduating exercises of the four year graduates were held in the new auditorium at 7 p. m., at which the class gave a glimpse into the future and drawing on their imagination they gave several scenes that they predict will take place in 1942. A new Dorothy Dix gave advice as to how to gain and retain a husband.

CHICAGO MAN BADLY BEATEN BY GANGSTERS

Druggist Dumped, Bruised And Bleeding, From Car After Being Kidnapped.

Chicago, June 3.—(AP)—Kidnaped, tortured with glass and burning cigarettes, then dumped bruised and bleeding from an automobile, Matthew Zimmerman, a druggist, had a story to tell today.

He staggered into his home yesterday suffering from scores of burns and cuts, the latter having been inflicted by pieces of jagged glass slashed across his body by his captors in an effort to make him tell about a still he knew nothing of.

Zimmerman told police he was kidnaped Tuesday night when he answered the hail of several men who addressed him as 'mate.' Lured to their car, he was seized, blindfolded and driven to a shack he believed to have been near Gary, Ind., where the men immediately demanded that he tell where the still was.

His captors called him 'Matt Daly' or 'Matt Diligo' Zimmerman said, and scoffed when he insisted they had mistaken his identity. To force him to talk, the men stripped him and cut his flesh with cigarettes. Zimmerman said, he begged them to kill him.

Saturday night another member of the gang came to the hut. After looking at the captive, the newcomer cursed the others and declared:

"You've got the wrong man." "The men blindfolded me again," Zimmerman related, "and put me back in their car. A little later they threw me out near Hammond, after telling me I was lucky to be alive."

Police are investigating a theory that Zimmerman was mistaken for one of the notorious Aiello brothers, reputed bootleggers, distillers and gang leaders. "Aiello" and not "Diligo," police believe, might have been the name by which the men addressed Zimmerman.

Graphically portraying the human face as an index to the soul, Dr. E. C. Lynch, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Wilson, N. C., delivered the baccalaureate sermon before the graduating class of the Greenville high school last night. The speaker declared that the making of the human face is of vital consideration of every man, woman and child, and urged his hearers not to be forgetful of his facets in the moulding of their destinies.

The services marked the beginning of the annual commencement exercises of the public schools of this city, and were attended by an audience that filled the main auditorium of the new high school building almost to capacity.

The finals will be continued with Class Day exercises at the high school tonight at 8 o'clock. Tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock grammar graduates will be received into the high school. The speaker for this occasion will be Senator M. K. Blount, member of the North Carolina legislature from this county. The concluding exercises will be conducted Tuesday night at eight o'clock in the campus building of the East Carolina Teachers college. This will be in the nature of graduating exercises of the senior class. There will be no literary speaker for this occasion, but several speeches will be delivered by members of the class.

Aside from the annual sermon, the services last night were marked by a procession by the high school orchestra during which members of the graduating class filed across the stage and down to the front of the auditorium where special seats had been set aside for them. In vocation was pronounced by Rev. F. C. Harden pastor of the Presbyterian church. The high school chorus rendered, "The King of Love My Shepherd Is." The speaker of the evening read several passages from the Scriptures, "Come Thou Almighty King" was sung with the congregation taking part.

After the sermon, "Now the Day is Over," from Shelley, was rendered by the high school chorus under direction of Miss Lotta Veazey, director of public school music. Dr. Lynch was introduced in a brief way by Prof. J. A. Keech, principal of the high school. The speaker used as his subject, "Making Faces." His text was taken from a part of the ninth verse of the third chapter of Isaiah, "The show of their countenance doth witness against them."

Admitting that his subject might be the slightest bit sensational and odd for such an occasion, Dr. Lynch declared it would not appear that way after a complete exposition of the theme. He called attention of his hearers to the different types of faces seen on the streets from day to day. Some of these faces bear marks of sin and corruption, of greed and avarice, of joy and pleasure, of beauty and wisdom, he said, each reflecting the type of soul of the individual.

TAPP HEADS WAREHOUSE ASSOCIATION

Kinston Man Elected President In Final Session Here Saturday Afternoon.

Senator L. P. Tapp, of Kinston, was elected president of the Eastern Carolina Warehouse Association, during the final session of the organization held in this city last Saturday afternoon. He succeeds B. B. Sugg, of Greenville, who served for a period of one year.

Other officers elected were: Mr. Ferrell, of Wilson, vice-president, and Hunter Fleming of Kinston, re-elected vice-president.

The next session of the organization will be held at Kinston.

The Association also drafted a resolution asking the United States Tobacco Association for permission to open the markets of this belt August 20th, or not later than August 27th. The resolution will be presented at the annual meeting of the Tobacco Association at Virginia beach on June 20th.

In the detailed report of the morning session carried in the columns of the Reflector Saturday afternoon it was stated that J. C. Eagles, of Wilson, responding to the address of welcome declared that Greenville's 25 per cent increased tobacco sales the last four years bespoke a harmonious spirit of endeavor and co-operation among the warehousemen and the citizens in general. All of this was correct except the "25" percent. It should have been "250" percent, but the missing figure got left out in the hurry and bustle of getting to press on time.

KING OBSERVES 64 BIRTHDAY LYING IN BED

British Monarch Reported Suffering From Abscess at Old Lung Incision.

Windsor, Eng., June 3.—(AP)—Numerous congratulations were received by King George today in honor of his 64th birthday.

The king, again in bed because of the formation of an abscess on the site of his recent operation, passed a good night and is looking forward to next year's derby even though his illness will prevent his attendance at the great derby this week.

Windsor, England, June 3.—(AP)—King George V. celebrated his 64th birthday, wrapped up in bed in the Victoria tower of Windsor castle.

