COMPOSITION OF CABINET IS DISCLOSED

Five Appointments to Ramsay McDonald's Cabinet Appeared Certain Today.

London, June 7.—(AP)—Much of the composition of the new Labor cabinet of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald was disclosed today to the Associated Press in official Labor quarters.

Five appointments were listed as certain. They were:

J. H. Thomas, lord privy seal, a post of little duty which will allow him to be minister in charge of unemployment. He was secretary of state for the colonies in the former MacDonald government.

Arthur Henderson, minister for foreign affairs. Henderson was the home secretary in the first Labor government and has been president of the Labor and Socialist International since 1926.

Phillip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, replacing Winston Churchill. He will hold again his post in the first MacDonald government.

John R. Clynes was lord of government.

George Lansbury, minister of commerce and public works. He was formerly editor of the Daily Herald, chief Labor organ.

In addition appointments of three others were regarded as virtually certain. They were:

Sir John Sankey, to lord high chancellor, giving up his life-time post of lord justice of appeal.

William Albert Jowitt, K. C., attorney general. He was elected M. P. from Preston as a Liberal. The Herald today announced he had joined the Labor party.

Viscount Chelmsford, secretary of state for India. He was former viceroy of India and first lord of the admiralty.

The following were considered probabilities for remaining offices:

Arthur Greenwood, who was under-secretary for health in the last Labor government, to become minister of health; William Graham, former financial secretary of the treasury, to become president of the board of trade; Wedgwood Benn, who abandoned the Liberals in 1927, to become first lord of the admiralty; Sir Charles Trevelyan, to resume duties as minister of education.

In addition, Miss Margaret Bondfield was expected to be appointed secretary to the ministry of labor in the 1924 government is expected to receive some post of cabinet position. She will be the first woman to achieve that honor.

In all the prospective appointments none has created the stir as has that of William Jowitt. Labor proselyte from Liberal ranks, returned to Parliament with Jowitt last week was Tom Shaw, probable war ministry appointee and an out-and-out Laborite. The Liberal papers today, speaking of Jowitt's defection, said there had been an alliance in action between him and Shaw to support each other and charged that a mixed vote had elected both. Jowitt is a widely known barrister. It was believed he would materially strengthen his adopted party which has felt sorely the need of better lawyers. This lack was one of the principal difficulties of Mr. MacDonald in the formation of his 1924 government.

HOWARD'S ACTION DRAWS ATTENTION

London, June 7.—(AP)—Action of Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador at Washington, in renouncing ambassadorial honor importation privileges has drawn much attention in London club and diplomatic circles, where opinion was divided as to its propriety.

While the newspapers have carried long stories setting forth the ambassador's position and pointing out it is not binding on any of his successors none yet has editorialized on the action.

Peter's Square to see the opening of the bronze doors which was to symbolize the coming to an end of the voluntary imprisonment of the Pontiff.

At the conclusion of the signing Cardinal Gasparri, who is papal secretary of state, read a letter from the Pope in which he said his first act would be to send a telegram of benediction upon "Chevalier Mussolini."

Premier Mussolini and Cardinal Gasparri composed a process verbal in which they stated their "reciprocally loyal and sincere wish to observe the letter and spirit of the Lateran accord."

The process recognizes the Pope's sovereignty and the status of Catholicism as the state religion in Italy.

Cardinal Gasparri signed this and then Premier Mussolini, after which they talked together for fifteen minutes. Finance Minister Musconi then gave the cardinal a check on the Bank of Italy for 750,000,000 lire (about $39,900,000) representing the first payment of the financial convention.

SHORT COURSE IS BROUGHT TO AN END TODAY

Annual County Event Concluded With Taking Of Picture Of Group This P. M.

The annual Pitt County Short Course which convened at East Carolina Teachers College last Tuesday morning, was brought to conclusion this afternoon by the taking of a picture of those in attendance at White's Theatre this afternoon.

Aside from this feature, the gathering of Home Demonstration workers from many parts of the county was entertained with a demonstration of "Installation of Rural Water System," by Mrs. A. T. Holman.

Many interesting features were provided throughout the week, including a short course in "News Writing," by F. H. Jeter, director of the publicity department of State College. Mrs. Jane McKimmon, of State College, noted demonstration worker, was on the program yesterday. She spoke on the subject of "The Homeaker as a Hostess." It was a highly illuminated discussion and won considerable praise from the number of women in attendance.

The style show was one of the outstanding attractions of the course yesterday. Numbers of styles in women's wearing apparel were presented and drew considerable comment. Mrs. McKimmon, Miss Willie Hunter, clothing specialist, and Miss Ruth Ebron acted as judges. Miss Hunter explained just why each of the costumes won a prize.

Miss Pauline Smith of State College, and Miss Rose Bryan of Durham, attracted much interest with their course in house furnishing and arts and crafts. The sewing department is under direction of Mrs. Fleming. Miss Saunders and Miss Willie Hunter, and Miss Russell in charge of poster making.

Other speakers during the week were M. G. Mann of the Cotton Growers' Co-operative Association, J. H. Waldron, cashier of the Greenville Banking & Trust Company, Mrs. Etta Vines Gordon of Rocky Mount, Mrs. Cullins and Mrs. Barnes of Nash county, and Dr. Robt. H. Wright of East-Carolina Teachers College.

Lunch was served the visitors each day in the dining room of the college. Funds for the lunches were furnished by four local banks, the Merchants Association and the Tobacco Board of Trade.

Mrs. Frances Kline of the Postum Company, has attracted much interest during the week with her cooking classes. She featured special lessons on salads and dressings, cakes and icings, and concluded her class today with a luncheon.

Police Commission Quits At Regular Session Of The Board Of Aldermen

Resignation of the police commission and the turning over of the direction or supervision of the police department to Mayor J. C. Lanier, assisted by the chief of police, was one of the outstanding actions of the Board of Aldermen in its regular monthly session here last night.

The passing on the second reading of a petition for the erection of a filling station at the corner of Fourth and Green streets, acceptance of the recent court order in the matter of damage to F. V. Johnston's property on Ninth and Reed streets, and routine matters completed the work of the evening.

The petition by F. C. Harding for permission to erect a filling station on his property at the corner of Fourth and Green streets, which passed its first reading at a former meeting of the board, received its final passage last night. In connection with the final passage on this petition, however, it was explained that such passage by the board, was, however, with regrets, as has been in the past, it is not the policy of the board to permit the erection of filling stations opposite churches in the city. In view of the fact that the Supreme Court recently ruled that in the absence of zoning laws no city government had a right to decline permission for the erection of a filling station, the board would itself powerless to take action other than grant the permit.

Regarding the matter of opening up the eastern extension of Second street the street committee reported that the matter had been investigated and it was found at this time that the benefits to be derived from such would not justify the necessary expenditures to carry out the work. Therefore, it was recommended that the work not be done. The board unanimously adopted the committee's recommendation.

The matter pertaining to drainage on Tyson street was referred to the street committee for investigation and action.

The matter of purchasing a new motorcycle for use by the police department was referred to a committee for investigation with power to act.

The matter of the recent industrial survey, the cost of which was shared by the board, was discussed by those present. Mayor Lanier declared in a letter recently received by him from the Craik P. Gilbert Company, who made the survey, was in substance that the industries were largely influenced by the power companies of the nation and that if Greenville would sell out to the power companies these concerns might be instrumental in bringing other industries to the city. The mayor and board characterized the letter as propaganda on behalf of the power companies.

The Johnston claim for damages to his property when the town sometime ago straightened and paved Reed street came before the board last night in the form of a judgment from the clerk of the court as result of the investigation and finding of a disinterested commission appointed by him according to the law as prescribed in the charter of this city. The findings of the commission were that when the house on the Johnston property was moved a sufficient distance from the curb to provide the town with the usual width sidewalk that the town would be indebted and should pay in cash to the property holders the sum of $1,000. After some discussion, the judgment of the committee was accepted by the town.

The next matter to come before the board was a motion by Alderman Rogers that the present police commission be discharged from further duties. In making his motion, he stated that as one of the members of the commission he would be out of the city the balance of the term and that the other members of the commission likewise desired to be relieved of the duties. This motion was seconded and concurred in by Alderman Harvey, also a member of the commission. Alderman Bradsher, the third member, was not present at the meeting, but it was understood that it was also his wish that the committee be released from further duties.

After some discussion, Mayor Lanier stated that he did not believe it within the power of the board to vote to discharge a commission which had been elected for the year, and, therefore, he suggested that the only course open for the release of the commission from duty was for said commission to tender its resignation. This was done and was accepted by the board. The motion was then made that the direction of the police force be placed in the hands of the mayor to be assisted by the chief of police and the remainder of this month, which ends the fiscal year. The motion received the unanimous approval of the board.

It was called to attention of the board that in a recently enacted traffic ordinance there appeared no penalty. This ordinance was amended to provide a penalty or fine of $10.00 for violation of same.

A former ordinance which prohibited parking on the north side of Fifth street, opposite the fire station, which was repealed through the last traffic ordinance, was reenacted.

In the matter of the city offices closing a half holiday one day of each week during the summer months, the board voted that the city offices would observe whatever day as set aside by the Merchants' Association and other business houses for their half holiday.

Payment of bills and other minor matters completed the evening's work.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS ON PARADE TODAY

Veterans at Charlotte March In Review Before Commander-in-Chief.

Charlotte, N. C., June 7.—(AP)—Under clear skies and with pleasantly cool temperatures the remnants of the Confederacy marched in review before their commander-in-chief and a throng of admirers running high into the thousands.

But they did not march as they did in the days when they were following their beloved General Lee. Most of them made their appearance in automobiles, the few on foot, and some insisted on trying the two-mile march, snuffing along with shoulders bent with years and the frost of many winters on their heads.

In the front rank rode their commander-in-chief, G. A. T. Goddard, of Alabama, and with him was Gen. R. A. Sneed, of Oklahoma, near years commander.