The abscess at the old lung incision was not serious, his doctors said and was taking a normal course. But, appearing as it did eight days ago, it added a doleful note to festivities which had been planned as Thanksgiving at his majesty's recovery from his illness of last winter. This was the first time he had spent his birthday at Windsor since he came to the throne 19 years ago.

Little change was made in plans for the formal celebrations planned in London. The colorful "trooping to colors" by the selected guards regiments remained in traditional style, the difference being that the king was at Windsor and that 21-gun salute therefore was Windsor's rather than London's.

The king's birthday honors' list was one of the most notable he ever has issued. Five new peers were created, and three elevations in peerage given. Five new privy councillors were created with eleven baronets, knights bachelor and knights of various orders. Each of the physicians who attended the king during his winter's illness was honored.

SENTENCE IN SINCLAIR CASE UPHELD TODAY

Supreme Court Sustains Sentence Given In Jury Shadowing Charges.

Washington, June 3.—(AP)—The sentences imposed upon Harry F. Sinclair, Henry Mason Day and W. Sherman Burns for having the Fall-Sinclair Teapot Dome jury shadowed, were upheld today by the supreme court, but the fifteen days sentence of William J. Burns was disapproved.

Justice McReynolds delivered the opinion of the court which was unanimous except that Justice Stone who was attorney-general during some of the oil lease litigation took no part.

Pointing out that the defense contended that the evidence failed to show the detectives had established contact with any of the jurors, the opinion said "we cannot accept this view."

It probably would destroy the power of courts adequately to protect themselves—to enforce their rights of self preservation, it continued.

"Suppose, for example some litigant should endeavor to shoot a juror while sitting in the box during progress of the case," He might escape punishment for contempt if some quick witted attendant quietly thwarted the effort and kept the circumstances secret until the trial had ended."

LEVEE BLOWS OUT TODAY ON MISSISSIPPI

City Of Greenville Thrown Into Panic; Many Flee From Homes Fearing Flood

Greenville, Miss., June 3.—(AP)—The city of Greenville was thrown into a panic today by a blowout in the Mississippi River levee at Land Poe, one mile and a half south of the city and a thousand men were working frantically at noon today to close the situation, while another thousand were on their way to the scene.

People were fleeing Greenville in fear of another flood similar to 1927 and storekeepers and housewives were piling their possessions above the 1927 water level. Engineers in command have thrown all

LINDBERGH IS BELIEVED OFF ON YACHT TRIP

Captain Rounds Reports Landing Of Noted Flier At Block Island Saturday

New London, Conn., June 3.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and his bride, who was Miss Anne Morrow, went to sea for their honeymoon. On their new 36-foot motor boat Mouette they have been cruising in Long Island sound. Tying up nights in the week which has elapsed since their marriage, at some dock or stake, in a quiet harbor along the Long Island shore.

Just at present it is believed the Mouette is off the tip of Long Island, heading for New York.

On Saturday afternoon a new boat with a tall, light-haired young man at the wheel, put in at Block Island for gas and oil, and Captain Louis Rounds of the motor boat, Elizabeth Ann, gave him a helping hand to tie up. In the pilot house there was an exchange of seafaring.

New London, Conn., June 3.—(AP)—Captain Louis Rounds, of the motor boat Elizabeth Ann, said today that he had assisted a man who identified himself as Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, tie up at a yacht at Block Island last Saturday afternoon.

The colonel, Captain Rounds said, was wearing dark glasses to conceal his identity. He had stopped to take on gasoline and water and was quoted as telling Captain Rounds he was on his way to Boston to pick up a party of four.

The yacht was a 38-foot motor double cabin vessel called "Mouette" of New York.

New York, June 3.—(AP)—Charles A. Lindbergh bought a 38 foot double cruiser motor yacht named Mouette two weeks ago, one week before it was married and set forth on his honeymoon.

This was authoritatively learned today although the Elco boat works of Bayonne, N. J., builders of the yacht, said the would not say anything about the matter.

W. H. Chase, manager of the Elco Works, was asked about the sale and why it had been kept secret.

"I am very sorry," he said, "but I am unable to confirm the report of a sale of the Mouette to Col. Lindbergh."

"You don't deny it, do you?" he was asked.

"Oh, no," he replied. "I am merely unable to say anything about it. The Mouette is a standard 38 foot double cabin cruiser recently built here, sold not on order of anyone. It was sold from our showrooms, but I am not at liberty to say who the purchaser was."

"The Mouette is a very unpretentious yacht, constructed for owner operation. It sells for $17,500 and has a speed between 15 and 17 miles an hour. There is a stateroom aft with sleeping accommodations for two, a bridge deck forward of this with all the controls and a forward cabin with accommodations for four persons."

Chase said he was unable to say anything about a report that Col. Lindbergh had recently taken instruction in operation of a motor yacht but again would not go so far as to deny this was a fact. Close friends of Lindbergh said that at least until recent months they were sure he knew nothing about motor boats.

Week ago today Col. Lindbergh and Anne Spencer Morrow, daughter of Ambassador to Mexico Dwight W. Morrow, were married at the Morrow home in Englewood, N. J., and slipped into seclusion that was completely unbroken until the Colonel, despite smoked glasses, was recognized by the skipper of a New London, Conn., motor boat who helped him tie the Mouette up at a Block Island dock.

Hail And Wind Cause Damage In Two States

Kansas City, June 3.—(AP)—Torrential rains, hail and wind caused damage amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars in Kansas and Missouri yesterday and last night.

A rain and wind storm at Wichita, Kan., wrecked several buildings and a dozen airplanes at the Municipal and Swallow Factory Airports. The damage approached the $200,000 mark. A Western Air Express trimotored plane, bound from Los Angeles to Kansas City, landed five minutes before the storm struck and was demolished. The plane, valued at $75,000, was the second flight of the new Kansas City-Los Angeles line.

GOLD BULLETS

by Charles G. Booth

SYNOPSIS: The "woman in black"—Mrs. Joe Lundy—the mysterious visitor whom Andre Oeden gave $1,000 a few days before he was slain, is found. Mrs. Moffit, the housekeeper, introduces her to Peebles as a priestess of Oedipus Indulgences. Peebles questions Mrs. Lundy, learns her husband, once the owner of a saloon in Torridity, was shot 30 years ago and has been feeble-minded ever since. The $1,000 check is explained as a gift to her faith. Asked whether she ever knew or heard of Alex Peterson, Mrs. Lundy shouts, "Alex Peterson shot my husband!"

Joe Lundy—soul as shapeless as his face—only the shell is left.

"TEN-TO-ONE" PETERSON
"What!" I shouted, springing to my feet. "Alex Peterson—shot your husband! Nonsense! He was the best friend I ever had!"
"He shot my husband, I tell you!" Mrs. Lundy's bitter emphasis of the words struck me in the face like the blow of a fist and I fell back into my chair. Some influence powerful enough to re-mold Andrew's personality, had come into his life. What right had I to deny the word of one whose tragic life witnessed to its truth?

"Do you know why Alex Peterson shot your husband, Mrs. Lundy?"
"I don't," she replied, in the same bitter tone. "If Joe deserved it, I didn't. Alex Peterson left him for dead. Joe responded to medical treatment and he was brought back to me several weeks later. I have had him—ever since. Thirty years."

The tragedy in her face wrung my heart.
"Did you see Alex Peterson when you were down there?" I asked gently.
"Yes, I saw him. Several times."
"Can you tell me anything about him as he was then?"
She nodded slowly. "Yes, I remember him. He wasn't a man one forget easily. He was fairly tall, supple as wire, and flat hipped. His face had something of the eagle in it—that lean, reckless, fighting look, you know. He always wore an expensive Stetson trimmed with a silver buckle, a white silk shirt, fine riding boots with silver spurs, and two revolvers mounted with gold. The revolvers were loaded with gold bullets. I suppose those decorations would have been ridiculous on any one else; but some how they seemed to fit him."

Mrs. Lundy fell silent and I respected her mood. What an extraordinarily vivid personality Andrew's must have been. What tragic event—for it must have been tragic—had transformed him into the Andrew Oeden I had known?

"Do you happen to know how he came to be called 'Ten-to-One'?"
Mrs. Lundy nodded. "Yes, I heard a good deal about him while I was down there. He made his fortune gambling in mining properties. He was an inveterate gambler—no chance was too great—and he'd risk every dollar he possessed. When he came to Torridity—in 1892, I think it was—he hadn't $10 in money to his name, but he was dressed just as I have described him. Stetson hat with its silver buckle, white silk shirt, those fantastic gold-mounted revolvers, and that cartridge belt stuffed with gold bullets. . . . And not $10 to his name. Can you see the man, Mr. Peebles?"

"Yes, yes," I muttered tensely.
"His young brother, Jerry, came with him—"
"Jerry!" I tried. "His brother! Yes, go on." So it was his brother!
"He swaggere, and my husband's resort. Men were drinking at the bar and watching two scorpions fighting in a coffee can. Scorpions, Mr. Peebles! And they were betting on the result! Peterson treated the audience of this elevating spectacle to my husband's vile liquor; then he bet on the result of the fight. Bet his last dollar, Mr. Peebles—a ten to one. He bet on the smaller scorpion and it won. After that he was never known as anything else but Ten-to-One Peterson."

"He must have made money rapidly," I put in suggestively.
Mrs. Lundy gave me her strange eyes again. "Prosperity comes in floods sometimes—I am told." The bitter drop to her mouth touched me. "Peterson staked out several claims and sold one of them well. After that, he plunged recklessly again and again—and he nearly always won. His fortune and his reputation pyramided together. He became famous—or infamous—from one end of Skull Valley to the other. But the Two Brothers mine—he gave it that name himself—was his most recklessly extravagant venture. He put everything he had into it. Everything, Mr. Peebles! The town had begun to bet on his gambles and it waited breathlessly for Peterson to vindicate his judgment. It needn't have. He won. Nothing could stop him. The Two Brothers paid handsomely. It paid after the other big mines had closed down. It paid until the town was abandoned two years later."

"Peterson became one of the two wealthiest men in Torridity. The other was my husband, Joe Lundy. Joe was a gambler, also, but he gambled in human frailty. How I despised him. It is deadful to have to care for a man you despise, Mr. Peebles! But I have got over that now."

"He eyes closed as if she were trying to shut something out."
"I must tell you about my husband," Mrs. Lundy went on, a little wearily. "In his way he was as striking then as Peterson, though you couldn't have imagined a more dissimilar pair. Joe was large and bulky, and taller than Peterson, but he was so stoop shouldered that he actually seemed shorter. His head was always thrust forward like a lantern hung on a beam, his face was long and irregular and wax-colored. He had bristling black eyebrows that gave him a Satanic expression he was very proud of. His eyes were deep sunken and near-sighted, and he wore a pair of old-fashioned glasses with steel frames and eight-sided lenses."