Soon after daybreak today downtown streets were crowded with blue and white automobiles and a score of one streets were closed to all travel in preparation for the 200 floats entered and the 23 military units and bands that were to help the veterans celebrate once more the fact that they were able to get together. There were some 2,000 veterans participating in the parade. Scores of weary old men tired out by the excitement of meeting comrades again had taken trains for some night and early today. Others planned to catch trains immediately after the parade.

The veterans closed their business sessions yesterday by electing Gen. R. A. Sneed as commander-in-chief and making provision a resolution for succession should a commander pass away during the year. The resolution provided that the adjutant general, appointed by the commander, should succeed automatically. General Sneed immediately named Harry Rene Lee, of Tennessee, adjutant general.

Their business transacted and the dead of the past year mourned in a special service, the veterans had set back to the days of their youth last night with their grand ball. Until after 10 o'clock no man was permitted in the ballroom except veterans. The old-time fiddle replaced the saxophone and the dances of 60 and 70 years ago marked the evening of the dance.

But by midnight the ball had been turned over to the younger generations, the Sons of Confederate Veterans and the boys and girls of today. The veterans had in almost all instances retired to their rooms to rest weary old bodies for the parade today.

The veterans who came to Charlotte happy in reunion with the boys who followed Lee and Jackson were returned to their homes today to their last resting places. Gen. Cortes A. Kitchen, of St. Louis, and Maj. John Hancock, of Dallas, Tex., died yesterday. Pneumonia took the general and the major died of heart trouble.

EXPERTS SIGN REPARATIONS REPORT TODAY

Settlement Provides Germany Must Pay Allies for Next Fifty-Nine Years.

Paris, June 7.—(AP)—The experts report liquidating long controversial reparations problem that has troubled the peace of Europe for the past ten years, was signed at the Hotel George today.

The signatures to the historic document which fixed the payments that Germany must make to the allied credits for the next fifty-nine years were affixed at 5:30 p. m. (11:58 a. m. E. S. T.) today.

With the long four months negotiations that at times threatened to break down now definitely settled, the next step was up to the governments involved, ratification of the experts' recommendations being necessary as well as complete plans for working out the details.

By the settlement, the German experts gave their approval to the annuities suggested by Owen D. Young, American financial expert, whose increasing labors to find some sort of an agreement at length had been crowned with success.

The delegates placed their names upon the report in the Japanese room of the George V Hotel which had been closed to the public since February 11 when the conference in Berlin began its long labors.

The delegates of the six creditor nations, and their debtor, Germany, affixed their signatures while cameras clicked to the flare of calcium lights. The document which they signed won after long and arduous labors was designed to liquidate the world war by the end of the year 1939, just 75 years after it began.

From now until 1939 Germany, in the terms of today's agreement, must hand over to her creditors in money and goods almost 100,000,000,000 marks, or nearly $24,000,000,000.

The plan signed this afternoon

PROHIBITION LOOMS UP AT WASHINGTON

Legislative And Executive Branches Of Government Occupied With Question.

Washington, June 7.—(AP)—Prohibition today once again was a major subject of consideration in the legislative and executive branches of the government.

Moves already were under way at the capitol to comply with President Hoover's request for appointment of a joint congressional committee to join with administrative groups already at work on the preparation of legislation for the reorganization and unification as far as possible of prohibition enforcement machinery in the Department of Justice. He wants to see such legislation enacted at the regular session of Congress which begins in December.

One of the agencies which will cooperate with that committee, the President's new national commission for law observance and enforcement, already has heard Secretary Mellon, now chiefly responsible for administration of the prohibition laws, and Attorney General Mitchell whose department is to become the principal enforcement agency under the administration plan.

They were the first to be heard in the commission's contemplated two-year investigation. In general enforcement and observation, presenting their views behind closed doors at the opening session of its second meeting, which was completed today with a study of crime statistics presented by the attorney general.

The President's message drawing Congress into his enforcement program, through his cabinet members and the inter-departmental committee which was organized some time ago to make a preliminary study of the situation, the administration was already prepared with a fairly comprehensive plan for the complicated task of transferring enforcement machinery to the justice department.

The first move of Congress to fit into the program followed quickly on the receipt of the President's message with the introduction of a resolution by Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, a dry leader, to provide for the appointment of a committee of three Senators and four Representatives to work out the comprehensive legislative program suggested. This resolution will be taken up by the judiciary committee Monday, and comments on both sides of the capitol have indicated that it will meet with little opposition.

The work of the inter-departmental committee as well as the findings of the law enforcement committee will be at its disposal, and the task it will be assigned undoubtedly will keep its members in Washington much of the summer. As administration officials view the problem, that task will involve an extensive study of existing laws and regulations, together with consideration of governmental policies relating to coast guard and customs services of the treasury and the immigration inspection service of the labor department, as well as the present prosecution machinery of the justice department.

Lindbergh On Maine Coast

Portland, Me., June 7.—(AP)—The cruiser Mouton with Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife aboard was "going east" along the Maine coast today.

It was thought the young couple might be heading for the island of North Haven and the summer home of Mrs. Lindbergh's father, Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow.