"Eight-sided lenses!" I ejaculated, and my hand went fumbling to the lens in my pocket.
Mrs. Lundy nodded, but there was a distant look in her strange eyes and I don't think she had noticed my astonishment.

"His soul was as shapeless as his face," she went on in an empty voice. "But he is different now. Only the shell is left."

Mrs. Lundy fell silent again. Her eyes seemed to look straight through me. I was glad of the pause for it gave me time to digest the morose of information she had unconsciously given me. The thought that Furie's "eyepiece" might have some connection with Andrew's death came into my mind from I know not where. That eight-sided lens had belonged to Lundy—those marked cards—Andrew had shot Lundy. There must be some connection. I couldn't get rid of the thought.

(Copyright, 1929, Wm. Morrow Co.)
Joe Lundy's eight-sided spectacles—Furie's magnifying glass eyepiece—marked cards—the "poker game that cracked the town"—where do they lead? Continue the story tomorrow.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES CONTINUE AT COLLEGE

the memories that crowd upon this morning, by the prospects that flatter or tantalize or threaten us, our emotions are quickened and our imaginations stirred.

The farmer who goes out to "cast seed into the ground" has something to do. And it is important. Not much wheat would be produced, not many loaves of bread would be baked, not many hungry mouths fed, if that farmer did not sow his wheat. Ferns and wiregrass, oaks and thistles may grow without much assistance from us.

But wheat is another matter. If you want wheat, you must first find a farmer. You must find a man who knows what his part is and does it. Nobody else can fill your niche, or take your place in this giant mechanism of education industry, and social life. The forces of nature alone, majestic as they are, can never produce the work that is waiting for the touch of your hand. In your school room, in your place in the business world, in your home-making you are to fill an essential, indispensable part; you are to do something that has to be done.

That stirs one's blood now. It makes one tingle to his finger tips. To think that I can do something that nobody else can do or was meant to do; that I can have part in creating something for the use of mankind; that I can help to start, some boy or some girl going uphill who without me might never make the climb, or even take the first step up.

There will come a time—there may be many—before you have doubled the present number of your years. When you will be tempted to feel that you were mistaken on that June day in 1929. The world really did not have much need for you after all. You might just as well have saved yourself that eager enthusiasm, and spared yourself that dream. You can not see that, for all your honest effort and your sweating of blood, the world has grown noticeably different. The world is not even eager to be made over, or to follow the gleam which shines in your soul.

Now, if ever that mood of syndicalism comes upon you then go and read the story of the sower again. Having done our part, we may sleep and rise night and day, the earth bringeth forth of herself, we know not how.

The great silent, sleepless, invisible forces of nature take hold and complete the job. Who ever heard the noises of growing wheat or corn or lilies? Who ever made them grow, or knew how growth takes place? What makes the colors of flowers or products the green of plants, or the gold of wheat? No one knows. We only know that it is so. What makes the sap flow up a tree, and why does the crop grow "first in the blade, then the car, then the full corn in the ear?" No one knows.

The most that we can do is to find out what she is doing, and cooperate with her, to find out her laws and obey them, to discover her incalculable forces and avail ourselves of their impartial and lavish aid.
Again and again we shall see our labors go apparently for naught. Or else we shall grow very impatient to see results. And we shall want to hurry on the process. We shall want to see our pet reforms consummated. Let us try to have a little patience. Trust a little to the nature of human nature. Trust a little to God. We have done our little bit; the great silent and invisible forces of human society and of God take our planting into their bosom and put to playing upon it and through it their transforming and energizing and assimilating and creating influence. "Risk a little on that power."
Well then let us try to find out which way the tide of this world is running, which way the currents of the universe flow. Find out if you can—and this is life's greatest and deepest discovery—which way God moves, and move with Him. The best indicator for the set of His tides that any of us know is the life and spirit of a Man who lived in Galilee nineteen hundred years ago. That Man's work seemed a complete and dismal failure.
At four o'clock in the afternoon the Senior Normal class held its exercises on the front campus, this exercise having been rained out on Saturday. The exercises were attended by a large crowd. This presented a beautiful scene at the end of which the class formed itself into a tremendous "29" covering almost the whole space from the buildings to the Fifth street.

The most impressive of the commencement so far was the Vesper services held at 6 o'clock in the west grove between the old Model school building and the West dormitory. The notes running through in biblical history. When he had reached that period to insert the face of Judas Iscariot, he said the artist was at a loss to provide a character whose face bore the false lines as did those of the betrayer of Christ. At last, after long search, he found in the world of crime and vice a man he believed to meet the requirement.

The man was told to visit the artist's studio next day, the speaker said. He did so, and when the artist asked him his name he replied, "I am the man you painted as the Christ several years ago." This man was an ideal of manhood when the first picture was painted, the speaker said, but years of sin and debauchery had left their marks upon his face, bringing about a change that not even the keen eye of the artist could detect.

"As surely as the genius of an artist is determined by the kind of picture he paints, so surely will your life be determined by the kind of face you make," Dr. Lynch warned in concluding his sermon.

J. H. Ross, superintendent of city schools, after explaining the remainder of the commencement program, thanked Dr. Lynch for the excellent sermon, which he declared was one of the most masterful he had heard during his four years as head of the local school system.

The BIG 3 motor products

Why "Standard" Gasoline is the best gasoline to buy.

It never varies in quality . . . one drop or a thousand gallons, it is always crystal-clear, uniform in grade, full of power.

Because point by point, specification by specification "Standard" is consistently the leader in quality.

Because no matter where you buy it from the big red "Standard" pump with the "Standard" globe, it is sold with a guarantee of purity and maximum performance. Because back of it is an institution which believes in service and gives it unsparingly—no matter who the purchaser may be or what the quantity he may buy.

"STANDARD" GASOLINE

What Esso is and why you should buy it.

Esso, the Giant Power Fuel, is a custom-built fuel, designed to work equally well in carbon-caked motors or in the new high compression motors. Esso is a genuine anti-knock motor fuel. It is red in color, symbolic of the packed-in power which every single drop possesses. Smooth, flexible, it's a burly Giant which makes the hills lie down and the miles go flying by faster. Sold only at the silver ESSO pumps, with the ESSO globes. Costs more—but worth it.

What makes "Standard" Motor Oil superior.

Any oil up to a certain point will cushion and protect moving motor parts, but only a special oil will stand up to the last drop against extraordinary temperatures peculiar to current motor designs, or will resist equally well crank case dilution. "Standard" is an extraordinary motor oil. Processed from the finest crudes and deliberately refined to withstand excessive temperatures and to protect everlastingly each and every moving part no matter what the oil feed design may be.

It is literally "an oilier oil which clings and clings." And clinging and protecting—eliminates friction.

NEW CHARGES IS FACED BY AGED WOMAN

Mrs. Cassler, After Jail Sentence, Confronted By New Accusations.

Chicago, June 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Catharin Cassler, who spent 27 months in jail for murder, part of the time close in the shadow of the scaffold, was back there today with new murder accusations flying about her graying head.

A mesh of circumstances which began forming even before her release from jail April 30 has involved here in the inquiry into the death of Cammeallo Soutar, 34-year-old divorcee, whose body, a bullet through the heart, was found in a swamp near Hebron, Ind., last Friday.

In the face of police charges, Mrs. Cassler has maintained a calm denial of any knowledge concerning Miss Soutar's death. She said she knew her husband, Truman, had employed the young woman as housekeeper during part of the time she was in jail, and that she had heard other things involving the two. "Cammie," as Miss Soutar was called, was said to have called on Mrs. Cassler in jail several months ago and taunted her with a story that she and Mrs. Cassler's husband were to be married. Mrs. Cassler, however, said she "wasn't mad at her for it. I don't get jealous."

There were several circumstances that police at Valparaiso, Ind., where Mrs. Cassler is held, were unable to get the 40-year-old woman to explain. Mrs. Cassler's husband provided the most damaging information. He said that three days after his wife's release from jail she had confronted Miss Soutar and himself, threatening them with a revolver.

Mrs. Cassler said she had not been near Hebron, Ind., for three years; but police pointed out that Hebron was her old home town, and they had three witnesses who claimed to have seen Mrs. Cassler there.

Miss Soutar was killed with a .32 calibre bullet. Police found a quantity of bullets of the same calibre wrapped in a handkerchief in a trunk belonging to Mrs. Cassler.

Edward Cassler, the woman's 19-year-old son, said he had had his mother driving last Tuesday, but that they had not gone outside Chicago. He said he saw a revolver in her possession, but the weapon has not been found.

Robbers Hold-Up Filling Station Near Greensboro

Greensboro, June 3.—(AP)—Two unmasked robbers at 7:30 this morning flashed revolvers on two attendants at a filling station at Forbis and Market streets here and obtained $25 in cash. The men jumped in a high powered car and drove rapidly away in the direction of Burlington. The machine bore state license number 117,546.

C. R. Davis and J. C. Mayer, two young men in charge of the filling station, had just cleared the drive way of waiting cars when the bandits appeared and covered them with pistols. The men made an unsuccessful effort to open the safe of the station, getting their loot from the pockets of the attendants. Police were notified and asked officers of the surrounding country to be on the lookout for the robbers.

GRAIN PRICES SKY-ROCKET ON CHICAGO MART

Outburst Of Buying Causes Wheat Register Sensational Advances Today.

Chicago, June 3.—(AP)—Grain prices sky-rocketed today in a hysterical outburst of buying that lifted wheat from 1 3/4 to 8 3/4 cents at the opening. Published reports that the government would come to the farmers' aid with a $100,000,000 fund to aid in handling the immense wheat surplus inspired the wildest opening in years, with prices in different sections of the same pit varying as much as 5 cents.

There were few offerings at the outset, and good buying orders started the sensational comeback of the market that had been in the doldrums for months. July wheat opened at $1.00 to $1.05 as compared with Saturday's close at 98 1/8 to 98 1/4 cents, and September started at $1.08 to $1.11 compared with the previous finish at $1.02 3/8 to $1.02 1/2. December showed the extreme advance of 2 3/4 to 3 3/4 cents, opening at $1.10 to $1.15 3/4 as against Saturday's closing figures, $1.07 to $1.07 1/4.

Other grains shared the upward boost, although to less degree than wheat, which had been depressed to the lowest point in 14 years during the last three bearish months. The broadest advance in the corn pit was 3 3/4 cents. July oats sold at 42 to 42 1/4 cents at the start. Saturday's close had been 41 1/8 to 41 1/4.

LET'S LOOK BEFORE WE LEAP

To be sure we would like to see a creamery here, but when it comes to a combination milk distributing plant and creamery which would necessitate enactment of ordinances to prevent the retail sale of milk other than from this plant, thereby giving complete monopoly to the concern, we feel that the matter should have careful consideration before any action is taken.

PITILESS PUBLICITY NEEDED

Nobody understood so well the power of aroused public opinion as Woodrow Wilson unless it was Theodore Roosevelt. More than any of our chief executives these two men went to the country upon great policies.

those in public life. Therefore, he counselled and demanded the remedy of turning on all the light on the seeking to avoid exposure, and termed this remedy of evils "pitiless publicity."