The little cruiser made York harbor last night where Col. Lindbergh took on supplies sufficient to run him to North Haven, about 100 miles on the coast.

"Yes" and "no" were his stock replies to queries from H. M. Philbrick, to whose yacht he docked his boat to re-stock.

The Mouton was tied up at 10:30 and then cast off and finally anchored off Cape Porpoise some 15 miles east of York harbor.

"Going east" was the colonel's reply to an invitation from the Republican national committeeman J. W. Simpson that he spend the night in the harbor.

U. S. Gunboat Still Aground

Shanghai, China, June 7.—(AP)—The United States gunboat Luzon which went aground Wednesday night at the break-water at the mouth of the Hwang Poo river, was still aground today, several attempts to get her off having failed.

Although naval officers were non-committal regarding the possible fate of the vessel, it was generally considered that her position was dangerous.

Expect Early Moves For Cut In Naval Armaments

Washington, June 7.—(AP)—Some early moves looking to reduction of international naval armaments are confidently expected in informed circles here to be made by the United States and Great Britain.

Private advices are interpreted as indicating that the new British Premier, Ramsay MacDonald, chief of the victorious Labor party, is ready to grasp for leadership in the naval reductions campaign.

The Decoration Day address of President Hoover is regarded as a move by him to take the initiative in the prospective "race of disarmament" and to assure the new English government of a friendly attitude on this question by his administration. It is looked upon as the opening move for new discussions between the two leading naval powers.

Mr. MacDonald is known to have been in close communication for some time with friends and public leaders in this country, exchanging views. His intense interest in this method of keeping in touch with trends of opinion is indicated by the fact that he and Chairman Borah of the Senate foreign relations committee, have been corre-

Hundreds Without Home As Result Of Mining Camp Fire

The Pas, Man., June 7.—(AP)—Several hundred persons in the mining camps of Mile 83 and Cranberry Portage were homeless today as a result of fires that virtually destroyed the settlements.

The tiny settlement of Mile 83 was reduced to ruins by a fire that started in one of the dwellings Wednesday night, rendering the entire population of 300 homeless.

At Cranberry Portage a score of homes were destroyed by a forest fire. Fires today still were raging on three sides of the town but they were under control. Tents and blankets were being sent to relieve the suffering residents and a voluntary subscription fund has been started.

GOLD BULLETS

by Charles G. Booth

SYNOPSIS: A few hours before he was murdered, Andrew Ogden revealed to his son, Jerry, the story of his last six hours as Alex Peterson, famous gambler of Small Valley. Jerry retells the gripping narrative to Deacon and Peaches. Peterson's younger brother, Jerry, has been sentenced to hang by miners' court for robbing Joe Lundy's safe. Breaking away from the miners, he comes to Alex, admits the theft and also that he had stolen from his brother's safe. Alex locks Jerry into his mine and attempts to argue with the threatening mob, which has gathered around the opening, before leaving his brother in the tunnel. Peterson gives him one of his gold-mounted revolvers.

Chapter 35. THE GAMBLING FOOL

"Satisfied?" Lundy grinned. "Dad didn't answer him. Uncle Jerry had broken the first law of the mining camps. Down there in those days a man's gold was more sacred than his life, dad said, and the mob had come to see that Uncle Jerry got what they believed was coming to him. A rotten mess, and dad couldn't see any way out of it. And then all at once an idea struck him. Lundy was notoriously fond of money. Could he be bought off? Maybe. But if he could, would the miners, who were sticklers for the rough-and-ready frontier code, consider Lundy entitled to take satisfaction in cash?"

"See here, dad began, 'the boy's been led into this. I'll make the money good. Let him go.' The miners roared down his offer. Lundy shrugged. 'It ain't no use, Ten-to-One,' he said. 'He's had his trial fair and square. Miners' law. We found him guilty. Gold-thievin' is gold thievin' as the boy has got to swallow his medicine.' 'You can call 'em off if you want to,' dad replied in almost a whisper. 'I'll pay you $50,000 if he goes free.'

Lundy gave him a hurt look. "Now, if that ain't addin' insult to injury!" he growled. "An me a-tryin' to pervert the morals 'n' the town. But his voice was low too. "Dad took a deep breath. A hundred thousand, he whispered. "Lordy!" Jerry comes high, don't she? Lundy replied, but he hadn't raised his voice. "Yore bluffin' 'n' all course, Ten-to-One. No had ever heard is worth $100,000." "I'm not bluffin', dad came back at him. "Do you take me?" "Not fer half a million, Ten-to-One."

Lundy's words said one thing, the glitter in his eyes another, but dad understood. Lundy was afraid of the men. They didn't trust Lundy, and resented the undertones between dad and Lundy.

"But dad was puzzled about Lundy. He felt there was something else in the man's mind beside his natural fear of the mob. "Dad's gun flew into his hand and he leaped back against the tunnel door. The light was so poor by this that the shadow of the overhang concealed his position.

"Don't move," he warned. "Listen boys, you don't hang my brother tonight. I've got six reasons why in my hand. The boy has got six more. Start shootin', if you like. You can't see me—Lundy'll go down first. The five more of you. You'd get me—the boy, too—but we'd check out with plenty of company."

The crowd began cursing and yelling to one another to do this and that, but they didn't move up. At last the racket lessened and Lundy shouted: "What's yore proposition, Ten-to-One?" "This," dad said bluntly. "Jerry says in the mine all night. Meanwhile, I'll look at the evidence with you. In the mornin' I'll talk it over with the boys. "The racket started again, but Lundy quieted them. "Looky here, boys," he argued, "this hangin's got to be done respectable. Peterson is the lad's brother, an' I reckon he's entitled to look over the evidence." "Yeah, that's right," a voice roared. "Peterson's figurin' on gettin' the boy away!" another yelled. "Lundy snickered. 'He's due fer a disappointment then. The lad says in the mine. I set one uh yuh to watch the mine—outside—and three uh yuh to watch Peterson. How's that?' "It sounded reasonable but dad didn't trust Lundy. The men mullin' it over for a minute or so, then one of them shouted: "All right, Lundy. It's your funeral!" "That suit yuh, Ten-to-One?" Lundy drawled. "Dad wasn't sure whether it did or not. Still, a delay was something. Anything might happen between now and dawn. "Yes, I reckon so," he answered casually. "Holsterin' his gun, dad took four of them. Burke and Webb were big burly brutes, prospectors both of them, and jealous of dad's success. Dillon was a tall, rangy fellow whom Lundy had recently taken on as bartender. Dad wouldn't tell me any more about him. Fitch was a gambler and a gunman. The crowd was satisfied.

"Burke, Fitch, Webb—yuh'll watch Peterson," Lundy commanded. Dillon, stays by the mine safe, all uh you? They did and Lundy told the crowd to ramble on home. "You know where there's plenty of good 'baccy,' he said. 'But keep sober. Big doin's tomorrow.'"

"The men began to disperse. Pretty soon Fitch and Dillon, Webb and Burke, Lundy and Dad, were the only ones left.

"Any 'ny time yuh want to look at that evidence I suit me," Lundy snickered.

"He went off towards the town then, trailing that ghostly laugh of his out behind him. Dad looked around him. Dillon stood to his right, near the mine door. Burke and Webb and Fitch were in front of him, waiting to see what he was going to do. Tough bunch he respected.

"None of them spoke. Dad rolled a cigarette. (Copyright, 1929, Wm. Morrow Co.)

SUMMON WITNESSES IN POWER CASE

Washington, June 5.—(AP)—The Federal Trade Commission announced today the summoning of three witnesses in connection with its inquiry into power companies' financial interests in Alabama newspapers.

McGowan has been named in previous testimony and exhibits as having offered a $100,000 loan to Chandler when the latter established the Mobile Press which started publication last April 15. Chandler appeared before the commission last month and has been recalled to supplement his previous testimony.

The name of Hanson was brought into the commission's inquiry in connection with the establishment of the Mobile Press to which he sold printing machinery before it started publication. Mr. Hanson, however, was not connected with the negotiations in connection with the financing and establishment of the Press.

They Will Do It

New York—Meredith, one of the 19-year-old blonde Howard twins, Zigfield dancers, has eloped with Albert Spurlock, of Hickory, N. C., who used to play football at Davidson College. She other, Virginia, expects now that mother's opposition to her marriage to George Courtney, boxer, will cease. She and George once tried an elopement, but were dissuaded.

Look Out, Lundy

Boston—From the coast guard comes a warning to the honey-mooning colonel, to wit: that if it is true that Lindbergh has been covering-up the name of his boat, he may be shot at as a suspected rum runner.

More Trouble Stirring Up In The Big Ten

Chicago, June 6.—(AP)—The Big Ten Conference volcano today bubbled and seethed with indications of a second major eruption.

Purdue University was in the glare of the searchlight, following charges yesterday by Coach Everett Case of Frankfort, Ind., high school, that the Lafayette institution was as guilty as the University of Iowa, in the matter of proselyting and subsidizing athletes.

Case today was to bare his charges to Major John L. Griffin, Big Tenthletic commissioner. Case made his charges after he had been accused, presumably by members of his Indian championship basketball teams, for summer credits from the University of Iowa. The charges against Case said that Bob Spradling and Dovie Plunkett, members of the Iowa five last year, were induced by the Frankfort coach to enroll at Iowa, after he had received credits from Iowa.

Case offered to present proof that Ward Lambert, Purdue basketball coach, had made overtures to Spradling and Plunkett a few hours before they left for Iowa City.

President Edward C. Elliott of Purdue, and Nelson A. Kellige, director of athletics, said they would welcome an investigation of Case's charges, and that they did not believe anyone connected with Purdue was guilty of proselyting of paying athletes.

Lambert could not be reached, having started by automobile for Pullman, Wash., where he is to conduct a summer coaching course. At Iowa City, officials of the University of Iowa were going about the business of cleaning house.

Des Moines, Iowa, June 6.—(AP)—The Des Moines Register in a copyrighted story today quoted Robert Spradling, Iowa basketball star, as saying he was offered all expenses by a "friend of Purdue" if he would enter that school and play basketball.