That is the big need in Washington today with reference to the tariff measure that has passed the House. Many years ago, when a measure, not one tenth as bad as the Hawley bill, was enacted it obtained the name of "A bill of abomination."

There is cause for thankfulness that there is one place in America where publicity is possible, and where debate cannot be strangled in the United States Senate. The standpat administration Senators would rush that measure through like their associates in the House did if they had the power.

The Republicans in the end will enact a measure that will be burdensome to consumers and add to the prosperity of those highly favored, but the "pitiless publicity" of the Senate will compel some improvement over the House's raw taxes, and will serve to arouse the people to condemn this bill of a thousand abominations.

The Democrats have never elected a President since 1860 except when Senators and Representatives preached sound doctrine and exposed the favoritism in the measures being debated. The best tariff measure in the country's history, except the Walker tariff, which Blaine said the country came fully to approve, was the Underwood-Simmons tariff.

ABOUT TOWN

The two baccalaureate sermons which Greenville people heard at the college and high school Sunday morning and evening were inspirational indeed, commented a citizen today. "The speakers were men of outstanding importance in the life of the nation and the message which they brought to the members of the student body will not soon be forgotten."

CONGRESS TO CONTINUE ON FARM ISSUE

Crash of Wheat Prices Spurs Senate To Action On Debenture Plan.

Washington, June 3-(AP)-Congressional leaders expect to bring their plans for a summer recess closer to realization this week by fulfilling at least two of the administration's pre-election requirements.

Spurred by the crash of wheat prices below the dollar level, they expect enough export debenture advocates in the Senate to join with administration supporters in voting for eliminating that plan from the chamber's farm relief bill to permit final enactment of the legislation in time to offset this year's crops.

In the House, one hour was allowed today for the discussion of a special rule intended to expedite consideration of the bill to provide for the 1930 census and reappointment of its membership.

That will leave the leaders with only one major problem to dispose of-the fixing of a date for Senate action on the tariff bill, before they will be able to decide whether they can move with administration approval for a short recess or a long one.

Return of the export debenture issue to the Senate this week was regarded as virtually certain in view of the progress of the joint conference committee working to bring the farm bills passed by the Senate and the house into conformity.

While the House was called upon to begin discussion of the census reappointment bill today, the Senate still had before it the proposal of Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, of looking to governmental regulation of commission merchants dealing in perishable farm products, with the resolution of Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, for repeal of the National origins provision of the immigration law ready for consideration next.

NO FIRST LADY AT CHARLOTTE REUNION

Charlotte, N. C., June 1-(AP)-There will be no "first lady of the Conederacy" at this year's reunion. Rather there will be several sharing equal honors. Adjutant general and chief of staff of the Confederate Veterans, thus has Gen. Harry Rene Lee, who Saturday remarked at Nashville that he is "no secretary of state" diplomatically settled what promised to be a first-class problem connected with the annual reunion of veterans of the "lost cause" which opens here tomorrow.

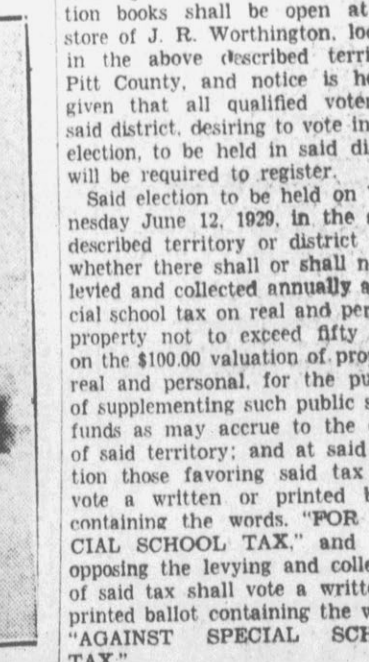

BABE RUTH TAKEN TO N. Y. HOSPITAL

New York, June 3-(AP)-Babe Ruth was taken to a hospital today for treatment of a heavy cold which kept him out of the Yankees' lineup yesterday for the first time in two years. The treatment was described as a precautionary measure to prevent the cold developing into pneumonia. He probably will be out of the game about a week.

CONFEDERATE VETERAN KILLED AT LINCOLNTON

Charlotte, N. C., June 3-(AP)-Elam Houser, 84, Confederate veteran, was struck and killed by a Seaboard Airline train at Lincolnton, N. C., today while en route to Charlotte for the reunion of Confederate Veterans. Mr. Houser lived on a farm in Lincoln county.

Four Fruit Flies Found In Raleigh

Raleigh, June 3-(AP)-State agricultural authorities today expected confirmation from federal experts at Washington the finding of full grown specimens of the dreaded fruit fly in Raleigh. Four flies discovered in a local grocery shop Saturday, were pronounced specimens of the true Mediterranean fruit pest yesterday by Dr. R. W. Leiby, state entomologist, who examined them microscopically upon his return from Washington where he and commissioner W. A. Graham attended a public hearing with regard to extension of the quarantine against the fly, which was recently discovered in Florida.

The flies were found in a shipment of Florida fruit, which was promptly destroyed by agents of the state department of agriculture. This is said to be the first instance of mature fruit flies being found outside of Florida. Larvae of the pest, however, were found several days ago in some fruit at Greensboro.

Commissioner Graham has expressed anxiety lest the pest become established in North Carolina at the present time when the state's $2,000 peach crop is about ready to move to market.

A quarantine that would prevent the shipping of peaches would be disastrous to the peach growers, he pointed out.