Spradling, whose home is in Frankfort, Indiana, said he was willing to make a frank statement of his relations with both Iowa and Purdue should the Big Ten call upon him to do so, the newspaper said.

Heads Johns Hopkins

Billionaire Owes Two Cents

Atlantic City, N. J.—A billionaire is in debt to the tune of two cents. Henry Ford had to borrow to buy a Thomas A. Edison commemorative stamp. He came all the way to make a speech at the National Electric Light convention, which is paying special tribute to Edison in connection with the golden jubilee of incandescent light. The speech was 27 words long: "We build at Dearborn 8,000 complete electric light plants every day. This brings an electrical meeting, I thought I'd like to tell you that. Thank you."

TWO ESSEX CHALLENGERS BEAT ALL RIVALS IN FRENCH TRIALS
By cable Hudson has just heard that for 16 consecutive days, from April 19 to May 5, Europe was given another outstanding demonstration of Essex superiority in the grueling automobile endurance contest known as the Challenge du Tour de France.

This is a general reliability test. The entrants were made to travel approximately 310 miles a day for nine days, with seven intermediate days given over to speed competitions, hill climbs, starts with cold motor and other events designed to test out stamina and performance reliability of the cars.

The finish of the two Essex entrants, one driven by the famous French ace driver Morel, the other piloted by Monsieur Lamy, Hudson-Exess distributor, were tied for first honors, with perfect scores, without a single penalization.

Cold weather, and unusually bad road conditions made the contest very trying on the competing cars, which had to be stock cars. The route of the tour included the larger cities of France; it created immense public interest, not only in France but in all parts of continental Europe, where the Essex is the most popular of American automobiles.

Deputy Sheriff Held Under Bond In Murder Case
Abingdon, Va., June 7.—(AP)—J. W. Crowe, Washington county deputy sheriff, if at Liberty under $5,000 bond today after a mistrial yesterday ended the commonwealth's initial prosecution of a murder charge against him in connection with the fatal shooting of J. W. Kendrick, 16-year-old Emory and Henry College student, near here the night of May 6.

Crowe is under joint indictment with W. T. Worley, another deputy sheriff and James McReynolds, Abingdon policeman. All cases were continued to the September term of court with the original $5,000 bond for each officer standing.

Kendrick was taken mortally wounded to a hospital by Paul Phelps and Sterling Sutton, who told the officers firing on the car in which the three were riding and which was driven by Phelps.

The three officers admitted firing on the car driven by Phelps, but throughout the trial the defense sought to prove that Kendrick was not an occupant of the machine at which shots were fired. The officers said they were seeking Phelps, believing him to be driving a car while intoxicated, and Dutton, believing him to be intoxicated, they contended that they at no time saw Kendrick in the car, although they said they believed he would have been seen if he had been an occupant.

After a little more than two hours deliberation the jury yesterday afternoon reported it was unable to agree. The presiding judge dismissed the jury and declared a mistrial.

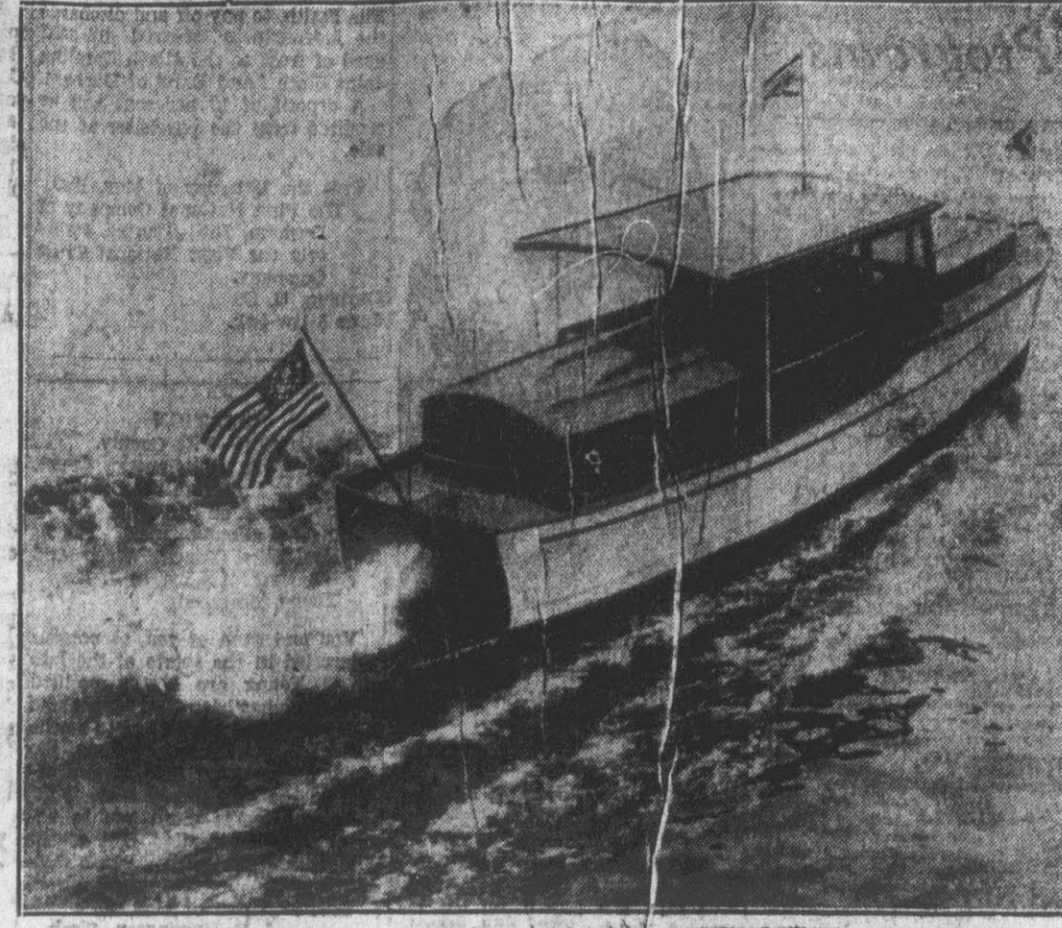

Thus ended one of the bitterest legal battles ever fought in the criminal courts of this section. The commonwealth did not ask for a first degree murder verdict but vigorously pressed for a second degree or voluntary manslaughter verdict.

PLAN TO END CHURCH-STATE RIFT IN MEXICO
Actual Negotiations To Get Under Way in Mexico City Next Monday.

Mexico City, June 7.—(AP)—Actual negotiation for settlement of Mexico's church-state problem are expected to begin here Monday morning, according to Monsignor Leopoldo Ruiz Flores, Archbishop of Michoacan, Bishop Pascual Diaz of Toluca, and government officials.

Authoritative sources last night revealed the two prelates, the former of whom was understood to have received a special papal commission for the task, where expected to arrive here Saturday. There was a possibility basis of settlement would be announced before the end of next week.

United States Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow and Manuel Tellez, Mexican Ambassador at Washington, will also be here, a fact labelled officially as a coincidence but which many believed to have a direct connection with the negotiations. Mr. Morrow particularly has been foremost in his desire that the problem which has long agitated Mexico be solved.

Exact nature of the negotiations between the government and the Roman Catholic church has not been divulged but it was known church officials wasted no time in instituting them after the recent statement of President Portes Gil indicating willingness to consider a settlement. Some even said the understanding had already been reached and that the proceeding this next week would be largely in the nature of mere ratification.

Although the Mexican religious problem has been acute for only three years it really goes back much further than that. The Mexican constitution of 1857 fathered by Benito Juarez contained provisions for nationalization of church property and minimization of ecclesiastical privilege.

LOCALS WIN LAST GAME FROM BUGS

The Greenville club of the Eastern Carolina League turned tables on Goldsboro here yesterday afternoon and won the last game of the series by the score of 7 to 3. The local outfit displayed an entire reversal of form from the day before when the Bugs won from them by the score of 4 to 3. This win yesterday gave the two clubs an even break of the series.

Only four members of the old Greenville club appeared in the lineup. Only one familiar face appeared in the outfield and had it not been for the bespectacled face of Garbee, pitching ace, who did much honors of the day, Nalbock at short, and Manager Pasquella behind the bat, fans would have been at a loss to know what it was all about. At any rate, the change seemed not to have been made in vain for the new combination handled the ball in brilliant style and hammered out enough hits to put almost any old ball game on ice.

One of the most conspicuous changes in the lineup was at the first sack. Buddie Crump, veteran player, added to the Tobaccoists' camp several days ago, succeeded the hard-hitting Jones at the initial corner, while Jones, himself, trekked to the outfield where he performed in a scintillating manner, accepting several chances and hammering out three hits out of four trips to the plate.

The change at the third corner also came in for considerable comment. Hiller, another recent acquisition, filled the position occupied by Edmonds all of the season. He fielded in good style and collected two hits and one run out of four trips to the platter.

About the only familiar thing about the game was the bespectacled features of Garbee on the mound and Pasquella's masked face behind the bat. This combination having worked successfully in other games of the season, proved conclusively yesterday that they were capable of repeating the performance when given stellar support, with the stick. Garbee let the hard-hitting Bugs down with only five hits and absolutely refused to yield any more when they would have resulted in additional scoring.

Minogue, Goldsboro southpaw, who has had marked success with his left-handed slants against Greenville, found himself completely out of luck. The locals pounced upon his delivery so greedily that they collected a total of seventeen safeties, numbers of which coupled for extra bases. Just why the bombardment did not result in more runs remains a mystery, but it was generally conceded the Mr. Minogue, despite his drubbing, got away with a much smaller score than might have existed under other circumstances.

Wilmington came to the Tobaccoists' camp today for a two-game series today and tomorrow.

The box score of yesterday's game follows:

Chuck Clouts 'Em, late of the Three-league, is helping boost the Philadelphia Nationals. He was the first major leaguer to register home run No. 13 this season.

pitcher: by Minogue, Williams. Umpires: Hollman and White. Time: 1:55.