Denounces Church, Forced To Resign

Detroit, June 3-(AP)-The opposition of a church vestry to a position of a church vestry to a pastor who denounced its members and his congregation from the pulpit was believed today to have forced the resignation of the Very Rev. Herbert L. Johnson, dean of St. Paul's Episcopal Cathedral.

Dean Johnson announced his resignation yesterday from his pulpit and left with Mrs. Johnson in the afternoon for New York to sail for a year of study abroad. The vestry accepted the resignation.

Several weeks ago Dean Johnson who came to Detroit in 1926, from Phoenix, Ariz., publicly denounced his vestry as of "capitalistic character," at the church congress of the Protestant Episcopal church at Ann Arbor, Mich. He charged that he had been ordered not to sermonize on sex, nor to preach prohibition "when I know six of my nine vestrymen have cellars," and was prevented from inviting a speaker of the American Federation of Labor to address the Cathedral congregation. In his sermons since then he has dealt with dissemination of birth control.

LEVEE BLOWS OUT TUESDAY THE ON MISSISSIPPI

At 8 a. m., today, a geyser of sand and water shot ten feet into the air but the first rush of water choked the opening and within a few minutes the levee settled down two feet and held back the pounding waters.

First indication of trouble was noticed by a levee guard who signed a boil and sounded the alarm. Workers hurried to the scene and brushed and sacked the twelve by six depression and started to build a sand-bag loop behind the weak spot. The break occurred in the area of a crevasse in 1903, and, although a slide was feared, the workers had the situation in hand at noon but residents have been warned of the peril.

Greenville, Miss., June 3-(AP)-A blow out occurred on the Mississippi river levee at LaGrange, 4 miles south of Greenville early today.

Engineers reported that the first rush of water choked the blowout and shortly before noon the gang of men had been able to check the water but the situation was "extremely dangerous." The blowout, the engineers said, sank the top of the levee to a depth of a foot and a half. Convicts working on the levee at Eutaw, above Mounds Landing, were ordered rushed to the scene to attempt to repair the opening.

SUNDAY BALL STALLED IN THE MAJORS

By WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

What with postponements and gaps in the schedule in the round Sunday cities of Pennsylvania, the Sabbath program in the major leagues yesterday was reduced to exactly one-half of a normal day's campaign. Both the Athletics and the Cardinals, the two league leaders, helped themselves by doing nothing at all, and the cause of the Pirates certainly was not injured by inactivity which prevailed in Pittsburgh.

Although George Pipgras, aided by Lou Gehrig's twelfth home run, pitched the Yankees to their second straight decision over the White Sox by 6 to 1 at the Yankee Stadium, the Browns were nipped out in Washington by 2 to 1. This defeat dropped the St. Louisans to a position four and a half games behind the Athletics as the Yankees crept up to within seven and a half contests of the leaders.

Connie Mack nevertheless gained an important game over St. Louis in the lost column where he now has a margin of seven contests over each of his nearest competitors. It is well known, of course, that baseball players and managers estimate the standing exclusively on the figures of the games lost column. They reason, with much justification, that an advantage in the won column means only that one contender has taken a few decisions which a rival contender may match upon catching up with the schedule.

In defeating the White Sox, Pipgras allowed but six hits. Kerr's single and Metzler's triple in the third saved Chicago from a shut-out. Gehrig's homer with one on in the first helped to tear young Ed Walsh loose from the mound but both Hal McKain and George Connolly, who followed, encountered mistreatment. Cedric Duro hammered one of McKain's shots into the right field seats in the seventh with one on base, and Earl Combs drove in two more runs in the eighth with a single.

After trailing St. Louis by 1 to 0 for seven rounds, Washington tied the score against George Blaholder in the eighth and then won out in the ninth on Joe Judge's double and two sacrifices. Irvin Hadley gave the Browns only five hits and seldom was in danger after the first round. It was his first victory of the season against seven defeats.

Red Sox bats hammered a merry tune against the barriers at Braves Field yesterday at the expense of Messrs. Shaute and Ferrell, and Boston won by 12 to 3.

With rain in both St. Louis and Cincinnati, the National League program was confined to Wrigley Field where the Giants and the Cubs braved wintry blasts from Lake Michigan to amuse 37,000 Sabbath clients. Sheriff Fred Blake plunged into a desperate duel with Larry Benton for six innings, but blew up in the seventh under the strain of a 0 to 0 score. The Giants put six hits together for four runs and won eventually by 4 to 1.

The victory gave the Giants ten out of their last eleven, and placed them three and one-half games from the top. It is important to note that the Cardinals and the Pirates have lost only two games fewer than the Clan McGraw.

SPORTS SLANTS

By ALAN J. GOULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor)

New York, June 2.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers owe a substantial portion of their early season progress to the good right arm of George Uhle. And George Uhle can contribute a good share of his billiardry in winning nine successive games to the perfection of a new delivery—the "slide ball."

That, at least, is the conviction of Buckie Harris, pilot of the famous champion Washington Senators of 1921-25, who is guiding the current destinies of the Tigers for the first time.

"Uhle has done wonders for us," declared Harris, now on his first eastern swing. "Of course he has everything control and lots of stuff as well as a fast ball whenever he needs it. But he has something new this season. You can call it a 'slide ball.' It's neither a curve nor a fadeaway but is a fast one that 'slides' away from a right-handed batsman as the ball nears the plate. Uhle perfected it this spring.

"Sammy Gray, one of the mainstays of the Browns has developed something like it and several of our pitchers are getting the hang of it, but Uhle is the only one getting real results."

After watching the Athletics batter his club to defeat twice in a row on Friday and Saturday, Harris was quite willing to share the view of critics who see pennant prospects of the Mackmen through rose-colored glasses.