ATHLETICS STILL HOLD THEIR OWN

By WILLIAM J. CHAPMAN (Associated Press Sports Writer)

With each passing day it becomes easier to believe that Baker and Barry and Collins and McInnis are back at their posts again, easier to take the backward trail through baseball history to the day when Cornelius McGillicuddy owned the too-perfect baseball machine. The Athletics of 1929 battered the St. Louis Browns shamefully yesterday in a 15 to 4 battle, proving once more their right to wear the mantle of their illustrious predecessors.

It is yet too early to pass out the pennants, but if memory serves, the championships of 1913 and 1914 were as good as awarded to Mr. Mack along about April. The first third of the 1929 campaign soon will be over, and the Macks promise to pass that stage in such good circumstances that 550 ball will suffice over the rest of the route—as it would have sufficed for the last three Yankee teams. Further, nothing short of a cataclysm can prevent the Macks from holding the lead on July 4, the traditional date on which pennant soundings are taken.

Cleveland outpunched the Yanks 9 to 7 yesterday as the Athletics made merry with the Browns, giving Mr. Mack another neat gain over his nearest competitors. The Yanks and the Browns remained in a virtual tie seven and a half games behind the Athletics, with the champions holding a slight percentage edge through having played fewer games. The Philadelphia advantage really is some greater than the cold figures, because the Yanks face twelve double headers with pitching hardly equal to the task.

George Pipgras was knocked out by the Indians yesterday, and Myles Thomas and Tom Zachary were roughly used after he departed.

Tony Lazzeri and Cedric Durst made it seem close with a pair of home runs in the eighth, driving Walter Miller from the box, and another rally in the ninth threatened to pull out the decision against Ken Holloway. Young Ferrell put an end to the foolishness with a simple expedient of forcing Gehrig to hit into a double play.

George Earnshaw failed to go the route against the Browns in spite of a ten run lead, but he nevertheless, received official credit for the victory.

Detroit rallied in the eighth for three runs to defeat Washington by 7 to 5, and the White Sox stopped the Reds by 9 to 5.

The nip-and-tuck battle in the National League continued. The Giants edged closer to the real fight by shading the Cardinals, 5 to 4, for the second successive afternoon as the Cubs rallied to defeat Brooklyn, 8 to 6. Pittsburgh increased its lead over the Cards by taking a 4 to 2 decision from the Braves, and the Phillies regained the 500 mark by turning back the Reds 2 to 0. The Phils won on Fresno Thomson's freak homer, which leaped from fair territory into a field box. Ray Benge outpitched May and Kenner.

Augusta Moves Out Of Cellar

Atlanta, June 7.—(AP)—Augusta came out of the South Atlantic Association cellar yesterday by beating Columbia 7 to 3 while Spartanburg was losing to Asheville, league leader, 8 to 5. It was the first win of the week for the Tobaccoists.

The Tygers touched three pitchers for 14 safeties while Kullen went the route, granting ten hits. A four run rally in the first proved a substantial lead for the Tobaccoists. Hamilton's double and a single by Smith in the 11th gave Knoxville a 3 to 2 win over Greenville and spoiled a pitchers' battle between Mitchell and Keefe. Macon came from behind in the last two innings to score six runs and defeat Charlotte 7 to 3.

Campfire Notes Of Confederates

Charlotte, N. C., June 6.—(AP)—The annual parade of the United Confederate Veterans, to be held tomorrow, has 6,000 persons, 1,500 automobiles, numerous pieces of artillery, 1,200 horses, and 200 floats entered. A union official estimates it will take three hours to pass a given point.

Captain R. W. Gowan, 85, Confederate veteran, is an active member of the Knoxville, Tenn., police force. He lays claim to being the oldest policeman in the United States. For the past 36 years he has been on the Knoxville force and for four years prior to that was on the Asheville, N. C., force.

Dr. William West Grant, 60, of Jackson, Tenn., and Denver, Colo., is the only veteran attending the reunion who served in the World War. He was chief surgeon, then at Fort Logan, Colo.

Many of the veterans have been flying around during the reunion. Planes at the Charlotte airport have been kept busy joy-riding the old soldiers over the city.

CHILE FORBID IMPORTATION OF FLORIDA FRUITS

Santiago, Chile, June 6.—(AP)—The Chilean government has issued a decree forbidding the importation of fruits from Florida because of the discovery of the Mediterranean fruit fly in that state.

Augusta Moves Out Of Cellar

Atlanta, June 7.—(AP)—Augusta came out of the South Atlantic Association cellar yesterday by beating Columbia 7 to 3 while Spartanburg was losing to Asheville, league leader, 8 to 5. It was the first win of the week for the Tobaccoists.

The Tygers touched three pitchers for 14 safeties while Kullen went the route, granting ten hits. A four run rally in the first proved a substantial lead for the Tobaccoists. Hamilton's double and a single by Smith in the 11th gave Knoxville a 3 to 2 win over Greenville and spoiled a pitchers' battle between Mitchell and Keefe. Macon came from behind in the last two innings to score six runs and defeat Charlotte 7 to 3.