"Connie has a great ball club but I think it will be a much closer race in the American League this year than at any time since the Yankees gained the ascendancy over my old Washington club. "Don't make any mistakes about counting the Yankees out now. They have too much power to be discounted even though they are far below the spot they occupied at this time a year ago. The realization, however, that the Yankees are not quite so tough seems to have acted as a tonic for the rest of the league. "The Athletics look like the club to beat now. But the Browns are in the thick of it and I hope to have my Tigers close to the top after we get through in the east. We have lost too many games so far, but we have lots of power and I think Uhle will have more pitching support.

far, but we have lots of power and I think Uhle will have more pitching support.

"Roy Johnson is a great addition to the outfield; a real star, and believe me, our new first baseman, Alexander, can bust 'em, even if he meant a Joe Judge on the defense. Harry Heilmann is driving in more runs than ever.

"I am keeping in shape, ready to fill in at second base in an emergency, but you can figure what a fine chance I have with Charley Gehring playing the ball for me. If there's a better second baseman around than Gehring, I don't know him."

Greensboro Atop Piedmont League

(By the Associated Press)

The Greensboro Patriots started a new week of play in the Piedmont today safely atop the league standing after turning in a perfect record of eight victories and no defeats last week.

The hard-hitting Pats grabbed the leadership when the Durham Bulls failed to keep step with the pace they set. The Bulls won four and lost three of five contests.

The rest of the Piedmonters have nothing to brag over as a result of their play last week. Salisbury just broke even, winning four and losing four. High Point took three of seven starts. Winston-Salem won and lost five, while Henderson took only one game of seven played.

Over in the Eastern Carolina the Kinston Stompers cracked out five victories without a loss, although they had one tie game with Rocky Mount, and rushed from the cellar to fourth place in the league standing.

The league leading Buccaneers from Rocky Mount, halted by rain, won two and lost two. Goldsboro had a 500 week, splitting six games between the won and lost columns. The play of the Wilmington Tars was second only to that of the stemmers. The Tars copped four of their six games. Fayetteville turned in two victories out of six chances, while Greenville failed to win in five starts.

Cotton--Stocks--Grain

COTTON MARKET

New York, June 3. (AP)—Cotton opened steady today at a decline of 1 point on July but generally 2 to 3 points higher in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables and apprehensions of cold, wet weather in the central belt. July soon strengthened with the rest of the list of buying believed to be partly for trade account against sales of October. By the end of the first half hour, active months were selling 1 to 15 points above Saturday's closing quotations. The larger spot sales reported in Liverpool seemed to make some impression on sentiment and no doubt contributed to the rally in July contracts here after the opening, while there was covering and commission house buying in the later deliveries. Today is a holiday in New Orleans, but some New Orleans buying was reported here during the early trading. Private cables attributed the advance in Liverpool to covering and foreign buying and said there was more cloth inquiry from Egypt and the Near East.

STOCK MARKET

New York, June 3. (AP)—Speculative sentiment had a decidedly bullish tinge in today's stock market. Due to the sharp recovery in wheat prices and the publication of a series of excellent May earnings and sales reports, buying orders embraced a fairly wide list of stocks with the bills and rails in the forefront of the advance and the public utilities rallying briskly after an early period of heaviness. An opening bulge of about 6 points in wheat prices, based on Washington advices that immediate action would be taken to relieve the depressed market, brought a flood of buying orders into the farm implement, mail order and western railroad stocks, which had been under pressure on the theory that their business would suffer by the reduced purchasing power of the agricultural regions. The rally was stimulated by the announcement that May sales of Montgomery Ward were about 25 percent above the same month last year. Call money remained unchanged at 6 per cent, indicating that the sharp drop in loans last week had released sufficient credit to ease the expected month-end credit stringency. With about a billion dollars worth of stock "rights" to be taken up within the next 30 days, bankers are not too sanguine over the continuance of 6 per cent money for the rest of the month. Wall Street found little comfort in the monthly review of the National City Bank, stating that an orderly decline in stock prices was just what was needed to clear the money situation. "Temper, the speculative spirit which has spread throughout the country to an unwholesome extent, reduce the amount of indiscriminate buying and tend to lower in some degree the prices which in many instances represent extravagant anticipation of future earnings." Buying of the oil shares was stimulated by expectations of further gasoline and crude oil price increases and favorable development at the oil conservation conference to be held in Colorado Springs this month. One block of 6300 shares of Elgin changed hands at 35, up 4 points and a new high record. Atlantic Refining also advanced five points and at least a dozen others moved on a point or two. Case Threshing soared 17 points practically making up half of last week's loss. Philadelphia Company ran up 10 1/2 points, Commonwealth Power 7 3/4 to a new high at 122. Brooklyn Union Gas 7 1/2, Burroughs Adding Machines 1 1/4 and General Electric International Harvester Sears & Roebuck Montgomery Ward Electric Auto Life and Advance Realty rose 5 to 7 points higher. U. S. Steel common, Chrysler American Telephone and several other popular industrials advanced 3 points or more. Chesapeake Corporation moved

War Department To Probe Textile Strike Disorder

Washington, June 3.—(AP)—An investigation of the alleged illegal use of national guard equipment during the recent textile strike in Tennessee, will be undertaken by the war department. Secretary Good said today he had agreed to accept a brief on the question which John E. Neil, a lawyer representing the Tennessee Federation of Labor, offered to submit to the department about a week ago. In the event the brief is not submitted, the secretary said he would inquire directly into the allegation that army equipment had been used by state policemen who also were members of the national guard.
